West opened his fourth-best spade 3, on which the 10 was played from the dummy, the Q from East and the A by the declarer. The club suit was attacked, the 10 being led, East holding up the A, and then the 9, which East also under-played, and finally the 2 to the K, which East took with the A. But his holding up had done no good. For, no matter what he returned, the dummy could be reached with the spade 7 to the J, in order to cash two more clubs. Hence, South scored four tricks in clubs, plus three in spades and one each with the red aces.

East could have beaten that contract by merely holding up his spade Q on the first trick. That would have let the declarer win it cheaply with the dummy's 10. But it would have put East in position to prevent a vital late entry to the dummy after the clubs got set up. By doing that, he could have held South to two tricks in clubs, instead of four, and would have made it impossible for South to find ways to score a total of nine tricks.

In planning his play for 6-Spades, after West leads the heart K, what two simple principles of warfare should South combine?

Airport Problem Major One To Small Nation

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13 — (CP) — The problem of providing expensive airports for international airlines in countries which do little flying themselves and cannot afford to build them is an important one for the international conference on civil aviation in session here.

To-day the approach to this problem embodied in the Canadian draft convention is being carefully studied by a committee and the relevant article of the draft is being re-written.

If it is accepted in substance, it may be the opening wedge to getting a good part of the general plan proposed by Canada adopted.

Where an airline passes over a small country to connect two big countries facilities beyond both the means and the needs of the small country may be necessary. If the countries operating the airlines are permitted to build and operate an airport in the small country a sort of extra-territorial right may be established.

The committee is struggling to find a means of reconciling national sovereignty with the provision of facilities necessary for efficient air operations.

The arrangement proposed in the Canadian draft is that were an airline authorized by the proposed international authority to operate on a given route establishes that ground facilities are not adequate, the authority may request the member state concerned to expand its ground facilities or construct new ones.

If the member state does not wish to bear the costs, all or a portion of them may be advanced by the authority and apportioned among the states concerned.

Italian Winter Nightmare To Canadian Troops

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS ON THE ADRIATIC FRONT, Nov. 13—(CP)—Dear Boss: Today there came a cable from you that said "Suggest timely for roundup on troops attitude possibility another winter Italy." Boss, it is one of the more unfortunate and stifling characteristics of the newspaper business that it precludes the use of printed profanity and without profanity of richness and breadth any attempt to fulfill this request must be prepared for mawkish failure.

Nevertheless, boss, you have your position and we have ours and you have spoken your piece and we must answer. Therefore let us try to set the proper atmosphere for the whole story with the statement that in August it was the fondled, buoyant hope of every Canadian in Italy—and the considered opinion of many—that the Germans would be beyond Italian frontiers come Christmas eve; in September it became a taunting, fading possibility; in October it became a desperate, morbid improbability. And that, boss, is the way things stand today.

Unpleasant Memories

The essential cue to the thoughts of the Canadian soldier about the Italian winter of 1944-45 is his thoughts about the Italian Winter of 1943-44. He hates them. They get him all snarled up in recollections, raw and bitter recollections of mud and Ortona and more mud and patrols through greasy, cold, treacherous fields and weeks of static warfare that left him with nothing but thanks that spring had come and winter had gone.

And now the long and hopeful summer has spent itself and another winter is upon him. And there is no military observer more alive to its possibilities of battle than the frontline soldier. No matter what politicians or brasshats or soothsayers have to say, he gets feelings in his bones and if they happen to be bones that grew old in the Italian winter of 1943-44 then they are all the more liable to quick and realistic instinct.

Resigned To It.

If you were looking for words, as we are boss, to catch the prevailing mood of the troops you would probably settle for such dis-spirited verbs as "resigned" and "tolerate," for it is wretchedly true to say that the Canadians in Italy are resigned to tolerate another winter in Italy. Maybe some beneficent fate, maybe some military stroke here or elsewhere will banish the omen, but, the soldier figures, the chances are they won't, and if it's got to be another winter in Italy, then it's got to be.

If it's got to be, he is resigned to it and, with all the tricks and habits and shortcuts to comfort he learned last winter, he has already begun preparations for it. Earthy, resourceful, realistic human being that he is, the Canadian soldier is quite capable of meeting and beating this or any other situation.

But he doesn't like to think about it and if, without the essential assistance of profanity, we were to try authentically to report what he says about it then we should be guilty of shallow and inept journalism. So we'll leave it at that, boss, and let you draw your own conclusions.

Soldiers Hail Home Leaves

By WILLIAM BOSS
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS ON THE ADRIATIC FRONT, Nov. 13.—(CP Cable.)— Home leave for troops with long service was hailed last night as word of the first tangible result of Gen. McNaughton's succession to post of Defence Minister reached this front through army newspaper Maple Leaf.

(In an address in Ottawa Monday night Gen. McNaughton said soldiers with long service overseas would be given leave to Canada. The first of these would be home for Christmas.)

Many men in this theatre will qualify for the new concession, though the effect on front-line troops is likely to be relatively small because the toll in battle has removed many of the "old originals" from the units. There are scores in base installations, however, who will be eligible.

Home leave was one of the 'beefs' raised with Col. Ralston, then Minister of Defence, when he visited the front. The answer then received was that it was 'impossible' because of the difficulty of replacing the personnel on leave.

Hungarian Leader Calls For Rebellion

MOSCOW, Nov. 13—(AP)—Col.-Gen. Janos Veres, chief of staff of the Hungarian Army, who surrendered to the Russians several weeks ago, appealed to his forces today to desert the Germans and join the Red Army in driving the Nazis from Hungary.

A proclamation signed by him and relayed by radio and leaflets to the Hungarian people called Ferenc Szalasi, puppet premier, a traitor and declared Admiral Nicholas Horthy still was the legal ruler. Horthy, long the regent of Hungary, attempted some time ago to make peace with the Allies.

Veres said Horthy had been arrested by the Gestapo.

Bethany W.A. Will Hold Banquet

BETHANY, Nov. 13 — (ENS) — The regular meeting of the Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. James MacKinnon, with 19 members in attendance. The Scripture lesson was taken by Mrs. Henderson, who also led in prayer. The treasurer reported that $119 had been raised by the collections instead of holding a fowl supper. The treasurer also reported $97 balance in the bank. The president requested that the group money be paid in at the December meeting. In place of Mrs. Harding, Mrs. Henderson was appointed to the Flower Committee with Miss Thompson. It was also requested that members make a quilt for the Red Cross, and each one was asked to make a block 18 inches square and bring it to the December meeting. A nominating committee was appointed to select officers for the ensuing year. It was moved by Mrs. Veale and Mrs. Richardson that a banquet for the Potato Diggers' Association be held on December 5. Plans for the banquet were left to group leaders and the executive.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Thorndyke, leader of Group 4. Mrs. Jakeman gave a reading; a solo was sung by Mrs. Carr; a reading was given by Mrs. Thorndyke; and Mrs. Clarence Rowan gave a chapter of the study book. Mrs. Harold Kyle gave an interesting talk on her trip to Alaska. The hostesses received a hearty vote of thanks, and the collection was $4.20.

Stainless Steel
GAINED WORLD RENOWN
WHEN the Burlington "Zephyr" sped like a silver bullet on its first run from St. Paul to Chicago in 1934, the fame of a new structural material rang around the world. True, Stainless Steel had been used as early as 1916, but for the first time the amazing strength and rust proof qualities of Stainless Steel were utilized by modern designers and engineers to revolutionize railway construction. This new train was completely encased in Stainless Steel (8% Nickel, 18% Chromium), so thin—yet so strong—that weight and operating costs were reduced, and hours cut off its running time.
Soon this alloy was being used in airplanes, automobiles, hotel and hospital kitchens, in the pulp and paper, oil and chemical industries. Another new market for Nickel with far-reaching peacetime possibilities was thus developed to replace and overshadow the war markets lost in 1918.
Today Canadian Nickel is again diverted to war purposes, and again the industry looks to the future with confidence. Plans are ready to develop and expand old and new peacetime markets, so that the Nickel Industry may continue through its own initiative and enterprise, to make still greater contributions to Canada's welfare.

Consider Labor Priorities

By JOHN DAUPHINEE—Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 14—(CP Cable).—An indication of priorities likely to be followed in the redevelopment of peacetime industries after the downfall of Germany is expected to be given shortly in the House of Commons by Prime Minister Churchill. Just when the statement will be made is not known since the Prime Minister's return from France is indefinite. It is anticipated, however, that Mr. Churchill will note that large numbers of workers now in war industries will be released before Japan is defeated and that they should be made available to specific industries according to a national priority plan.

Key engineers will be among the first to be released and will be allocated to the retooling of peacetime industries so quick resumption of peace output will be possible and jobs be made available for lower trained workers.

Debate Scheduled.

Labor Minister Bevin is expected to speak in the House tomorrow when debate is scheduled on the Government's plan of demobilization. This plan was outlined in a White Paper issued last September when a policy of "first in, first out" of the army was enunciated.

The problem takes on added urgency as some war contracts now are running out and thousands of war workers are under notice that

Chinese Forces Encircle Bhamo

KANDY, Ceylon, Nov. 14 (CP-Reuter)—Chinese forces have completed the encirclement of Bhamo, supply base on the great bend of the Irrawaddy and vital point for the control of the Burma Road, it was reported today.

Harry Plumridge, Reuter Correspondent at Myitkyina, reported that with the rapid Allied advance and the pinching off of the vital points on either side of the city, Bhamo now can be by-passed.

"It seems clear," he added, "that the main Japanese forces will soon be compelled to fall back southwards to strong points in the mountains."

One hundred and sixty miles to the southwest British troops were exerting ever-tightening pressure from north and west on Kalemyo, Japanese base 55 miles inside the Burma border. The communique reported some progress despite strong resistance.

Heavy bombers of the Eastern Air Command yesterday attacked bridges on the Burma-Thailand railway.

Nazi Soldiers Ordered to Shoot Superior Officers If They Weaken

ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Nov. 14.—(AP).—A captured German document disclosed to-day that the Nazis had ordered all soldiers to shoot their comrades or officers insantly "lie a dog" if they observe the slightest decline in battle morale.

The order was published in Scorpion, a Nazi news commentary distributed to troops. The order was specifically applied to any German contemplating surrender. It was attributed to Henrich Himmler, Gestapo head and commander of the German home army.

The Nazis acknowledged their critical position in these words:

"Our will to resist is the only thing that we have left against the material superiority of our enemy until the new weapons are ready for the front. Therefore, whoever sabotages our will to resist must be smashed."

Unusual Charge.

Scorpion said that Himmler "for the first time has given the common soldier an opportunity to execute the will of the people even if he is forced to take up arms against his superior."

Considerable space then was devoted to adverse effects which the "no capitulation" order might have on military discipline, with every soldier given carte blanche to shoot his officer or companion. Scorpion explained:

"Any scruples that military discipline may be endangered by such individual action shall not frighten us. Even if it should happen that cowardly, treasonable elements take advantage of this right in order to remove unpopular superiors, this newly-won liberty of action should not be restricted.

"Cases of cowardly murder of superior officers which occurred during rearguard battles were due to that certain lack of discipline which accompanies every disorderly retreat."

German soldiers were then cautioned against allowing their "new right of unscruplous action to degenerate into a state of chaos."

Scorpion summed up:

"If soldiers observe ever the tiniest spark of softness or cowardice, that is the time to act and to eradicate the cancer before it causes disaster. If your responsible commander thinks or speaks about retreat, then you must act or the position is lost."

House To Decide On Conscription

OTTAWA, Nov. 14—(CP).—The Ottawa Citizen and Ottawa Journal in newspage stories on the assembling of the House of Commons on November 22, today said Prime Minister Mackenzie King, instead of insisting on a vote of confidence on the voluntary system of reinforcements, will place the facts before the House and be governed by whatever decision the House makes.

The Journal said:

"When the House resumes, Mr. King will state his position in support of continuation of the voluntary system of reinforcing the army.

"But having long underlined his belief in the sovereignty of parliament, Mr. King will qualify his position by making it clear at the outset that if the House wants conscription he will accept it.

"Then should the House decide

King To Seek Vote Of Confidence

Members Of Commons Are Summoned To Meet November 22

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Nov. 14 (CP)—House of Commons members will assemble in Ottawa November 22—nearly 10 weeks earlier than they expected at adjournment on August 15—and it is expected they will be asked at once to rule on whether or not there shall be conscription for overseas service. Prime Minister Mackenzie King, in a brief statement following a Cabinet meeting last night, said that Speaker J. A. Glen had been advised the earlier House sitting was in the public interest and now was notifying members.

It was learned on reliable authority that Mr. King will ask for a vote of confidence on the Government's stand to continue the voluntary system of supplying reinforcements for overseas.

Col. J. L. Ralston, who resigned as Defence Minister after recommending that draftees be made available for overseas service, will attend the session.

Gen McNaughton, who succeeded Col Ralston, has no House seat, but it was understood the Government may suggest that he be called before the House in secret session to set forth his views in support of continued voluntary overeas service.

Wants Volunteers.

Mr. King declared his continued support of the voluntary system in a broadcast address last week, but said that draftees would be given further encouragement to enlist for service anywhere, while the Government still would use its authority to send them overseas under Order-in-Council if it considered conditions warranted such action.

Col. Ralston, in a statement issued Sunday, said that on a recent visit to the European battlefronts he had found reinforcements pools "so depleted as not to ensure the prompt replacement of casualties." He could receive no assurance that the Government as a whole considered the Prime Minister's speeches to the Government to the course that draftees should be sent overseas if the volunteers were not available.

Col. Ralston's resignation was received at a cabinet meeting on Nov. 1 and Gen. McNaughton was sworn

Armored Clash Bitter One Near Budapest

MOSCOW, Nov. 14—(AP)—Russian forces have driven into the important rail city of Jaszbereny, 37 miles east of Budapest, and are engaging the enemy in hand-to-hand fighting, front dispatches said today.

The Germans were reported hurling in numerous new tanks and scores of anti-tank weapons in an attempt to check the Soviet drive to outflank the Hungarian capital. The Germans were offering most determined armored resistance since the big tank clashes in which they were beaten back in the Debrecen area last month.

(The Germans admitted Soviet units had penetrated into Jaszebereny, but asserted the attackers were hurled back.)

Red Army columns striking from the northeast after crossing the Tisza river apparently had made solid contact with the main forces of Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 2nd Ukrainian army, and were aiding in drawing the assault line close to Jaszbereny from the east, west and south.

Front dispatches said the Germans resisted strongly, using Panther tanks and flame-throwers in an attempt to wipe out advanced Russian infantry elements.

Despite the fierceness of the enemy opposition the Russians captured at least 10 towns, including the rail terminal of Jaszapati, 11 miles east of Jaszbereny and 45 miles east of Budapest.

(Moscow dispatches made no mention today of Russian forces previously reported in the southern outskirts of Budapest. A German broadcast, Col. Ernest Von Hammer, said the Russians held a bridgehead on the Danube at Dunaharaszti, opposite Csepel Island, five miles south of the capital.)

Front advices declared that in the muddy tablelands southwest of Jaszebereny the Russians were less than 25 miles from the eastern limits of Budapest, but the attack had the character of a huge encircling movement rather than a frontal assault on the capital's defences.

Germans Burning Entire Towns

LONDON, Nov. 14.—(CP).—The Germans in Northern Norway are "burning and destroying everything," including whole towns, in their retreat southward, the Norwegian government reported today.

The far northern coastal towns of Vadsoe and Vardoe have been wiped out and their inhabitants sent fleeing, a spokesman said. Parts of Hammerfest, northernmost town in the world, and Honningsfjord have been devastated by fire.

Thousands of Norwegians in Finnmark are homeless, the spokesman said, adding:

"Burning their homes, stealing their food and destroying their production, the Germans have sent these Norwegians into the Arctic night without a shelter over their head, compelling them to follow the stream of evacuees west and south."

Jonas Lie, minister of police in Quisling's government, in taking charge of the evacuation of Finmark, told Norwegians that "war operations may mean that the population may have to face the winter without shelter or food."

Patton's Army Nears Border Fights Behind Fort Driant

By WILLIAM FRYE—Associated Press War Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 14—(AP).—U.S. troops seized a fourth and powerful fortress south of Metz today, and piled through this newest breach in enemy defences to within 3½ miles of the besieged city. Supreme Headquarters identified this latest prize as Fort L'Yser, a half-mile northwest of the town of Orny, and described it as a powerful system of underground defence works.

Paris radio, meanwhile, broadcast an unconfirmed report tonight that the German garrison of Thionville, 16 miles north of Metz had surrendered to the Americans.

So far as was known at Supreme Headquarters, Fort L'Yser fell without resistance from its turreted batteries—just as Fort L'Aisne and two satellite bastions to the southwest were taken yesterday. L'Aisne was the first of nine main fortress groups in the Metz system to fall, and L'Yser the second. They were stormed by troops of the 3rd Army.

Move Into Forest.

The Americans pushed on into the Hospital forest for their closest approach to Metz, and were striking toward that city from the south along a nine-mile front. Nothing in front dispatches indicated any stiffening of resistance, and the apparent German pull-back suggested Metz itself might be forfeited to avoid encirclement of its strong garrison.

Even as this fourth fortress fell, and all of Metz' roads of reinforcement or retreat were brought within artillery range, infantrymen on the left flank of the 70-mile 3rd Army front shoved forward in their Moselle bridghead to withing 1½ miles of the German border near the Luxembourg corner.

Fifth division units, punching through unexpectedly light resistance, had captured Fort L'Aisne and two of its satellites near Verny yesterday, and seized the towns of Corny, Pommerieux, Verny and Liehon.

With capture of Fort L'Aisne and the town of Corny earlier, the Americans had cut behind formidable Fort Driant, on the Moselle's west bank.

South of the 3rd Army's southern flank U.S. 7th Army infantry surged forward in two-mile gains at either end of a 10-mile front extending the American attack into the snow-drifted foothills of the Vorges Mountains.

As Berlin indicated a general withdrawal might be planned in Lorraine, broadcasting a report that Metz already had served its purpose for the Germans, American infantry swept into Fort L'Aisne and two of its smaller satellites last night almost without a fight.

Take Four Places.

The forts, within six miles of Metz itself, fell as the attackers broadened their front with a swing to the left which carried them to the Moselle River and captured Corny, Pommerieux, Verny and Liehon.

The almost total lack of opposition at Fort L'Aisne, in sharp contrast with the savage and successful defence of Fort Driant, underscored increasing indications that the enemy was falling back before the 3rd Army attack.

Berlin radio said: "It would be a mistake to place exaggerated importance on the German citadel of Metz."

Guenther Weber, German commentator, said the Germans' Moselle bridgehead had served its purpose by delaying the Allied offen-

Financial Crash Looms Across Germany Leading Bankers Defy Orders Of Nazi Chiefs

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (AP)—The Gestapo has arrested the managing directors of Germany's two greatest banks," causing a panic in German financial circles "greater than the panic following the bank crash in 1931," the Swedish newspaper Stockholmstidningen said in an article reported today by the office of war information.

The bankers were listed as Dr. Oswald Roesler, managing director of the Deutsche Bank, and Karl Goetz, managing director of the Dresdner Bank.

The newspaper said they were arrested for refusing to accept short-term German treasury notes "thus expressing doubt in a German victory." The story said "people stormed the banks to withdraw their deposits and big industries attempted to cancel their accounts."

Jap-held Town In Flames As U.S. Artillery Opens Up

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Nov. 14—(AP)—(Via Army Radio).—Japanese reinforcements and equipment became a bloody shambles in Limon today when trapped by an artillery barrage as American troops moved on the Ormoc road town from three sides.

Observers on Breakneck ridge near Ormoc valley, where the bodies of more than 600 dead Japanese soldiers were counted after one day of fighting, saw large concentrations of Japanese reinforcements, troops, trucks and guns rolling into Limon.

American artillery roared throughout the night and today the town was a mass of flaming wreckage and apparently uninhabited.

The Japanese have elements of five divisions fighting against the Americans in the Philippines, Gen. MacArthur has announced.

Gen. MacArthur reported the steady but slow American drive had broken the enemy's plans for a counter-blow "by compelling the Japanese to premature and piecemeal commitments of his forces for the defence of the main bastion of the Yamashita Line."

Norwegian Unit Joins Russians

LONDON, Nov. 14.—(CP).—The first Norwegian detachments to return home since the ill-fated 1940 campaign have landed in Norway and are operating with the Russians against the Germans on the Arctic front, the Norwegian government in London announced last night.

The vanguard, small but specially picked and highly trained in Arctic fighting, sailed recently from a British port.

Hoping for early liberation of their country, the Norwegians also sent a military mission into Norway, composed of representatives of the Navy, Air Forces, and a number of government departments.

The first units of Norway's police force, trained in Sweden during the last two years, were expected to arrive later this week in territory liberated by the Russians.

Many of the Norwegians who landed at an undisclosed Arctic port were commandos who had participated in the British combined operations against Norwegian islands last year.

The official announcement said the military mission was under the leadership of Col. Arne Dahl, commander of the famous Alta battalion during the bitter days of the 1940 campaign around Narvik. The mission, however, is under control of Maj.-Gen. William Steffens, Norwegian military attache in Mos-

British Score Important Gains

ROME, Nov. 14. — (AP).— The British 8th Army has scored further "important gains" in the Forli area of Italy, an Allied communique said to-day.

British troops thrust northwest from the fallen road junction in advances of up to two miles, and after a fierce fight took the village of San Tome.

To the southwest other British units crossed the Montone river at several points and drove into the foothills to the north of the water barrier against strong German opposition.

On the left flank of the British forces, Poles of the 8th Army took the town of Bagnalo and cleared Monte Casole despite heavy opposition.

Along the rest of the Allied front in Italy there was brisk patrolling but the communique listed no other major changes in front positions.

Other 8th Army units which crossed the Chiala canal south of Ravenna yesterday cut back across Highway 16, the main coastal route, and captured German rearguards.

Churchill Returns From Paris Visit

LONDON, Nov. 14.—(CP-Reuter.)—Prime Minister Churchill returned to London this afternoon from his visit to France.

The Prime Minister, who arrived in Paris Friday on his first visit since the black days of 1940, conferred with Gen de Gaulle and French government members and took part Saturday in the first Armistice Day celebration in five years.

Hitler Has Been Missing Four Months

Many Believe Bomb Attempt On July 20 Successful, Himmler Now Chief

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The mystery of Hitler's whereabouts is rapidly assuming the proportions of one of history's prime thrillers, and it's likely to have a profound influence on the German people and consequently on the trend of the war, if it develops that the Fuehrer is incapacitated.

Propaganda Minister Goebbels has set all the wheels of his great machine turning to convince Germany and the world at large that the dictator isn't ill, mad or dead but is in "excellent, vigorous health." Still the fact remains that the Nazi chief's people haven't heard from him directly in about four months.

The bomb attempt on his life was July 20. The next day somebody representing himself as Hitler went on the air to say that the plot had failed. Since then there's been a great silence on the part of the Fuehrer, and it seems significant that his captains have been working overtime to provide excuses—and lame ones — why the master hasn't appeared personally. Why should they be so anxious to make a secret of an affair that would be treated openly in any normal country?

I think the answer is clear enough. Hitler has been absolute in his dictatorship for more than a decade. His control has been so complete that all Germany has come to think of government in terms of this one man. His personality has dominated the whole country, and has had a particularly powerful hold on the young generation which has been reared to fanaticism on the pap he has provided.

True, within recent months it has been reported that the bloody-minded Himmler, chief of the Gestapo and the home troops, had got Hitler under his power and was the real ruler of Germany. That could be true. However, if it is true I don't believe the German public knows it.

The people have stuck with the man who tore up the Treaty of Versailles and all but conquered Europe—but my observations in Germany lead me to believe they wouldn't long follow anyone else while their world was crushing about their ears. Without Hitler the government would be close to helpless in the present crisis.

Churchill Has Tough Trip

Snow And Ice Plague Party In France

ON THE VOSGES FRONT, Nov. 14.—(CP).—Prime Minister Churchill's visit to the Jura Mountains zone of the French 1st Army yesterday was one of the most exacting of the many he has made in this war in the cause of international good will.

It was made so by a series of mishaps on the slippery road in the snow-covered area. For 15 minutes his car was embedded in a snow drift, after being held up previously for 10 minutes by a flat tire. Later the chains came off one wheel.

So worn out was the Prime Minister when he returned to the rail head which he had left at 10 a.m. for his visit to the troops that he went straight to bed after standing for a few minutes with Gen de Gaulle in the little station square while British, United States and French national anthems were played.

But the Prime Minister wasn't too tired to make a typical Churchill gesture to the driver of his car who for several hours held such responsibility on the snowy icy roads. Mr. Churchill stepped down from beside Gen. de Gaulle and warmly shook the driver's hand while the crowd chanted "Churcheel! Churcheel! Churcheel!"

Thirty cars originally set out with the Prime Minister's convoy, but only 10 finished the course, the remainder being either ditched or snowbound or gave up.

45 Member States In League

League Continues To Function In All Branches

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—(AP).—How to disband the League of Nations is turning out to be something of a headache for international lawyers.

When Uruguay proposed a few days ago to other American governments that the best way to organize the future peace would be to revitalize the League, international lawyers were not as surprised as many may have been who considered the old League a dead issue.

The League now has 45 member states including Uruguay. It has about $15,000,000 in gold Swiss francs in the bank. It owns a $30,000,000 home at Geneva. Throughout the war it has continued to collect dues and to function in some of its branches.

Perhaps the biggest complication about ever dismantling the League is the fact that more than 500 treaties operate through it and many of them, especially those concerned with health, science, standardization of drugs and the like, play an important part in the day to day living of the world.

Belief here is that the League will unquestionably die some time after the organization planned at Dumbarton Oaks is created. That was more or less agreed on at the Dumbarton Oaks meeting but no decisions were reached on how to do the disbanding.

Vaunted Tirpitz Sunk By Allied Bombs

LONDON, Nov. 14—(CP)—Sinking of the German battleship Tirpitz in Norway's Tromsoe fjord is expected here to release additional strong units of the British home fleet for service in far eastern waters.

As long as the Tirpitz remained afloat she constituted a potential threat that made it imperative that the Royal Navy keep some of its most powerful warships at home ready to deal with the German vessel should she venture forth.

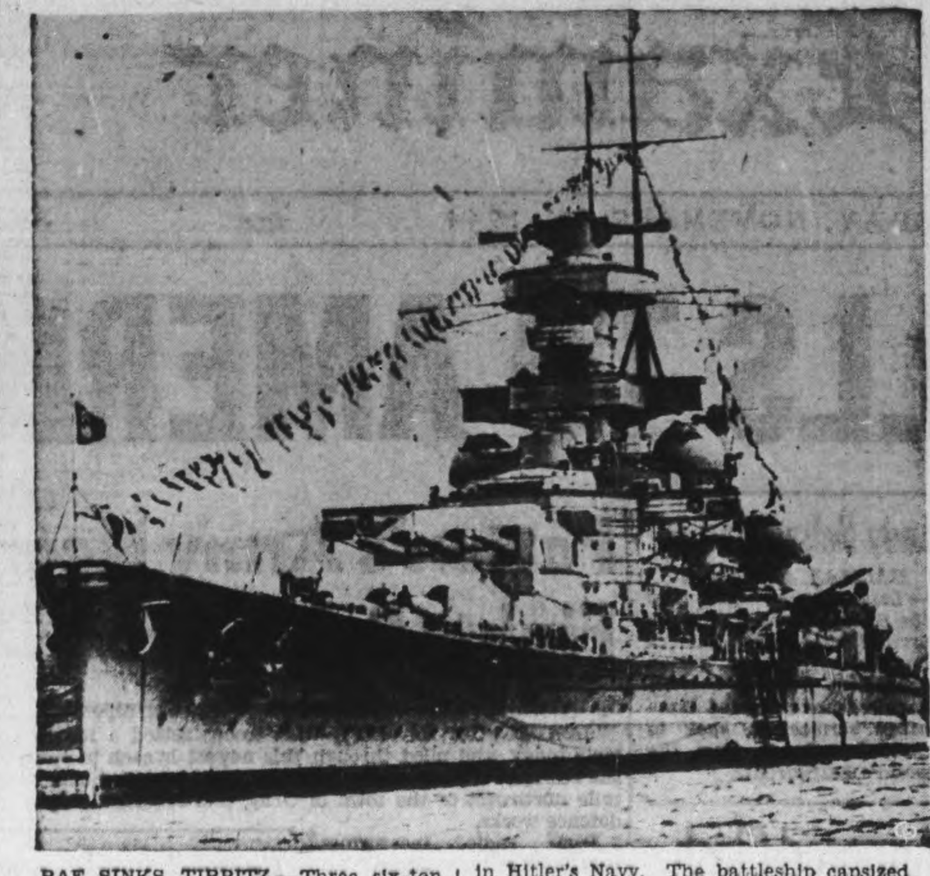
With the Tirpitz gone, sunk at her mooring Sunday by R.A.F. bombers, all that remains of the German surface fleet is bottled up in the Baltic. These remnants include two pocket battleships, the Admiral Scheer and the Lutzow; two eight-eight-inch gun cruisers, the Hipper and Prinz Eugen, and four six-inch gun cruisers.

The 41,000-ton Tirpitz, last of the vaunted "unsinkables" of the Germany navy, capsized and went down when hit squarely by three six-ton earthquake bombs from the bellies of big, four-engined Lancasters.

The Tirpitz cost the enemy $50,000,000 over five years to build, and had never engaged in a sea battle. She was sunk Sunday in less than five minutes.

The Lancasters, led by Wing Cmdr. J. B. Tait and Sqdn. Ldr. A. G. Williams, landed "away from base"—presumably in Russia.

The Tirpitz, one of the most powerful warships in the world, had been wounded and attacked persistently, but the Royal Navy was never able to bring her to battle. She bristled with eight 15-inch guns in two turrets, also had 12 six-inch and 16 four-inch guns, carried four planes, and had a normal crew of 1,600 men.



RAF SINKS TIRPITZ—Three six-ton earthquake bombs dropped by RAF Lancasters have sunk the 41,000-ton German battleship, Tirpitz, one of the "unsinkables" in Hitler's Navy. The battleship capsized and sank early Monday morning in Tromso Fjord, Norway. It took the Germans five years to build the ship at a cost of $50,000,000.

No Mention Made Of Senate

OTTAWA, Nov. 14.—(CP).—Prime Minister Mackenzie King's announcement last night assembling the House of Commons on Nov. 22 made no mention of the Senate which was interpreted as meaning the only thing to come before the Commons will be the vote of confidence on the government's policy to continue voluntary enlistment for overseas.

Both Houses stand adjourned and do not necessarily reassemble at the same time, but after a long recess the usual procedure has been to have the two Chambers resume simultaneously.

It is probable the Government plans to have the Commons meet for a week or so and discuss compulsory service versus voluntary service. If the debate develops into a wide-open breach which would cause the Prime Minister to dissolve the House, he could do so without assembling the Senate.

If, on the other hand, the Government is substantially sustained, the House could then adjourn until Jan. 31 as previously planned. However, no laws could be passed nor could parliament be prorogued without the presence of the Senate.

Consider Labor

their jobs will end soon. After the last war there was great distance in the labor market; this time, by continuing war controls through the early post-war period, the Government is hopeful of avoiding a repetition.

It is officially considered that the necessary continuation of the war effort, after Germany is defeated will make the demobilization problem simpler than otherwise would be the case.

In effect, there will be two small demobilizations instead of one large one. The first demobilization will be primarily a re-allocation of manpower between the forces and industry to meet the changed situation and it is not anticipated that there will be any sizeable surplus of labor.

It has been announced that even as some men are being demobilized from the services, compulsory recruiting will be continued in order to meet the needs of war in the Pacific while giving relief to men who have served long periods.

Control over industry will be continued to guarantee all production essential to the national interest either in the military or the civilian field.

Prisoner Bag Growing Fast

AT 21ST ARMY GROUP HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 14 — (AP). — Field-Harshal Montgomery's British and Canadian Armies have captured a grand total of 189,926 prisoners since D-Day last June 6, it was disclosed on Monday by a 21st Army Group spokesman.

In addition, it was announced that French Maquis have taken more than 20,000 prisoners, swelling the bag to considerably more than 200,000.

Lt.-Gen. Crerar's 1st Canadian Army held a slight edge of Lt.-Gen. Dempsey's British 2nd Army, with a total of 1,857 officers and 93,275 other ranks captured, compared with 1,276 officers and 93,518 other ranks seized by the British Army.

Between November 3 and November 10 the Canadians captured 2,822 prisoners and the British 567, the spokesman said.

Parliament

in on Nov. 2.

Mr. King is understood to have come to the decision that nothing could be gained by any further exchange of statements and the whole question should be decided on the floor of the House.

There he is expected to ask for a vote of confidence and a hot debate may follow. Whether or not the government goes to the country immediately in a general election will depend on how united the Liberal party is behind the administration.

The Liberals have a substantial over-all house majority, with 161 members against 73 for all other parties and independents. There are 11 vacant seats.

Earlier yesterday, M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. national leader, asked that parliament be summoned immediately to discuss reinforcements, and John Bracken, National Progressive Conservative leader, said last night that the Dominion Government should "fulfil its duty" by making home defence men available at once to reinforce the Canadian Army Overseas.

The Nov. 22 date of the resumed session gave all members time to be in Ottawa for the first sitting at 3 p.m. E.D.T.

There have been recurring reports that other ministers might follow Col. Ralston out of the cabinet in support of his policy but last night it was said that all present ministers would remain when the House resumed. The brevity of the cabinet meeting of about one hour last night indicated that they approved the Prime Minister's announcement the House was being called.

No Ceremonies

No formal ceremonies will mark the resumption of the session which is expected to hear a statement by the Prime Minister on the reinforcement situation soon after the members assemble. Prior to the House sitting private members are expected to express their opinions at a party caucus.

The Nov. 22 sitting will not technically be a special session as the House merely stood adjourned, liable to call at any time. The Jan. 31 date was announced by the Prime Minister in August, but that was the understanding that the members would be called at any time if the war situation or other emergency required it.

The House met in special session in September, 1939, when the members were called from their homes on short notice to approve the Canadian declaration of war on Germany.

Cattle Swamp Toronto Mart

TORONTO, Nov. 14 —(CP)—The cattle supply at the Union Stockyards now will more than tax killer capacity for the week, officials of the yards reported today. It was estimated 2,500 to 3,000 head of cattle will be unsold at the end of the week. Officials warned that no further shipments would be made by car or truck up to Saturday. Saturday's car loadings, it was added, should be restricted to one-half normal volume.

The lamb and sheep supply at the yards is also too heavy and there will be a heavy carry-over at the week-end. Officials said deliveries of lambs to the yards or local packing plants should be suspended until further notice.

Meteor Fragments Are Being Sought

NORTH BAY, Nov. 14 — (CP).—Attempts were being made to-day to find fragments of a meteor which was thought to have caused an explosion in the North Bay area early on Monday morning. The explosion which startled the countryside for miles around, was preceded by a blinding flash that was seen in Ottawa a few minutes before the blast.

Rural residents in the district have been asked to keep a close watch for particles which may be from the meteorite as well as burn marks which could have been made by the hurtling object which burst into flames as it hit the earth's atmosphere.

that the 'Zombies' must be sent overseas to immediately rectify the army's reinforcements shortage, the decision would be parliament's, not Mr. King's.

"And the vote would not be one involving 'confidence'."

The Citizen said:

"It is the stated intention of the Government 'to place all the facts before the House' and be governed by its decision in the light of information which is given and the discussion which takes place.

"The House is not being recalled for the specific purpose of asking a vote of confidence in the Government's policy, as it has been outlined. It is not being called, either, to endorse a policy of conscription. Rather, it is being brought back so that the situation, as it exists at the time that the members are here, may be fully revealed, and discussed. Whatever action is taken will be in the light of these discussions.

"The understanding is that the door is not shut against any policy which parliament, when it has the facts, may deem it wise to take."

Eggs In Wax Remain Fresh

STRATHROY, Ont., Nov. 14 — (CP)—Three men who believe they have discovered "the secret by which the Scandinavian countries were able to supply Britain with fresher eggs than Canada's" are at work in nearby Melbourne trying to prove that eggs dipped in wax stay fresh.

This week a test batch of 330 cases is being dipped at St. Marys. The eggs will be shipped to Britain where they will be subjected to rigorous tests.

Melbourne's three experimenters said that of eggs 26-days-old which have been kept unprotected in room temperatures ranging from 55 to 75 degrees, some not given the wax treatment show big air cells and darkening yolks when candled. In the eggs that have been treated, evaporation has not occurred and, says Stewart Campbell, one of the trio, the eggs test just as good as new-laid ones.

Drew Going To Solve Educational Problem

WINDSOR, Nov. 14 — (CP). — Premier Drew in an address last night to 500 teachers of Windsor and Essex County declared "I am definitely going to seek a solution to the educational problems with which we are faced."

He referred to the proposal to make provincial grants of up to 50 per cent of the cost of education and said: "One of the things which would be to have your Ontario Teachers' Federation and its component parts take the public into your confidence and explain some of the difficulties of the mechanics of education."

The Premier also declared: "Let us remember that in entrusting children to our teachers we must make the teaching profession sufficiently attractive to keep them in that profession."

Bracken Calls On King To Fulfil Duty

WINNIPEG, Nov. 14—(CP)—John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, "in the name of the Canadian people and for the protection of our men overseas," called last night upon the Dominion government to "fulfil its duty" by making the home defence army available immediately to reinforce the Canadian army overseas.

In a statement on the "gravest issue now facing this country," and in which he commented upon the declaration Sunday night by the former Defence Minister, Col. J. L. Ralston, that the need for reinforcements overseas was "urgent and immediate," Mr. Bracken said:

Issue Is Clear

"The issue is now clear, are we, or are we not to back our fighting men to the limit by the only certain means available to us, namely to put immediately into effect an order-in-council making the home defence army available for reinforcements overseas."

The statement was issued with the endorsement of the party's national committee, now in session in Winnipeg. It said the need for reinforcements was urgent and that they could be found only in Canada, where there was a large army drafted by the present government.

Mr. Bracken said it was "common knowledge" that the Dominion cabinet was "still divided and in a state of uncertainty." He challenged every member of the government to state publicly where personally he stands in this crisis.

Text of the statement:

Since I last made a statement to the Canadian people on the gravest issue now facing this country, Col. Ralston has informed us of the urgent and immediate need of reinforcements to the men overseas.

"Mr. Ralston has said:

"In view of the conditions which I found overseas, some of which I have outlined, and after full consideration, I felt that I had no alternative but to recommend that N.R.M.A. personnel be sent overseas as reinforcements.

"I felt that this was necessary to fulfil our pledges to our fighting men.

"My recommendation was not accepted, nor could I get any assurance that the government as a whole considered that the prime minister's speeches committed the government to this course."

The issue is now clear, are we, or are we not to back our fighting men to the limit by the only certain means available to us, namely, to put immediately into effect an order-in-council making the home defence army available for reinforcements overseas.

The need for reinforcements is urgent. They can be found only in Canada. Here we have a large army drafted by the present government.

It is common knowledge that the cabinet is still divided and in a state of uncertainty. I now challenge every member of the government to state publicly where personally he stands in this crisis.

In the name of the Canadian people and for the protection of the men overseas, after due consideration of the gravity of the situation and with the endorsation of the national committee of the Progressive Conservative party now in session in Winnipeg, I call upon the government to fulfil its duty to our men overseas and to carry out the will of the people as expressed in the plebiscite by passing the necessary order-in-council and sending the available men in the home army as reinforcements forthwith.

Conservatives Discuss Reinforcement Plan

WINNIPEG, Nov. 14.— (CP).—The question of reinforcements for the Canadian army overseas will be discussed here during a three-day meeting of the National Advisory committee of the Progressive-Conservative party.

30-Day Leave For Married Men Who Have Served Five Years

By WILLIAM BOSS
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS ON THE ADRIATIC, Nov. 14 — (CP). — Details of Canada's announced plan of home leave for long service are being explained to the Dominion's troops here by Maj.-Gen. Vokes, commander of the 1st Division, in visits to units at the rate of six a day. The Division went overseas in December, 1939.

The tour embraces virtually every unit of both Canadian divisions and corps troops. To the single men, the general's advice is to get married. He tells married men fortunate enough to qualify: "May you who get home, breed more Canadians like yourselves — we need them — 30 days out to do it."

(Gen. Vokes' statement indicated the length of leave for long service men will be 30 days. No announcement on this point has been made at Ottawa.)

The troops are told that leave is on an application basis, five years overseas service is required (service in Sicily and Italy counting double). However, time spent in detention, field punishment and for certain types of hospital attention does not count toward the five-year requirement.

"If it's within our power, 200 will be home for Christmas," he said. "Shipping is the only likely hold-up."

Gen. Vokes explained, however, that officers were not considered eligible for Christmas leave.

"You'll not be taken off the unit strength when you leave and on return you'll go right back to them, not losing either rank or seniority," he says. "The war may be in the dying stages but there is lots of tough fighting for the Canadians in Italy yet. We may be battling in Timbuctoo when you return but you'll go right there to rejoin us and the units."

Norwegian government officials here estimated Hitler's Norwegian garrison numbered about 200,000 men. In recent weeks, they said, the Germans have been moving south, into the Tromso and Narvik areas where defences have been strengthened for a possible delaying stand against the Russians.

Coinciding with the announcement that a Norwegian mission had arrived in Norway from Britain, it was learned in reliable quarters that a representative of the minister of justice was also in the country to carry out measures to deal with Quislings and traitors and re-establish Norwegian law.

Secret 5 Weeks

TORONTO, Nov. 13—(CP)—FO. Don Bell, D.F.C., of Toronto, an observer who spent three years attached to the R.A.F.'s "Dam Buster" squadron, said in an interview yesterday the squadron knew the date of D-Day for five weeks and trained five weeks for it.

Use Artillery.

While American artillery raked the enemy in the Ormoc squeeze, ground elements seized another elevation, Mount Cabungangan, overlooking the battlefiled, in a three-mile advance from Mount Catabaran, where their positions were being consolidated.

General MacArthur said the bulk of the 24th Division, moving down the tortuous highway toward Ormoc from Carigara Bay, was proceeding slowly "in the face of increasingly strong opposition."

To the east, organized Japanese resistance in the hills flanking Dagami and Patok, in Central Leyte valley, was broken by the 96th Division pressing westward.

The simmering campaign in the Palau Islands broke into brief activity last week when 200 Japanese troops occupied Ngeregong Islet, eight miles northwest of American-held Peleliu in an apparent reconnaissance move, Admiral Nimitz announced at Pearl Harbor yesterday. He said a small U.S. marine patrol was removed without casualties from the islet.

The Japanese landed under cover of storm, evidently across Denges passage from Eil Malk Island, two miles north of Ngeregong.

An American destroyer and two gunboats blocked Denges passage, to check possible further landings, and bombarded Ngeregong.

Labor Gazette Shows Trend To Union Shop

By JACK WILLIAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Nov. 14 (CP) — Increased acceptance of "Union Shop" and "Maintenance-of-Membership" clauses in agreements between labor unions and employers is reflected in a survey of 13 disputes made by the Labor Gazette, official publication of the labor department.

During the last year there has been a definite shift in the subject of disputes investigated by the Department's Industrial Relations Branch from wages to what are known as union security clauses in agreements.

In agreements now being negotiated unions are, almost without exception, asking that closed shop, union shop or maintenance-of-membership clauses be included.

Under the closed shop plan employers are required to hire, and retain in their employment for the life of the agreement, only members of the union which is a party to the agreement.

A union shop is a modification of this scheme, giving the employer wider freedom in his employment policies. All present employees are required to remain members of the union but non-union workers can be hired. They must, however, join the union within a specified time.

The maintenance-of-membership plan is still a further modification. Employees who belong to the union, or who subsequently join, must continue their membership in good standing for the life of the agreement. There is, however, no compulsion on workers to join the union and they may remain outside without jeopardizing their jobs.

Industrials Show Gains

TORONTO, Nov. 14.—(CP).—Industrial stocks gained in the early session and other groups were down narrowly on Toronto exchange to-day. Turnover was a little heavier than in previous session at 274,000 shares for the first three hours.

Papers, senior oils and the banks displayed moderate strength and the liquors were unchanged, but for a loss of ½ for Hiram Walkers to 73½. Canadian Breweries Pfd, selling ex-dividend 85 cents, was down a point to 43. Brazilian weakened ½ to 22½.

Three junior golds, Aubelle, Northland and Transcontinental Resources were heavy traders on a loss of a cent for Aubelle and a gain of 13 cents for Transcontinental. Other strong golds were Malartic Gold Fields, Madsen, Cochenour Willans and Aunor. Weakness was shown by Wright-Hargreaves, Wasa Lake, Springer-Sturgeon and McKenzie.

Noranda, Smelters, Laborador, Waite-Amulet and Lake Dufault were softer spots in the base metal list.

Along the British-Canadian front in the Netherlands, activity was limited to patrolling and artillery duels across the Maas (Meuse) River.

The 1st Canadian and British 2nd Armies still were drawn up along the south bank of this barrier, across which the enemy withdrew last week.

East and slightly north of the captured Metz forts, American troops astride the Metz-Saarebourg railway extended their bridgehead beyond the Nied River in the vicinity of Herny and Daudrecourt, and pushed a mile north-east of Ancerville.

In the area east of Chateau Salins, despite counter-attacks on their flank which drove them back about a mile on the eastern fringe of the Foret de Bride et de Koecking, American tanks and infantry pushed farther north. Gains of about two miles were scored also north-east of the Chateau Salins Forest, and the towns of Gilliers, Achain, and Marthille were captured.

The Moselle bridgehead north of Metz, where enemy resistance has been most determined, were expended, and the American troops in the bitterly contested Koenigsmacher sector pushed down the river and captured an unnamed fort north-west of Valmestroff and across the river from Thionville.

Party Shoots Six Deer

NORWOOD, Nov. 14 — (ENS) — The party of deer hunters at South Lake, north of Havelock have enjoyed splendid luck this season already having six deer to their credit. In the party are K. C. Edmunds, H. Baker, L. Edmunds, R. Baker, L. Poste and son, G. R. Baker, J. J. Stewart and S. Gerow.

CHIMNEY BLAZE

A chimney blaze at the residence of Walter T. Jeffery, 599 Patterson street, was extinguished by firemen Monday afternoon at 4:22 o'clock.

SPIKEHORN BUCK.

Jack Stuart, 465 Bolivar street, shot a spikehorn buck weighing close to 150 pounds last week, while hunting at Haultain, near Big Cedar Lake.

STRETCHER CASE

Pte. Walter Park, son of Mrs. Sam Duval, 338 Stewart street, has arrived back in Canada as a stretcher case, one of 400 Canadians to return on the British Hospital ship Aba. His wife, Mrs. Marion Park, lives in Tyrone.

CLOSE TO CITY.

A deer was sighted early in the week about three miles north of the city, in Douro township, by Peter Ayotte, Armour road. Mr. Ayotte said that the deer was probably chased by dogs, and frightened into coming so close to the city.

HE'S ON ST. JOHN TOO.

AB. Joseph Borden, who was employed at Genelco for two years, is one of several Peterborough boys serving in the crew of the frigate St. John, which recently was credited with helping to sink a U-boat. Prior to enlisting two years ago, he boarded at 473 Rogers street.

EYE INJURIES.

Pte. Alfred Bailey, whose wife lives at 326 Water street, is suffering from shell fragment wounds to the right eye, Ottawa has stated. He was wounded in June and again in October and no other information is available as to the seriousness of the injury.

SHOOTS BEAR.

That big skin lying outside Peter Gosselin's Meat Store at 234 Hunter street W., is that of a black bear which weighed more than 200 pounds, when shot by Mr. Gosselin at Cuckoo Lake, near Kinmount, recently. Another big bear in the vicinity got away when the hunter missed it!

CAPTURES A PHEASONT

The city's zoo at the filtration plant was augmented this morning by the addition of a very fine hen pheasant captured around 7 o'clock by Sergt. W. E. Wigg. The bewildered bird was on one of the windows at the rear of the city buildings when it was taken into protective custody by the police department.

TOO MILD!

Veteran hunters of Peterborough are lamenting the mild weather prevalent during the past few days, because of the fact deer must be brought back to the city soon after shooting to prevent spoilage. The pro's and con's of holding the hunting season at this time of year, when mild weather is apt to come at any time, is also being discussed in hunting circles. Hunters say it is a great inconvenience when after travelling 40 or more miles into the woods, to be forced to return right after shooting a deer, to prevent spoilage of the animal.

OFFICER ILL.

Lieut.-Col. James Turnbull, officer commanding Canadian Army Basic Training Centre No. 32, is ill in Nicholls Hospital. His condition this morning is reported as slightly improved.

CRIB WANTED

The Children's Aid Society finds itself very badly in need of a baby's crib, and would be glad to hear from any friends of children who may have such an article of furniture to donate to a worthy cause.

FILMS AVAILABLE.

The National Film Board Library at the Normal School announces the following films available to the schools for the next two weeks: The Primary Teacher, The Eskimo Children, The House Fly, Black Bear Twins, Adventures of Bunny Rabbit, and The Brass Choir.

ONE DEER SHOT.

Members of the Cox Lake Hunt Club, Walter Wright and Cliff Nicholson of Peterborough and Reg Doubt of Lakefield, have returned from their annual week's holiday at Cox Lake. Their luck wasn't with them this year, however, as they report only one deer bagged, a 210-pound ten-point buc, dropped by Nick Nicholson.

GETS DEER.

Hunting in Haliburton, Clyde Ashby, 200 Rubidge street, shot a deer, the day after the hunting season opened November 6. Mrs. Ashby accompanied her husband, but unlike last year, when she shot a deer too, was unable to bring anything home this time. Mr. Ashby's father Tom H. Ashby, left recently for a week's trip into the same district.

DRAW MADE THURSDAY.

The draw for the set of twin silver fox furs will be made in the Victory Loan office headquarters on Thursday. Gordon Matthews, chairman of the War Finance Board, will make the draw. Coupons were given members of the armed forces, their wives or parents, who invested $100 in Victory Bonds during the recent campaign, with a maximum of two coupons a person, for $200 in bonds.

Falls Into Lake On Way To Train

Running to catch a train at the C.P.R. station early this morning John Logan, 56, of Biggar, Sask., took a short cut across the new park south of the George Street wharf and fell off the rip-rap embankment into the river.

Constables C. J. McGillen and Allan Edmison were trying the doors of the Thompson Coal offices nearby when they heard cries of "I am drowning" coming from the river and running to the scene found Logan sitting on the bank with his feet in the water.

The man insisted that another man had also gone into the river but the officers were unable to see any traces of a second person. Constable Leo. Murphy joined in the search and a boat was obtained from the O'Dette Boat House and drag irons from the firehall but there was nothing to indicate that there had been a drowning accident. City firemen and Medical Officer of Health Kelly were on the scene in a short time but eventually it was ascertained that when Logan left the house on Lock street where he had been staying he was alone. The hunt was then abandoned.

In the meanwhile Constable Edmison recovered Logan's suit case from the river near the spot where the man had fallen in.

War Writer Killed

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Nov. 14 — (AP). — (via army radio). — A Japanese sniper's bullet killed Frank Prist, 30, veteran Acme News Picture photographer, during heavy fighting in the Ormoc sector yesterday. Prist was the fourth war correspondent to die in action since the Philippine campaign started and the 13th killed in the Pacific area since the war started.

He was the 44th Allied correspondent lost since war broke out in 1939.

HORSES DRUG ON MARKET.

When cows sell at an auction sale for twice the prices of horses there must be something wrong, farmers remarked at a recent sale held in the township of Manvers. Cattle, grain, hay and implements all brought high prices but the horses were a drug on the market.

One farmer was asked why and he came back with the question who is there to drive the horses on the farm? "Just the old fellow left. Give a young man a tractor plow and he is on the top of the world. The single plow is now out of date, and ask the old timers to hitch up four horses to a double plow and they do not feel able for the job."

Went To London On Visit Stayed For War

Returning to the Old Country towards the end of the depression, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. King, walked right into the Battle of London, one of the high lights in the history of mankind, and a new turning point in the course of European affairs.

"My wife and I simply went home on a visit," Mr. King told the Examiner today. "We took the children along, without any very definite intentions. Probably I might have thought of staying, but we hadn't got around to that idea when Hitler made up our minds for us. The war broke, and when Goering sent his Luftwaffe against England we were in the midst of the bombing from the middle of August 1940, all through the winter."

History already credits that greatest victory in the skies to the Royal Air Force with elaboration now of the tremendous shock that must have been carried back to Herman Goering. First the Hun planes were driven out of the day skies over England, and especially over London, and their night bombing settled down into a terroristic campaign that British people everywhere, will always remember.

"For 57 consecutive nights we could not go to bed," Mrs. King added to the outline of recollection.

There were other stretches of restless nights of alarm and fire and death, too, but those two months were the worst.

Became Warden

Meanwhile Mr. King was drafted into the civilian defense service as a full time warden, and after the Huns had begun to realize that they did not dominate the sky and the life of London air wardens was getting back to longer normal periods, Mr. King was transferred to a big war plant in Watford, greater London, whose output ranged through a variety of heavy machinery including bulldozers.

Mr. and Mrs. King and their family were living in Toronto back in 1938. They had come through the depression years, and decided to go home for a change—and such a change that experience became.

After the "blitz" passed and long months of comparative quiet returned to London, Hitler flung his flying bombs across the channel, and again Watford was in the centre of destruction and death. One of Mr. King's last memories of London is of comparatively recent mpression, digging bodies out of the rubble that had been a home. That was only two months ago. Until their recent decision to return to Canada, Mrs. King was helping at a junior school cooking for two hundred children. Their two daughters are in auxiliary war services, and their son Robert is a student at Peterborough Collegiate.

Mr. King is a brother-in-law of Reeve Percy Gooding of Hilton, Brighton township, who is also a former warden of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham. After five years of war in London, Mr. and Mrs. King chose Peterborough as an inviting smaller city, in contrast with the heart of the Empire, and a stout, fighting heart, at that.

All Liquor Stores To Close On V-Day

TORONTO, Nov. 14 — (CP). — In a letter from Premier Drew, city council was notified yesterday that all Ontario government buildings including liquor stores will be closed on the day of victory in Europe. The letter was in answer to a council request that no liquor be sold on the day of victory celebration.

Not On Invoice

FORT ERIE, Nov. 14 — (CP). — A compassionate train crew delayed a Canadian National Railways cattle train near the International Railway Bridge spanning the Niagara River while the skilled hand in charge of cattle assisted at the birth of a calf. The crew did some explaining at the Black Rock, N.Y., terminal when a count showed one more head than was noted on the customs export manifest.

WOUNDED WITH HIGHLANDERS — Pte. Douglas Francis Self was severely wounded while fighting with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, early in November. He is the son of George Self and the late Mrs. Self, 32 Park street north. Prior to enlisting he worked at the C.G.E., and a brother Kenneth is overseas with the R.C.A.F.

Eight Injured As Car Ditched

Eight persons were hurt, four of them badly enough to require hospital attention when an automobile left Highway 28 just north of Nick's Camp on Monday night after colliding with another car and was wrecked in the ditch.

The injured were William Robbins, Duffus street, injured leg, his daughter Edna, 16, same address, bruises and shock, Pte. Saul Robbins, Military Training Centre, his wife, and their four children, Carman 13, Hazel 12, Vernon 10, and Velma 3, all cut and bruised.

William Robbins and his daughter and Hazel and Vernon Robbins were taken to Nicholls Hospital for treatment.

The accident happened when Ernest Rahmel, Crescent street, was driving south and his car and the north-bound car driven by William Robbins collided. After the impact the Robbins automobile went out of control and crashed into the ditch with so much force that it almost fell apart.

Nick's Camp nearby was turned into a casualty clearing station and the eight injured persons received first aid there before four of them were removed to Nicholls Hospital. Dr. C. M. Sott gave them medical attention.

William Robbins was driving Pte. Sal Robbins and his family to Bancroft when the crash occurred.

The accident was investigated by Provincial Constable Price Morris.

More Flying Bombs

LONDON, Nov. 14 — (AP) —After a lull of several days the Germans launched a brief flying bomb attack on southern England during the night.

An official announcement said some damage was done in the London area and outlying districts.

Bylaw For Grant To St. Joseph's Is Withdrawn

The bylaw proposing an annual grant of $3,750 to St. Joseph's Hospital will not be submitted to the ratepayers at the municipal elections on December 4.

John R. Corkery, representing the advisory board of the hospital, confirmed today that on behalf of the board he wrote City Clerk Outram last week conveying its request that the bylaw be not included in the required advertising, precedent to the taking of the vote.

The board had requested the council to include in its civic hospital bylaw a clause providing for an annual grant to St. Joseph's in consideration of its undertaking to erect a 52-bed addition at an estimated cost of $250,000.

The grant represented the interest on the capital cost at 3 per cent, equivalent to $3,750 a year for twenty-five years.

"Our board felt disappointed that the council could not meet its request," Mr. Corkery said, "and they decided that they did not care to have a separate bylaw placed before the voters. On behalf of the board I reviewed our position, which had previously been explained to the council, and asked that the bylaw be withsheld."

As to the proposed 52-bed addition and the prospect of proceeding with that work, Mr. Corkery said that the board had not yet received approval from the Minister of Health, Hon. Dr. R. P. Vivian.

Navy Auxiliary Packs Parcels

The Women's Auxiliary to the Navy will pack their Christmas ditty parcels in St. John's Parish Hall Wednesday and Thursday of this week. Some weeks ago parcels for navy personnel serving at far distant points were shipped and now the remainder of the boxes are to be sent. The Auxiliary is not satisfied that all the Peterborough boys and girls serving in the Navy or the Merchant Marine have been listed and is making this last appeal for relatives and friends of these sailors and Wrens to send in the names now.

It does not matter in the least whether the relatives are connected with the Auxiliary or not. These Christmas remembrances are for all Peterborough navy personnel and the Auxiliary is anxious that no one should be over-looked . Telephone 5591, 5592 or 4778, please.

Japs Claim Battleship

LONDON, Nov. 14 — (CP.-Reuter). — A Japanese Imperial Headquarters communique, quoted by Tokyo radio today, claimed the sinking of an Allied battleship yesterday east of Luzon Island in the Philippines by Japanese airmen. There was no Allied confirmation.

Yesterday the Japanese said a battleship and three large American transports had been sunk on Sunday by aircraft in Leyte Gulf.

Harried Home Seekers Becoming Desperate Offer Alluring Rewards In Bonds And Cash

"It's fall....and we are in love," reads an advertisement in a Toronto newspaper, asking for an apartment or duplex, furnished or unfurnished! The shortage of these dwelling-places seems to be very acute in the Queen City, and people, using the advertising pages of the daily press, are using any combination of words that comes into their minds, as possible bait for a dwelling place.

"We can't get married until we find an apartment," continues this add, appealing to the romantic instincts of landlords, to get them a place.

A patriotic note was struck by one young professional woman recently, when she offered to invest $1,000 in Victory Bonds if some one would come up with a suitable 3 to 5 room apartment for her.

Rewards have been the mainspring in finding rooms for several months now, and as the situation became more pressing, up shot the rewards. The conservative $10 offered in September, has now jumped as high as $100.

In view of the fact children, pets, and other variables are a handicap to young couples finding apartments, many ads stress that their particular children are angels. Recently, an ad said in part, "and we have one, golden-haired, darling, little three-year-old girl....but we will drown her if necessary."

NAVIGATOR HOME — Flight-Lieutenant Ken Hutchinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Hutchinson, 359 Aylmer street, has returned home from overseas after completing his tour of operations. He was attached to the R.A.F. in the Coastal Command. (See story on Page 5.)

3rd Theft Case Is Thrown Out

Prospra Lavigne, Cornwall, Ont., was found not guilty in police court Monday afternoon on a charge of stealing perfume and a pen and pencil set from the Elliott Drug Store.

He was the third person to be tried on a similar shop-lifting charge, following the arrest by police on the night of November 3 of three men and a woman.

The crown evidence included the testimony of Chester Mowry who had followed the four from drug store to drug store that evening and accosted Lavigne in Elliott's drug store after he had seen the accused pick up a bottle of perfume and hid it under his coat.

The evidence was that Lavigne had eventually paid for the perfume. It was testified that when he was searched after his arrest the police found a pen and pencil set on the prisoner.

However Norman Elliott proprietor of the store was unable to identify the set positively. There had been a similar set in the store and it was missing, he said.

The defence called no evidence and Magistrate Langley dismissed the charge, remarking that while there was very grave suspicion the crown had failed to produce evidence for a conviction.

A vagrancy charge against Lavigne was also dismissed when the crown offered no evidence.

Gerald Kirkey, arrested on a vagrancy charge on the same night as the other prisoners, was also allowed to go with no evidence offered.

Careless Driving Charges Laid Over

Owing to the fact that counsel were engaged in other courts the hearing of careless driving charges arising out of a recent accident on Highway 7 east of Havelock, had to be adjourned when the cases were called before Magistrate O. A. Langley K.C. in police court this morning.

Mrs. Rita Minaker of Lindsay and Thomas Morris Johnston, Belmont were both charged with careless driving by Provincial Constable Archie Grayling of Havelock who investigated the accident and the cases had been scheduled for hearing this morning.

Total Of $1,055 Given By Brinton Carpet

In the realm of doing good works, two values are apparent if the work is carried on for any period of time, which may be designated as being of a practical and sentimental value, both of which grow as time proceeds, the one keeping pace with the other.

This in the case of the good work that the employees of the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co., Ltd., have been doing for nearly four years in regard to activities carried on by the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund is quite apparent, when one considers they were among the very first to give their support, and are still among the most steady of its supporters right at this moment.

To suppotr this, one has only to refer to the fact that they have with to-day's acknowledgement, made no less than seventy-six different donations, which have been spread over all the period of the time mentioned in a regular manner, and possibly have established a record in the records of the fund in this particular manner, besides mounting in the aggregate to a per capita average that few are able to equal.

That there is sentimental value wrapped up in the total achievement of these workers for the fund, which has now reached a heighth of $1,055 in monetary value, is best judged by the pride that former workers now on active service have voiced in praise of those former co-workers on the home front. The reports of their activities reaching them through this column, having brought this favourable reaction.

People who are intensely interested as the Brinton employees have given every indication of being, will undoubtedly continue the good work until it is no longer needed.

Affliction Helps Affliction.

To a young healthy lad, an enforced period of inaction due to an accidents would surely prove an affliction, but ten-year-old Glenn Taylor of 203 Reid street made it the occassion for rendering some help to others who were also in trouble.

It all came about when this young boy fell off the family verandah, breaking his leg and it necessitated a cast and a period of immobility. He utilized this as a means to raise $4 through the inscribing of names on the cast by his friends and chums, all of which will sum up in a happier Christmas for some other young folk in trouble in England, through the cheer that it will give them at this time, and that should also make the boy himself happy.

Happiness is almost always infectious, it helps to produce happiness, and that this is so in many instances has been hown by people remembering to care for the needs of the distressed in the midst of their own pleasure. This happens to be the case through a donation received through L. Reid, which came from a dance of the Kawartha Club Tennis Club, that is also listed to-day.

MembershipIncreases In Sanitation Institute

Membership of the Canadian Institute on Sewage and Sanitation increased from 157 to a new high of 198 during the presidency of R. H. Parsons city engineer of Peterborough. Registration, including guests, at the Institute's recent convention in Toronto, was 336.

R. J. Demarais, city engineer of Windsor, was elected president for the ensuing year.

On the first day of the convention Mr. Parsons read a paper on "Design, construction and operation of refuse incinerators" as reported in the Daily Commercial News and Building Record.

"Don't be stingy in the size of the plant," he suggested. "When it is built don't expect it to operate with full efficiency from the time you start a fire in it. The operator must study the machine so as to become acquainted with the most efficient method of running it. Provision should be made to permit weighing of all the garbage as it comes into the incinerator. I cannot see how an operator can know what he is doing unless every load of garbage is weighed as it comes in, and a daily record kept of the total weight of garbage destroyed during that day."

Manila Raided

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14 — (AP). — The Tokyo radio said today 400 Americans planes attacked the Manila and Cavite areas yesterday and damaged some Japanese warships.

The broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said the planes came over in several waves and were intercepted by Japanese fliers who "shot down 34 of them."

REPORTED WOUNDED — Sgt. Gerald Bousfield, whose wife, formerly Phyliss Starr, lives at 215 Carlisle avenue, has been reported wounded while fighting with the S.D. and G. Highlanders. He is the son of Mrs. Josephine Bousfield and the late Rev. George J. Bousfield, former rector of St. Luke's Church.

Peterboro Men On Hospital Ship

Two Peterborough and nine district men have arrived back in Canada, part of the group of 400 wounded Canadian servicemen who reached Halifax Monday on the British hospital ship, Aba.

Pte. Clarence Downer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Downer, 172 Lake street, who suffered serious injuries to his left arm while fighting with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in Italy, is among them. He has been in hospital for several months. Prior to enlisting with the Prince of Wales Rangers (CA) was employed at the C.G.E.

Spr. E. R. Spencely, brother of Mrs. K. E. Sanderson, 520 Bonaccord street, is another of the wounded. He was badly injured some months ago while serving in Italy with the RCASC. He went overseas in 1940 with the Engineers, took part in the Dieppe raid and later served in Africa, Sicily and Italy.

Others returning include: Gnr. C. F. Bolderstone, whose wife, Mrs. Mabel R. E. Bolderstone, lives in Cobourg; Gnr. H. J. Gray, son of Mrs. Cass Gray, Marmora; Pte. J. F. Jones, brother of Mrs. Clara McNaughton, Campbellford; Pte. C. B. McArthur, son of Mrs. Viola E. McArthur, Havelock; Gnr. C. O. Switzer, husband of Mrs. Ida Switzer, 102 King street, Lindsay; Pte. F. Former Madoc Soldier Given Military Cross

NAPANEE, Nov. 14 (CP)—Serving in France with an anti-tank unit of the Royal Canadian Artillery, Lieut. Gordon W. MacGregor, 32, of Napanee, has been awarded the Military Cross, a letter received by his wife today, said.

Born in Madoc, Hastings county, he came to Napanee as a child. Prior to enlisting he was in the mercantile business with his father here. He has two sons, five and six years old.

COMPLETES TOUR — Flying Officer Ross Lunn of Millbrook is home on furlough after a tour of 37 operations over enemy territory. He is the son of Mrs. H. Lunn, Millbrook. FO. Lunn went overseas in February, 1942, and prior to enlisting, was employed at the Western Clock Company.

FIVE SOLDIERS INVALIDED HOME — Five of the 11 Peterborough and district soldiers who were invalided home aboard the British hospital ship Aba, are shown above. Pte. Claude B. McArthur (Outside Right), son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. McArthur, Belmont township, was dangerously wounded while fighting in France with the South Saskatchewan Regiment. Pte. Albert Charles Richards (Right), son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Richards, Millbrook, was wounded July 31 in France. Spr. E. R. Spencely (Centre), brother of Mrs. K. E. Sanderson, 520 Bonaccord street, was seriously wounded while serving with the RCASC in Italy. He is a veteran of Dieppe. A Marmora boy, Gnr. Harry John Gray (Left), son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Gray, Marmora, was wounded in the right shoulder and left leg in Italy, last June. Pte. Clarence W. Downer (Outside Left) injured his left arm seriously while fighting in Italy with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

The Canadian General Electric Social and Athletic Association desires all names and addresses of all children 14 years and under of former employees now in the armed forces for the annual Christmas Tree to be held December 16, 1944. Either write or telephone Employment Office, 3501—Local 48.

The Nature Of Memorials

Already several Canadian cities have considered the form of the memorial which they will erect, in the early days of peace, to the young men from their vicinity who have died in this war; and already these cities have ranged themselves in two opposed ranks, one made up of those who favour such memorials as playgrounds, parks, health centres and schools, and the other made up of those who favour cenotaphs, obelisks, monuments and kindred objects. Peterborough has already declared itself for a Memorial Health Centre, the plans and the finance for which are well advanced, and for that reason we feel that we should state Peterborough's case, in rebuttal to those newspapers elsewhere which have mounted a very high moral horse on the subject of memorials.

* * *

We are thinking particularly of the Stratford Beacon-Herald and the Hamilton Spectator. The latter journal sets forward its opinion very eloquently, thus:

"There was a time when all memorials, public and private, were dedicated to the glory of Almighty God in an outpouring of gratitude for the lives of those through whom His mercies had been made manifest. Those were the days of golden vintage in the spiritual outlook of Christian people, and the souls of the nations were reflected in their monuments.

"It is right and in keeping with our past that we should desire to erect memorials to those who have sacrificed themselves in our behalf during the present war, but let us give solemn thought to the nature of our memorials and to the spirit in which they are to be dedicated.

"One hears of plans for the erection of war memorials here and there throughout the country and all too often justification for them in terms of local advantage and prospective revenue is being sought and made by groups of people who seem bent on using the occasion for the advancement of the social activities in which they are interested. It would, in the opinion of this newspaper, be an unworthy reflection on the spirit of the people if sentiment in favour of erecting a memorial to the fallen were to be perverted into a pretext for providing amusement or other facilities for their own enjoyment.

"A memorial dedicated to the men who have died and suffered for the vindication of the lofty principles for which we have fought cannot be fittingly given the utilitarian form of a recreation centre of the kind proposed. There must not be the faintest suspicion of exploiting the sacrifices of our war heroes for any selfish purposes. The only appropriate memorial is a disinterested thankoffering to their memory and to the glory of God for their victory. When the war is over, suitable monuments will be in order, bearing witness to the trials and tribulations of this generation in the overthrow of tyranny and the defence of liberty. A sports arena, however pretentious, does not commend itself as worthy of this high purpose".

Now this is all very well, but it neglects several important points. The custom of setting up memorials which are chiefly of aesthetic value comes to us from Europe, a very old continent which has for some centuries been amply supplied with educational institutions, parks, theatres and concert halls and buildings of that nature. In such a place it is fitting that such memorials as the monument to the defence of the Suez Canal, the American war memorial at Bellicourt, the Canadian monument at Vimy, the Cenotaph in Whitehall and others of that nature should be erected, for they beautify and ennoble surroundings which are already beautiful. But in Canada we have a raw country where many of the necessities for thoroughly civilized living are still lacking. Surely a memorial which fills one of the gaps in the list of things we need is better than an obelisk which merely throws into relief the ugliness of its surroundings? In Peterborough we need a centre for health and recreation, and that is what we are going to have. Such a centre will do far more to make Peterborough a good place to live in than another monument.

* * *

We are not especially gifted, here in Canada, in the production of beautiful monuments. Here in Peterborough we have one erected after the last war which is much better than most of its kind, but all across Canada the traveller may see monuments which range from aesthetic mediocrity to startling hideousness. The lofty principles which inspire the erection of a monument are of little value if the monument itself is an eyesore. The best memorial Canada can offer to the men who die in this war is a race of healthier, more intelligent and more widely cultivated Canadians. Our Memorial Health Centre will be a contribution toward that memorial. If Stratford and Hamilton wish to erect more pillars and arches in their streets, that is their privilege. We hope that they will be things of beauty but we are not unduly optimistic on that score. Apparently Canada is to have two types of war memorial: the Uselessly Noble and the Nobly Useful. Peterborough has chosen the latter.

Let The Court Protect The Witness

In a shoplifting case which appeared recently in the local police court the principal witness for the Crown, Mr. Chester C. Mowry, was questioned with considerable asperity by the lawyer for the defence. "Were you playing the role of a busybody?" he was asked.

Now "busybody" is not a particularly harsh word, and it may fittingly be applied to most men at some time, lawyers among others. But we do not think that it may fitly be applied to any man who stands in a witness box. When a man is called to court as a witness he is helping in the prosecution of justice. But most people, including very honest ones, have a feeling of guilt and uneasiness when they are called to court, and do not realize their rights there; thus they may become butts fo lawyers who overstrain their privileges.

When a witness appears in court he is under the protection of the court, as represented by the magistrate or judge on the bench, and it is up to the presiding officer of the court to see that the witness is treated with courtesy and respect. In the case which we mention the word 'busybody' should not have been used to a man who was doing his duty as he saw it, and when it was used it should have been censured by the magistrate. This is necessary to maintain the high reputation of our courts. If witnesses are to be insulted by lawyers when they should be protected by the court it will not be long before it is very hard to find witnesses when they are wanted.

Female Resolution

In the interests of something — we don't know exactly what—the Montreal Gazette prints a series of resolutions passed by a meeting of young women in the town of Logansport, Indiana, in the 30th of September in the year 1860:

1. That we deem it to be the duty of every young unmarried man to enlist and fight for the honour of his country, his flag and his own reputation.
2. That the young men, in this time of our country's peril, have but one good excuse for not being a soldier, and that is COWARDICE.
3. That the young man who now fails to respond to the call of his country is not worthy of the kind regards or the smiles of the young ladies of our native Hoosier State, and that none but ladies of doubtful age will smile upon such men.
4. That we will have nothing to do with young men who refuse to go to the war and that "Home Guards" must keep their distance.
5. That the young man who has not pluck enough to fight for his country, has not got the manliness to make a good husband.
6. That we will marry no man who has not been a soldier.
7. That we will not marry till after the war is over; and then, "Home Guards!" No, never!!

What we should like now is a report telling how many of these resolute young females, through increased wisdom, or despair of getting anyone else, or declining belligerence, eventually married Home Guards.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A Toronto naturalist says that robins do not like worms. Then that relieves them of any necessity to get up early; simplify your desires and you simplify your life.

Progress is comparative. We pride ourselves on our dehydrated meats, milk and vegetables, but in ancient Egypt it was a regular custom to dehydrate people.

Surely in the past people must have had quadruplets without making so much fuss about it. After all, it isn't much to be proud of. Has any great benefactor of the race ever been a quadruplet, or even a twin?

In the same newspaper we read that the late Dr. Alexis Carrel predicted that man would destroy himself if he did not become more intelligent, and also that the Hon. Brooke Claxton wants to make Canada the healthiest country in the world. How would it be if we worried less about health for a while, and concentrated on brains? The most intelligent country in the world — now that would be a reputation to strive for! And we might point out that intelligent people are usually ill less than those who are not so bright.

Tomorrow's World

(By GRANT DEXTER)

As the war enters the final phase, it is clear that the very word "reconstruction" evokes conflicting emotions in the minds of most people—gratitude, happiness, doubt, cynicism, fear. How different to the sheer elation of November, 1918!

This time, when organized resistance ends in Germany, many will be haunted by the memories of the inter-war years—the depression of 1920 which engulfed western agriculture in an avalanche of debt; the ragged early twenties; the boom which led in 1930, to the greatest of all depressions; the fumbling, uncertain efforts to achieve an effective world organization and keep the peace of the world.

It was Walt Whitman, writing of the first great modern war, who spoke of "the sisters Death and Night incessantly softly washing again and ever again this soil'd world."

Everyone agrees today that the tragedy of the thirties must never again occur; that there must be no World War III. But back of their assertions there is deep skepticism—"How can we be certain?" This, no doubt, explains why every rumour of the end of the war in Europe sends the markets down.

BEARING all this in mind, it may be helpful to discuss reconstruction. How can the fears which torment people be banished? How can the hopes for a better world be realized? What has been done? What lines of approach are now visible?

The most-common definition, apart from world security, of what is most desired, is full employment. This, however, is a poor definition. What, in fact, is wanted is the greatest possible production of required goods and services. The aim as Sir William Beveridge has put it, is not the making of work for persons who, otherwise, would be unemployed. If this were all, then the speediest solution would be to scrap our machines, retire our scientists, make the exercise of individual initiative a crime. It would be a case of back to the pre-machine age.

What people mean when they speak of full employment is the development of our resources in men, plant and material so as to obtain directly and by trade a high and advancing standard of living.

IT is evident, then, that the cries and countercries of various groups and parties are confusing. The C.C.F. asserts, stridently, that if only we change the ownership of everything, substitute state for private ownership, there will be good times always. The Social Crediters and other money cranks affirm that if only we would print unlimited quantities of new dollar bills and give them to all and sundry, heaven would be born on earth. And over against the socialists, the free enterprise group argues that if only the state would clear out and give private enterprise undisputed control of everything, unemployment would vanish.

These conflicting and extreme points of view obscure the the problem. The socialists, on the one hand, and the extreme individualists on the other, are quarrelling not about what is to be done, but the way of going about it—the technique. The assumption by the state of ownership of productive plant would not solve any existing problem. All the conflicts—labour seeking higher rewards, farmers a greater share of the national income, and so on—would remain. Instead of being economic questions to be decided largely by the market, the price system, they would become political questions to be decided by votes and influence. Likewise with the banishment of the state from business. Stout manufacturers who talk this way should not be taken too seriously. How many of them recognize tariffs as a state intervention and, incidentally, of a highly undesirable kind? Do these advocates believe that the state should retire from the postal service, the national railways, the various boards of control like the railway commission, the grain commission, the hydro power field, etc? Certainly not.

BOTH these contentious factions—because they are extreme — are an obstacle to clear thought and constructive action. There could be, for example, no greater misfortune than that a socialist-minded party like the C.C.F. should take office at this critical time and, instead of tackling the real problems of reconstruction, become involved in a row over the nationalization of some part of the existing plant like the C.P.R.

All these groups, and more particularly the socialists, base their appeals upon fear. Unless their particular cure-all is accepted, the miseries so vividly remembered will return.

It is suggested, therefore, that the first essential to clear thinking about reconstruction is to repject the proposition that success turns on a choice between black and white alternatives. It is not a case of either-or. With respect to socialism, it is obvious that the area of state activity has been increasing for many generations. There is no reason to suppose it is going to cease to do so. Rather, the problem is one of readjusting from time to time and in the light of changing conditions, the activities of state and private activity. The considerations should not be theoretical or academic, but practical and common sense.

The peril in the extremist approach and in the kind of fear-haunted campaign being carried on is real. In this great venture there will be small hope of success if we are concerned chiefly with bandaging old sores, if we are hypnotized by dread of unemployment. No one can run a good race if he continually is looking back over his shoulder.

The first need, then, is positive, not negative, goals; not defence but attack; not fear, but faith.

WE MAY LEARN

We ought to remind ourselves of the terrible truth contained in that French saying that the more things change, the more they are still the same. The parallels between this war and that other ought to be enough to give us pause in all our counsels for the future. Do what we may, it seems that we shall have to tread in ancient ways and almost certainly we shall find ourselves coming home to familiar consequences. This is not to say that we can run away from the eternal argument about war and peace and it is not to say that we ought not to hammer out the issue between ourselves trying to learn a little better wisdom out of yesterday's failures. But if we learn any wisdom at all we shall beware of all the promisers of the new heaven and the new earth.—Vancouver Province.

A-B-C-D-DAY

The London Theatre

By BEVERLEY BAXTER
(Drama critic of the London Evening Standard)

ONE night, a year or so ago, I shared a whisky and soda as well as a pervading gloom with James Agate, London's most exasperating critic. It was during the interval of a play which was badly written, deplorably acted and sloppily produced.

"James", I said, "I cannot go on doing dramatic criticism. Think of how unprotected we are. We are forced to see plays which no sane member of the public would ever tolerate for a moment".

Agate patted my shoulder encouragingly. "Everyone of us from Shaw and Archer down has said the same thing over and over again. But don't despair. Some of these nights you will be proud to be connected with the London Theatre. Mark my words—and what about another whisky?"

THAT has now happened. The London Theatre has suddenly sprung into life. It has proceeded to give us a series of productions which have proved an unbroken series of triumphs. Not in 25 years has the West End so dazzled, so charmed and so stimulated.

The revival began with ballot and opera. The International Ballet opened its season with "Everyman", beautifully danced, and with a symphonic orchestra giving us the luscious semi-modernism of Richard Strauss. On the following evening at Princes Theatre, the Sadler's Wells Opera put on a new production of Mozart's "Cosi Fan Tutte" which threw off all British inhibitions and was as gay and unconventional as anything Vienna ever did in those nostalgic times when the Emperor ruled instead of a gaulieter.

THIS was followed in 24 hours at the Aldwych by a sincere and thoughtful play from New York called "Tomorrow The World" in which a 14-year-old London boy named David O'Brien, who had never been on the stage before, made every adult actor seem—well just actors. He played the part of a 12-year-old Nazi who was taken to American by kind people there, and before he was finished with them one began to fear for the survival of the U.S.A.

Master O'Brien was such a little flaxen haired beast (his own dark hair was bleached for the part) that any of us would gladly have gone on the stage and given him a hiding. But when American kindness began to work on him, and decency struck a note of music in his breast, he sent outrageous tears splashing down our cheeks.

There is no explaining Master O'Brien. Someone suggested that he should retire at once and open a school of Dramatic Art. As far as I can see he could even teach Alfred Lunt a thing or two.

PROCEEDING from triumph to triumph the Corps of London Dramatic Critics moved on to the New Theatre where the Old Vic Company, which used to hold forth across the river by Waterloo Station until it was bombed out, began a fresh existence in the West End. The piece chosen was Ibsen's "Peer Gynt" with Ralph Richardson as the star, and a perfect orchestra to play Grieg's music.

Ibsen's old masterpiece is full of obscurities and half meanings but it is a towering piece of work and Ralph Richardson leaped to fame in a part almost as long as Hamlet. The public cheered and cheered and the public was right.

On the following night the same company put on a revival of Shaw's "Arms and The Man". Shaw was not there but if he had been he would have been jolted, shocked and delighted. This timely satire on war and the Bulgarian character has survived its 50 years of life so remarkably that it might have been written a month ago.

BUT this time Laurence Olivier decided to scoop the pool. Seldom has any actor done so fantastic and funny a bit of characterization, as his portrayal of the moustached and dandified Bulgarian officer who led a cavalry charge because his horse bolted with him. He was all gigolos rolled into one, all sham heroes concentrated in a single personality. To see him click his spurred heels on an amorous approach, then rise on his toes, and then, as he clicked his heels again, to notice his exasperation when the spurs stuck together, was sheer outrageous joy.

In all these productions there is not a single microphone, a crooner, a note of jazz, a red nosed comedian, a dirty joke or a strip-tease.

To the man or woman of taste who believes that it is possible to think as well as enjoy oneself, who believes that humour and delicacy are not necessarily antagonistic, who loves the sight of real people and the sound of the human voice instead of animated photography and the monstrous sounds of the movie voice, London, as she ceases to be a citadel and becomes a world capital again, can charm you to a tear or cheat you of a sigh in the new golden age of its Theatre.

Most Unfair

We are told by Elmore Philpott in the Ottawa Citizen that Mrs. Clare Booth Luce has gone up and down the land declaring that "Mr. Roosevelt lied us into the war."

We thought that the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor and the simultaneous declaration of war by Germany on the United States got the U.S. into war. That is beside the present point.

The point is that Mrs. Luce's husband is top man in the fabulously rich, fabulously powerful, press and radio outfit headed by Time and Life.

In its issue dated Oct. 16 Time breaks a precedent which the American press has kept for 11 years. For the first time a great U.S. paper prints a picture which throws the spotlight on the president's physical affliction.

It was a fine and decent human thing for all the publications of the United States to join as voluntary partners in what one might call a conspiracy of courtesy. It was something that no law made anybody do—just the law of decency.—Kitchener Record.

Royalty Under Suspicion

It is one of the misfortunes of royalties that many people in non-monarchial countries often suspect them of political intrigues, and their simplest actions are mistaken or misconstrued.

A glaring instance occurred this week when ex-Queen Ena of Spain, who has been living in Switzerland since King Alfonso died in 1941, flew to England on hearing that her mother, Princess Beatrice, was seriously ill. Before leaving the airport the Swiss press were informed that she was flying to England "for family reasons."

But that did not go down with a noted writer in the Chicago Daily News. He made this the basis of an article concerning the political situation in Spain, and suggested that Ena was going to see the British Government about suppressing the incipient revolt against General Franco and ensuring that the throne would be granted to her son, Don Juan of Barcelona. "Competent observers" in Bern, said the writer, "say that Princess Beatrice's health is no worse than it has been for years."

The "competent observers" were wrong, and the Chicago correspondent jumped to the wrong conclusion. Twenty-four hours after his article appeared in print, Princess Beatrice was dead.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

No Profits, No Taxes

Socialists have nothing but contempt—mostly silent—for the person who asks them "where is the money to come from?" Those who do attempt to answer that question ask another: "Where did we get the money to finance the war?" The answer to that, of course, is that we got it out of taxation and victory loans. These were secured from the profits of industries and businesses, from large and small incomes, sales taxes, etc., etc.

But under a socialist state, such as proposed by the C.C.F., there aren't going to be any profits or large incomes. Production is to be "for use, not profit," and everybody is to work for the good of everybody else, without mercenary or selfish motive. If there are to be no profits to tax, and if, as is proposed by the C.C.F. handbook, taxation on incomes below $3,000 a year are to be reduced, where is the money to come from to maintain the greatly increased "public services," social security, public health, baby bonuses, and all the other schemes proposed for the good of the commonwealth? Civil servants, no matter how civil or publicly-minded they might be, could hardly be expected to work for nothing.

The question as to where the money is to come from to govern and administrate a socialized state is one that the C.C.F. should solve and make clear to the people of Canada before it asks them to accept its elaborate program of public services. With all of the productive industries and commercial institutions run on a no-profit basis, and the big-salaried men eliminated, the only source of revenue would be the so-called "common man,"—but then, his taxes are to be reduced.

It may be, of course, that the C.C.F. economists have some sort of "secret weapon" which they intend to spring on the "enemy" at the last moment.—The Tweed News.

A Bible Message

And the Lord said unto Moses, Hew thee two tables of stone like unto the first: and I will write upon these tables the words that were in the first tables, which thou brakest. And be ready in the morning, and come up in the morning unto mount Sinai, and present thyself there to me in the top of the mount.

And it came to pass, when Moses came down from mount Sinai with the two tables of testimony in Moses' hand, when he came down from the mount, that Moses wist not that the skin of his face shone while he talked with him. And when Aaron and all the children of Israel saw Moses, behold, the skin of his face shone. (Ex. 34: 1, 2, 29, 30.)

Ye are our epistle written in our hearts, known and read of all men: forasmuch as ye are manifestly declared to be the epistle of Christ ministered by us, written not with ink, but with the Spirit of the living God; not in tables of stone, but in fleshy tables of the heart....

But if the ministration of death, written and engraven in stones, was glorious, so that the children of Israel could not stedfastly behold the face of Moses for the glory of his countenance; which glory was to be done away: how shall not the ministration of the spirit be rather glorious?

Now the Lord is that Spirit: and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty. But we all, with open face beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image from glory to glory even as by the Spirit of the Lord. (II Cor. 3: 2, 3, 7, 8, 17, 18.)

VORACIOUS RATS

On the subject of rats, against which some of the War Agricultural Committees are making a special campaign, it is reckoned by one farmer that a hundred rats will eat the total grain produce of an acre, say, 18 cwt. of wheat. That is (according to a statistician in the County Gentleman) flour enough to feed nine persons for a year! A ratless Britain would be richer by several millions of pounds a year.—London Spectator.

BEAUTIFUL ASSISTANTS

It is impossible to think very deeply in the dentist's chair (the open mouth is, after all, the classic posture of imbecility), and this may be the reason we have never figured out how it comes about that dentists' assistants are invariably beautiful. Every dentist we have known has had a goddess carrying for him, a beauty of the calm, majestic type usually found only in bad statuary and large, gilt-framed oil paintings. Why dentistry attracts these creatures is a mystery, though fortunately not a pressing one. We just thought we'd mention it.—New Yorker.

MID-VICTORIAN JAILS

Humanitarians will approve the announcement that the Minister of Municipal Affairs will recommend to the Ontario Government the abolition of county jails and their replacement by a system of provincial jail farms. The existing type of jail is as obsolete as the stone pile and the dark hole. It belongs to the mid-Victorian era. A survey of Ontario would show that nearly all of the county jails are more than 50 years old, and that they are entirely inadequate so far as providing useful employment, instruction, workshops, libraries, and the like are concerned. —Toronto Globe and Mail.

Letter To The Editor

CONGRATULATIONS

Sir,—Congratulations on your editorials—especially two—the one on "The Seventh Cross" and on "Dr. Alexis Carrel". It is refreshing to hear a small plea for sanity.—Sincerely yours,

Market Grows For Electric HouseholdNeeds

TORONTO, Nov. 14.—(CP).— Dr. T. H. Hogg, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, said yesterday that Ontario urban housewives may buy 134,000 electric ranges, irons, toasters, water heaters, refrigerators and washers each year during the next six years at a retail cost of $10,000,000 annually.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Electrical Appliance Dealers' Association, Dr. Hogg said the Commission hopes to have 640,000 urban domestic electric consumers in 1950 compared with 570,000 in 1943. The Commission had an objective of 3,000 kilowatt-hours for each Ontario electric consumer by 1950 and "a large proportion of the anticipated load growth will result from the use of new electrical appliances," Ontario urban domestic consumers now use an average of 2,200 kilowatt-hours apiece each year.

Although a recession in electrical consumption is expected immediately after the war, Dr. Hogg said that "before long the Commission will be called on to develop new sources" of power to meet the province's needs.

Ontario's 70,000 Hydro-equipped farms—which use an average of nearly 2,000 kilowatt hours annually—could make greater profitable use of additional power than city-dwellers, he said.

Patriots Told To Stop Large Scale Activity

ROME, Nov. 14—(AP)—Gen. Alexander, pointing out that winter has brought an inevitable slowing down of the Italian campaign, ordered Italian Patriots north of the battle line to-day to "lie low" and cease large-scale activity.

In a message broadcast from Allied Headquarters, a spokesman for the Allied commander told the Patriots to keep their weapons oiled and take advantage of any "targets of opportunity" and continue general sabotage.

The spokesman said the Allies never had more than a "slight superiority in numbers" in the Italian campaign, adding that the terrain in which they are fighting is "the best possible for defence and the worst possible for attack."

"No less than were Hannibal's elephants, the tanks are hampered by the rain and mud," he said.

PRIEST IS THEIR CHAPLAIN—This priest of the Greek Orthodox Church is chaplain to a guerilla group. He managed to get around his "parish" on the tough little pony he rides here. Ken Hutchinson Home For 30 Days Served In France, Greece, Egypt

"It was like someone shaking my hand very warmly . . . while someone else kicked me in the pants," said Flight Lieutenant Kenneth Hutchinson, 359 Aylmer street, in summarising one of the most memorable out of 18 operational flights he made as an R.C.A.F. navigator attached to the Coastal Command of the Royal Air Force, while stationed in England from April until December, 1941. The young officer, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Hutchinson, is now home on a thirty-day leave, after completing a tour of operations overseas, which in the past three years, has led him more than half-way around the universe, in the service of his country.

The time was September, 1941! France had fallen, and the Nazis were already engrossed in their favorite pastime of collecting hostages from the civilian population, and executing them on the slightest provocation. In Nantes, France, the Germans were holding 50 Frenchmen, under sentence of death. Before they were killed however, a group of Allied airmen, including F./L. Hutchinson, delivered a "message of hope and ultimate deliverance for France", to the people of Nantes.

French Salute

On a quiet Sunday evening, a flight of Coastal Command Bristol Beauforts took off from an airfield in England, their destination Nantes, where they would raid factories and munitions works, as a mighty protest to the brutality of the Nazis. In the dusky twilight, the planes swooped low over this industrial city of 50,000, and loosed tons of high explosives and incendiary bombs on important military targets. German ground forces sent up a terrific barrage of flak, but from the French population, a response with a message of their own was seen!

Here and there, F./L. Hutchinson reports, a light would make an appearance in the blacked-out city. A huge "V" sign was formed on the ground with oil lamps. Low-flying Beauforts could make out black-out curtains being lifted, doors and windows opened, and inside lighting in houses switching on and off while the raiders were above.

"It was a novel experience," he said. "It was like a homecoming, with flak!" To this young flier though, it illustrated clearly that the French people would never accept the Germans. Leaflets dropped by the planes that night, urged Frenchmen to resist every Nazi! They were already doing it, by defying black-out laws, that the Germans hold punishable, by death.

Routine, that's the word for most of the flights made while in this theatre of war! Raids on St. Nazaire, Brest and Lorient . . . making base sometimes with not too much gas to spare, but always getting there! Never getting hit by flak, but coming mighty close to it now and again!

Into Egypt

To watchers on the home front, it was history in the making. But to the gallant young men who were in the skies at that time, it was routine!

F./L. Hutchinson left England December 20, 1941, for the Middle East. His plane took off from Gibraltar on the 22nd day of the same month, left the landing field at Malta behind, Christmas Eve, and landed in Cairo, Christmas morning, 1941, a distance of more than 1,000 miles.

After a brief leave in the Egyptian metropolis, he joined his squadron near Alexandria. Detachments were sent from here to Sidi Barrani and other points from where operations were made. At this time, the German and Italian armies had advanced across the desert to Tobruk, and the task of the Coastal Command at the time, was to destroy Rommel's lifelines to this battlefront, from Crete and Greece, across the Mediterranean to Tobruk, and Bengasi. Depreciation Doubled On Investments

OTTAWA, Nov. 14.—(CP).—Finance Minister Ilsley announced Monday that a double depreciation provision on new capital investments to encourage reconstruction projects became effective on Nov. 10 and will continue until Dec. 31, 1946 or until two years after the cessation of hostilities with Germany, which ever is the earlier.

The taxation concession was promised in this year's budget.

A condition of obtaining the double depreciation benefits is that a certificate must be issued by the Reconstruction Minister Howe certifying that, having regard to war or reconstruction needs, it is desirable in his opinion that the project be allowed double depreciation.

Mr. Ilsley said the measure was being implemented immediately to assist certain projects which would result in increased war production and which also would later have a post-war use and contribute to maintaining employment when war production falls off.

To Help Production.

Mr. Ilsley said the measure was being implemented immediately to assist certain projects which would result in increased war production and which also would later have a post-war use and contribute to maintaining employment when war production falls off.

Mr. Ilsley said early steps should be taken to meet the problem of conversion to peacetime production before the actual cessation of hostilities in Europe. Plans must be made and much preparatory work done, if industry was to be ready to proceed with reconversion or expansion projects immediately on cessation of active hostilities in Europe.

There were instances "where producers should be allowed to prepare in advance to meet the basic demands which will arise when industry generally is able to undertake a complete change-over to full peacetime operations," he said.

"For example, there will undoubtedly be a very heavy demand for various kinds of building materials when peacetime construction gets under way.

"Unless the suppliers of certain building materials are allowed to prepare now for this situation unfortunate delays are bound to arise later on. The conversion program would be seriously hampered if industry generally were held up through lack of capital facilities on the part of certain basic industries.

Careful Planning.

"The announcement of the coming into force of the double depreciation section with the requirement of a certificate from the Minister of Reconstruction recognizes the obvious need for carefully synchronizing certain activities in our economy if transition from war to peace is to be effected smoothly."

The Order-in-Council proclaiming the effective period makes provision for details connected with the administration of the measure.

It provides that the double depreciation in respect of those assets which qualify will continue annually until 80 per cent of the assets in question have been written off.

Thus, if normal depreciation of an asset is at the rate of 10 per cent per year, the double depreciation will be allowed to continue for four years.

Certain kinds of new investment are excluded, at least for the present, from the benefits of double depreciation. Among these are the buildings used for commercial or financial purposes, including stores, hotels, tourist accommodation, and office buildings; dwelling-houses, including apartment houses; automobiles, trucks, buses and railway rolling stock.

Suggests Diet

LONDON, Nov. 14 (CP) — Dr. George De Swiet, well-known London physician, suggested yesterday to the Ministry of Health that husbands-to-be should feed on cod-liver oil and orange juice before they get married and start raising families. He said Britain could have better babies if men began to attend paternal welfare centres and went on a special diet three months before they married, BEAN SOUP IS ON THE MENU—Italian civilians, most of them youngsters, line up for chow at a Fifth Army station near Monghidoro. It seems that beans soup is on the menu and it is being dished out in all kinds of vessels from discarded army mess tins to wash basins.

Obituaries

MRS. JOSEPH ARMSTRONG.

BAILIEBORO, Nov 14 — (ENS). —The funeral of Martha Caroline Fair, who died on Friday in her 83rd year, widow of Joseph Armstrong, was held on Sunday at 3 p.m. from the home of her grandson, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Armstrong, Jr., on the homestead. Archdeacon Simpson of Blackstock conducted the service.

Mrs. Armstrong had spent her entire lifetime in the community, and was a member of Christ Church. The many floral tributes showed the esteem in which she was held by friends and neighbors.

Surviving are one son Reginald of Peterborough, one daughter Mrs. Reginald Perrin, two brothers Johnston Fair and George Fair, both of Millbrook, and grandchildren, Joseph Armstrong, Max and Herbert Perrin, Mrs. William Howson, and Mrs. Lloyd Atchison. Her husband predeceased her 1½ years ago.

Pall-bearers were William McCamus, Robert McCamus, Leonard McNeil, Gerald Armstrong, Howard Fair, and James Fair. Interment was made in St. Paul's Cemetery.

MRS. JOHN HENDREN.

TRENT RIVER, Nov. 14 — (ENS) —The funeral of the late Mrs. John Hendren was held on Sunday afternoon, the service being conducted by Rev. J. W. Wilkinson of Trent River United Church. Interment was made in Norwood Cemetery.

Eliza Jane Ruttan, widow of William Malcolm, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas J. Brown in Trent River, in her 83rd year, after a brief illness. Mrs. Hendren was the youngest of a family of ten children born to Christopher and Phoebe Ruttan. She had spent the greater part of her life in Norwood, and was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Left to mourn her loss are two daughters, Mrs. Thomas J. Brown of Trent River and Mrs. James R. Cousins of Detroit, a half-brother John R. Ruttan of Trent River, eleven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Mrs. Hendren was predeceased by a son Karn who died in France in World War I. and by her second husband John Hendren, ten years ago.

Pallbearers were her five grandsons, Malcolm, Alexander, George, James and Jack Brown, and her nephew Francis Ruttan.

HOLIDAYS WITH PAY

LONDON — (CP). — Fifteen million of the 18,500,000 people now working in Britain receive holidays with pay, a Ministry of Labor handbook reveals.

British Soldiers Wives Voice Appeal

LONDON, Nov. 14—(CP)—Wives of British soldiers learned yesterday that nothing could be done to ensure home leaves for their husbands after three years' service.

More than 1,000 wives, in a petition to Prime Minister Churchill, had complained that four or five years of separation greatly diminished their chances of having children and limited the size of families.

Sir James Grigg, war secretary, replied that, because of a shortage of trained reserves, any drastic shortening of overseas service periods would lengthen the war rather than bring the men home sooner.

The War Office has, however, issued a general guide to commanders overseas providing for compassionate leaves in special instances

COMET-LIKE BOMBS HIT BRITAIN—For the past several weeks, Prime Minister Churchill has just told the House of Commons, comet-like V-2 rocket bombs have been striking in "widely scattered points" in England. The new weapon is said to pierce the stratosphere about 70 miles high and hit the earth at 1,000 m.p.h., considerably faster than sound travels. Churchill disclosed that some launching bases had been captured when Walcheren Island, off the coast of Holland, was overrun recently. A dispatch in a London paper stated that one base from which the bombs were fired was believed to be at Utrecht, 20 miles north of the present fighting line in the Netherlands, approximately 200 miles from London.

The Beginnings of our Nation

Pictured is the Ottawa River at Bytown, as W. H. Bartlett saw it for one of his famous 1840 engravings, and now in the John Ross Robertson collection, Toronto Public Libraries.

THIS was Bytown in 1840, fourteen years before it became the city of Ottawa, and seventeen years before it was chosen Capital of the Canadas by Queen Victoria. In 1867, when the Dominion from sea to sea was born, Ottawa became the heart and brain of a new young giant amongst nations.

If Bartlett could return in 1944 to do an etching of the present-day scene, what wonders a century would have performed for his amazed eyes! All the greatness of the Twentieth Century would sweep upon his eager pen and he would depict for us a new Canada, a Canada Unlimited, a Canada of which the men and women in Bytown a hundred years ago must have dreamed, as they broke for us the trails of nationhood.

Those who live in the shadows of our Parliament today have a vision, too, a vision that encompasses a century hence, when a Canada Unlimited shall be a leader in world trade and an influence for good amongst the free congregation of world nations living forever in peace and amity one with the other . . . a Canada Unlimited where Science and Art and Brotherhood have combined to make from sea to sea a shining light of hope to dim even the brave faith in our Future we now possess.

Today, because we love our land and want it untarnished for our children and our children's children, we fight a total war on the battlefronts of the world and at home. For many of us, our share in this total War and in the Peace lies in our buying and holding more and more Victory Bonds, more and more War Savings Certificates and Stamps. They are our open sesame to the future of a Canada Unlimited.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

All Peterborough hockey players and citizens interested in hockey are reminded that the annual meeting of the Peterborough Hockey Club will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Duffus board room and that in addition to the election of officers the decidely important question of whether this city is to return to the hockey wars after a year's absence will be discussed. The Petes remained out of the game last season and it was a dreary winter for the players and fans. Now some of the players and members of the executive feel that something should be done about it and tomorrow night's meeting will discuss the whole situation. As this column mentioned the other day there is a proposition that the Petes should enter the intermediate playdowns if the O.H.A. will grant the team a bye in the preliminary grouping. We have an idea that the governing body will say yes to that proposal without any hesitation for the return of this city to hockey would undoubtedly be welcome news in O.H.A. circles. So that the main issue will be whether or not entrance into the playdowns with the games having to be staged in Lindsay and possibly later in Oshawa is considered feasible. Tomorrow night's meet should decide what the players think about the idea.

* * * * * *

Referee Gordie Young who officiated in Saturday's interscholastic game throws some light on that last minute Oshawa forward pass play about which there was some argument. The visitors tried a forward, it was touched by one of the Collegiate players and caught by an Oshawa man before reaching the ground. The player making the catch had originally been ineligible as a receiver. The argument was whether or not when the ball had been touched by the defending side all members of the attacking team had not become eligible receivers. Referee Young explains that the officials ruled that the pass had not passed the line of scrimmage when it was touched by a P.C.V.S. player and therefore the play did not come within the category of a completed forward pass. On that basis, of course the ruling was perfectly sound because the rules provide that ineligible receivers become eligible on the ball being touched by an opponent only when the touching has taken place after the pass has passed the line of scrimmage. Our own impression was that this particular toss had crossed the scrimmage line before being touched but we are quite willing to accept the official ruling that it had not and in that case the officials were right in their decision, despite Coach Doug Waugh's opinion to the contrary.

Gene Bovin Gone

The death in action overseas of Gene Bovin, classy Oshawa lacrosse player who shone on the attack for the Peterborough lacrosse club after the box-la game was introduced here will be deeply regretted by former Peterborough players and by the fans who recall the flashing exploits of "Shine" as he swept in on the nets with one of his whirling attacks for a bullet shot. Bovin was at his best the year he played for the Petes when they swept through all opposition until they hit the Haldimand Rifles. In the games at Brock Street Rink that season the speedy French-Canadian from Oshawa travelled at top speed and he was up among the top scorers all through the campaign. He was fast, tricky and packed a rifle shot that made him one of the most feared attackers in the game. Goalies looked for trouble every time he got the ball and they usually got what they were expecting for Bovin was hard to stop when he set sail for the nets. Like many other Canadian athletes who elected to play the bigger game overseas this gallant sport figure has made the supreme sacrifice fighting for his native land and his death will bring sorrow to many Peterborough folk who had learned to admire the Oshawa star.

* * * * * *

Si Dell, former Oshawa baseball umpire whose boy Bill Dell played a lot of rugby on the backfield of the Oshawa Collegiate this season was on hand for the Oshawa Collegiate-P.C.V.S. clash Saturday and between intervals of cheering the Motor City team he managed to unload an idea that he has had in mind for some time. Si during the past summer took a big hand in reviving baseball in Oshawa and among one of his promotion stunts during the season was to get the old boys of baseball out for a game that proved a real attraction. Now he suggests that the idea be enlarged and that early next summer a game should be arranged between the Oshawa former stars and the Peterborough old guard. The Oshawa enthusiast says the game should be confined to players who were Central Leaguers between 1918 and 1925-26 and in this connection he pointed out that Peterborough could trot out the old battery of Heekman and Swanston and would have such players as Ray Rose, Cecil Shaughnessy, Jimmy Hall, Fred Ash, Hap Harrison, Bob Ross and others available for a clash with Ty Tyson and company. It is a suggestion that the old guard here might think over during the winter months with a view toward possible action.

* * * * * *

George Campbell in the Oshawa Times Gazette has the following dope on newcomers to the ranks of the Generals this season: "Some of these newcomers who were out for this first opportunity to get the feel of ice are well-known to Oshawa junior hockey fans and will doubtless be more familiar to them as soon as they come on the ice. The first of those who turned out for the preliminary practice besides those already mentioned included: Ron Mathews, defenceman and a rugged looking fellow, Sam McNabney, speedy looking forward, both of whom were with Marlboro juniors last year so no newcomers to the Oshawa hockey sphere; Val Delory, with Victory Aircraft in Toronto last year; Bruce Gallagher a centre pivot man and Sid Smith a forward, both of whom were with De La Salle championship junior "B" team last year; Barry Sullivan, well-known Stratford and Galt junior hockey star forward; Elwood Coombs of Lindsay and Jack Thaler of Walkerton both playing as forwards; Tommy Love of Dauphin, Manitoba, brother of Bob Love of General fame last year; Ray Spencer of Vermillion, Alberta a forward; Elliott, a local lad who was outstanding in juvenile ranks last who starred with the Whitby hockey team last year; Wally Samanski, Whitby product who showed up very well there last year and a very likely looking prospect; and also three "darkhorses" who could not be identified from the rail and upon whom the management would not comment."

* * * * * *

The suggestion in this column the other night that the city should have a juvenile league this winter to foster hockey among the 'teen age boys of above public school age has been favorably received in many quarters. Naturally the boys of the city are all for it and Parks Foreman A. Butcher is ready to co-operate in any way possible. Already he has planned hockey cushions at Riverside and King Edward Parks and the new rink to be established at Brock and Aylmer streets may also be used for hockey. But if there is to be a juvenile league it should be swung into reality soon in order that Mr. Butcher may be able to plan for the required facilities now. Obviously the work of preparing the rinks must be done before winter sets in. Accommodation has to be found for the Public School League and possibly for a Church League and it will be necessary to do the planning early. If the service clubs are to interest themselves in sponsoring juvenile clubs they should get busy without delay.

Angott Quits Second Time Says It's Final

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 14 — (AP) — Sammy Angott, former world's lightweight boxing champion, has announced his second retirement—but this time, says the ring-wise little veteran, "I'm going to make it stick."

Angott renounced his title two years ago, then staged a sensational comeback and regained the crown by whipping Luther (Slugger) White in Hollywood in October, 1943. He lost the championship to Juan Zurita in a Hollywood bout last February.

A broken right hand which he suffered in his first bout with Bob Montgomery in 1941 led to both Angott's retirements. The injured member never healed properly, despite a bone-grafting operation and a six-month rest.

Announcing his decision from his home here last night, Angott said:

"I made up my mind after the McDaniels fight (the 10-rounder he lost to Middleweight Jimmy McDaniels in New York Friday night) that if my hand was not any better I would retire and that's what I'm going to do.

"I'm going to make it stick this time. I'll never fight again and I've notified Charley Jones (his Louisville, Ky., manager) to that effect."

Sammy, who started as an amateur in 1932 and went pro three years later, will be 30 in January. He is married, has two children and owns his own home.

"The fight game has been very good to me," says Sammy. "I have practically everything a person could dream of. My family, my health, money in the bank and some real estate. I see no reason to hurt myself permanently by continuing."

Australian Sets Hitchhike Record

CALGARY, Nov. 14— (CP). — There is a story going around Calgary of an Australian airman, whose name was not revealed, telling how he hitch-hiked to Australia and back to Canada on his two weeks' furlough, and arrived back at his station at Vulcan, Alta., wtih five hours to spare.

After hitch-hiking to Lethbridge, the story says, he went to the airport and mentioned to United States Ferry Command pilots he was heading for the United States and asked for suggestions.

They did better than suggest—they flew him to San Diego and passed him along to fellow-fliers with instructions to show him a good time.

The airman passed from one group of ferry fliers to another, landed in Australia, spent three days with his family, and United States airmen flew him back to North America.

The distance he travelled equalled a trip around the world—and he did it in less than two weeks.

Scare Brings Death

SANTIAGO, Nov. 14 —(AP)—At least one death from a heart attack and injuries to several persons were attributed today to the panic caused by Chile's radio "Invasion From Mars" Sunday night, a broadcast which upset this country just as the radio show on the same subject produced by Orson Welles did the United States in October, 1938.

Cold Winter

FORT ERIE, Nov. 14 — (CP). — Jules Kittner of Erie Beach thinks we're in for a cold winter. His reason? Last year there were two muskrat houses in "Whisky Hollow" Bay of Lake Erie, all of them low-built, indicating a mild winter. This year there are six, built unusually high, and this, Kittner says, indicates a cold winter.

John Katan To Meet The Bearded Rasputin

Dr. Len Hall who meets Frank Sexton in the main bout of the Tunney wrestling show at the Brock St. Arena tonight says the Columbus smoothie doesn't need to look for anything soft. "I have a few new ones to pull out of the barrel," says the Doc. Sexton does not seem to be worried. "He's just another of those alley fighters, tought but not smart," was his view of the bout.

John Katan has been signed to meet Ivan Rasputin on tonight's card. Katan will substitute for Jean Pusie, who is unable to appear on account of an injury. The appearance of Katan with Rasputin gives the semi-final a real main bout touch, as both Rasputin and Katan are headliners. The signing of Katan for tonight's go follows Frank Tunney's policy of sending a better man when a substition is neecessary.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Candidates for the 1944 Niagara Falls entry in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior "B" series were encouraged yesterday with the knowledge they would have the expert coaching services of George Massecar, former New York American forward, for the season. Massecar, coach of Falls junior clubs in recent years, had announced his retirement but was prevailed upon by club officials to remain at the helm.

A Calgary report says that Mervyn (Red) Dutton, chairman of directors of the National Hockey League, has returned to active hockey as assistant to Flt. Lt. Tiny Thompson, former Boston Bruins netminder now coaching the R.C.A.F. Mustangs in the Alberta Senior Services Hockey League. Dutton made his first appearance with the club during a workout yesterday.

Jack Doyle, Eire's singing boxer, lost another "fight" at Dublin yesterday when he was successfully sued for £750 (about $3,375)—alleged advance payment for a Tommy Farr-Doyle bout which did not take place. Winner of the fight was John Patrick Muldoon, boxing promoter. Doyle's defence was that because he was adjudged a bankrupt before an English court Muldoon could not take further proceedings other than in bankruptcy court.

Capt. Joseph Gould, 48-year-old former boxing manager, was sentenced to three years at hard labor, fined $12,000 and dismissed from the United States army yesterday following his conviction at New York by a general court martial of conspiracy to accept bribes for the award of army contracts. Gould, charged with accepting more than $1,600 in connection with the awarding of contracts worth $1,000,000 to the Cornwall Shipbuilding Company, Inc., also was convicted of seeking to have Stephen Patrick (Tex) Sullivan, a boxing associate, testify falsely in his behalf before the court martial.

The man who once managed Ex-heavyweight Champion James J. Braddock was found guilty of four specifications in the charge of violating the 96th article of war.

Freshmen— although they have proved physically and mentally mature—should be banned from college football competition after the war "for the good of the fame," Coach Paul Brown of Great Lakes told the Chicago Quarterback Club yesterday. Brown said freshmen were physically capable of varsity play, but believed the practice eventually would produce many wandering athletes who would prove thier football ability ahead of the classroom talents.

Louis Gets Fat.

Joe Louis, world champion heavyweight and army sergeant on furlough, cuffed Jimmy Bell, Washington, 180, around last night in a three-round boxing exhibition at the U.S. Capital. Weighing 214 pounds, Louis was slow and markedly fat.

Billy Arnold, Philadelphia middleweight, added Bob Wade of Newark, N.J., to his long list of knockout victims by gaining a technical knockout in the second round at New York last night. It was the 28th kayo victory in 30 fights for the 18-year-old negro.

Fernando (The Mighty) Menichelli, Argentine heavyweight, showed a good overhand right and a stance like that of Chile's Arturo Godoy in outpointing Laurient Bouchard of Montreal last night in his United States debut at Newark. Menichelli appeared rusty at the start of the bout, his first ring appearance in a year, but swept through the last half of the 10-round bout to erase the Canadian's early lead. He scored one knockdown, in the last round.

RENO, Nev., Nov. 14 (AP)—Judge William McKnight of Washoe County Court ruled yesterday that he would take until 3 p.m. Monday, November 20 to read the numerous depositions in wealthy Doris Duke Cromwell's legal action to outlaw a New Jersey court ruling that her Nevada divorce was void.

Detroit Brings 4 Rookies Into Action

DETROIT, Nov. 14 — Folks who visit Maple Leaf Gardens on Wednesday night to watch Toronto's first home game against Detroit will see four new faces in the Red Wing squad so far as their National Hockey League connection is concerned.

Just in case Toronto patrons wish to be introduced, Steve Wochy hails from Fort William, Laurence Lorrain Thibeault, Gatineau Pointe, Quebec; Jerome McAtee, Stratford; Robert Blake Theodore Lindsay, Kirkland Lake, are the new Wings and their home towns.

Thibeault, McAtee, and Lindsay are left wingers and Wochy a centre. Thibeault will not participate if Carl Liscombe is in shape after a groin injury. Detroit has another recruit, Defenceman Hyman Buller from Saskatoon via Indianapolis, but Buller is a remote starter unless Manager Jack Adams decides to make a change in that department.

Watch for Wochy.

Wochy, who scored once for Detroit as the Wings defeated Leafs here Sunday night, 4-2, a clever stick handler, played at St. Catharines in 1942-43, turning professional this season after a spell in the Canadian Army. Thibeault came from Buffalo in exchange for Kenneth Kilrea. McAtee was with St. Kitt's Seniors last winter.

Lindsay, as most Toronto hockey addicts know, was with St. Michael's College Juniors a year ago and when they were eliminated, was selected to join Oshawa Generals for the Allan Cup playoffs. He connected for Detroit's fourth and decisive goal against the Leafs.

The recruits still have something to learn before local authoritative observers go into a dither over their performances. Wochy and Lindsay have yet to back-check consistently and are gradually leraning to expect it from National League opponents. Hard working Thibeault is a non-scorer. McAtee lacks speed. Of the lot, Buller leans closest to being a major leaguer, and may replace veteran Harold Jackson.

Old-timers on the roster include the perennial Modere Bruneteau and Syd Howe.

Don Grosso, Joe Carveth, Murray Armstrong, Conrad Dion, Hubert George Quackenbush, William (Flash) Hollett, are the others Toronto knows from a season back.

In spite of the victory over Leafs recent defeats by Montreal (twice) and New York, while not conclusive, tend to show the Wings are not as sharp as the pre-season grindstone indicated.

A block of such stamps, owned by the estate of the late Col. E. H. R. Green, son of Hettie Green, was sold for that sum at public auction yesterday.

FALA'S FIANCEE AND HER OWNER—The secret it out, now that the election is out of the way and Fala is assured of another four years in the White House. The nation's most famous Scottie is to have a bride and the lucky dog is shown here with her young mistress, Betsy Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Porter of Washington. The name of the bride-to-be is "Rubev" and she is no run of the mill Scottie. She was sent to Betsy by Gen. Eisenhower, under whose bed she was born in Algiers. Her mother is "Telek," the Scottie given to Gen. Eisenhower by Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK —By J. R. Scott

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SYD THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 14 — (CP). — If you want no end of confusion in the football world, just adopt the United States code of rules and then sit back and watch the boys trying to unravel them, suggests Herb (Winnipeg Tribune) Manning. It's one thing to say follow such and such rules, but you have to have someone with a little experience playing under that code to teach others the game....However, they got by fairly well in Montreal, where American rules were tried successfully in school competition. J. G. Lang, athletic director of Protestant schools, told Manning his Canadian coaches got all they knew of the American game "out of books." It's really marvellous what you can get out of books, but some practical experience doesn't hurt either, contends the Winnipeg writer.

Northern uprising?

Ralph Adams of the North Bay Daily Nugget has sounded a call to junior hockeyl clubs in Northern Ontario and other regions that are consistently raided by the larger junior squads like Oshawa, and those in other large, and well-greenbacked centres, to join forces to protect their hockey property....Latest trouble came when Oshawa outbid Timmins for the services of a promising young player. It seems that all Timmins could offer the youth was a good job, guaranteeing him a "good living,' so Oshawa got him.

Incidentally:

Guelph has popped up with another father-son soccer combination, this time Father Billy Kerr who started socking the soccer ball in 1919, and son Jack. They play on the same team as the Bill Dunlops, senior and junior....This is beginning to look like another family compact....Coach Frank Graham has his Frood Open Pit squad out again this winter. The ironmen were eliminated by Quebec Aces in the Eastern finals last year.....Harry (Calgary Albertan) Scott selects Sweeney Schriner as the best modern hockeyist developed in Calgary. Of the older players, it's a toss-up between Tiny Thompson and Dutch Gainor, star goalie and forward, respectively, with the old Boston Bruins......Henry Martell, classy Western golfer, has held the Edmonton City amateur title ever since 1935. His opponents are beginning to speak darkly of "dictatorship."

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—(AP)—After last Saturday's game, Notre Dame has slipped way back in the football ratings but you can't deny that the Irish have courage . . . Ed McKeever proved it by showing up for both the football writers and sports broadcasters meetings yesterday.

Quote, Unquote

Jimmy Johnston (announcing that he has taken over Lou Nova's contract): "Now Lou intends to start chasing Joe Louis until he catches up with him. He may be sorry, but he'll be well paid."

End to End

The normally mild Don Hutson became somewhat annoyed when a Cleveland player guarded him rather roughly last Sunday and gave him a good shove while he was going after one pass. . . . The Ram promptly offered to clip Hutson on the chin the next time that happened . . . Came another Green Bay pass and Don headed directly for the defender, shouting "get that clip ready, here I come." . . . Then he neatly sidestepped as his rival got set to swing, went on to the end zone and caught a touchdown pass.

Ivy Lea Wins 3 Heats At Dufferin

TORONTO, Nov. 14—Ivy Lee, bay trotting mare, racing against a field of pacers, showed the wigglers at Dufferin yesterday how it should be done when it come to winning races. It has been generally known she was a better than average trotter, but very few figured she was the calibre to head a flock of hoppled racers to the wire at 4½ furlongs, and then come back to win at a mile and a mile and sixteenth. In all three heats she came from behind to win like a good horse.

Chief Siskiyou was another steed that upset the dope bucket when he lasted long enough to win the second heat of the first race after finishing sixth in the initial. Peterene, a good-going pacer who won last week, proved beyond a shadow of a doubt he is one of the gamest sidewheelers racing around here for some time, in his class. He dropped the first heat going the short distance, but in the mile and mile and sixteenth he covered a lot of ground and it wasn't all smooth going for him to win. Particularly in the last heat did he go a long way to win in a bristling drive.

8 Teams Enter Junior A In Ontario

TORONTO, Nov. 14. — (CP).—Secretary W. A. Hewitt of the Ontario Hockey Association to-day issued a 99-game schedule for the eight-team Junior A series and 28-game schedule for the three-team Senior group in which a fourth team entered by the Canadian Army plays exhibition games.

The teams entered in the Junior A series are Oshawa, St. Michael's College, Marlboros and Young Rangers from Toronto; Hamilton, Galt, Port Colborne and St. Catharines. The schedule opens Saturday, Nov. 18, with Hamilton playing at Galt, Young Rangers at Oshawa and St. Michael's playing Marlboros in an afternoon game in Toronto. Five of the games are four-point affairs.

The Junior schedule ends Feb. 24 and play-offs start the week of Feb. 26.

The three teams entered in the Senior series are Hamilton Majors, St. Catharines and Toronto Staffords with Toronto Army playing exhibition games which are included in the schedule. The Army club is unable to advance beyond the O. H.A. series because of service restrictions on participation in sport.

The schedule opens in Toronto Monday, Nov. 20, with St. Catharines playing Staffords. Friday, Nov. 24, Staffords play Majors in Hamilton and the Army plays the first of its games in St. Catharines. The schedule closes Feb. 23.

Schriner, Bodnar Setting Pace

MONTREAL, Nov. 14.—(CP). — Sweeney Schriner and Gus Bodnar of Toronto Maple Leafs continue to set the pace in the National Hockey League scoring statistics released to-day, with line-mate Lorne Carr right behind in a third-place tie with Detroit's Syd Howe.

Schriner and Bodnar have amassed 15 points each in seven games so far, while Carr and Howe are tied with 13 each. Toe Blake of Montreal Canadiens and Bill Cowley of Boston Bruins are locked in another tie for the next spot with 11 points each, one more than Detroit's Mud Bruneteau.

Schriner is the top goal-getter in the league to date with nine. Carr, Blake and Jud McAtee of Detroit are bunched with six each, while Bruneteau, Harvey Fraser of Chicago and Maurice Richard of Canadiens are locked with five each. Bodnar's 11 assists give him the edge in that department with two more than Howe. In a three-way tie with seven each are Carr, Cowley and Elmer Lach of Canadiens.

Mayor Spoils It

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (AP).—Wives of sanitation department employees in the borough of Queen's wrote to Mayor F. H. LaGuardia to check on their husbands' stories of working overtime. In his weekly radio talk, the Mayor said: "I am sorry to tell you this but I sent for the time sheets and find that your husbands are not working overtime. Therefore, you had better call for them when their day is up."

WANTS MORE HOCKEY AND NO FISTICUFF FROM PHIL—Lester Patrick, manager of the New York Rangers, lifts an admonishing finger in the face of Phil "Fireball" Watson, star forward of the New York hockey team. Phil's fist is doubled, as it generally is, during a hockey match as many opposing players have found out. However Patrick wants more hockey and less fighting from his firebrand.

National League Hockey Crowds Larger Than In 1943

(By The Canadian Press)

The turnstiles are clicking at their merriest pace in years around the National Hockey League's six-team circuit this season. Attendance at the first 18 games in five cities—Boston Bruins don't make their first home-ice appearance until to-night—is 36,420 greater than for the first 18 contests in the same cities a year ago.

The attendance at the 18 games this year totals 235,864, an average of 13,104 a game. The figures for last year were 199,444, for a per game average of 11,080.

Chicago, whose Black Hawks have won only one game in five starts, has enjoyed the greatest attendance boom. The first four home games there drew 69,912 fans, 20,529 more than the 42,383 who watched the first four games last fall.

Detroit is the only city in an attendance slump. The Red Wings, who have won three and lost three games and are third in the league standings, have drawn 46,007 fans, a drop of 1,880 from last season's 47,887.

In Toronto at three games attendance has totalled 41,510 compared with 33,736 a year ago, at New York in three games it is 44,311 compared with 36,681 and at Montreal in four games it is 41,124 compared with 38,757.

Millbrook Girls Parade Armistice Day

MILLBROOK, Nov. 14 — (ENS) — The Millbrook Troop of Girl Guides, under its Captain, Honor Gibson, and the local Cadet Corps, under Cadet Captain, Donald Edmunds, and Cadet Instructor, Percy Hamilton, paraded to the Cenotaph on Saturday morning for the annual Remembrance Day Service, in charge of Reeve H. D. Bigelow.

Following the welcome to those present, and the explanation of why it is important to continue the memorial service each year, Rev. A. L. Sisco, B.D., gave the four-minute address. The necessity for the spirit of sacrifice was specially stressed, exemplified in self-denial and suffering, by the men of the armed services who have made an all-out surrender in order to perpetuate the things that are worthwhile in our civilization.

The Last Post and the two minutes' silence, with prayer by Rev. Walter Patterson, was followed by the placing of the wreath on the Cenotaph by Mrs. J. Sloan, who lost her eldest son in the last World War, and was representative of the mothers who have suffered a similar loss in the present struggle. Lieutenant-Colonel E. H. Bounsall, of the local armouries' staff, escorted Mrs. Sloan to the monument.

A guest of honor on the platform was FO. Ross Lynn, R.C.A.F., who has completed his thirty-seven operational flights over Germany, and is home on furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lunn, King street west. Members of the municipal council, and local military officials were also with the Reeve on the platform while the service was in progress.

Hospital Ship Reaches Canada

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX, Nov. 14 — (CP) — Survivors of land fighting in France and Italy and the air war over Europe, hundreds of wounded Canadian servicemen returned to the Dominion Monday aboard the British Hospital ship Aba.

Their experiences of the battlefields temporarily thrust aside, the disabled fighters showed keenest interest, as they came home, in Canada's army manpower crisis. Newsmen going aboard the ship were bombarded with questions on the developments leading up to Defence Minister Ralston's resignation and about Gen. McNaughton's stand on the overseas conscription issue.

Men of the army, most of them veterans of France, made up the bulk of the arrivals, with a small group of R.C.A.F. personnel rounding out the contingent. Besides the wounded men from the fronts, there were a number of servicemen invalided back after suffering injuries or illness in England, or with their categories lowered for other reasons.

HORSEPOWER GETS LIFT FROM MANPOWER—With practically unlimited manpower and very little mechanical horsepower, something like this could happen only in China. An army jeep destined for Chinese Lieut.-Gen. Soong Hsi-Lien, commander of the 11th Chinese Army group, is carried in parts for 15 miles over mountain trails to the Burma Road, where it is reassembled. At Top, parts of the jeep are shown in transit. Below, Gen. Soong proudly shows off his new chariot.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

Looking Ahead

At the local Association meeting last week a committee was suggested to look ahead at the camp grounds, etc. The Scouters' Club were asked to appoint three members to act on the committee. This is indeed a good idea as it leads to a majority of active Scouters, who are more in touch with the absolute needs, to the real work of Scouting. We can really look ahead to some real action in the coming year. If you have any suggestions I would advise you to attend the next Scouters' Club meeting and voice your opinion there.

At All Saints!

We have received word from very good authority that the Pack at All Saints is growing in such proportions that it is necessary to split it into two sections. Good going. Here is their report for this week. Walter Downes, who during the evening's program was promoted to the rank of Senior Sixer, led the Pack in the opening Grand Howl. Akela and Baloo took inspection followed by the game of "Crows and Cranes". The pennant for high points during October went to the Black Six. There was a "going up" ceremony in which Lonnie Maudsley and Bill Campbell left the Cub Trail and stepped out on to the Scout Trail. We wish them both Good Hunting. At the close of Red Flower Spencer Hope took the lead in the Grand Howl.

St. Luke's

The Pack:—There was a full Pack around the Council Rock as Jack Bertram sounded the Grand Howl but the Cubs were not so happy, as the Old Wolf "Akela" started to look over their fur, fangs and paws. It was a happy occasion for Bob Allen, for he was invested into the Pack as a Tenderpad. Jack's mother was present to see her son accepted into the life of the jungle. Darrell Lipsett was real proud to receive the Pack neckerchief. Some promotions were awarded with Norman Thomas being made Sixer of the Brown Six, Peter Rose, Seconder of the Blue Six and Malcolm Sadler, Seconder of the White Six, all boys receiving their stripes of office. Service Stars were presented to Malcolm Sadler, Billy Evans and Jack King all of whom have served two years with the Pack.

Tests passed were Book balancing, Norman Thomas, Darrell Lipsett. Time, Doug Baptie. Knots, Darrell Lipsett. Message, Jack King. Your Step and The Store were played during the evening. Another chapter of Peter the Cub was heard at Red Flower with the evening ceremonies being brought to a close with Malcolm Sadler leading in the Grand Howl.

At. St. John's.

The Pack, thirty boys attended the meeting on Friday and for the second week an investiture ceremony was held. It was occassion of the entry of Michael Craig into the Jungle Life. Michael made his Cub promise before Akela and the Pack as the flickering candles cast loud shadows over the Jungle Trail Mrs. Craig was present to witness the ceremony and also helped Baloo to carry out the inspection that followed. Matchstick drawing was carried out with many peculiar objects making shape on the paper. The ball circle game was played with points being awarded to the Sixes with most men on their feet when the game ended. At Red Flower two songs were sung and notices given out about the coming parents banquet. The boys also sang National Anthem token in Remembrance of those who were absent on duty in the Armed Forces. Tests passed: Trevor Hawkins, Tenderpad Clarence James, Cleanliness. Doug. Laird, Brown, Ball Throwing. David Bacon, National Anthem. John Biddle, Physical Exercise.

The Troop. We were glad to see that a new assistant was on hand to help Scouter Ford in the coming months and we hope that his stay with us will be long and a happy one. The new leader, Verne Janeway starting scouting in the St. Luke's Troop many years ago and we feel sure that his renewed interest will be a great help to St. John's. Good Scouting Verne.

Parent's Banquet.

The 1st Peterborough St. John's Scout Group are holding a Parents and Sons Banquet in the St. John's Parish Hall on the evening of Friday November 24th at 6.45 p.m. We would weclome all those who would like to attend. Tickets can be obtained from any of the troop or pack or get in touch with Scouter Ford, phone or Shipper Groomsbridge, phone 3067. There will be no long speeches. Come and get together with us. Phone in your reservation.

Chins Up Tea.

The regular semi-monthly Chins Up Tea of the St. John's Mothers Auxiliary will be held in the home of Mrs. Crocker, 35 Conger street on the afternoon of Wednesday, Nov. 15th of this week. All scouts and cub mothers are cordially invited to attend.

If? If? If?

If your boys are passing tests and I am certain that they are. They would like to have their names read out by mother and by pa.

If wou will send in what they are doing in this column, it would go and the kids they would be happy for their folks to read and know that they are climbing on the scout trail and having real good sport for this is mighty easy If you send in that report.

Christmas Candy To Be Plain Says Ottawa

OTTAWA, Nov. 14 — (CP) — There'll be a little candy on the Christmas tree this year but it will be simple and in undecorated containers. Service men and women overseas will have plenty but this fact, coupled with labor shortages and wartime restrictions, has sharply reduced the amount available for the holiday at home.

Chocolate bars will probably be in shortest supply, the prices board reports, because civilians have sent millions of bars oversea in Christmas parcels in recent weeks. Constant heavy demand also is placed on confectionary manufacturers for chocolate bars and other candy to supply service canteens and prisoner-of-war parcels.

However, although civilian trade has been held to strict quotas, manufacturers say they are hopeful of being able to povide enough for wartime Christmas needs from their annual allotment.

Hard candies for Christmas will not only be scarce, but plainer than ever before. Confectioners say the chief reason is that there are not enough workers to staff the candy factories and not enough sugar to provide a full pre-war stock. Fancy candy canes, ribbon and stick candy — all big Christmas items — have especially felt the pinch of the labor shortage.

There will be no chocolate Santa Clauses or reindeer and few lollipops because of their high sugar content and extra labor requirements. However, manufacturers report there likely will be as many chocolates this Christmas as last to meet civilian demands.

Ace Fighter Lost In Reich

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Nov. 14—(AP)—Col. Hubert Zemke, 31, of Missoula, Mont., known as the hardest fighting American fighter pilot commander in Europe, is missing in action, it was announced today.

The colonel, who turned down desk jobs and possible promotion to General to keep on flying, was shot down inside Germany Oct. 30 while leading his Lightning-Mustang fighter group on a bomber escort mission.

Zemke was leading American fighter pilots in Western Europe at that time with 28 planes destroyed—22 in the air and six on the ground. Three days later Maj. George E. Preddy, Greensboro, N.C., ran his total to 29½—23½ in the air and six on the ground.

Leading ace in Western Europe is Wing Cmdr. J. E. (Johnny) Johnson, Englishman who commands a Canadian Spitfire wing now operating in the Low Countries, with 38 planes shot down in air combat.

Dorcas Bazaar Brings Out Crowd

HAVELOCK, Nov. 14—(ENS)—The Dorcas Rebekah Lodge No. 98 held a successful bazaar and dinner in their lodge rooms on Friday afternoon and evening when 150 persons had supper, the proceeds amounting to $120.

The supper convener was Miss Iva Smith. The fancy work table was in charge of Miss Minnie Williams, who also sold tickets for a draw on a box of chocolates. Mrs. A. Russell sold tickets on draws for a Christmas cake, a pudding and a chicken. The draws took place at the conclusion of the dinner and resulted as follows: The Christmas cake went to William Woodbeck; the pudding was won by Miss Joan Taylor; the chicken by Mrs. R. Jones, and the box of candy by Mrs. G. Wilde.

United Church Holds Concer In Roseneath

ROSENEATH, Nov. 14—(ENS)—An entertainmeit was held on Friday night in the Orange Hall under the auspices of Centenary, Fenella and Roseneath appointments on the Roseneath United church charge.

The pastor, Rev. R. C. White, was chairman and the program included the following numbers: A welcome song by pupils of Centenary school; a song by Carol McMillan and Mary Halstead, Roseneath; a reading, 'Sally Ann's Experiences,' by Mrs. Gordon Jewell, Fenella; a song contest conducted by Mrs. Charles Sandercock, 'Roseneath; a piano duet played by Misses Clarice and Betty Atkinson, Roseneath; a vocal solo, 'We'll Meet Again,' sung by Mrs. Francis Minor, Fenella; a name contest conducted by Mrs. M. D. Brown, Roseneath; a piano solo, 'Merry Peasant,' played by Lois Arthur, Centenary; vocal solo, 'My Land' sung by Ambrose Atkinson Roseneath; a vocal solo 'Chapel Chimes,' sung by Mrs. Sam Black of Fenella and Roseneath; a quiz conducted by Mrs. M. Davey Roseneath; a reading by Marjorie Sandercock, Roseneath; a quartette, 'He Is Abundantly Able to Save,' sung by Misses Margaret and Clarice Atkinson and Warren and Ambrose Atkinson, Roseneath; a reading, 'How He Fell,' by Mrs. Frank George, Fenella, and a reading by Mrs. G. L. Tucker.

At the conclusion of the program there was a surprise for Mr. and Mrs. White, when a curtain was withdrawn revealing a shower of fruit and pickles, and garden produce, the congregation asking that they be allowed to share the fruits of their labours with their pastor and his wife and family. Mr. White made appropriate response. The serving of refreshments concluded the entertainment.

Mrs. Frank Down, Fenella, Miss Hilda Arthur, Centenary and Miss Margaret Atkinson, Roseneath, played the accompaniments.

Fasted Three Weeks

SOMEWHERE IN GERMANY, Nov. 14—(AP).—A gaunt, haggard German army officer staggered out of the ruins of Aachen yesterday to surrender to U.S. soldiers garrisoned in the wrecked town. The officer had waited in hiding for more than three weeks without food, expecting a German counter-attack would set him free. It never came. "Three weeks without food is too much, even for the Fuehrer," he said.

Glens Aided In Cleaning Out Nazi Division At Knocke On Belgian North Sea Coast

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE 1ST CANADIAN ARMY, Nov. 14—(CP Cable)—Two more Ontario units — the Toronto Scottish and the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders from Cornwall, Ont.—have been named as taking a full part in the recent battle of the Schelde, it was revealed today.

The Scottish—a machine-gun and heavy mortar regiment of the 2nd Canadian division — fought in the advance north from Antwerp and along South Beveland Island, supporting infantry with their Vickers and 4.2 mortars.

After South Beveland was cleared up, the Scottish also went across to North Beveland with the 8th Reconnaissance Regiment, from Swift Current, Sask., in a private invasion, and overran that island almost before the expedition had the official blessing of the 1st Canadian Army.

The Glengarrians helped to write off the last of the German 64th Division at Knocke on the Belgian North Sea coast. Previously it had been disclosed that the "Glens," a 3rd Division unit, shared in the seaborne assault between Terneuzen and Breskens in the Schelde pocket. In cleaning up the 64th Division they were in action with the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry and the North Nova Scotia Highlanders from Amherst, N.S.

Enjoy Musical Program

CAVAN, Nov. 14 — (ENS) — The entertainment under the auspices of Cavan United Church in the community hall drew a capacity audience. A program which consisted of patriotic numbers, humorous monologues and musical skits was enjoyed. The numbers were all good, but those most enjoyed were the duet "Put On Your Old Grey Bonnet" sung by Miss Johnston and Miss Iva Fallowdown of Sunderland dressed in quaint costume and two solos by Mrs. Johnston, "An Irish Lullaby" and "Long Live Live the King". The proceeds amount to $56.

Brooklyn Boys Cry-Babies Author Claims

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (AP)—The Society for the Prevention of Disparaging Remarks About Brooklyn is so boined—beg pardon, burned—at the famous British actor-author that it has a good mind to form a sub-society for the prevention of Noel Coward.

Just when the society felt it was getting somewhere in its educational mission, along came Mr. Coward's new book, "Middle East Diary," with a reference to "mournful little Brooklyn boys (soldiers) in tears ... with nothing worse than a bullet wound in the leg or a fractured arm."

Sidney Ascher, 32-year-old S.P.D.R.A.B. president, demanded today: "What does that guy know about Brooklyn—or about he-men, either?"

"We'll go after him at our next meeting," Mr. Ascher promised. Meetings are held weekly over a local radio station, it being impracticable to gather all 29,000 members into one hall.

Some of the comments from wounded Brooklynites would, if they could be printed, disprove the society's contention that Brooklyn is the world's most cultured borough.

Pegged Prices Save Enough To Pay Expenses

Canadians have saved enough on the fixed price of one commodity, sugar, to pay the whole cost of the War Time Prices and Trade administration, J. P. Regan, Toronto, consultant to the War Time Prices and Trade Board told members of the Peterborough Rotary Club at their regular luncheon at the Empress Hotel Monday. Mr. Regan spoke on the subject "What Is a Dollar Worth?"

The speaker said that the cost of price control administration was $16,000,000 a year which figured out at 10 cents per person per month. Canadians would have paid more than that cost on sugar alone if the price of that commodity had been allowed to climb to its First World War level of 28 cents a pound, Mr. Regan said.

If the people of this country continued to support price controls as they had from their inauguration, the speaker stated, all danger of inflation would be avoided.

"There are fewer rationed commodities in Canada than in any of the allied countries" said Mr. Regan "and rationing in those few commodities will not continue a moment longer than is necessary."

The machinery had all been set up for the lifting of controls synchronizing with an orderly return to peacetime employment after the war, thus eliminating any time lag the speaker said.

Mr. Regan reviewed the steps that had ben taken to freeze prices and outlined the world-wide pools that had been formed for the handling of allied food stuffs. It was not an easy thing to control prices but it had been accomplished with the cooperation of the Canadian people.

1,693 Joneses Serving In Canada's Armed Forces

OTTAWA, Nov. 14—(CP)—In one of Ottawa's many wartime, temporary buildings, a branch of Defense Headquarters known as the Casualty Section of the Directorate of Records has the grim task of keeping the next of kin of Canada's soldiers informed of deaths, wounds, injuries and missing men.

The branch, made up of 300 officers, other ranks and members of the civil service, goes into action as soon as Canadian military headquarters in London reports that "Pte. John Jones" has become a casualty.

The branch has to check the man's name, the address of the next of kin, despatch a telegram to the next of kin, and start a file on the man for further reports. In the case of death, the Dependents' Allowances Board must be notified, as well as the Estates Branch which looks after the effects of the deceased.

It sounds routine, but there are 1,693 men in the Canadian Army named Jones. There are 3,071 Browns and 3,754 McDonalds and MacDonalds, with 36 of them bearing the name Neil McDonald. Even an unusual name like Hukalack is found four times in Canadian Army records.

A wounded soldier can be placed in any one of six different categories: Dangerously (life in danger); seriously (very sick and liable to be moved up to dangerously); severely (a severe wound but little fear for loss of life); wounded, slightly wounded; or wounded, remaining on duty. In these cases progress reports on dangerously and seriously wounded cases are cabled from the hospital as often as his condition changes, until the man is removed from all lists.

Telegraph Families.

In the instance of missing men, the casualty section must keep a file open until the man is officially listed as a prisoner of war, has rejoined his unit or conclusively found to be dead.

The casualty section relays any information they might receive to the next of kin as fast as telegraphic service will allow. They know that suspense causes the greatest anguish of war and hold nothing back.

There are concrete rules laid down for the delivery of telegrams. Telegraph companies are instructed that no deliveries, for example, are to be made between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m., a male member of the family must be present if possible, and if not possible, a neighbor or friend should accompany the delivery of the message.

In many cases, the services of a chaplain are obtained. When notification was received in Canada that a number of Canadians taken prisoner of war in France had been murdered by the enemy, chaplains visited all the next of kin to personally explain the circumstances of death.

Former Harwood Man Elected To U.S. Congress

HARWOOD, Nov. 14 — (ENS) — George F. Rogers, a former resident of Harwood, was elected a member of the American Congress, representing Munroe county in New York state in the recent presidential election.

At present, Mr. Rogers, who lives in Rochester, is staying at his summer home, "Hillcrest" for a week's vacation. He was elected ast a Democratic and American Labor party candidate. Mr. Rogers left Harwood and moved to the United States when he was 12 years old, but is a member of the Harwood Memorial Park Commission.

Two Youths Given 30 Days' Sentence

COBOURG, Nov. 14 — (ENS) — Thirty days in jail on each of three charges of breaking and entering, terms to run concurrently, were imposed Monday on Frank P. Kane and James Webster of Toronto. The two youths were arrested by Provincial Constable Alex McLeod of Cobourg, just after they had broken into Lawless' store at Grafton. They were also charged with breaking into two schoolhouses in the district where they stole about $26 worth of war savings stamps.

Magistrate R. B. Baxter pointed out that the boys had no previous records. The father of one of the boys was overseas while the parents of the other accused were dead. Taking those circumstances into consideration, he gave them 30 days, dating from the time of their arrest on October 30.

Port Hope Airman Missing Overseas

PORT HOPE, Nov. 14.—Mr. and Mrs. Morton, Canton, have received word that their son, Sgt. Milton Morton, 20, an air gunner with the RCAF, was reported missing in action on November 2.

Born in Hamilton township, Durham county, he attended Cobourg Public School and Port Hope High School. Enlisting in May, 1943, he received his training at Edmonton, Alta., Montreal and Summerside, P.E.I. He has been overseas since May of this year.

In October his plane was shot down in France, when hit by ground flak, but the pilot was able to land in a field occupied by the American Air Force. A brother, Signalman Lloyd Morton, is with the Canadian Army in Italy.

Tax-Free Co-Ops Menace To Retailers

TORONTO, Nov. 14 — (CP) — The end of all small independent retailers is spelled in survival of co-operatives being sponsored, tax-free, by "a Western Provincial Government," Fred R. Cavers of St. Catharines, Ont., president of the Electrical Appliance Dealers' Association said here to-day. He was addressing the annual meeting of the association.

Mr. Cavers, who recently completed a tour of the four Western provinces, said the Ontario retailer is "in a far better position" than the Western retailer. This was because of Western operations of two large departmental store chains, utilities and growing co-operatives.

A 1944 black market in radio tubes in the Toronto area had been largely liquidated by the R.C.M.P., co-operating with dealers and manufacturers, he said.

Future Bright For Tolerance Preacher Says

A heartening message of faith filled with the certainty that the future holds better things for the world than has the past, was brought to a meeting held in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Monday evening, in connection with the Interchurch Conference on World Missions, by Dr. John R. Mott, famed religious leader and missionary statesman. The audience was composed of congregational members of Peterborough's Anglican, Presbyterian, Baptist and United Churches.

Dr. Mott based his convictions on factors he has met at first hand, after fifty years of world travelling, of pioneering, and unwearying proclamation of the Christian Gospel.

He said the days behind have prepared the way for better days, and the future will transcend the past. More knowledge and experience on a greater scale held by the people today is one of the reasons for his statement, he said. Christian forces are organized, and have gathered momentum like a rising tide. An atmosphere is about in which Christians will come to hate to differ, and be determined to understand each other, he said. He pointed out there is a great importance attached to atmosphere.

Dr. Mott told the congregation that we are now facing a great concentration of major, unsolved problems, more than the world has ever seen, and asserted that this is what will drive us to God. God, he said, has a habit of concerning Himself primarily with man's greatest, and most perplexing problems.

5 Great Meetings

Describing the five great meetings of world Christian fellowship that have taken place in various parts of the world since war began . . . in 1936, because the war began in China, he said these conferences which brought together all nations of the world together on a common ground, have become the greatest miracle in centuries. He said that war strengthens these unions, and that they cannot fade. These conferences all reveal the recognition throughout the world, of the need for Christians that are for God.

Throughout the last fifty years, Dr. Mott reported, there has been a drawing together in intimacy of Christians of all races. There is a generation surging forward now, he reminded the congregation, and it has great possibilities.

"Yes, the future will transcend the past", he said.

On Prisoner Work

Dr. Mott is at present chairman of the special committee of the World Y.M.C.A., which carries on the work of the Prisoners-of-War Aid. This includes both Allied prisoners, and enemy prisoners, he said. He was the founder, and for 33 years the leader of the World Student Christian Federation. During the past several years, Dr. Mott has been chairman of the International Missionary Council, and has been doing much work to further projects in connection with international, interracial and interdenominational co-operation and understanding.

During his address, he paid tribute to the late Rev. William Temple, Archbishop of Canterbury, whom he described as "a master builder". The Archbishop of Canterbury, before his death recently, was chairman of the World Council of Churches, of which Dr. Mott is the North American vice-president.

Rev. F. W. Craik, of St. James United Church, read from the scriptures at the opening of the meeting. Dr. A. E. Armstrong, General Secretary of Missions of the United Church pronounced the Benediction. Music and the St. Paul's Choir was under the direction of Martin B. Chenhall.

Colborne, $128,300—181.07 per cent; South Monaghan township, $37,650—125.5 per cent; Brighton township, $84,500—120.71 per cent; Brighton village, $150,150—120.12 per cent; Cobourg, $475,600—118.9 per cent; Percy township, $118,850—118.85 per cent; Cramahe township, $98,150—116.18 per cent; Haldimand township, $98,100— 103.26 per cent.

Hastings, $44,900—99.75 per cent; Murray township, $98,150—98.15 per cent; Alnwick township, $22,750—91 per cent; Hamilton township, $123,900—88.5 per cent and Seymour township, $91,450—67.74 per cent; total for county, $1,743,950—107.35 per cent.

Nostrum Given To Beat Draft

SHERBROOKE, Nov. 14.—(CP).—Sgt. Andre Belisle testified Monday at the trial of Mrs. Theodore Provencher, 55 year old Sherbrooke fortune-teller charged with interfering with army recruiting, that he successfully passed his medical examination after she gave him pills and photographic film to make him ill and wrote out "prayers" for him. She is being tried before an all-French-speaking jury.

Mrs. Provencher was acquitted last Thursday on a charge of conspiring to interfere with recruiting and inciting army desertion.

Belisle said he had disregarded a military call-up in January, 1943, and continued to work as a driver for an asbestos, Quebec, transport company. In July, 1943, when he had "decided to report for medical examination at Quebec," he was told that Mrs. Provencher had the power to have any recruit exempted. He said she wrote out prayers for him which he recited "only once or twice"; she also traced out some figures from a seal she covered with "a satin bag" and had him wear it on his heart. At her direction he went to a drug store and got a "prepared parcel containing 24 pills, a bottle of medicine and a photographic film."

Witness said he followed directions, but did not become quite as sick as was forecast, and was classified A-1 by the military board.

Prayers Too Long

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 14 —(CP)— Five minutes is long enough for "any prayer," Rev. Archer Wallace of Toronto said yesterday in addressing the United Church Ministerial Association. He criticized clergymen who take too literally the Biblical injunction to "pray without ceasing."

Thin Girls Learn

The way to better health

Thin girls are learning that they can sharpen their appetites and improve digestion by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food—the vitamin tonic.

To be sure of not missing the usual after-meal treatment they buy the new, economy size bottle of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and keep it on the dining table along with the salt and pepper shakers.

The increased supply of vitamin B_1 and food minerals helps them to get relief from tired feelings, nervous spells and irritability and to know again the joy of healthful living.

Hadassah Helps Centre

Dr. H. M. Yelland addressed a recent meeting of the Senior Hadassah, asking for support for the new Civic Hospital project. Various reports were presented, and it was announced that members had been in attendance at the Blood Donors' Clinic last week. Different projects were brought up, and a contribution was voted to the Memorial Community Centre, with regular contributions to the Youth Aliyah Fund being continued. Members also put up curtains recently in the Y.W.C.A. barracks.

Rectal Soreness and

PILE TORTURE

QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid, and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)

W. R. Carveth Weds Helen Astles

St. John's Anglican Church, set with ferns, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon, at three o'clock, when Helen Marie Astles became the bride of William Roderick (Roddy) Carveth, R.C.A.F., of Aylmer, with Canon W. P. Robertson officiating. F. G. Mann was at the organ. The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Astles, 96 Douro street, and the groom is the second son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Carveth of Peterborough.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a floor-length gown of white triple sheer trimmed with lace, with full skirt, fitted bodice buttoned down the front and long slevees. Her veil of embroidered English tulle was caught to her head with orange blossoms, and she carried red roses. She wore silver slippers, and a gold locket and chain and matching earrings, with the airforce crest, the gift of the groom.

She was attended by Mrs. Arthur Robertson, as matron of honor and Miss Ruth Astles, her sister, as bridesmaid. Mrs. Robertson was gowned in heavenly blue crepe trimmed with gold, on princess style, with long sleeves, and gold buttons. She wore a matching Dutch cap trimmed with gold, gold slippers, and carried pink chrysanthemums. The bridesmaid was frocked in floor-length white triple sheer, finished at the back with self-covered buttons, and long sleeves. She wore a small white satin and net hat trimmed with blue asters, white satin slippers, and carried blue chrysanthemums.

Langton Carveth, brother of the groom, was his best man, and the ushers were James Goodwin and Robert Carr.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's home, where her mother received the guests in a navy blue crepe ensemble, trimmed with white, a black hat, with accents of white, and a corsage of yellow 'mums. The groom's sister-in-law, Mrs. Langton Carveth, also receiving, wore royal blue crepe, matching hat and accessories, and a corsage of yellow 'mums.

For a wedding trip by motor to Montreal and other points, the bride donned a chocolate brown gabardine suit, matching accessories, a beige coat, and a corsage of yellow 'mums. On their return they will live in Aylmer.

As their gifts from the bride and groom, the matron of honor and bridesmaid receive gold necklaces, while the best man and ushers received billfolds.

Traveller Tells Of Arctic Trip

Mrs. Hugh H. Wolfender of Toronto, guest speaker at the meeting of the University Women's Club, on Monday evening at the Y.W.C.A., told a delightful story of her travels through the Western Arctic, from Waterways to Aklavik, by ancient trail, barge and 'plane.

Mrs. Wolfender, who has travelled widely herself, and with her husband, who is a lecturer at the University of Toronto, made this Arctic trip in the summer of 1941. She was enthusiastic about the breath-taking beauty of the northland and the great potential wealth of the country.

"There is an unique deposit of tar sands at McMurray," said Mrs. Wolfender, "which is fifty million years old, and contains many times the world's present potential supply of oil. American geologists have estimated it at 100 billion barrels. It could be used for pavement, synthetic rubber, roofing and in many other ways, but, at present, it is not being developed."

Mrs. Wolfender's account of life on top of the world with the Eskimos and Indians was amusing and interesting, and was made more vivic by slides, and souvenirs and samples of Eskimo work, which she had brought home with her.

Y.W.C.A. Directors Plan For Visit Of Nell Elliott

Plans for the visit of Miss Nell Elliott were the main item of interest at the Y. W. C. A. Board of Directors meeting Monday afternoon.

Mrs. H. Clegg, convener of the Religious and Educational Committee of the "Y" presented the report of her committee saying that a luncheon had been arranged for Friday when Miss Elliott would speak to Board and Committee members and representatives of Women's Associations and Missionary Societies of the churches and others interested. Reservations should be made by Tuesday night. Miss Elliott has been Advisory Secretary of the Y. W. C. A. in Hong Kong, China, and was interned and returned on the Gripsholm last December. She comes to Peterborough as a special guest for Y. W. C. A. World Fellowship Week. Miss Elliott will also speak at a meeting Friday evening arranged by the Girls' Council, when a handkerchief shower is a part of the program. The handkerchiefs will be sent to Miss D. Peace a former Peterborough "Y" member now serving as a Y. W. C. A. Secretary in England. The World Gift, 10 cents a member is being received from all "Y" members during regular and special activities of this week.

The financial report was presented by Miss L. Brownscombe, general secretary, showing receipts from membership, gymnasium classes and residence an increase over last year, but because of heavier expenses, the end of October showed a small deficit on the General Association and also on Camp. Appreciation of payments on bequests from the estate of the late Duncan Walker and Miss Dunlop was expressed. Committees were asked to have budgets for next year in for the December meeting.

Want Dances

Requests for the Friday Supper Club and Thirty-eight Club for special dances were approved. Miss L. Brownscombe and Mrs. H. Rehill were named representatives to the Health League and the National Interpretation and Support Committee of the Y. W. C. A. was asked to also serve as a local committee for the National Council Annual Convention to be held the end of May at the General Brock Hotel, Niagara Falls. Mrs. H.R.H. Kenner was re-appointed to the Red Cross and Community Fund Committee.

On motion of Mrs. G. E. Porter and Mrs. F. D. Kerr the following nominating committee was named, Mrs. H.R.H. Kenner, Miss L. Davidson, Mrs. H. Wightman, Mrs. R. H. Turner and Mrs. C. B. Waite.

The report of the Campers' Reunion showing attendance of over 75 campers and a special program, was presented by Mrs. C. Collins who was thanked by the president for the donation of a cup to be awarded for camp sport competition. Mrs. J. H. Vernor reported for the Health Education Committee showing over 525 registers in gymnasium classes, one of the largest registrations in the history of the "Y." Basketball league games commence Friday, November 17 with six teams entered this year. The Hallowe'en festivities of this department had been social highlights of the month. The Girls' Work report was presented by Miss Olga Johnson and a donation of $40 from the Girls' Council to the Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund was acknowledged. The needs of this fund are still many and all groups are requested to "carry on".

Mrs. H. Paige Rowell gave the Residence report showing the Residence filled to capacity, and Mrs. F. M. Somerville reported for the Local Council of Women and announced for the Y. W. C. A. War Services Committee that the weekly dances for soldiers would be resumed this Monday night with the cooperation of Major Bennett, Jeanette Scott and Peter Robinson Chapters I. O. D. E. The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. H. A. Mitchell, and tea was served by Mrs. E. Morrison with Mrs. F. D. Kerr presiding at the tea table.

Navy Auxiliary Told Need Of New Hospital

Another large women's group was addressed by a member of the energetic hospital committee Monday evening, when Ian. F. McRae spoke to members of the Navy Auxiliary about the new Civic Hospital.

Urging full-hearted support of the hospital project, Mr. McRae outlined the adverse conditions under which Nicholls Hospital was now operating. He spoke of Peterborough's increasing population, which will have grown to about 35,000 by 1945, and the need for better hospital accommodation to meet the increase.

Discussing the plans for the new hospital, Mr. McRae said that it would contain approximately 250 beds, to meet general conditions in the years to come. The equipment will also be up-to-date, he continued, and the best personal equipment will also be installed, which will help to keep it attractive to the young girl considering entering the nursing profession. Speaking of nursing accommodation, Mr. McRae went on to explain that the nurses' residence would be a great improvement over present accommodation, and would have individual rooms.

Outlining the committee's plans to acquaint Peterborough citizens with the facts about the new plan, Mr. McRae said that the facts would be presented to all organizations, and the decision would rest with them, when each one cast his individual vote on the all-important question. Mrs. Frank Merritt, president, concluding her words of thanks to the speaker on behalf of the Auxiliary, asked members to remember his words, and support the new plan.

To Pack Boxes

Members decided to hold a sale of home cooking and novelties in the market on Saturday. It was announced that the packing of the boxes would be held on Wednesday and Thursday of this week, at two o'clock in St. John's Sunday School, and all members were asked to help in getting them completed and sent away to boys in Canada. Mrs. R. Pilling, wool convener, asked those with completed knitted articles to bring them with them on Wednesday when the packing begins, since they will be needed to complete the boxes.

It was announced that Lieut. Muriel Robertson, C.W.A.C. would be guest speaker at the December meeting, and that the remainder of the evening would be a social get-together, with Mrs. W. Wheeler and Mrs. L. Evans in charge. A resolution was passed regarding a petition to have boys returned home who have been overseas so long, and a special appeal for clothing for the merchant marine was made, with $25 being voted for this cause.

The draw for the dolls and the pillow slips, on which members have been selling tickets, will be made at the December meeting. Mrs. A. Chartren reported the proceeds from the successful rummage sale as $21.

DINNERS OF THE WEEK

By MARY MOORE

SUNDAY

Broiled Steak or Filets Mignon
Hot Steak Sauce (See Note)
Mashed Hubbard Squash Broccoli
Celery Hearts
Banana Cream or Lemon Meringue Pie
Coffee

Note: This is a special treat—for I think using even such a good hot sauce on steak is like "gilding the lily," but one of my best cook-friends gave it to me by long distance telephone. I tried it last night and she wins—it is tops. Two tablespoons thick bottled steak sauce, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons good quality catsup, 1 teaspoon mustard, salt and pepper to taste, ½ cup thick pouring cream. Mix all but cream well. Just before serving time, add cream, quickly bring to boil and serve at once piping hot. This will serve 6—but if you had only 2 they would finish it off without any trouble.

MONDAY

Broiled Minced Lamb Patties
Mint Sauce
Harvard Beets Mashed Potatoes
Head Lettuce with French Dressing
Banana and Orange Fruit Cup
Cookies Coffee

TUESDAY (Vegetarian)

Cheese Souffle with Tomato Sauce
Brussels Sprouts
Baked Sweet Potatoes in Jackets

Pupils Entertain At Afternoon Tea

OMEMEE, Nov. 14 —(ENS)— An interesting afternoon was enjoyed when the pupils of S.S. No. 10 Emily entertained their mothers at afternoon tea. The children presented a short program with Master Sherman Harrison, a Grade 8 pupil, as chairman. The program consisted of several recitations by pupils in Grade 1 and 2; songs by Grade 1 and the seniors, and a skit entitled "A Day on the Farm".

A table covered with a lace tablecloth and tastefully decorated with candles and chrysanthemums was at the front of the room and the pupils served a delicious lunch to the 20 mothers who were present.

At the conclusion Mrs. Harry Fowler and Mrs. Gordon Harrison moved a vote of thanks to the teacher, Milburn-Jones, for the delightful afternoon.

Mrs. G. Clarke Given Showers

Mrs. G. W. Clarke, formerly Evelyn Fry, was entertained on several occasions by her friends and fellow-workers, prior to her marriage on Saturday. Mrs. A. G. Watson entertained members of the sewing club, of which the bride is a member, at her home on Stewart street, and Mrs. Clarke was presented with a boudoir chair as well as many useful gifts.

Misses Hazel and Beatrice Mahood were hostesses for a miscellaneous shower in honor of the bride at their home on Stewart street, while Miss Helena Gough entertained employees of the law office of Hon. G. N. Gordon, when the bride was presented with a silver dish. Mrs. Lewis Fry, John street, assisted by Mrs. M. A. McWilliams, gave a pantry-shelf shower in honor of the bride, when the guest of honor received many lovely and useful gifts.

Home and School

KING EDWARD SCHOOL

Rev. E. C. Moore, taking as his topic, "Religion," was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the King Edward Home and School Association, Monday evening in the school.

Rev. Moore spoke of religion and its aid in helping man to adjust himself to varying trials, and to go on and survive. He said that parents had a great responsibility toward their children, to guide them through the various stages of life, and help them to adapt themselves. "God is essential," Rev. Moore said, "and there is no greater need in life than for His love and guidance."

Alderman Adam Sands addressed the meeting on the subject of the new civic hospital plan, asking for support. Mr. and Mrs. H. Turner sang two sacred duets, and A. Wells sang two sacred solos. Mrs. G. Wallace was pianist for the evening. Alan Bennett read a poem "Football," which he composed himself.

Members decided that the Christmas bazaar and tea would be held Wednesday November 29, and that the Christmas meeting would take the form of a get-together.

Mrs. F. Cox moved the vote of thanks to the speakers and those taking part in the program, and refreshments were served.

Gore's Landing

Ten Girl Guides with their leaders, Capt. Helen Delaney and Lieut. Margaret Ball marched to the United church on Sunday evening. During the service, the Guides prayer was said and later the pledge was recited by the girls. Rev. M. C. Fisher welcomed the Guides to the service and the address for this occasion was "Trails and Highways." During the announcements, Mr. Fisher referred to Sunday as the 23rd anniversary of Mrs. Joseph Harris' tenure as organist of the United church. He said the congregation appreciated her faithful work.

At Kingston Hospital, on Sunday afternoon, twins, a boy and girl, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd MacDonald of Gananoque. Mr. and Mrs. M. J. MacDonald of this village are grandparents.

Miss Dorothy Harris of the Toronto General Hospital staff is home for a few days before writing final examinations for Reg.N.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Henkle, Toronto, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. M. J. MacDonald.

Miss Selina Gilpin is recovering from a broken wrist suffered in a game at a Guides meeting recently.

Miss Velda Fisher, the Manse, is feeling much better after several weeks rest in bed.

Britain, France Favor Eastern Block

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Nov. 14 —(AP)—Britain and France were reported in accord today on the desirability of forming a bloc of western European nations to help keep Germany in check during the coming years of peace.

Responsible quarters said Belgium and Holland may become original signatories to such a regional pact along with Britain and France and that eventually Norway, Sweden and Denmark may come in.

Summarizing the week-end discussions of Prime Minister Churchill and Gen. De Gaulle, a French news agency expressed the view that "the French and British governments would consider favorably the possibility of concluding such regional accords."

(A dispatch from London said sources there expressed belief that a similar combine would be formed in the east by Russia, Czechoslovakia and Poland and that at their next conference Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin may consider whether such alliances can operate within the framework of the proposed future world security organization.

(The Times of London said the idea of a western European bloc would fall directly within the category of "regional arrangements or agencies" for maintenance of peace and security foreseen in the Dumbarton Oaks plan.

Outer Bastion

("Western Europe, including Britain, is, as American opinion has come increasingly to recognize, an outer bastion of the defence of the western hemisphere," said the Times. "The strengthening of this bastion is a decisive interest of the American nations as well as of the whole British Commonwealth.")

An official quarter in Paris said British and French accord on the desirability of postwar regional security pacts was attended by qualifications that such pacts must be part of the general peace structure and not in opposition eventually to other blocs.

Mr. Churchill and Gen. De Gaulle were reported already agreed on speedy rearmament of the French Army to have it ready to share military occupation of Germany with British, Russian and American forces. Armament for the French troops, however, was said to be still unsettled. So far they have been largely supplied with American equipment under lend lease.

London sources said France's part in the proposed western bloc would be maintenance of a strong army, that Britain would keep a powerful fleet and air force and that Belgium and Holland would provide air bases near Germany's borders.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, November 15

THE MUTUAL and lunar aspects for this day points to an inclination to investing the energies and resources in enjoyment, the pursuit of pleasure or other forms of indulgence and excess rather than in any sort of constructive programs or laborious effort, although the energies and faculties are found to be keyed to almost any practical performance or accomplishment. A bid for promotion, honors, favors from those in power, might find abundant reward, but not with indulgent, impulsive or rash behavior of tactics. Care in law, with writings or speech are advised lest there be danger and loss or regrets.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a year of definite openings for promotion, preferment, sound enterprise and creative performance and worthwhile objectives or ambitions, but also there are opportunities for indulgence, extravagances, excesses and neglect of opportunities for the lure of pleasure or emotional excitement, with perhaps dangerous entanglements with litigation, or in connection with agreements, writings or speech. With a determined effort to travel the more profitable and worthier course, with control and moderation in all contacts, there might be excellent returns for the energies and resources invested. Subdue rash impulses and strange emotions.

A child born on this day should have much energy and talents for sound and practical success in life, but is likely to be lured to the paths of pleasure, by its unrestrained impulses and emotions, with probable regrets and loss.

DOROTHY DIX . . . .

MARRIAGE A PROFITABLE INVESTMENT

Wifehood the Best Paying Profession That the Average Woman Can Follow.

WHEN a woman marries she puts her life and all of her hopes and ambitions and expectations of happiness into the venture. What sort of dividends can she look forward to collecting? What kind of security does marriage offer her? Aside from its sentimental side, does the holy estate give a woman as good an opening for the exercise of her talents and energies as business or a profession would? Or is it as risky as plunging on Wildcat stocks?

Curiously enough, while practically all girls want to marry as expect to marry, they think of marriage as a sort of sentimental and romantic fling that belongs to youth. They dont regard it as a career. Nor do they think of wifehood as, taking it by and large, the best paying profession that the average woman can follow, even from the money standpoint.

For, leaving aside the cinema stars and female geniuses, who are few and far apart, there is not a handful of women who have made fortunes by their own efforts. But there are hundreds of thousands of women who loll in luxury on the money their husbands have made. Often and often these sable-clad and pearl-bedecked wives have helped their husbands make their fortunes but they could not have done it alone, no matter how hard they had pinched pennies, nor how thin they had peeled the potatoes. It took the man's initiative and strength to fight the battle with the world and wrest success from it.

Compensations For Dull Routine

Women who are married to men in moderate circumstances and who have to do their own housework and baby-tending and buy their clothes in the bargain shops, look enviously upon their unmarried sisters with good jobs. They feel that they are nothing but domestic slaves. Because there is no pay envelope for them at the end of their hard week's labor they feel that they work for nothing.

But even there they are wrong, because after the business girl has paid for her lodging and food and the more expensive clothes that her position requires, she seldom has any more money in her purse than the domestic woman has. It takes a long time and unusual ability for any woman who is on her own to afford the nice apartment and the little car that her married sister possesses.

Furthermore, the married woman has a security that the single woman lacks. Somebody to care for her in sickness and in health, even somebody from whom she can collect alimony if she divorces him. And if, alas, her husband should die, there is the insurance policy on which the bereaved widow can fend away the wolf until she can make a new start.

And there are the children who may have been a bother when they were young, but who are the best insurance about the misfortunes of life. So, taking it all in all, marriage for women is an investment that pays a pretty good percentage not only in happiness, but in dollars and cents. It has its risks, of course, for there is no sure thing in life, but it is a gamble on which any woman with a drop of sporting blood in her veins should be willing to take a chance. Once, anyway.

Cartel Question Brings Bitter Argument

By THOMAS HAGENBUCH
Associated Press Staff Writer

RYE, N.Y., Nov. 14 —(AP)—The question of cartels emerged today as possibly the most controversial subject at the international business conference with prospects there would be no agreement on the issue by the close of the sessions at the end of the week.

The panel considering cartels resumed its discussions after a wide-open split developed yesterday. The Netherlands delegation precipitated the controversy by declaring that cartels are necessary for the expansion of business, bringing from the Indian representatives a bitter denunciation of these agreements among private interests of several countries for the purpose of regulating industry and trade.

One delegate expressed the opinion that the various standpoints were too far apart to be reconciled on any statement of policy by the conference.

Injected into the panel discussion was a United States senate committee report made public yesterday which recommended the "outlawing of the international cartel system" after the war. Copies were given members of the panel by the American delegation without comment.

The group considering currency relations among nations was ready to take up today the stabilization proposals adopted by the Bretton Woods monetary conference last July. These provide for a world monetary fund to stabilize exchange rates after the war, and for an international bank to provide loans for reconstruction work.

Currency Plan

The currency panel yesterday heard Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National Bank of New York, advocate the "key nation" plan as the best approach to currency stabilization. This plan advocates the stabilization of the two currencies in which the bulk of international trade is conducted—the British pound and the United States dollar — and has been urged by United States bankers as preferable to the proposals evolved at Bretton Woods.

Mr. Aldrich said the three prerequisites of dollar-pound stabilization were:

1 Elimination of the war debt problem between the United States and Britain, involving cancellation of First Great War debts and a "generous settlement" of Britain's lend-lease obligations.

2 Reduction of trade barriers between the United States and Great Britain, through elimination of tariff restrictions and other export and import controls.

3 Extension of post-war credits to Great Britain by the United States, which "may come to $3,000,000,000."

Once progress has been made in the stabilization of the dollar-pound rate, Mr. Aldrich said, "immediate and simultaneous attention can be given to the stabilization of other currencies."

WORK OF "V-1," NOW "V-2'S" IN ACTION—Here is a scene from the British Ministry of Information film "V-1," "the robot bomb" which is pointed up in today's news by the revelation by Prime Minister Churchill that the Germans have been hurling giant explosive-laden rockets, their touted V-2 bombs, through the stratosphere against England for the past few weeks. In this picture civil defence workers extricate V-1 victims from the wreckage of a house hit by a robot bomb.

Peterborough Girl 15 Months In Postal Depot Overseas

If people could see the number of disappointed servicemen R.C.A.F. personnel run across in the Postal Department overseas, without parcels because their friends at home neglected to put the proper numbers on their boxes, they would take more thought, declared LAW. Phyllis Harris, R.C.A.F. (W.D.), the first Peterborough airwoman to return to Canada after 15 months in England.

LAW. Harris worked in the parcels section, but explained they used the same system for letters. They come in in bundles, in groups under each letter of the alphabet. These are checked against trays bearing the name and numbers and station of each airman. Since all the mail is addressed R.C.A.F. overseas, the squadron address is added at the Base Post Office. As a further check for accuracy, the staff not only put the names in alphabetical order under the first letter of the surname, but broke it down to the second and third letter. The name Harris would be put under "Ha", she cited.

"You would be amazed the amount of trouble a wrong number can make. It is nothing uncommon to find three boys all with the same initials and surname listed, and a parcel come in with the wrong number. It is anyone's guess as to which of the three it belongs to. Most of the trouble in mail delay occurs not at the Base Post Office, but after it leaves our hands."

Found Apartment

When she first went overseas, this Peterborough airwoman, was billeted with another friend at an English home, where they were just like daughters of the family. She said the people were grand to them. Then the two decided they would like to be on their own so the R.C.A.F. found them an apartment, and three girls began housekeeping, and loved it. Most of the airwomen overseas have resorted to apartment billets, rather than rooming, and get a lot of enjoyment out of keeping house.

Bombing by planes and robot bombs made things hard for Londoners, LAW. Harris reported. Night after night, as the attacks wore on, the people got less and less sleep and they became exhausted.

"When it first started, and the bombs began dropping rather close, after D-Day, we used to dive under the beds when the motor would cut off. If a bomb had made a direct hit, we would never have known what happened. We sought cover from the flying glass. Bombs that hit some distance away could shatter the glass in a home, as it did in ours. It breaks into a thousand tiny fragments, and the greatest number of casualties were from glass injuries.

Shelter in Kitchen

"When the raids were really bad, we would get up when the bombs began dropping nearby and go down to the Morrison shelter. Ours was in the kitchen, as were most of them and in the daytime, the iron shelter was used as a table. At night we would all get down on our hands and knees and crawl in. It was built to sleep two comfortably, and had a mattress. We had four in it and would all stretch out and squeeze in, everything but our feet. Then when the landlord felt there was going to be one drop particularly close, he would warn us and we'd all pull our feet in in a hurry.

"The worst part was losing our sleep. You got to the stage where you were just dragging around. Towards the end, everyone got so tired they didn't bother going downstairs at our place. We would lie in bed and watch the robot bombs sailing past the window, too tired to care if anything did hit. Then we'd turn over and go to sleep."

Expensive Place

Although rationing is operating in England, LAW. Harris found that if you have the money you can procure a lot of things. Civilian dresses which would ordinarily cost $9 or $10 in Canada, run around $40 there, without counting the cost in precious coupons. She recalled buying a pound of grapes for $5 and one peach for $1.25.

As for meals, outside of being monotonous they weren't bad, she declared. The girls had 1½ hours for lunch and they did their shopping then so they didn't have to queue up as long. She said their butcher was grand to them and used to slip in the extra bit of meat. The fact that they ate out at noon helped out their rations a lot too. They had lots of potatoes, brussels sprouts, cabbage and carrots. The meat was scarce and they usually had it once a week. The three airwomen had one pint of poor quality milk between them a day, but didn't mind too much.

Early Rising

Although they weren't in barracks, the airwomen used to get up before 6 a.m. to do some of the housework and have breakfast. They would catch the underground at 7 o'clock and reach their station about 7.40 and report on duty at 7.55. In the past three months, the girls on the staff have been working from 8 until 5, but prior to that in the spring, a reduced staff made it necessary for them to work until 9.30 at night, every night but Sunday.

In all of her 15 months overseas, LAW. Harris never got over the thrill of seeing Allied planes taking off for a raid on the continent. She said that as hundreds of them passed overhead, in the bright sunshine they looked like tiny silver birds flashing in the sunlight.

In their spare time, the airwomen went to dances, saw shows or went to the opera and ballet. The latter fascinated this Peterborough girl. She said that at any dances, the Canada badge was an open sesame. Canadian airmen were always delighted to see anyone from "home" and they never lacked for partners.

At present, LAW Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Harris, Donegal street, is home on a three weeks furlough, after which she will report back to Rockcliffe. Prior to enlisting in the R.C.A.F., W.D., she worked at the C.G.E.

Land Protection Vital Need Says Dr. Tovell

BAILIEBORO, Nov. 14 — (ENS) — "Mountains, Canals and Deserts" were the subject of an illustrated geographical talk by Dr. Tovell of Canton Friday, in the basement of the Anglican Church and in the interests of the Junior Red Cross.

Dr. Tovell illustrated how mountains, through the process of time, all worn down by the action of ice, wind, rain and frost, and compared the high Rockies of Canada with the lower ranges of California. He showed the wonders of the Panama Canal which has become virtually the crossroads of the world, with a tremendous amount of shipping but he claimed that the medical victory of eliminating the plague of yellow fever, was an even greater achievement than the building of the canal.

Dr. Tovell then compared pictures of Durham County, where there is sufficient rainfall to warrant good crops and vegetation. He claimed that a sad fact remained that man was the greatest destroyer of land and that in Durham County was an example of wooded areas of pine and oak which had been stripped for shipbuilding industries and that there was now some 23,000 acres in the Ganeraska Basin fast becoming blowing sand. He stated that a post-war project was already in the making to re-forest and re-claim this area.

He also showed many beautiful pictures of Ontario floral, spring and autumn scenes which were much enjoyed.

Harry Campbell acted as chairman for the evening.

Lots Of Coupons

WINDSOR, Nov. 14—(CP).—Thrift displayed in previous loans enabled a young Windsor woman to buy an extra bond in the Seventh Victory Loan drive. Recalling she'd never clipped the coupons from bonds bought in previous loans, she did so, cashed $51 worth the next day and bought herself another $50 Bond.

Water Shortage Reducing Dairy Herds

Young cattle are still on pasture in Prince Edward county, apples are under cover and farmers recently sent two carloads of lambs to Buffalo for the first time in many years, as reported by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Frontenac says grade milch cows have taken a serious drop in the last six months, selling recently at $40 to $50, and young cattle $20 to $30 a head. Some Glengarry dairy herds are being reduced "due to impending shortage of winter feed and also the serious shortage of water."

Grenville pullets are coming into heavy egg production. Plowed acreage is above normal. All threshing and clover dressing is completed in Lennox-Addington.

"Milkweed shipment of approximately 10,000 bags has been completed", in Northumberland.

Essex reports very little fall plowing done, and sections of the western area of the province are looking for rain.

Perfect Spot

Perth county must broadcast from an optimist, as follows: "We have had an ideal fall and farmers are well ahead with their plowing. Most of the crops are in storage, except turnips; rain has improved plowing and many farm hands have volunteered for work in industry for the winter."

This week's departmental report indicates that many wells are dry all the way across the province, and rain is needed in many districts.

Plans Being Made For Pod Collection

Frank C. Paterson and Fred B. Smitheram, public school inspector, were arranging Monday afternoon for the final stage of the collection of the milkweed pods which have been gathered by rural school children.

In the meantime the young people are asked to keep their bags of pods under cover now and until they receive further information as to central points from which truck service will be supplied. The pods have been drying for weeks and should be put under cover, in the school shed, but no nearer the school room than that annex.

The Tea Hour Gossip . . .

I am going to devote our space today to a couple of very choice recipes for cakes.

Maple Syrup Cake

½ cup sugar, 1-3 cup shortening, ¾ cup maple syrup, ½ cup milk, salt, 2¼ cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 3 egg whites.

Cream the sugar and shortening together. Add the syrup and stir well. Add the milk and flour alternately. Fold in the beaten egg whites and bake in an oblong pan at (350 degrees or 375 degrees) for 45 to 60 minutes. When cake is cool, place it on an inverted cake pan and cover with maple sugar frosting.

Ginger Cocoanut Cakes

2-3 cup molasses, ½ cup sugar, ½ cup butter, or other shortening, 1 teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 2 cups sifted cake flour, 1 cup sour milk, 2 eggs beaten. Heat first five ingredients to boiling point stirring constantly. Cool to lukewarm. Sift soda and flour together and add alternately with milk and eggs, beating thoroughly. Pour into greased muffin pans. Bake in a 350 degree F. oven for 15 minutes. Cover with a boiled frosting and sprinkle with cocoanut.

Blitz Torte

½ cup shortening, ½ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 4 egg yolks, beaten light, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 3 tablespoons milk, 1 cup sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 4 egg white, ¾ cup sugar, ½ cup sliced blancherd almonds, 1 tablespoon sugar, ½ teaspoon cinnamon. Cream shortening, beat in sugar and salt, then egg yolks, vanilla, milk and flour (sifted with baking powder. Spread mixture in two round greased cake pans. Beat egg whites until very light, add ¾ cup of sugar gradually and spread on the unbaked mixture in both pans. Sprinkle with almonds, 1 tablespoon sugar and cinnamon and bake in a modern oven about 30 minutes. Let cool and put together with cream filling.

Cream Filling

1-3 cup of sugar, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 egg yolks, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 cups milk (scalded), 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Combine sugar, cornstarch, salt and egg yolks. Beat thoroughly and add butter and enough milk to make a smooth paste. Add paste to remaining hot milk and cook over boiling water, stirring constantly until it thickens. Cool and add vanilla. If desired, add ½ cup chopped nut meats.

BEGINNER'S LUCK

LONDON — (CP). — Police Constable Charles Pearson, 49, "didn't know a carrot from a turnip" in 1939 but he's just won another big gardening prize. He decided to be a victory gardener and bought a sixpenny booklet on gardening. Since then he's won five major prizes.

Quebec Units Assured Reinforcements

MONTREAL, Nov. 14.—(CP). — Maj.-Gen. L. R. LaFleche, Minister of National War Services, in a statement issued here last night said that he, as a Quebec Minister, "has assumed the responsibility of arranging to find the men needed for French-Canadian units now in action."

He added that over the week-end he had obtained formal offers from the commanding officers of four Province of Quebec regiments that they would reinforce French-speaking regiments now on the battlefronts, and he confidently awaited a similar response from another regiment. "There will be others as soon as I have the opportunity to put the matter up to the regiments."

Maj.-Gen. LaFleche, a native of Sorel, Que., who was himself seriously wounded while serving with the French-speaking Royal 22nd Regiment in the first Great War, and who was decorated with the D.S.O. and French Legion of Honor, said that it was only three weeks ago that he learned, "for the first time," of the reinforcement situation.

Patriotic Duty.

"I was convinced," his statement continued, "that men of Quebec would, if the situation were placed before them with complete frankness, and on the basis of equal privilege for equal sacrifice, make it their patriotic duty to ensure that never would their compatriots overseas be threatened with a shortage of reinforcements. Accordingly, I volunteer to take the affair in hand, and virtually to guarantee the Province of Quebec's answer to the call for more men for French-Canadian regiments.

"My proposal was not taken up.

"A change in the Ministry of National Defense followed, and I was then asked to find the volunteers.

Official Offers

"I am now in receipt of an official offer from the commanding officer of the Fusiliers Mont-Royal to raise a reinforcing battalion for the 1st Battalion of that regiment at present in action against the Germans on the Western front.

"I hold a similar offer from the commanding officer of the Regiment de Maisonneuve, the first regiment in Canada to reach full mobilization after war broke out in 1939.

"The commanding officers of the Regiment de Joliette and of the Regiment de Chateauguay have given me similar assurances.

First Appeal to Draftees

"In each case the home regiment offering a reinforcing battalion will have the privilege of selecting the unit it will reinforce. The first appeal to 'go active' will be made to NRMA men.

"As I have always been, I am extremely proud of my compatriots, and have every confidence in them.

"I have been very happy to inform the Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King of these offers. He also in the hour of crisis had faith in his fellow-Canadians"

Other Regiments

In addition to regiments mentioned by Gen. LaFleche, French-Canadian units serving overseas are Royal 22nd Regiment, Three Rivers, Que., Regiment, Le Regiment de la Chaudiere, and the Sherbrooke Regiment.

Demand From Japs Payments In Rubber

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., November 14 — (Special). — "Whatever the Japanese do or do not do in British Malaya with the rubber estates they captured, they should most certainly, at the end of the war in the Pacific, be made to hand over to the Allies a great amount of rubber as part of the reparations agreed upon, for, when the Japanese captured the county, they obtained 50 per cent of the source of the world's rubber supply" stated E. H. Banks, Toronto, Press Representative, Canadian Pacific Railway, in an address before the Junior Chamber of Commerce here last night.

"The question asked on all sides", continued Mr. Banks, "is what will be the condition of the estates when they are handed back to their British owners after the Allied victory. As very little of a scorched earth policy was practised by the British when the country was overrun by the Japanese, it is probable that the majority of the estates will be found intact and producing rubber. In this connection, however, it must not be forgotten that the Japanese, when they see defeat in sight, may decide to tap the trees to death. This would enable them, if they thought it worthwhile, to get away with about 200,000 tons of rubber."

CPR Employee Hurt In Fall From Case

HAVELOCK, Nov. 14—(ENS)— Henry Ellis, an employee of the C.P.R., working with the yard gang in the Havelock yard, on the government cases, fell off one of the cases he was working on Sunday afternoon, and was unconscious for almost an hour.

He received injuries to his back and is being attended by Dr. J. Holdcroft. The full extent of his injuries will not be known for three days. He is reported as resting well today.

$55 AND 70 COUPONS

LONDON — (CP). — Members of the Women's Royal Naval Service will receive a clothes gratuity of about $55 and 70 clothing coupons on demobilization.

Disgusted Sailor

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 14 — (AP). — A sailor, home after two years of navy duty in the South Pacific, rushed from an armistice day parade to retrieve a paper American flag dropped from a plane. He ran several blocks and climbed a telephone pole after the souvenir. Then he threw it down in disgust. In one corner were the words: "Made in Japan."

Air Delegates Would Block Any Monopoly

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14 — (CP). — Out of the international civil aviation conference of 54 governments meeting here are coming clear indications of the role the airplane is going to play in carrying passengers, mail and high-class freight between countries after the war.

Regardless of whether the conference produces agreement on the creation of an international air authority, a sort of international version of the Canadian Board of Transport Commissioners, the information assembled at the conference makes two things obvious.

1. The world will be girdled with a network of air routes over which fast, long-range planes will carry traffic at progressively lowering rates.

2. There will be no monopoly of air transport in the hands of any particular country or airline company.

Within the conference there are two groups of nations roughly aligned with one another but overlapping to a large extent. One is out to see that there is no undue interference with airline operations by any international authority or super-government.

Curb Control.

The other is out to see that neither the United States nor any other country by reason of its resources in planes and manufacturing capacity, the advanced state of development of its civil aviation, gets exclusive control of the airlines of the world.

In the first group are the United States, the Latin-American Republics and China. In the second are practically all countries except the United States and some of the Latin-American Republics in which United States airlines have large interests.

The deadlock which leaders of the delegations from Canada, the United Kingdom, and the United States are trying to resolve to-day is only partly related to these groupings. Canada and the United Kingdom are the principal protagonists of an international authority with power to fix rates, allocate routes and regulate frequencies. The United States is opposed to such powers.

Reconstruction Minister Howe, who returned to the conference during the week-end after several days in Ottawa, is in the thick of the meetings.

Ken Hutchinson Home

attack was pressed home by torpedo-carrying Beauforts, but when the forces of Rommel stormed into Egypt from Libya, their base was moved back to the canal zone. However, detachments were sent to Malta, and from that island, the attacks on Rommel's shipping were continued.

F./L. Hutchinson was wounded in the leg by flak, while his plane was attacking a large enemy convoy near Levkos, in Greece. He was returned to a hospital in Cairo, where he spent several weeks recuperating. He was unable to rejoin his squadron, which was back in Malta now, and so he became part of another group, which was taking part in the sweeping of the sea lanes along the coast of Africa, while the Germans were being pushed back all along the front after El Alamein. The work now consisted mainly of anti-submarine patrols, and bombing and torpedoing.

On January, 1943, the 29-year-old officer finished his tour of operations. Via British Overseas Airways, he flew from North East Africa to Capetown, at the extreme south, where he took a special navigator's instructional course. During the flight down to Capetown, the plane landed in Portuguese East Africa, because of a military technicality.

After the course had been completed, he was assigned duty in Palestine, where he remained for eight months, before the eventual return to England, and Canada!

In those three years briefly outlined, many changes have taken place in Peterborough, F./L. Hutchinson said. Absence of many old chums, now in the services, accounts for one of the changes. And, on the other side of the world, more momentous changes have taken place, in which this Peterborough boy played his part. Military experts have said that a war was won at El Alamein, and here is another Peterborough serviceman who shared in that victory.

A former employee of Canada Packers Company, where he worked on the office staff, F./L. Hutchinson enlisted in the R.C.A.F. in June, 1940, and went overseas in April, 1941, after graduating as a navigator in Edmonton, the previous September. He was commissioned overseas.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

DEFENSE DURING ATTACK

BOTH GENERALS and admirals of top ability appreciate the importanace of defense during an attack. That is, while carrying on an offensive, they give a necessary amount of attention to protecting their forces against possible counter measures of the enemy. It is the same with an able declarer in contract bridge. While carrying forward his plan to make his own contract, he also considers the dangers that may lurk along the way, and executes his plan in such a way as to forestall those hazards.

West led the heart K to the A. South made one of those first-glance examinations of his situation. He saw that he might lose a trick in clubs if the finesse would not work, and so could not in that event afford any heart losers. Two of his small hearts could be parked on the dummy's diamond honors, but he had better ruff one of the hearts. This he decided to do at once, leading the heart 2 and playing the spade 5 from dummy.

See what happened to that. East over-ruffed with the spade 10, led a club which West ruffed, scored another trick by ruffing the returned heart with his spade Q and fed another club to West to ruff. South was put down three "before he could say January."

Just a little more counting would have shown South that he could afford to try two top trumps before ruffing any hearts, which would leave the spade J in dummy for a single ruff, all that would be needed. If he had done that, he not only would have protected himself against the vital over-ruff which beat him so badly, but would have made an extra trick above his contract when the club finesse worked.

Here's one of the few times to say "always" in bridge—always take out trumps before trying ruffs, if you can afford to do so, thus forestalling over-ruffs.

Canadian Pilots Set Record

AN ADVANCED R.C.A.F. FIELD IN HOLLAND, Nov. 14 (CP Cable)—Canadian Spitfire pilots under the joint command of Group Capt. G. P. McGregor of Montreal and Wing Cmdr. Dal Russel of Westmount, Que., are leading all other wings of the 2nd Tactical Air Force in cutting German railway lines with a record of 113 cuts during the last three weeks.

This all-star wing which has destroyed more German aircraft and damaged more enemy transport than any other formation since D-Day is a triple threat every time its Spitfires are in the air.

After dropping their bomb loads, the pilots have been blasting locomotives and road transport with cannons and machine-guns and on three recent occasions they smashed bombs on targets, shot down aircraft attempting to intercept, and then strafed trains and transport before returning to base.

During this three-week period the McGregor-Russel men unloaded approximately 320 tons of bombs on enemy rail bridges and junctions, occasionally switching their attention, at British 2nd Army demands, to ammunition or oil dumps.

In three instances when hostile aircraft were encountered six were shot down and another was probably destroyed. Other statistics show 146 locomotives disabled, more than 200 freight cars damaged and just under 200 road transports crippled.

When the Spitfire men first were told they were to carry bombs they were as happy as race horse owners asked to mount their steeds with oat pails as well as jockey's. But as soon as the pilots realized the tremendous results they were obtaining, their dislike of bomb-toting decreased.

90 Non-Nazi Germans Trained In Democracy

LONDON, Nov. 14 — (CP) — Ninety non-Nazi Germans are being trained in Democracy at a school within occupied Germany to become policemen under military government officials.

These 90 Germans are the first of many who will be trained, it was stated today. They are being taught English and the laws and proclamations by which Germany will be governed.

An important part of their studies is the Democratic principle that the law functions for the people and all men are equal before the law, and that public officials serve the public rather than rule it.

Three Young Canadian Fliers Spot Elusive Convoy In Mediterranean

Written For The Canadian Press by Flt. Lt. Don MacMillan, R.C.A.F.

WITH THE R.C.A.F. IN THE MIDDLE EAST, Nov. 14.—(CP).—In the Middle East, along the sandy shores of the Mediterranean Sea, at lonely desert stations, and in cafes and clubs in Egypt, they're telling the story of three young Canadians who were the key men behind one of the biggest trouncings a German convoy has suffered in the Mediterranean theatre in this war.

The principal actors in this drama above the grime and sullen water of the Aegean Sea were "Gus," "Ges" and "Hod"—the pilot FO. Louis Gossen of (4236 Triumph St.) Vancouver; second pilot Elmer Gesener of Moncton, N.B., and anvigator WO. Bruce Hodgins of Clandeboye, Ont.

The airmen were over the Aegean, on the night of May 31 in a Wellington from a well-nown R.A.F. desert squadron in search of an elusive Jerry convoy. This convoy had been the object of intensive search for a long time and English, Australian, New Zealand and South African fliers all had a "go" at finding it but its whereabouts remained a mystery.

Around midnight, the Canadians and their R.A.F. flying mates noticed some black specks on the moon path on the water below them. They were the phantom convoy.

"We stooged around and counted seven ships," "Gus" remarked. "Then we signalled back to base that we'd found the convoy and gave its position. We decided we wanted a better look so we dropped some flares. They must have been waiting at their guns because they opened up on us then."

Tried Bombing Attack.

"We kept hanging around and then decided to try a bombing attack. I don't think we scored any direct hits. But I'll bet we shook them. Anyway we stuck around until our gas got low. Then we sent a final fix and hit for home."

So accurate were the signals sent back that, at dawn, Baltimores, Beaufighters and other aircraft took off and arrived over the convoy at the precise spot where "Gus," "Ges" and "Hod" said it would be.

What happened then made Mediterranean history and, right in the thick of things were two more Canadians, FO. Ted MacIntosh of Lumsden, Sask., and PO. Hiram (Steve) Stevenson of Chipman, B.C.

The attack on the convoy was spectacular and successful and when the smoke cleared, there just wasn't any convoy worthy of the name.

High praise and decorations have been given for the effort on the convoy, but an R.A.F. wing commander who has been in the desert practically since the war began summed thoings up when he remarked: 'The actual attack on the convoy was so spectacular that it would be very easy to overlook the fact that if it hadn't been for Gossen and his crew there wouldn't have been any attack.

War Reporters To Join Legion

OTTAWA, Nov. 14—(CP)—Canadian war correspondents who have served in a theatre of war will be admitted to the Canadian Legion as honorary members until the next Dominion convention when steps will be taken to grant them full active membership, Legion headquarters announced here today.

This action was taken last week at a meeting om the Dominion executive council. War correspondents previously were not eligible and it was explained that a change in Legion constitution will be necessary before they can be admitted to active membership.

Defence headquarters said that snce war started about 30 Canadian war correspondents have served in a theatre of war.

Indian Health Reported Poor

REGINA, Nov. 14—The 13,700 Indians scattered throughout Saskatchewan constitute a reservoir of disease, it is stated in the report of the Saskatchewan Health Services Survey Commission recently presented to the provincial minister of health.

The report says that in 1941 close to 50 per cent of all deaths of Indians, 174 out of 408, were due to infectious and parasitic disease. The 1943 tuberculosis death rate was 592 per 100,000 of population compared with 21 among the white population.

"Ill health of the Indians is a menace to the health of the white population since the two races mix freely," the report says.

It suggests that the Indians would, in all probability, received more medical attention if they could be included in the provincial system of rural health services. In this connection it is suggested that an agreement might be reached with the Dominion government, under which the province would assume responsibility for the health services of the Indians, and would be compensated for it by the Dominion.

It was pointed out that a similar agreement already has been made in the field of tuberculosis control.

To prove that Mendoco may do the same for you, we make this liberal trial offer: Get Mendoco from your druggist today! Unless it loosens and removes thick strangling mucus, brings free breathing, restful sleep and frees you from the suffering of Asthma attacks, simply return the empty package and get all your money back. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose So don't suffer another day without asking your druggist for Mendoco.

His War Work Couldn't Stop for RHEUMATIC PAINS

If rheumatic pains interfere with war work, the pains have to go! Here's how one British war worker gave his rheumatic pain its "marching orders":—

"My work is rather important," he writes. "I am in charge of two big boilers, and work all night. I had been troubled with rheumatic pains and constipation for about three years, and it was becoming a misery to do my work. I always felt tired. I tried Kruschen Salts, and after three weeks I felt like a new man. I do my work far better now than ever I have done before. One thing I noticed: I sleep much better too! I thank Kruschen Salts from the bottom of my heart. I would advise all men over 40 years to get the help of Kruschen."—J.G.

Rheumatic pains usually arise from poisons in the blood-stream. If you can clear them from the blood-stream, these poisons can't settle in your joints. That's how Kruschen helps you. Kruschen is a balanced combination of various mineral salts. It is aperient and diuretic. Because of this Double Action, Kruschen helps to cleanse the whole system thoroughly.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable of all Drug Stores. 25c and 75c.

BRITISH LAUNCH NEW MEUSE DRIVE

Many Nazis Perish In Danube

Reds Liquidate Bridgehead On Eastern Bank

LONDON, Nov. 15.—(CP).—German troops have evacuated the important communications centre of Jaszebereny, 35 miles due east of Budapest, the Berlin radio said today.

The reported loss of the bitterly contested city of 30,000 came after the Red army wheeled upon the Hungarian capital from several directions and liquidated a German bridgehead east of the Danube and south of Budapest. Moscow said 30 towns had been overrun.

Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's troops, holding fast to their positions within easy medium artillery range of Budapest on the south, speared north and northwest from Monor, and captured Uri and Peteri in gains of three to five miles.

Seizure of Solt and Duna Egyhaza, 46 and 42 miles south of Budpest, erased the enemy bridgehead on the east bank of the Danube. The Berlin radio said the Russians hurled three infantry divisions against the Nazis, who withdrew to newly-prepared positions on the west bank.

A Moscow dispatch said 1,200 prisoners were taken in the brideghead battle and hundreds more of the enemy drowned in an attempt to flee across the river. Approximately 50,000 Germans and Hungarians have been captured since Malinovsky began his drive on Budapest from southern Hungary last month, it was estimated.

Hungary seemed likely to remain the main theatre of action on the eastern front, the Moscow dispatch added, for there was little hint of any attempt in the near future to break the stalemate in Poland or East Prussia.

The Russian penetration into the eastern flank defences of Budapest created a growing peril for a German armored force which has been counter-attacking vainly in a triangular pocket north of Szolnok, advices from the front said. Soviet troops were reported hemming in this pocket, based on Jaszbereny, from three sides.

Churchill Sees Heavy Fighting

LONDON, Nov. 15 —(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, home from a tour of French battlefronts, told the House of Commons today that extremely heavy fighting "will certainly last for a good long time."

His statement was in reply to James Duncan, Conservative, who asked that men over 40 in "static" military stations be released from the army.

"I need hardly remind you that the static stations are necessary for the prosecution of the war," the prime minister replied. "Officers and men over 40 of low medical category who are employed there release officers and men for more active duty. In view of the present shortage of manpower I regret that the present arrangement for indefinite release from the forces cannot be altered."

Insistence by Mr. Duncan that the matter be reviewed in the light of new facts brought the statement from Mr. Churchill:

"The new fact that stares one in the face is that extremely heavy fighting is continuing week by week and will certainly last for a good long time."

7,000 Draftees Have Enlisted Since Last June

OTTAWA, Nov. 15—(CP).— An upsurge of recruiting that followed the June 6 invasion of Europe resulted in more than 7,000 draftees volunteering for general service between D-Day and October 31, Gen. McNaughton disclosed in a statement last night. Gen. McNaughton's statement made these disclosures about the 60,000-man home defence army:

1. Voluntary enlistments from among draftees during the June 6-October 31 period, ranging from a high of 2,975 in June to a low of 850 in October, totalled 7,875 against an intake of 6,200.

2. Of the 31,500 enrolled in 1941, an incomplete year dating from March, 7,500 volunteered for the active army, 4,200 went to other services and 3,300 were discharged, leaving a total of 15,000, of whom 6,200 still are draftees.

CCF Demands Full Information

EDMONTON, Nov. 15—(CP)—The proper course at the special session of the House of Commons, called for Nov. 22, would be for members to demand all information concerning overseas reinforcements from the government and from Col J. L. Ralston, who resigned this month as defence minister, M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, said last night.

"Ninety-nine per cent of the people discussing this question of reinforcements have no information upon which to base their judgment," he said at a public meeting. Recently returned from a tour of French and Belgian battle zones, Mr. Coldwell said he himself did not have latest information on the question.

"This matter is too serious for politicians to play politics with. If necessary, parliament should meet in secret session and every available document should be produced."

Politicians "see in this issue a golden opportunity to wrap themselves in the flag, get into power as the war closes, and sell Canada down the river for five years."

The C.C.F. party's attitude to the reinforcement question will be determined by disclosures of the parliamentary sitting this month. "Our boys are over there and we will see to it that those boys will get all the support they need."

Few Soldiers Apply For Gratuities

155,000 Eligible For Money Passed Month Ago

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Nov. 15—(CP)—Fewer than 41,000 applications for war service gratuities have been received by the Navy, Army and Air Force here since it was announced a month ago that application forms were available, a survey by The Canadian Press showed today.

Approximately 195,000 in the three services were discharged or became casualties prior to Oct. 1, and of the number only 40,700 have applied for the gratuities, provided under legislation passed at the last session of parliament.

Spokesmen for the services said it was the backlog of 155,000 who have not yet applied that was causing worry and it was hoped they or their dependents would file applications promptly. Personnel discharged after that date automatically filled out their gratuity application forms before leaving the service.

Application forms are available at all naval, military and air force establishments in Canada and at all district and sub-district offices of the former pensions department, now the Department of Veterans Affairs.

Dependents

Dependents of men killed on active service need not fill out forms, but need only make application in a letter giving the man's name, rank and regimental number, and the extent to which they were dependent upon him.

Dependents were eligibile for gratuities only if they were eligible for dependents' allowances at the date of the member's death or, if not eligible for dependents' allowances, providing they were dependent upon the member at the time and in receipt of assigned pay from him.

The discharged personnel themselves, however, must fill in all the details required in the application forms.

Under the gratuity legislation, active service personnel will receive $7.50 for every 30 days service in the Western Hemisphere, which includes Canada, the West Indies, Newfoundland and South America; $15 for every 30 days service overseas, including the Aleutians, Iceland and Greenland; seven days' pay and allowances for each six months' service overseas, and a re-establishment credit.

Kiska Veterans

Members of the home defence army who served in Kiska are entitled to gratuities covering the period of their service there. Other home defence troops, however, receive no benefits under the legislation.

Nationals of other countries who served in Canadian forces are entitled to the gratuities. Canadians who have been discharged from other Empire forces during the present war may apply, if they now are domiciled and resident in Canada, and were domiciled in Canada at the outbreak of hostilities. Those discharged from the other Empire forces need apply by letter only, giv-

The Big Problem

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP). —Sir Norman Angell, 1933 Nobel peace prize-winner, said last night one of the most serious problems to confront the post-war world will be "a conquest of the human mind to prevent what man has produced from enslaving him." He cited the robot bomb as an illustration of "what man had produced that could be used in his destruction."

Casualties High In Raid On Walcheren

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 15 —(CP Cable)—The "great success" of the British amphibious operations on Walcheren Island in the Schelde Estuary was achieved with "relatively heavy casualties" of 307 naval and commando personnel killed or missing and 482 wounded, A. V. Alexander reported to the House of Commons today.

The First Lord of the Admiralty said the operation, which resulted in final elimination of the Germans from the north side of the Schelde Estuary "had to be undertaken under difficult and somewhat unfavorable conditions against a desperate enemy."

Listing losses in the landings at West Kapelle and Vlissingen (Flushing on Walcheren, he said nine of 25 support craft engaged were sunk and eight damaged, with 172 officers and men from their crews killed and wounded.

Of the 47 other major landing craft engaged, four were sunk and others damaged. Casualties in these craft and in the attack on Vlissingen were 21 officers and men killed or missing, 81 wounded. Royal Marine Commandos suffered 114 officers and men killed or missing and 201 wounded.

Mr. Alexander disclosed that in view of the need to clear the Schelde as quickly as possible, Lt.-Gen. Simonds, at that time commanding the 1st Canadian Army when the commander, Lt.-Gen. Crerar, was ill, decided to put in the Vlissingen attack Nov. 1 whether the west Kapelle attack, dependent on the weather, could go in or not.

Because weather forecasts at this time of year are unreliable, Gen. Simonds and the naval force commander, Admiral Sir Bertram Ramsay, decided to sail the West Kapelle force from Oostende (Ostende) as planned but to leave to commanders on the spot the decision whether or not to attack.

Red Officer Says Japs Raided Russia

Balance Of Power In Pacific Held By Allies

MOSCOW, Nov. 15—(AP).—Col. Ivan Tolchenov, Soviet military authority, said today that the war in the Pacific was developing unfavorably for Japan, and recalled to his lecture audience that the Japanese had "attacked and raided the Soviet Union several times."

His listeners included Japanese correspondents and Red Army men. (His address came nine days after Premier Marshal Stalin had declared Japan an "aggressor nation." Russia and Japan are at peace under a non-aggression pact.)

"Japan risked fighting two great powers, the United States and Great Britain as a consequence of her longtime policy of expansion," Col. Tolchenov said. "Japan has also attacked and raided the Soviet Union several times. We may recall the Mongolian border action by the Japanese in 1939, when they were strongly rebuffed."

The veteran Red Army officer said the Pacific war was passing the first stage of Japan's well-prepared offensive and now was entering the second stage of the Allied counter-offensive. He declared that Japanese sea and air forces were inferior.

"The Japanese fleet has not suffered blows sufficient to paralyze its activity, but its losses will greatly affect its possibilities of resistance," he added. "Important events are ripening under unfavorable circumstances for Japan. Since the American landing in the Philippines, the battles are becoming stiffer."

Tolchenov said "the balance of power has shifted in favor of the Allies."

"American industry turns out 9,000 planes a month, while Japanese plants hardly produce more than 1,400 or 1,500 in the same period," he added. "Even given equal losses, the Allied air forces will continue to grow and exceed the Japanese. At present the United States fleet is two or three times stronger than the Japanese fleet."

He noted also the transfer of British warships to the Pacific.

"It is difficult to predict the outcome of the Philippines operations, but the Allies prepared them well and there is reason to believe they will achieve success," he told the rapt audience. "The Soviet Union, which occupied the main German forces on the eastern front, gave the Allies enough time for preparation for the Pacific."

Charge Tories Spread False News

WELLAND, Nov. 15—(CP)—David Lewis, national secretary of the C.C.F. speaking at a public meeting here last night charged the Progressive Conservative party with "making a lot of political noise" about the problem of reinforcements. He said the Progressive Conservative party "deliberately spread false information" for political purposes.

Asked what stand the C.C.F. would take in regard to reinforcements for the Canadian Army, Mr. Lewis said he could not speak for the party at the present time in that regard. He added that it was his personal opinion the party would support action to make draftees available as reinforcements if it were proven a necessity.

Mr. Lewis said that a caucus of all Federal members of the C.C.F. has been called in Ottawa to discuss the reinforcement issue prior to the opening of the special session of parliament on Nov. 22.

War Loan Total Over Top By 167 Million

OTTAWA, Nov. 15 — (CP). — On the basis of figures received to date, Canada's $1,300,000,000 Seventh Victory Loan was oversubscribed by $167,637,600 and reports of further subscriptions are awaited, the War Finance Committee reported to-day.

Further returns of purchases made during the Loan's three-week campaign which ended Saturday brought the cumulative total to $1,467,637,600, the committee reported. Returns were still incomplete and an up-to-date report on subscriptions would be made on Saturday.

Sunday in its first report after the campaign closed, the committee reported that on the basis of preliminary figures subscriptions totalled $1,228,129,750 and probably would total about $1,500,000,000 when final figures were received.

Of the Seventh Loan's latest total, $747,628,550 was from the corporate investor group as compared with $751,996,250 in the Sixth Loan. Sales to individuals amounted to $719,009,0500, representing an increase of about $115,000,000 over the corresponding Sixth Loan figures.

Officials of the War Finance Committee were watching with interest the trend which was carrying the individual purchase total almost to that of the level of the corporate investor group total.

The number of applications for Seventh Loan bonds stood at 2,900,221, as compared with 2,760,820 this time during the Sixth Loan, an increase of 229,401.

The average purchase by individuals during the recent campaign stood at $240.47 compared with $218.81 at this point of the Sixth Loan rtturns.

Cross Noord, Wessem Canals Have Firm Bridgehead 3 More Metz Forts Taken

Americans Open Assaults On 2 Other Forts
Counter-Attacks Fail
Civilian Population Moves Out Of Metz

By WILLIAM FRYE—Associtted Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 15—(AP).—The British 2nd Army's offensive in southeastern Holland, launched yesterday from a jumping-off point at the junction of the Noord and Wessem Canals, drove forward nearly three miles today while, 150 miles to the south, American troops were less than two miles from Metz on both south and west.

Lt.-Gen. Dempsey's British 2nd Army troops were 37 miles from the Ruhr city of Duisburg and a spokesman said:

"We are pushing on fast and, for the present at least, there is nothing much in sight to stop us.

Far to the south, meanwhile, American 7th Army troops pushed doggedly through the deepening snowfields of the Northern Vosges foothills.

But operations along the entire front were hampered by weather and there were no reports of air support in any sector.

The Americans driving on Metz battled through snow and sleet to capture three more forts and they by-passed two others.

Forts Hubert and Jussy, west of the city, fell to infantrymen who reached a point two miles from the city after a gain of 1½ miles. Fort Illange, just south of Thionville, fell to troops who stormed the bastion after the German commander had refused to surrender. Previously Fort Thionville, just north of the city, and Fort Koenigsmacher, across the Moselle to the northeast had been captured.

Bypass Driant

In sweeping up Forts Hubert and Jussy the Americans bypassed Fort Driant and its twin Fort Jeanne D'Arc in their thrust toward Metz from the west, a dispatch from Supreme Headquarters said. A German

Served 20 Years Wants To Return

BUFFALO, N.Y., Nov. 15 — (AP). — Frank R. Bortner, 60, ill and unable to adjust himself to life outside prison, wants to return to Auburn prison where he served 20 years for killing his wife. But he has found readmission is difficult.

Bortner went to Auburn Monday and asked Warden John Forster to permit him to re-enter. He was refused admittance and Auburn authorities advised the state parole board in Buffalo of his visit.

Today Bortner is in the Eire County jail here, awaiting an investigation of his case by the parole board. He was taken into custody on a parole violation warrant alleging he is "a risk to his own safety."

Monday, his parole officer received a letter from Bortner.

"I have done my best, but I cannot help it if I am sick and unable to work," he wrote, said Thomas J. McHugh, senior parole officer in Buffalo. "I will go straight to Auburn to Mr. John Forster, the warden. He has known me for 20 years. I am sick and I am going back where I came from."

Bortner had been working at an aircraft plant here since three days after he was paroled from Auburn, Sept. 11. He had been a prisoner since Dec. 15, 1924, on a 20-years-to-life sentence imposed after he pleaded guilty to second degree murder.

Japanese Units Hemmed On Three Sides

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Nov. 15 — (AP). — American forces today were on three sides of the Japanese spearhead thrusting north from the port of Ormoc on Leyte Island and threatened to cut the spear from the shaft.

Infantrymen swung wide to the west of the Japanese front line regiment near Limon, while other units maintained pressure along the line from the north. Dismounted cavalry units closed in from captured Hill 1525 and Mount Catabaran to the east in a nutcracker move.

American long-range guns were raking the Japanese supply line twisting up through the mountains from Ormoc, making reinforcement of enemy troops at Limon costly and uncertain.

The American 7th Division at Damulaan on the west Leyte coast, near the mouth of Ormoc Bay, repulsed a small enemy force attempting to land from barges, Gen. MacArthur reported.

Elements of five Japanese divisions are hemmed in by the Americans, who held high ground on three sides of Limon and along the east side of Narrow Valley leading south to Ormoc. On the west side of the valley are more high mountains and an abrupt slope to the sea.

Canadian Units Having A Rest

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(CP).—Indications are that most of the Canadian units in western Europe and in Italy now are out of the line, resting in preparation for new tasks.

Since Polish forces of the 1st Canadian Army eliminated the last German pocket south of the Maas (Meuse) river in Southwest Holland on Nov. 9, there have been no reports of activity by Lt.-Gen. Crerar's forces. This action was at the southern approaches to the Moerdijk bridges across the Diep.

The last operation in that sector involving Canadian troops was the drive to the Hollandsche Diep at Dintelloord on Nov. 5.

The last report of Canadian fighting was in an Adriatic front dispatch Nov. 10, which reported the capture of Germans in a patrol skirmish in the area of San Stefano, seven miles south of Ravenna.

French Police In Andorra

Move To Insure Security, Maintain Order

PARIS, Nov. 15.—(AP).—French Gendarmes occupied the little autonomous state of Andorra in the Pyrenees late Tuesday, the Foreign Office announced to-day.

A spokesman said Gen. de Gaulle made the decision of ex-officia to Co-Prince of Andorra and that the action was "a preventive measure" to insure security and maintain order throughout the winter months.

Andorra embraces 191 square miles at the French-Spanish frontier on the south slopes of the mountains. Rich iron mines and valuable forests lie in its cold limits. Most of the few thousand inhabitants are shepherds. Maximum length of the country is 17 miles and maximum width is 18.

The spokesman said "about 100" Gendarmes, carrying only normal police equipment, entered Andorra under orders of the Prefect of Perpignan.

He said there was no menace to security from Andorra at present, but he added that roads into the valley from the French side always are blocked by snow from the end of November through the winter, and thus it was consdered advisable to have the Gendarmes in the valley now as a protection against future possibilities.

The spokesman cited historical precedents for the act during the Franco-Prussian war in 1870, the first Great War in 1914 and the Spanish civil war in 1936, nd at the outset of the present war in 1939.

Writers Warn Nazis Planning 3rd War

Hitler's Disappearance Intrigues Entire World, Hope For News Of Death

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The mystery of what has happened to Hitler continues to challenge world speculation, not only because it's one of the most intriguing dramas of our day but because his fate is of vast import to all nations.

Hitler alive and in his normal health must remain a menace to mankind, so long as he has his freedom. His death or incapacitation would be a godsend which would, I believe, greatly shorten the war and help the establishment of peace.

No wonder there are many rumors and guesses on the riddle of Berchtesgaden. Reports that the Fuehrer is gravely ill, that his abnormal brain finally has snapped and he is mad, that he is dead—all these are received with eager hope outside Germany. Few give a tinker's damn which of these disasters has overtaken him, but want to be sure of it.

I've heard it suggested that the Nazis are feverishly preparing fortifications in the Bavarian Alps for a final stand, and that Adolf is bossing the job. Louis Lochner, long Associated Press chief of bureau in Germany, throws out the novel suggestion that the dictator may use plastic surgery to change his features in preparation for flight to a neutral country.

Now comes another new and startling thought from Dudley Hilton Taylor, managing editor of the Kentucky new era, of Hopkinsville, Ky. He asks in an editorial if it isn't possible the Germans are thinking in terms of a third great war and are preparing the master hoax of all time—the hiding of Hitler, or the build-up of his supposed death while he is whisked away to a safe hiding place, where he may act as the inspiration of a German underground movement in preparation for another attempt at world conquest.

Plan Years Ahead

Mr. Taylor was in a field hospital in France when the First Great War ended. He remembers how the Germans even then were plotting the present conflagration while outwardly they gave the impression of being whipped. He says Hitler preached for years that if you tell a lie big enough, and repeat it a sufficient number of times, the world will believe it.

"Let's hope," adds Mr. Taylor, "that a repeated German lie may not be accepted as the truth while the Nazi propagandists laugh at us as the did while we remained divided—nationally and internationally—as the Germans conquered nation after nation.

"The press of the Allied world has a duty in this case—a duty we believe it will discharge. That duty is to keep the closest tab possible on the source if the stories regarding Hitler, especially all that appears to be German inspired."

Nazi Party Cracks Down

Educate Soldiers To Party Loyalty

LONDON, Nov. 15 —(AP)—The Nazi party, using the name of long-silent Hitler, clamped a tighter hold on the retreating German army today.

A new decree ordered all German officers and non-commissioned officers who were members of the Nazi party to "educate their men in the Nazi sense," both on duty and off duty. Previously, men were required to leave the party during their periods in the armed service.

The decree was broadcast by the transocean propaganda service.

The Times of London declared there no longer seemed any doubt that Henrich Himmler was the acting leader of Germany, adding that no one had appeared to challenge extension of his powers.

Curiously, the name of Himmler was conspicuously absent from the new decree that "all soldiers are now permitted to take over a function in the (Nazi) party or its branches."

In addition to Hitler it was signed by Herman Goering — once No. 2 Nazi but himself so long silent that he too, is now subject to "ill, mad or dead" rumors. Other signatories were Field Marshal Gen. Wilhelm Keitel and Chief of Chancellory Martin Bormann.

7th Victory Loan Closed With All Groups Over

Payroll savings subscription of the Seventh Victory Loan was 126.8 per cent of its sectional objective, as shown in the final headquarters statement issued today.

Objective of the payroll savings group, comprising the employees of twenty-three companies together with civil servants, was $900,000 and the amount secured was $1,140,850.

General canvass in the city amounted to $1,854,650 or 110.7 per cent of its $1,675,000 objective.

Special names group wound up their effort on the rotund evenness of $1,500,000, which was 107.1 per cent of the group objective of $1,400,000.

The rural canvass also passed the 100 per cent, minimum low objective, with $648,350 or 103.7 per cent of the quota of $625,000.

Rural Response

The remnant farm section of North Monaghan raced the rural company over the finish line with 134 per cent of their objective. They were followed by Lakefield village at 124.6 per cent as compared with 102.3 per cent in the Sixth Loan. It is worth recalling that Lakefield had an objective of $55,000 in both these 1944 campaigns. Last spring the total of subscriptions was $56,250, and in this recent drive the total was $68,550, an increase of effort that carried the Lakefield right up into the top company of their division.

Belmont-Methuen township were in third position with 119.8 per cent. Their objective in both campaigns was $25,000. In the Sixth, the eastern farmers took $27,950 of the Loan, or 111.8 per cent of their quota; and in this Loan $29,950 for 119.8 per cent.

The four northern townships finished in the fourth spot. Harvey, Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos trailed in the Sixth Loan at 99.4 per cent of their allotment, but in this recent campaign they broke fast and substantially and kept ahead of the progressive percentages all through the drive. In the spring their objective was $45,000 and they subscribed $44,750.

In this Seventh the "northerners" were given an increase in objective to $47,000, and they responded with $55,550, or 118.2 per cent of their quota.

Dummer township was another of the front-runners, closing in fifth position at 113.3 per cent. At that they dropped down a little from the Spring, but on the other hand they have a high average for both campaigns this year.

Their quota was $30,000 in the Sixth and they invested $38,150 or 127.2 per cent. In this campaign they were given a higher quota of $35,000 and they came through with $39,650.

Havelock repeated its spring performance attaining sixth place in both campaigns. With an objective of $42,000 in the Sixth Loan they contributed $47,750 or 113.7 per cent. In the Seventh, their quota was advanced to $45,000 and they accepted that challenge with $50,200 or 111.6 per cent.

Norwood village came through on the bit, solidly but calmly, more or less like the character of its imperturbable reeve, Rork Ferguson. They were in seventh spot, moving up from the ninth in the spring. Their objective was $58,000 in both drives, and their investments were $62,450 for 107.7 in the Sixth and $61,650 for 106.3 in the Seventh.

Ennismore closed its account in the 8th position. The Gifford community was fifth in the Sixth Loan, with 115 per cent, subscribing $13,800. Their objective was moved up from $12,000 to $15,000 and they dig down for $15,650, or 104.3 per cent.

Failed to Get Objective

Asphodel dropped back from second place to ninth. With that 128.9 per cent in the spring, when their objective was $38,000 and they subscribed $49,000, obviously "they stuck their neck out" in an excellent cause, and drew an increase of objective to $45,000, and finished with $46,750 in subscriptions or 103.9 per cent. Actually the Asphodel total was less than in the Sixth drive.

Otonabee with the top load in each campaign finished in tenth place. Their quota was $130,000 in the Sixth and they took $133,500 for 102.7 per cent. In the recent Loan they were assigned $140,000 and responded with $131,050 or 93.6 per cent.

Otonabee's subscriptions in these last two campaigns total $264,550, a large investment in Victory.

Douro township dropped from 8th to 11th. Their quotas were unchanged at $35,000. In the Sixth they subscribed $38,750 for 110.7 per cent, and in this campaign $30,700 for 87.7 per cent.

Smith township swung first to last a full sweep of the pendulum, from 132.4 per cent to 87.5 per cent.

With $90,000 objective their Sixth Loan total was $119,200 or $132.4 per cent to 87.5 per cent.

With $90,000 objective their Sixth Loan total was $119,200 or 132.4 per cent. Their quota was jacked up from $90,000 to $105,000, but their campaign dropped back to $91,850.

The rural total figures were: Objective $625,000; secured $648,350 or 103.7 per cent. And in the Sixth Loan—Objective $600,000; amount secured $681,700 for 113.3 per cent.

Troke in Front

John A. Troke, to whom selling is his natural habitat, turned in the highest percentage score in the several groups of salesmen—150.3 per cent. That was the top performance in the city and rural canvass.

Here are some of the others: W. Roberts 147; Rufus Payne 140.2; J. D. Anderson 133.2; J. Arnott 127.9; R. Irwin 122.6; James Juby 115.5; Arthur J. McClellan 115.3; W. P. Kinlin 114.9; Victor Tully 111.5; Fred Revoy 110.3; Lou Brooks 108.4; M. B. Pringle 105.7; C. A. Gallagher 103; Bruce Sargent, 102.7; W. E. Metheral 101.3; N. S. Schaus 97.7; C. A. McFadgen 93.9.

Leading county canvassers in North Monaghan included: Henry Batten 137.4; C. H. Hunter, Lakefield, 119.1; Rev. C. A. G. Spence, Apsley, 117.1; P. J. Mather, Otonabee, 115.6; J. S. Henderson, Otonabee, 114.9; Alex Rose, Dummer, 108.1; James Gifford, Ennismore, 104.3; A. Morris, Smith, 101; W. H. Giffen, Norwood, 95.5; J. Hughey, 84.6; E. J. Leeson, Havelock, 82.2; William Darling, Dummer, 83.

Cheese, Produce and Livestock

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Livestock Receipts

Cattle	1,400
Calves	500
Hogs	900
Sheep and lambs	1,100

Cattle trade continued dull at generally steady prices on the livestock market yesterday with an estimated 5,000 head unsold at the close. Lamb and sheep trade was dull at steady prices with about 3,000 head unsold. Hogs were sold mostly to small buyers and were up 10 cents a cwt. grade "A" dressed. Calves were steady.

F. C. Fletcher, manager of the union stockyards, issued a warning during the day that farmers should refrain from shipping cattle to the yard previous to Saturday and after that only half the normal volume should be sent. No more cattle would be admitted for the remainder of the week, Mr. Fletcher said. He estimated that there would be a carry-over into next week of between 2,500 and 3,000 cattle and many lambs. The yards manager pointed out that heavy receipts of Western cattle had no bearing on the existing glut because these cattle from the west were brought here for finishing and did not go into the abattoir.

In cattle trade weighty steers were $10-$12, butcher steers and heifers $8.50-$10.50, fed yearlings mostly $11-$13, butcher cows $7-$8.75, canners and cutters $5-$6.75, bulls $6-$8.50 and stockers $7-$9.

Choice veal calves were $14-$15, with heavies $8-$13, and grassers $5.50-$6.

Good ewe and wether lambs were $12.50-$13, bucks $11.50-$12, and culls $7-$8.

Sheep were $3-$4.50.

Hogs were $17.65 grade "A" dressed, with sows $13 dressed.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Nov. 15 — (CP). — Unconfirmed rumors that the United States War Production Board, in view of the ample corn supplies, would rescind its order requiring 10 per cent rye in production of alcohol yesterday brought an unsettled tone to the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Rye futures slipped as much as 3⅝ cents.

In export trade, United States interests took 100,000 bushels of malting grades barley and Quebec and Ontario buyers purchased a small lot of wheat.

Stock Market Prices Lower

TORONTO, Nov. 15—(CP)—Prices were lower this afternoon on Toronto Exchange. Volume was small at 196,000 shares. Golds led the decline.

Giant Yellowknife and Buffalo-Ankerite weakened 10 to 15 cents and declines of 5 cents appeared for Beattie, Rouyn, O'Brien, Chesterville, McKenzie and Transcontinental Resources. Stronger prices ruled for Cochenour Willans, Sullivan, West Malartic and MacLeod-Cockshutt.

Lake Dufault was the feature of base metals. It climbed to 1.84 for a gain of 24 cents. Noranda and Hudson Bay were up and Labrador lost 6 cents.

Industrials showed little change. Senior oils gained and in papers Abitibi Pfd weakened ½. Steels and foods held steady.

British Armies Link Up In Burma

KANDY, Ceylon, Nov. 15—(CP-Reuter)— Indian and East African divisions maintaining their drives west of the Chindwin River in Burma have linked up north-west of Kalemyo, key Japanese communication centre guarding the Chindwin Valley, one of the routes leading south to Mandalay, it was announced to-day.

East African forces attacking down the Kabaw and Kale Valleys are encountering strong resistance six miles north of the town.

The main body of the 5th Indian Division, poised eight miles west of Kalemyo, has cleared resistance east of the stockades of the road from Tiddim.

In Northern Burma the Chinese troops made only slight advances north-east of Bhamo yesterday.

Permission To Sell Milk Is Refused

"A real good market," Dr. Harold Worton commented to the Board of Health Tuesday, in a reference to his report as included in the October review of Sanitary Inspector MacPherson. Dr. Worton has been engaged for months as assistant with special attention to the dairy farms. On his recommendation, permission to sell milk in Peterborough was refused to one dairy farm whose permit was cancelled during the month.

"The premises were in such a condition as to warrant immediate cancellation of permit to ship milk for city bottle trade," the report informed the Board. "Two new shippers were issued permits following inspection and completion of changes necessary to comply with bylaw and Milk Control Act."

"The market was visited regularly by Dr. Worton and on all days foods offered for sale were wholesome and well cared for."

A paragraph relating to pasteurizing plants:

"These plants were for the most part kept in good sanitary condition. Two have been repainted throughout as required. In one plant, however, conditions were not so satisfactory and despite repeated warnings and periodical housecleanings the plant invariably lapsed into a state of neglect. We, therefore, felt it necessary to institute proceedings against the operator not only for the sake of coercion but for the most important fundamental reason, that the health of the citizens of Peterborough must be protected. The operators of dairy plants owe it to the people to see that they are served a reasonably safe product. This cannot be done in unsanitary surroundings.

"In several special investigations, Dr. Worton assisted; swabs were taken from equipment at various points; scrapings from pipes, pumps and fittings were taken for analysis in order to assist operators in improving product."

Fortune Teller Guilty

SHERBROOKE, Que., Nov. 15 —(CP)—An all French-speaking jury yesterday after 30-minute deliberation found Mrs. T. British Cross Montone River

By LYNN HEINZERLING
Associated Press War Correspondent

ROME, Nov. 15 (AP)—British 8th Army forces have crossed the Montone River more than two miles northwest of Forli on the highway to Bologna, Allied Headquarters announced today.

In the Apennine foothills to the south the Germans made a slight withdrawal. It was believed they would attempt to hold positions along the canalized river Cosina, which the highway crosses just west of the Montone.

The crossing of the Montone represented a widening advance by the 8th Army along the Po valley toward Faenza, next major city on the highway.

Faenza now lay only six miles beyond forward British units.

British troops have occupied the tiny hamlet of Villa Grappa.

The Germans are withdrawing along the highway sector as pressure on both banks has been intensified and contact has been broken off with the German rearguards on the main route skirting the edge of the Po Valley.

There was rainfall on most of the Italian front and snow thickened the winter blanket on high ground south of Bologna. The situation on the Allied 5th Army front changed little.

Indian troops captured Monte San Bartolo, which gives observation over the road approaching Modigliana, two miles farther northeast.

OBITUARIES

MRS. JAMES KENNEDY

HAVELOCK, Nov. 15—(ENS)— The funeral of the late Mrs. James Kennedy of Cordova Mines took place from the Free Methodist Church and was conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Hicks. Interment took place in the Maple Grove Cemetery at Havelock.

Born in North Marmora, she was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Hamilton, and had resided for over twenty years in Cordova Mines.

Mrs. Kennedy was in her usual health until she went to retire when she was suddenly stricken and passed away within half an hour.

Left to mourn besides her husband are three daughters, Gwendolyn 14, Lois 10, and Gena 8, and one son Reggie 11; three brothers, Harry Hamilton of North Marmora, Herbert Hamilton of Windsor and George Hamilton of Eldorado; one sister, Mrs. Eliza Hutchins of Picton.

Pallbearers were Fred Bowen, Harry Bowen, Ross Barrons, Charles Campion, John Wilkes and Arthur Caverley.

MRS. A. DAVIS

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 15 (ENS) — The funeral of Jessie Isobel Allan, beloved wife of Amberson Davis, Lakefield, conducted from the Tedford Funeral home on Tuesday afternoon, was one of the largest funerals held in this district for some years.

Mrs. Davis died at her home on Sunday morning, following an illness of three months.

Born at Baltimore, near Cobourg, 67 years ago, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Allan, she received her education at Peterborough Collegiate and later at Toronto Normal School. Following her graduation from Normal Schol she taught at Rosedale, Peterborough and above Young's Point. Her son, Roger, also taught at the school above Young's Point prior to his enlistment and taught the children whose parents his mother had taught many years before.

After her marriage to Amberson Davis, some 37 years ago, they resided in Smith, above Young's Point, and moved to Lakefield 25 years ago.

Mrs. Davis was an active member in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, and also a member of the W.M.S. and Women's Association of St. Andrew's, a member of the Women's Institute and the Lakefield Library Board.

She is survived by her husband, two sons, Douglas of Lakefield, Corporal Roger Davis overseas, and one daughter, Mary at home; also two sisters, the Misses Elizabeth and Agnes Allan of Peterborough.

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. L. M. Sharpe and Rev. George Kelly broadcast earlier had said the Americans had opened assaults on Driant, which the enemy successfully defended against a thrust two months ago, and Jeanne D'Arc.

Casket bearers were W. H. Mitchell, Toronto; Donald Kidd, Toronto; Harold Hamblin, Peterborough; W. G. Morrison, George Jackman and T. W. Chaplin, all of Lakefield.

The flower bearers were Charles Young, Dave Darling, Delmar Jackman, Stanley Richardson, Bruce Charlton and Norman Allan.

Immediately south of Metz, American troops which captured Forts L'Aisne and L'Yser, were driving toward Magny, less than a mile from the city, after capturing Pouilly and the ridge of the same name. East of this point, other Americans seized Feltre, 2½ miles southeast of Metz. German resistance in this area was reported stiffening.

Despite signs that the Germans do not plan a suicide stand in Metz the Berlin radio announced that the civilian population of Metz had been ordered evacuated.

Doubling the Allied assault on the west front, troops of the British 2nd Army struck savagely toward the Maas (Meuse) river east of Nederweert yesterday afternoon. By this morning they had established a firm bridgehead across the Noord and Wessem Canals west of Roermond and were expanding the weight of their drive, thinly opposed except for the usual troublesome and extensive minefields.

A field report today said Lt.-Gen. Dempsey's troops had gained 4,000 yards on a three-mile front west of Venlo.

Immediately south of Metz, the Americans who breached the ring of forts—finding them surprisingly unmanned and stripped of their big guns—ran up against a hastily-emplaced line of German 88-mm. guns on the ridge beyond Pouilly, less than two miles south of the city.

Another American column was closing in on Metz from the west, and north of the fortress city—reputedly the strongest citadel in Europe—the two bridgeheads across the Moselle at Koenigsmacher and Uckange were consolidated and expanded

On the right flank of the U.S. 3rd Army's attack, American infantry and armor advancing north of Chateau Salins reached the area of Destrich and Barwonweiler, swinging the left arm of a pincers toward the encirclement of Moerchingen.

As the sudden offensive on the British sector of the west front gained momentum, a spokesman at Field Marshal Montgomery's 21st Army group headquarters said all initial objectives had been won, and the enemy had withdrawn from the line of the canals in the Maas bulge.

Meijel, springboard of a savage counter-thrust by the enemy two weeks ago, was found abandoned, and only light resistance met the British attacks, led by flame-throwing tanks, as they crossed the Noord Canal near the village of Waatscamp and the Wessen Canal southeast of Weert. The village of Einc was captured.

A 21st Army group spokesman said "the Boche is thinned out," and added it was possible the enemy had pulled the bulk of his forces behind the Maas River.

Gain in Vosges

Fresh gains were scored also by Franco-American troops of the 6th Army group in the Vosges mountains and foothills north of the Swiss border. Northeast of Baccarat they advanced approximately two miles against light resistance, and east of Bruyeres the town of Granges Sur Vologne and several nearby villages were captured as the enemy was forced back more than a mile.

Still farther south, despite snow and mud and the extensive minefields planted by the Germans, limited advances were scored against stiff opposition in the flooded valley of the Doubs River.

Apparently the purpose of the new British drive was to flatten the enemy bulge west of the Maas (Meuse) River and straighten the front between the Dutch city of Nijmegen, and the German city of Aachen, when U.S. 1st Army troops have penerated the Siegfried Line.

Preceded by a 400-gun artillery barrage, the Tommies jumped off at 4 p.m. yesterday and quickly established bridgeheads across two canals near Nederweert, 18 miles west and slightly south of Venlo and 38 miles northwest of Aachen.

The rest of the British-Canadian and the Hollandsche Diep running front along the line of the Maas west across the Netherlands was quiet.

The fighting around Metz, a city of 64,000 which never has been taken by storm in modern times, appeared to be rushing toward a swift and unanticipated climax. A front dispatch said the fall of the city appeared to be but a matter of days, if not hours. The Americans had narrowed the escape gap to the east of Metz to some eight miles.

Foulkes Leads Second Division

LONDON, Nov. 15—(CP).—Maj.-Gen Charles Foulkes of Victoria, B.C., is commanding the Canadian 2nd Division, which figured in recent fighting in the Low Countries, Canadian Military Headquarters announced Tuesday.

The 41-year-old English-born general recently acted as a commander of the 2nd Canadian Corps when Lt.-Gen Crerar, commander of the 1st Canadian Army, was ill and Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, corps commander, was acting army commander.

Gen. Foulkes' appointment as a divisional commander was announced last January, but the division was not identified.

A native of Stockton-on-Tees, Durham England, he came to Canada in 1903, settling in London, Ont., where he received his education at Central Collegiate and the University of Western Ontario.

But he always "had a hankering" to be an army man and was commissioned a lieutenant in the Canadian Machine gun Corps in 1923. Three years later he transferred to the Royal Canadian Regiment as a permanent force officer. When war broke out he was a staff officer at M.D. No. 1 (London). He was appointed brigade major of a Canadian infantry brigade and went overseas. Late in 1940 he returned to Canada, becoming general staff officer of a Canadian infantry division.

Payment of gratuities is expected to begin early in the new year. For that reason it was adviseable for those eligible to file their applications immediately.

"Those eligible should realize that if they file their applications in the middle of December only they cannot expect to receive their cheque the first week in January," a spokesman said. "There is too much administrative work to be done to allow such speedy handling of applications."

Toronto Yards Take No Cattle

TORONTO, Nov. 15 — (CP)— An embargo has been placed on shipment of stock to the Toronto Union Stockyards ,effective immediately, except for stock now in transit. Unsold from yesterday were 5,500 head of cattle and 3,700 sheep and lambs. There were too few cattle sales early to-day to establish prices and no sales of sheep or lambs. Good to choice veal calves sold steady at $13-$15 cwt. No price was established for hogs which closed previously at $17.55-$17.65, grade A, dressed at yards or plants. Fresh receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: cattle, 570; calves, 550; hogs, 280; sheep and lambs, 400.

14 Jap Ships Hit At Manila

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 15 —(AP).— An American carrier plane raid on Japanese shipping and facilities in Manila Bay on Sunday left 14 ships—including three warships—sunk or damaged, a floating dock destroyed, and at least 28 enemy planes destroyed, it was announced last night by Admiral Nimitz. One ship of the American carrier task force was damaged during a Japanese aerial attack

(Japanese broadcasters said earlier that 800 attacking planes hit the Manila area, and claimed one American battleship was sunk by suicide pilots east of Luzon Island.)

Admiral Nimitz said two destroyers in Manila Bay exploded under the American attack. While these were not listed as sunk in the communique, they could be termed probables. A light cruiser was left badly damaged.

An estimated 11 cargo ships and oilers were either sunk or left aflame, and a floating dock was torpedoed.

EASIER HOUSEWORK

BERWICK, England — (CP). — Sir William Beveridge said in a by-election speech that "after the war I want to see at least an hour taken off the working day of the housewife by her having a home-equipped with labor saving devices.

DIVORCE ACTIONS

Five of the seven cases on docket on the non-jury sessions of the Supreme Court of Ontario at the Court House this week are divorce suits.

PLENTY OF HUNTERS

Fish and Game Overseer Vernal Windsor reports that the number of deer-hunters in the Apsley district this year has been the greatest he remembers. There have been plenty of deer, too, the officer states. The new law in regard to shooting from and over the highways is being well obeyed, Overseer Windsor says.

HOCKEY MEETING

Secretary Fred Scates announced today that the hockey meeting originally scheduled to be held in the Duffus Board Room will be held tonight in the committee room of the City Hall. This room is reached by entering the door leading to the council chamber and turning right at the head of the stairs. The Chamber of Commerce was not available, nor was the Duffus Board Room which had been promised to another organization.

HELP FOR MR. HARVEY

Permission to instal a septic tank was given by the Board of Health Tuesday to W. O. Harvey, 4 Lansdowne street. Conditions were drawn up by Dr. R. A. Kelly, M.O.H., and approved by the Board. Plumbing Inspector Metheral is authorized supervisor of the work, if it is done. "This action may strengthen Mr. Harvey's hand if he applies to the Utilities Commission for a water connection," Alderman Dutton, chairman, said. D. V. Canning proposed the motion.

BOARD TO HELP

MAIL BUNDLE STOLEN

The Peterborough Post Office reported to the police department today that a bundle of mail, consisting of nine morning newspapers and four magazines, tied with a strap, had been stolen from the porch of 303 Brock street. The bundle was left there at 7.30 o'clock this morning by a mail man and was gone when he returned for it at 8.24 o'clock.

RETURNS TO CITY

Billy Parsons, 188 Dublin street, returned to Peterborough on Tuesday with his father after having been away from home for several days The boy, a former resident of Michigan, took upon himself to visit relatives but when he got to Detroit his money ran out and when seeking a ride he was questioned by a policeman who took him under the protection of the police and notified his parents.

FORCED TO BUY

"It's a mess," R. L. Dobbin, manager, described to the Utilities Commission a 1938 truck after it was disentangled from a Highland Grove coupe in a traffic accident at Dublin and Aylmer streets Monday afternoon. The visitor was blamed in Mr. Dobbin's report. Repair costs were estimated at $300 to $350, but the Commission decided that the long service truck should be replaced if another one is available.

RETURNS TO CANADA—After many months on the other side of the "pond" these Canadian soldiers will see home again in the next few days. BRAVERY AWARD—Wounded by splinters and temporarily blinded, AB. Michael Kerwin, of Billings' Bridge, Ont., went into a blazing gun shield on board HMCS "Haida" and dragged his wounded shipmate, AB. John D. Burnett, of Penticton, B.C., to safety. This courageous action has resulted in Kerwin being awarded the Conspicuous Gallantry Medal, highest award apart from the Victoria Cross open to a naval rating. Burnett's first words after his rescue were: "Mike Kerwin got me out. He saved my life. But for him I wouldn't be here."

Fire Destroys Frame House In North End

The family of J. G. Gallagher barely escaped with their lives Tuesday night, as they fled clad only in their night clothes from their badly blazing home on Shelburne street, the fire having broken out shortly after 11 o'clock. An adjoining house where Mr. and Mrs. S. Atcheson lived, was saved.

The Gallagher family were in bed, most of them asleep when one of the children, lying awake, saw the reflection of flames from the pantry and roused the family. By the time they scrambled out of bed, the frame house, covered with imitation brick, was already more than half burned, and they had only time to get out themselves without saving anything.

Mr. Gallagher, cut his foot badly when he ran back in to get his money and had to be taken to Nicholls Hospital for treatment. Beside his wife, there are three children, Velma age 14, Kenneth, age 12, and Buddy, age 8.

Burns Quickly

Neighbors who had been aroused, went two blocks to the home of R. H. Deyell, McClennan avenue, to phone the Fire Department, which responded immediately. Before they arrived the frame building was a mass of flames and there was no hope of saving it. There were no hydrants near and firemen were forced to fill the Booster tank five times from wells in fighting to save the other home from the flying sparks.

Fearing that the flames would destroy their frame house too, the Atchesons, helped by willing neighbors, carried out most of their furniture and other valuables, and firemen kept the fire from spreading to their home.

Kind-hearted neighbors opened up their homes and made room for the Gallagher family, giving them shelter and warm clothing, and they hope to do something more to help rehabilitate the stricken fomily, who lost everything. Mr. Gallagher is an employee of the De Laval Company.

Shelburn street is north of Wolsley street in the Normal Hill area in Smith township. The Fire Department has an arrangement with Smith township, whereby in certain designated areas, service will be given similar to that of the city.

Two Girls Accosted On Stewart Street

Although there have been no more cases of purse-snatching reported since the attack on Mrs. Eva Stevenson, police had had a complaint from a 16-year-old Reid street girl that she and a girl companion were accosted by a man on Stewart street as they were walking between Charlotte and King streets.

The girl said this man, who was around 35 years of age and had apparently been drinking, stood beside a tree until the two pedestrians approached, and then stepped out to meet them, offering his services as an escort.

He was quite persistent but the girls managed to get away from him and reach home safely.

Two Men Injured In Truck Collision

Two men were injured and considerable damage was done to two vehicles when an Utilities truck and an automobile collided at Aylmer and Dublin streets.

L. Courneya, 506 Bolivar street, driver of the truck, suffered cuts on his nose and hand and back injuries and V. Menogue, a passenger in the other car receeived a cut on his head.

Courneya was driving the truck on Aylmer street and G. Hogan, Highland Grove, was travelling west on Dublin street when the two vehicles met at the intersection. After the collision the truck was driven over the northwest curb and came in contact with a tree.

Damage to each vehicle was estimated as being in the neighborhood of $250.

Catholic Parishes Seek $200,000 To Build High School In City

Preparations are being completed for a canvass of the Catholic people of Peterborough for funds to erect a High School building as a postwar undertaking.

The drive during the week between December 3 and 10, is aiming at a sum within the range of $150,000 to $200,000. It is understood that a site has not yet been determined, although several properties have already been considered in the tentative preliminaries.

Meetings have been held in the three city parishs to whom this appeal is being made, canvassing teams are nearly all appointed, and it is the intention of those in charge of the campaign to complete the entire local territory and prospects within the appointed week.

F. Overend Chairman

Fred J. Overend is the general chairman, assisted by Senator Duffus and Ronald J. McGrath, and parish representatives, Frank J. Hickey of St. Peter's; Wm. J. Grady, Sacred Heart; and Martin J. Roche, Immaculate Conception; and the respective parish priests, Rt. Rev. F. J. O'Sullivan, Rt. Rev. J. J. O'Brien, and Rev. John T. Finn.

Construction of the proposed High School features a program of educational expansion in Peterborough which has been warmly approved at the parish meetings. Announcement in the three churches proposed that the new educational building would be begun as soon as "conditions permit". It will consist of high school class rooms for 3rd, 4th and 5th forms, and will include a gymnasium-auditorium, not only for the use of the students, but also as a centre of Catholic social, cultural and community activities. As a gymnasium it will provide a basketball court of high school dimensions, and as an auditorium it will accomodate six hundred persons.

The basement under the auditorium will provide smaller meeting rooms, kitchen, dining room, lockers and showers.

Building Inadequate

The announcement includes the following explanatory information:—

"This building will be primarily a high school building, but by arrangements with the committee charged with its management it will be available to all Catholic school children and organizations in the city. It is scarcely necessary to dwell at any length on the necessity and advantages of such a building. The present St. Peter's High School is inadequate both as to classroom accommodation and equipment. From the beginning it was only a temporary arrangement until something better could be provided.

The provision of such High School accommodation will leave St. Peter's School as a boys' school for all grades up to an including Grade X. St. Mary's School will be, as it always has been, a girl's school, but provision will be made there for girls in Grades IX and X, now attending St. Peter's.

The gymnasium-auditorium will supply a long-felt need of the school pupils, as well of the Catholic people of the city, generally. It will make possible not only suitable indoor recreation, under competent supervisors, but also cultural and social gatherings which add so much to school and community life.

The review of preliminary discussions and the announcement summarizing the project was contained in a letter by Bishop MacDonald. It refers to probable cost and proposed method of financing as follows:

"The complete realization of this program will involve an amount probably in the neighborhood of $150,000 to $200,000. How far we can go with it will depend on the result of the campaign for funds now being organized for the week of December 3-10.

Amount Indefinite

No definite amount has been set for the campaign, but it is felt our Catholic people will want to see the plans carried into effect and that they will therefore pledge their support with as generous contributions as their circumstances will allow...

Contributions will be solicited by voluntary canvassers whose names will be made known to you in good time. The pledges will cover a period of two years. Payments ordinarily are to be made on a monthly basis. Those who prefer to do so may arrange their payments otherwise."

The review recalls that St. Peter's School cost approximately $34,000, during the episcopacy of Bishop R. A. O'Connor. It was built in 1904 and was financed by the sale of the old Murray street school and grounds for $30,000.

Man Breaks Ankle Slips On Banana Skin

Lawrence Doherty, 36, Westwood, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Tuesday afternoon, suffering from a broken bone in his right ankle sustained when he slipped on a banana peel at the rear of the F. and G. store, George street.

Doherty with his wife and two children was walking north on the sidewalk back of the store when he stepped on the peel and fell heavily to the ground.

Detective John Stevenson and Constable Ernest Beatty who investigated the accident took the injured man to hospital in a police car.

Vegetable Sale Makes $104 For War Victims

Few people who are dependent upon the production of others for their supplies of the all important vegetables that go to form a part of their daily sustenance, are really aware of just how much of this takes place in what might almost be termed the city's own back yard, lying in the southern district close to the city around Crawford's Grove.

In this district the vegetable growers are banded together into a group known as the Peterborough Vegetable Growers Association, and quite a number of them live and ply their business of growing the food supplies they have to offer in that vicinity.

Becoming inquisitive from an interested standpoint in their work, by reason of their undertaking to assist the objects that the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund operates for, the writer was given some details that should be of considerable interest, since some insight was given into the part that this group plays in supplying some of the food needs for not only the people living close at hand, but also for many others living further afield.

Take for instance the camp at Trenton, it would almost seem like carrying coal to Newcastle to send vegetables to a district situated in such a good farming country as that, but this one particular place consumes about five tons of vegetables a week, of which almost one and a half tons has been going from the producers who belong to the local group.

This is creative wealth that is a real asset to the country as a whole, and this district in particular, industry and forethought combining in this instance to not only supply the immediate needs, but with the storage facilities they have, providing for the human needs during the long period of dreary unproductive months of winter.

To Herb Doig goes considerable credit in all of the ventures that this group have made by holding special sales, in order that the victims of air raid attacks and latterly robomb devastations, may have some help to tide them over their difficulties, this being apparent for the energy he put into them, perhaps best expressed in telling how he stayed on the job selling the provisions donated for this purpose until long after most everybody else on the market had folded up and called it a day.

This most recent effort a short while ago has netted the splendid sum of $104.74 for the fund, which will carry the best wishes of the group led by Fred Stinson as president, to these sufferers in Britain, for a more happier Christmas than they otherwise would have had, and particularly those boys and girls whom the ravages of war have deprived of their homes.

To all of those who made donations in kind, and worked to make this fine amount available towards the special donations now being raised to send over by Christmas, the fund management would express its sincere appreciation and thanks.

LT.-COL. AGNES NEILL

Agnes Neill Returns From Overseas

By HELEN BANNERMAN

OTTAWA, Nov. 15 (CP)—Canada's women in white, the nursing sisters of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, are doing a "tremendous job" overseas and can't get up to the forward battle areas often enough to suit them, Lt.-Col. Agnes Neill, overseas matron-in-chief of the Nursing Service, said here Tuesday.

"I'm tremendously proud of every one of them," Col. Neill, who comes from Peterborough, said in an interview. "They're doing a tremendous job and they're always cheerful and bright about it, although I'm sure at times they're just as homesick as any other Canadian overseas."

Col. Neill, here "on a routine liaison visit," joined the Nursing Service in September, 1939, when it had 300 members. There are now more than 2,000 sisters overseas, and Col. Neill spent two weeks with those in France and Belgium before she left for Canada.

Doing Good Work

"I was impressed with the work being done there — our nursing sisters are in the hospitals, the casualty clearing stations and the field dressing stations which have field surgery units attached to them, and it means everything to the wounded men to find a Canadian nursing sister caring for him," she said.

There have been far more requests for postings to forward medical stations than the service can accommodate, so each nursing sister in Belgium, France or Italy does a tour of duty of not more than two months and then is replaced.

Col. Neill said she was "agreeably surprised" to find the accommodation for the sisters at the forward stations was "as good as it is."

"I know there are any number of nurses in Canada who are longing for the opportunity we have had overseas, but I think any Canadian nurse—in England, France or Italy, or here in Canada—is doing a tremendous job.

"We who have been overseas have been fortunate, but the girls here at home have done as big a wartime job as any of us."

Col. Neill, who took her training in Toronto General Hospital, was surgical instructress there before joining the Medical Corps.

Pupils Crossing Street Distracted Drivers

Both drivers of two vehicles involved in an accident at Hunter and Rogers street Tuesday afternoon told Constable Ernest Beatty who investigated that their attention had been attracted by the number of children from King George school who were at the intersection at the time, and that might have been a factor in the collision.

Fred Lebarr, 215 King street, was driving a city bus north on Rogers street and F. W. Jopling, Bridgenorth, was travelling west along Hunter street in a truck and the two vehicles met in collision at the intersection.

No one was hurt in either vehicle but both the bus and the truck were damaged to some extent.

Frank Driscoll Dies From Heart Attack

For more than 25 years a member of the insurance profession, Frank L. Driscoll passed away at his home Tuesday night, victim of a heart attack. He had been ailing for the last 21 months.

Mr. Driscoll began his insurance career with the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company, later branched into a General Insurance Agency and has held the position of district manager for the Continental Casualty for the past number of years.

Besides a wide circle of friends, he leaves to mourn his beloved wife, the former Marie Louise Delaire, two daughters, Mrs. James Morton, Mrs. William Cavanagh, both of Peterborough and two sons at home, Oswald and Bud.

Tre remains are resting at the Nisbett Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street until the funeral on Friday at 8.45 a.m. at St. Peter's Cathedral for requiem mass at 9 a.m. Interment will be in St. Peter's cemetery.

Youth Of 16 Had Been Drinking Before He Was Drowned In Canal; No Evidence Of Foul Play Given

Deliberating less than fifteen minutes, a five-man jury appointed to inquire into the death of 16-year-old Peter Scollard, R.R. 9, Peterborough, returned a verdict of death by drowning with no evidence of foul play, Tuesday evening, following testimony by more than 25 witnesses before Coroner Dr. Herb Young. Dr. C B. Waite, who performed the autopsy, said death was caused by drowning, and that there was no evidence of violence on the boy's body. V. J. McElderry, K.C., examined the witnesses.

The body of the youth was taken from the canal between the C.P.R. and Maria street bridges at 4.15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, October 31, after he had been reported missing by his father, Frank Scollard, the previous Sunday morning. The boy had attended a Hallowe'en party Saturday evening at the residence of Victor Sedgwick, Maniece avenue, and according to witnesses at the inquest, left the party between 1.30 and 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

Sometime between 2.45 and 3.10 Sunday morning, 18-year-old Jack Calladine, riding a bicycle along Maniece avenue, said he noticed someone walking in a manner that indicated he had been drinking, wearing a suit. There was only one person, he said, and he did not know it might have been the Scollard boy until later, when news of his drowning was known.

At about five minutes past three, said Eugene Bosley, he was awakened by what he thought to be a burglar attempting to break into the house. Not bothering to dress properly, and without turning any lights on, he went downstairs, he said, and saw a youth at the front door, turning the handle as if to come in. By the time he went to the front door, the person had gone around to the back, he said, and when he asked him what he wanted, the boy, who had been vomiting, asked him if a Fitzgerald was there.

The Fitzgerald's who used to live at his residence, the witness said, had moved, and he said he thought they were some relation to the Scollard family. The youth appeared to have been drinking, he said, and was surprised to learn that the Fitzgeralds no longer lived there.

Mr. and Mrs. William O'Neil, 182 Armour Road, told of how they were awakened just before 25 minutes to four o'clock Sunday morning by what Mrs. O'Neil termed "agonizing sounds of someone in pain," from the general direction of the canal. An investigation was fruitless, they said, and they returned to bed.

Constable R. McMillan, of the city police force, told the court he assisted in removing young Scollard's body from the canal, 25 yards north of the Maria street bridge lying face down in about three feet of water, near the west shore. It was clothed in a blue suit, with a white pin stripe. A bottle of beer in each pocket was found.

In Water 3 Days

In his evidence, Dr. Waite said he found about 10 ounces of potatoes and meat in the boy's stomach, hardly digested. It was not a heavy meal, he said, and under ordinary circumstances, would have been digested in about 30 minutes. Dr. Waite said that drinking alcohol can retard digestion. The body had been in the water from two to three days, he said. Evidence previous to Dr. Waite's testimony indicated Scollard had eaten nothing while at the party, and did not wait for supper, which was served about two o'clock, Sunday morning.

Douglas Hayton, 16, told the court he attended the party at the Sedgwick's place, and met young Scollard for the first time there. He said he saw him first around 11 o'clock.

"Had Peter been drinking when he came in?" asked Mr. McElderry.

"I didn't get that close to him to know," Hayton said.

"Did you see Peter outside the house?"

"No."

Under examination by Mr. McElderry, Hayton said he and Jack McMahon, Maniece avenue, brought together 24 pints of beer to the party.

"Where did you get the beer?"

"Bought it."

"From whom did you buy the beer?"

"From a man at the corner of George and King streets."

Mr. McElderry pressed the youth for the man's name, but Hayton repeated he does not know, and that he had never seen him before in his life. He testified he was with Jack McMahon at the time. Hayton said they noticed the man with a case of 24 pints of beer under his arm, and knowing that the party was being held in the evening, asked him if he would sell it.

"How much did you pay the man,' Mr. McElderry asked.

"Eight dollars."

"How much would that amount of beer cost ordinarily?"

"About $3.50."

"How much beer did you drink during the evening?"

"About 12 pints."

Cars Damaged.

Hayton told the court he left the party at appropimately five minutes to three on Sunday morning. He told what knowledge he had of the damage done to the cars owned by Cecil Thompson and Harry Brooks, who also attended the party, and left their cars parked nearby the house. Hayton said in answer to Mr. McElderry, that it appeared to him as if someone had damaged the cars deliberately. Questioning the relationship between the witness and Thompson, Mr. McElderry received, "I don't think much of him and he doesn't think much of me." Further evidence revealed the two had been involved in a dispute over a game of pool once, and to finish his testimony, Hayton said, Thompson claimed he owed him money.

Coroner Dr. Young asked, "Was anything said about who might have damaged the cars?"

Hayton replied, "No, there was not."

Jack McMahon, 19, told the jury he was positive he had never seen the man from whom he and Hayton had purchased the beer. He said Hayton paid half the cost, and he paid the remainder. During the evening, he said, he drank about six pints of beer and gave the rest away.

Mr. McElderry: "Did Peter have any of that beer?"

McMahon: "No, he never had any of the beer I had."

"Was Peter drunk?" asked Mr. McElderry.

"I wouldn't say he was drunk, but he might have been feeling good."

MAJOR J. MORLEY

Major J. Morley Wounded Second Time

Back in action only a few days, Major James Morley has been wounded a second time, his wife, at 281-A Rubidge street, has been notified.

The young officer suffered shrapnel wounds in the left chest and right hip on June 30, and only got back to the fighting area at the beginning of November. Enlisting with the Prince of Wales Rangers (CA) Major Morley accompanied Lieut. Diplock and other Peterborough officers overseas in May, on loan to the British Army. He was serving with the Duke of Wellington Regiment when he was wounded in June

Prior to enlisting with the Rangers in March, 1942, Major Morley was a foreman in the CGE Meter Department, and had served his apprenticeship as a draughtsman.

Two Traffic Cases Are Dealt With In Court

Police court proceedings today were confined entirely to traffic cases and in a number of them where the accused failed to put in an appearance after having been served by mail there was an adjournment to allow a personal service.

John A. Reid, Louis street, driver of a truck, entered a written plea of guilty to exceeding the speed limit on a city street, and was fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

William A. Seymour also entered a written plea of guilty to illegal parking on Charlotte street. In his case the fine was $2 and $1 costs.

WEDNESDAY NOVEMBER 15, 1944

Where Is Hitler?

Unusual comment and speculation have been aroused by the fact that Hitler did not speak in person to the people of Germany on Sunday, when a belated celebration of the Munich Beer Hall Putsch of 1923 was held. Himmler read an exhortation which Hitler was supposed to have written, but which might have been written by anyone, for there was nothing characteristic about it. Himmler and Goebbels spoke themselves. But Hitler was absent, and as this anniversary has been a special day in his calendar for many years the world is anxious to know why?

There are those who have gone so far as to say that Hitler is dead. But on Sunday the new Volksturm was sworn to unwavering allegiance to the Fuehrer, and the Nazis would not do anything so foolish as to demand loyalty to a dead man, whose death might be discovered at any time. Others insist that Hitler is insane, or so broken in health that he is useless to his party. This certainly seems more likely; Hitler has seen his dream of domination sink toward complete failure, and it may have unhinged his reason. Mussolini, we know, is a mere shadow of his former self, shrunken in form, vacillating in will, and unable to keep up any pretence of his former humbug. Hitler may be in the same condition. Nothing has been heard from him since the attempt on his life last July; that occurrence may have broken him.

• • •

Himmler is apparently master of all the powers which formerly belonged to Hitler, and if possible Himmler is a more bloody-minded and vicious man than his master. The supposed address from Hitler which Himmler read was interesting because it lacked the grandiose assertions which were characteristic of Hitler's war speeches; it spoke only of defence, and sounded in places like an attempt to justify the Nazi attitude in the face of the coming disaster. The old claim that the Nazis were saving the world from Bolshevism was made once again, but the chief import of the speech was that the Germans were fighting for their own skins, and they were urged to emulate the 'heroic Japanese'. Nazidom has fallen on bad days when it suggests that the Germans should imitate anyone else.

• • •

On Tuesday a curious document was made public which may be genuine or not; it is impossible to tell at the moment. It is a copy of a news commentary called The Scorpion which is distributed to German fighting forces. It instructs German soldiers to shoot anyone among them who shows signs of weakness or flagging morale, and it even goes so far as to tell soldiers to shoot their officers if they suggest retreat or fail to fight to a finish. This is an almost unbelievable order to issue to any fighting force, and it is hard to imagine that Himmler thinks that it will strengthen German morale. If every soldier is given a free hand to shoot anyone whom he suspects of failing morale the shooting of comrades may become as engrossing an occupation as the shooting of enemies.

• • •

If Germany is in such desperate straits as this document indicates the collapse of her resistance might come at any time. An army where the temper of the officers is estimated by the men, and where the men are licensed to execute their own notions of justice is no longer an army but a chaos and a rabble. Fear is a powerful spur, and it may keep Germany fighting for months. But fear may give way to panic at any time, and panic has no power against orderly forces of invasion.

Frank Christmas of Chicago has been robbed of 16 cases of whisky. Nobody calls him Merry Christmas any more.

Dangerous Frankie

We hold no brief for Frank Sinatra, whose abilities as a singer we hold in light esteem, but a surprising amount of solemn nonsense is talked about him, and exposing solemn nonsense is one of our favourite pursuits. The latest sage to hold forth about Sinatra is Dr. Angelo Patri, the New York educator. Sinatra "would be doing a public service to the parents and children of this continent if we would stop singing", says this highly publicised savant; "hysteria to the point of swooning is definitely harmful. . . Nobody can tell me this hysteria is good for adolescents. If a person spreads a disease, we want him out of the way. This is a nervous disease, and it is a harmful thing. There is enough instability in adolescents to begin with. Apparently such singing upsets nerves that are already keen". Well, if the nerves are keen, treat the nerves. But why do Sinatra out of a job because a lot of silly girls have keen nerves?

We doubt if Sinatra's singing gives anybody hysteria who is not hysterical already. Forty years ago people like Dr. Patri were saying much the same things about the automobile which they now say about Sinatra. Riding in cars, they warned solemnly, produced nervous breakdowns. There was even a disease called "automobile face", characterized by a permanently open mouth, which was supposed to be the result of the rush of air caused by automobiles which whizzed along the roads at twenty miles an hour. But later the prophets came to their senses, and realized that a lot of people have nervous breakdowns whether they ride in cars or not, and that a lot of people breathe through their mouths.

Sinatra is a crooner. Let him croon, and let those who like it listen to him and experience whatever orgiastic pleasure they may. Why build him up into a public menace?

The First Collaborationist Dies

The first collaborationist to be condemned by the special French court which deals with such cases was Georges Suarez, the well-known French editor; he was also the first man to stand trial. The report of his death says that he died bravely, with his eyes open.

This is what we should have expected. Suarez was a brave man, and everything he did was done with his eyes wide open and his wits fully about him. But he was a man without any sense of the responsibility of his profession. His great talents were for hire, and when the Nazis offered him a large salary to revile the fallen Republic, and urge Frenchmen to accept the Nazi regime, it seemed entirely natural to him to accept it. The editorials which he wrote in Aujourd'hui were produced at his trial, and the judge said that it gave him pain to real them; but we doubt if it cost Suarez a thought to write them. His pen was for sale to the highest bidder; that was his idea of journalism.

One of the things which rotted the French Republic was the corruptness of its press. There were few French papers from which favours could not be bought on a recognized cash basis. The intelligent French public did not believe what it read in most of the Paris and provincial papers, but as everywhere the public which was acute enough to sift the gold from the dross was small. The French press helped greatly in dividing and weakening the nation.

A country in which the press grows corrupt is in a bad way. The newspapers are the great sources of information for the masses, and if the newspapers knowingly mislead their readers they are betraying their obvious responsibility. It is to be hoped that in putting the French nation on its feet, General de Gaulle will be able to arouse a sense of pride and responsibility in the French press.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A recent survey of American high school students tells us that 97 per cent. of them read newspapers. We should be interested in the result of a similar survey in Canada.

General Yamashita, the Japanese war lord, is reported to be able to sleep and listen at the same time. We have spoken to luncheon clubs many of whose members appeared to possess this knack.

It is predicted that after the war winter clothes will be much lighter. This should be a relief, for we estimate that most men wear about eight pounds of extra clothes during the cold weather.

An English clergyman has attracted attention by saying that wealth is like manure, "a good thing when spread around, but pile it in one place and it stinks". We hope that he remembered to credit this remark to Sir Francis Bacon, who said it, and said it better, in 1625.

Books For Your Christmas List

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

YOU ought to be thinking about your Christmas shopping now, if you are not one of those carefree souls who does it all on Christmas Eve, and I want to call your attention to a new and excellent library of omnibus volumes, called The Viking Portable Library, which Macmillans handle in Canada. There are eight volumes in it now, and no doubt there will be more in time. The books are the right size for anybody's pocket, and they will be a godsend to the service man who is starved for reading matter and has very little space in which to keep books of his own. Presumably the Viking Press designed these books primarily for fighting-men, but they are too good to be allowed to go out of print after the war. They are well printed and sturdily but lightly bound, and the prices range from $2.50 to $3.25 a volume.

SOME of these books have already been reviewed in this column, and I shall give first mention to three new additions. The Portable Shakespeare includes four tragedies and three comedies, familiar passages from all the plays, all the songs and all the Sonnets—a good job of compression for a small book. Shakespeare is not every soldier's taste, but there are plenty of them who like it, and who will be delighted to have this collection. The Portable Hemingway includes The Sun Also Rises, and In Our Time, complete, as well as some of Hemingway's best short stories and long passages from some of the other novels. Hemingway's writing seems rather dated now, because it has been copied by too many writers of mediocre abilities, but it never loses its charm for devotees, and if you know a Hemingway fan this is the ideal book to give him.

◇ ◇ ◇

THIRD new volume in this series is Six Novels of the Supernatural, my own favourite among these Portable books. A Beleaguered City, by Mrs. Oliphant, and The White People, by Frances Hodgson Burnett are two excellent Victorian inclusions and Portrait of Jennie, by Robert Nathan, and Sweet Rocket, by Mary Johnston, represent the moderns. The Terror, by Arthur Machen, and The Return, by Walter de la Mare, complete the book. For the connoisseur of ghost stories this book is a delightful possession; all the six short novels are distinguished by unusual imaginative power and good writing—qualities which are rare enough in this genre of work, where many authors seem to think that any slapdash turnip ghost will do. Most omnibus volumes of this sort are collections of short stories; so far as I know this is the only collection of short novels dealing with the supernatural. It may not be the ideal book for a man who is risking his life in battle, but it is the very thing to beguile a man on the home front who is doing a hard wartime job.

◇ ◇ ◇

AS a companion to the Hemingway, there is also a Portable Steinbeck, which includes Of Mice and Men, complete, and long extracts from all the rest of Steinbeck's important books. There is also the Portable Dorothy Parker, containing most of that sweet-and-sour lady's short stories and verses; Dorothy Parker's writing, in small doses, is a pleasant addition to anybody's reading diet, but people who admire her idolatrously are as boring as those who never read anything but Noel Coward. And there is As You Were, a collection of prose and poetry of the U.S.A. compiled and edited by the late Alexander Woollcott. Naturally this is of greater interest to readers south of the border than it is to us, but it is a companionable book wherever it may be found. The stamp of Woollcott's mind and taste is on it, and Woollcott had great gifts as an anthologist; his brief introduction is in his best vein.

◇ ◇ ◇

TWO other collections complete the Portable Library. One is a collection of poems called The Triumph of Life, for which Horace Gregory is responsible, and he describes it as "poems of comfort, for the English-speaking world." This is portentous, and the book is portentous, too. It is hard to guess just whom Mr. Gregory means to comfort. If soldiers, the harping on death and dissolution is somewhat grating; only a deeply and lugubriously philosophical soldier could pore over this book and then go into battle with a good heart. If those whom soldiers have left at home, the comfort is distinctly chilly.. Bernard Shaw has pointed out that the object of a good soldier is to keep alive if he possibly can, for when he is dead he is of no further use to his country; Mr. Gregory has not absorbed this simple truth. His anthology is admirable, and shows taste and scholarship of a high order, but it is a little on the glum side.

IN constrast, the Portable World Bible is a volume of cheer. It comprises selections not only from the Christian Bible, but from the holy writings of the Hindus, the Buddhists, the followers of Confucius, the Taoists, the Zoroastrians and the Mohammedans. It is interesting to open this book at random and to read what comes first to the eyes, and then try to say which great faith it belongs to Again and again passages are found which take the imagination and refresh the spirit, and as most translations of the holy books of the East into English are couched in passable imitations of the languge of the Authorized Version, it is hard to say whether they are from our own Scriptures or not. This experience may be disquieting to some, but it will fill others with pleasure and hope. This volume is for anyone who is curious about the wisdom and aspiration of mankind.

Unconsidered Trifles

The mistress entered the kitchen and threw up her hands in horror..

"My goodness, Jane," she cried. "What a kitchen. Every pot and dish is dirty. The table is a perfect litter. It will take you all night to clear things up. What have you been doing?"

"It is not so much what I've been doing, ma'am," replied Jane, "but your daughter has just been showing me how they boil a potato at her cookery school."

A soldier serving in the Middle East was very worried because his wife wrote that she couldn't get anyone to dig up the garden. After much thought he wrote back: "For heaven's sake don't dig up the garden, Mary! That's where the guns are buried."

In due course he got a frenzied reply from Mary saying that the censor had sent 20 soldiers with an order to dig up the whole garden, and what should she do

This time without hesitation, the soldier sent her a cable saying: 'Put in the spuds."

AFTER SEVEN YEARS OF WAR —By Thomas

ARM CHAIR NAPOLEON

John of Junkin

(NEW YORK TIMES)

THIS is the way it has sounded over the radio more than once, and so definitely and distinctly that the intention was obviously to have it sound like that. The subject of discourse was the man whom most of us call Chiang, with the ch as in chairman. The city in which he operates most of us pronounce with the ch as in chunk or in cherubim. As for the political organization over which John of Junkin presides, it looks in print like Kuomintang but it is really Goomintan.

It brings up again this question of what shall radio speakers do with foreign names. In the long run we cannot get away from the answer that where a foreign name has completely established itself in English usage you stick to the English form. You say Rome, Florence, Venice, Milan, and not Roma, Firenze, Venezia, Milano. It seems to be true that early transliterators of Chinese names went wrong on the Chinese sound which they represented with ch and which is really nearer to j.

But by now it is too late to try to make Chiang sound like John and his city like Junkin. His political organization in Chinese does come closer to Goo than Kuo, and after many years perhaps we could be educated away from the k to the g, but you wonder if the effort is worth while.

If we insist on trying to get as close as possible to the original foreign sound and revise names sanctioned by usage and history, we surely ought to be doing the same for languages and sounds more easily accessible than Chinese. We must stop saying Joseph Stalin of Moscow and speak of Yosif Vissarionovich—the way his associates on the Politburo and his peasants call him—of Moskva, accent on the last syllable. It should be Lieutenant of the Realm Umberto on his way from Roma to Napoli. There are conscientious radio announcers who have been heard to speak of the Nazi capital of Bearlin, with bear as in zoo.

And now it is personnel. Fellow-Americans, please step forward and meet the new word that is sweeping the country, or at least the official bulletins from Washington and from the front, and in their wake dutifully come our newspaper columns. It now appears that our landing on the Leyte beaches was attended by very light casualties in machines and personnel, but the British landing on Walcheren involved tragically heavy losses in machines and personnel.

Only it is not Allied personnel which is fighting and dying for the defense of freedom. The fighting and dying are being done by men. The landing craft which slide up to the beaches are machines, but the living freight which they discharge on the beaches is men, and after the first landings, women, too; not personnel.

So the football editors have now begun to compare the rival personnel in next Saturday's big games. The coaches no longer worry about weak spots in their line and backfield; they worry about problems of personnel. We may yet read that in the last five minutes of play, with the score 80 to 0 against the visitors, the coach pulled his first category of personnel out of the game and sent in his second and third grade personnel. And who knows? When the fire-drill sounds at an unscheduled hour, the kindergarten teachers will conduct themselves with such admirable coolness that not the slightest hint of panic will show in the ranks of their young personnel.

Literature and Architecture

LITERATURE, concerned as it is with people civilized enough to live in houses, has always made allusions to architecture. English literature, from Beowulf onwards, has made such allusions in varying abundance, but not until the eighteenth century do we find architectural setting as a dominant feature of any important branch of literature, and this dominance is most apparent in the novels of the end of the century. Earlier writers seem to have entered the homes of their characters (just as many people still enter the homes of their friends) with indifference to architectural surroundings. They assumed that people lived in habitations of some sort, and they did not care what sort it was. The literature of pure action does not pause to observe scenery; it is the iterature of introspection, of subjectivity, or of psychological analysis that considers such things...

The novel of the eighteenth century brought architectural setting from its ordinary position as an unobstrusive background to a place of prime importance in the narrative. There is, for instance, a great difference between Mariana's moated grange, casually mentioned by Shakespeare in Measure for Measure, and the desolate structure described by Tennyson, who seems more interested in the house than in the lady....Richardson's Pamela is confined in a 'handsome, large, old, and lonely Mansion," and his Clarissa is threatened with imprisonment in her Uncle Anthony's moated house, but it remained for the followers of these novels to provide their imprisoned Pamelas with exits hidden behind the tapestry, and to send their Clarissas to houses which were not only moated but ruined and haunted.—From "Architecture in English Fiction," by Warren Hunting Smith.

A National Victory

The election returns make it clear that Mr. Roosevelt has achieved something more than a sectional triumph, and that, in a very real sense, he has won a national victory. He has carried all of New England with the familiar exceptions of Maine and Vermont. He has swept the entire mid-Atlantic seaboard. He has held the South. In the eleven Western States, from the Rockies to the Pacific, he has lost only Colorado and Wyoming. Even in the traditionally Republican Middle West between the Rockies and the Appalachians he has made an impressive showing, carrying the supposedly impregnable State of Illinois, winning Minnesota and running close on Mr. Dewey's heels in Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin and North Dakota. The result in the Electoral College is, of course, a landslide.

From the point of view of the popular vote it seems likely that Mr. Roosevelt's plurality over Mr. Dewey will be aproximately a million and a half less, when the soldiers' vote is counted, than his plurality over Mr. Willkie four years ago. But before too many conclusions are drawn from this it would be well to wait for complete returns which will show the geographical basis of the shift. It may well be, for example, that one important factor in this year's smaller popular plurality is the decline of Mr. Roosevelt's strength in the Deep South. This is hinted by the fact that the most populous of the Southern States, Texas, which gave the President a majority of 640,000 votes in 1940, will apparently give him a majority of only 470,000 this year. Similar evidence comes from Georgia, Tennessee, Louisiana and Florida. If this turns out to be the case generally throughout the South, it will be further indication of the decline of the sectional factor.

What we have, on the basis of the returns to date, is an election in which the voters of nearly three-quarters of the forty-eight States have chosen to give a clear majority to the Democratic candidate primarily, we believe, on the basis of faith in his war leadership and his ability to win a lasting peace. A result so little sectional as this, and so largely national—affirmed by the process of a free election in the crisis of the greatest war in history—must strengthen the country for the completion of the tasks that lie ahead. It must impress upon Mr. Roosevelt himself a deep sense of duty to dedicate his last term to the supreme interests of the whole nation.—New York Times.

Parisian Myth

It was difficult to believe the stories that came out of Paris, immediately after the liberation of the city, about all the signs of pre-war elegance that were found there. Particular stress was laid on the number of beautifully dressed women to be seen on the streets. This gave the impression that there was nothing like as much suffering in the French capital during the German occupation as had been supposed.

In the London Daily Express there was an article early this month in which George Slocombe expressed his indignation over the persistence of what he described, on the basis of his own observations, as a myth.

"That fact is," he wrote, "that ninety-five per cent of the women of Paris have had practically no new clothes to wear for four years. A pretty girl in a light coloured frock on a brilliant day—such as that of the day of liberation—may pardonably look elegant to a dusty soldier fresh from country villages where the normal dress of the peasant girl is drab and sombre. But no Englishwoman would for a moment be deceived by the illusion of sunshine and brilliant colour and graceful design."

It is true, Mr. Slocmobe added, that a campaign has been begun to restore to Parisian couturiers their pre-eminence in the world of dress. But the models "exist merely in the drawing stage" as yet and for for four years, we are told, "fashionable women of Paris have been ekeing out their pre-war wardrobes."—Edmonton Journal.

A Bible Message

He that speaketh truth sheweth forth righteousness: but a false witness deceit. (Prov. 12: 17.)

◇ ◇ ◇

The merciful man doeth good to his own soul; but he that is cruel trouble his own flesh. (Prov. 11: 17.)

◇ ◇ ◇

That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit. (John 3: 6.)

◇ ◇ ◇

This I say then, Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh. For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh: and these are contrary the one to the other: so that ye cannot do the things that ye would. But if ye be led of the Spirit, ye are not under the law....

If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit. (Gal. 5: 16-18, 25).

THE WORST YET TO COME

Q.—What's the big story in Winnipeg?

A.—Soundies.

Q.—What are they?

A.—Like juke boxes, only twice as bad, maybe several times as bad. You put a nickle in a juke box and you get music. You put a dime in a soundie, and you get a regular little show; music, pictures and all. PISTOL-PACKIN' BRIDE

The newly-wed Edward Tuchowskis were parted today by six bullets, four policemen and a stern judge, who dispatched the shooting bride to the jailhouse.

The bride, Helen, went before Judge Frank E. Donoghue in Women's Court, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, while Edward depicted the high point of their three weeks of married life at 61 W. Ohio Street.

Edward was napping last evening, he said, resting from his toil as a watchman for a detective agency. A shot awakened him. There was Helen, with his big .38 special revolver pointed at him.

"I'll shoot your head off," said Helen, according to Edward.'

Edward sprang from bed and used a cranny behind the ice-box as a foxhole. One shot rang against the box, and four more rang out.

The policemen came and found Helen tipsy, with empty gun pointed toward the ice-box, two bullet holes in the floor and three in the adjacent wall.

"I wanted Edward to go out with me for some drinks," Helen told the judge. "He rolled over and went to sleep. I shot to wake him up."

Edward said: "I don't want her locked up. But I want her to go live some place else."

The judge replied: "There is only one place for a woman who fires six shots at her husband, and that's the jailhouse. Nine months in the house of correction."—Chicago Daily News.

Irrelevant Criticism

A news despatch Tuesday quotes Major Everett Bristol, past Dominion commander of the Canadian Legion, as saying, among other things, that General McNaughton "did however sanction if he did not plan, the stupid and suicidal Dieppe show."

It is not the purpose here to challenge Major Bristol's right or criticism, but it seems that here he has gone beyond the pale of healthy criticism and gone in for mud-slinging. For no less an authority that Hillary St. George Saunders, in his well-known book "Combined Operations," praises the Dieppe operation highly for the valuable lessons learned by the Allied High Command and put to extremely good use on the beaches of Normancy.

Whether Major Bristol has read this book we do not know, but he must know that in saying what he did, he has gone against the opinions established in the best of military minds, that although the Dieppe raid was costly, it was well worth the price of the lessons learned.

Open and free discussion of the present situation is welcomed and well-founded criticism is one of the best guardians of democracy, but when the criticism is not well-founded and when it is directed at irrelevant issues, then the criticism is not serving any good purpose and the speaker is abusing his privilege of free speech.—Winnipeg Free Press.

By CHESTER A. BLOOM

OTTAWA. — An item I read in a Montreal newspaper recently describing how French-Canadian troops, after hard fighting, rewon the bridgehead on the causeway from South Beveland, Holland, will give some point to the following. Only military men familiar with the frightful conditions of rain, mud and cold misery under which this winter fighting is taking place on the coast marshlands of Holland can grasp exactly what that means.

The fact is that the French-Canadian regiments fighting in Italy and the European lowlands have proved among the best. How the people of Quebec, and other provinces for that matter, can fail to support these heroic compatriots of theirs is one of the numerous enigmas of this strange war. This is the place, too, perhaps to repeat that the much-abused "Zombies" include equally other racial elements of Canada as well as French-Canadians, a point many people seem to wish to forget.

Famous French-Canadian regiments now fighting overseas are helping win imperishable glory for Canada. It is to be hoped that the new Minister of Defence, General A. G. L. McNaughton, can devise a better method of appealing to the French-Canadians than hitherto has been attempted. For one thing, it does not seem to the writer that the fighting French-Canadians have been given the public acclaim that they deserve. Certainly, a man who braves not only death and wounds and hardships but also the disapproval of large elements of his own countrymen, must carry a double dose of courage within him.

Famous French-Canadian regiments like the Royal Twenty-second Regiment of Montreal, the Regiment de la Chaudiere, the Royal Montreal Regiment, Les Fusiliers Mont Royal, the Trois Rivieres Regiment and Le Regiment de Maisonneuve, will return to Canada with new honors on their battle flags. It is a pretty safe bet that these French-Canadians, as well as many others whose identity is submerged in the Air Force and other Canadian units are going to have some pretty sharp things to say, when they return home, to the malingerers and duty dodgers.

Military men here tell me that the fighting French-Canadians are among the bitterest toward those who are using every possible excuse of political and racial prejudice to camouflage unwillingness to do their duty. Once returned, these men are surely going to replace some of the penny-ante politicians now using war duty as a political football.

In the ferocious fighting along the Liri Valley in Italy, the Royal Twenty-second Regiment, the prime fighting French-Canadian unit, fought like tigers, helping smash the Gustav Line. The Trois Rivieres Regiment also has won fame as a hard-fighting outfit.

It should be unnecessary to recall the bloody and heroic record of Les Fusiliers Mont Royal. Sent to Iceland first and then to Britain, they should at least be well known on the Prairies. For, in the initial assault on Dieppe, they were brigaded with the Winnipeg Camerons and the South Saskatchewan Regiment. Since then, they have been fighting shoulder to shoulder in Europe with these same English-speaking comrades.

Le Regiment de Maisonneuve was the first French-Canadian unit to reach full strength for overseas duty. Their service record is unexcelled. So many officers and men have been withdrawn from the Royal Montreal Regiment to replace casualties in other French-Canadian fighting units that this unit is inactive.

The latest French-Canadian unit of which more will be heard shortly is the Regiment de la Chaudiere. They have won glory in some of the fiercest fighting in a location which cannot yet be disclosed for reasons of military security.

It would, in fact, take columns to recite the full history of all these fighting French-Canadian regiments, which present space forbids.

It may have been good policy to scatter many French-Canadian groups enlisting for overseas among English-speaking regiments on the theory that no distinction should be made among Canadians But it has resulted in some measure of clouding of the French-Canadian service record.

For example, a large proportion of the North Shore Regiment, mostly from New Brunswick, consists of French-Canadians. French-Canadian groups from the Windsor area also are included in the Essex Scottish, and many from this area in the Ottawa Camerons. The practice makes it difficult if not impossible to give the actual numbers of French-Canadians enlisted for overseas service.

When passions are heated as they are now, it would be well for men of good will to examine all the facts, difficut as they may be to obtain. What is bound to strike a man who has been away from Canada some time, as the writer, is the lack of logic displayed by so many who argue this question.

Thus, L'Action Catholique, published in Quebec, in rejoicing over Hon. J. L. Ralston's resignation, said:

"Our paper has never ceased to be pro-Ally, and to ardently desire the victory of our armies, but it has never ceased to be against conscription." L'Action Catholique then concluded by saying that "those opposed to conscription are in good company with General McNaughton."

The logic of this, of course, is that those who, like L'Action Catholique, desire the victory of our armies, will surely now get out, take off their coats, and work hard to bring voluntary enlistments in Quebec up to a maximum to support their heroic compatriots who are fighting so hard in Italy and on the western front.

Such a special effort, no doubt, will be among the first to which General McNaughton will address himself. As the man who built and trained the great Canadian army with its fighting French units, the General, reputedly a believer in voluntary service, can speak, perhaps, with greater effect than anyone else in the call across the seas for help to the French-Canadian regiments.

A big field is available since there are some eleven home service units in Quebec. To the honor of one, the Regiment de Montmagny, it need be said that unit has largely been depleted by enlistments for replacements overseas. Others include: The Regiment de St. Hyacinthe, Regiment du Saguenay, Voltiguers de Quebec, Regiment de Gaspe-Bonaventure, Regiment de Hull, Fusiliers de Sherbrooke, Regiment de Levis, Regiment de Joliette, Regiment de Chateauguay and Fusiliers du St. Laurent.

It is interesting to recall that the Regiment de Hull served in the Pacific expedition to Kiska and is now inactivated in Hull. Some people might sneer that no resistance was met at Kiska since the Japs had evacuated that Aleutian Island. But the fact remains that hard resistance was expected. Nevertheless these men enlisted for so-called home defence, went willingly and prepared to fight; luck was merely on their side.

One wonders sometimes if Canadians have been well-advised in applying the derogatory term "Zombies" to such men. It smacks somewhat of the foolish women who, in the last war, handed white feathers to men not in uniform on the streets of London. Unless human nature has changed, the reaction to such pressure is usually the opposite to that intended.

TAMBLYN

Says DON'T SHOP For "NO"!

It is quite apparent that the acquisition this year of items suitable for "Christmas Giving" will undoubtedly present many problems, in view of the fact that quite a large proportion of the popular commodities of former years are now either not procurable—or if so—in quite short supply. Recognizing this situation, your Tamblyn Drug Store wishes to make a suggestion. It is this—that rather than be a "negative shopper" and spend long and tiresome hours in pursuit of certain types of merchandise—preconceived as most suitable—you tackle the problem with an open mind and make your choice, if possible, from the still large and varied assortments of articles presently available. Your Tamblyn Store is of course prepared to assist you in this respect and this week have set out most comprehensive displays of gift items. So as a probable solution to many of your problems, may we suggest that you take "time out" to view these displays as we are confident that included therein you will see items most appropriate for a majority—if not all—of the names on your list—and at most reasonable prices—

Boston Bruins' 'Dit' Clapper In 19th Pro Year

Aubrey (Dit) Clapper, who plays defence and captains the Boston Bruins hockey team, is in his 19th year of pro hockey and is the oldest player in point of service in the National Hockey League. When he completes this season his record will equal that of Reginald (Hooley) Smith, the only player to date who campaigned for 18 successive years in major hockey. Clapper is 38, and comes from Hastings, Ont.

Clapper broke into major hockey with the Boston Bruins in 1927-28 as defence player and was soon transformed into a high-scoring right wing. Now again he is a defence player.

Today Clapper has an enviable position in the toughest hockey circuit in the world. In the last 17 seasons he has registered 218 goals and 229 assists for 447 points. Last winter he played 50 Boston games, finishing the season with six goals and 25 assists. Clapper hit his peak in the 1929-30 season with 41 goals.

His rival, Hooley Smith, in his long career piled up exactly 100 goals. Smith began in 1924-25 with Ottawa and ended his career in 1941-42 with New York Americans. He played also with Montreal Maroons and Boston Bruins.

LONG CAREER OVER?—After 20 years in baseball, the career of Gus Mancuso, veteran catcher of the New York Giants, may be over. Gus has been given his unconditional release by the Giants. Mancuso broke into baseball in 1925 with Mt. Pleasant of the East Texas League and has played for several major league clubs.

STRAWBERRY GUAVA

Delicious, Sweet and Spicy

This is a luscious tropical fruit which makes a useful as well as a charming and beautiful house plant. It bears both flowers and fruit at the same time. The flowers are pure white and delightfully fragrant. The fruit is about the size of a walnut, of a beautiful reddish color, and of delicious, sweet and spicy flavor. Fine for eating out of hand, and unsurpassed for making jelly. These plants are usually grown from seed and begin to bloom and bear fruit while quite small.

Basketball will move into the centre of the sporting stage on Friday night when the opening games in the Ladies' City Basketball League for the 1944-45 campaign will be played in the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium. The first twin bill calls for the Normal School and Westclox to meet in the opening intermediate fixture at 7.45 o'clock followed by a senior game between St. John's and C.G.E. at 8.45 o'clock. The initial card should afford a fitting start to what promises to be a most successful season. Three teams, Transports, last year's champions, St. John's who gave them a memorable argument for the honor and C.G.E. will battle it out for the senior title while Westclox, Normal School, Y Cadets and Quakers will be the contestants for the intermediate championship. The two divisions will have separate schedules this season, which should ensure the hottest of competition in both sections. In other seasons the strong senior clubs had too much power for the new-comers in the other teams and as a result the latter had to take a number of one-sided beatings that were decidedly discouraging. All that has been avoided by dividing the teams into two divisions this season.

The opening games should be interesting all the way and it is expected that a big crowd will see the new season launched. In the intermediate fixture both Westclox and Normals will introduce a number of new players with the result that the game should give a good line on the material available. The teams have been practicing for some time and should give a good account of themselves in their opening battle. As for the senior struggle the St. John's and C.G.E. teams should begin where they left off last season for both outfits have a big percentage of experienced players. St. John's whose struggle with the champion Transports in the final series for the senior championship made basketball history last spring still have Teresa Heslip, Eva Clark and Marg Hawthorne and other stars of that team available while Mary McPherson and her C.G.E. squad will have a formidable outfit. The result should be a lively battle all the way. Fans who attend will have an opportunity to take home a valuable door prize as a special opening night attraction.

Hockey players in particular are reminded of the annual meeting of the Peterborough Hockey Club in committee room at City Hall tonight at which the question of possible hockey action for Peterborough this winter will be discussed and possibly settled. The players themselves will probably have to make the decision for if they are to attempt to bring home an intermediate championship by playing their games on foreign ice, after getting a bye in the first round, they will have to face a tough schedule. Their experience of the season before last when they played 25 games on the road, with all the travelling and loss of sleep involved in such a performance, showed them just what a hard task it is so that it will be up to them to say whether they want to undertake a similar routine this winter. It is important, therefore, that all the available players should attend this meeting tonight so that here can be a full discussion of the whole situation and a decision reached as quickly as possible. In addition there will be an election of officers and other business, including the appointing of a delegate to the annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association.

The Kinsmen Club is the first service organization to come forward with the announcement that it is prepared to sponsor a hockey team in the proposed city juvenile league. The Kinsmen announce that they have decided to back a juvenile outfit and thus the first definite step in the organization of the suggested loop has been taken. The Examiner hopes to be able to publish similar announcements in the near future from other service clubs in the city, thus ensuring the success of the enterprise. The juvenile league plan is a concrete step to keep hockey going among Peterborough's boys so that when the Memorial Health Centre is ready there will be some new material shaping up and ready to take advantage of the modern facilities that will be available then. The parks department is ready to co-operate by turning several of the open air rinks into hockey cushions so that that feature of the program has already been taken care of or will be as soon as the parks organization is informed of exactly what is wanted. What is needed right now is sponsorship of teams by the other service clubs and the appointment of managers and coaches.

"His better than 30 seasons of officiating in the professional hockey leagues of eastern and western Canada certainly establishes Mickey Ion as an authority on the game and most capable of selecting the all-time headliners," says Bill Gaynon in the Niagara Falls Review. "He clearly demonstrates this fact when he calls Tiny Thompson, Eddie Shore and the late Eddie Gerard the ideal defence. Each member of this trio was outstanding, and about the last word at his position. Certainly there will be arguments and differences of opinion on the Ion call, but none will claim that the three Mickey named were anything but immortals, and a poll of many fans would show each party in high brackets. It was our good fortune to have been around during the years that the above three sparkled, and while we are not going all out for the former ref's nominations, we do not intend to take issue with him and if we were managing a bigtime hockey club, we'd feel mighty safe with such a rearguard. Tiny's outstanding netminding was everything that could be desired by the most exact puck critics, a great pair of eyes, unusual speed and coolness at all times featuring his work. Gerard was the smooth bodychecker, a great rusher and playmaker, and every inch a stylist, while Shore's rushing, blocking and inspiring leadership, made him one of hockey's most dynamic figures. Yes, Ion surely supplied a defence that was sensational, and we wonder if anything as good could be recalled."

Boston Bruins climbed up into four place, a point behind the Detroit Red Wings last night when they opened their home season by defeating the Chicago Black Hawks 7 to 5. A five-goal rally in the second period, after the Hawks had taken a one-goal lead early in that session enabled the Rossmen to turn the trick. The fine centre ice play of Bill Cowley who scored one goal himself and set up three others was the principal factor in the success of the Bruins. Cowley is carrying a big burden trying to make the Boston team click and deserves credit for the fact that they have already climbed above the Rangers and Black Hawks. For the second game in succession Peterborough's Bill Calladine was not in the Bruins lineup. He has sat the last two out while the Boston management tried out some new recruits. The Rossmen need reinforcements but so long as the Cowley-Cain scoring punch remains the Bruins will be a contender.

Players, fans and executive are asked to note change....Bill Cowley's four scoring points last night will tie him with Sweeney Schriner and Gus Bodnar of the Leafs, the three having piled up a total of 15. Cowley has a game in hand over the other two, at that....Boston had a sellout crowd of 13,500 at its opening game with Black Hawks last night and the entire proceeds were turned over to the Disabled War Veterans' Fund....Toronto papers, please copy....Jim Coleman includes Leo Deadey in the list of the best tacklers of the modern era of rugby....Had an idea that Les Ascott would catch himself a place on the Service League all-star team but it looks as if the knee injury he sustained early in the season handicapped the Peterborough lad....He was going great guns according to all reports in Saturday's game with Hagersville R.C.A.F....Nels Tremblay, centre ice star of last year's Allan Cup winners, the Quebec Aces, has signed with the Montreal Canadiens....Paris, Ont., may not have a rink this season because there is no hockey....Here we may have no hockey because no rink is available.

Referee Takes Battering From Wrestlers

Frank Sexton, smooth mat star from Columbus O., defeated the battling Doc Len Hall, California, in the main bout of the Tunney wrestling show at the Brock street Arena last night on Referee Bert Maxwell's decision, after the two rivals had each taken a fall in a struggle that provided plenty of action.

The ruling satisfied everybody but Hall who complained bitterly that he never gets a square deal from the Toronto official.

The Californian gave the clever Sexton a real run at that. He had the edge for some time in the early part of the argument, took the first fall with his pile-driver hold after 25 minutes tough battling and he was still fighting back hard in the second round until his eagerness to trap Sexton with another pile-driver gave the Ohio Power House a chance to use his giant swing and even up the match.

Sexton was top man, however, for the rest of the hour and the timer's bell saved Hall. Frankie had his opponent whirling round in an airplane swing when the bout ended and would undoubtedly have taken the deciding fall in a few more seconds so that the decision in his favor was an accurate appreciation of the situation.

It was a lively tussle. Sexton, one of the fastest and cleverest performers in the mat game today found the bouncing Californian a foeman worthy of his steel. The Doc is a rough-house type but he mixes with his ruthlessness a lot of speed and a wide knowledge of wrestling science and that combination makes him a formidable opponent.

Hall Leads Attack

Sexton showed his usual dexterity in getting out of dangerous holds during the spirited action of the first round but at that Hall had him in difficulties frequently with his hair-pulling, gouging and kicking repertoire mixed in with the California stomp, a Hall specialty that consists of stepping on the toes or fingers of the opposition. This playful little stunt got Sexton's goat so much that he adopted it himself and the fans got a real kick out of seeing Hall limping around after the Ohio smoothie had planted his No. 12's squarely on the Doc's feet. And they really enjoyed the spectacle of Hall getting bounced around the ring with a series of flying tackles. He weathered that barrage, however and got out of another jam when Sexton trundled him around with a hold that looked like Earl McCready's famous rocking-chair.

Then the Californian went on the attack again, shook Sexton up with a few punches to the jaw, tossed him two or three times with flying mares and applied the pile-driver as smoothly as Wild Bill Longson ever used it. The fall came in 25 minutes.

The Giant Swing

The second round was equally exciting with Sexton gradually assuming the upper hand but with Hall battling determinedly. In fact the burly athlete from the Coast looked to have his opponent in trouble but his anxiety to use the hold that gave him the first fall led to his undoing. He was trying to manoeuvre Sexton into position to apply the pile-driver when the Ohio star suddenly dived between Hall's legs and in the same motion grabbed him by the ankles and the next moment the Doc found himself at the wrong end of a giant swing.

Sexton whirled him completely around seven or eight times and then dropped him for the fall. The Californian had to wait until the arena stopped revolving before he could stagger out of the ring.

Sexton was on the attack most of the time in the third round and wound up by tossing Hall bodily out of the ring. The Doc was a bit dazed when he got back in and Sexton picked him up and started to twirl him around in an airplane swing just as the final bell rang. Then the referee's decision went to the Columbus grappler.

Maxwell a Punching Bag

The Ivan Rasputin-John Katan semi-final was one of the wildest sessions in some time and it wound up with both men being disqualified for punching Referee Bert Maxwell. The official as a matter of fact took more punishment than the wrestlers for he was knocked down repeatedly by both of them as he tried to restore law and order when both battlers went berserk. Katan was in his roughest mood and the Russian grizzly another mat artist who believes in force rather than in finesse, was quite willing to play the way the Palermo Panther wanted so the result was a near riot.

Katan did most of the early attacking and he had the Beard in dire distress with his favorite headlock and punching routine. On one occasion when the Russian went on the offensive the Panther retaliated by pulling the long hairs on Rasputin's back and he would probably have plucked the shaggy Ivan completely if Referee Maxwell had not interfered.

Finally Rasputin got tired of acting as a target and he started firing punches, winding up by throwing Katan out of the ring and, following him out, shoved him into the front row of ring-siders. By the time the two got through the ropes again both were sizzling and there was a wild scene when they tore in to each other. Apparently the only thing they agreed on was that neither of them wanted any interference from Referee Maxwell. Every time the official tried to break up the battlers he was knocked down by one or other of the infuriated rivals. On one occasion Katan dropped him with a right to the jaw and he just got up in time to go down from a Rasputin left. A moment later he was caught between the two of them and got a rough passage. Finally Katan spilled him with a kick and as he got up Rasputin laid a right swing on his jaw and for about the 15th time Maxwell went down in a heap.

That was enough for the official. He staggered to his feet, angrily signalled that both men were disqualified and left the ring.

Johnny Gyroffy and Mike Demetre opened the card by wrestling 30 minutes to a draw in a bout that was mostly clean and very evenly-contested. Both had openings to take a fall and end the match but never succeeded in pressing an attack home. However they demonstrated a variety of holds and stuck for the most part to wrestling, in contrast to the back-alley tactics that were featured in the other two items on the program.

Maxwell refereed all three bouts and Fred Scates took care of the timing and the announcing.

Borden Plans Basketball

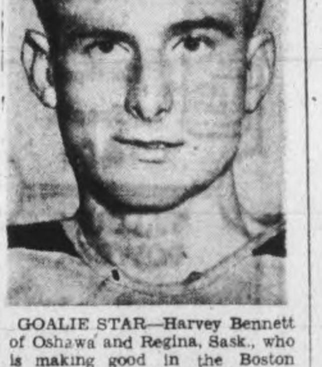
CAMP BORDEN, Nov. 15 — The frost is on the pumpkin these fall days, and around Borden's K. of C. Hut minds are on winter sports, with an accelerated program in view for the coming season.

Dave Speyer of Toronto, hut supervisor, who rivals England's Winston Churchill when it comes to consumption of cigars, is puffing a little heavier on his stogie as he works on plans to include the feminine touch in this winter's sports program. CWACs, practically unknown in Borden a year ago, moved up in force during the summer, and Dave's domain in the north zone now has a generous skirted population.

The gals, however, seem to be a bit on the bashful side, and that's why the K. of C. chief is biting deeper into the ever-present perfecto as he conducts a mental hunt for some line of athletic endeavor that will bring 'em out in numbers. Invitations have been extended to take part in regular ping-pong tournaments at the hut, but to date the cuties have declined with thanks.

Most interest on the part of gal soldiers has to date been shown in basketball and a girls' team is expected to enter competition from the north zone. Dave isn't making any promises just yet, but he has passed out hints, and a hint from this former prominent figure in Toronto sports circles is just about as good as an announcement.

There will, of course, be boxing and hockey on the program during the winter months around the K. of C., but no CWAC participants are expected for these sports. Chess and checker contests, which form a regular part of the indoor sports program, are however, open to the ladies.



GOALIE STAR—Harvey Bennett of Oshawa and Regina, Sask., who is making good in the Boston Bruins goal. He is a tall rangy type of goalie. Bennett pitched for Oshawa Main Office last summer against the local Plazas in the softball semi-finals.

DR. THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL

SOOTHES, SIMPLE SORE THROAT

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP) — Julian Rice, a contract bridge teacher and lawyer, has approached what he considers an unfair rule in baseball in a spirit of scientific inquiry and thinks he has the answer.

What's the Percentage?

The unfairness in the foul ball rule, Rice says, is that a batter can hit a couple of screaming liners that barely curve foul and he's charged with two strikes. Then he barely touches one to foul it up onto the screen and it doesn't cost him anything at all.

His Zone Idea:

What Rice proposes to do about this is to divide foul territory into zones . . . one zone on each side of the present foul lines would be "free foul" territory into which a batter could hit—not bunt—as many fouls as he wanted without penalty ...the rest of the area would be the "penalty foul" zone and every foul into it would be ruled a strike, even the third one . . . The size of these free and penalty foul zones will be decided by experiments—and Rice hopes to stage a few experimental games this fall.

Strictly Neutral:

This corner doesn't fully subscribe to all of Rice's predictions that his plan will change the game for the better, but we'll be the first to howl if baseball men try to ignore it on the grounds their game already is perfect . . . the idea is worth considering—and the hot stoves may need a lot of fuel this winter.

Jack Dempsey Re-lives Greatest Moment

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 — (CP). — Cmdr. Jack Dempsey and Artist James Montgomery Flagg, both of whom have spread plenty of figures on canvas, shared the spotlight Tuesday as the Manassa Mauler re-lived for a few minutes the high spot of his fighting career.

The occasion was the unveiling, at Dempsey's restaurant, of a 20-by-six-foot oil painting by Flagg of the scrap between Dempsey and Jess Willard at Toledo, O., July 4, 1919, in which Dempsey won the heavyweight title and headed the fight game toward $1,000,000 gates.

All of New York's fight mob, sports writers and well-wishers were on hand as Dempsey locked his restaurant doors to the usual trade.

Willard wasn't present, but he sent a telegram telling Dempsey, "I saw too much of you 25 years ago."

Horner To Coach

TORONTO, Nov. 15 — (CP). — Reginald George (Red) Horner, former defence star with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, has accepted the job as coach of Toronto Staffords, new entry in the Senior Ontario Hockey Association, it was announced today. Horner retired after 12 years with the Leafs at the close of the 1939-40 season. Two years ago he was a linesman for the N.H.L.

Football League Suggests Soccer Revisions

By ALLAN NICKLESON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 15 (CP) — Reorganization of big-time football after the war with professional players on a part-time basis, yet with increased wages, is the outstanding point of the report of the Football League Post-War Planning committee which has been circulated to clubs throughout England and Wales.

The proposal for peacetime professional wages suggested that maximum wages be increased by £1 ($4.50) to £9 in the playing season and £7 a week in the summer season. The committee added that it was "most desirable" that every league player be engaged or trained in some additional form of employment.

The authoritative weekly, "The Sporting Life," said that "judged as a whole it was a most disappointing document." The report was published after the Replanning committee, consisting of nine Management committee members and six club representatives, met variously from October, 1943, to July, 1944.

Writing in the London Daily Sketch as to the players proposal, L. V. Manning asked "what is to stop the rich club finding an extravagantly paid job for the wanted player if by a miracle the work-and-play plan goes through?"

If the European war ends between next May and the end of September the committee proposes to institute Victory League and Cup competitions as soon as possible. If hostilities have not ceased by October, 1945, the existing wartime competitions will be continued and victory competitions started the following season

Back To Old System

Under the Victory League competitions there would be a return of the league to its pre-war system of four divisions—first, second, etc., with the same clubs taking part. Under wartime conditions various divisions were abolished and the clubs divided into League North, League South and League West, according to their geographical location. This has helped solve the transport problem in that it slashed distances of travel.

During a transitional period of undetermined duration after the war the clubs would not have the promotion and relegation system of pre-war whereby a First Division club which was a "weak sister" could be dropped into the Second Division, with a strong Second Division team moving up in its place.

Guest players in that transition period would be limited to six by any club for any game, this number to gradually be reduced until "guests" eventually are eliminated. The sug-

Gone to Get Cigarettes for our Fighting Men!

A cigarette is such a little thing, just a pinch of tobacco and a scrap of paper, but to a fighting man it is complete relaxation, the needed break for tense nerves, a supreme enjoyment.

On the return from "the target for to-night", or after tense moments of life or death, danger and suffering, a cigarette provides a sense of deep satisfaction that nothing else can give.

That's why we, every one of us, should make it an obligation to contribute regularly to the cigarette funds for our fighting men overseas.

Won't you do your part?

Boston Bruins Beat Hawks Move Into 4th

By ERIC SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Art Ross' revamped Boston Bruins, which early this season lacked the zip and scoring punch they were famous for in previous National Hockey League campaigns, may have found the answer to their problems.

At any rate, the Boston club moved into sole possession of fourth place in the N.H.L. Tuesday night by outscoring Paul Thompson's Chicago Black Hawks 7-5 when they opened their 21st home season before 13,500 fans at Boston Gardens.

Although the Bruins scored the first goal of the match, they were forced to come from behind a 2-1 deficit in the second period to take the lead. Each squad netted one in the opening session.

Veteran left wing Herbie Cain, who last season set a league record of 82 points, and rookie Bill Cupolo each scored twice for Bruins. Bill Jennings, Frankie Mario and Bill Cowley got the others. Cowley also assisted in three goals. Chicago goal-getters were Pete Horcey, with two, Bill Mosienko, Lude Check and Buss Brayshaw.

Black Hawks were sparked by Pete Horeck, who last season notched 34 goals for Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League. He is replacing Doug Bentley on the line with Clint Smith and Mosienko, two of the club's top scorers in the 1943-44 campaign.

All receipts of the match were turned over to the Disabled War Veterans' Fund of Boston.

All-Star Football Team Picked In Ontario Armed Services Loop

By FRASER MACDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 15—(CP)—Sgt. Dick Groom, hard-tackling outside wing of Hagersville Flying Tigers, didn't collect any headlines for his football scrapbook this season but he is the only player unanimously chosen for a place on the Ontario Armed Services Football League's first all-star team, announced last night.

All eight coaches and sport writers who participated in the selection for The Canadian Press named the 24-year-old Groom, who entered senior football with the old Hamilton Tigers and played last season with the Dominion champion Hamilton Wildcats, to an outside post on the mythical team. Under the system of "weighting" the vote to give equal strength to each league centre he received 24 of a possible 24 points.

Leading Seaman Annis Stukus, the veteran quarterback of the champion Toronto Navy Bulldogs who play H.M.C.S. Donnaconna in Montreal Saturday for the Canadian Navy championship, ranked next to Groom from the standpoint of unanimity. Leading scorer in the league this season with 44 points, Stukus received 20 of a possible 24 points in the voting. FO. Bobby Coulter of Hagersville was the only other quarterback contender with four points.

Navy and Hagersville each placed four men on the all-star team, the number corresponding to the number of games each won in the scheduled season. Camp Borden R.C.A.F. Hurricanes, who won three games, have three all-star players and St. Thomas R.C.A.F. Hornets, who failed to win a game all season, have one.

The Team:

Flying Wing—Sgt. Doug Pyzer, Camp Borden.

Half—LS. Tom Waldon, Navy.

Half—LAC. Ray (Moon) Mullins, St. Thomas.

Half (secondary defence)—LAC. Doug Smylie, Hagersville.

Quarterback—LS. Annis Stukus, Navy.

Snap—FO. Jake Gaudar, Camp Borden.

Inside—LS. Hank McMahon, Navy.

Inside—Cpl. Fred Lamourux, Hagersville.

Middle—Flt. Lt. Mike Ozarko, Camp Borden.

Middle—FO. Al Langford, Hagersville.

Otuside—Sgt. Dick Groom, Hagersville.

Outside—LS. Al Upper, Navy.

Two Montrealers.

All members of the all-star team but two—Mullins and Lamoureux—played last season in the Ontario Rugby Football Union. But Stukus is the only member who was on the O.R.F.U. all-stars last year. Then a member of the Toronto Balmy Beach team, he was the unanimous choice for quarterback.

Pyzer, leading touchdown-getter in the league this season with seven for 35 points, Smylie and Ozarko were all members of the Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes a year ago. Waldon, McMahon, and Upper were with the Navy squad last year. Groom and Langford played with Hamilton Wildcats and Gaudaur with Ottawa.

Mullins, whose booting skill accounted for 16 of the 18 points St. Thomas scored during the season, is a former Montreal player. Lamoureux also comes from Montreal, and played last season with the Lachine R.C.A.F. team which was eliminated by Hamilton in the Eastern Canada finals.

Two players who were on the O.R.F.U.'s 1943 all-star team failed to make the Services League all-star squad this year— OS. Royal Copeland of Navy and Sgt. Fred Kijek of Camp Borden. Both were mentioned in the voting.

The backfield contains the three leading scorers in the Service League scheduled season—Stukus who scored 44 points, Pyzer with 35, and Smylie with 20.

TORONTO, Nov. 15 — (CP). — Return of an old, familiar name to the hockey wars in Montreal was forecast with the announcement Leo Dandurand had been named honorary vice-president of the Nationale Hockey Club, which is planning a comeback on its fiftieth birthday, reports Lloyd McGowan in the Montreal Star.....The Nationales used to be a force to be reckoned with in hockey and lacrosse, and such past greats as Newsy Lalonde, Joe Cattarinich, Didier Pitre, and Jack Laviolette wielded the gutted stick with them ....Nationales have a junior team lined up this winter, and plan to get back into the senior hockey field soon after a lapse of 20 years ....That will give the French-Canadians from East Montreal a voice in the puck forum.

Oh, you kid.

They tell this one about Sweeney Schriner, this season's "rookie of the year." Crossing the international border recently, an immigration officer looked interested when he heard Schriner's name, then brightened: "Oh, yes, you're the new rookie doing all that early scoring. Keep it up, and you're a cinch to win the rookie award." Sweeney figures it really would be something to cop the ducat again. He nailed it once back in 1934-35 with New York Americans.

Mirth department:

From Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson: "New York Rangers' home games are starting now at 8:30 instead of 8:45.....We almost remarked that Rangers were starting to play hockey at 8:30." Well, thats where life begins, isn't it?

Grab bag:

We wondered when we saw that 2,500 patrons attended a bantam booster game in Calgary. Program prize was a $450 fur coat, which attracts customers even faster than it draws moths....Amateur wrestling is making a real comeback in Kitchener, Ont., with youngsters down to 15 showing keen interest ....Out in Vancouver, the amateur situation isn't nearly as good. Billy Bertram was tearing his hair out the other night trying to get enough salary-less boxers to fill his card....Maurice Lavigne, Timmins, Ont., scrapper who has been campaigning in the Maritimes, is being touted by his pals as another Dave Castilloux when he gets more experience. Lavigne dropped a recent one to aging but seemingly ageless Johnny Lifford of Saint John, N.B.....Vancouver is hoping to get the Allan Cup finals next spring, the first time since 1933 when Moncton Hawks slapped Saskatchewan Quakers for the Mug.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Ottawa Roughriders' 15 year hunt for an Interprovincial Big Four Football Union title ended 19 years ago today when Riders defeated Hamilton Tigers 8-3 at the capital. Ottawa went on to win the Canadian title that year, defeating Winnipeg 24-1 in the final.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Jack Adams of the Detroit Red Wings put in a strong endorsement of Mervyn Red Dutton as president of the National Hockey League when he addressed a sports banquet at Welland last night. Adams said that Dutton is such a suitable candiate for the permanent presidency of the N.H.L. that the league "is fortunate to have his services at their disposal." Dutton has been acting president since the death of Frank Calder, but recently he said he would not accept the permanent presidency if it were offered him. Major Conn Smythe, formerly boss of the Toronto Maple Leafs, has also declined the post.

The annual bonspiel of the Kitchener Granite Club, starting Monday, already has 90 entries, assuring the biggest competition in the 11 years of the event. Preliminaries involving [illegible]0 foursomes will be held on Friday.

One Punch Joe.

Sgt. Joe Louis, world heavyweight champion, knocked out Johnny Davis of Brooklyn with the first punch from his right hand in the first round of an exhibition last night at Buffalo auditorium. The blow came at the 53-second mark. Up to then Louis had been worrying Davis with left jabs to the head. There were 7,000 fans present.

Luke (Hot Potato) Hamlin, 39-year old righthander who won six and lost 12 with Philadelphia Athletics last season, has been traded to Toronto of the International League, Cannie Mack announced yesterday.

In the same card with Louis, Cliff Beckett of Sudbury scored a technical knockout over Jerry McGee of New York in three rounds. Beckett weighed 155½, McGee 153¾.

The RCAF Bombers beat the Winnipeg Army Grenades 5-4 in the opener of the Manitoba Inter-Services Senior Hockey League at Winnipeg last night. Former NHL players were on both teams. Pte. Mickey McKay with two, Pte. Jim McFadden and Pte. Bob Wiest scored for Army; LAC. Paul Platz scored twice for the Airmen, with singles by Sgt. Wally Stanowski, Cpl. Alf Pike and LAC. Neil Colville.

Bears Trounce St. Louis Flyers

By The Canadian Press.

Eastern Division top-flight Hershey Bears trounced Western Division cellar-dweller St. Louis Flyers 4-1 in the only game scheduled in the American Hockey League last night.

Bill Gooden and Pat Patterson scored for the Bears in the first stanza while O'Neil hit the mark for the Hershey team in the second period.

N. Smith led a St. Louis rally in the third period. He scored the Flyers' lonely point unassisted after almost three-quarters of the period had gone by. The Hershey defence proved too tough for the Flyers to break through with anything else.

With but one second of the game remaining, Forgie took a loose puck in centre ice and drove in for the fourth Hershey tally.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press

Bill Cowley of Boston collected four points as Bruins defeated Chicago last night 7-5. Cowley now is in a three-way tie for first place among N.H.L. scorers with Sweeney Schriner and Gus Bodnar of Toronto Leafs. C. Smith's three points for Hawks gave him a tie for seventh place with Modere Bruneteau, Detroit. Other leaders were idle.

Give Silver Derbies For The Hat Trick

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(AP). — The "hat trick" will be worth a hat to amateur hockey players in the United States this season.

The Amateur Hockey Association of the United States has decided to recognize the traditionally important feat of scoring three goals in one game by awarding a miniature silver derby to each player on an A.H.A. member club who does the trick. Last season approximately 82 "hat tricks" were accomplished in A.H.A. competition.

Last Night's Stars

France Will Recuperate At Rapid Pace

LONDON, Nov. 15.—(CP).—Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons yesterday that Germany's "tyrannous" rule over France had resulted in placing Britian's "friendship with France on a surer foundation than ever existed before in the history of our two countries."

"France will recover," Mr. Eden said. "Before now in her history, she has shown powers of recuperation which have astonished the world."

He paid high tribute to Gen. de Gaulle—"the man who to-day is unquestionably the inspirer and the man who personifies the unity of the French people."

The French leader, he added, has surrounded himself "with a band of young and vigorous colleagues who have proved their worth in the ordeals through which France has passed."

Mr. Eden spoke on behalf of Prime Minister Churchill who yesterday was reported inspecting French troops in the Vosges region.

In a report on the welcome accorded Prime Minister Churchill and the British delegation to the Paris conference with Gen. de Gaulle, the Foreign Secretary declared.

"One felt behind the tumultuous greetings of these cast and orderly crowds the heart beat of a nation once again united with its Allies and confident of its own future."

Asked whether it would be possible to arrange a London reception in honor of Gen. de Gaulle, he expressed hope the visit to Paris "will in due course be returned."

Holstein Bull Brings $15,200

BRANTFORD, Nov. 15 — (CP) — J. J. E. McCague of Alliston, Ontario, received $15,200 for an 18-months-old Holstein bull, Glenafton Rag Apple Mark, at the blue ribbon sale held yesterday at Waukesha, Wis., it is learned here.

This was the top price of the sale and the largest amount paid for a Canadian-bred bull since 1918 when Senator A. C. Hardy of Brockville sold Carnation King Sylvia to the Carnation Milk Farms of Seattle, Wash., for $106,000.

The buyers of "Mark" was Lauxmont Farms, Wrightsville, Pa. Harden Farms, Camden, N.J., paid $15,000 and $10,500 for two sons of the famous Montvic Lochinvar, who was bred at Mount Victoria Farms, Hudson Heights, Que.

Top price for a female yesterday was $9,600 paid by Curtiss Candy Co. to Bancroft Acres Farms, Flint, Mich., for Meadowood Abbekerk Rag Apple who was bought a year ago by Bancroft for $5,100 from J. E. Chandler of Hudson Heights, Que., the top price of the all-Canadian sale at Oakville.

The 67 head sold averaged $2,028, the highest average at a consignment sale on the continent since 1920.

Canadian Units Reinforced By Canadians

OTTAWA, Nov. 15 — (CP). — Defence headquarters Tuesday issued a statement on the disposition of Canadian forces overseas which explained the integration of Allied arms and stressed that despite the policy of interchange, formations were assured of their own reinforcements, supplies an equipment.

The statement added:

"In Canadian units, for example, all the personnel are Canadian and reinforcements are provided by Canadians through Canadian reinforcement depots in the theatres, these in turn are backed up by the Canadian reinforcement units in England."

No reason was given for issuance of the statement other than the comment that press reports from Europe and Defence Headquarters announcements had indicated the presence within Canadian formations of British, United States and other Allied armies. The same source had stated Canadian forces have served under Allied command.

"International Brigade"

Issuance of the statement follows the appearance in some Canadian newspapers of stories and cartoons in which the 1st Canadian Army has been dubbed "Crerar's International Brigade"—because of its United Nations complexion. It also follows stories in which the efforts of British, American and other Allied forces with the 1st Army have been recorded.

The statement said:

"It is perhaps not so well known that the 1st Canadian Army commanded by Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, has not a fixed composition and the number of corps and of divisions of which it may be composed varies from time to time in relation to the task in hand. When operations call for a concentration of strength the additional strength placed at the disposal of an army commander is drawn from neighboring armies.

"This explains why the 1st Canadian Army may have under its command formations from any of our Allied Armies and similarly explains why Canadian formations may in turn engage in operations under other than Canadian command."

The statement referred to the Canadian Corps in Italy serving with the British 8th Army, commenting that "its place in the Canadian Army in Northwest Europe is filled by a similar formation from Allied armies." The corps in Italy and the Canadian Corps with the 1st Army "constitute the Canadian Army overseas."

The statement concluded:

"The ability to concentrate and integrate their forces where and when required demonstrates the high degree of training, planning, standardization of weapons and equipment and co-operative organization which has been achieved by the forces of the United Nations."

Canadians May Have Sunk German Ship

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Nov. 15— (CP Cable) —A young Canadian bombardier, FO. Walter Daniel of Rivers, Man., who flew in the leading R.A.F. Lancaster in Sunday's attack that sank the German battleship Tirpitz in Norway's Tromsoe Fjord, may have been the first to smash the onetime pride of the German navy.

Daniel, who as a member of the raid leader's crew pressed the button that released a 12,000-pound earthquake bomb on the Tirpitz, told a press conference his Lancaster was in the first wave of five bombers and that crews following observed two direct hits and two near misses.

The 24-year-old Daniel was the only Canadian among six members of the participating crews who were flown to London for the interviews. It was believed, however, that at least a dozen Canadians participated in the attack, another one being Flt. Lt. Johnny Loftus of Toronto, who flew as a movie cameraman.

Daniel said 29 of the 32 Lancasters on this long-distance raid each dropped one "earthquake" bomb—a total bomb tonnage of approximately 150 tons—from a height of 13,000 feet and the morning was brigt and clear.

"We couldn't see much for smoke when we circled to watch after dropping our bombs," Laniel said. "That smoke wasn't from a smokescreen because the Germans didn't send one up, but it was from the effect of our bombs."

SEATTLE, Nov. 15—(AP). —Capt. James Donlon, Jr., who survived the "march of death" on Bataan and 2½ years in Japanese prison camps, came home to learn that his wife had joined the United States Women's Army Corps. "What's that?" he asked. Captain Donlon soon found out. His wife's a Major.

Extra Workers For Christmas

OTTAWA, Nov. 15 — (CP) — Special regulations to facilitate the employment of extra workers by retail stores and post offices during the Christmas rush period were announced to-day by Arthur MacNamara, Director of National Selective Service.

In the period December 13 to January 5 retail business will be allowed to employ women, students and teachers on Christmas vacation and the men who are at least 59 years old without obtaining permission from Selective Service. The Post Office Department may employ persons in these categories without permits from December 1 to January 10.

Lawn Trees May Be Decorated

TORONTO, Nov. 15 (CP)—Snow-laden Christmas trees may twinkle with colored lights outside Canadian homes this Christmas, as they did before wartime lighting restrictions were put into effect, Prices Board officials here said today.

The lights that brighten the Christmas scene outdoors, however, will mostly be those left-over from former years, because while their manufacture has again been permitted it is not expected that many such lights will appear for sale this season.

Boaru officials here also said that turkeys should be as plentiful as they were last year.

As for decoration, there is a good supply of Christmas crackers and a fair supply of colored tissue for wrapping. Tinsel and colored balls are scarce. And a few metal toys will be on the market this season.

New Branches Needed WI Told

MILLBROOK, Nov. 15—(ENS)—Mrs. E. Soden, president of the East Durham Women's Institute, was guest of honor at the November meeting of the local branch, held Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Edmund Ball, the past president of the E.D.W.I. Mrs. Ira Lowe, of Mount Pleasant, was also present and Mrs. Soden's daughter, Mrs. Hughes, accompanied her. The chair was taken by the local president, Mrs. Delbert Olan.

The treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Hilton, reported a balance of $30.74 in the bank, and $10.75 in the Red Cross fund; $10 of this amount was voted to be given to the local Red Cross. Mrs. Hilton also had a letter from the W.I. headquarters telling that the $5 donated to the Jam for Britain fund had been sent to the Seaforth Institute, which has made tons of jam for this purpose. Mrs. H. M. Trick turned in $10.50 from the euchre held at her home recently, and Mrs. D. L. Lunn was appointed delegate to the Provincial W.I. convention being held in Toronto from Tuesday to Friday of this week; the delegates originally appointed were unable to attend, and Mrs. Lunn was instructed to vote in favor of the resolutions favoring closing of the women's beverage rooms, and a pension for cripples where financial aid is necessary. Copies of these resolutions were sent to each branch in the area affected, with instructions to vote for or against them at a regular meeting.

The matter of the branch sponsoring a hostel in the community for the convenience of cyclists, hikers and skiers who might wish for overnight accommodation with meals, when passing through the village, was turned down after lengthy discussion. Toronto men interested in this project had visited the community and asked the Institute to take over such service.

Want New Members.

Mrs. Soden brought a number of suggestions from the provincial secretary, Miss Mary Clarke, among these being an all-out canvass for new members, and for new branches in East Durham. Pontypool was mentioned as one point where no Institute so far has been organized. An effort will be made to get in touch with someone interested. Passing on any new ideas that might be worked out in other branches, and insisting that all standing committees be working committees, with special attention to the girls' work were other points stressed. Mrs. M. W. Ball will take over the girls' club locally in the near future. "Have faith in your Institute," is the slogan Miss Clarke wishes adopted.

"Spare moments and their use," was the theme of Mrs. Soden's main address, a few points being: Choose good programs on the radio; spend some time daily in your flower garden; avoid too much time on light books and magazines, and do not forget that the best reading is found in the Bible; make a place for humor, for the daily paper, for pleasure, and give some time to the beauties of nature.

Mrs. D. L. Lunn followed with "Budget your time for Health," and a discussion followed and receiving of the Red Cross collection and brief remarks by Mrs. Lowe. Lunch was served while a social hour with the visiting officers was enjoyed. The December meeting will be at Mrs. H. M. Trick's home and will be at 2.30 in the afternoon. There will be no more evening meetings until spring.

MANY BENEFITS — ONE OBLIGATION: Over 600,000 book-reading families now belong to the Book-of-the-Month Club. They do so in order to keep themselves from missing the important new books they are really interested in.

As a Club member, you receive an advance publication report about the judges' choice—and also reports about all other important coming books. If you decide you want the book-of-the-month, you let it come. If not (on a blank always provided) you can specify some other book you want or simply say: "Send me nothing."

Last year the retail value of free books given to Club members was over $7,000,000—given, not sold! These book-dividends could be distributed free because so many subscribers ordinarily want the book-of-the-month that an enormous edition can be printed. The saving on this quantity-production enables the Club to buy the right to print other fine library volumes. These are then manufactured and distributed free among subscribers—one for every two books-of-the-month purchased.

You pay no yearly fee as a member. Your one obligation is that you must buy no fewer than four books-of-the-month in any twelve-month period. Your subscription to the Club is not for one year, but as long as you decide; you can end it at any time after taking four books-of-the-month. You pay for the books as you get them—the regular Canadian retail price (frequently less) plus a small charge to cover postage and other mailing expenses.

BQMS J. Ewart Named Clerk-Treasurer

COBOURG, Nov. 15 — (ENS). — B.Q.M.S. Jack Ewart, former Mayor of Cobourg, who enlisted during the middle of his term early in the war, was appointed town clerk and treasurer at the meeting of the Town Council on Monday night. The job carries a salary of $2,000 per year. He succeeds A. W. Young, who retired on account of ill-health. Pending the return of Mr. Ewart after the war, E. A. Hircock, tax collector, will serve as deputy town clerk and treasurer, along with his other duties as tax collector, at a combined salary of $2,000 a year. Mr. Ewart has cabled his acceptance of the job.

The appointment of ex-Mayor Ewart concludes what has been a difficult situation for some time. When ex-Reeve Roy Dodge was proposed for the position, there was considerable opposition among some members of the Council and Mr. Dodge withdrew his name. The retiring clerk, A. W. Young, had been able to carry on only with the greatest difficulty, due to his health and the burden of the job has fallen on the shoulders of Miss Hattie Hawkey. Miss Hawkey will assist Mr. Hircock as stenographer.

Council passed a by-law which will be placed before the electors in December to determine whether a fixed assessment of $2,000 for ten years will be granted the Cobourg Lumber Company who plan to build a lumber mill near the tracks east of the Ontario Hospital.

Request of F. Brooksbank of College Street for removal of a tree was granted. A letter from a Toronto engineer in connection with sewer planning was received and filed. Council deferred action in regard to a letter from Assessor Jack Huycke who asked for an extra $100 in his salary this year on the grounds that frequent property changes had given him about three months' extra work. Councillor Reuben Jackson was opposed to any increase.

Mayor Jack Burnet announced that letters to the municipal heads of Colborne, Port Hope and Brighton had produced a reaction favorable to registering a protest to the proposed changing of the new highway to a line three miles further north of the lakeshore area than the previous survey.

Committee accounts which were passed totalled $23,233.67.

Youth Of Sixteen

Witness stated he never at any time saw Scollard with any bottles of beer in his pocket. The last time he saw Peter alive, he said, was when the boy went out of the house and down the road shortly after 1:30 o'clock. He said Peter was able to walk reasonably well. He recalled that Albert Sedgwick had told Peter to stop "calling off" for the dances.

"Was Peter ugly when drinking?"

"No."

James Dugan, who lives with Mr. and Mrs. O'Neil, was examined by Mr. McElderry. Asked if he heard noises that night, he replied no, that he had been working.

"Did you know Jack McMahon?"

"Yes."

"Did you buy two dozen pints of beer that Saturday afternoon?"

"I can't say."

"Now, that's strange."

Mr. Dugan denied seeing McMahon about beer at King and George Streets the Saturday afternoon previously reported, and insisted he never sold beer to anyone.

"But did you buy beer that Saturday afternoon?" repeated Mr. McElderry.

"I don't know. I might have."

Jack McMahon, called to the stand again, said he knew Dugan, but has never bought beer from him in his life.

A twin brother of Jack, James McMahon, testified that Scollard left the party around 1:30. Under examination by Mr. McElderry, witness admitted he had informed Detective Sergt. Meagher previously that Scollard left at 12 o'clock. The Crown Attorney said, "We will stay here all night if necessary," when the youth failed to make a satisfactory explanation of the falsehood.

There at 1:15.

"Who told you to say it?"

"Nobody."

"Can't you give the jury a better explanation than that?"

"No, I don't myself."

After further questioning, the witness was dismissed.

Victor Sedgwick, who returned home where the party was being held, at 1:15, said that Scollard was still there on his return.

The witness said that while he was hanging a coat behind a door, Peter swung the door open quickly, and hit him.

"I said, 'what's the matter with you,' and I wouldn't like to say what he answered me with here," said Mr. Sedgwick. He testified he then went upstairs to lie down, and heard Scollard say goodnight to some people down below. He saw no bottles of beer in the youth's pockets, he said. Scollard, according to Mr. Sedgwick, was one for "putting on an act."

In The Cellar

Frank O'Brien, 16, also in attendance at the Hallowe'en party, told the court he met Scollard for the first time there. Scollard, he admitted, showed some signs of having been drinking.

"How much did you have to drink?"

"About three pints."

"Where did you get them?"

"Down the cellar."

Other witnesses stated they had consumed some beer in the cellar, where, they said, was a case of beer.

After Scollard had gone home, O'Brien stated in answer to questioning, he heard Mr. Sedgwick say something to the effect of "hating the ground he walks on." Also, witness said Sedgwick had stated that if Scollard did not stop acting up, he would have to go home, this being before the youth left the house. (Although Albert and Victor Sedgwick both denied saying anything about "hating the ground he walks on" in later evidence, it was not clear which Mr. Sedgwick the witness referred to.)

Joseph Fitzgerald said that he heard "Mr. Sedgwick" say that if Scollard would not be quiet, he would have to go out. Frank Fitzgerald, his son, testified he had offered to drive Peter home around 12:30, but that the youth told him he would rather walk. In answer to interrogations, the father said, "Yes, I guess there must have been some reason for Peter to want to go home, but I don't know what it was." The witness said the episode with Mr. Sedgwick and the "calling off" might have been the cause.

Frank Fitzgerald, 19, said he met Peter that Saturday evening about 8:30 at the corner of Hunter and George streets, and at 10:30, they drove in his father's car out to the Sedgwick party.

Asked about whether any beer had been consumed at that time, the witness said he thinks Peter had some beer before meeting him, but that no beer was drunk after that, until arriving at the party. Even then, he said he did not see Scollard drinking. When Scollard said he did not want to be driven home, Fitzgerald said he remained at the party, and Peter went out late. He did not, he said, hear anything about the "calling off" incident.

Cecil Thompson, whose car was one of the two injured while parked near the house the night of the party, said he arrived there close to midnight, and Scollard, of course, was already there, along with several other people. Recalling the testimony of Douglas Hayton Thompson said he had not been speaking to Hayton nearly all summer, because of a sum of money Hayton owes him, and which, he said, he has not paid. He said he was ready to go home, when he noticed the damage to his car, including both headlights smashed, and the wire pulled off the spark plugs and thrown out into the field, where he found some of them the next day.

Saw His Drinking

"Did you see Peter drinking?"

"Yes, I saw him drinking a pint of beer upstairs in the house."

Mrs. Mary Thompson testified Scollard was not drunk, but in a "lively mood."

Beatrice Fairburn, a sister of Mrs. Sedgwick, said Scollard left about 1:30, in no worse condition than when he came in. Never, she said, did she see him drink beer in the house, but that he had been drinking before coming. Harry Brooks, owner of the other damaged car, said he did not hear Mr. Sedgwick say anything about him (Scollard). Miss Vera Wilson accompanied Mr. Brooks to the party, and she testified that Scollard would appear to have had a few drinks.

Mrs. Jean Sedgwick in giving testimony, said that out of 24 pints of beer in the house, other than that of Hayton and McMahon, all but seven were left after the party, and for that matter, are still where they were then.

Mrs. Sedgwick admitted she had made some comment to the effect "I'm not a bit surprised" when informed of the finding of Scollard's body in the canal. He always went that way to go home, she said. After he was reported missing, witness testified, she "kind of thought that's maybe where they'd find him."

Albert Sedgwick told the court that Scollard swore, in connection with the "calling off" incident, and when he remonstrated with him, telling him he didn't like that kind of language in the house, Peter made up and told him he was sorry. Mr. Sedgwick denied emphatically making any comment about "hating the ground he walks on."

Detective Sgt. Meagher and Frank Scollard also gave evidence.

The jurymen were: James Burgess, foreman; John Troke, Daniel Leonard, Vernon O'Dette, and Fred Fisher.

Drinking Made Him Wild Chinese Tells Court At Cobourg

COBOURG, Nov. 15 — (ENS) — Magistrate R. B. Baxter reserved his decision Tuesday until Thursday, in connection with the charge against Robert Chu Sing of Earlscourt who is alleged to have assaulted and injured Harry Hutchinson of Warkworth on November 1. Evidence revealed that Hutchison was beaten up near the old Cedarmere Hotel property while he was attending the Orange convention here.

Constable E. Houghton testified that at 9:30 p.m. he arrested the accused in a local cafe following the complaint from Harry Hutchinson that he had beaten up near the Cedarmere. Constable Houghton said that the complainant was bleeding freely from cuts about the face. He took him to Dr. W. Wilkins for treatment. The trousers worn by the accused at the time bore extensive blood stains. These were produced as an exhibit in court.

Chief W. J. Carey testified that he saw the accused in his office after the alleged assault where he took down a statement from him. On searching him he found a beer permit made out to Harry Hutchinson, an insurance identification card and other papers of Hutchinson. On the following day the accused showed him where the assault had taken place and in the vicinity other personal papers of Hutchinson were found. Also found on the accused was the sum of $1.08, which Chu Sing said he had taken from the complainant.

Wanted Music

Harry Hutchinson related that he was attending the Orange convention at the time of the affair. He saw Chu Sing on the street around 9:15 that evening and asked the accused if he knew where a man could go and spend an evening of music as he played the violin.

"He said that he knew where there was a place, so after going up to my hotel and having some beer, we left and walked west. Somewhere in the west end of the town we were walking along and I asked him where the house was and he said just up where the light is and then I felt something grab my throat in the dark. I said what the heck is going on and then I went out. I came to and made my way to a nearby house and they said to get a doctor. I was feeling dazed and just don't recall very well after that. I went home the next day and was in bed for several days and have not been able to do much since," testified Hutchinson.

Badly Bruised

The complainant informed the court that he was 55 years of age and weighed 125 pounds. When he appeared in court his face still showed many scars and traces of bruises.

Dr. W. E. Wilkins told the court that when he examined Hutchinson he found that he had a considerable number of cuts and bruises on the face and that he had bled considerably. He gave his opinion that the cuts were caused by a sharp instrument, very likely glass.

Good Memory

"I was not sober. I had been drinking all night," testified Chu Sing. "I just went crazy I guess from the drink," said the accused.

"If you were so drunk that you don't think you were responsible for your actions, it is strange that you can remember all you did," commented the magistrate.

Chief Carey was recalled to the stand and said that when he saw the accused at 9:45 he was sober. Chu Sing related at the time that he didn't know why he did it but when he saw blood he went crazy.

Chu Sing told the court that his father was Chinese and that his mother was Polish. His record revealed that he had been discharged from the army and had been charged with theft of a car, and with wearing the King's uniform after he had been discharged from the army. He was also charged under the National Registration regulations while in Montreal.

Milkweed Collection Supported By Pupils

COBOURG, Nov. 15.—(ENS). — Northumberland boys and girls have done well in their milkweed collection, stated Ralph C. Banbury, county agricultural representative, Tuesday. For the past ten days Inspector A. A. Martin, Inspector W. H. Carlton and Mr. Banbury have been assisting to collect the material and two cars have been loaded and shipped away to be manufactured into life preservers and other equipment. Ted Hennessey of Brighton, trucked all the material and is said to be the only lad in Northumberland who has met every school teacher in the county.

Among those with large collections were Plainville with 269 bags, Alderville Indian school with 237 and the Breeze school with 234. In was an effort for all concerned but it brought considerable spending money to the children for their Christmas needs, in addition to rendering a patriotic service.

No Power Given To Destroy Life

ROME, Nov. 15 — (CP-Reuter) — Pope Pius XII declared yesterday that no power on earth has authority to take human life except in execution of a death sentence against a guilty person. His Holiness was granting an audience to 800 members of Saint Luke's Association of Catholic medical practitioners.

"Any act tending directly to destroy an innocent human being's life, whether as an end or as a means towards that end, whether that life is embryonic or full-grown, or nearing its end, is forbidden," he said.

Exhorting doctors to uphold sexual standards and affirming that the primary ruling purpose of sexual energies is the procreation and upbringing of children, which only matrimonial unions ensure, the Pope said "young men under the influence of growing passions, or engaged couples awaiting marriage, often have recourse to a doctor asking for advice and hoping to obtain it along lines contrary to nature and honor.

"All possible arguments of medical, eugenic and social morals will be brought to bear in the hope of inducing a doctor to give advice or aid calculated to assist the satisfaction of natural needs in a manner frustrating the purpose of vital generative forces.

"Only a physician who himself is personally convinced about the divine purpose will resist these assaults."

Bethany News

Mrs. Gervin Mulligan is visiting her son Gerald and Mrs. Mulligan at their home at Bellwood for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mulligan, of Cobourg, and babe, spent the week-end with the former's father and Vern at Bethany.

Mr. Harold Kyle of Dawson Creek, B.C., is leaving to-day to make a new home with his family at Edmonton, Alta., and held a successful sale on Saturday of household effects at the house he had occupied, belonging to Mr. Walter Rowland. Mr. and Mrs. Kyle have been popular residents of Bethany for some years, later owning and operating the Bethany bakery, now operated by Gervin Mulligan and son.

Miss Davenport, of Kitchener, spent the week-end, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Kyle and attended early communion service at St. Paul's Anglican church.

Miss Lottie Reynolds is closing her home this week, preparatory to leaving to spend the winter months with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Skelding at St. Thomas.

Seaway Project To Be Pushed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Senator George Aiken (Rep.-Vt.) said yesterday that opponents of the proposed St. Lawrence seaway development will not be permitted to "sidetrack" its consideration this year.

Sponsors, he said, "will insist that it be voted on as an amendment to the Rivers and Harbors Bill" which will be given Senate consideration during the session which opens today.

Senator Aiken's statement protested plans of Chairman John Overton (Dem.-La.) of a Senate commerce sub-committee for further hearings on the project, either by his own or the foreign relations committee, and declared:

"Its opponents have fought it by subterfuge and delay. We do not intend to let them continue these tactics."

Asserting "no good can come from holding hearings," Senator Aiken declared the project "has been the most thoroughly investigated proposed development in North America and every investigation has indicated its great merit"

"There seems to be a desire in some quarters to force through the Rivers and Harbors Bill and then sidetrack the St. Lawrence development, which will benefit directly 50,000,000 people and indirectly all the people of the United States," Senator Aiken said.

Agreement Or Treaty

In a recent letter to its members, Senator Overton called his subcommittee to meet Wednesday to decide whether to have a hearing next Monday to determine "whether or not the proposal is of the character of a treaty, or of the character of an (International) agreement."

If it decides it is a treaty, requiring two-thirds approval of the Senate, he said, it likely will be referred to the foreign relations committee. Otherwise, his own committee will continue hearings on the merits of the project, Senator Overton asserted.

The $285,000,000 cost of the seaway and power project would be borne by the government, Canada and New York State.

Senator Aiken said that under a treaty between the United States and Canada there is authority to proceed with construction.

Cameron Regiment Fought To Free Antwerp

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE 1ST CANADIAN ARMY IN HOLLAND, Nov. 15 — (CP Cable) — The Battle of the Schelde, designed to drive the Germans from the Schelde approaches to Antwerp, saw the Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa, a 3rd Division unit which landed in Normandy on D-Day (in action in the pocket south of the estuary, it was permitted to disclose to-day.

The Camerons—not to be confused with the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders of Canada, a 2nd Division unit from Winnipeg—have Vickers machine-guns and heavy mortars and they supported practically every action in the pocket clean-up.

They were on the Leopold Canal with the three Western infantry regiments — the Royal Winnipeg Rifles, the Regina Rifles, and the Canadian Scottish, Victoria, B.C.— which established the bridgehead there. They were in the beachhead between Terneuzen and Breskens, they fought at Breskens, Schoondike, Hostburg, Sluis, Cadzand, Knocke, and Heyst— nearly everywhere there was a battle.

A machine-gun company led by Maj. John Rowley of Ottawa saw probably the most action. It fought on the Leopold Canal and also in the westward sweep from Breskens to Cadzand.

A recapitulation showed to-day that at least 10 Canadian infantry regiments, a reconnaissance regiment and some tanks of a Western Canada unit participated in the campaign to drive the Germans from the Schelde approaches to Antwerp.

Belgian Francs Given Canadians

By MAURICE DESJARDINS,
Canadian Press War Correspondent.

FIRST CANADIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 15 — (CP) — Meet the "Million Dollar Kid" — Pte. K. T. Hayes of Toronto. As driver for Maj. J. L. Collins of Waterloo, Ont., Field Supervisor Paymaster Canadian Troops, he drove along the other day from Brussels carrying 40,000,000 Belgian Francs (roughtly $1,000,000) in his truck.

Maj. Collins and his right hand man Capt. Paul Emile Leclerc of Thetford Mines, Que., supervise all matters pertaining to Mazuma for Canadian fighting men. They get the money from British base cashiers in sealed boxes of 5,000,000 francs, then transfer it to any of their three heavy safes kept in a well-guarded spot at army headquarters.

Bulk of the cash on hand at time of writing consists of Belgian francs, but French francs and Dutch guilders are also carried in smaller quantities.

The field supervisor unit is the clearing house for all obsolete French and Belgian paper money and also credits to the pay books of wounded and deceased personnel the amount of mutilated, bullet-pierced and blood-soaked bills removed from their wallets by members of our medical corps.

Obituary

MRS. J. PRITCHARD

A resident of Peterborough for 38 years, Mrs. John Pritchard, formerly Jessie Olley, Leahy's Lane, died suddenly Tuesday at the family residence, in her 67th year.

Mrs. Pritchard was born in London, England, and came to Canada in 1906. While living in Peterborough, she attended St. John's Anglican Church.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, John Pritchard, and two sons, John, of Stratford, and Arthur, of Peterborough.

The funeral will be Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, from the Nisbett Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street. Burial will take place in Little Lake Cemetery. Canon W. P. Robertson, of St. John's Anglican Church, will be in charge of the service.

Joy Short-Lived

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 15 — (AP).—Her sight restored yesterday after three months' blindness, Mrs. Eva Matchett, 60, of Bulger, Pa., hurried to thank her doctor. While waiting for an elevator, she collapsed and died of a heart attack.

Pearl Emmerson Dies In Hospital

One of Peterborough's best-known women, Miss Nina Pearl Emmerson, 297 Park street N., died Tuesday during the noon hour, in St. Joseph's Hospital, after a two weeks' illness. She had been in poor health for the past few years.

Miss Emmerson was born in Springfield, Ohio, the daughter of Mrs. Annie Emmerson, and the late John Emmerson. She came to Peterborough when still an infant, and has lived here ever since.

For more than 15 years prior to the war, Miss Emmerson kept a book store and lending library on Charlotte street, and her many friends and business associates will learn of her passing, with deep regret. During the past few years, she has been employed at Genelco. During her lifetime, she has been a devoted member of Trinity United Church.

Miss Emmerson leaves to mourn her loss her mother, two sisters, Miss Lillie Emmerson, of Peterborough, Mrs. Stanley Burrows, of Vidora, Saskatchewan, and two brothers, Frank and Arthur, both of Toronto.

The funeral will be Thursday afternoon at two o'clock, from the family residence, 297 Park street N., with burial in Little Lake Cemetery. Hon.-Capt. John L. Hodgson, of Trinity United Church, will conduct the service.

Greek Brigade Reaches Athens

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press War Correspondent

ATHENS, Nov. 15 (CP Cable)—A Greek mountain brigade, the men who planted a Canadian flag beside their own after the capture of the Italian seaport of Rimini, was officially received by the capital yesterday in a march through thick lines of clapping, shouting Athenians.

For the battle-dressed troops it was a triumphant climax to the greetings that began as soon as the ship docked at Piraeus, port of Athens, and continued after they were established in their barracks.

The Greek brigade was brought under command of Lt.-Gen. Burns, commander of the 1st Canadian Corps in Italy, in heated actions leading to the capture of the Adriatic coast city of Rimini Sept. 21 and the crossing of the Marecchia River on the outskirts of Rimini, which carried these 8th Army forces onto the Lombardy Plains.

Trouble In China Exaggerated Major Reports

TORONTO, Nov. 15 — (CP). — One of two white men who fought with Gen. Chu Tehs Chinese Communist Army, Maj. Richard Brown, is back at his home here. Maj. Brown was a confidante of both Gen. Chu Teh and Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, and acted as liaison officer between the Central Government at Chungking and Chinese forces in the north.

Disguised as a Chinese peasant he slipped back and forth through Japanese lines with messages. The 46-year-old doctor, who fought in the First Great War as a boy of 18, is an outspoken champion of China.

He said reports of friction between Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek and the Communists are exaggerated. He said he believes there will be unity in China after the war.

"What China wants most is for the outside world to gain an intelligent understanding of the difficulties within China in terms of Chinese history and geography," he said. "Too many capitalistic countries interpret China's action in terms of their gaining or losing money as a result.

"China is coming out of the war as a strong nation and one to be reckoned with. Britain and America cannot solve her problems. They must be solved by the Chinese."

TO BE QUESTIONED IN SLAYING—Here are sad-looking Harry Curry, 20, of Bark River, Mich., and Anita Joyce Peterson, 19, Escanaba, Mich., shown in Milwaukee, Wis., where they were awaiting their return trip to Escanaba where they will be questioned in connection with the robbery-slaying of Charles Gilbeau. The boy and girl were taken from a Northwestern railroad train when it passed through here.

Man With Best Product To Win Post-War Farming Markets

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 15.—William R. Reek, Ontario deputy minister of agriculture, Wednesday told a large "Farmers Night" gathering of the St. Thomas Kiwanis Club that markets for farm products in the post-war world will be governed by "old time competition" and declared that "the man with the best product will win the market."

"Will post-war agricultural trade be governed by quotas, by agreements?" he asked, and declared, "there is no doubt in my mind that there will be return to competition."

Giving his personal views on wht he termed the "sixty-four dollar question" — the future of farming in Ontario — the deputy minister also made a plea for an improvement in organization among farmers throughout Canada.

Need of Agriculture.

"You have in Ontario a well-organized labor group and a well-oganized manufacturers' association. But that is not true of agriculture. . . What we need is a well-organized agriculture, a single Dominion-wide organization, with a head office as well staffed as the labor or manufacturing organization."

Such an organization must have the support of all farmers, he said, and would thus have power enough to be able to bargain with labor and capital: Labor and capital would perhaps never be able to agree, he said, claiming that an agricultural organization, representing men who are part labor and part capitalists, would act as a mediating factor.

Britain Best Market.

Great Britain will remain the Canadian farmer's largest market after the war, in the opinion of Mr. Reek, but she will be unable to pay cash and Canadians must take trade in return. Britain is producing about 70 per cent of her needs during the war years, but a demand will remain for feed grains, hard wheat, bacon, manufactured milk products, dried eggs and apples.

Britons are now drinking milk in greater quantities than ever before, the deputy minister said, and will need feed grains for their dairy cattle during the post-war period. They will also be looking for more apples, "but a better pack." Bacon supplies for the British market must be kept flowing regularly during the post-war period and must be of good quality, if the post-war trade with Canadian pork producers is to amount to anything like the trade during war years.

"Ontario can produce more hogs, but we must produce better grades, by better feeding and better breeding," he said.

Foremen Warned Problems Ahead

TORONTO, Nov. 16 — "Preceding demobilization there will be the release of badly needed manpower for certain other lines of work," says R. B. Morley, general manager of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations, is a memo issued today to Ontario industrialists.

Mr. Morley points out that "in spite of the fact that the war is no 'in the bag', it is not too early to train plant supervisors to understand the problems of the returning men."

He continues, "it is a fact that a man in the armed forces may have lost some of the industrial skills which he had. He will have gained new skills and been through extraordinary experiences, and he will require a reasonable length of time to get back on the track'."

Mr. Morley suggests that it is up to supervisors to understand the problems of the returning men; to know how to deal with their problems and to see that they are rehabilitated, physically and mentally, and back on the job with as little disturbance and with as great speed as possible.

Fraserville News

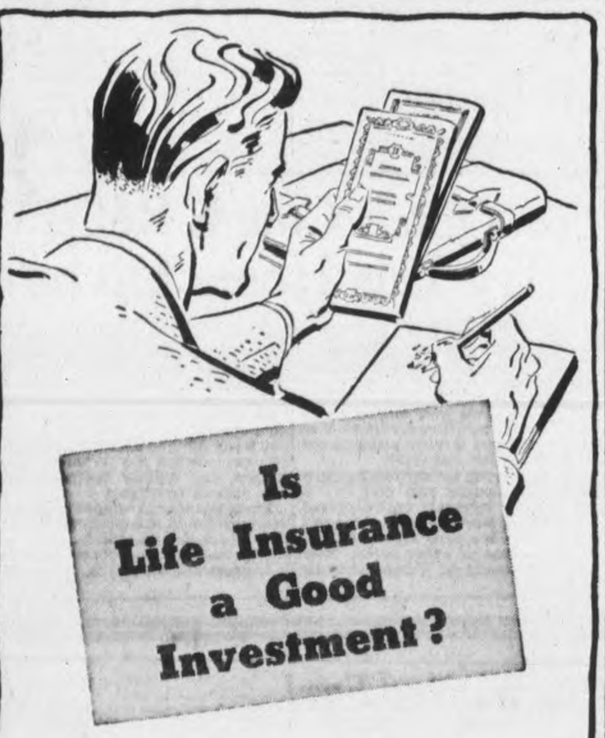
Mr. James Trotter, who has recently returned from a trip to the West, has been visiting with friends in the vicinity.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Waterman of Fraserville included the formers niece, Miss Jean Waterman, music teacher in Haliburton county, also Mr. Waterman's mother, Mrs. R. Waterman, and his sister, Miss Kathaleen Waterman of Peterborough.

The Fraserville L.O.L. 46 are holding a dance in the Orange Hall on Wednesday night Dancing will be from 9 to 1.30.

Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Hewitt and son, Herbie, visited recently with the former's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hewitt of Peterborough.

Miss Wilda Harker, teacher at Cairo school, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harker, near Millbrook.



IF you are thinking of your savings, you must ask yourself where you can invest your funds safely and profitably so that they will be returned to you thirty, forty or fifty years hence. The best way to gauge the outlook for insurance in years to come is to look at its record in the past.

in 1914

At the outbreak of the Great War, the price of most securities tumbled. But the guaranteed values of Great-West Life policies did not drop one cent.

in 1921

The post-war depression knocked the bottom out of security prices. But beneficiaries or policyholders in retirement, receiving guaranteed incomes from the Great-West Life, were regularly paid in full just as if there had been no depression.

in 1933

In 1933 the man who owned real estate or a share in any business, could have obtained only a fraction of 1929 prices. But the guaranteed value of his Great-West Life policies did not change.

in 1939

The outbreak of the second World War again upset security prices. But the family of the man who died in 1939 received the full face value of Great-West Life insurance policies.

Through many wars and depressions, life insurance has proved itself to be the investment on which the average man can rely. Whatever happens, it is in your interest to keep your Great-West Life policies in force. They will never let you or your family down.

Increase Noted Consumption Of Hydro Power

October consumption of water and electric power increased substantially over the corresponding month last year as reported by R. L. Dobbin, manager, to the Utilities Commission Tuesday.

In the electric department the peak for October was 14,000 h.p. as compared with 11,000 h.p. in October 1943.

"The increase of 2,100 horsepower is due to increased load at most of the industries in the city. Not only are these industries using more power, but they are using it for longer hours. We delivered from the sub-station nearly 20 p.c. more kilowatt hours than in 1943.

"The restrictions on power use which were imposed on September 20, 1942, were removed by the Controller on October 1, 1944. As a result, most owners of electric signs have been operating them, and, window and showcase lighting is full on. This may have had some effect on the monthly peak, but not to any great extent.

"Construction of general short extensions of rural line is progressing.

The pumpage for October, 1944, was 96,690,000 gallons compared with 89,566,000 gallons on October 1943. Added industrial use is probably responsible for this increase. Auburn dam was unwatered for inspection on October 28 and we were able to locate the position of the original pump house. The 12" main from the pump house to the main on Water street is still in place and was visible, also the foundations of the original building.

The steam pumping unit was overhauled and run for an hour on full load, in preparation for the coming of winter. Ten new water services were laid, and four re-laid during the month. A short length of 6" main was laid on Edinburgh street, west of Rubidge, to accommodate a new dwelling. At the Training Centre we laid 525 feet of 6" water main, and set one fire hydrant. Another fire hydrant will be set as soon as available. This work was done at the expense of the Department of National Defence.

Gas made at the plant was 5,091,500 cubic feet, an increase of 2 p.c. over 1943 and one new gas service was laid.

Parks Board Planning ImprovementProgram

COBOURG, Nov. 16 — (ENS). — Cobourg Parks Board plan an annual outlay of $1,000 for park beautification, it was announced by the chairman, Judge J. C. M. German. The board will also seek the assistance of an expert in regard to layout and general improvements. Tentative plans were laid for the new park entrance and it has been suggested that the tennis courts be moved back of the Chateau Hotel so as to provide straight view from the King Street boundary of the park to the lakefront. The section of Perry Street in front of the bandshell may be closed to vehicular traffic.

BritonsWelcome 200 Frenchmen

LONDON, Nov. 15 — (CP). — Britons by the thousands applauded and cheered 200 members of the French forces of the interior as the men and women veterans of France's underground marched through London's streets today behind skirling bagpipes of a highland band.

The group, here for a tour of England and Scotland, marched to the Foch statue at Victoria where the leader, Lt.-Col. Cevennes Pronteau, placed a laurel wreath in honor of France's marshal of the First Great War.

Some F.F.I. members had tearful reunions at a railway station upon their arrival with parents, brothers and sisters who escaped to Britain when the Germans invaded in 1940. Many received first news in years of loved ones.

Talks On Hospital

J. W. Pierce addressed the November meeting of the Elizabeth Parker Auxiliary Monday evening on plans for the new civic hospital, and asked for whole-hearted support of the plan.

Several members took part in the devotional section of the program, also giving short readings from the study book. Miss Margaret Wolstenholme sang a solo, "Vale," with Mrs. H. V. Dobson as accompanist. Following the Mizpah benediction, light refreshments were served.

60 At Open School

Over sixty interested parents attended the recent "open school" held by Parkhill School, in observance of Education Week. Some of the students' work was on display in both rooms, and the quality spoke well for the efforts and industry of the teaching staff. Junior and kindergarten room children, under the leadership of their teacher, Miss L. Dewart, went through several of their exercises for the visitors. Following the period at the school, refreshments were served at Dixon House.

Freeman—Kempt

Rev. F. W. Craik, officiated at the quiet ceremony in the manse of St. James' United Church, when Helen Loretta Kempt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Kempt, 527 George street north, became the bride of Sgt. Edward Freeman, R.C.A.F., son of the late Mrs. A. Fowler.

For the ceremony, the bride chose a street-length frock of lime green, on draped lines, with brown accessories, and a corsage of pink roses. She was attended by Miss Lillian Glaum, frocked in street-length cerise, with black accessories, and a corsage of yellow roses. John Lewis was best man.

Following a reception at the home of the groom's sister, Mr. H. J. Weir, Mr. and Mrs. Freeman left by motor for a wedding trip to Toronto and Buffalo.

Catholic Girls To Sponsor Soldier Dances

The November meeting of the Catholic Junior League was held Monday evening, with Miss Hilda Sullivan presiding, in the absence of the president, Miss G. Costello. Miss Louis Hickey, first vice-president, presented her report on the diocesan convention of the Catholic Women's League, recently held in Lindsay.

Miss Gladys Perdue, W.M.S. convener, reported that the Junior League had been asked to assist at the weekly dances at the Training Centre and the bingos at the Uptown Recreation Centre which are sponsored by the citizens' committee, and in this connection ten of our members assisted at the bingo on November 11 from 7 to 9 p.m. Miss Perdue also stated that the Catholic Auxiliary Service Club would begin to function for another season on November 20th, when the first of the bi-monthly dances for the soldiers at the Training Centre would take place in the Knights of Columbus hall. The members of the league were asked to give the club the same cooperation as they did last season.

Five dollars was voted toward the Christmas tree for the Orphanage which is to be held under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League of St. Peter's, Sacred Heart and Immaculate Conception parishes. An enjoyable musical program consisted of two songs by Mrs. D. Campanaro, accompanied by Miss M. McCabe.

Kathleen Busby Presents Song Recital

A varied and contrasting program of songs was presented to a large and appreciative audience in the Recreation Room of the Y.W.C.A., by Miss Kathleen Busby, soprano, of Toronto, Tuesday evening. Miss Busby appeared under the auspices of the Peterborough branch of the Ontario Music Teachers' Association.

Coupled with her charming vocal talent, Miss Busby displayed a winsome personality, which completely won her audience. She seemed to live every song she sang, entering into the spirit, either sad or gay, with equal artistry. Her audience, charmed by her winning manner, and eager to encourage a rising young artist, was especially appreciative.

Highlights of her entertaining program were undoubtedly "Mio Caro Bene," from Handel's 'Rodelinda,' Delibes' "Les Filles de Cadiz," and two lovely Schubert selections "Margaret at the Spinning Wheel" and "Ave Maria." An unusual touch was presented when she sang "The Singer" by Michael Head, unaccompanied, the gay lilting melody giving her ample opportunity to display her clear, sweet voice to best advantage.

Displaying her versatility, Miss Busby's program was arranged to include light, gay airs, as well as more melancholy melodies. Opening with "O How Pleasing To The Senses" from Hadyn's "The Seasons," the singer concluded her first group of three songs with "Mio Caro Bene," following with a group of three old English melodies. The third group consisted of three Schubert songs, the two previously mentioned, "Margaret at the Spinning Wheel" and "Ave Maria," and "Impatience."

Operatic Numbers

After the intermission, Miss Busby concluded a group of selections from three operas with a brilliant rendition of "Sapper Vorreste" from Verdi's, "The Masked Ball." The feature of her entire program, this selection gave her full scope for vocal inflection as well as facial expression, and she made the words dance. The next group of song, opening with two songs in rather a sad vein, "Chanson Triste" by Dupare and "Les Pappillons" by O. Letourneau, was concluded with the ever-popular "Les Filles de Cadiz" by Delibes, executed with excellent expression, again giving the singer wide scope for her admirable talent for personalizing her songs.

In her concluding group on the program, Miss Busby sang three contrasting melodies. The first, was a feeling presentation of Armstrong Gibbs' "To One Who Passed Whistling Through the Night," with its final notes imitating the whistler's song. Second was "The Singer," which was unaccompanied, and the third, the bright "Love's Philosophy," by Roger Quilter.

Other selections on the program included "Oh Sleep" from "Semele" by Handel; "Queen of Heaven," arranged by Dunhill, a song of praise; "Gathering Daffodils" arranged by Summerville; and "Pretty Ring Time," arranged by Warlock; "Vedrai Carino" from "Don Giovanni" by Verdi; "Air de Lia," from "L'Enfant Prodigue" by Debussey. As an encore, Miss Busby sang "In an Arbour Green," by Warlock.

Miss Marjorie Lee, also of Toronto, accompanied Miss Busby throughout the program.

This recital was the first in a series of two concerts, featuring young Canadian artists, being sponsored by the Peterborough branch of the O.M.T.A. The second, a recital by Sydney Humphreys, violinist will be presented on Tuesday evening, December 12.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Now that we are having cool nights, there is nothing so nice as to go home from work and see a tasty, hot supper waiting for you. So to-day I am going to give a couple of recipes for the cold-night supper. Baked ham is the ideal meat for this kind of a supper.

Baked Ham

5 lbs. ham, baked in moderate oven 325 degrees F. allowing 20 to 25 minutes to the pound. Wrap meat loosely in paper. One hour before total baking time is completed, remove paper if necessary. Remove rind. Combine 2 tablespoons brown sugar, ½ cup liquid honey and ¼ cup orange juice and pour over the ham. Bake 45 minutes, basting several times. Slice one orange, quarter slices and arrange on ham with maraschino cherry halves, holding fruit in place with whole cloves. Baste several times with glaze. Bake 15 minutes longer.

Scalloped Potatoes and Carrots

8 medium potatoes, 4 large carrots, 1 cup sliced onion, 2 teaspoons salt, few grains of pepper, 3 tablespoons flour, 4 cups milk, 2 tablespoons butter. Scrub potatoes, pare and slice thin. Scrub carrots, slice thin diagonally. Place layers of potato, carrot, and onion in greased casserole. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and flour. Continue alternating layers until vegetables are all used. Add milk; dot with butter. Bake in a moderate oven 1½ hours or until potatoes are tender.

Chopped Meat—On the Half Shell

Patty—1 lb. ground beef, 1 pinch of salt and pepper, pinch of chopped parsley, pinch of thyme, 1 onion, 1 egg.

Crust — ½ cup flour, 2 eggs, pinch salt, ½ cup milk. Season ground beef well with salt, pepper, parsley and thyme. Chop onion and brown a little, then add to mixture. Drop in the eggs and mix well. Fashion into a large patty, the size of a frying pan, and fry until done. Mix the flour, eggs, salt and milk in a bowl until it has the consistency of light cream. Heat a frying pan, rub with fat, then pour the mixture into the pan. Hold the pan over the fire titling from side to side, so that the batter flows up sides and forms a bowl shape. When done place in the oven a few minutes and it will be ready to serve. Place the meat in the centre of the pancake. Place vegetables such as carrots, corn, peas or beans around edge.

Band Members Get Certificates

St. James' W.M.S. Auxiliary held their regular meeting in Wesley Hall, Tuesday afternoon, with a good attendance. The special feature was the presence of a bevy of baby band guests.

The president, Mrs. E. M. Davis, took the chair for devotions and the business. Community Friendship was reported by Mrs. W. Rose. It was decided to send special Christmas cards to members who are unable to attend meetings, owing to illness and a collection will be taken for this purpose at the next meeting.

After a brief discussion, it was unanimously decided to invite the W.M.S. Conference Branch for their biennial meeting in April next, to St. James' United Church. Committees will be appointed later to take care of detailed arrangements. Plans were also completed for the lecture by Rev. A. E. Graham, to be given November 21 at St. James United Church.

Representatives to the luncheon at the Y.W.C.A. on Friday to hear a missionary recently returned from Japan were appointed, when Miss M. Morton and Mrs. E. M. Davis were chosen.

The autumn thankoffering was received and dedicated by the president. Mrs. George Martin, Baby Band secretary, took over the meeting, welcomed the visiting mothers and children, and conducted the program, assisted by members of her group, all of whom are Mission Circle members. Prayer led by Mrs. Ashton Fife and the scripture reading by Mrs. Gerald Cuff, opened the service. Other numbers were a group of songs:—"Jesus Loves Me" and "Read Your Bible", sung by Bobby Cuff, Beverly Fife and Elsie Leggitt; chorus, by all: "Zaccheus" and "A Little Child Of Seven". Mrs. Ernest Johnston told a delightful story for the children, entitled "The Sunbeam" and the children again sung in chorus, "Jesus Bids Us Shine".

Present Certificates

Life membership certificates were presented by the Auxiliary president, Mrs. Davis, to each of the Baby Band members. These certificates were donated by their respective grandmothers as follows: To Robert Earl Saunders by Mrs. A. E. Saunders, to Susan Gail Meredith by Mrs. T. Meredith, to Carolyn Anne Waldie Meredith by Mrs. H. F. Doig, to Sharon Jane Porter by Mrs. Porter.

The offering was received and dedicated by Mrs. Stan Leggitt. A social time was enjoyed, when Mrs. Martin and her group served refreshments at small tables to the tiny guests and mothers who numbered sixty-four. There were twenty-two W.M.S. members present.

Soldiers Enjoy Cabaret Party At Centre

The exciting atmosphere of a "Bohemian Cabaret" was captured by members of the Thursday Gym Swim Club of the Y.W.C.A., when they presented a varied program of instrumental and social selections to a large audience of servicemen and women in the Red Shield Canteen Tuesday evening. Several soldiers also took part in the program, assisting the Club.

The setting, a cabaret, was heightened by subdued lights, and a piano continually playing the background. As each performer heard the first bars of his or her selection, he rose, making his way to the front of the group of tables. This method of introduction eliminated the necessity of a master of ceremonies, and greatly helped to create the spontaneous and light-hearted atmosphere associated with Bohemians.

Jim Abraham and Pte. Clem Cassidy were accompanists for the evening. Numbers on the program were as follows: Two vocal duets by Misses Muriel Hall and Aileen Cumiskey; two vocal solos by Pte. Henry Goerz; two piano solos by Pte. Clem Cassidy; two vocal solos by Miss Mary Taylor; two dance selections by Mrs Frank Sullivan; two vocal solos by Miss Helen Glover; two piano-accordion selections by Pte. George Martin; two vocal solos by Charlie Hemesley; and two violin selections by Pte. Maurice Bedore.

At the conclusion of the program, Mrs. Dyer thanked all who had taken part on behalf of the Club, and members of the Club, in costume, served refreshments.

C.W.L. Executive Holds First Meeting

The first meeting of the new Diocesan executive of the Catholic Women's League was held in St. Mary's Convent, with Mrs. T. P. Fox of Lindsay the new president, in the chair. Mrs. Fox thanked members for the honor conferred upon her, and asked their co-operation during the coming year.

A discussion on the question of adoption or foster homes for children was conducted, and His Excellency Bishop John R. MacDonald stressed the importance of good homes as the only remedy for the situation. He said that homes had many advantages that institutions could not offer. Rev. Gollery, C.S.S.R., superior of the Redemptorist Order in the Diocese of Peterborough, was introduced to the meeting and spoke of their work.

Mrs. Fox asked that observation be made on November 25 of a national day of prayer in all subdivisions, for boys and girls in the services. Members decided that a letter of sympathy should be sent to Her Majesty the Queen and another letter to Miss Mary I. Foy, Westhill, Ontario, correcting an article in a magazine about provincial representation. Miss Lillian Connolly was elected treasurer, to fill that vacancy and, in the absence of the corresponding secretary, 13 letters were read.

Conveners for various committees were appointed, and their duties outlined. Mrs. Cameron extended an invitation from the three Peterborough sub-divisions to attend a Christmas tree and concert in the K. of C. Hall on December 21.

Believes Post War Bright for Women

LONDON, Nov. 15 — (CP). — Miss G. A. Rees, first woman manager of a government employment office in Britain who retired Nov. 4, is optimistic about women's employment prospects after the war.

Just under 60, she said in an interview that the war has taught employers an important lesson: not to consider that a woman is "too old at 40."

She expressed belief there will be a big swing-over from the exclusive Court dress-making business to the high-class wholesale trade in clothing, and that will mean more work for more people.

Shops and luxury trades generally will provide plenty of work for women, she said. A large proportion of the girls she transferred into war work from her employment office would return to their old jobs.

Miss Rees has managed for 20 years the all-women employment office in Great Marlborough Street — still the only one in London. During the war she has also managed the Women's War Work Bureau established by the Labor ministry. At the employment office between the wars she found jobs for 1,000 women a week.

St. John's W.A. Host To Branches

The afternoon branch of the Women's Auxiliary of St. John's Anglican Church were hosts to the various branches in the city at their November devotional and business meeting, on Tuesday afternoon, when they had as their guest speaker Mrs. Hugh H. Wolfender, of Toronto.

Mrs. Wolfender gave a graphic description of a tour through the Western Arctic, illustrating her talk with pictures and souvenirs made by Eskimos and Indians with whom she had come in contact. An officer on the Dominion board, Mrs. Wolfender was introduced by Mrs. G. R. Langley, president of St. Luke's branch, and was warmly thanked for her entertaining addressed by Mrs. A. Pope, president of All Saints' branch.

Another interesting feature of the afternoon was the western bale on display by the Dorcas committee, convened by Mrs. H. Kelsey. This bale is to be shipped to Rev. Horace Ashmore at Loon Lake, Sask. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the social committee.

Sorority To Aid Red Cross Work

Mrs Maurice Holt, director of the Alpha Theta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi congratulated members on their splendid ticket sale for the recent Mark Kenney Victory Loan Show, at their regular meeting, Monday evening in the Y.W.C.A. Mrs. Holt complimented Mrs. Ben Baker and Miss Janet Kearns on their excellent work as directors of the ticket sale.

Mrs. Baker, as corresponding secretary, reported that the Winnipeg chapters had written asking for a donation to the Red Cross fund. She explained that this fund is replacing the usual drive to buy an ambulance or mobile kitchen, and is to help the Red Cross cover the cost of looking after the collecting of blood plasma. The treasurer was instructed to forward a donation from the Chapter.

Mrs. A. S. MacRae who presided gave a most interesting talk on "Friendship," and Miss Olive Morley told the love story of Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning. A general discussion on these subjects was held, under the direction of Mrs. S. Munro. Members chosen as entries in the Valentine contest were reminded that the deadline for the photos to be sent to headquarters in Kansas City was December the first.

Britain Is Seen As Fashion Centre

LEICESTER, England, Nov. 15—(CP)—The Women's Advisory Committee of the Trades Union Congress suggests there is great scope for women in the dressmaking sphere after the war.

It's annual report said:

"Hitherto Paris has been regarded as the centre for exclusive dress and fashion, although in the immediate pre-war years America was increasingly becoming the centre for popular fashion.

"Efforts should be made to establish this country as the chief centre for design and fashion."

The report said large numbers of women will have been trained in drawing, designing, planning and tracing. The textile industries would do well to plan now to engage women with this basic experience for training in dress designing and fashion generally.

In addition, women's wartime training and experience in branches of engineering could be used with great advantage in many branches of housing and furnishing, the report said.

CANADIAN RAILWAYMEN PUSH SUPPLIES TO FRONT —Canadian railwaymen who used to catch the highball sign that sent loads of passengers and freights along the steel rails leading to all parts of Canada are now catching the same sign in France as they route war material from the numerous bases to front lines. In this difficult and vitally important battle of supply, Canadian railwaymen have played a vital and important part. Upper Left shows Cpl. Joe Sigouin, Cochrane, Ont., a former Canadian Pacific Railway employee, giving the signal to shunt cars loaded with vital war material in a French railway yard. Lower Left, Spr. Ren Geldhart, Moncton, N.B., and Spr. Morley Thompson, Hudson Bay Junction, Sask., both formerly with the Canadian National Railway, receive orders from Capt. G. K. Brown, Asbestos, Que., yard dispatcher. Upper Right, a railway turntable operated by manpower due its motor being blitzed by Allied manpower. Left to Right: Cpl. Ed Turnbull, Melville, Sask.; Sgt. Carl Montenighio, Lindsay, Ont. (both formerly with Canadian National Railways), and Sapper Fred Bush, Verdun, Que. Lower Right, Sapper Ed Shell, Uxbridge, Ont., another member of the Canadian Railway operating unit in France, cleans the flues of a French locomotive. (Canadian Army Overseas Photo)

Canadian Railwaymen In Europe Get Vital War Materials Up To Front

Canadian railwaymen who used to catch the highball sign that sent their loads of passengers and freight spinning along the line into every part of the Dominion are now catching the same sign in France as they push war material to the front.

Ever since Historic D-Day the progress of the European invasion has been measured not only in the clash of arms at the fighting front but also by the transport available behind the line. In this involved, difficult, vitally important battle of supply the Canadian railwayman has played a highly significant part.

The men who make up the First Canadian Army Railway Operating Group are nearly all ex-railroaders and it is a very exceptional case where a man can be found in this work who has not had previous railway experience. From their years of hard work on Canadian lines they bring a vast store of expert knowledge that overrides the many difficulties confronting them in the all-consuming drive to get the goods to the front.

Never Stop

Old, battered equipment is repaired, improved and fitted to carry out far more work than was ever intended for it. All day and all night the work goes on to keep them rolling. The men who put the sweat behind this effort claim that the tonnage which rolls over Canadian-operated tracks in Northern France is in exciting figures and in comparison with what they have to work with they are doing about four times the work done on Canadian railways.

A box car has no nationality and Allied war equipment these days is rolling along in captured stock that only a few months ago was being used by the Germans to carry their material to Germany and Italy. Here it has become a commonplace for Canadian railwaymen to make up a train containing box cars bearings the names of German cities such as Munich and Hanover, while here and there Italian equipment, bearing a distinctive Italia insignia can be seen. French cars too have a place in this travelling combined operation —for the information of old sweats one French box car still carries eight horses or 40 men.

Best of Service

Along their part of the line the Canadians have established an operating system that rivals that of the best-run lines at home. There is an area where the locomotives are serviced and overhauled. All along the line, spaced with an average run of about 10 minutes between each, are blockhouses. Here are stationed men who scan the trains as they pass by particularly looking for brake trouble or shifting loads—conditions which the train crew might miss. If anything is found it is reported to the next block house, the train is stopped and checked over. At all times the block house man notifies the next block house of the oncoming train giving him the time at which it passes.

For communications the Canadian section of the line uses a telephone system as well as teletype machines. These are operated by the Telegraph Operating Section composed of signalmen from the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals and working as part of the Railway Operating Group. By relay system, connections are also available all through the line along which the trains are being run.

So from supply dumps at recaptured Channel ports the tide of material drives forward to battle. Canadian railroaders are right in their doing their best to give it a green light all the way.

Help the Young People To Health - Happiness

What a common sight to see a young person whose bloodless face and feeble frame are evidences of poor circulation and weakness where bounding health and rosy cheeks should reign.

Young people in such a condition are generally of an anæmic nature and require a preparation containing iron to improve the blood content.

Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills meet this requirement, as they contain three concentrated forms of iron of an easily assimilated nature together with other valuable ingredients indicated for building up the system and helping to improve the blood content.

For Thursday, November 16

A FAIRLY active and progressive day is read from the ruling astral positions which indicate that best results and benefits may be made by a tactful and clever affiliation with large organizations or corporations, in which secret agreements or understandings seem to assist to safer objectives. Subtlety, shrewdness, possible intrigue or use of personal prestige or even charm or magnetism may assure desired hopes and wishes, if certain obstacles or delays seem to frustrate. Be not carried away by ideals or impulses. Keep practical, and adhere to duty and obligations.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for a fairly successful and pleasant year, in which their best interests may prosper by use of the personal, social, dramatic or subjective approach rather than the stern and sordid. A gracious yielding or subtle contacts with those in high influence in fraternal, diplomatic, political or secret bodies, may bear unusual fruit. Intrigue, charm, glamour, as well as ideals and beauty have force against matter of fact barriers or impediments, use such with discretion.

A child born on this day should have creative ability and exceptional personality, attaining its success by grace, charm or possible intrigue or subtle measures.

DOROTHY DIX . . . .

ENGAGED GIRL FREE INDIVIDUAL

DEAR MISS DIX—I am 19 years old and engaged to a man who is on a submarine. The people in the office in which I work say that I should not go out with other boys if I really love him, although he has consented to my doing so. I know that I will not be able to be with him at all until after this dreadful war is over, but they say that I should be true to him, no matter how long he is away. Am I being untrue to him, from your point of view, if I date other boys while he is away?

BEWILDERED.

ANSWER—The status of the engaged girl whose wedding day is a long way off, even if it ever dawns at all, is entirely different from that of a wife, who has sworn before God and man to cleave only to one man, forsaking all others. The fiancee is not bound to her sweetheart by legal fetters, but gossamer promises that either one is free to break if they so desire. She has assumed no obligations towards him and nothing that she does reflects on him. She is still a free individual, while the wife is not.

Hence, as in the present situation, where wives and sweethearts are bound to be separated from the men they love for a long time, it seems to me that while a wife may not step out with other men, there is no reason why the engaged girl should not do so. And that is why, for one reason, that I have urged girls not to rush into precipitant marriages with boys who were about to be ordered to the front, and from whom they would be parted for the duration.

For human nature is human nature and youth is youth, and it is not in nature for a girl, who has been accustomed to spending her evenings in going about with a jolly group of youngsters to dances and shows and places of amusement, to want to sit at home with Mama and Papa. It isn't that she isnt true and loyal to her soldier sweetheart, any more than he is being faithless to her when he goes dancing or to parties with the pretty girls he meets at the camps where he is stationed. It is just that they are both young and want to break the dreariness and drabness of war times by having a little gaiety.

Personally, I have always contended that boys and girls should not narrow themselves down to just going with one of the opposite sex until the wedding day is set. This goes double in war times when Johnny is going to come home a different man from the one who went away, and maybe his old girl will want him and maybe she won't. And, perhaps, he may not be so keen about her, either.

DEAR MISS DIX—We have been married 11 years. I love my wife so much that I am jealous of her, though I know when I think of it that I have no reason to be. She has a little money of her own and she says she is going to leave me. Please help me to find a way to keep her from doing it. What can I do to let her know I am sorry?

Reviving the Corpse of Love

ANSWER—No man has ever yet found a way to bring the dead back to life, and when you kill a woman's love there is no way of resuscitating it than there is of reviving a corpse.

It is a pity that husbands and wives do not think of this when they are murdering the affections of their mates. Every day we see men who are starving their wives' hearts to death, who are killing all of their wives' tenderness for them by their abuse and brutality, who are slaying their wives' love for them by their miserliness and tyranny. Every day we see wives who are torturing their husbands' love for them to death by the pin pricks of their tongues, by their incessant nagging and fault-finding and complaints.

Then, when it is too late and love is dead beyond all resurrection, these husbands and wives beat upon their breasts and want to know how they can revive the beautiful thing they have killed. And nobody can tell them.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have a girl who is really swell, good-looking, attractive, well-dressed, a lady in every sense of the word, except that she chews gum incessantly, and that fairly nauseates me. I don't date her half as much as I would if her jaws were calmer. Why do girls choose to imitate the habits of the cow?

DISGUSTED.

ANSWER—I wish I knew. It is a problem I ponder over without being able to arrive at a conclusion, for of all unromantic objects the ruminative animal is the least alluring.

SWEEPS IN THE MONEY

LONDON — (CP). — Chimney sweeps, drawing up to $70 a week, are earning four times as much money as before the war. So many sweeps were called up for war service that those still in the trade work 80 hours a week and have waiting lists six weeks long.

You Women Who Suffer From

HOT FLASHES then CHILLY FEELINGS

During 38 to 52 Years of Age!

If you—like so many women between the ages of 38 and 52—suffer from hot flashes, weak, tired, nervous irritable feelings, are a bit blue at times—all due to the functional middle age period peculiar to women—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms.

Pinkham's Compound is one of the best known medicines you can buy for this purpose. Here's a product that helps nature and that's a sensible kind to buy! Thousands upon thousands have reported benefits. Follow label directions. Pinkham's Compound is worth trying.

IN MEMORIAM.

HOUGHTON— In loving memory of Arthur Houghton who passed away November 15th, 1942.
"Thy will be done seems hard to say
When one we loved has passed away
Some day, perhaps we'll understand,
When we meet again in that better land.
—Always remembered by Aunt Gertie and Uncle Bert, Pontiac, Michigan.

HOUGHTON—In proud memory of our eldest son and brother, Arthur who passed away in Christie Street Hospital, November 15th, 1942, from illness resulting from service overseas.
All you had hoped for, all you gave
To save mankind— yourself, you scorned to save.
And "Teddy" aged 4 who passed away nine year ago,
"At the going down of the sun and in the morning we remember.
—Ever remembered by family and brother-in-law, George.

HOUGHTON—In loving memory of Pte. Arthur Houghton, H. P. E. Regt., who passed away at Christie Street Hospital, November 15, 1942.
His charming ways and smiling face
Are a pleasure to recall,
He had a kindly word for each
And died beloved of all.
—Ever remembered by [illegible]
MacDowall, Toronto.

HOUGHTON—In loving memory of Arthur Houghton who passed away two years ago to-day.
In life loved and honored
In death remembered, —Constantly remembered by Auntie Elsie, Uncle Will and boys.

HOUGHTON—In loving memory of Arthur Houghton who passed away two years ago to-day.
He is not dead who gave his life
To make the world a better place
The memory of noble deeds
The passing years cannot efface.
— Fondly remembered by his grandmother.

WOOD—In loving memory of Mitchell Wood who passed away on November 15th, 1943.
Loving and kind in all his ways.
Upright and just, to the end of his days,
Sincere and true in his heart and mind,
Beautiful memories he left behind.
—Sadly missed and ever remembered by his wife.

Claim Distinction Of First Bombing

TICEHURST, Sussex, Nov. 15. — (CP).—There's a little argument on these days between Ticehurst and Icklingham, Suffolk, over which was the first English district on which bombs fell in this war.

Icklingham claims the honor but says the bombs fell on a farm there June 1, 1940. Ticehurst residents say that's nothing but ridiculous—that bombs fell here 10 days earlier.

"If the Icklingham bombs were dropped June 1, there can be no argument," said the village constable. "Ours arrived on May 22 and nobody in this village is likely to forget it."

Britain's first bomb of the war fell in November, 1939, in the Shetland Islands.

Home and School

MAY'S

"Health" was the keynote of May's Home and School meeting Monday evening when Dr. Mylks gave an instructive talk on "Preventive Medicine." Outlining the value and purpose of vaccination, toxoid and immunization, the speaker said "a healthy boy or girl will grow up and enjoy life and be happy. Health is more than money."

Dr. Mylks explained that children should not be taught fear of doctors by such remarks as "the doctor will cut your tongue," which means that they will fear the doctor and will be afraid to visit him, even when they need care. The speaker said that very soon preventive medicine would be given to every child, and urged mothers to bring or give consent to have their children treated, and also to bring pre-school age children for treatment.

Mrs. E. Chambers, president of the Home and School Council, presided for the installation of officers for the coming year. Members of the executive are as follows: President, Mrs. Stewart Roberts; vice-presidents, Mrs. W. Hargrave and Mrs. L. Connors; secretary, Mrs. W. Collins; treasurer, Mrs. A. Glen; press secretary, Mrs. E. Evans; program convener, Mrs. G. Robinson; telephone convener, Mrs. T. Peryer; new membership, Mrs. W. Johnston; social convener, Mrs. R. Collins; project work, Mrs. J. Chambers; Wartime Prices and Trade Board representative, Mrs. E. Succee; Local Council of Women representative, Mrs. F. Marshall.

Alderman James Dutton briefly addressed the meeting, urging support of the plan for a new civic hospital. Miss L. Ashenhurst gave a review of current events, and Mrs. H. Sheehy, a member of the teaching staff, sang two solos, "The Sunshine of Your Smile" and "The Isle of Mona." Mr. W. Potter was pianist for the evening, and was presented with a memento on behalf of the Home and School in recognition of his many years of faithful service.

Mrs. Roberts took the chair for a brief business meeting and announced that study groups would be held Monday evening at eight o'clock in the Y.W.C.A. Members decided that the December meeting would be held December 12 and would feature a special speaker and Christmas numbers by the children. At the close of the meeting, a short community singsong was enjoyed, while Mrs. R. Collins and her committee served refreshments.

Football League

gested maximum match fee would be 4 pounds for a club's own player and 2 pounds for a guest..

The "guest" system was born of wartime to allow clubs to fill depleted ranks with players of other teams who might be stationed with the armed forces in the vicinity of the depleted club. Therefore, a player belonging to Birmingham, for instance, might find himself playing for Hartlepoolagainst his own club because he happened to be stationed in Hartlepool district and Hartletheir roster for the match.

The committe proposal not to set a limit to transfer fees is expected to arouse controversy at the annual meeting, but the clause stating that no transfer will be registered until the fee has been paid may mean the end of five-figure deals.

They Want Help

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15. — (AP).—Tokyo radio last night quoted Jose P. Laurel, Japanese-sponsored puppet president of the Philippines, as issuing instructions to the military governor of Manila, Leon G. Guinto, to 'compel' Filipinos to resist American conquest "when necessity arises."

To Raze Warsaw

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (CP)—Warsaw is to be razed, according to an article in the Nazi organ, "Ostdeutsche Beobachter," quoted yesterday by the Polish Telegraph Agency. The article, by S.S. Gen. Reinefarth, declared that "Warsaw is to be obliterated once and for all" because its existence was a constant source of danger.

WEDGE SHOES FOR MEN

LONDON — (CP). — British shoe manufacturers are seriously considering manufacturing wedge shoes for men. After all, they say, it took men several centuries to become accustomed to trousers and they are willing to risk a long-term chance on a new type of footwear.

MARINES VS. SEABEES

"THE SEABEES and Marines still are getting along fine, with plenty of mutual respect," according to authentic word from "somewhere in the Pacific" telling about a friendly combat of the pasteboards between other kinds of fights. It recounts a hand on which impetuosity created a situation requiring resourcefulness to attain the objective. Peculiarly, there is no way of telling whether it was a Marine or a Seabee who showed the resourcefulness, but then both have it, so the story may be accepted as typical of many such games.

Capt. Al S. Haeussler of the Marines, from Brooklyn, N. Y., reported the deal, and it is seriously suspected that he was the hero, though he gives no indication of where he sat. His partner was Capt. W. T. Denton, of the Marines, from California. Against them were two Seabees, Lt. R. E. Chapman, from Massachusetts, and Lt. R. S. Chidsley, of Connec-

Notice the competitive spirit of that bidding, especially how East kept his mouth shut waiting for a later chance to double, and how South then redoubled.

West opened the spade 3 to the A. The heart Q was led from dummy, and South got in a jam by quickly playing the 4 when East failed to cover. But the freak whereby this made a coup necessary also saved South. He finessed the heart J and led the club K. East took the A and returned the club 5, which rode to dummy's 6 when West couldn't trump. The diamond Q was led. East took his A and returned the diamond 4. South trumped that, reducing him to the same number of trumps as East. He ruffed the spade 6 in the dummy with the heart 8, then led the heart 5 through East, taking the 9 and catching the K with the A. The club Q, the 8 to the J and the 10 completed the hand.

Trinity Church Unveils New Honor Roll

OMEMEE, Nov. 15 — (ENS) — An honor roll bearing 46 names of those from the church who have enlisted in the Armed Services during the present war was unveiled and dedicated at an impressive ceremony held on Sunday morning, in Trinity United Church, Omemee.

The flag-draped honor roll was in front of the altar during the service, and at the appointed time was unveiled by Mrs. David Weir, the mother of five sons whose names appear on the roll, while Burton Pogue and S. D. Vaughan, who each have two sons in Service, stood guard on either side. Sgt. Ronald Pogue and Tpr. Wilbur Morrison stood facing the honor roll and took the salute while the unveiling was being performed.

At the beginning of the dedication ceremony the choir sang Kipling's "Recessional," and after Rev. R. M. Patterson read the inscribed names the congregation sang the National Anthem.

Rev. Mr. Patterson delivered an appropriate address, quoting from a writer in the Quinte broadcast: "We must stop thinking post-war and start acting pre-peace." "In acting pre-peace," said Rev. Mr. Patterson, "we need to re-discover for ourselves that 'Other foundation can no man lay than that which is laid, which is Jesus Christ.' Only in this way can we expect the blessing and approval of God and the request as expressed in Psalm 90, verse 17, 'And let the beauty of the Lord our God be upon us; and establish thou the work of our hands.'" Rev Mr. Patterson continued: "The foundation of armaments and engines to destroy the life and property of others is wrong. The only safe foundation is Jesus Christ, which is expressed in His life of service and sacrifice. He did not save His own life as was implied in 'save thyself and come down from the cross,' but He saved it by pouring it into the hearts and souls of others. The desire of the Psalmist must in its entirety be in keeping with God's will if our work is to be established or made secure."

At the close of the address the choir sang another anthem.

ALLIES LAUNCH WINTER OFFENSIVE

WORKED WITH GUERILLAS FOR 2 YEARS—A "now it can be told" story was revealed recently, when Ensign Edwin J. Beattie, USNR, 21, Lapeer, Michigan, Left, brought 2nd Lieut. Joseph F. St. John, Right, 24, Philadelphia, back to U.S. lines at Leyte, the Philippines. When Beattie 'chuted to earth from his damaged navy FM-2 fighter plane, he landed near a guerilla village where he found St. John, an army signal corps officer who had been working with Filipino guerillas against the Japs for two years on Leyte and Mindamao Islands. This is the first picture to be made of St. John since the story was revealed and he rejoined U.S. forces.

Flier Sees Earthquake Bomb Crash On Deck Of Tirpitz

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Nov. 16—(CP).—Flt.-Lt. Roy E. Woods of Niagara Falls, bombing leader of the Royal Air Force Dambusting squadron and trainer of bomb aimers for raids on the German battleship, Tirpitz, said today that "I'm not surprised that the Tirpitz is lying at the bottom of Tromso Fjord now."

Woods, who recently returned to Canada, told of the raid on the Tirpitz in September when the battleship was moored in Alten Fjord and a plane piloted by Wing Cmdr. J. B. Tait, DSO and two bars, DFC, scored the first hit on the vessel with an "earthquake" bomb.

"That raid was in September and we pioneered the way for the two attacks that followed. We flew a round trip of about 2,600 miles all the way to Archangel in Russia, where we refueled and waited for the weather to break. Then we started back to Britain and attacked the Tirpitz in its hiding place in Norway.

Saw Ship Clearly.

"I could see the Tirpitz clearly as we came in over our target. We caught the Jerries completely by surprise and they didn't have time to throw up a smoke screen. I saw the bomb leave Wing Cmdr. Tait's plane ahead and land solidly on the Tirpitz. There was a bright red flash and then the Tirpitz was hidden from view. I got one more glimpse of the German warship through the smoke and it seemed to be down either by the bow or the stern.

Japanese Make Important Gains

CHUNGKING, Nov. 16—(AP).—Japanese forces in Kwangsi have advanced to within 4½ miles of the Kwangsi-Kweichow railway town of Ishan, which blocks the way toward an invasion of the hinterland province of Kweichow, and fighting is raging in the area, the Chinese high command announced tonight.

(The Tokyo radio declared the walled city of Ishan and its airport were captured).

5 Quebec Plants To Lay Off 2,500

OTTAWA, Nov. 16 — (CP). — Arthur MacNamara, director of National Selective Service, said last night that the Aluminum Company of Canada will lay off a large force of men, possibly 2,500, in five plants in Quebec's Arvida district by December 10, and many will be absorbed into the Army or essential work.

The lay-off results from lessened demand for aluminum.

Mr. MacNamara said he was not sure whether the lay-offs have started yet, but added that Selective Service officers have been at the plant for several days arranging with company officials for the transfer of men from that work to other jobs.

He estimated that 30 per cent of the workers, many of whom had been on deferment because of the

Vise Closing Tighter On Japanese

Americans Narrow Coastal Area In Bitter Fighting

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Nov. 16—(AP). — An American vise closed tighter on General Yamashita's encircled Japanese on Leyte to-day, pressing to within 10 miles of Ormoc on the south, 14 on the east and about the same distance on the north.

Advances by four American divisions were small, but they came all around the Japanese perimeter defending Ormoc, their last base on the island.

In the north, the American 24th Division applied double pressure. On the road from Pinamapoan, the main body of the division lunged against enemy positions near Limon, gateway to the Ormoc corridor. West of the road, another unit of the division swung around through the hills and virtually cut the road behind an estimated 2,000 Japanese troops.

To the east and north, pressure was applied by the 1st Cavalry Division, which overran several enemy strongpoints and seized hilltops as it moved westward through the tangled peaks.

To the south, the 7th Division was disclosed to have advanced four miles to the west coast town of Balogo, 10 miles from Ormoc.

Roughly midway between the 7th and 24th Divisions, a third infantry unit, the 96th Division, also advanced against Ormoc from the east. The 96th was near Alto Peak on Leyte's backbone and approximately 14 miles from Ormoc.

The Japanese were showing no tendency to retreat easily anywhere. Frontline dispatches described even the smallest American advances as being made over piles of enemy dead.

The communique said American fighters strafed enemy barges and shore targets were Ormoc.

Malcolm MacDonald May Be Recalled

LONDON, Nov. 16 — (CP. Cable). — The Daily Sketch, in an article by its political correspondent published today, said there is a possibility that Malcolm MacDonald, United Kingdom High Commissioner to Canada, "may be recalled" as a result of his recent speech referring to the political situation in Britain.

The story said the speech "is viewed in higher circles in London as cutting across a long-standing tradition," adding:

"Even when the High Commissioner is a member of parliament he is not expected to give expression to purely political points of view."

The Glasgow Herald carried an interview this week with Mr. MacDonald, National Labor member of the House of Commons for Ross and Cromarty, predicted that Foreign Secretary Eden "most likely" would be the next British Prime Minister, and that Herbert Morrison, Home Secretary Minister, or Ernest Bevin, Labor Minister, would be Prime Minister if the Labor party won the next election.

Swedish-German Friction Developing

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 — (AP).—The German Agency D.N.B. sent as a "flash" in its overseas service to-day an announcement that Dr. Hans Thomsen, German minister in Stockholm, "is in Berlin to submit his report."

This emphasized recent tension between the German and Swedish governments and recalled that Germany recently summoned to Berlin her envoys to neutral Portugal and Spain and announced they would not return to the Iberian Peninsula.

To Restrict Ship-building

Axis Powers To Have Merchant Fleet Cut

RYE, N.Y., Nov. 16— (AP). — German and Japanese merchants shipping after the war must be sharply restricted to prevent either country from ever again developing into a strong naval power, in the opinion of delegates to the International Business Conference.

This view was expressed in a resolution which the conference panel on transportation agreed on for presentation to the full membership at a plenary session tomorrow.

Delegates in the transportation section were understood to have favored such a stand on the grounds that if the Axis powers were permitted unlimited shipping and shipbuilding facilities after the war they would have easy opportunity of secretly building naval vessels.

The resolution also referred to the Japanese fishing fleet which the conferees also felt must be watched closely for the same reason.

The theme of the resolutions on foodstuffs and raw materials, according to one delegate, is that trade barriers must be removed generally to ease the movement of goods and commodities to countries where they are needed most.

OTTAWA, Nov. 16—(CP). —An unidentified soldier, threatening with a German Luger pistol, held up three RCAF men last night, took $100 from them and then drove off in their car. The airmen, on their way to the nearby Uplands airport, had given the soldier a lift when they spotted him on the highway.

Tory Convention Condemns 2-Army System

WINNIPEG, Nov. 16 (CP) — The National Council of the Progressive Conservative party concluded yesterday a three-day conference during which, a statement issued last night said, it condemned the present "two-army" system in Canada and endorsed a declaration earlier this week by Party Leader John Bracken that the home defence army should be made available immediately to reinforce the country's army overseas.

The statement said that uppermost in the discussions was the "present national crisis brought about by the government's inability to decide upon a policy that will meet the urgent reinforcements situation."

The committee dealt with matters of organization and policy and will be reconvened in Ottawa or Montreal Dec. 4.

The meeting gave "enthusiastic endorsation" to the efforts of S. E. Stewart of Smiths Falls, Ont., president of the Young Progressive Conservative Association in the organization of Young Progressive Conservative groups.

After a preliminary trip to the different provinces, Mr. Stewart reported to the committee that the young people's organizations were being "strongly reinforced" in every province, and "particularly by the relatives and wives of men overseas."

Gordon Graydon, party house leader, who has been conferring with the committee, left last night for Ottawa to make plans for the session of the House of Commons opening next Wednesday. He was accompanied by Mr. C. P. McTague, national chairman; P. D. McArthur of Howick, Que., president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada; George Nowlan of Wolfville, N.S., and J. M. Macdonnell of Toronto, both delegates to the committee meeting.

Mr. Bracken will remain in Manitoba for two or three days and is expected to visit Neepawa, Man.

Germans Push War, Talk Peace

BERN Switzerland, Nov. 16 — (AP).—German leaders appear to be running a two-phased propaganda campaign in which the Germans at home are told they must continue to fight while a "Christmas peace drive" is directed toward the outside world.

The German Legation bulletin issued in Bern today carried an article headed "Can Europe live deprived of its German heart?" The Swiss newspaper La Suisse in Geneva quoted Italian Fascist diplomats just returned from Germany as reporting that Reich leaders were deep in a campaign for peace by Christmas.

This later report for outside consumption said Adolf Hitler was remaining in the background to permit the way to be cleared for negotiations centring in Lisbon while Henrich Himmler whipped the Germans into a solid front at home.

Meanwhile Germans at home, according to Swiss correspondents in Berlin, are being told that new weapons will be produced in such number in factories during the winter that they will alter the military situation next spring.

Britain Jockeys for Post-war Power

Paris Conference Looms Important; Soviet Now Dominant Power

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

If we are going to keep up with the rapid changes in the international kaleidoscope we mustn't miss the far-reaching implications of the great Anglo-French cordiality growing out of the visit of Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden to Gen. De Gaulle in Paris.

This is one of the outstanding political developments of the war. It's something which will mount in importance, for we are witnessing—or so I believe—the early manoeuvring of the great powers for post-war influence in a Europe which is on the verge of a new epoch.

We start from the premise that Russia bids fair to emerge as the dominant power not only of Europe but of Asia—that is, of the whole Eastern Hemisphere. In short, the Soviet Union is cutting across the beat of John Bull who long has been the undisputed policeman of Europe and points east.

Form Bloc

The Paris conference is widely regarded as aiming at the formation of a bloc of Western European nations — Britain, France, Belgium, Holland and maybe others—to guard against German aggression.

There's no doubt that the formation of a bloc is contemplated, and one of its aims would be to keep an eye on Germany. Economic affairs also may be expected to play an important part. However, I believe that's only the prologue.

Britain may believe she will have to give up a lot of former influence—but doesn't propose to be pushed out altogether. Efforts are being made to consolidate Western Europe in the British sphere of influence.

The question of realigning the spheres of influence in Eastern Europe presumably formed an important item in the recent conversations between Mr. Churchill and Premier Stalin. There will be other talks—and probably some shrewd horse trading—for even the control of the Mediterranean may now be in question after generations of domination by Britain.

Explosive Ideas

It all sounds like a melodramatic fiction plot, but it's far from that. A year ago Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Sumts, premier of the Union of South Africa and an outstanding figure of the British Commonwealth, forecast possibilities in a blunt speech in London.

He asserted that at the end of hosilities in which "three of the five great powers in Europe will have disappeared"—meaning France, Italy and Germany—Russia will be "mistress of the continent."

He urged that Britain work intimately with the small dmocracies in Western Europe, to equalize the partnership. Since that remarkable speech—which Premier Smuts himself said might contain "explosive" ideas—France has had a wonderful re-abirth. She's being accorded her former place as a great power and Britain apparently intends to help her substantiate this position.

Reds Breach Hun Line Near Capital

Germans Retreat From 50 Towns On 100-Mile Front

MOSCOW, Nov. 16.—(AP).—The Red army has cracked the German flank east of Budapest, and is hurling its armored weight through a breach within 12 miles of the Hungarian capital, front dispatches said to-day. A decisive battle for control of the invasion route to Austria appeared imminent.

A sustained pounding by wave after wave of Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's assault forces forced the enemy into a damaging withdrawal from more than 50 towns and villages, including the large railway junction of Jaszbereny, target of a four-day attack.

The German withdrawal extended along a 100-mile front from Mende, 12 miles southeast of Budapest, to Korom and other towns 10 miles south of the North Hungarian rail junction of Miskolo.

The tired and mauled German Panzer units fell back toward the southern base of the Matra mountains and westward to the perimeter defences of Budapest.

One Soviet column, following the Jaszbereny-Budapest railway, passed well beyond Mende, 12 miles from the capital, and drew the siege line tighter against the virtually doomed city.

Other Russian formations of tanks, cavalry and infantry, supported by swarms of attack planes, drove straight north in a continuation of the challenge for mastery of the highway and railway communications leading to Vienna.

The key communication points of Godollo, 15 miles northeast of Budapest, and Hatvan, 30 miles northeast, appeared to be the prize objectives of the northward push. Red army columns were barely a dozen miles from each.

Godolli is on one of the major rail lines running through Budapest to Bratislava and Vienna, while Hatvan is at the entrance of a foothill pass through which another rail line runs into central Slovakia.

The Russian war bulletin said Jaszbereny fell after the Russians began to outflank the city on the northeast and the Germans extended themselves to meet the threat. Red army columns then drove into the city and captured it in fiece street fighting.

Find Two Nazis Working In Toronto Plants

TORONTO, Nov. 16 — (CP). — Publication of their pictures yesterday in Toronto evening newspapers led to the arrest early to-day of two German prisoners of war who escaped last summer from a work camp in Southern Ontario. One had been working in an electrical plant doing war work and the other in a fertilizer plant, police said.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police arrested the pair— Friedrich Petrick, 24, and Hans Eultgem, 29, in a rooming house on George Street on the fringe of the city's downtown section. Petrick was arrested just after midnight and Eultgem about two a.m. after a tip from persons who saw the pictures.

They escaped with two other prisoners—Walter Manhardt and Helmut Hack—in breaks July 25 and August 8. Manhardt is still at large. Hack was arrested in Vancouver yesterday.

Both men carried forged national registration certificates and were able to obtain employment here under assumed names, police said. Eultgem used the alias of Charles P. Miller and Petrick was known as Alfred Jussen. Petrick worked in the fertilizer plant. Eulgem, a hydraulic press operator, who had been employed in a downtown plant. His Selective Service application said he was born in Switzerland. Both men refused to say how long they had lived in Toronto.

Mrs. John Morris, in whose home the men lived, said in an interview that a mysterious, dark-haired woman wearing "considerable jewelry and diamonds" came to the rooming house.

"She said she knew I didn't allow visitors but she wanted to give them a message. She told me to tell them to come to a room in a hotel and that it was urgent that she see them. I gave them the message when they same home from work."

Police said they were investigating whether the woman is connected with the hiding of German prisoners in Toronto.

"The first pay night, Miller (Eultgem) was angry," Mrs. Morris related. "He said: 'There's too much tax off the pay here'."

She added that although both always had plenty of money, during week-ends "they sat in their home all day and only ate bread and water."

Experts Arrive

CHUNGKING, Nov. 16 — (AP)— Donald M. Nelson and a small group of United States experts arrived in Chungking to-day to help China, now facing her gravest military trial, to expand her war production and make the maximum possible use of her own resources against Japan.

British Mile From Meuse After 8-Mile Advance Americans Start 2 Attacks

1,700 Heavy Bombers Cascade Destruction On Arc Before American Army As Full Scale Offensive Starts Rolling

LONDON, Nov. 16—(CP).—The entire 400-mile Allied front from the marshy lowlands of Holland, where British 2nd Army troops are fighting, to the Alps of Switzerland, was in motion today in what may be Gen. Eisenhower's all-out winter offensive. Two of the six Allied armies on the move, the United States 1st and 9th Armies, paced by a 1,700-plane bombardment of German defences northeast of Aachen, launched a massive offensive into the Rhineland.

In southeast Holland, the British 2nd Army plunged to within a mile of the Maas (Meuse) and captured Horn, only two miles from the German bastion of Roermond, 34 miles west of Dusseldorf on the Rhine.

The French 1st Army, which joined the array of offensives only yesterday, pushed forward on a 25-mile front on both sides of the Doubs River to a point 11 miles southwest of Belfort in the gap just north of Switzerland.

Missing from the line-up of armies on the move was Lt.-Gen. Crerar's 1st Canadian Army, but indications were that these men were resting after cleaning up the Schelde estuary.

The French 1st Army, latest of the Allied forces to spring into action, ploughed forward on a 25-mile front on both sides of the Doubs River to a point within 11 miles of Belfort in the historic gap to the Rhine.

Aim at Dusseldorf

British troops in Holland, punching out a seven-to-eight mile gain in two days, drove to within a mile of the Maas in the Roermond area and within 38 miles of Dusseldorf on the Rhine.

A sudden break north of Metz, old Roman fortress which never has been taken by storm in modern times, brought American 3rd Army troops in their eight-day old offensive to within 1½ miles of the northern outskirts of the city, although the Americans to the southeast and west gave ground slightly, losing one fort and a village.

North of Metz near the Luxembourg border the Americans astride the Maginot Line pushed forward another mile near Ewendorf, only four miles from the German frontier.

South of Metz the American 7th Army took Ste. Pole, 42 miles from Strasbourg, the closest the Allies have yet come to that key crossing of the Rhine.

The 3rd Army southeast of Metz captured Racrange, a mile beyond

8th Army Pushes 2 Miles Beyond Montone

ROME, Nov. 16—(AP).—British 8th Army forces have captured Petrignone, a village approximately two miles west of the Montone River south of the Rimini-Bologna highway, and six miles southeast of Faenza, Allied headquarters announced today.

Farther west, Polish units of the 8th Army improved their positions north of the Florence-Forli road. The entire highway now is in Allied hands.

No important changes were recorded anywhere along the Allied 5th Army front, although patrols were active on all sectors.

The 8th Army has pushed to the Montone on a wide front west of Forli and north of the strategic route on the southern border of the Po valley, the announcement said.

Adverse weather caused cancellation of most air activity yesterday, but fighter-bombers hit a few targets in the Italian battle area while a small number of heavy bombers attacked objectives in southern Austria and Yugoslavia. The MAAF flew about 350 sorties, from which six planes were missing.

Premier Denies Newspaper Story

OTTAWA, Nov. 16—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King, through his secretary, today denied press reports that Defence Minister McNaughton had reversed his views on the voluntary enlistment system and so advised Mr. King.

Mr. King's secretary said:

"When asked if the prime minister had any comment to make on the press statement that Gen. McNaughton 'committed to the voluntary enlistment plan when he entered the cabinet two weeks, according to authoritative sources, has been forced by the hard facts of the army reinforcement position to reverse his policy and has advised Prime Minister King the draftees are needed overseas' the prime minister's principal secretary informed the press that he was authorized by the prime minister to say that the statement that Gen. McNaughton had given any such advice was wholly untrue.

"It is the prime minister's well-known belief that parliament is the proper place to deliberate upon matters of national concern. In the light of the existing controversy, the decision to reconvene the House is obviously in the public interest."

POLICE MEASURE

MADRID—(AP). — A Spanish government spokesman said today the occupation of Andorra by French Gendarmes was a "simple police measure, with absolutely no political significance."

German Admits War Showdown Near

LONDON, Nov. 16 (AP) — A German radio commentator, Martin Hallensleben, predicted today this winter would bring a "show-down" in the European war.

He also began preparing the homefront for the fall of Metz.

"The Metz area is by no means a key German position of the German west defences, even if a break-through here would have serious consequences," he said.

Hallensleben said that there were "certain indications that both the air war and the sea war will see new surprising developments this winter." He did not elaborate.

Japs Plan Mainland Fight

Building Strength Across South China

CHUNGKING, Nov. 16 (AP) — Japan plans to fight the final, decisive battles of the war on the Asiatic mainland and is steadily reinforcing her substantial strength in South China, Maj.-Gen. A. C. Wedemeyer said in an interview today.

He succeeded Gen. Stilwell Oct. 31 as commander of United States forces in the China theatre and as Chief of Staff to President Chiang Kai-Shek. He declined to discuss the removal of Gen. Stilwell.

Wedemeyer said he believed the war against Japan would last about a year after Germany was beaten, "but everyone thought the war in Europe would be over this year—and it may run into early next summer."

He said Japanese strategy originally based on employment of naval and air forces had proved ineffective. The Japanese now have gone from an oceanic to a continental strategy, he said, adding: "The Japanese army is fairly well intact and well trained and equipped."

The General said the United States would continue to support China in the air, bring whatever supplies possible, maintain efforts in the Pacific to subjugate the Japanese and organize and train Chinese troops to increase the efficiency.

1,500 Spanish Republicans Perish In Battle With Regulars In Pyrenees

Spanish People Still Loyal To Franco
Afraid Of Communism
Border Population Opposes Liberators

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 16—(AP).—The battle of the Pyrenees is ended now. Some 1,500 Spanish Republicans were reported killed by battle or execution while Gen. Franco is believed to have lost at least 300 soldiers. The figures may be off, but the proportion is about right. Bands of Spanish Republicans, crossing the French frontier without orders, had little chance against Franco's trained armies and their civilian support.

Both sides learned much. The Republican exiles learned Franco Spain was not ripe for internal revolt by the masses. Franco's followers learned the exiles were not as wild as had been thought.

Hundreds of Spanish Republic Maquisards, who raided across the Pyrenees frontier with tommy-guns they once used to fight the Germans believed they were providing the spark which would ignite internal revolt.

But even before Franco moved nearly 100,000 troops to the frontier the frontier populations of both Navarra and Catalonia generally opposed the "liberating" raiders.

The raiding units lacked co-ordination and supply but held the horseshoe-shaped Aran valley, in the Pyrenees east of Andorra, for nearly a fortnight before they withdrew before a powerful Spanish army offensive and pressure from Gen. De Gaulle's government in Paris.

Most Spaniards, including most resident Republicans, honestly fear any swing of the Spanish political pendulum brought about by violence would bring them Communism, anarchism or chaos, all of which they hate almost as much as Fascism.

The lesson to both the exiles and to Franco represented by the "battle of the Pyrenees" may have much to do with Spain's political future. It's possible the Conservative Republican exiles may woo or be wooe by the Franco regime, which already has promised a trend toward more freedom and less dictatorship.

Mrs. R. B. Harle Wins Fox Furs

Twin silver fox furs valued at $300 and donated to the Victory Loan were won today by Mrs. Robert B. Harle, 336 Rubidge street.

This draw was confined to members of the armed forces, their wives and parents buying through the general canvass. A coupon was given with each investment of a $100 Victory Bond. The draw this morning was made by Private R. H. Gareau of Sudbury at the local headquarters of the National War Finance Committee.

By way of identifying the winner of this valuable set of furs, the Examiner telephoned Mrs. Harle because the signature on the lucky coupon was made in the name of Warrant Officer A. B. Harle, who is with the R.C.A.F. in Holland.

"That's my son," Mrs. Harle replied with the tender accents of a mother's pride, and a slightly rising inflection of inquiry.

The reporter informed Mrs. Harle at once that there was nothing to be apprenhensive of. "We thought you might have heard that you were announced today as the winner of the set of silver fox furs in the Victory Loan draw?"

"Oh, goodness, that is pleasant news. And that is the first I heard of it."

Earned Hard Way

Mrs. Harle explained that her son had been sending home some of his money (earned in the hard way of a Warrant Officer), and had asked her to invest it in the next Victory Loan.

"He is a Fighter Pilot with the City of Montreal 'Wild Cat' Squadron of the Typhoon Wing, and at present is in the campaign in Holland. He will be twenty-five Thursday November 23. Another interesting calendar fact is that he left home two years ago today for overseas. My son was born in Stratford, was educated in the Orillia Public School and Peterborough Collegiate Institute, and enlisted in the Air Force."

Presumably in the Harle home, the father of the Young Typhoon Pilot was wondering about his wife's telephone conversation and the mention of their son's name.

"Excuse me a moment," she said, and the reporter heard her say in a domestic aside: "Everything is all right. I've just won a set of silver fox furs."

Prisoner Unable To Adjust Himself

BUFFALO, N.Y., Nov. 16 — (AP). — Frank R. Bortner, 70, recently paroled after serving 20 years in Auburn prison for killing his wife, decided yesterday he might be able to adjust himself to civilian life if he can find a "light job."

Bortner made an unsuccessful attempt to re-enter Auburn Prison Monday and was detained in Erie County jail on a parole violation warrant alleging he is "a risk to his own safety."

Interviewed in jail, Bortner said he would ask State Parole Commissioner Thomas L. Holling to see if "they can't find me a light job."

Canada Expects Influx Of American Tourists

TORONTO, Nov. 16 — (CP). — There is every indication of tremendous United States tourist business with Canada as soon as gasoline and tires are available, Frank Rinn, field representatives of the National Tourist Board at Washington, said here last night.

So optimistic is the American Automobile Association that it published a new road map of Ontario this year and has planned to send automobiles over "every highway in the United States, Canada and Mexico as soon as the war is over to map out routes and select proper accommodation for tourists," he said.

IS THAT PALE YOUNG GIRL YOUR DAUGHTER?

Parents should not ignore the depressed moods, the listless, tired air, the pallor, headaches, fickle appetite—the crying spells—so many daughters exhibit during those years when they are passing into womanhood.

If her health at this stage is not maintained by a sufficiency of good rich blood, all kinds of weaknesses may arise to make her later life unhappy.

So should you notice any of these disturbing signs in your daughter, lose no time. Get some Dr. Williams Pink Pills at your druggist. They are wonderfully effective in helping to build up iron-impoverished blood and have helped to transform thousands and thousands of sickly, pale daughters suffering from simple anemia into happy active girls full of vitality and high spirits, hungry for meals, glad to help with the housework, attractive to others. Right now simple anemia may be undermining the strength and resistance your daughter needs so badly. Don't wait — get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today.

YOUNGSTERS COME FIRST

LONDON — (CP). — Hugh Dalton, president of the Board of Trade, told parliament he is giving special priority to the supply of infants' and children's clothes and that Labor Minister Bevin has temporarily suspended withdrawals of labor from firms in the industry.

FOR GROWING CHILDREN

Daily Supply of ALL Five Vitamins Essential

A child's likes and dislikes make it almost impossible to ensure a daily diet complete in essential vitamins and minerals. The modern way to promote natural growth and guard health is to fortify diet with supplementary vitamins. "ALL-in-ONE" Vitamin Tablets contain ALL the five vital vitamins. They supply calcium and phosphorus necessary for proper bone and tooth structure—iron for the blood—yeast for the intestinal tract. Just one tablet after breakfast—one after dinner EVERY DAY. Easy to take. Only $2.15 for a month's supply (92 tablets). At most drug stores.

Churchill Says Must Restore Export Trade

LONDON, Nov. 16 — (CP). — Prime Minister Churchill, in his first House of Commons discussion of the growing question of post-war economic competition among the Allies, said to-day that after the defeat of Germany "we must make exertions to restore our export trade."

He told the House that until Japan is defeated the war must have first call on all Britain's efforts, but added:

"After the defeat of Germany it will be possible and necessary to turn over an increasing part of our resources to civilian production. Then we must make exertions to restore our export trade and re-equip our industry."

He declared the housing shortage in blitz-ravaged sections of Britain must be grappled with as if it were a wartime measure, but the existing system of allocating manpower to the armed forces and industry will be maintained.

"Nevertheless it is intended to mitigate as far as possible the rigidity of the existing controls over labor," said Mr. Churchill.

"Many of the wartime controls over raw materials, industrial capacity, agriculture, food, transport and so forth will likely be as necessary in this period (the war against Japan) as they are to-day.

"In these fields also relaxations will be possible and will be made whenever circumstances permit and in an orderly manner," he continued.

"Any other course would result in violent disturbances which might lead to inflation, would be harmful to the economic life of the country, and would make it impossible to ensure that the nations resources were devoted to its essential needs and were fairly distributed in a period during which demands will still be without economic relation to supplies."

32 Rocket Bombs Fall On Zog's Palace

ROME, Nov. 16 (AP)—A Beaufighter squadron of the Balkan Air Force dropped 32 rocket bombs on the Nazi-occupied palace of former King Zog of Albania near Tirana yesterday. It was the second bombing in 10 days Mediterranean Allied air force headquarters said yesterday's raid "finished the job."

Morhange where infantrymen were last reported in possession of two-thirds of the town, and clung to high ground in the forest of Bride and Koecking overlooking Dieuze and practically denying that road centre to the Germans.

The Americans were fighting off a series of small counter-attacks. One such counter-attack was just outside Bourgaltroff, at the tip of the wedge between Morhange and Dieuze. Here, American tanks knocked out at least two tanks in a battle and then withdrew into the bridge and Koecking wood.

The German radio said the Americans had captured all of Morhange as well as four villages north of it.

While tanks and infantry hammered at the southern outskirts of Metz around Magny, units on the west side of the Moselle drove from the north to seize the village of Woippy between two of the great forts guarding Metz, and within 1½ miles of the city itself.

Battle Grows

Resistance was stiffening as the Americans blasted their way to the outskirts of Metz but there still was no indication that the enemy intended to defend the fortress stubbornly, and the German radio was busy discounting the citadel's importance in comments broadcast to German listeners.

Counter-attacks were launched by the enemy in the Enschweiler-Landorf area on the right flank of the 3rd Army front in Lorraine, but were thrown back by the Americans who passed their lines forward throughout this sector.

Northwest of Dieuze, troops of the 35th Division stormed into Morhange (Morchingen), and entered Baronweiler and Gebling. West of Dieuze, units of the 26th Division captured Marsal, and were clearing the last Germans out of the wooded ridge overlooking Dieuze itself.

Sudden Move

The third assault of the winter offensive toward the Rhine began suddenly yesterday when Moroccan, Algerian and Sengalese troops of the French Army, reinforced by F.F.I. units, struck behind an artillery barrage and captured 10 towns and villages in a thrust toward Belfort along a 25-mile front on both sides of the Doubs River.

Driving forward through heavy snow, the French forces neared Montebliard, south of Belfort, and at the points of greatest gain last night were only about 11 miles from Belfort itself, a key city guarding the most important pass through the high Vosges to the Rhine Valley.

The resistance from the Germans on the U.S. 7th Army sector of the front was heavier, but the village of Ste. Pole northeast of Baccarat was captured, and the Americans made small gains against enemy troops dug in on commanding heights. The 7th maintained its pressure southeast of Brueyeres also, and the Germans were withdrawing slowly.

Frost, snow and mud hampered ground operations on all sectors of the front, and bad weather also held air operations down.

Surprise Recovery

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Nov. 16 — (AP). — Charlie Granderson sought new lodgings after someone entered his room and stole his clothing. At another lodging house, the proprietor told him: "The man who had this room is in jail for stealing a watch." Charlie moved in and found his stolen clothing hanging in the jailed roomer's closet.

American Units Invade Mapia

LEYTE, Philippines, Nov. 16 — (AP).—American amphibious troops have invaded the Mapia Islands, 145 miles northwest of Biak on the northern New Guinea coast, Gen MacArthur announced today.

A small force hit the beaches Wednesday under cover of heavy naval bombardment, encountered only slight resistance and immediately began to push inland.

The invasion was made to knock out Japanese coast watchers who operated warning stations reporting the flights of American planes northward. The Mapia islands now will be converted into a protective outpost and warning station to guard U.S. installations on Biak.

The Mapias, also known as the St. David islands, are a cluster of small islands 900 miles southeast of Leyte.

Oshawa Flier Wins Promotion

LONDON, Nov. 16 — (CP. Cable). — Wing Cmdr. A. J. Lewington, D.F.C., of Oshawa, Ont., has been promoted to the rank of Group Captain and given command of a heavy conversion unit station in the R.C.A.F. bomber group, it was announced today.

Appointment of Sqdn. Ldr. G. A. Tambling of London, Ont., to succeed Lewington in command of the Porcupine Squadron of the Canadian group was announced yesterday.

Lewington had recently completed his second tour of operations.

Tait's plane on that first raid was FO. Walter Daniels of Rivers, Man., the same bombadier who was with him on the raid when they sank the Tirpitz in Tromso Fjord. He was 'tops,' the best bomb-aimer in the whole squadron, and Wing Cmdr. Tait always had him as bombadier A close second to Daniels was FO. William Rupert of Toronto, son of Mrs Ivan Walker of Queenston, Ont He now is missing but was considered in the top three bomb-aimers of the Dambuster squadron. FO Findlay of Toronto was the third."

A Modest Fellow.

Woods had little to say of his own experiences, although he admitted when questioned that during his 14 months as a bomb-aiming instructor, both Daniels and Rupert came under his tutelage.

"I'm not surprised that the Tirpitz is lying at the bottom of Tromso Fjord now. I knew that the air force would finish her with the powerful 'earthquake' bomb. Even though the battleship was considered one of the most powerfully-built battleships in the world, it could not withstand those earthquake bombs. They are terrific—the most destructive bomb ever invented and can penetrate anything. They are designed to penetrate and then explode."

Woods said that in his opinion Wing Cmdr Tait "deserved the V.C. for the Tirpitz job."

The Niagara Falls airman, son of Mr. and Mrs George M. Woods, flew on 35 operational flights. He won the DFC for exceptional devotion to duty He now expects to be posted as an instructor in Canada.

Peace 50 Years

TORONTO, Nov. 16 (CP)—Harold Butler British Minister at Washington, said in an extension course lecture at Toronto University yesterday that peoples of peace-loving countries must be ready to run the risk of war to preserve peace, and indicated there was a "good chance now" of peace for 50 years after the war.

A Small World

NORWOOD, Nov. 16 — (ENS).—It's a small world in the opinion of Tpr. Ross Baker of Norwood, who is serving with a Tank unit in Belgium. The young soldier lost or had his cigarette lighter stolen in England some time in June. The lighter was engraved with his name, number and tank crest, and when he was searching a group of German prisoners, which he had captured in Belgium, he found his lighter.

It is believed that the German captive had taken the lighter from a Canadian prisoner who had it in his possession.

Divorce Courts In Britain Over-crowded

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 16—(CP).—Temporary wartime divorce legislation passed by parliament this autumn is expected to result in heavier pressure on Britain's already-overcrowded divorce courts.

Even before the bill become law, facilitating divorce proceedings for women married to servicemen from overseas the House of Bishops at its Canterbury convocation passed a resolution referring to "the alarming increase in divorce" since the war began and urging more definite teaching on marriage as a lifelong relationship.

Under British law as amended in 1938 no woman could institute divorce suit against a foreigner or British subject whose permanent home was outside the United Kingdom unless she went to his country; and no action could be started here in any case within three years of marriage.

The war brought a new problem. More than 20,000 British women have married Canadian sailors, soldiers and airmen. There have been other thousands of marriages between British women and troops from the other Dominions, the United States and various countries in Europe.

The 1944 amending measure accordingly was introduced so British courts would have jurisdiction when marriages break up before the parties have gone back to the husband's country. It is restricted to marriages after September 3, 1939—the outbreak of war—and an "appointed date" to be fixed soon after the war ends. In these wartime marriages to men from other countries, the three-year limitation is removed and the wife is given her own "domicile" in divorce suits.

Dominion Issue.

Whether decrees granted under the bill are recognized in the Dominions is a matter for the Dominions to decide. Sir Donald Somervell, the Attorney-General, told the Commons they had been kept "fully informed" of the proposals and any comment received from them had been "favorable."

Before the bill was passed, an English girl married to a Canadian soldier could not sue for divorce in a British court. The action would have had to be started in Canada—the soldier's normal domicile. Now, if the marriage breaks up while the soldier still is in Britain—or if he should desert her and go back to Canada alone—she will be able to divorce him in this country.

Criticism of the bill in the Commons was not on grounds it made divorce too easy but that it applied only to one small section of women.

Sees Flaming Object Fall Near Whitby

TORONTO, Nov. 17 — (CP). — J. McCharles, a worker at the Ajax war plant near Pickering, Ont., has written to the CBC saying he saw a flaming object resembling a burning airplane which appeared to plunge into a field in the Whitby area about 4.30 a.m. Monday.

That was about the same time that a blinding flash and explosion, attributed to a meteorite, were experienced in the North Bay district.

McCharles said although he first thought the light was an airplane, he made certain later that it was not.

Obituary

MRS. MOSES RUTH

EAST EMILY, Nov. 15.—(ENS).—Bethel United church sustained a great loss in the sudden passing of Mrs. Moses Ruth. She had been in failing health for some time and while on a visit to her home she died suddenly. Mrs. Ruth had been living with her brother, Eugene Switzer, since the passing of her husband June 15th last. The whole community was shocked by the suddenness of her passing.

Mrs. Ruth belonged to a Sunday school class of which their number is growing less with the passing of the years. She was universally beloved. A woman of kindly disposition, she was rarely absent from the services of the church, where she was not only a faithful member, but a valued and helpful friend to all, especially to the younger folk. In her younger days, she taught a class of young men and was organist of the Sunday school and Young People's. In recent years she was an active worker for the Red Cross. Her home had always been an open door to her pastor, and many there are who bear testimony to her gracious hospitality.

The funeral was held from Bethel church, conducted by her pastor, Rev. R. M. Patterson. Very comforting was the message brought to the bereaved ones, showing the wonderful Christian influence the loved one had left behind. Left to mourn her loss are three sisters, Mrs. Lewis Jones, Port McNicholl, Mrs. Alvin Drain, Lakefield, Ida at home, also two brothers, Eugene and Sayward.

The pallbearers were Wilfrid Jackson, Albert Ruth, Alvin Drain, Lewis Jones, Cecil Casey and Ira Switzer. Flower bearers, Oswald Ruth, Edmund Rhth, Kenneth Harrison, Earl Guthrie, George Mills and Edmund Jones.

Tribune Beats Slander Charge

CHICAGO, Nov. 16 — (AP). — Judge Michael L. Igoe dismissed yesterday a $200,000 slander suit filed against the Chicago Tribune and Col. Robert R. McCormick, its editor and publisher, by Joseph Curran, president, and Ferdinand Smith, secretary, of the National Maritime Union.

The news story which led to the suit, copyrighted by the Akron (Ohio) Beacon Journal and printed in the Tribune Jan. 22, 1943, made allegations concerning the work of members of the National Maritime Union at Guadalcanal.

The court upheld Tribune contentions that the story did not include the names of Smith and Curran and thus did not damage them.

A Pimple Covered Face Kills Many a Romance

The lives of many young people are made miserable by the breaking out of pimples, and you probably know of cases where a promising romance has been spoiled by those red, white, festering and pus filled sores on the face.

The trouble is not so much physical pain, but the mental suffering caused by the embarrassing disfigurement which very often makes the sufferer ashamed to go out in company.

The quickest way to get rid of pimples is to improve the general health by a thorough cleansing of the blood.

Burdock Blood Bitters helps to cleanse the blood and with the blood cleansed the complexion should clear up.

BANK CLEARINGS.

Bank clearings for the past week ending to-day amounted to $1,098,960, as reported by the secretary of the Peterborough Clearing House.

NATURE OF WOUNDS

Pte. Norman George Field, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Field, 276 Lansdowne street, who has been wounded a second time, October 23, is suffering from a bullet wound in the left side of the chest. He is in a British Hospital in Holland.

CHEST CLINIC.

The travelling chest clinic of the Ontario Department of Health is returning to Peterborough for the week of November 20. Dr. R. A. Kelly told the Board of Health he expected it to be largely attended "as there are many re-examinations from this summer's industrial survey."

IN HOSPITAL.

Mrs. K. Sanderson, 520 Bonaccord street, has been notified that her brother, Sgt. C. R. Spencely, who returned to Canada on the British hospital ship, Aba, this week, is in the Kingston Military Hospital. He was overseas four years last July and was wounded in Italy.

GRASS FIRE

A grass fire in the large field behind the Outboard Marine plant attracted the attention of local firemen Tuesday afternoon. Originating from a bonfire in a neighbouring back-yard, the fire department received the call while fighting a garage fire on Reid street. Men from the Outboard Marine Company assisted firemen in keeping the blaze isolated.

WAR ON BUGS.

Here's a little crawly paragraph from Sanitary Inspector MacPherson's report to the Board of Health: "Verminous conditions were also revealed in a number of dwellings. Three or four instances of bed bug infestations were investigated. So also three instances of infestation of fleas, two by silver fish, and two by crickets were attended to. Instructions were issued as to methods eradication. Some of these insects may have no direct bearing on health but they are a distinct nuisance when they invade the home." That silver fish sounds like a new menace, whatever it is.

The Stars Say

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE
For Friday, November 17

TODAY'S auguries point to sudden and dramatic events or adventures of an unprecedented and unpredictable nature, which it may be difficult to turn to lasting advantage unless this be subjected to keen analysis, with sound, sensible and logical management of puzzling and peculiar situations or circumstances. Beware erratic or impulsive judgments, legal entanglements, strange alliances, and safeguard all possessions as well as mental and physical safety. Emotional calm gets security.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of sudden and unpredictable events, with a probable complete reversal of old ideas, programs and objectives, due to this surprising turn of the "wheel of fortune." A drastic or radical sweeping off the feet or balance might precipitate regrettable situations, while a calm, poised, sensible and unemotional mode of action might bring dramatic adventures and desirable change, having far reaching consequence or the future good fortune and happiness. Keep clear of legal entanglements, tricky involvements, personal hazards, or all dangers from impulsive or erratic behavior.

A child born on this day might be temperamental, erratic and unusual in conduct, with unfavorable reactions on its fortunes, success and happiness in life.

Neighbors Plan To Outfit Fire Victims

A fine example of public-generosity is being shown by the people of the Normal Hill district in North Peterborough have joined in an effort to help Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gallagher and family, whose home and belongings were destroyed by fire Tuesday evening. At a gala shower to be held in Queen Elizabeth School Saturday night, a large sum of money and hundreds of articles of furniture, food, clothing, dishes and many other things, will be presented the family.

A meeting of the neighbours of the district was held Wednesday evening in Queen Elizabeth School, and along with many members of the Home and School Club, thoughtful citizens planned a campaign to restore to the Gallagher family as many of the household articles destroyed in the blaze, as possible.

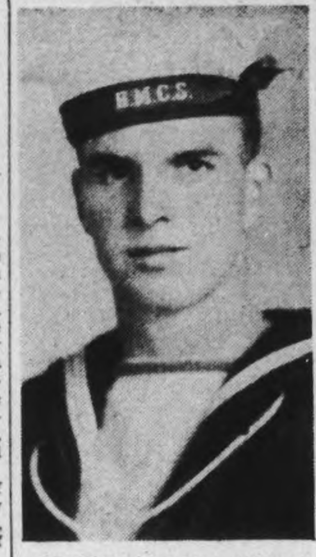
The men of the neighbourhood were divided into groups, for the purpose of collecting cash donations. Already, they have met with remarkable success in this effort. The women have organized showers of clothing, food, including rationed goods, furniture including a new set of cutlery and dishes, and all types of bedding and quilts.

Provide Home

The highlight of the evening devoted to helping the family came when F. W. Smithers, of Lee street, who is in charge of the money collecting, offered the family the upstairs portion of his home as an apartment to live in, until another house is obtainable. Residents of this district think this an amazing example of co-operation.

Mrs. Walter Ellison called the neighbours together soon after the fire for this meeting. Among the men collecting money are Walter Ellison, Orville Deyell, H. S. Elliott, D. A. Maciver, F. Smithers and H. C. Clark.

Mrs. Orville Deyell is the convener of the committee designated to look after all the showers that will be held for Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher. Saturday evening. The members of this committee are: Mrs. F. Christmas, Mrs. Walter Ellison, Mrs. J. Johnston, Miss Jean Sine.



RETURNS TO POST—Able Seaman Ralph Menzies of the RCNVR, serving on HMCS Shelburne, has recently spent a furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Menzies of Belmont township. He enlisted in the Navy in July, 1943, as an ordinary seaman at Saskatoon Sask., and in April he was sent to Shelburne, N.S., and joined the personnel of the HMCS Shelburne. He received his promotion to Able Seaman in September of this year.

Death Follows Check-up On Hallowe'en Stunt

As the result of injuries sustained in a fall just outside her home on Hallowe'en night Miss Mary Deannard, 479 Donegal street a life-long resident of Peterborough died in St. Joseph's Hospital this morning.

Miss Deannard went outside on Hallowe'en to investigate the damage done by boys who had torn down a section of the fence surrounding her property and fell, sustaining a fractured leg. She had been confined to St. Joseph's Hospital since the night of the accident.

Born here, she was the daughter of the late George Deannard and Sarah McCaffery. Miss Deannard lived all her life in this city and had a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. She was a member of the congregation of St. Peter's Cathedral and of the Altar Society there and was also a member of the Catholic Women's League.

One sister Miss Elizabeth Deannard survives. The late John Deannard for many years a member of the Peterborough police department was a brother.

The funeral will take place on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock from the family residence at 479 Donegal street to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to St. Peter's Cemetery for interment.

RETURNS TO BASE — Stoker First Class Thomas J. Brioux has returned to his base at HMCS Montcalm, Quebec, after spending a furlough with his wife and two children, who live at 124 James street. Before enlisting, the young sailor was employed at the Canadian Raybestos Company. A brother, Pte. William Brioux, is serving as a despatch rider with the armed forces, in Holland.

Refuses To Stand While O Canada Is Sung At Unity League Meeting

The sedentary reporter has his experiences too. For instances revelation of the spirit of "unity" animating a man who sat next to a reporter at the Unity League meeting last night. When the chairman opened the meeting with the singing of "O Canada," this man remained in his seat.

"You woudn't get me standing for that damn thing" he remarked to the Examiner. "No sir." Then by way of factual illumination in the dim light of the hall, before Captain the Reverend John L. Hodgson was introduced, this man continued his revelation. "Do you know that two Quebec priests wrote that thing. And then they took it over to Rome and showed it to the Pope; and he put his O-kay on it and he gives them some decorations for the words and the music. I don't want any part of it."

"Something ought to be done about it," the reporter suggested.

"Sure, but what can you do. I refuse to stand up and sing it, that's all I can do."

"Why don't you tell some of the Kiwanis and Rotary people about it. They sing this song at every meeting."

By that time the chairman was getting along into the preliminaries leading to the introduction of Senator T. D. Bouchard. All that a reporter could do was to wonder about the sources and "the unity" that inspires that kind of misinformation, the gullibility of such persons and the mental slag they tote around.

'It's been changed around and toned down quite a bit since it was first written," that was the final comment from this man, fairly well known in the district, who felt that he had all the correct dope on this 'we stand on guard for thee" number.

Memory recalled the name C. Lavalee as the composer of the music, French-Canadian by birth, and if he was ever in the priesthood the news hasn't got around generally even yet. Authorship of the lyric is credited in the music sheets to Hon. R. Stanley Weir who adapted in translation the words of an essentially patriotic song "Chant National" which was written by Sir Adolph Routhier. Seemingly it appealed to English translation, and many persons essayed to retain the writer's theme while investing it in English words. The Weir translation was finally accepted.

No one is going to suggest that Hon. Stanley Weir was a priest, and most people would probably agree with self-evidence that Sir Adolph Routhier never took Holy Orders.

So in the complete possession of ignorance, the gentleman remained seated. You could imagine how grimly and fiercely he held that attitude of defiance to "O Canada"... we stand on guard for thee.... The distinguishing quality of that man's mentality was a fertile prejudice. Otherwise he is a man of standing in this district, but what he knows about the song he hates is vastly less than nothing, and all that knowledge of his just "ain't so."

Reid Street Garage Damaged By Flames

Fire believed to have been started by young children playing with matches swept through the wooden garage owned by Mrs. Mary Moore at the rear of 334 Reid street Wednesday afternoon, causing damage of approximately $100, and minor damage to a car owned by Roy Penrose, the tenant. Only the roof and parts of the interior were damaged.

Firemen who responded to the call at 4.36 o'clock brought a 2½ inch water line into play, and had the blazing structure under control in a short time. Traffic on Reid street was tied up for a time. Fire Chief Gimblett said today it is almost certain children had got into the garage and started the blaze. Police are investigating.

AN AIRMAN LAUGHS.

Flt. Lieut. Murray Thomas of Birdsall, back home after almost three years of combat duty as a fighter pilot in Britain, North Africa, Italy, and the Continent, went into a George Street store to-day to buy a pair of shoes. The clerk served him, looked closely at the row of service ribbons and wings on his chest, and remarked: "Well, I guess you'll be getting overseas and into action soon?" The airman was so abashed by the remarks that he just grinned and said, "Sure thing, bud," and walked out with his purchase. He is wearing the General Service ribbon, the North African Star, and the Italian Theatre Service ribbon, with possibly others, has been promoted three times since going overseas, and his narrow escapes would fill a column.—McG.

Peterborough And District Boys Return To Hospital In Canada

KINGSTON, Nov. 16—(Special to Examiner).—Veterans of the fighting in France and Italy who arrived here Wednesday aboard a hospital train included Capt. A. B. Smith of Kingston, who won the Military Cross.

Capt. Smith, who was met at the Outer Station by his mother and father Mr. and Mrs. Cyril M. Smith, 22 Kensington avenue, of this city, was wounded in the neck and leg when the troop carrier he was riding hit a mine near Fallaise. A member of the Artillery, he was overseas four years. The Kingston officer says he "doesn't know" what he got the medal for.

Pte Norman L. Curtis, son of Mr. and Mrs W. H. Curtis, of 374 Johnson street, Kingston, who was hit by shrapnel during an infantry engagement near Caen, had his left leg amputated. He has a brother, Cpl. W. J. Curtis, in Holland with the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps.

Two other Fallaise casualties were Pte. A. C. Richards, Millbrook, and Pte. C. B. McArthur, of Havelock. Richards, who went overseas in 1941 was injured while Canadians were holding during a heavy counter-attack by the Germans. He suffered shrapnel wounds in the right arm. McArthur lost his left leg in mopping up operations in a bad pocket near Fallaise. After four days in France he was flown to a Canadian hospital in England.

Overseas for nearly four years, Cpl. J. F. Jones, of Campbellford, who was returned due to low medical category, stated Kingston had changed since he had been stationed here before his posting overseas. He was glad to be back, but still had sharp memories of a Christmas dinner he had in Italy in 1943. He passed around a photograph of a heavily laden table around which he and other Canadians were sitting enjoying a Yuletide repast.

Wounded by 88-mm. shrapnel near Florence, Italy, Spr. C. R. Spencley of Peterborough suffered compound fractures of the right arm and also four back fractures. He left his wife and daughter, Maureen, in their home at Mountain Ash, Wales. Spr. Spencley's sister, Mrs. Jean Sanderson, resides at 520 Bonaccord street, Peterborough.

Those arriving in Kingston were: Capt. A. B. Smith, 22 Kensington avenue, Kingston; Pte. R. K. Armstrong, Millbridge; Pte. N. L. Curtis, 374 Johnston street, Kingston; Pte. W. O. Dack, Athens; Pte. J. C. Murray, Cardinal; Pte. C. B. McArthur, Havelock; Sgt. D. Rodger, Peterborough; Spr. C. R. Spencley, Peterborough; Pte. R. Smith, Belleville; Pte. R. Steenburgh, Picton; Gnr C. O. Switzer, 102 King street, Lindsay; Pte. G. E. Lapointe, Athens; Pte. D. B. Chapman, Bouter; Pte. G. G. Gallinger, 613 Augusta street, Cornwall; Cpl. J. F. Jones, Campbellford; Pte. A. C. Richards, Millbrook.

The last four named were transported to No. 3-A District Depot, Fort Frontenac, while the remainder were admitted to Kingston Military Hospital

Six Soldiers Named On Casualty List

Six men from the Peterborough district have been reported casualties while serving overseas, according to a Department of National Defence announcement to-day. One soldier was "seriously wounded," two were "wounded," and two were listed as being "slightly wounded."

Serving with an Eastern Ontario regiment, Pte. Reginald H. Lyte, whose wife, Mary A. Lyte, lives at 130 Elgin street, Lindsay, was reported seriously wounded in action. The three men reported wounded are: Pte. Clarence D. Burley, son of Mrs. Margaret Burley, 62 Caven street, Port Hope; Pte. Albert W. Stat, whose wife lives at Bobcaygeon, and Pte. Mark Burgess, son of Mrs. Helena Burgess, 107 Hope street, Port Hope.

The two soldiers reported slightly wounded are: Pte. Robert E. Stillman, son of Mrs. Maude Stillman, R.R. 3, Keene, and Pte. Richard E Lock, whose wife lives at 1 Armour Road, Port Hope.

Lt. S. Patte Promoted To Acting Captain

Lieutenant Samuel Ray Patte, son of Mrs. Ellen Patte, formerly of 813 Water street, has been promoted to rank of Acting Captain, according to an announcement from the Public Relations Department of M.D. 3, Kingston. The Peterborough officer is now serving overseas with the Royal Canadian Artillery.

Lieut. George Emerson Walker, whose wife lives at 87 Durham street, Lindsay, was also reported promoted to an acting captaincy in the same announcement. He is serving overseas with the Royal Canadian Artillery.

Young Liberals Plan Election Of Officers

A nominating committee of the Young Liberal Association was held Wednesday night in the Duffus building with Wm. P. Kinlin chairman. Twenty members were present and Hon. G. N. Gordon and P. D. Scollard, secretary of the West Peterborough Liberal Association, joined in a round-table discussion.

The Young Liberals are planning a meeting at the same place Wednesday, November 22 for the election of officers and for other details of organization. They purpose taking over the activities of the 20th Century Club.

Potted Plants Help Fund At Market Stall

In staging any effort to raise money on behalf of any particular object, time and place has a great bearing on the amount of success that may be obtained, and those who, have articles to sell to assist the special Christmas donations now being raised by the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, might well consider utilizing the stall on the market for that purpose which has been made available by the city fathers free of cost to give the fund a helping hand.

For the past few years at this season of prepartion for the big event, Mrs. Rufus Payne of Water street has taken advantage of this facility for this purpose, coming back year after year to raise funds to help with the gits that have gone over to London, commencing with Christmas in 1940.

Last Saturday Mrs. Payne held a sale of potted plants grown by herself, and these netted the nice sum of $10.45 credited in her name to-day, which follows hard on the heels of a previous gift of $9.00 made from the sale of bracelets which appeared just one week ago

To catch a vision of one's own potential in the realm of doing good for others is one thing, but to hold it so as to become still more enthusiastic in the same is cause is something far better, and this appears to be just the attitude that this lady has, for after bringing two personal efforts to a profitable close on behalf of this year's Christmas donation, there was an intimation that she would soon be having another one for the same cause and purpose.

Every once in a while, Jack Marshall as M. C. at the Regent Theatre Foto Nite, makes this the opportunity for contributing something to the fund. The latest of these took place last Monday night, when with the assistance of four young lads, Gerald Crouter, Jack Fowlie, Jimmy Johnson and Terry Brown, a sale of war savings stamps was held, and three dollars comes to the fund in to-day's list.

The penny box at the In and Out Shop is not quite as big a customer to the fund as some of its own patron's may be to the shop itself, but at that it does a good job, and makes a regular bow in this column. It is a pleasure to note its most latest gift of $5.80 as being the largest ever recorded, and by inference to add that those who are fond of the O be joyful refreshment the store will disgorge, if you have the high price the purveyors seem to have no difficulty in procuring for the wares they have to offer, the lucky ones could at least spread a little of their own good fortune to the poor fellows overseas who have been unlucky enough to have had their homes stand in the path of a robot bomb.

Saturday's Market.

This Saturday six young lads, Harry and Ray Yelland, Gary and Gordon Guilders, Harry Hanwell and Jack Rowley, living in the Dublin and George street area, will hold a sale of various goods at the stall in the covered-in market, which will include some homemade baking. This group of boys made a good job a similar kind during the summer recess from school duties, at which time they made $15.00 for the fund.

Previously acknowledged	$83,424.25
Mrs. Ruffus Payne, proceeds of sale of plants at market stall	10.45
Regent Thearte Foto-Nite, Gerald Crouter, Jack Fowlie, Jimmy Johnson and Terry Brown	3.00
Penny Box at In and Out Shop	5.00
Total to date	$83,443.50

The accused was the driver of a truck involved in a fatal accident at Downer's Corners recently in which three-year-old Wayne Manley was killed instantly.

Pleading guilty to a charge of having been drunk and admitting a previous conviction during the year Frank Grisdale was fined $50 and $2.50 costs or a month in jail.

Sailor Arrives On Leave Then Loses Wallet

Stoker I Earl Rylott, of R.R. 7, Peterborough is very much out of luck today. Home on 14 days leave from H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, the sailor lost his wallet in one of the local restaurants or on George street Wednesday night.

It contained around $70. Stoker Rylott's naval identification card, his leave ticket, return railway ticket and other important papers and the loss of the wallet and its contents has about ruined the sailor's furlough, unless the finder will come to his rescue by returning the lost articles.

The missing wallet may be left at the police station

Conscription Is Political Question Howe States

By FRANK FLAHERTY

CHICAGO, Nov. 16 — (CP). — Conscription for overseas service in Canada is "rather a political question than a question of meeting an urgent need," Reconstruction Minister C. D. Howe said Wednesday in a luncheon address before the Canadian Club of Chicago.

The Minister, who heads the Canadian delegation at the International Civil Aviation conference, spoke without notes and said he had seen all the relevant reports and figures on army reinforcements but, for security reasons, could not give them.

He said he was not expressing any personal opinion on the issue, but, on the basis of the full information, he did "not believe it is a question of meeting an overwhelming need." He spoke, he said, for the purpose of giving former Canadians now living in Chicago some of the background on the situation.

The speech was notable as one of the first utterances by a Minister, other than Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Defense Minister McNaughton and former Defense Minister Ralston, since Col. Ralston's resignation from the Cabinet.

Standing Per Capita

Canada, said Mr. Howe, had as high a proportion of its population enlisted in the forces as practically any Allied country with the exception of the United Kingdom.

The Government at the start of the war followed the traditional voluntary system, but in 1940 supplemented it with compulsory service within Canada. Under compulsory service some 200,000 men had been drafted into the forces and at various times men had been drafted to the coal mines and other activities.

Of the 200,000 men called up for the army all but about 60,000 had volunteered for service anywhere.

"These 60,000 men, however, have become a great political issue in Canada and an issue that will likely become greater as time goes on."

There had been a difference of opinion in the Government about it and there was a great division of opinion in the country which would likely become more marked. Those in "the seat of government" had to take account of what happened in the first Great War.

Then conscription was introduced late in the war, was followed by bloodshed and "the number of members secured for the armed forces was exceedingly small in comparison to the commotion in Canada."

The Government had also to consider other aspects of the war effort, including the munitions program. There was an overall shortage of ammunition and Canadian industry played a great role in keeping the stream of munitions going forward.

"The Government must weigh any probable interruption of production which would follow the enforcement of conscription," he said.

Teachers' Institute Holds Annual Meeting In City

"Modern Educational Trends in Teacher-Training" was the subject of a stimulating address given by E. H. McKone, principal of the Peterborough Normal School, at the annual meeting of the Teachers' Institute, which was held in the Normal School on Tuesday afternoon.

Pointing out the wisdom of practising Democracy in the school-room Mr. McKone traced achievements along the physical, emotional, intellectual and spiritual development of children. The speaker stressed the importance of keeping in touch with new trends and emphasized the need for correlating all educational leadership, particularly in providing guidance for the Problem Child. "Many such children are Problems because they have Problems," said Mr. McKone.

A choir of girls from St. Mary's Convent, under the direction of Sister Beatrice Marie, delighted the teachers with their singing of a group of four songs and encore.

Miss Elizabeth Thomlinson expressed the appreciation of the members for Mr. McKone's inspiring talk, and the choir's contribution to the program.

The meeting adjourned to the lecture room, where Q. S. McKinney demonstrated the use of the films from the National Film Board Library, showing a lesson in Social Studies on "Eskimo Land" and a Natural Science lesson on "The House Fly." On behalf of the Institute, Inspector K. S. Wightman thanked Mr. McKinney, not only for his demonstration, but also for the part he played in bringing the Film Library to Peterborough.

While the nominating committee convened, the remainder of the teachers were given an opportunity to view the books, which several publishers had provided for display. A note of sadness was introduced when the president, Miss Lillian Esplin, called for a moment of silent remembrance of those members and relatives of members who have passed away during the year. A brief business session reviewed the events of the past year and led to some discussion of future activities.

The executive for the new year will be: President, Miss L. Esplin; vice-president, D. T. Crawford; secretary-treasurer, Miss E. Deyell; executive committee; Misses Connolly, Fussee, Huffman, Johnston, Savigny, Mrs. Webber, Mrs. Londerville, Sister Beatrice Marie, Mr. Scrutton and Mr. Hale.

The Commons Is Summoned

The House of Commons has been summoned for next Wednesday, November 22, and it is expected that the present turmoil about conscription for overseas service will be brought to a head then. The Prime Minister will say his say; Col. Ralston will tell why he disagreed with the Prime Minister; other Cabinet members will be able to tell the House where they stand and at least a part of the present confusion will be dispelled. The Commons is the place for such a clearing of the air and the people of Canada will expect Parliament to resolve the situation, once for all.

• • •

Miracles cannot be expected. As no staff has been summoned to care for the needs of a session it is presumed that Parliament will not sit for long, and it is unlikely that there will be much opportunity for private members to express themselves. It may be desirable that every member who feels moved to do so should express himself on the conscription issue, but for many years private members have shown that a chance to address the House works on them like strong drink, and they do not know how to make their remarks brief and to the point; if every member who wished it were to speak, Parliament would sit for several weeks, and there is small likelihood of that. But the Commons is the place for this argument to be settled, and the private members will have a chance to express themselves very efficaciously by voting.

• • •

The Examiner has never believed, as many of its contemporaries seem to believe, that the Prime Minister puts the political advantage of his own party before the demands of Canada's war effort. Anyone who examines his record of service to this country knows that such an accusation is as silly as it would be to say that Mr. Ilsley pilfered from public monies. But Mr. King is a wise and shrewd statesman, and he learned his political ABC in the school of Sir Wilfrid Laurier; he knows what conscription in Canada may mean, and he saw what it did to Canada in 1917; he is determined not to introduce full conscription unless it is absolutely necessary, and it is plain that he does not think that it is absolutely necessary now.

• • •

It is possible that he may be mistaken. No man knows everything. But it must be clear that information is available to the Prime Minister which is not available to the press and the general public. The complaint may fitly be made that Mr. King has not confided in the public fully enough, he shuts himself in the East Block and refuses to speak, and every sort of rumour and calumny circulates unchecked. He might do well to take a leaf from the book of Churchill and Roosevelt, and tell more to Parliament and thus to the people. But it is useless to try to make over Mr. King in the 70th year of his age. We must take him as we find him, with his faults and his great record as well.

• • •

But at last the cause of disagreement between the Prime Minister and Col. Ralston will be made known, for contrary to some opinions it is not public knowledge yet. At last Parliament will be admitted to the confidence of the Cabinet. At last we shall learn whether the supposed disaffection of Messrs. Ilsley and Macdonald is a fact or a fiction. The revelations at the coming session may break Mr. King or they may not; we are inclined to think that they will not. For however devious and secretive he may have been, he has done more for Canada than any statesman in this century, and we do not believe that he has been juggling with Canada's honour and confidence during the past six months.

Senator Bouchard's Address

The address which Senator Telesphore Bouchard delivered in this city last night may have attracted less attention than it deserves, because it was less inflammatory than some listeners expected. This Spring Senator Bouchard attracted a great deal of attention with a speech which he delivered in the Senate, in which he criticised some aspects of life in the Province of Quebec in an exteremely outspoken and courageous manner. Since that time certain elements in Ontario have made the mistake of regarding Senator Bouchard as an ally in their unceasing underhand war against Quebec; he is no such thing; he is proud of his French blood and of his Province, and in his present speaking tour he is trying to spread a better understanding of that Province in the rest of Canada. In short, Senator Bouchard is a worker for Canadian unity, and he knows that unity and understanding must go together.

The fact that Senator Bouchard is severe in his criticism of Quebec is a sign that he loves Quebec. It is not sufficiently understood in Canada that loyalty is not a passive admiration of all aspects of one's country and one's province, but a desire to wipe out anything which smirches the reputation of the country or the province. In the Senate the Hon. Mr. Bouchard attacked elements in Quebec which he thought brought disgrace upon Quebec; when he spoke here last night he told us of many things which are greatly to the credit of Quebec. We shall do well to remember what he said.

The Senator's principal point was this: Quebec is not a retrograde province, though there are retrograde elements in it; Quebec is not a separatist province, although there are separatist elements in it. The retrograde element and the separatist element are very noisy, but they are not a majority; the majority of the people in Quebec are good Canadians, ready to meet and improve upon any overtures of friendship which may be made to them by the rest of Canada. They are French and Catholic: the rest of Canada is, in its general tone, English and Protestant. But these differences do not mean that both sides have not all the important beliefs in common, and that friendship is impossible between them.

Senator Bouchard has come to Ontario to tell Quebec's story: have we a man of similar stature and similar goodwill whom we could send to Quebec?

Mr. Bracken's Practical Plan

The leader of the Progressive Conservatives, Mr. John Bracken, suggests that Canada should remodel her system of taxation on that which was used in Great Britain before the war; what is more, he thinks that this change should be made at the next Budget, and not gradually or at some unspecified future date. We think that Mr. Bracken's suggestion is a thoroughly practical one and we should like to see it widely discussed.

The British system which Mr. Bracken advocates is this: there is no tax on the profits made by corporations; these profits are taxed as the income of individual shareholders. Consider what this would mean in Canada: neither private companies nor co-operatives would be taxed, and thereby the inequity which exits when corporations are taxed and co-operatives are not, and the inequity which would exist if co-operatives were taxed, would disappear The system would also get rid of the unfairness which now results when the same money is taxed as the profit of a corporation, and also as the income of a shareholder, which means that the shareholder is taxed twice. It would also avoid the unfair aspect of our system in which the smallest company shareholder is mulcted on the same basis as the largest.

The double tax on profits is not the only injustice in our present tax system. During recent months these injustices have been discussed at length by many groups inside Canada. The sooner we rebuild our tax system on a principle which is fair to everybody, and which allows private initiative to operate in a fair state of competition, the better it will be for the country.

School Medical Service In Britain

By
DR. RUPERT G. MEYER

Note: Among the many branches of public health work in Britain few can be more important than the School Medical Service which has continued, during five years of war, to provide a full supervision of the health of Britain's school children.

In this article Dr. Rupert G. Meyer, who is himself a school doctor, gives an account of the School Medical service and shows its value in maintaining the high health standards of Britain's schools.

AMONG the many branches of public health work in Britain few can be more important than the school medical service. It has continued, throughout five years of war, to provide full supervision during the entire period of school life, from the day of entering until the day of leaving. It carries on, during the difficult years of physical and mental development, the work of the infant welfare centre and the day nursery.

The service is not only free, but also voluntary; no child is examined without the written permission of its parents, and the parents are put to no expense if they choose to avail themselves of the facilities provided. Mothers are invited, and encouraged, to attend the medical inspections, and to discuss with the school doctor any of the health problems which may arise.

EACH child is seen first by the nurse, who makes a note of his height and weight, of whether he has been immunized against diphtheria and vaccinated, and of what illnesses he has had.

He is then examined by the school doctor.

It is a short examination, but it is sufficient to discover any ailments which may prevent the pupil from gaining the full benefit from his lessons and his games. Any weakness of the eyesight, for example, is carefully noted, since such a condition may become worse under the strain of continuous reading and writing.

THE heart and lungs are next examined. One of the infectious fevers so common in childhood may have weakened the heart muscle, making strenuous games or physical exercises inadvisable for a while, until it has recovered. The lungs may show some early signs of tuberculosis.

The doctor looks also at the teeth and gums, although a detailed inspection of these is usually left to the school dentist. The throat is examined for the presence of enlarged tonsils, which may be interfering with correct breathing and so affecting the general health.

Sometimes, too, there are little deformities of bones and joints, which are easily curable in their early stages. Such conditions as flat feet and round shoulders respond quickly to special exercises, if they are taken in time.

When the medical inspection is completed the school doctor explains to the mother the importance of any ailment which he may have found in her child. He will tell her, also, of the various clinics, dental, ophthalmic and others, connected with the school service, to which she may take her child for special treatment.

IN some instances war work or other duties have prevented a mother from being present at the medical inspection, and in these cases a letter is sent to her, if her child is suffering from any ailment which needs attention, or the school nurse calls at the home at some convenient time.

The school medical service has one main objective, to preserve the health and efficiency of each individual child and of the school as a whole. Its aim is preventive rather than curative, and it makes no attempt to interfere with the work of the private doctor whom the parents call in, or to whom they take their children, in times of sickness.

ONE of its most valuable features is that it is continuous in its supervision, since special inspections are frequently made as well as those carried out at regular intervals. In this connection the co-operation of the teachers renders considerable help; during the hours spent in the class-room they are often able to observe in a child some ailment or disability which they bring to the notice of the school nurse. The pupil may have difficulty in seeing, at the normal distance, what is written on the blackboard, or may need to hold his school books too close to his eyes. He may show an unnatural breathlessness or fatigue during simple games or exercises, a fact which may readily have escaped the notice of his parents.

When the school-leaving age is extended to sixteen, as has been provided in the new Education Bill, the medical inspections will have an even greater value, since many of the physical and mental characteristics exhibited by the older children may influence the choice of a career, or help in avoiding an occupation to which their physique might be unsuited.

A child, for instance, may have a tendency to weak eyesight. He may have had regular eye-tests and have had suitable glasses provided, which may have enabled him to carry out his school duties with ease and comfort. It would, however, be unwise for him to enter an occupation in which long hours of close, concentrated work would throw an even greater strain on his eyes as he grew older. The child with some small defect of bones or joints may have been able to join in all the games and physical exercises during his school days, but might be quite unfitted for an occupation which necessitated prolonged standing.

An American film producer asked an English friend to watch the "shooting" of one of his "society" films to see that it was all right.

After a time the Englishman asked: "Why does that man keep his hat on when he's talking to the lady in the drawing-room?"

"Sure," said the producer, "he can't take it off. Another lady's coming in presently, and he's got to raise his hat to her."

ANOTHER FORCE NECESSARY TO MAINTAIN PEACE

The Conscription Issue

(TORONTO SATURDAY NIGHT)

THE question of conscription for overseas service is one of which the views of the two sections of the Canadian people, the English-speaking and the French-speaking, are always in danger of becoming irreconcilable. It is for that reason that Mr. King has sought so persistently, and we cannot but add so cleverly, to prevent it from arising in its irreconcilable form.

The English-speaking people of Canada almost without exception hold one or the other of two views about conscription: one, that it is the only proper method by which a democratic people should organize itself for a major war, the other, that it is a method which, even if not necessary in the early stages, should certainly be resorted to if the war is prolonged and the strain severe. The resignation of Col. Ralston has made it clear that in the opinion of the minister most concerned the time has now come when it should be resorted to, and we imagine that the great majority of the English-speaking Canadians need little persuasion to accept his view.

On the other hand the French-speaking people of Canada hold, and hold very intensely, the view that they, being held by compulsion in a minority position in a nation which they did not voluntarily join, cannot rightly be forced to fight for the causes espoused by the majority in that nation. (It is vital to remember that their representatives in Parliament, while they voted in favour of, or did not oppose, Canada's espousing those causes and entering the present war, did so only in view of the most specific assurances that their people would never be compelled to fight outside of North America, and that in the plebiscite in which they were asked to release the Government from that obligation the French-Canadians almost unanimously refused to grant the release.)

The English-speaking Canadians who hold the first of the views given above have naturally never supported Mr. King's Government. (They could hardly have supported a Government under Dr. Manion had he ever been able to form one, for he was equally committed to a pledge against conscription.) Those who hold the second view have been in the difficulty of being unable to judge the precise time at which the considerations calling for conscripton would begin to outweigh the consideration (of national unity) which opposes it; and to them the opinion of Col. Ralston cannot help being of immense importance. Much, however, will depend upon the energy and the conviction—and the arguments—with which he supports that opinion in public. If Col. Ralston were to make a public demand for the dismissal of any Government which will not put overseas conscription into force at the earliest possible date, he would almost certainly have the support of a large majority of the English-speaking electors. In that event Mr. King, if he refused to consult the electors (which he could quite constitutionally do), would probably be holding office against the wish of a majority of the people.

A Government, however, is not always bound to take cognizance of every passing feeling in the mind of the electorate, and there are considerations which might be held in the long run to justify Mr. King in declining to consult the electors on this question, especially if Col. Ralston is not sufficiently earnest about his view to make an issue of it outside of the cabinet. The war is unquestionably drawing to an end. If it can be brought to an end without evoking the one irreconcilable conflict within the Canadian people, there will remain some chance that this nation may after a while resume its slow progress towards a genuine national unity, which has been so lamentably impeded by the growth of racialism throughout the world in recent years. If the war lasts well into next year the irreconcilable conflict cannot, we imagine, be avoided. There will come a time when the resentment of English-speaking Canada at not being permitted to have effective conscription will be more dangerous to national unity even than the resentment which French Canada would develop if it were imposed—and is developing at the present moment merely on account of the discussion of it.

Mr. Petrillo: Tax Collector

(CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR)

AS the two largest record-manufacturing companies bow in submission to James Caesar Petrillo, who constitutes in his own person all the power and authority of the American Federation of Musicians, a system of union-levied sales taxes upon any and every product union labour turns out has been made possible in the United States. For the R.C.A. and Columbia subsidiaries have agreed in principle to just that: a tax, royalty, or fee paid directly to the A.F.M. treasury on every record made. There is no apparent reason why any other labour union similarly situated cannot legally impose a tax upon any article which its members manufacture, and collect the bill from the consumers.

The public may immediately ask: Who or what gives these unions taxing power to equal that of the Congress of the United States? The answer is that the Administration, the Supreme Court, and a Congress sensitive to bloc pressures have combined to do so.

After Mr. Petrillo had corralled every professional musician in the Nation into his union (often by certain coercive methods well known to the labour brethren), he then began to bear down upon the recording companies. He forbade his union members to play for them—unless the companies should kick in. Some of them kicked in, others simply kicked. On behalf of the two companies who held out, the Department of Justice brought suit against the Federation of Musicians, but it was told in effect by the courts that the labour unions are above the anti-trust, anti-conspiracy, and anti-racketeering laws by virtue of acts of Congress and Supreme Court interpretations thereof.

Then the War Labour Board stepped in and mildly ruled that Mr. Petrillo must lift his ban against the two companies. Mr. Petrillo laughed. Next the President appealed to him in friendly fashion. (This was in direct contrast to the President's stern action in seizing a Chicago mail-order plant when its president refused to obey a WLB order.) Mr. Petrillo not only laughed; he practically snorted, and in a reply of several thousand words told the President "where to get off." So the recording companies signed because they had to do so or go out of business.

And where does the $4,000,000 or more a year go which the companies pay to the musicians' union? To the musicians, who had always complained that they were poorly paid for the job? Oh, no. It simply goes to the union treasury—to employ unemployed musicians, if any, and to any purpose which the union's $46,000-a-year president indicates. For under its constitution, Mr. Petrillo can do as he pleases with the money, with the musicians with the union. And under the amazing labour policy of the Administration at Washington he can apparently do as he pleases in dealing with the Government and the public-at-large.

We Don't Want It

A frank plea for straight class representation in parliament was made by the new chairman of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Howard B. Chase, before the Toronto Canadian Club this week. Mr. Chase, who is a former labour union executive, suggested that the present political parties should stand aside and allow a certain number of straight labour representatives to be elected.

What sort of a mess would we be in if this advice was heeded generally?

If this was done for labour, then why not for the farmers, the storekeepers, the school teachers, the beekeepers and every other vocational group? Instead of electing men and women capable of thinking for themselves and representing a broad section of Canadian society we would be sending to Ottawa automatons. They would vote as instructed and as a bloc. There would be every possible incentive for one group scratching another's back in return for similar favours. The result would be more confusing and probably just as dangerous as the miserable exhibition put on by the multiple political parties in France before the collapse.

When a man is elected to Parliament he goes to Ottawa as the representative of at least all the people in his constituency, not for some narrow vocational group.—Financial Post.

A Bible Message

And the king spake unto Asphenaz the master of his eunuchs, that he should bring certain of the children of Israel, and of the king's seed, and of the princes; children in whom was no blemish, but well favoured, and skilful in all wisdom, and cunning in knowledge, and understanding science, and such as had ability in them to stand in the king's palace, and whom they might teach the learning and the tongue of the Chaldeans. And the king appointed them a daily provision of the king's meat, and of the wine which he drank: so nourishing them three years, that at the end thereof they might stand before the king.... But Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the portion of the king's meat, nor with the wine which he drank....

Then said Daniel to Melzar, whom the prince of the eunuchs had set over Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, Prove thy servants, I beseech thee, ten days; and let them give us pulse to eat, and water to drink....

And at the end of ten days their countenances appeared fairer and fatter in flesh than all the children which did eat the portion of the king's meat. (Dan. 1: 3-5, 8, 11, 12, 15.)

CELLAR DWELLINGS

Cellar dwellings may soon be abolished in the larger urban centres. It is regrettable that they should ever have been allowed in the first place in this country when it has so many open spaces and a comparatively small population. Cellar habitations are costly social liabilities and an evidence of incompetent planning; they tend to crowd hospitals, sanatoria and orphanages, and in the long run thus exact a far greater expenditure in health, lives and institutional maintenance than any decent housing project would involve.—Hamilton Spectator.

PRAISE ONTARIO HYDRO

We hold up Ontario's hydro-electric system as example for British Columbia because it was good enough for the Americans to adopt as a model for the huge Tennessee Valley development. British Columbia must have its waterpowers in its own hands.

The present scramble to buy electricity from the the State of Washington, helping with our money to develop large U.S. resources on the Columbia River, is unsound. Our province can not expand industrially on that basis.

The people have long been restive under the cloud of private ownership. They have seen the dawn of government ownership and they don't want to be propagandized out of utility services at cost.—Vancouver Sun.

An Ominous Invention

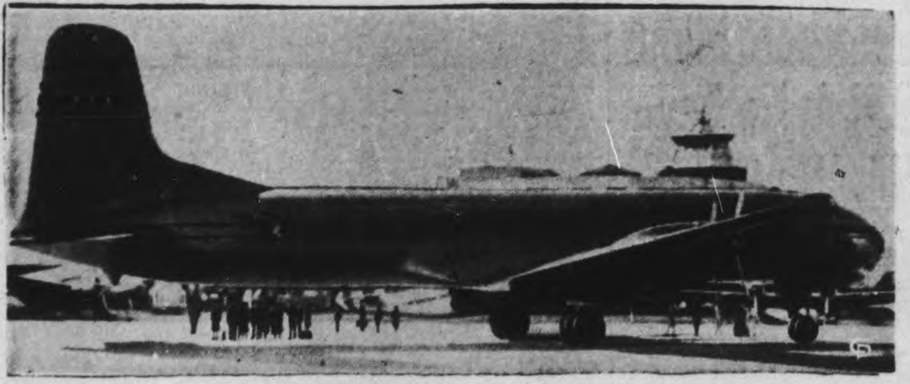
From Moscow comes news that will cause grave concern among the world's statesmen and "classical economists." It is not about the war or international politics, but describes a "solar energy converter" that has just been perfected by a Soviet scientist.

This solar energy converter is capable of melting iron and can produce hot water "in quantities measurable by the thousands of kilograms hourly" or "superheated steam at a temperature of 470 degrees centigrade." This machine could be used to drive steam engines, to pump water, for refrigeration and for heating.

It has long been the dream of man to harness solar energy. This may be the beginning of a new cycle of technical development that can revolutionize industry and make present-day economics obsolete. The potentialities are enormous, but in no direction more so than in lifting manual labour from the backs of men.

That is why The Citizen suggests that word of the invention of solar energy converter may fill our economists and statesmen with dismay. For they all seem to be proceeded today on the assumption that the primary aim of industry is to provide jobs. They look with misgiving on technological advances which reduce the man-hours of the country by the application of labour-saving devices. They view abundance with abhorrence because it normally leads to fewer jobs and hence less purchasing power. Ten years ago they decided to destroy food as the answer to plenty for all.

Now comes the promise of solar energy as the liberator of mankind from toil. It simply won't do. If Russia doesn't want to wreck all the hopes now placed on work-for-all and universal Beveridgism, it should promptly destroy the solar energy converter and all the blueprints that go with it?—Brantford Expositor.



HERE IS THE TRANSATLANTIC SHIP OF THE FUTURE—Here is an exact scale-model of the DC-7 which is to be used by Pan-American World Airways as its post-war transatlantic ship of the air. The new ship dwarfs present-day passenger planes. It has a wing spread greater than the height of a 16-storey building; has 81-ton gross weight and is double the size of the present Boeing clippers now operated. The huge clipper will carry 108 passengers at speeds better than 300 miles per hour.

Future Of International Air Transport

By B. T. RICHARDSON

CHICAGO—Without hedging, the fundamental problem of controlling future international air transport, estimated as high as a billion-dollar annual business when peace returns, has been laid before the United Nations conference here. It fell to three main spokesmen to make this clear at the outset. As a number of nations placed statements of their government policy in the record, the issue is whether or not an international authority shall be created to exercise powers to regulate aviation traffic, or whether that traffic shall be regulated only by competition which, as every one knows, means direct or indirect involvement of governments and the risk of political explosions as a result.

The British and Canadian cases for an international authority are well known. They have been published before, and reactions have been studied. Their delegates are prepared to meet criticisms and accommodate them. But the American case, as outlined by Mr. Berle, contained objections to an international authority so formidable as to diminish hope that anything can be done now more useful than begin preparation for an agreement on technical matters and leave the door open for future consultation on the economies of world air transport.

Sovereign Cnotrol of Air

Mr. Berle started with elementals —the right of each nation to sovereign control of its air, the natural right of nations to communicate with each other without discrimination, the right of innocent passage. He declared that it was the policy of the United States to start from the point at which one nation should exchange privileges with other nations. In due course, his argument went on, established and settled relations would be fixed and from there a world pattern would evolve. Later, such a pattern could be embodied into a general agreement which would have the force of an established body of law behind it.

Two points regarding this thesis immediately strike an observer. The first is that the immediate future would be a period in which each nation would rely solely on its bargaining power in securing air line privileges. The advantage to the United States is obvious, but it must have shocked some to hear the case for free-for-all competition put so bluntly as the official American position. Mr. Berle recalled that wars had been fought "when the denial of equal opportunity for intercourse made the sea a battleground instead of a highway." He recognized the denial of equal opportunity in the air might lead to wars in the future. But nothing in his statement took account of the security problem involved in unlimited competition in aviation. The only spokesman who had a specific answer ready for this was Mr. Howe, who said that without regulation, "more freedom of the air would lead either to unbridled competition or domination of the airways of the world by a few." The whole Canadian case, as stated, was based on exchanging the pre-war system for an international authority in which the interests of peace and prosperity would be linked with a world security system.

A Point Well Stressed

Mr. Berle's speech made no reference to the relation between a world agreement on aviation and world security in general—a point which delegate after delegate stressed—and it went a long way in the other direction to argue that international organization, dealing with aviation and other problems, should be limited in its functon at this time. This passage will be note by diplomats around the world who are thinking not of aviation alone, but of Dumbarton Oaks and other projects of international co-operation. Mr. Berle said "The United States believes that international organization at this time must be primarily consultative fact-gathering and fact gathering, with power to bring together the interested states when friction develops, with power to suggest to the countries possible measures as problems existing and unforeseen come up; and designed to set up a system of periodic conferences which may lay out and agree upon and continuously develop the necessary rules as experience and prudence shall indicate their possibility and gathering custom shall make them feasible."

This raised the second crucial issue in Mr. Berle's dissertation, that is, that the United States position disregards the foundation of international relations which already exists and could be used at this stage in world history to construct a system of international relations.

Applied to all world problems, this position rules out a new world order except through slow processes of evolution. Applied to aviation, it

Marines Sweep Bowling, Still Tied With Westclox

Outboard Marines and Westclox still remain tied at the top of the Ladies' Five Pin League after this week's games for both outfits made a clean sweep to garner three points.

The Outboards with a cross of 2955 for the highest team total of the night took three games from the Beavers with B. Goldie setting the pace with 666 while Westclox picked up three points at the expense of Arcos. Marg. Hawthorne supplied the chief punch with 701 which gave her individual honors for the night.

Other good three-game scores were A. Holt 685, L. Vincent 676, B. Goldie 666, R. Pearse 665 and E. Patte 645.

Marg. Hawthorne also had high single with 304. B. Goldie had 292 and other high scorers were A. Johnson 268, G. Worton 264, A. Holt 254, M. ohnston 253, R. Pearse 249, M. Batley 249 and L. Vincent 248.

D. McArthur's cross of 559 earned her the blind score prize. The blind score was 561.

Eddie Bruneteau, left winger of Quebec Aces of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, is on his way to Detroit and Jack Adams' Red Wings. Eddie, 25, is a brother of Modere (Mud) Bruneteau, veteran Detroit winger. He is the fifth member of the Aces, Allan Cup holders, to be called to N.H.L. ranks this season. Lude Check is with Chicago Black Hawks, Nils Tremblay with Montreal Canadiens and Gino Rozzini and Armand Gaudreault with Boston Bruins.

The Hippodrome Des Las Americas, Mexico City race track, announced yesterday that it will establish the "International Special," open to horses from Britain, the United States, Mexico, Argentina and Chile after the war.

New York's 1944 racing season, which ended yesterday with the conclusion of an extra nine-day Victory meeting for war relief, saw a total of $410,230,402 pass through the pari-mutuel machines over a span of 189 racing days, an average of $2,170,531.22 a day. Attendance and breakage, both subject to an official checkup later came to 4,496,788 and $3,230,294 respectively.

When Detroit Red Wings scored three goals in 28 seconds in the third period of their National Hockey League game against Maple Leafs at Toronto last night, they came within four seconds of equalling a league record established by Montreal Maroons against New York Rangers March 15, 1932, when Dave Trottier, Hooley Smith and Babe Siebert scored a goal apiece in 24 seconds during the last minute of play. Maroons won that game 4-3. Detroit won last night 8-4.

Joe Bretto, former Chicago Black Hawks defenceman purchased Tuesday by Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League, reported for the Barons' practice yesterday and then suddenly left the locker room to entrain for his home in Hibbing, Mich. President Al Sutphin of the Barons called Bretto's exit "a complete surprise." Coach Fred (Bun) Cook said after talking with Bretto that the defenceman apparently decided if he couldn't remain in the N.H.L. this season he wouldn't play at all.

By FRED D. CRAIG

There will be no O.H.A. hockey for Peterborough again this winter, it was decided at the annual meeting of the Peterborough Hockey Club last night. It was the feeling of most of the players from Coach Jim Ellis down that the obstacles in the way of trying to compete in the Ontario series with all the games necessarily having to be played out-of-town were too great to be successfully overcome and so the decision was to remain out of provincial competition, although the club elected officers and will enter as usual to keep in good standing. However the meeting was not by any means a dead loss so far as the development of young hockey players is concerned for it was decided that the Peterborough Hockey Club would throw itself whole-heartedly into a plan, in co-operation with the service clubs to foster a league for players under the juvenile age limit. A resolution was passed asking the city parks board to establish cushions exclusively for hockey in various sections of the city or failing that to enlarge the skating rinks, provide hours for hockey practice and establish one central cushion for hockey playoffs, possibly on the old bowling green at Brock and Aylmer streets.

* * * * * *

A suggestion from Jim Ellis that the city be divided into four sections, north, south, east and west and that a team be organized in each of those sections was adopted. Honey Tompkins and Art Heal were named to look after a south end team, Bun Kingdon and Johnny Godfrey were appointed to look after the hockey welfare of youngsters in the west end, Ned Vitarelli and Drake Jopling were selected for coaching duties in the north end and Eddie Starr and Joe Blewett chosen for similar responsibilities in the east ward. The service clubs of the city will be asked to cooperate by helping to finance the teams. It was felt that such a step would materially help to develop young players and provide a nucleus of player material to be available when the Memorial Health Centre arena is built. With the former members of Peterborough's good squad ready to help out by coaching the youngsters it is hoped that four good teams will be formed and that the kids will get a fine start on the way to become star puckchasers. The hockey club members are anxious to do what they can to give the youngsters a chance and it is felt that the service clubs will be glad to co-operate in the scheme.

Cage Season Starts

The opening of the Ladies' Basketball League schedule with a double-header in the Y.W.C.A. gym marks the advent of winter sports and signalizes the start of what is confidently expected to be one of the most successful seasons in the history of the organization. The experiment of dividing the teams into two sections and grouping the strong clubs together in the senior bracket with the other four battling for the intermediate honors is expected to produce keen competition in both divisions On the opening card tomorrow night the Normal School who won the intermediate honors last season will battle with a new entry representing Westclox in the first game which is called for 7.45 o'clock. Both outfits will necessarily have to depend on novice players so that it is impossible to get much of a line on the game in advance. The contest, however, should be interesting. As for the senior clash which brings together the St. John's and C.G.E. teams this will be a battle between two well-balanced and experienced outfits who should stage a lively argument as they fight to break away from the barrier in front of the parade. Both teams have the bulk of last season's players in action and they should make the opening senior clash a spirited start for a campaign that promises to be full of interest for cage fans.

According to Ken Colling, Belleville sports commentator, they have been having quite an argument down in the Quinte City about which club is to represent the Bay of Quinte Conference in the Cossa playoffs with Peterborough C.V.S. scheduled for this Saturday. Trouble there is that the teams have been playing six-man rugby instead of the orthodox brand. Two weeks ago, however, the Albert College team abandoned the abbreviated game and announced they were beginning training in 12-man rugby ready for the Cossa playoffs. St. Michael's School, Belleville and the Belleville Collegiate both continued on with the six-man stuff but now they want to get into the regulation game. On top of that the Stirling-Tweed winners are in the picture, waiting for a game with the Belleville representatives to decide which club will meet Peterborough in the semi-finals Saturday. Off hand we would be inclined to say that Albert College having tossed their helmets into the ring two weeks ago should be entitled to represent Belleville. Bre'er Colling takes the same view. "Albert has been practicing two weeks," says the Belleville sport scribe, "and should be given some consideration for their stand in being the first to abandon the bob-tailed game for the real interscholastic football."

Still Close Race

Although three clubs made clean sweeps in the Ladies' City Five Pin League games this week, an unusual occurrence this season, the race did not broaden out very much so far as places near the top are concerned. The two leaders Outboard Marines and Westclox each gathered three points and as a result they are still tied at the top of the column with 15 points. Merry Macs who were in third place last week still retain that spot but slipped another point further behind the pace-makers by losing one of their three games. Brintons had undisputed possession of fourth a week ago but managed to win only one game. Now they find themselves tied with Corvettes who won two out of three. Each has a total of 11 points. The three-way tie for fifth place has been broken and the standing shows Empressettes who vaulted up from third last place by winning three games Monday in a tie with Commandos, each having 10. Beavers are next with nine. The Five V's stayed where they were with six, after dropping three more games and the cellar occupants Arcos who were bumped three times by Westclox failed, of course, to add to their total of five points.

Detroit Red Wings seem to have the same mastery over the Toronto Leafs as the Canadiens have over them. Jack Adams' sturdy crowd moved into Toronto last night and handed the league leaders their second defeat in two games and their first loss of the season on home ice. And the Wings made a real job of it by winning 8 to 4 and holding the Leafs' power line of Schriner, Carr and Bodnar without a scoring point. Incidentally they bounced the Toronto team around in a manner that must have had the Queen City fans seeing red. Wings scored the only goal in the first period, ran in two more in the second before Metz found the nets for Toronto and in the final twenty minutes outscored the Day athletes 5 to 3. In that high-scoring final session after Ted Kennedy had ripped in two goals for Toronto in 20 seconds Jackson, Wochy and Grosso scored three for Detroit in 28 seconds, close to an all-time record.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Toronto sports writer accuses hockey of borrowing the hat trick expression from soccer....The term however was first used in cricket to describe the feat of a bowler in taking three wickets with three successive balls....Detroit has signed Eddie Bruneteau, younger brother of Moderre, from the Quebec Aces....If they get as much mileage out of the new recruit as they have out of "Mud" the Wings have got something....Joe Krol may have to remain out of Saturday's Balmy Beach-Hamilton Wildcat struggle....He has won a bout with the flu but now an injured ankle is bothering him....Balmy Beach players claim they are going to wipe out that nine-point margin but it looks like a tough job....Red Wings spoiled a few evenings for Toronto fans last winter and seem to be right back with the same kind of meanness this season....Incidentally Flash Hollett seems to have turned in a real job going both ways last night, scoring two goals for the winners.

Peterboro Minus O.H.A. Hockey This Winter

No O.H.A. hockey for this city during the coming winter was the decision reached at the annual meeting of the Peterborough Hockey Club held Wednesday night in the city hall committee room with Ald. R. M. Glover in the chair.

There had been a suggestion that the team seek a bye in the intermediate series and enter the playdowns but the feeling of the meeting was that such a course would not be feasible in view of the fact that all the games would have to be played away from home. Coach Jim Ellis said it was impossible so far as he was concerned and that was the opinion of the players.

However it was decided to send in an entry to the O.H.A. as usual and the election of officers was proceeded with, the old board being returned to office as follows:

President, R. M. Glover; first vice-president, Frank Buckland; second vice-president, Ed. Riley; secretary-treasurer, Fred C. Scates; executive committee, L. R. Mitchell, Lorne Emmerson, Jim Ellis, Ed. Starr, Spiros Zakos and El. Jones.

The meeting discussed at length the question of helping to sponsor juvenile hockey in Peterborough this winter in order to have young players available when the new arena is completed and a resolution was passed asking the city parks board to provide accommodation for hockey, preferably in the shape of large-sized cushions in each section of the city and maintained exclusively for the promotion of hockey among the youngsters.

Players of Peterborough's last O.H.A. team will lend a helping hand toward coaching the players and the following were named: East ward, Eddie Starr and Joe Blewett; south, Honey Tompkins and Art Heal; west, Bun Kingdon and Johnny Godfrey; and north, Ned Vitarelli and Drake Jopling.

A committee composed of Jim Ellis, Fred Scates and El Jones was chosen to supervise the proposed league and operate it with the co-operation of the service clubs who will be asked to sponsor teams.

Jim Ellis proposed that a team be organized in each of the four geographical sections named and that players living in any particular section must lineup with the team representing their area and that plan was adopted.

Joseph A. Jebson of the Memorial Centre committee was in attendance during part of the meeting and heartily commended the idea of encouraging home talent so that when the new arena was ready there would be Peterborough players ready to take advantage of its facilities.

Bobby Carse Prisoner Of War

CALGARY, Nov. 16.—(CP).—Bobby Carse, 25 year old Edmonton-born hockey player, is a prisoner of war in Germany, according to information received here in a letter from England. He had previously been reported missing.

Carse played part of the 1939 season with Rhode Island Reds of Providence and later performed with Kansas City and Chicago Black Hawks. He played left wing with the Currie Army Club a year ago, and also held down left field for the Army Club in the Foothills Baseball League.

Maundrell Tips Winning Goal

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—(CP).—Cliff Maundrell tipped home a goal 17 seconds before the end of regulation play to bring Hull Volants a 5-4 decision over Ottawa Commandos in a Quebec Senior Hockey League tussle here last night.

The goal carried Bob Guertin's puckmen to their initial triumph in three Q.S.H.L. starts but they blew a three-goal lead before making the grade.

A pair of tallies by Joffre Seguin and another by Maurice Bastien sent Hull away with a 3-0 edge in the opening period. They yielded one counter to Commandos in the middle session, Emile Dagenais scoring, then saw their margin wiped out in the closing frame.

Sudden-Death Rugby Tilt Nov. 25

TORONTO, Nov. 16—(CP)—R. W. Hewitson, secretary of the Canadian Rugby Union, said today the Canadian football championship will be decided in a sudden-death game Saturday, November 25, between the champions of the Ontario Rugby Union and that Quebec Rugby Football Union, only two unions to file entries for the Grey Cup play-offs.

The Navy team from H.M.C.S. Donnaconna in Montreal won the Quebec title and will be one of the teams in the final. The Ontario team will be decided Saturday when the 1943 Dominion champion Hamilton Wildcats and Toronto Balmy Beach complete their home-and-home points-to-count series for the O.R.F.U. title. Hamilton holds a nine-point lead having won the first game last Saturday 13-4.

"The H.M.C.S. Donnaconna officials have assured us their team is eligible under Navy regulations to take part in the final," said Hewitson, adding that the place of the game would be settled between the two unions.

The game this Saturday in Montreal between H.M.C.S. Donnaconna and the Bulldogs from H.M.C.S. York in Toronto has no bearing on the C.R.U. final, it was explained. The Toronto team competed in the Ontario Armed Services League and is not eligible for the C.R.U. play-off because the league did not file an entry.

There will be no East-West Grey Cup final this year as no entry has been received from Western Canada.

5 Beaches Make Places On All-Star Squad

By Fraser MacDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—(CP).—The deciding game in Toronto Saturday in the Ontario Rugby Football Union's championship play-off will be virtually an all-star contest. The opposing teams — Hamilton Wildcats and Toronto Balmy Beach — each played five players on the Union's annual all-star team, announced to-day.

Two veteran players with Ottawa Trojans — Quarterback Arnie McWatters and Inside Wing George Fraser — crashed the Hamilton-Beach barrier to make places on the team, selected for The Canadian Press by eight coaches and sport writers in the three union cities. The Toronto Indians, who lost all six of their league games, are not represented on the team.

McWatters, one-time Sarnia Imperials star, and Hamilton's great half-back, Joe Krol, were the only two players to get unanimous support. Each obtained 24 of a possible 24 points in the voting, "weighted" to give equal voting strength to each Union city.

The Team:

Flying Wing—Sam Sward, Balmy Beach.
Half—Joe Krol, Hamilton.
Half — Ross (Red) McKelvey, Balmy Beach.
Half (secondary defence)—Paul Peterson, Hamilton.
Quarterback — Arnie McWatters, Ottawa.
Snap — Dean Griffing, Balmy Beach.
Inside—Eddie Remegis, Hamilon.
Inside—George Fraser, Ottawa.
Middle—Harry Sonshine, Balmy Beach.
Middle—Abe Zvonkin, Hamilton.
Outside—Jimmy Fumio, Hamilton.
Outside — Leo Deadey, Balmy Beach.

Sward, Krol, Remegis, Fraser and Sonshine were all members of the O.R.F.U. all-star team last year. Griffing is making his first appearance on an all-star team in the east. Long a prominent figure in western gridiron circles, he moved to Toronto from Regina this fall. Only member of the 1943 O.R.F.U. all-stars still in the Union who failed to make a place was Jimmy Simpson, Hamilton's 35-year-old outside wing.

Sward Led

An all-round backfielder who has figured in all-star selection for years, Sward was the leading choice for both flying wing and defensive half but he took the former position because his support there was more emphatic. McKelvey, who had played brilliant football with Beaches since he returned from Auburn College in Georgia because of Selective Service regulations, was a strong choice as the halfback mate for Krol. The hard-hitting Peterson, who comes from Kitchener, took the defensive half position by a narrow margin.

The selectors chose a well-balanced lineup with great scoring punch. Eight of its 12 members scored 132 points during the scheduled season, compared with a total of 300 points tallied by all four teams. Krol is the top point-getter with 49. Sward had 22; Fraser, place-kicking artist, was the high-scoring lineman in the Union with 16; McWatters had 14, McKelvey 12, Deadey 10 and Remegis and Sonshine five apiece.

Krol, Sward and McWatters are the best punters in the Union. All three are capable forward-pass throwers. The line is strong defensively and the outsides, Fumio and Deadey, are deadly tacklers. Deadey is an outstanding pass receiver.

Other players mentioned in the voting included: Ace Powell of Ottawa, Jim Cumming of Indians, and Tommy Daley of Ottawa for backfield positions; Len Staughton of Balmy Beach, Bill Zock of Balmy Beach, Susie Turner of Balmy Beach, Bill O'Breza of Hamilton, Leo Seguin of Ottawa, Eric Chipper of Ottawa, Gord Downward of Balmy Beach, Bert Haigh of Ottawa, Al. Leach of Ottawa and Jimmy Simpson of Hamilton for line and outside wing positions.

A PAIR OF GAL SPORTS EDS — Loraine Clayton of Akron, O., sports editor of Ohio state's student daily, The Lantern, and Jill Drum of Decatur, Ill., sports editor for the Illinois student daily, The Daily Illini, are going to break down tradition and sit in the press box for the Ohio State-Illinois football game Saturday, in the Municipal stadium, Cleveland, O. It will be the first time in the history of Ohio State that girls have crashed the sanctity of the press box to witness a Buck grid machine do battle.

Detroit Whips Toronto Second Time

TORONTO, Nov. 16—(CP)—Coach Jack Adams of the Detroit Red Wings seems to have hit upon the formula for victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League. The Wings defeated the Leafs 8-4 last night for the second time this season.

Leafs still hold the league leadership but now they only have a two-point margin over the Canadiens.

Adams' victory recipe seems to consist of tying up the Bodnar-Schriner-Carr line which carried the Leafs to their previous six wins. They failed to get a scoring point Sunday night in Detroit and they were muzzled again last night by consistent backchecking.

Bill (Flash) Hollett was the sparkplug of the Detroit attack last night. The big defenceman scored two unassisted goals and his defensive play was of a high order. Rookie Steve Wochy was the top Detroit point-getter, however, with one goal and two assists. Other goals were tallied by Bruneteau, Jud McAtee, Carl Liscombe, Harold Jackson and Don Grosso. Howe, Murray Armstrong and Grosso had an assist apiece.

Ted (Teeter) Kennedy, the 18-year-old native of Port Colborne, Ont., was the chief Toronto offensive threat. He scored two goals in 20 seconds of the third period and assisted on another by Bob Davidson. Bill Ezinicki collected three assists. Nick Metz got the other Toronto goal, assisted by Mel Hill.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

TORONTO, Nov. 16 — (CP). — A minor tempest of protest was stirred up by Al Ritchie when he said the football teams of to-day might be just as good in some ways as the best of the past, but they didn't have the savvy when it came to inside and smart plays. The foxy Regina coach listed some of the current "deficiencies" in clever play as: Fake lateral passes, forward pass defence, tackling the proper way, defence against tackling by proper pivoting and swivelling, the good old straight arm, kicking to open field and breaking fast with the ball....He told that to Dave (Regina Post-Leader) Dryburgh, then Herb Manning reproduces it in his Winnipeg Tribune column, and was swamped by angry protests from football enthusiasts in the 'Peg who argued by the thousands of words that teams of recent vintage have paid exceedingly good attention to all these points, and others....These aruments pop up in every sport from time to time, but this promises to be a good one.

Feminine emancipation section:

Now that the American Canoe Association has lifted the ban on women entering paddling competitions, Bobby (Toronto Globe and Mail) Rosenfeld foresees the day soon when inter-club competition is put on the sport map in Canada, which is under the jurisdiction of the A.C.A. Cut those ripples, girls.

Demon statistician wanted:

The Quebec Senior Hockey League, rolling merrily on its way, chalked up nearly 150 scoring points in the first five games of gala goal-getting. Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick predicts the league probably will be looking for a new score-keeper before long if that keeps up. Either that, or more adding machines will be needed.

Carl Robertson of the Vancouver News-Herald notes that Arthur Langlie, Republican representative in Washington State, long a bitter opponent of wrestling in Seattle, has been defeated by the Democratic candidate. Wrestling was banned in Seattle after a wrestler was killed, and that had an adverse effect on the sport in Vancouver. Now the promoters are hoping the new Congresman will bring down a new ruling....George Ritchie, former starry defenceman with Oshawa Generals, has been medically discharged from the Army and is trying out with Toronto Staffords, senior entry. He spent 4 years in khaki, and was a captain when discharged.

Buchman's Barbs Still Have Sting

LONDON, Nov. 16 — (CP). — Sir Thomas Beecham, the famous British conductor, has worked up quite a reputation for stirring up fireworks in musical circles and London musicians have learned — to their sorrow — that his spell in North America hasn't changed him any.

A reception was held in his honor at headquarters of the London Philharmonic Orchestra and he took advantage of the occasion for one of his scathing speeches.

"Musical institutions here are still walking in the same dear old morass of reactionary unbelief," he said.

"Orchestras are playing as badly as ever. You can take this with a pinch of salt — but not too large a pinch."

He didn't blame the Philharmonic entirely. It was a scandal, he said, that it had no assistance from State or industry.

"The New York Philharmonic Orchestra has £200,000 a year (about $900,000) from the U.S. Rubber companies. This enables it to have the right number of concerts and rehearsals.

"Organization in the United States is 50 years ahead of what it is here."

TORTUOUS LINE SUPPLIES YANK FLIERS IN CHINA —A primitive supply line, pushed over a long, circuitous route through China, has made it possible to keep up an uninterrupted flow of material to remaining 14th Air Force bases. From India equipment and gasoline are flown over the "hump" to Kunming. Trucks carry the supplies to Chanyi, about 100 miles east, where they are loaded on a French-constructed, narrow gauge railway that snakes its way to Kweiyang. The succeeding jaunt, to Kwangtung Province, just south of the main battle area, is covered by box car. Junks, sampans, and trucks move the material through the combat area and north over treacherous roads to U.S. bases in Kiangsi and Kukien provinces.

YPU Hears Story Of Bella Bella

HAVELOCK, Nov. 16—(ENS).—Miss Jean McDermott of the High School staff was the guest speaker at this week's meeting of the Young People's Society of the United Church, and gave an interesting missionary talk on the work of the United Church Mission at Bella Bella on the west coast, north of Vancouver.

She discussed the miraculous work of the mission doctor, Dr. Darby, who is in charge of the Bella Bella hospital and who also does the serious operation cases from the air base across the channel. Miss McDermott discussed the way the nurses and doctors healed the Indians and white settlers both in body and mind.

A poem entitled "The Surgeon's Hands," was read by Miss Joyce Fielding, which carried out the theme of gentleness, kindness and skill of a missionary doctor. The Christian missionary convener, Robert Jack, presided for the program. The Scripture lesson was read by Thelma Althouse, and there were thirty present.

Ralph Wellman Bags Deer

BONARLAW, Nov. 16.—(ENS).—Ralph Wellman returned to his home on Sunday having spent the past week at Ray Miles' hunting camp. He bagged one deer and also saw a large black bear but the latter disappeared into a thick swamp to safety. He expects to go back this week for a few more days. Their group shot three deer on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bristol spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McInroy.

Miss Betty McKone, nurse-in-training at the Belleville General Hospital, spent Sunday at her home here.

Garland McKeown, R.C.N., is spending a furlough at his home here.

Mr. Bert Anderson spent last week at Cooper hunting, but reports the deer as scarce.

Mr. Clarence Wellman spent Sunday at Mr. Roy Miles' hunting grounds.

Jehovah Witnesses Sect Opposes Canadian Army Call-up System

TORONTO, Nov. 16 — Doctrines of Jehovah Witnesses were expounded in Supreme Court of Ontario yesterday in a test case aimed at obtaining a declaration that a minister of Jehovah Witnesses is a minister of a religious denomination and thus exempt from military training. Percy Chapman, superintendent of Jehovah Witnesses' ministers and evangelists in Canada, testified concerning the origin of the religious sect and expounded some of its doctrines.

The action is brought against the Attorney-General of Canada by Leo Kincaid Greenlees, who seeks a declaration from the court that he is a minister of a religious denomination within the meaning of the Selective Service Mobilization regulations, and that notices ordering him to report for military training are invalid as applying to him.

J. L. Cohen, who is acting for Greenlees, stated the matter in contention is whether the plaintiff is a minister as contemplated under the regulations.

J. J. Robinette, acting for the Crown, took the position that the Jehovah Witnesses is not a religious denomination; that Greenlees cannot be regarded as a minister in the accepted sense; that no action can be taken against the Crown for a declaration from the court, nor is there any principle which permits the court to grant a declaratory judgment.

Correspondence Filed.

More than 20 volumes and pamphlets setting forth the doctrines of Jehovah Witnesses were filed by Mr. Cohen. A file of correspondence between National Selective Service and Greenlees, in which the plaintiff was asked to appear before the N.S.S. board for a hearing, was also filed.

Noting that in a letter to the Mobilization Board Greenless had referred to a notice ordering him to report for military training, as "your favor," Mr. Justice Hogg observed:

"He call this a favor—are you sure, Mr. Cohen, he wants to go on with this action."

Chapman testified there are 10,000 active members of the Jehovah Witnesses in Canada. He said the name by which the group is known was adopted at a convention in Columbus, Ohio, in 1931. The sect was founded in 1872 by Pastor Russell and adherents were originally called "Russellites" and "International Bible Students." There are large groups of Jehovah Witnesses in the British Isles, United States, France and the Scandinavian countries, he said.

"The members have outlooks, beliefs and a message to deliver to the people of the world that are distinctly different from that of any other religious group," Mr. Chapman stated.

Religious Belief Stated.

"What is the outlook of the Jehovah Witnesses?" asked Mr. Cohen.

"We believe that the time has arrived for the establishment of the Kingdom of God on this earth, and that the earth is under the rulership of Satan, the invisible overlord, who controls all kind through demon agencies.

This belief, he said, is based upon the Bible.

"It is not possible to hold these beliefs and belong to any other religious denomination," Mr. Chapman said.

The hearing will be resumed this morning.

Sheep Killing Reported Higher

BONARLAW, Nov. 16 — (ENS) — The Rawdon Township Council met Tuesday afternoon at the town hall, Harold, with all members present. The Reeve and Deputy-Reeve were appointed a committee to look after the interests of the Township at adjourned tax sale.

Motions were also adopted as follows:—That tax collectors have authority to write off from tax bills that amount taxed for Confederation of Agriculture for rate payers who refuse to pay this tax, that Newton White be paid $8.45 for repairing buildings around Town Hall, that road insurance premium be renewed with Haig & McDougall, that John Pollock be paid $3.20 and Ben Dewey $2 for cutting weeds along township roads, that committee on selection of jurors for the coming year be paid $9.

The following sheep accounts are to be paid on completion of affidavits and also valuators fees—Rillis Herrington $11, Delbert Fleming $40, Gordon Webb $90, John Fleming $14, W. J. Tanner $8.50, Arthur W. Reid $28, Sidney Mason $21, Fred Mack $5, John Wellman $39, Verney Heath $18, Wesley Heath $18, Chris. Bateman 9 Valuations $18, Albert Twiddy 2 Valuations $4, Lindsay Mumby 7 Valuations $14.

It was moved that Lindsay Cassidy be paid $25 for killing a bear; and that Councillors Spencer and Bateman be a committee to get prices on a cab for tractor with power to purchase same; that Road Voucher No. 10 for township amounting to $1,469.21 be paid; that Road Superintendent have full control of snow fences;

That owing to the large number of sheep killed during the past three months the Council strongly recommend and require that all dogs be tied up at sunset. According to statutes all dogs running at large from sunset to sunrise may be shot. The Council feel that many of the sheep have been killed by wild animals and urge and recommend that reasonable care should be taken to protect them from such destruction. The township will not be responsible for sheep killed by wild animals.

The Council adjourned to meet Friday, December 15 at 10 a.m.

Euchre Club Has Party

INDIAN RIVER, Nov. 16—(ENS)—Mr. and Mrs. W. Brealey were hosts to the euchre club when seven tables of progressive euchre were played with the women's first prize being won by Mrs. William Torpey and the men's first prize going to William Torpey. An enjoyable evening was spent and lunch was served by the hostess. A silver collection amounting to $4 was taken to be used for war work. This is the first of a series of parties to be held during the winter months with the proceeds of each to be used for war purposes.

Rundown Woman Praises Syntona For Helping Her

Relieved Gas, Bloating and Acidity; Free of Headache, and Dizzy Spells. Nerves Are Relaxed and Sleep Is More Restful.

If you feel tired, wornout and nervous; if bowels are constipated and you suffer with indigestion, gas, bloat, headaches and rheumatic pain; if you have backache, night-rising or dizzy spells, try a short treatment of Syntona and you, too, may find this pure Herbal Medicine to be just what you need to put you on the road to better health again.

Here, for example, is the interesting experience of Miss Evelyn Brown, 275 King Street West, Hamilton, Ontario, as reported just a few days ago.

"After suffering with stomach disorders for several years, I was feeling rundown and very nervous at times. Gas accumulations would bloat me so badly I would be short of breath and have a full, heavy feeling in my stomach. I was troubled with sour acid risings, dizzy spells and frequent headaches. I often got pains in my back and limbs and my muscles ached. Usually by the end of a day my nerves would be so on edge I felt irritable and tired out. However, when I'd lie down at night I couldn't get restful sleep.

"I have only been taking Syntona a short time, but already it has helped me wonderfully. My food digests better. I can eat many things I couldn't before and I hardly have any trouble at all with gas, sourness or bloating. Since I began taking this medicine I am free of headaches and dizziness and the aches and pains have gone away. Also my nerves are more relaxed and I sleep soundly, so I feel more like doing my work and don't get all tired out as I used to."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. (Advt.)

Quebec Is Neither Retrograde Nor Separatist Bouchard Informs Unity League Meeting

"A very large part" of the Canadian people of French descent are "peaceful, law-abiding and loyal," Senator T. D. Bouchard of St. Hyacinthe, speaking under the auspices of the Peterborough Unity League, on Wednesday night told the capacity audience at the Collegiate Institute.

The other part "are buy trying to establish in Quebec" ultra-nationalists, Senator Bouchard classified them, whose political ideology leans to the "corporative, totalitarian Fascist state."

"The French-Canadians are in transition," said the Senator. "It will be for good if the English-speaking population can find those who are whole-heartedly for unity, and are willing to work sincerely with them for a greater Canada."

The chairman of the meeting was K. J. Currie, president of the recently organized Peterborough Unity League, who called upon Captain the Rev. J. L. Hodgson of Trinity Church to introduce Senator Bouchard. Captain Hodgson saw active service as a chaplain in this war. It was a privilege, he said, to have been selected to introduce one of the greatest of living Canadians from my own province of Quebec. He referred to the recent observance of the gallant men and women ance of Remembrance Day, and said in part: "As one who served with many of the gallant men and women in the present struggle and has thrilled, as you have, at the record of their magnificent performance, I am not so sure that the payment of the debt of gratitude thus incured is being met squarely on the home front.

"Can we face them to-day and say, with truth before God and our dead, that we here at home have kept faith, that the name of Canada which so many of them have borne to immortality upon their worn bodies in their blood-stained tunics, shines with that unsullied lustre with which their sacrifices had burnished it?"

The only variant to the evening of address were two songs by Mrs. James S. Goldie, accompanied by Mrs. G. W. Craw; and at the close Alderman James Dutton moved a vote of thanks to Senator Bouchard coupled with an expression of appreciation of his vigorous declaration for Canadian action in the Senate speech that cost him his remunerative post with the Quebec Hydro-Electric Commission.

A purpose of his address, Senator Bouchard said, was to portray and introduce a type of Canadian of French descent 'whom you may not know although he represents a large majority of my compatriots."

Denied Progress

"This is not the French Canadian with ideas of some three hundred years ago you would suppose we all are, if we are to be judged by some of our leaders who for several years have alone been allowed to speak out loud on things relating to national questions. It is by these super-nationalists, these racial zealots, who are quite unaware that the world has been moving ahead since 1760, that we are known outside our province. The vast majority of Canadians of French descent are law-abiding, peaceful and loyal citizens. They realize how fortunate they have been, after the unsuccessful military efforts of Old France in the middle of the eighteenth century to live under the flag of a nation which has left us all the liberties we needed to multiply and prosper.

What progress we failed to attain has not been denied us by our fellow-citizens of English descent, but by our own leaders who had not kept pace with modern evolution in education, social and economic sciences. This is the truth that the enemies of national unity want to hide from our people to raise them against our English-speaking population. But things are moving in old Quebec, as is testified by Professor Everett C. Hughes in his book: "French Canada in Transition," and truth will out. I will be blamed by adversaries for having come to speak in Ontario. Amongst the enemies of Canadian unity and even amongst its friends who by insidious propaganda have, unfortunately, had dust thrown in their eyes, there are French-speaking people who have not yet realized that Canada extends beyond the borders of Quebec. Surely national unity is not only a Quebec problem. It is a question in which every citizen of Canada is concerned.

I claim that a question of national scope has to be discussed in every province of the country. And the Canadians of French descent do not all live in Quebec. We have hundreds of thousands residing in English-speaking provinces who are just as interested as those living in Quebec to know where we are leading them with the narrow policy our religious and racial are trying to conceal from Canadiens at large. The broad-minded Canadians of French descent do not want their English-speaking fellow citizens to be deceived by those who not only are averse from national unity but who are working underhand to sow the seeds of discord and hatred between us.

Perhaps it would not be out of place here to warn you against two of their tactics that have been going far too long. The enemies of national unity will try to convince you that the movement of separatism is restricted to a small unimportant class of irresponsible men of the younger generation and that no influential group of our political or supposedly non-political leaders are supporting the idea of disrupting Confederation. I admit that the big majority of my compatriots are against this reform that will work much more against them than against the English provinces, but the fate of democracy in Germany and Italy, Portugal and Spain, has taught us what underhand and unchecked totalitarian propaganda can do to upset regimes. We have always to remember that we have too many of our citizens who do not care what is going on in our political, social and economic spheres because they are under the impression that no important changes are in the offing. We are no longer living the age of the ox-cart, and social and political changes may be brought about within a short night. I do not ask you to close your ears to those who flatter you in a false dream of security. I am for liberty of speech, but be wise enough to let them know that you have also your eyes.

Be On Guard

Moreover, you have to be on your guard in English provinces as we have also in our own, against the vilification that is waged against those who dare oppose in public the propaganda of our separatists of every type and description. In Quebec they claim that we are traitors to our race, and in yours they will try to show us up as atheists, anti-religious, fanatics and communists. In our province they say we are sold to the English and to the Protestants; in yours to the Soviets and the non-believers. This is purely political and rabble-rousing propaganda in my province, in yours it is only a way to play on your well known conservative views on economic questions and your great and well-founded respect for the Christian religion.

It is true that ever since I have

Belmont Girls' Club Learn New Stitches

HAVELOCK, Nov. 16 (ENS) — The leader of the Belmont Girls' Club, Miss Marie Dafoe, was the hostess for November meeting, when seven members were present.

The girls answered the roll call by giving the color they had chosen for their bedroom accessories, which is the new project they selected for study. Miss Dafoe demonstrated how to do several fancy work stitches, and then gave it in written detail.

At the close of the meeting a lunch was served by the hostess.

Payroll Group Leads In Loan

COBOURG, Nov. 16 — (ENS).— Final statement in connection with the Seventh Victory Loan totals shows the payroll section of Northumberland County campaign made the most impressive effort yet of that section.

The employees of the two plants in Northumberland which are canvassed under the group payroll section finished by exceeding their quotas by a wide margin. The Bird-Archer Co. of Cobourg, whose employees had an objective of $2,100, obtained $3,550, or 174 per cent of their quota. The staff of Gravlin & Bale of Campbellford had a quota of $2,100, and went over the top with a total of $2,450.

The total sales in the payroll savings section amounted to $147,300, or 140 per cent of their quota of $105,000. The nine large plants in the county accounted for $99,'450 of the payroll total, the balance being made up by the employees of other payroll establishments, such as railroads, banks, civil service, etc. Following are the results of the nine plants:

Douglas Pectin, $8,550, 355 per cent; Edwards & Edwards Ltd. $19,650, 131; Consolidated Piece Dyers, $6,350, 129; Dominion Wheel and Foundries, $5,700, 127; Breithaupt Leather Co., $5,600, 101; Campbellford Cloth Co. $16,300, 109; Cobourg Matting Co., $9,700, 262; H. W. Cooey Machine and Arms, $16,950, 199; Cooey Metal Products, $10.150, 112. Average per employee was $116.

The employees of the following firms and Government departments which go to complete the payroll savings section subscribed heavily to the Loan as follows:

A. & P. Stores $500, B. and A. Oil Co. $150, banks in county $6.850 Bell Telephone Co. $4,700, Capitol Theatre $400, Ontario Car Ferry No. 2 $2,850, Ontario Car Ferry No. 1 $1,450, C.N.R. $9,950, H.E.P.C. $5,200, Imperial Oil $1,000, Inspection Board of U.K. and Canada $3,200, Ontario Hospital $7,800, Ontario Girls' Training School $1,350, Bata Shoe Co. $1,150, Gair Co. $1,650, Province of Ontario employees $750, Dominion Civil Service $1,350.

R. G. Parker, chairman of the Payroll Saving Committee, expressed complete satisfaction with the very creditable showing made by the employees in the county. He stated that "the employees of the industrial plants in our county do not have to take their hats off to anyone when it comes to supporting these patriotic undertakings."

Father Says Son Jap Prisoner Safe And Well

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 16. — (CP).—Joel H. McArtnur of Campbellford said last night he had learned that his son, Rfmn. Fred A. McArthur, 25, who was taken prisoner by the Japanese at Hong Kong three years ago, is safe and well.

The news was relayed to him in letters by Mrs. W. L. McKie of Sacramento, Calif., and A. J. McGillivray of (3236 43rd Avenue E.) Vancouver, who said they heard of his safety over a shortwave broadcast from Tokyo Nov. 7.

He said: "Let my wife and boy know I am in good health....My little boy must be a big man now. Thanks for all the letters and snapshots."

Mr. McArthur said he sent regards to several friends and relatives, which indicated that he "has been getting our letters."

Rfmn. McArthur's wife and son live in Toronto.

Town Council Honors Clerk And Treasurer

COBOURG, Nov. 16.—(ENS).— A.W. Young, familiarly known as "Alec" to everyone, who has had to retire from his post of town clerk and treasurer because of ill health, has received the following letter from the mayor and council:

"Dear Mr. Young—We regret exceedingly to accept your resignation. We are sorry indeed that your health has not been improving but hope you will start to pick up. Your record of service with the town of Cobourg for almost a quarter of a century, is one of which you may justly be proud. You have been a devoted public servant and have at all times been governed by what you thought was best for the town.

"Your sound judgment has saved Cobourg many thousands of dollars; your wise counsel has been of great assistance to council throughout the years. The town of Cobourg may well say to Alec—'Well done, thou good and faithful servant.' We pray you my be able to enjoy your well-deserved leisure as your health improves."

Revision Of Tariff Rates Urged By Business Conference Delegates

By THOMAS HAGENBUCH
Associated Press Staff Writer

RYE, N.Y., Nov. 16 — (AP) — Any foreign investments by the United States in the post-war reconstruction period must be accompanied by the "projection of technical skills and managerial know-how," in the opinion of American delegates to the International Business Conference.

This idea was broached in discussions of the part the country will play in the international trade situation by a statement of the American delegation calling for the "exercise of sound judgment in the investment of capital in productive foreign enterprise" after the war.

The statement was read to the private investment panel of the conference yesterday by Curtis E. Calder, president of the American and Foreign Power Corporation, and one of the United States delegates to this meeting of businessmen and bankers from 52 countries.

The statement urged a revision of tariff rates to encourage the flow of imports to the United States on the grounds that foreign investments can be justified only "if the reasonable expectation exists that such loans will result ultimately in a return to the creditor country of goods and services in a commensurate amount."

The United States faces the danger, the statement said, of not facing "this economic reality and adjusting its tariff schedules so as to bring about an excess of imports at some reasonably early date."

Referring to a statement made earlier in the conference by Eric A. Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, that U.S. foreign investments should be in the form of 'partnership capital", the delegation's statement said "no general statement can be made as to whether capital committed to foreign investment should take the form of full ownership or should associate itself with domestic capital in the country where the investment is made."

CORSETS' PARADE

LONDON — (CP). — Miss Elaine Burton, a store executive here, has suggested that women don their "utility" corsets and parade in them through London as "one way of getting better ones.

OFF SECRET LIST—Officially, this tough member of the Allied mechanized forces is known as the 15 cwt. armored truck. Actually, it can be used as an emergency ambulance or an all-purpose load carrier as well as a battle wagon. Rolling on heavy-duty pneumatic tires, it can speed through underbrush, sand and shallow bogs, water and demolition rubble, carrying a good complement of men behind its heavy armor coat. The Canadian firm making the truck has already turned out more than 2,000 of them. Until recently this vehicle has been on the secret list.

Board Decides To Use Hall For Cadet Work

HAVELOCK, Nov. 16—(ENS)—At the November meeting of the Havelock Board of Education, the offer of the town council to rent the town hall for cadet training at a rental of $10 per month was accepted but they stipulated that it include a period each Monday, Wednesday and Friday for the high school physical training.

The secretary was authorized to write the town council for a price on lot No. 298 on Donald street and request that they hold same for the Board's decision. Chairman B. Smith appointed Trustees F. McKenzie to try and procure a victrola for the high school.

Principal A. C. Reid of the high school reported as follows: The present system of discipline in the playground and in the halls it not successful. Mr. Reid suggested that two rooms at a time use the playground supervised by their teachers.

Examinations are to be held in November and a social evening in January, the commencement taking place in February. Miss J. McCorvie, supervisor of the girls' physical training would appreciate being able to use the town hall during the time allotted for cadet training.

Public School Report

Public School Principal W. M. Patterson stated that he agreed with Mr. Reid in supervised play during the total recesses. Morning recesses would take forty-five minutes and the afternoon thirty minutes. The attendance was low owing to some cases of chicken pox and scarlet fever.

A Christmas concert is being arranged for December, and the library grant has been spent. Miss Joyce Fielding requested that the double seats in her room be made into single ones. The date of the teachers' convention is November 22 in the Peterborough Normal School.

Stay Outside

The Board recommended that the teachers take their classes to the playground during the recess periods 15 minutes in the forenoon and 10 minutes in the afternoon, weather permitting. On other days give the class physical training in the class room during the recess periods.

The following accounts were passed: Teachers' caretakers' and secretary's salaries, $1,189.15; Hydro account, $24.59; duplicator paper, Mrs. Goheen, $.125; freight on books, public school, 50 cents.

World Charts Will Be Available To Civil Fliers

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, Nov. 16 — (CP) — A complete set of aeronautical charts covering all the land areas of the world will be available to civil fliers in the post-war era if the action of a technical sub-committee of the International Civil Aviation conference here is approved.

This development took place while top delegates of the "Big Three" powers, the United States, United Kingdom and Canada, worked toward a joint three-party proposal on an international agreement to set up a world aviation authority or council.

They sought a way out of a deadlock which results from British and Canadian insistence on a world authority with regulatory powers and American desires for a situation which will allow airlines to compete freely for traffic.

The sub-committee of the conference on standards for aeronautical charts is one of the groups of experts within the conference who have been making the bricks that go to build a world aviation structure while the top-level ministers and diplomats debate the form the structure is to take.

Into the making of the charts that cover Canada has gone the work done by the Canadian Topographical survey, assisted by the aerial photographic operations of the RCAF over the past years.

The sections also provides maps of some Arctic and sub-Arctic areas which had never been mapped in detail before and the material for which comes from aerial photographic operations carried out by the United States Army Air force since the start of the war.

Areas in other little-travelled parts of the world including Labrador, Greenland and parts of Africa also are shown on the charts as a result of wartime mapping operations carried out by various branches of the Allied forces.

As much of the information on the charts is of military value they will not be released for general airline use until after the war but they now are available to and used by all the Allied forces.

No Resignations Likely In Liberal Fold

By R. K. CARNEGIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Nov. 16—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King will meet the House of Commons next Wednesday with a cabinet united to the extent of giving Defence Minister McNaughton every opportunity to show how he can provide adequate reinforcements for the forces overseas by the voluntary system, it was learned last night.

Mr. King has no resignations on tap. Ministers who were reported to have favored the stand taken by Col. J. L. Ralston, former defence minister, to send draftees overseas are understood to have decided to wait until Gen. McNaughton has placed his information and plans before the House at a secret session. If his proposals are convincing, these ministers will remain at their posts and give him every support.

Ministers deciding on this course are understood to include Navy Minister Macdonald, Resources Minister Crerar, Finance Minister Ilsley and possibly others.

Mr. King has not disclosed what proceedings he will propose when the House reassembles but one colleague who shares his views on the conscription issue expects him to make a statement on the government's position as soon as the House opens and then suggest if the members want further details and proof as to the reinforcement picture, then a secret session will be held.

A Busy Goose

CREEMORE, Ont., Nov. 16—(CP).—A goose owned by Harold Day apparently is out to set a record. Two of Mr. Day's geese laid 35 eggs last spring, hatching out 32 goslings. One of them started laying again in September, so far has laid 26 eggs and is still at it.

Senator Bouchard

been in political life I have not shown myself amenable to coercion in my avowed opinions on matters purely temporal, whether in the municipal, provincial or federal fields. In this matter, but in this matter only, I have followed the well-known independence of the grandson of Papineau, Henri Bourassa, whom I replaced as member of the Legislative Assembly for Saint Hyacinthe. Bourassa has been and still is the idol of the supernationalists, which proves that always on some points do the extreme meet. I must confess to my own great regret that I do not equal him in the outward signs of religious devotion, but even his well known piety has not protected him from the harsh censure of the same prelates who had denounced me in somewhat severe terms a few weeks earlier. Any how I have been born in a Catholic family. I have always stayed a Roman Catholic and I am quite decided to die a Roman Catholic whether my enemies want it or not. I still believe that one can be a good Catholic and live as a free man in a free country. If I am mistaken let God have mercy on me.

Achieved Reforms

If I had time enough I could prove that the actual majority of Canadians of French descent are progressive, but that those who are of political school are farther from revolutionary socialism of the Trotsky type than those who lead our supernationalists.... We have achieved many reforms that may be considered I would say as "pre-post-war" social reconstruction measures, but they do not smack in any way of the corporative totalitarian Fascist state which our supernationalists are busy trying to establish in Quebec.

Perhaps it will be a revelation to most of you to hear these statements of facts. The policy of isolation has worked so well and so continuously that, considered as two groups of different ethnical origin, we are hardly known to each other. Even in Quebec the English have a very scant knowledge of French communal life, and the opposite is also true. We are segregated in almost everything as if we were enemies, and those who work to unite our efforts in things where we have a common interest are considered as bad French-Canadiens. We are, a large number of citizens of French descent, tired and sick of the dominating narrow school who seem to consider that our race is too weak to associate with Canadians of other descent without losing our distinctive ethnic character. The time has come to have our race known not only by those who want to keep on with this system of isolation so detrimental to our interest. Though our sturdy lumber-jacks, our hard working tillers of the soil cannot be praised too highly, Canadians at large should be made to know that we are not all hewers of trees and men of the farm."

Senator Bouchard said there had been an increasing urban movement in Quebec, with social changes which have carried the people to a higher level in most spheres of human endeavor. "I will not say we occupy the first place among the civilized groups of population, but neither are we at the bottom; and therefore it would be unfair to class us under the average progressive group of people."

A large part of the address was devoted to quotations from Senator Bouchard's memoirs, in which he spoke of his early life as a water carrier in St. Hyacinthe and painted a life there before Quebec became industrialized.

"St. Hyacinthe," he said, after quoting from the memoirs, "has progressed as many other cities of our province have done, because of the wider views we had on life than those held by our leaders who are well-disposed to accept money from non-Catholics but show little desire to fraternize with them.

"What is more lamentable in this picture is to see the vilification that is to be expected by those who feel it their duty to expose publicly the acts of the separatists who are working to widen the rift they have already opened between the two main bodies of our Canadian population.

"I still repeat that the large majority of our French-speaking citizens are against this narrow and dangerous policy. It may be that they cannot express their views because of the material intimidation we are suffering from in our province. But the time will come when those who are fighting bitterly against the Partisans of a closer intercourse between Canadians of every race and creed in matters purely temporal will be made to realize that it is mostly gainst the Canadians of French descent that this narrow policy of isolation works."

Manson Cathcart Hurt In Crash

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 16.—(CP).—Four persons were injured, one seriously, when two automobiles collided at an intersection on the Hastings road nine miles west of here late yesterday.

Most seriously injured was H. Worthium, 41, of Burlington, Vt., who suffered severe cuts to his face and body and serious injury to his right leg.

W. Harvey, 49, also of Burlington suffered shock and body bruises, Manson Cathcart, 24, of Peterborough, severe face and head cuts and John Meincenger 46, Hastings county farmer a broken left hand and bruises.

Police said the accident happened when a car operated by Meincenger went out of control and crashed into the machine driven by Cathcart.

Worthium was taken to hospital at Peterborough, about 25 miles west of the scene of the accident after treatment by Dr. W. N. Campbell of the village of Hastings.

Repairs Available For Farm Machinery

COBOURG, Nov. 16.—(ENS).—While shortage of material will make it necessary to continue rationing of farm machinery next year, there will be no limit to the repairs available, if requested in time to have them made before needed next spring, it has been announced by Ralph C. Banbury, agricultural representative for Northumberland county. Mr. Banbury bases his comment on information received from the Administrator of Farm Machinery of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Although machinery will be manufactured in a slightly greater volume than in 1940, it will not be sufficient to supply all that may wish to purchase, but will look after the most essential cases. A farmer seeking machinery must sign an order for the machine with an agent and sign an essentiality certificate. If more than can be supplied are ordered, those whose need is greatest will be looked after. When sufficient of a particular line is available it will be taken off the ration list.

Knew Nothing Of Medal

KINGSTON, Nov. 16—(CP).—Capt. A. B. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Smith of Kingston, and who returned here yesterday aboard a hospital train, did not know he had been awarded the Military Cross for gallantry in action until notified by his sister Gwyn, a member of the R.C.A.F. (Women's Division) at Halifax Pier.

200 Applicants

TORONTO, Nov. 16—(CP).—C. M. Croft, Director of the Intelligence Service of the Trade and Commerce Department, said last night that 200 applications from soldiers, some of whom were serving as far away as India, have been received for posts as assistant and specialist trade commissioners under the Department's expanding program.

Millbrook News

Mrs. H. Scott has closed her home for the winter months and is with with Mrs. Robert Holden until spring.

Pastmaster T. H. Collins was in Toronto for the week-end, returning home on Monday evening. Mrs. H. J. Armstrong was in the office during his absence.

Rev. E. A. Chevis and Mrs. Chevis, who have been in Toronto for the past several weeks, owing to ill health, have returned home and are at the rectory, Centre street. Mr. Chevis, however, is not yet taking over his parish duties, two students coming from Toronto on alternate Sundays for the services.

Ex-Warden Percy Stinson has purchased the former Elliott homestead, corner of Centre and Union streets, and intends remodelling it and making it into two apartments. The most recent owner was Harry Elgar, who is remaining in his part of the house until spring, but older residents will recall the Elliott family of earlier years in village history, and the pleasant hospitality enjoyed in their home on many occasions.

Huge Liberator Plane On Fast Trip

MONTREAL, Nov. 16 — (CP).— Newspapers which went on sale in Wellington, New Zealand, on Monday were being distributed in Montreal at breakfast time Wednesday. Servicemen, civilians, who were in the Antipodes on Monday morning were set down in Ottawa and Washington before noon yesterday.

Air passengers from Australia, after breakfast in Montreal, were on their way over the North Atlantic to Britain, where they are due to arrive soon after midnight.

Troop mail and official letters posted in Australia up to last Sunday, were being delivered in Ottawa and Montreal and Washington on Wednesday and a ton of troop-mail from Australia will be delivered to servicemen and women in Britain to-day.

Such were the results of the conclusion yesterday of first round-flight trip of the new Pacific air service of the Royal Air Force Transport Command. The famous Liberator Commando arrived here after a journey of 23,500 miles, completed in 4 days 16 hours and 10 minutes flying time

The flight inaugurated a Canada-Australia service which will operate several times weekly in each direction and will have connections at Montreal for Great Britain and Cairo.

The regular route is the longest single air route in the world.

On the way back on the opening trip, Air Commodore Griffith Powell, C.B.E., senior air staff officer of the R.A.F.T.C., set a record for the more than 10,000 miles from Wellington to Montreal for a journey of this distance—48 hours 44 minutes, or an average of better than 200 miles an hour.

When the famous Liberator left Fiji and Canton, it was springtime. She hit summer over the Equator, but from Honolulu onwords it was autumn, gradually merging into the early winter of Canada.

The Commando carried 20 passengers and a maximum load of urgent war freight.

Future Of Air Transport

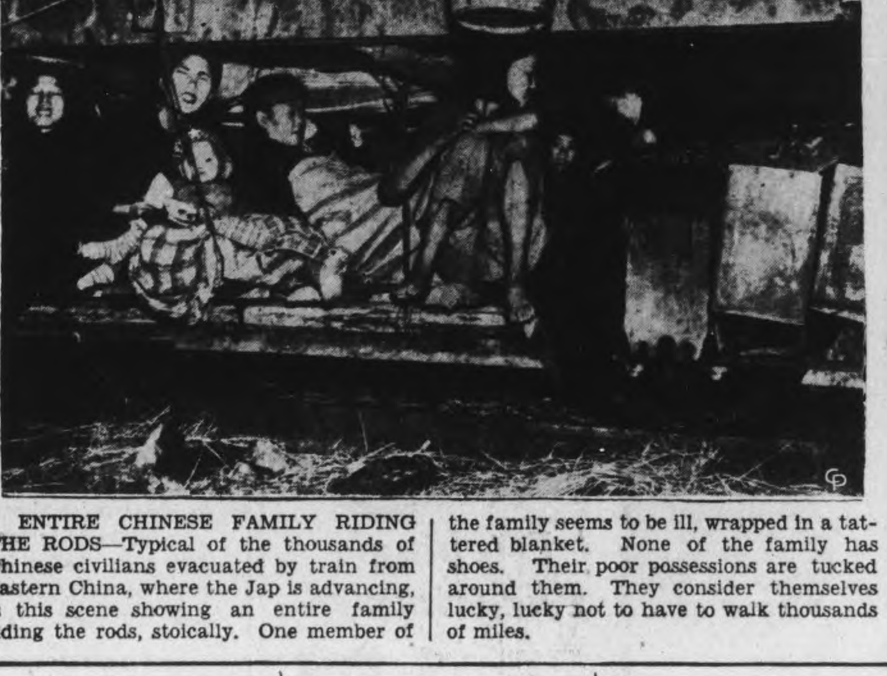
side-tracks all past experience in devising rules of conduct between nations. It leaves aside the experience and theory which already exists, as the Canadian draft convention demonstrates, in air transport relations.

In arguing the American position, Mr. Berle said "a great silence" prevailed on how routes and traffic should be divided. Both Viscount Swinton and Mr. Howe provided suggestions on these problems as soon as they spoke. The British formula is that each country should have a fair share in services and traffic, and that services be related to traffic offering. From this basis, the British would work out "national quotas". The Canadian suggestion was a guaranteed minimum of one round trip per week for each country on lines emanating from it, and above that any line would have to operate at least to 40 per cent of its capacity to continue. Mr. Berle's assumption that principles for operating international air routes could not be established except by experience, led him to voice a warning, obviously directed at small nations, against an arbitrary international authority fixing routes and schedules. They might be shut out entirely, he said.

Protector of Small Nations

The American position would require each nation to deal separately with any larger power which wanted air line runs. The choice between this and an international system providing a place for all legitimate nations' interest may determine the stand of many nations at Chicago. The implication of Mr. Berle's argument seemed to be that the United States would be the protector of small nations in a world of air freedom.

American bargaining power to secure the air freedoms of which Mr. Berle spoke will plainly have the support of an an offer to provide transport planes for those which recognize, as he said, "the right of friendly intercourse." The United States is against subsidies unless they keep needed planes in the air, and is prepared to discuss how rates can be agreed upon. By contrast, the Canadian plan provided that the operators set their rates, which would become subject to regulation in the same way that railway rates are. Lord Swinton suggested rates be scaled according to speed and accommodation provided. Everyone was against subsidies. The choice regarding rates seems clear enough; either the Canadian principle will be adopted or the operators will compete just so far, as the shipping companies did, and then get together. From an American official in high position, Mr. Berle's flat assertion that no problem of peace can be solved merely by delegating naked power to an international authority, a condition he described as "world distatorship" may find its explanation in current U.S. politics. Standing alone, it is the most devastating argument against international organization yet heard from such a quarter since the building of peace was begun. His confusion in lumping New Zealand and Canada together among "brave spirits" pursuing "that splendid dream" of world co-operation visioned by poets and writers, remained inexplicable. If the U.S. State Department consigns free enterprise C. D. Howe and stout labor-radical Peter Fraser to the same bed, it needs a new advisor on British Commonwealth politics.



ENTIRE CHINESE FAMILY RIDING THE RODS—Typical of the thousands of Chinese civilians evacuated by train from Eastern China, where the Jap is advancing, is this scene showing an entire family riding the rods, stoically. One member of the family seems to be ill, wrapped in a tattered blanket. None of the family has shoes. Their poor possessions are tucked around them. They consider themselves lucky, lucky not to have to walk thousands of miles.

Council Passes Election Bylaw

No Statement Yet

TORONTO, Nov. 16 (CP)—E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. Leader, said last night the C.C.F. party has not yet made a policy announcement on the question of reinforcements for Canada's overseas forces "because when we do make a policy announcement we try to see that it represents the considered views of all parts of the movement."

RETURNING BROTHER MEETS CWAC SISTER—Pte. Wesley Hebner, Right, of Honey Harbor, near Midland, who crossed over the Seine with the Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa, got the surprise of his life when he arrived in Halifax Tuesday morning aboard the hospital ship Lady Nelson. There to welcome him was his sister, Pte. Lucy Laub of the Canadian Women's Army Corps. Pte. Laub, who was married in Halifax in September, is a motor transport driver stationed at Halifax. She just happened to be posted for duty at the dock to which the Lady Nelson was moored.

Roundup Starts In Camps Across Canada

HALIFAX, Nov. 16 — (CP). — A number of Active Service Army men who have been in Halifax for as long as four or five years, expect to be on their way overseas soon. Yesterday saw a sudden call-out for medical examinations, and it is now expected that men who are fit will be sent overseas. The move is apparently in conformity with the Government's reinforcement policy.

Defence Minister McNaughton announced November 9 that release from home war establishments of all service personnel in categories fit for training for combat servict was being accelerated. The releases were to take place as soon as C.W.A.C. or low category personnel were available. At the same time it was announced that low category men were being substituted as rapidly as possible on certain work projects which were employing men seconded from the Home Defence Army.

No official figures have been made available, but it has been estimated that 1,000 high category men will be found at the Defence Headquarters in Ottawa and other 6,000 to 8,000 will be combed out of establishments in other parts of the country.

Besides this number it has been estimated that at least 5,000 combat troops can be re-mustered from home Ordnance Service Corps, Engineers, Artillery, and Armored Corps establishments.

The first potential infantry reinforcements have already left their desks for refresher courses before going to the reinforcement area. No one would estimate how long it would be before these troops would be on their way overseas, but one source said that it should not take longer than six weeks to get them into shape.

Romance, Not War Is Reason For So Many Multiple Births

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP) — More twins, triplets and quads are being born in the United States since the war began than before.

The Bureau of the Census figures are: multiple births in 1933—24,220, and in 1942 a rise to 29,421.

At first glance it looks as if Mars is adding romance and mystery to war marriages. Investigation supports the romance, wipes out all the mystery, and gives Mars a bad score when it comes to producing multiples.

The reason there were more multiple births in 1942 than in 1933 was because many more babies were born, because the U.S. birth rate went up. More girls got married; a rush to the altar, which it will be recalled, started with the adoption of Selective Service before we entered combat.

Along with the rising birth rate there naturally were more twins and other multiples.

That is no special credit to Mars. What's to his discredit in this multiple baby business is that the percentage of multiples actually declined. In 1933, of all babies born in United States, 11 and a fraction per cent per thousand were twins, triplets or quads. That percentage stayed at 11 until 1940.

Percentage Dropped

Beginning with the latter year, the percentage dropped to 10.8, went down on decimal point the next year and again a similar decimal point in 1942, the last year of completed census figures on babies.

The medical reason for the percentage decline in proportion of multiples is not clear. But an explanation which comes from statistics of birth rates is entirely clear.

This is the explanation. First born are not as likely to come in pairs or multiples as are children born later to the same mother. The American increase in babies during this war is largely among new mothers, girls having their first babies.

In round numbers, the babies born in the United States in the last 10 available years were 2,000,000 in 1933, a step-up to 2,100,000 in each of the following four years, then to 2,200,000 for two years, to 2,300,000 in 1940; 2,400,000 in 1941; 2,700,000 in 1942.

Triplets were 220 in 1933 and 277 in 1942.

Quads were five in each of those years. But in 1941, which in marriages rates as a war year, America had twelve sets of quads, which was twice as many as in the biggest previous year of the decade.

JUST FOR WOMEN

By CONNIE NICHOLSON
(Society Editor of The Examiner)

Everybody's conversation conscious these days, not just of scarce foods and fuel, but also of time, which has become doubly valuable in busy wartime. An increasing number of housewives are working, either steadily or part time, and are trying to run their homes too. With this added responsibility, any short cuts which will make her work easier are vitally important, since they also relieve the strain and give her a chance for much-needed relaxation.

A great many women don't mind washing, but dislike ironing, while an equal number take exactly the opposite stand. However, in either case, the fact remains that the washing and ironing must be done, no matter which way the preference lies. Every housewife has her own little handy time-saving short cuts, but there are, no doubt, several which she has not yet discovered.

To facilitate and quicken the washing, make sure that the clothes are sorted into separate piles, with the linens and white articles in one, colored clothes in another, towels and washcloths in another, and so on. To kill two birds with one stone, as it were, put the taps on and let the water fill the washing machine and draining tubs, while sorting the clothes, so that by the time the tubs are filled, clothes are also in their respective piles. Always make doubly sure that any clothes likly to run in hot water are put aside. The little extra time taken to test a doubtful article will be a great deal less than the time it takes to drain and fill the machine again. Remember that drying white clothes indoors tends to give them a yellow dingy look. They'll keep really white and sparkling if given a regular bluing rinse.

Artificial silks do better if they are soaked in cold water before being washed. Use borax to soften the water, and avoid any suggestion of actual rubbing, to assure that the weave of the fabric will not be disturbed. Tub frocks of colored cotton are safer if they are soaked in cold salted water for half an hour before washing if they're "fast", otherwise, they should be just rinsed quickly through the salted water. Salt and water will also prevent colored borders on towels and other articles from running, if they are soaked for 24 hours.

Clean Iron

Before tackling the ironing job, give the iron the once-over, and make sure that its surface is clean by rubbing it with a damp cloth dipped in table salt, and rub clean. Another method is to sprinkle a little salt on a sheet of waxed paper, and run the warm iron back and forth until the stains disappear. While we're on the subject of irons, make sure that there are no exposed wires and that the connection is secure. A wall plug is recommended rather than the effect offered by plugging the iron to a ceiling cord.

Always make it a point to keep the ironing board cover fresh and clean. Here's a little tip about that which might come in handy. When you want to iron that special little white blouse, and yet haven't time to dampen it, and roll it up waiting for the dampness to soak through, just wring out a large cotton towel until it's almost dry, and use as the ironing board cover. The blouse will be dry enough to wear almost immediately, and won't be full of those annoying little creases and wrinkles, either.

Here are a few odds 'n ends about ironing. Lace edgings should be pressed from the material to the lace edge, always, and ribbon or lace will dry flat after washing if it is smoothed around a clean bottle until dry. Good lace should never be ironed. Embroidery should be pressed on the wrong side. Tucks should be ironed all one way in groups, and French seams should be pressed only on the wrong side. A few drops of turpentine added to the water used for starching will prevent clothes from sticking to the iron, or a little salt, added to the starch, achieves the same result.

Parcel Problem

What to send to the boys in camp and overseas is a continual puzzler for women with husbands, fathers and sweethearts in the service. However, apart from special Christmas presents, and any article he particularly requests, the universal answer to that question, from the boys themselves, is food. Except in the heat of battle, soldiers get plenty to eat, but they still like to have something extra to nibble on, reminiscent of the midnight raids on the ice-box at home.

Tops on the list of morale-builders, next to newsy letters, is a box from home, filled with tasty tidbits, which just hit the spot, and make him popular with his buddies, too! Returning servicemen say that the boys always share their boxes with their buddies, so the wise mother or wife will include ample amounts of everything, to take care of several man-sized appetites!

The problem of sending food is complicated by the fact that nothing that is too perishable can be sent, since it often takes several months for the box to reach its destination. However, fresh cookies, packed carefully in strong cardboard or light metal boxes, generally keep reasonbly fresh. Biscuits and cheese is another snack that is sure to hit the spot with a soldier, sailor, or airforce boy overseas, and variety can be introduced by a can of sandwich spread, to alternate with the cheese.

FEATHER YOUR OWN NEST

Inborn Home-building Instinct Causes Longing for Place of Our Own.

RECENTLY a bridal couple inserted this advertisement in their local paper: "Newlyweds love their in-laws, but they want a house of their own." And everyone of their well-wishers must hope and pray that they got one, for how every marriage turns out depends largely upon whether the little birdies built their own nests, or flocked in with a lot of their relatives.

Given the solitude of two, of which the poet sings, and elbow room in which to adjust their differences of opinion, and non-interference with all of their tastes and habits, and practically any marriage can be made a success. But stage it in the bosum of his family or her family, and it hasn't a chance. The marriage license might just as well have a divorce coupon attached to it.

And this is no reflection on the noble, Christian characters of the in-laws, nor does it asperse their good intentions. It is just the home-building instinct that is born in us that makes us long for some place of our own, some spot of earth that belongs to us, some place that we can furnish as we like and in which we can do as we please. And when this desire is thwarted, dire are the consequences.

To begin with, for the newlyweds to go to live with their parents is for them to take a short cut to the divorce court. Every marriage has to go through the settling down stage in which the husband and wife have to learn how to adjust themselves to each other and put up with each other's peculiarities. This is a time frought with tears and strife. But if they are alone in their own house, the storm passes harmlessly over them and leaves peace behind.

The husband calls himself a brute and the wife weeps on his shoulder and they kiss and make up. But if Mother is standing on the sidelines cheering them on and urging daughter to stand up for her rights, and Father is warning son not to let his wife henpeck him, a breach is made that is never bridged over.

Family Feuds Embitter So Many Lives

Living in the same house is also responsible for the family feuds that embitter so many lives. The in-laws see each other at too close range and perceive faults and blemishes that they would never observe if they lived even a couple of blocks apart. They get on each

Canadian Railways are now moving more cars per day than during any period since the start of the war.
To feed the population of liberated areas, Canada has undertaken to provide a large quantity of wheat and flour, which must be moved to the eastern seaboard before the close of lake navigation; in addition, large quantities of munitions and war supplies, as well as current commercial shipments, will have to be transported. As very few cars have been constructed during the war years, it is necessary that we make our present equipment perform the service.
To help us fulfill Canada's obligations, the Railways request that shippers and receivers of carload freight, load and unload their cars as rapidly as possible.

Rich, Plum Pudding Always An Essential for Christmas

By MARY MOORE

Since the raisins are now in the stores it is better for us to buy them and get them made up into our cakes and puddings or we'll use them up bit by bit in rice puddings, drop cookies, etc. and then find no more in the stores for our Christmas baking.

I printed our Christmas cake offerings last week; this time I have three types of steamed puddings: one is almost traditional, another expedient, and still another simple and digestible for even dyspeptics and children; and hard sauce. Please cut them out, especially the hard sauce, for you'll be making it Christmas Eve, in a lot of confusion and want the recipe handy.

Rich Plum Pudding

One cup finely chopped beef suet, 1 cup brown sugar, ½ cup milk, 2 well-beaten eggs, 2 cups raisins, ½ cup each lemon peel and orange peel, 1-3 cup citron peel (there is a certain amount of peel on the market for the "early-bird" type of shopper), ½ cup chopped blanched almonds, 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon mace, 1 cup soft bread crumbs.

Mix together the suet, brown sugar, milk and beaten eggs. Mix the fruit peels, citrons and nuts with ¼ cup of the flour. Mix and sift remaining flour with soda, salt and spices. Add fruit mixture, crumbs, and sifted dry ingredients to suet mixture. Mix well, and turn into 2 quart greased oiled covered pudding moulds. Steam 2½ hours, replenishing water in steamer as it becomes too low for safety.

(Note: This recipe is included because you can get the ingredients for it without extensive shopping—it looks lovely—it is easy to make at the last minute.)

One cup raw cranberries, cut in halves, 1 cup either diced drained canned peaches or pineapple if you canned your own, 1-3 cup mixed peel or mixed candied fruits, ½ cup light molasses or corn syrup, ¼ teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves nutmeg, 1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking, 2 tablespoons water. Combine the fruits and molasses. Sift together the flour, salt and spices and add them to the fruits. Turn into 1 large or 2 small greased pudding moulds, cover with greased lid or greased double parchment paper tie on snugly. Steam for 2 hours, being sure to add water when needed to steamer. Delicious with ice cream instead of the usual pudding sauce.

Simple Steamed Carrot Pudding

One-half cup shortening, ½ cup brown sugar, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon water, 1 cup grated raw carrots, 1 cup raisins, 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind, 1¼ cups sifted cake flour, ½ teaspoon baking soda, ¾ teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon each salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Cream shortening until light then add sugar while beating well. Add the egg beaten with water and blend. Add carrots, lemon rind and raisins. Mix and sift together dry ingredients, add gradually through sifter, beating. Pour into 2 one-quart moulds well-greased and steam 1 hour, then uncover and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes.

Hard Sauce

One-third cup butter, 1 cup sifted icing sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla (or brandy or rum), pinch salt. Cream butter until very light, sift in sugar creaming constantly. Add flavoring and salt, pile lightly on serving dish and chill. May be formed into rosettes through pastry tube.

"BOY EDITOR". DIES

LONDON — (CP). — Thomas H. Hardman, who became known as the "boy editor" when he received his first editorial appointment in his early twenties, died at his London home, aged 89. He had a varied career and held important posts on a number of London and provincial papers.

FASHIONABLE STOLE—All eyes brightened wistfully at a regular fashion luncheon in the Waldorf-Astoria when the model paraded this mink beauty. Demonstrating the newest, most sweeping fur style, the stole, this particular model is cut with such generous cape back and long tabs that it doubles for a short fur jacket.—By Prunella Wood.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP

To-day we have some smart new fashion details for the younger set. The newest fur coats are made in the tuxedo style, with full sleeves, turned back cuff with lengths from 32 to 40 inches. The most exciting part is yet to come The fur is colored, and what beautiful colors, French, burgundy, victory red, Cherbourg blue, frosty white, daffodil yellow. The fur is Laskin lamb and a hat and handbag are made of the same fur. The hats are small off-the-face models and the hand bags are extremely large. These handbags may be made in Laskin lamb, or caracul, ocelot silver fox, Persian paw or electric seal.

Destined for stardom are the dress-up jackets and skirts A very stunning one is carried out in lime green. The skirt is made in very narrow gores and the jacket with a three-button front and cap sleeves. The jacket is simply gleaming with tiny gold sequins and worn around the neck is a choker of four strands of gold beads and on the wrist bracelet to match.

Women's dresses are full of flattery. A black dress, brightened with Cherbourg blue or fuchsia and studded with tiny gold nail heads or a black dress, showing the new side draping with butterflies made in black sequins forming the trimming, is very smart.

Dresses for the younger set include corduroys and velveteens. The young timers go for them. They love the smart smoothness and thrill over the vivid colors, such as poppy red lime green, turquoise blue or gold. These dresses are made in the one-piece style, either button-trimmed, or with white lace frilling. The necklines are either square cut or oval and the sleeves are all three-quarter length. Then there is the youthful corduroy two-piece, that buttons down the back, has inset gadgets to highlight slim young waistlines and a high soft throatline. These styles are all very new and very smart .

QUESTION: Would you please send me detailed instructions for Perfect Jelly Roll, Sunshine Cake, or Angel Food. — Mrs. J.F.F.

NOTE: Similar requests came from Mrs. J.B.C., Mrs. H.H.L., Susie Q., and Queenie.

ANSWER:

Perfect Jelly Roll.

One teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon lemon extract, 4 eggs unbeaten, ¾ cup sifted granulated sugar, ¾ cup of sifted cake flour, 1 cup tart jelly—Red Currant, raspberry, or grape. Add baking powder, salt and flavoring to eggs; set bowl over hot water in a double boiler beat with an egg beater until thick and lemon-colored, while gradually adding sugar by tablespoonfuls. Remove bowl from heat. Fold in flour. Turn into greased pan 12" x 8' x 1" lined with greased paper. Bake at 400 degrees Fahr. for 13 minutes. Turn from pan on to cloth covered with powdered sugar; remove paper quickly and immediately cut off crisp edges with long sharp knife. Spread jelly on surface—you can work faster if the jelly has been broken up with a fork in a bowl. Roll up and wrap in cloth and cool on rack.

Sunshine Cake.

Four eggs separated, 1 cup granulated sugar, 4 tablespoons of cold water, 1 teaspoon lemon extract, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 cup sifted cake flour, ¾ teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt. Beat the yolks with a hand or electric beater until thick and light colored; gradually add sugar while continuing to beat until all is blended in. Combine the cold water, the lemon extract, and rind and add alternately, one-third at a time, with the flour to the egg and sugar mix. Beat whites with hand or electric beater until almost stiff, add baking powder and salt, and continue beating until stiff. Gently fold them into the yolk mixture until just mixed—not more. Pour into ungreased tube pan and bake at 350 degrees Fahr. for 50 to 55 minutes. Invert for 1 hour or until cold.

Angel Food.

One cup sifted cake flour, 1 cup sugar, 8 egg whites, ½ teaspoon of salt, ¾ teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 teaspoon vanilla or almond extract. Sift the flour and half the sugar together several times— at least three. Beat the whites with the salt until frothy. Add the cream of tartar and beat until the egg foam starts to peak. Fold in the other half of the sugar to form a meringue. Then fold in the flour-sugar mix gradually and carefully, and when the whole is partly blended add the vanilla. Only a gentle folding motion should be used, for stirring tends to release the air needed for leavening. A tube pan is best, ungreased, and oven temperature is 325 degrees Fahr. for about 1 hour. Invert to remove from pan until cold or until it drops.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

Dear Mary Moore: In 1930 we had to scratch for enough money to buy groceries, and I had to learn fast how to economize without sacrificing any nourishment. Of course now things are easier, but my family still remembers and asks for the Corn Chowder I am sending you today, simply because it tastes good. —A. Brousseau.

Corn Chowder.

One 2-inch square fat salt pork, 1 large onion sliced, 4 cups chopped potatoes, 2 cups boiling water, 1 can kernel corn (1½ cups), 3½ cups milk, 2 teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon paprika. Cut pork into ½" cubes, and brown well in large saucepan with the onion and saute both until tender and golden Add potatoes and water, cover, and cook until potatoes are tender. Add corn, milk and seasonings. Heat well, and serve very hot. Melba or oven toast, large green salad, and ginger bread make this a nice meal.

Thank you for a good, simple, workable suggestion for many families who need 2 hot meals per day. You likely have many other ideas conceived during your depression days that would be welcome in this space.

Lindsay Flier At Wedding

NEWCASTLE, England, Nov. 16 —(CP Cable).— Wing Cmdr. Harry Malkin, D.F.C. and Bar, of Verdun, Que., yesterday married Cpl. Joyce Richardson of Britain's Women's Auxiliary Air Force, the girl he involuntarily left waiting at the church last Saturday.

It was weather which caused the postponement of the wedding. On Saturday the bride stood before a crowded congregation in Newcastle cathedral while it was announced that Malkin, who flew from Canada for the ceremony, as grounded in Scotland. Later she received some 50 guests invited to the wedding reception, while the fuming bridegroom paced the floor miles away.

To-day's ceremony was held at the home of the bride's parents here, with Sqdn. Ldr. Harry Stinson, D.F.C., of Lindsay, Ont., as groomsman.

Malkin, who met his bride-to-be while completing two operational tours over here, now is chief flying instructor at an R.C.A.F. operational training unit in Canada, and the couple will return there shortly.

St. Mark's W.A. Observes 50th Anniversary

Representatives from St. John's, Anglican churches, as well as from Zion United Church, were present at the home of Mrs. John Collins Wednesday afternoon, when the Women's Auxiliary of St. Mark's Anglican Church, Otonabee, marked the fiftieth anniversary of its founding.

Rev. E. C. Moore, the rector, addressing the gathering, welcomed the members of the United Church who were present, and also representatives of the other W.A.'s, on behalf of St. Mark's. He said he was especially pleased to see St. Luke's represented, since it was closely associated with St. Mark's for many years, the late Rev. Mark Burnham, a rector of St. Luke's, being the founder of the W.A. of St. Mark's.

He said that the W.A. was one of the most important societies, and did not know how the mission church could function without these organizations. Congratulating the president, Mrs. G. W. Robinson, and members of the W.A., he assured them that all branch associations were working together, and would continue their support and encouragement in the future.

Mrs. Robinson, who also welcomed the guests, gave a short synopsis of the W.A., from its founding. She said that she was especially pleased and honored to have the original secretary of the group, Mrs. W. Thorn, now a member of All Saints' present at the anniversary.

Mrs. A. W. Turner deanery officer, brought greetings from the Anglican deanery, and congratulated the Auxiliary, expressing her pleasure at being able to take part in the anniversary. Mrs. G. S. Cameron of the Women's Axiliary of St. John's, brought congratulations on behalf of her church, as did Mrs. R. H. Parsons of St. Luke's, and Mrs. C. Rutherford of St. George's. Rev. Moore, in his concluding remarks, said that he regretted that St. Mark's was not closer to St. George's, so that members might see the work done during the past years, the renovation of the altar and so on, and expressed his hope that many more such gatherings would be enjoyed in the future.

Tea Served

Mrs. Collins' home is situated right on the bank of the Otonabee River. The house is over one hundred years old and this fact, coupled with the excellent view of the river, appealed particularly to everyone. Tea was served from a table, set with a lace cloth, and centred with a silver basket filled with yellow and bronze pom-poms, flanked by yellow and white tapers. Mrs. E. C. Moore and Mrs. G. W. Robinson poured tea, and members of St. Mark's W.A. assisted in serving. Also on the table was a large birthday cake.

The musical program consisted of a solo by Mrs. E. W. Cooper, "My Task," and two duets, "Softly and Tenderly," and "Now the Day Is Over" by Mrs. Cooper and Mrs. R. Pilling. Mrs. R. King was accompanist.

Representatives who attended the anniversary are as follows: Mesdames G. S. Cameron, W. Cruthers, A. W. Turner and Miss M. English of St. John's; Mesdames A. J. Arthur T. H. Floyd, D. Wyatt, R. H. Parsons, T. Moore, J. Mason, G. Maniece, M. Burnham, R. D. Starr and G. Trennum of St. Luke's; Mrs. W. Thorn of All Saints'; Mesdames S. Parks, Rutherford, J. Hamlin, W. Firth, R. Arnott, R. King, A. Henwood, E. C. Moore and H. Ferguson of St. George's. In addition to the representatives from Zion United Church, a great many friends and members of various churches were present to offer their congratulations.

The present membership of St. Mark's W.A. is 12 members, and they are Mesdames G. W. Robinson, F. Dixon, F. Greystock, J. Collins, F. Pickles, V. Dickson, H. Wilson, H. Collins, E. A. Greystock, A. Blodgett, R. W. Heafield, and Miss A. Greystock.

Five New Guides Join 6th Troop

Five new Girl Guides were enrolled in the 6th Jackson Park Girl Guide Troop at Dixon House Wednesday evening, before the commissioner, Miss Alicia Langley, who presented the badges. Those entering the Guides were: Misses Barbara Hall, Norma Hewitt, Helen Goodfellow, Elaine Humphreys and Katherine Flowers.

Miss Barbara Luther received a special badge for 300 hours of war service, and Miss Katherine Flowers received an armlet for six hours' service. The captain, Mrs. E. Buckton, and the lieutenant, Mrs. A. Whatley, assisted in the ceremony.

The following girls were recruited for the Brownies: Misses Dorothy Goodfellow, Donna Jackson, Lois Fredericks, Janet Windsor, Fay Atkins, Darlene Aboude, Ann Merrett, Barbara Hewitt, Isabella Pacey, Verna Hotts, Sylvia Harris and Gertrude Hewey. Mrs. E. Kennedy was the Brown Owl.

After the ceremony, the Guides, Brownies and their mothers enjoyed supper together, convened by Mrs. Humphreys and her committee. The commissioner, Miss Langley, briefly addressed the candidates, and thanked the mothers for their co-operation.

other's nerves and, before they realize it, what should have been a beautiful relationship is turned into a squalid cat fight.

And, worst of all, for the bride not to go into her own house deprives her not only of a joy she has looked forward to since she played with her dollhouse as a child, it takes away from her strong moral influences that mold her character. The young wife, proud of her new home, gloats over her pots and pans, interested in learning to cook and run a budget, is busy, happy, useful and contented. It is the young wives who live in other people's houses, who have nothing to do, who get idle and lazy and purposeless and flirtatious.

"Be it ever so humble, there is no place like home." Better for a young couple to go to housekeeping in a drygoods box than to live with their in-laws.

Scully Newlyweds Given Shower

DOWNEYVILLE, Nov. 16 (ENS)— More than 250 people gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Herlihey, the occasion being a shower for their daughter Velma (Mrs. Dennis Scully) who was recently married.

The house was decorated with streamers and white bells. At eleven o'clock the bride and groom were seated under an arch and an address was read by Mrs. Gerald O'Neill and the presentation of the gifts was made by Morgan O'Connell. A dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Herlihey and her assistants.

Home and School Association News

KING GEORGE

J. H. Moebus spoke to an interested group of parents and teachers on "Career Planning" as it is being used in secondary schools of Ontario, at the Education meeting of the King George Home and School Association, Tuesday evening.

Mr. Moebus told how information from Public school principals was kept on record for reference regarding pupils' problems, and how they formed a basis for further information. He said that records were kept on health, pastime hobbies, interests outside of school, personality, appearance, assurance, dependability, effort, emotional control, social ability and initiative, during secondary school years. He explained that careers were planned among pupil, teacher and parents by appointment during the school term. Concluding his remarks, the speaker said that lack of proper education was a millstone around the neck of a pupil competing for a job against a fully educated student.

Alderman R. Glover, introduced by Mrs. A. G. Stock, president, spoke about the new civic hospital, giving a full report of the information prepared for the public. He stressed the fact of the generous offers of Nicholls Hospital, city and Ontario trust funds and the utilities committee, saying that through these offers the hospital would cost the ratepayers less than one-half of the real price. Alderman Glover impressed upon his audience the importance of voting for the hospital bylaw if passing of the bill was to be assured.

A letter of thanks for the association's donation to the Memorial Community Centre was read, and a vote of thanks tendered to everyone who had assisted in making the recent tea and open school successful. A request from G. A. Gillespie to name representatives to the Health League of Canada was postponed to a later date, as was a discussion of the rules and laws regarding child and youth protection read by the president. Mrs. F. Watson read the report of the previous meeting, and Mrs. H. Hildenbrand gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. H. A. Mitchell, guest soloist, chose "Life's Lovely Things" for her first selection, and "Lullaby" as an encore. Mrs. A. E. DeNure was accompanist. F. E. Kerr, principal, gave a brief review of current events, outlining the progress of Allied armies throughout the world. The attendance book for the month was awarded to Mr. Kerr's class. Mrs. E. Ingall moved the vote of thanks to the speakers and those taking part in the program and the president closed the meeting by reminding the executive of the training school for leaders Monday evening a eight o'clock at the Y.W.C.A. Refreshments were served by Mrs. A. F. Abernathy and her assistants.

RALEIGH-LIKE GALLANTRY IN WAR—Spr. M. W. Jones, 35, of the British Army, exhibits some typical Raleigh-ish gallantry as he carries an Italian civilian across a rain-filled shell-hole near Cesena, Italy. Torrential downpours at the end of October made the battlefields of Northern Italy veritable seas of mud. But the British Eighth Army kept pressing forward.

Mission Holds Sale of Work

An excellent attendance of interested people, in spite of threatening weather, marked the Grenfell Mission afternoon tea and sale of work at the home of Mrs. W. R. Morris, Homewood avenue, Wednesday afternoon.

Receiving the guests were Mrs. S. D. Carver, president of the Peterborough branch of the Mission, and Mrs. W. R. Morris, the hostess. Tea was served from a graceful table set with a fine linen cloth from Java, centred with a basket of bronze 'mums. Mrs. G. R. Langley, Miss M. Rush and Miss M. R. Rannie poured tea during the afternoon. Assisting Mrs. D. T. Diplock, in charge of the tea room, were Mrs. D. Collins, Mrs. E. H. Howson and Mrs. M. Rowland.

In addition to the display of home cooking, Christmas cards and handicraft, two raffles were conducted. Mrs. D. V. Canning was the lucky winner of the draw for a rug, conducted by Miss M. Ross, and Mrs F. M. Somerville held the lucky ticket in the draw for a cake. Mrs. Somerville was treasurer for the afternoon.

Supervising the home cooking table were Miss A. Robinson and Mrs. C. H. LaBranche, while Mrs. D. V. Canning and Mrs. K. J. Currie were in charge of the sale of attractive Christmas cards. Miss Bessie Runnett and Miss Linden Hall were in charge of the handicraft table.

Births Marriages Deaths

In Memoriam Card of Thanks

BIRTH

SMITH—To Major and Mrs. Ralph L. Smith (nee Whipple Kelly), at Nicholls Hospital, on November 14th, 1944, the gift of a son.

ENGAGEMENT.

The engagement is announced of Mary Killen, daughter of Henry Killen and the late Mrs. Killen to Thomas Whibbs, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Whibbs. The marriage to take place November 28th, 1944.

DIED.

DEANNARD—Mary Deannard, 479 Donegal at St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, on Thursday morning, November 16th, 1944.
Remains are resting at her late residence. Mass for the repose of her soul will be offered at St. Peter's Cathedral on Saturday morning, November 18th at 10 o'clock. Interment St. Peter's Cemetery.

DRISCOLL, F. L.—On Tuesday, November 14th, 1944, at the residence, 487 Murray street, Frances Leo Driscoll, beloved husband of Marie Delaire and father of Mrs. James Morton, Mrs. William Cavanagh, Oswald, and Oscar (Bud) Driscoll.
Resting at the Nesbitt Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street. Funeral Friday, November 17th, at 8.45 a.m., to St. Peter's Cathedral for Requiem High Mass at 9 a.m. Interment St. Peter's Cemetery.

PRITCHARD, Mrs. John—On Tuesday, November 14th, 1944, at the residence, Leahy's Lane, Jessie Olley, beloved wife of John Pritchard and mother of John and Arthur Pritchard.
Funeral service on Friday, November 17th at 2.30 p.m., from the Nesbitt Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street. Interment Little Lake Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

HOUGHTON—In proud memory of our eldest son and brother, Arthur, who passed away in Christie Street Hospital, November 15th, 1942, from illness resulting from service overseas.
All you had hoped for, all you had, you gave
To save mankind — yourself, you scorned to save.
And "Teddy" aged 4 who passed away nine year ago,
"At the going down of the sun and in the morning we remember.
—Ever remembered by family and brother-in-law, George.

HOUGHTON, Arthur — In loving memory of Arthur Houghton, H.P.E. Reg't., who made the supreme sacrifice Nov. 15th, 1942.
There is a link death cannot sever
Love and remembrance last forever.
—Ever remembered by Uncle Wally, Aunt Ruby and family.

GATFIELD—In ever loving memory of our dad, William John Gatfield, who left us three years ago, today.
He was a wonderful dad.
He played life's battle square,
No matter when we needed him
We always found him there.
So on this day our hearts go out
To the dearest and best of fathers,
Who never had time to think of himself
But always thought of others.
—Sadly missed by his children.

ARMSTRONG—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Margaret Armstrong, who passed away, Nov. 16th, 1943.
It's lonesome here without you,
There is such a vacant space,
For we never hear your footstep
Or see your smiling face.
As Angels keep their watch up there,
Please, God, just let her know
That we down here do not forget,
We love and miss her so.
—Sadly missed by husband and daughter.

IN MEMORIAM

STURGEON—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Charles Sturgeon, who passed away Nov. 16th, 1938.
"In memory a daily thought,
In heart a silent sorrow."
—Ever remembered by his loving wife, daughters Peggy, Irene, Agnes and son Ted.

CARD OF THANKS

Sisters and brothers of Mrs. Moses Ruth, wish to thank Rev. and Mrs. Patterson, friends and neighbours for flowers and kindness shown them during their recent sad bereavement.

NOTICE

OF QUESTION TO BE SUBMITTED TO THE VOTE OF THE MUNICIPAL ELECTORS AT THE NEXT ANNUAL ELECTION.

The Council of the City of Peterborough by By-laws passed on November 3rd, 1944, is submitting to the Vote of the Electors, qualified to vote on money By-laws, a question.

To secure an expression of the Electors' approval or disapproval the Council provides that:—

By By-law 4404 the following question shall be submitted — "Are you in favour of diverting $300,000.00 from the surplus moneys in the sinking funds of the Peterborough City Trust to assist in financing the construction of a General Civic Hospital?"

The Votes of the Electors, qualified to vote on money By-laws, will be taken on this question at the same polls and during the same hours for voting as the Voting for Election for Council on December 4th, 1944.

On the First day of December, 1944, at Three o'clock in the Afternoon, the Mayor or some member of the Council, appointed for that purpose by resolution, shall attend at the City Hall for the purpose of appointing two persons to attend at the final summing up of the votes by the Clerk, and one person to attend at each polling place on behalf of the persons interested in voting in the affirmative on the said question and a like number on behalf of the persons interested in voting in the negative on the question.

On the Fifth day of December, 1944, at the Hour of Eleven o'clock in the Forenoon at the City Hall, Peterborough, the Clerk shall attend and sum up the votes given in the affirmative and negative on the said question.

A Tenant who desires to vote must deliver to the Clerk, not later than the Tenth day before the day appointed for taking the vote the declaration provided for by Sub-Section 3 of Section 283 of the Municipal Act.

Dated at Peterborough, this 9th day of November, 1944.

I certify that this is a true statement of the question to be submitted.

E. A. OUTRAM,
City Clerk.

NOTICE

NOTICE

AND SYNOPSIS OF TWO SEPARATE PROPOSED MONEY BY-LAWS TO BE SUBMITTED TO VOTE OF THE RATEPAYERS AT THE NEXT ANNUAL ELECTION.

THE MUNICIPAL COUNCIL of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough proposes to pass two separate money By-laws. These By-laws are:

(1) Number 4401 entitled "A By-law to Authorize the Issue of Debentures for $75,000.00 for granting aid to the Peterborough Memorial Community Centre."

(2) Number 4403 entitled "A By-law Authorizing the Borrowing of $600,000.00 upon Debentures for the Peterborough General Civic Hospital and Nurses' Residence."

THE PURPOSE OF BY-LAW 4401 is to authorize the issuing of Debentures for Borrowing the sum of $75,000.00 for the purpose of aiding the Peterborough Memorial Community Centre. This By-law recites that:

(a) The Peterborough Memorial Community Centre is a charitable organization for the purposes of organizing activities for the promotion of the health, social welfare and recreation of the citizens.

(b) The said Peterborough Memorial Community Centre has requested the Council of the said Corporation to grant financial aid to the sum of $75,000.00 to help in constructing the first unit of the Centre.

(c) The $75,000.00 will be raised by the sale of debentures, the said debentures to be repayable on the Instalment Plan during the period of ten years and bearing interest at the rate of three per cent per annum. The amount to be raised annually for payment of the instalments and interest will be approximately $9,000.00.

(d) This By-law shall not come into force until it has received the assent of the Electors entitled to vote on money By-laws and is validated by special Act of the Legislature for Ontario.

(e) No debentures shall be issued or sold until the City Treasurer shall certify to the Council of the City Corporation that the sum of $175,000.00 has been raised by Public Subscription for the purposes of the said Peterborough Memorial Community Centre.

THE PURPOSE OF BY-LAW 4403 is to authorize the issuing of Debentures for Borrowing the sum of $600,000.00 for the purpose of the Peterborough General Civic Hospital and Nurses' Residence, said Debentures to be repayable on the Instalment Plan during the period of twenty years and bearing interest at the rate of three per cent per annum. The amount to be raised annually for the payment of the instalments and interest will be approximately $40,000.00.

TAKE NOTICE, that the foregoing is a Synopsis of the two proposed By-laws of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough to be submitted to the votes of the Electors qualified to vote thereon, at the time of the Municipal Elections on the Fourth day of December, 1944, and at the same polling places and at the same hours at which voting will take place for the Candidates for Election to the Council of the City of Peterborough.

AND THAT the First day of December, 1944, at the Hour of Three o'clock in the afternoon, at the City Hall, has been fixed for the appointment of persons favouring or opposing the passing of either one of the By-laws to attend at the Polling Places. On the Fifth day of December, 1944, at the Hour of Eleven o'clock in the forenoon at the City Hall, the Clerk shall sum up the votes for and against the proposed By-laws.

AND TAKE NOTICE FURTHER that a Tenant qualified to vote under Section 283, Sub-Section 3 of the Municipal Act must deliver to the Clerk, not later than the Tenth day before the day appointed for taking the Vote the Declaration provided for by the said Sub-Section.

IF THE ASSENT OF THE ELECTORS is obtained for either or both of the said proposed By-laws this will be taken into consideration by the Municipal Council of the said Corporation at a meeting thereof to be held after the expiration of one month from the date of the first publication of this Notice, and that such first publication was made on the 9th day of November, 1944.

Dated at Peterborough, this 9th Day of November, 1944.

I certify that this is a true synopsis of the two By-laws.

E. A. OUTRAM,
City Clerk.

Hornets Suffer 4th Straight Loss

By The Canadian Press

Pittsburgh Hornets suffered their four straight set back last night at Buffalo when the Bisons, paced by blond Doug Lewis, scored a 5-3 victory over the American Hockey League western division leaders. The victory for Buffalo forced a two-team deadlock atop the eastern division of the league, both Buffalo and Hershey Bears having 13 points.

Lewis, back in hockey after a year in the Royal Canadian Navy, scored once in the second period and twice in the third. George Pargeter and Eddie Emerton scored the other Buffalo goals while Bob Walton counted twice for Pittsburgh with Max Kaminsky scoring the third counter. Halderson provided three assists for Buffalo.

Military Chiefs Confer With McNaughton

OTTAWA, Nov. 16 — (CP). — General officers commanding the Pacific and Atlantic commands and officers commanding all military districts and commands in Canada conferred here Tuesday on army matters, especially in respect "to provision of reinforcements for overseas," Defence Minister McNaughton announced last night.

"The purpose of the conference was to obtain from these commanders the latest views and to get the best picture of the situation generally in respect to the provision of reinforcements for overseas," he said. "Valuable information has been obtained and is being analyzed and studied. The results are a definite step forward towards the clarification of the situation.

"A careful review was made of home establishments with a view to the disbandment of those no longer required for training or for home defence in the light of the progress of the war.

"Progress in voluntary enlistments for the army from the public and from N.R.M.A. was considered and the special difficulties in respect to the latter were under review.

"The conference now is concluded and the commanders are enroute to their respective commands."

The announcement did not elaborate, but it was understood that the commanders were directed by Gen. McNaughton to tackle recruiting of home defence troops with urgency and with understanding. Reliable sources said the General outlined his recruiting plans and incorporated suggestions from the officers and stressed the need for "immediate action."

It was learned some of the officers expressed optimism about recruiting possibilities and others, after expressing the view the voluntary system had been "milked dry", offering to try Gen. McNaughton's announced principle that "you cannot drive men of spirit, but you can encourage and lead them."

OBITUARIES

DAVID B. McGARVEY

MARMORA, Nov. 16 (ENS) — David Belford McGarvey died at his home in Marmora village at 1.45 a.m. Wednesday. He had been in poor health for the past three years and some months ago underwent an operation Stricken with pneumonia recently, he failed to rally.

The late Mr. McGarvey was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Matthew James McGarvey and was born in Marmora township on February 13, 1863. His parents came to this country from Ireland, his father being the first settler in what later became known as Shanick.

The early years of David McGarvey were spent in the shanties. He worked in turn for the Gilmour, the Rathburn and the Peace Companies. He contracted for the Rathburn Company and was foreman for the Peace Company. In 1913, while working for the latter company, he sustained an injury to his right leg, during a jam which occurred on the drive, and although this left him crippled he got around almost as smartly as those with uninjured limbs. He loved to converse with former work mates on his experiences, and the stories relating to lumbering in those early days. He was an expert at log rolling and it was his pride to relate how on a visit to Michigan he defeated the champion log roller of the United States in a contest. He was one of the best singers of shanty songs this district ever knew. In addition to his fondness for music, he was also a good reader and he enjoyed a good argument. Passing away as he has in the midst of the hunting season recalls the many hunts he had participated in with other members of the McGarvey family, who have always been renowned for their prowess with the gun. He was one of the best marksmen and he had a good repertoire of hunting stories in which the bear as well as the deer were featured. Following his career as a lumberman, he took up carpentry, and had worked on the Trent Canal and also for the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Limited in that capacity for several years.

He was married to Mary Ann Reid, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Reid of Marmora, who predeceased him in August, 1923. He was a member of St. Paul's Anglican church and was a charter member of the now dormant Marmora L.T.B. Lodge No. 177, which he was largely instrumental in organizing.

He is survived by five children, all resident in Marmora, namely Matthew and Hilliard; Mrs. James Nobes, Mrs. William Smith and Mrs. Alex Niblett. He is further survived by one sister, Mrs. Allan McGarvey, also of Marmora, and sixteen grandchildren.

The funeral will be held Friday, leaving his late residence for service at St. Paul's church at 2 p.m., with Rev. J. M. Brownlie officiating. Interment will be made in the family plot in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

MRS. INGOL GRANT

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 16 — (ENS). —The funeral of Verna May Payne, beloved wife of Ingol Grant, 71 Hopedale avenue, Toronto, took place in Toronto on Monday.

Mrs. Grant, the daughter of Mrs. Fred Kendall, Lakefield, and the late R. P. Payne, was well-known in this district having been born in Dummer 36 years ago. She attended school in Dummer and Lakefield, and later worked in the Post Office for five and a half years.

Following her marriage she resided in Toronto.

Apparently in the best of health Friday morning, Mrs. Grant took suddenly ill after her husband left for work and died in Toronto East General in the early afternoon.

Besides her husband she is survived by three children Doreen 13, Evaline 11, and Charles 8, her mother and step-father, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kendall, Lakefield, two brothers Hanlan Payne of Peterborough, Vivian Payne of Lakefield, one sister Mrs. H. Langridge of Port Hope, and a half brother A. B. Joe Kendall in the navy.

The funeral was held at her late residence with interment at St. John's Cemetery, Norway.

The casket bearers were: Hanlan Payne, Vivian Payne, H. Langridge, Lewis Grant, Aubrey Grant and Fred Toy.

MRS. FRANCIS D. McCARTHY

The death occurred suddenly on Sunday of Mary Jane (Minnie) beloved wife of Francis D. McCarthy of South Bend, Ind. and daughter of Patrick Kennaley, of Toronto, and teh late Mrs. Kennaley, formerly of Peterborough, in St. Joseph's Hospital, South Bend, after an illness lasting five months.

Beside her husband and father, he is survived by three sisters, Mrs. William H. Bishop and Mr. J. E. Huntley of Toronto, and Mrs. L. N. Babcock of Woodstock. There is also one brother, William Kennaley.

The funeral was held Wednesday from the home of her sister, Mrs. W. H. Bishop, 464 Willard avenue, Toronto, to St. James Church at 9 o'clock. Interment took place in St. Peter's Cemetery, Peterborough.

Brutal Murder Shocks Californians

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16—(AP).—A husky, 31-year-old waiter was held incommunicado today after confessing police said, one of the most fiendish crimes on record here—the mutilation-slaying of two nude women in separate downtown hotels.

Drinking wine at a nearby bar, Otto Steve Wilson was handcuffed last night by a patrolman shortly after the suspect's description had been broadcast.

The first victim was Virgie Lee Griffin, 25, wife of a truck driver. A hotel maid found her lying disembowled in a closet. The torso had been slit from neck to abdomen, the right leg severed at the hip and knee, the right shoulder hacked through. Bits of flesh, cut from other parts of the body, littered the blood-soaked carpet. A butcher knife with a nine-inch blade lay nearby. Razor blades were scattered on the floor.

Police Detective Lieut. R. F. McGarry quoted Wilson as saying he killed her "because she wanted more money."

Detective Lieut. Harry Hansen called it "the most fiendish crime in my 19 years of experience here. It is worse than the Winnie Ruth Judd case."

Mrs. Judd is serving a life sentence for slaying Mrs. Agnes Le Roi and Hedvig Samuelson, her roommate in Phoenix, Ariz., and sending the dismembered bodies in a trunk to Los Angeles in 1931.

As a screaming hotel maid set off an intensive city-wide police search yesterday, the second victim was dying in another hostelry a few blocks away.

Husband Overseas

She was Mrs. Lillian Johnson, about 38, wife of a merchant seaman now reported in the South Pacific. Found stretched on a bed, she had been slashed from the breasts to the pelvic region.

Lieut. McGarry said Wilson related he hit her, then slashed her with a razor "for some reason—just pure cussedness, I guess."

Both the operator of the first hotel and a bellboy at the second had identified Wilson as the companion, first of Mrs. Griffith and later of Mrs. Johnson, in registering at the two hotels.

Wilson was booked on suspicion of murder. At first he sullenly maintained his innocence despite bloodstains on his hands and shoes. In his pocket, police said they found a razor. They discovered scratches on his back as though made by a woman's fingernails in a frantic death struggle.

Then crime technicians began combing the six-foot, blond-haired suspect's moustache for blood particles and Wilson, disclosing he had worked as a pharmacist and had studied chemistry, exclaimed:

"That's it! You'll find that when you mix those particles with a certain amount of water that the hemoglobin of the blood can be determined and compared."

Truck From Hastings Plunges Into Ditch

NORWOOD, Nov. 16—(ENS)— A light truck driven by Mr. Petersol of Hastings, turned on its side in a ditch in front of Roy Nevins' home on Tuesday evening.

When the lights went out on the truck Mr. Petersol reached down to try to turn the switch on and the truck ran off the road. The Nevins family and the neighbours helped to haul out the truck. Mr. Petersol suffered from shock but was not seriously hurt.

Commando Raid

ROME, Nov. 16 — (CP). — Allied Commandos supported by British naval craft landed on Milos at the south-west corner of the Cyclades Archipelago in the Aegean on Tuesday, and inflicted casualties on the enemy garrison there, a communique said to-day.

The Commandos were withdrawn after they had taken prisoners.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

GO TO BED WITH AN ACE

IT WOULD seem an axiom that against a suit contract a defender with an ace should play it on the first round of its suit if the declarer or dummy has a singleton in the suit. Failure to play it then would seem to doom you to "going to bed with the ace" and failing to take a trick with it. But it is important sometimes to forget that one trick and be willing to get no trick with the ace if thereby you can block the run of an entire suit.

North: ♠ K Q 10 8 5 3 ♥ K 9 ♦ Q 8 4 ♣ K 3

South: ♠ 2 ♥ A Q J 10 7 6 4 ♦ A 7 3 ♣ 7 5

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

West led the club J to the K and A. East scored the Q also, then switched to the heart 3, which South took with the A. When South now led the spade 2, West decided that this was probably a singleton and that he would get no trick with his A unless he used it right then, so he did. He fired back the diamond J, the Q, K and A playing, and then the heart 4 was led to the K. The spade K and Q cleared that suit then and enabled South to discard his two diamond losers, making his contract.

Notice what a tough problem West could have given South if he had played his spade 9 instead of his A on the lead of the spade 2. If South had then made the normal play of the K or Q from dummy, he would have been set. That suit could never have been set up, as its lead from the dummy would be into the jaws of West's A-J tenace. If, after West played the 9, South had used the 10 from dummy, then he could have set up the suit. But that would not be a sure-thing play, whereas putting the A on the spade lead made it certain South could establish the suit, no matter what he did.

Tomorrow's Problem.

North: ♠ K 8 4 ♥ A 7 3 ♦ K 7 5 ♣ 7 6 4 2

West: ♠ 6 5 3 2 ♥ 10 9 5 4 ♦ J 10 4 ♣ K Q

South: ♠ A 9 7 ♥ K 6 2 ♦ A 8 2 ♣ A J 9 8

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

After West leads the heart 4 against 3-No Trumps, what logic could cause South to lose a finesse of the club 9 to the Q and then later drop the K with the A?

Members Must Decide Army Question

By R. K. CARNEGIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Nov. 16 — (CP) — The House of Commons will reassemble Nov. 22 with one big job before members — deciding whether the voluntary method of supplying reinforcements overseas should be continued or whether compulsion should be introduced.

The cabinet met for 2½ hours yesterday afternoon, but no statement was forthcoming at the close.

Evidently the cabinet has not yet worked out the procedure to be followed when Speaker J. A. Glen opens the first sitting. One minister, however, said: "I can see no other procedure than for the government to state its position and ask for a vote of confidence."

Others, agreeing a vote of confidence would come eventually, suggested that unless some unexpected developments intervened, the proceedings would start with a "ministerial statement." They said Prime Minister Mackenzie King would place before members the government's view on voluntary service and compulsion and give a detailed account of events which led to the resignation of Col. J. L. Ralston as Defence Minister and the appointment of Gen. McNaughton as his successor.

Expect Debate

Mr. King would then suggest a full debate on his statement with all members, whether in the cabinet or private members, free to express their views. One authority said such procedure would be within parliamentary rules.

Should the debate or a roll-call vote show a majority for sending the home defence army overseas at once, then, according to some sources, the government would have three recourses — carry out the will of Commons, dissolve parliament or resign and make way for the formation of a new government.

As one observer put it: "Anything might happen."

Meanwhile, members of parliament are getting anxious as to where they will live while in overcrowded Ottawa. A stream of telegrams poured into local hotels yesterday asking for reservations.

Red Cross Sends Eight Parcels

HASTINGS, Nov. 16—(ENS)—The regular meeting of the Cobourg Road Red Cross met at the home of Mrs. Arthur Beamish. There were fourteen members present, and the president, Miss Clara Williamson, presided. They quilted two quilts, and four quilts completed were handed in, making a total of 56 quilts from their group.

Mrs. Arthur Beamish and Mrs. Cecil Oliver are responsible for the filling of a ditty bag for the members. A child's coat was handed in completed, and the sewing convener distributed pyjamas to be made during the month of November. They donated $3 towards personal property bags. The Christmas parcels have been sent, the cake being made by Mrs. Benjamin Gibson, Mrs. V. Keogan and Mrs. Ethel Lamey. The latter also made candy. Mrs. James Dickey donated $2 towards the postage of eight Christmas parcels sent. The members also sent a $1 package of gum to each of the boys for this month.

The travelling apron was opened and $20.75 was realized.

The main item of business centred around the planning of a progressive euchre party to be held Monday evening, November 27 in the Hastings town hall. The committee in charge are Mrs. G. Dickey, Mrs. Lamey, Mrs. H. Porter, Mrs. V. Oliver and Donna Beamish.

The December meeting will take the form of a pot luck dinner at the home of Miss Clara Williamson on December 5.

Canadian Skippers Of Two M.T.B's Shoot Up Entire Nazi Garrison

By SUB-LT. SCOTT YOUNG.

WITH CANADIANS IN THE ADRIATIC COASTAL FORCES, Nov. 16 — (CP). — One night, sitting in the wardroom of a motor torpedo boat while it lay at a jetty against a tiny Yugoslay island, a British officer then on a mission to Marshal Tito's Partisans nudged me, cocked a finger across the wardroom at Cam MacLachlan, and whispered: "What a cut-throat."

It is one of the strange contradictions of war that Lieut. Cam MacLachlan of Toronto, a man gentle in speech and manner, does look exactly the part of a pirate.

It suits him, though, because since early in a naval career that started in 1940 with his enlistment from his Toronto home and job, he has been in British coastal forces—men in small boats who come closer to filling the original function of the ancient buccaneer than any other part of the Navy.

On the Yugoslav islands, even the Partisans—among the toughest soldiers in this world—would turn to look at the hard, square face and great black beard. Perhaps to an opposing forward the effect even without the beard was the same when he was playing defence for University of Toronto hockey team seven or eight years ago. Certainly now, as skipper of an M.T.B. in the famous 56th Flotilla — Royal Navy boats commanded by Canadian Navy officers — performance justifies his appearance.

Two Boats Sent Out.

Once, off Subjet Island, about four miles from the German-held port of Split, the Germans were fighting a hard but losing battle against the Partisans, and two boats — one Cam's and the other commanded by Lieut. A. S. Rendell of Vancouver—han been sent out to patrol off the island in case the Germans tried to evacuate.

We threaded our way into the harbor at low speed, straining our eyes to see the ships we knew were there. But we didn't see them until Cam's boat shattered the night with fire from every gun, his followed closely by ours, and we saw there were three ships.

All three opened sporadic, and wild fire on us and there also was some shooting from the shore, but one ship went to the bottom on the first run, at least we never saw it again after direct hits were observed.) We went out of the harbor, reloaded, then back in again and that time the other two ships blew up with tremendous explosions There were many Germans in the water around us, but as we made four more runs on the harbor shooting up buildings and any other target we could find on shore, we didn't pick up any.

The following day we learned that on those three ships had been the entire garrison of the island, just preparing to evacuate, and that 150 bodies had been found floating in the water and others on the shore. The Germans had suffered about 75 per cent losses.

Missionary Tells Of Work In China

MARMORA, Nov. 16 — (ENS) — An illustrated address on the political and social conditions and missionary work in his section of the United church mission field in West China was delivered by Rev. J. F. Reid in St. Paul's Parish Hall Tuesday evening.

Rev. E. M. Cadigan introduced the speaker, mentioning that as a boy he had lived in the Lindsay district and that over twenty years of his life had been spent in Keating, West China, a stronghold of Buddhism.

In his introductory remarks Rev. J. F. Reid said that people whom he had met on his return to Canada, had suggested that the work had been done in China but he would assert that the work was not done. There are millions yet in China who have not been reached by the Gospel. He knew of only one agency that could win the peace of the world and that is the universal church. The final basis of peace is that people get back to righteousness and accept their place in a Christian brotherhood with a goodwill not merely of lip but mainly of heart and practice.

He referred to the difficulty of living in China to-day through the inflation. Only about one-fourth of the staff in the mission field in which he has labored are left to carry on the work with the needs greater than ever. After the war, he said, there would be need of young missionaries to volunteer to help with the post-war problems of the country. A collection was taken for the Missionary and Maintenance Fund and the defrayment of expenses.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. E. M. Cadigan.

WING COMMANDER'S SON

CAMBRIDGE, England — (CP). — A son has been born to the wife of Wing Cmdr. E. Bentley Beauman, who in 1943 made the first crossing of the Canadian Coast Range on skis.

WINS COMMISSION—Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Cutmore, Burnham street, that their son, Dean Cutmore, who has completed his tour of operations with the Tiger Squadron overseas, has been made a Pilot Officer. His father is a captain in the Prince of Wales (RF).

Air Delegates In Deadlock

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

CHICAGO, Nov. 16 — (CP). — An all-night job of drafting failed to yield a clear break in the deadlock at the international civil aviation conference yesterday, but some of the broad lines of agreement between the three principal parties have been laid out.

The deadlock is over the degree of power to be given an international aviation body with the United Kingdom and Canada contending for ample power and the United States for restricted power.

On Tuesday night an official conference spokesman reported "material progress" had been made.

The line the agreement will take if one is reached is not clear, but it is likely to involve substantial concessions at least in form to the United States point of view.

The effort now is to hammer the separate Canadian, American, and British proposals into a joint document which will be recommended to the conference.

21-FOOT TIDES

LLANFAIRFECHAN, Wales — (CP). — A 21-foot tide driven by a northwesterly gale pounded the North Wales coast early this month. Waves 30 to 40 feet high broke over the promenades of resorts between Rhyl and Llanfairfechan and caused much damage, the worst at Towyn where a gap nearly 30 feet wide was made in the stone and concrete embankment.

Music Society Asks Radio For More Money

OTTAWA, Nov. 16 (CP)—Increased rates for the use of copyright music by radio stations is asked by the Canadian Performing Rights Society in a schedule filed with State Secretary McLarty and published in the Canada Gazette.

Broadcast Music Incorporated, Canada, Ltd., in its schedule expresses readiness to stand by the 1944 rates, but says if there is to be a change it applies for one quarter of the total amount paid by radio stations. The American Performing Rights Society, which first entered the Canadian field last year, asked for increased rates.

Radio stations and other interested parties have until Dec. 9 to file objections. Hearings will then be arranged by the Copyright Board

The Canadian Performing Rights Society asks for a total of $247,926 from radio stations, which amounts to 14 cents a licensed receiving set. This compares with $138,310 authorized last year on the basis of eight cents a set.

Matches In Mail To Be Discouraged

OTTAWA, Nov. 16—(CP)—As part of the campaign to discourage the sending of matches in mail to forces overseas, notices are being inserted in army newspapers overseas advising servicemen not to ask for matches, defence headquarters said today.

The notices say that several mail fires have already destroyed large quantities of overseas letters and parcels and describe steps being taken to prosecute senders who include matches in their overseas parcels.

R. G. Baker Addresses Golden Rule Lodge

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 16 — (ENS).—One of the largest gatherings for years greeted Rt. Worshipful R. G. Baker of Norwood, on his official visit to Golden Rule Lodge here Monday evening.

Speaking on 'Friendship' at the dinner following the work in the lodge room, Mr. Baker stressed the need to-day of approaching all our problems in a spirit of kindness. While his brother was a prisoner of war in Germany, he emphasized the Masonic principles of brotherly love, relief and truth as being the only solution for the problems facing the world of to-day and to-morrow. W. A. Goodfellow, M.P.P. and Rt. Worshipful Mr. Little of Prince Edward district also spoke.

THE fight against V.D. is a family affair . . .

A laughing couple, dodging showers of rice . . . fireside . . . garden . . . chubby babies . . .

These are scenes we know and like, because they're part of our lives . . . because they spell happiness . . . contentment.

But we know that these things don't "just happen." They have to be worked for, lived for. Protected, too, because of ever-present dangers which may spoil them.

Venereal Disease is a spoiler. In a cold, relentless way it can kill infants, rob the home of its breadwinner, cripple, destroy. These are not mere possibilities. THEY HAPPEN . . . RIGHT HERE IN CANADA!

But, these things should never happen. They can be prevented.

Young men and women can safeguard their future happiness together by making sure before marriage that V.D. will not blight their plans. A medical examination, including a blood test for syphilis, is a protection no couple can afford to pass up.

The expectant mother, too, may know for sure that her baby will be all she dreamed of. Syphilis in the expectant mother rarely shows outward signs, and it is no respecter of persons. An early check-up by her doctor, including a blood test, is a most essential, yet simple, first step in protecting her baby's health.

Nor must the breadwinner neglect his part. The security of the home depends upon his ability to work regularly and efficiently. Unsuspected syphilis, striking in middle life, may make the head of the home unable to provide for his family. It is wise to KNOW FOR SURE in time. Industrial medical examinations should include a routine confidential blood test.

A blood test should not be looked upon as something unusual. It should be regarded for what it is . . . a normal safeguard of health, security and happiness.

Invest a few minutes of your time in ASSURANCE.

Allies Protest Jap Cruelty

LONDON, Nov. 17—(CP).—The Japanese saved their own nationals from a sinking transport off Singapore last September but left 1,300 British and Australian prisoners of war to die in the sea, War Secretary Sir James Grigg told the House of Commons today. American submarine crews which torpedoed the transport risked their lives to save the prisoners, but a majority were drowned, he reported. One hundred and fifty survivors have arrived in England.

"Thanks to the Americans nearly all the rescued men are recovering from their terrible experience," said Sir James.

The prisoners were the survivors of a Japanese railroad building project in Siam and Burma where disease and living conditions were reportedly "terrible" and at least one in five died.

"We have asked the protecting power (Switzerland) to make the strongest possible protest," the war secretary stated. "It is necessary that the Japanese should know that we know how they have been behaving and that we intend to hold them responsible."

Sir James said his statement was taken from a first-hand account made by survivors now in Britain.

Sir James said his reference to conditions in Siam and Burma did not apply to Hong Kong, Formosa, occupied China, Korea or Japan where conditions were believed relatively tolerable, nor did these

3,500 Planes Pace Allied Push Prisoners Taken Dazed By Bombs

By HENRY B. JAMESON—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 17—(AP).—More than 3,500 planes, the greatest air fleet ever to go into a single action in direct support of an army, blasted the gateway to the Rhine for five hours yesterday in an earth shaking curtain-raiser to Gen. Eisenhower's new winter offensive. German Westwall troops and defences in front of three Allied armies were bombarded with more than 13,000 tons of bombs and field dispatches reported that before nightfall hundreds of stupefied prisoners had been taken.

While the weather was not altogether favorable, the bombing was described as more effective and better concentrated in places than at either Caen or St. Lo where similar "carpet bombing" attacks touched off spectacular land offensives.

Approximately 2,400 heavy bombers, in two separate mass attacks, laid more than 11,000 tons of fragmentary and anti-personnel bombs into an L-shaped area 15 miles long and 10 miles deep northeast of Aachen.

More oil was poured on the fire by hundreds of medium and fighter bombers that buzzed in and out over the battlelines.

Together they hammered a huge arc around the Geilenkirchen sector, plastering at least 12 German towns, miles of highways along

Aussies Shocked By Sea Tragedy

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 18 (CP Cable)—Shocked almost more than at any time in the war, Australians learned today that the Japanese left 1,300 prisoners—700 Australians and 600 Britons—crammed in the hot hold of a Japanese ship to die after the craft was torpedoed by an American submarine in the Western Pacific last Sept. 12.

They learned the details from the London announcement of Sir James Rigg, Secretary of State for War, and a statement in the House of Representatives at Canberra by Francis Forde, army minister and acting prime minister.

Mr. Forde said only 92 Australian and 60 Britons were rescued by American submarines and that 91 of the Australians had reached home.

(The survivor figure given by Sir James Grigg was 150.)

One Japanese destroyer put out rescue boats to pick up the Japanese survivors but the Japanese refused to rescue any of the Allied prisoners, Mr. Forde said.

Instead, the Japanese waved derisively at them. The prisoners replied by singing "Rule Britannia."

Belgians Clamor For A Change

BRUSSELS, Nov. 17 — (AP). — Deputy Premier Henri Fayat told newspapermen to-day that if any major difficulty should arise in the Belgian governmental affairs the Allied Supreme Commander, Gen. Eisenhower, "would take over because we are in the line of military communications."

Dissident groups have assailed government of Premier Hubert Pierlot. Marchers shouted "Resign" in front of the premier's home.

The atmosphere remained tense in Brussels with little more than 24 hours to go before the expiration of the government's deadline for the surrender of weapons held by various Belgian resistance groups, estimated officially to have approximately 40,000 members.

Probe Taxation Of Co-ops

Tax On Annuities To Also Be Reviewed

OTTAWA, Nov. 17—(CP).—Two commissions have been appointed to inquire into the tax position of co-operative enterprises and the taxation of annuities and similar kinds of payment.

The commissions, formation of which was announced last night by Finance Minister Ilsley, will report later to the Government on any modification of the tax burden thought necessary.

The Co-operative Enterprises Commission will be headed by Mr. Justice Errol McDougall of Montreal, Justice of the Quebec Court of King's Bench, and will investigate the present position of co-operatives, and that of their competitors, under the Income War Tax Act and the Excess Profits Tax.

With William C. Ives, retired Chief Justice of the trial division of the Alberta Supreme Court, as chairman, the Annuities Commission will inquire into taxation of annuities, annual or periodic payments received under provision of any contract, will or trust and payments arising from pensions, superannuation, insurance, endowment or other savings contract.

It will also look into the burden of the combined effort of income tax and succession duty arising in the case of the death of a shareholder owning a substantial proportion of the shares of a private or closely-held corporation which has accumulated an earned surplus.

Fierce Fight Rages Near Limon

Ormoc Valley Town Under Fire In American Push

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press War Correspondent

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Nov. 17—(AP)—Stubbornly defeated Limon, key to the Ormoc Road, was within grasp of United States troops today as they took virtual control of dominating Break-Neck Ridge.

Fred Hampson, Associated Press war correspondent, reported American units coming down the slopes of Break-Neck Ridge from the west had advanced to within 1,000 yards of the Ormoc valley village.

Other American units on the east were held up by Japanese strongly entrenched in ravines and gullies.

Another 24th Division force is behind the Japanese on the Ormoc Road, 2 miles south of Limon, but has not been able to cut the road entirely because of heavy Japanese concentrations on a hillside commanding the highway. The Japanese have not been able to use the road either, because the Americans are keeping it under continual mortar and machine gun fire.

With American long-range artillery hammering the 26-mile corridor which remains to the Japanese, and American air fighters ranging the skies overhead, enemy dead mounted steadily. Rains were slowing the action.

A Japanese sniper bullet wounded Brig.-Gen. Claudius M. Easley, Assistant Commander of the 96th Division.

Gen. MacArthur announced complete occupation of tiny Pegun Island in the Mapia group just northwest of New Guinea, thus eliminating Japanese aerial watchers able to observe operations on the American bombing route to the Philippines. Bras Island, also in the Mapia group, is being mopped up, MacArthur said.

American fighter planes, bombing and strafing the Ormoc Japanese supply area, sank 30 barges.

Elements of the 24th U.S. Infantry Division were holding the front of the Limon Salient, and closing in west and south of the Japanese spearhead. Elements of the 1st Cavalry (Dismounted) were closing in from the east.

Danes Carry On

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 17 — (AP).—Three German ships under construction at a Copenhagen shipyard have been blown up by Danish patriots, the Free Danish Press Service said yesterday. The agency also said a "Van Kuckwitz," in charge of German ship production in Denmark, has been court-martialed because the shipbuilding program is 10 months behind schedule.

Huns Blow Up Italian Canal; 8th Makes Gains

ROME, Nov. 17.—(CP).— German forces in the Adriatic coastal sector of Italy have blown up the banks of the Filumi Uniti canal and caused further flood waters to sweep over the terrain of Ravenna, today's Allied communique said.

British 8th Army troops again improved their forward position to the north and west of fallen Forli. Farther west Polish units of the 8th have taken the village of Converselle, northwest of Castrocaro and come into contact with strong enemy positions on Monte Castellaccio.

British troops yesterday were reported within five miles of Faenza in the region of San Martini di Vallafranca, north of the Bologna-Rimini road, while to the south they captured the town of Petrignone.

British and Indian troops of the Allied 5th Army occupied Modigliana, important road junction nine miles south of the Bologna-Rimini highway of Faenda, in the wake of a surprise German withdrawal after a week-long vigorous defence.

Several previous Allied assaults on the town had been thrown back by desperately-fighting Germans.

When British and Indian troops moved in yesterday they found the Germans had left the town thoroughly mined and booby-trapped.

Six miles north of captured Forli, 8th Army units, moving cautiously toward the Montone river, cleared Coccolia and reached a point within 2,000 yards of San Pancrazio.

Other troops pushed about 2½ miles west of Forli against comparatively light resistance from German rearguards.

British Subs Spearhead Attack

By WILLIAM BROWN
Reuter Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 17 (CP-Reuter)—British submarines, which—in less than a week — have reported the sinking of 69 Japanese ships, are the spearhead of the mighty fleet which Prime Minister Churchill and A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, have recently declared will take part in vast operations in the Far East.

Problem of supplying troops in Burma is Japan's "Achilles heel," and the Japanese, facing British submarine veterans of Mediterranean warfare cannot feel happy about the future of their convoy lanes.

The greatest difficulty the submarines have had to contend with in this tropical battle zone is the intense heat which has to be endured even with the most modern air conditioning in a submarine submerge for a long period. This, however, is being scientifically overcome.

Much more will be heard of British submarine activities in Far Eastern waters during the coming months.

Admiral Alfred Saalwaechter, naval spokesman of the German Trans-Ocean News Agency, while carefully avoiding a categorical admission that the Tirpitz is a total loss, last night admitted that the ship would be "out of action" long enough to permit British battleships in the North Sea to be sent to the Pacific.

Reds Pierce Main Defence Line

Hungary's 5th City Now Exposed To Artillery Fire

LONDON, Nov. 17 (CP)—Russian troops have pierced the main German defence line 10 miles east of Budapest, capturing the rail station of Gyomro, and in a pivot northeast of the besieged capital today threatened the key railway junctions of Godollo and Hatvan.

Far to the northeast other units of Marshal Rodion Y. Malinoksky's 2nd Ukraine Army struck to within five miles of Miskolc, Hungary's fifth city, which now is exposed to Red Army artillery fire.

Battling along the roads leading around Budapest to Austria, the Russians yesterday crossed the Budapest-Miskolc Railway at Vamosgyork in a 12-mile advance from Jaszbereny and were moving toward Hatvan, Moscow announced last night. Hatvan is a junction of the Budapest Miskolc line and terminal of the railway running north into central Slovakia, 38 miles beyond.

The threat to Godollo, less than 10 miles northeast of Budapest, developed when powerful Soviet tank and infantry forces swept through Dany, less than 11 miles southeast. Godollo governs road and rail routes to Vienna and central Slovakia.

The capture of Vamosgyork, where several trains and ammunition stores were seized, also threatened the entrapment of German and Hungarian forces still clinging to the central section of the Budapest-Miskolc trunk line.

In the frontal assault east of Budapest, the Gyomro rail station was captured in a bitterly-contested three-mile advance. Gyomro village, a mile to the south and described by Berlin as the southeastern anchor of the Axis defence arc around Budapest, was under violent attack, Berlin reported.

Meanwhile, a midnight Soviet war bulletin indicated the Red air force had begun to track down the German fleet hiding in the Baltic. Since the R.A.F. sinking of the Tirpitz, the only surface warships left to the Germans are believed trapped here. Torpedo planes of the Red Banner Baltic Fleet opened the attack by sinking a 6,000-ton transport in the big German-held port of Danzig, the war bulletin said.

Last Ditch Fight Expected At Metz

WITH THE U. S. 3RD ARMY, Nov. 17.—(AP).—A captured German said to-day his commander at Metz was preparing the fortress city for a last ditch battle and Gestapo guns were preventing its evacuation.

Tank traps are being dug and the streets are strung with wire and blocked with barriers, the prisoner reported, indicating the possibility of another bloody stand similar to that by the garrison at Brest.

If the Metz commander can compel all-out resistance the fight for the city, with its formidable defences, could be prolonged for weeks.

Has Enough Money

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 17 — (AP). — A 69-year-old woman who has been receiving a monthly old age assistance grant of $17 has written the State Board of Social Welfare that she doesn't need any additional money. After the board has advised her that her grant had been increased to $19, she wrote: "I don't want it because I don't need it. I just couldn't use any more money."

Flier Training Curtailed On March 31

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Nov. 17 — (CP). — No extension of the big Commonwealth Air Training plan after its March 31 expiration date, its succession by a "shadow" scheme of small dimensions and partial demobilization of the R.C.A.F., were announced today by Air Minister Power.

His announcement came after a report last week that the last air crew graduate had gone overseas and that men now in the training scheme would complete their courses and join those just graduated in a civilian reserve. The report — borne out by today's announcement — predicted the end of the plan March 31 and the cut in active personnel.

Previously, Maj. Power had announced discharge of 1,200 air crew men waiting to start training, amalgamation of training commands, a cut in the air council and the closing down of many stations and landing fields.

15 to Fight Japan

Today's nine-page announcement contained no hint as to what the air force plans to contribute to Pacific operations, although a statement in regard to requirement estimates says that "provisions had to be made for personnel in the Japanese war." Another section of the statement referred to the northwest staging route and said it "may yet be of vital importance in the next phase of the war."

In connection with Pacific plans, Air Vice-Marshal L. F. Stevenson is home from the East Asia theatre with a report on needs and conditions and planners are going ahead with preparations for the switch of effort which will follow the end of the war with Germany. It has been estimated that 15 of

King George Sees Plot Of Allied Invasion

PORTSMOUTH, England, Nov. 17 —(CP-Reuter).—In a room 100 feet underground, the King yesterday saw the "plot" of the Allied invasion of Western Europe as it was at 4.30 a.m. D-Day, June 6.

The King stood in the plotting room of combined headquarters in the Portsmouth command where the whole of the naval side of the invasion was planned and directed.

With Commodore G. Bellars, chief of staff to the commander-in-chief of Portsmouth, Admiral Sir James Little, the King walked down the 153 steps leading to the air-conditioned, steel-lined underground headquarters.

Eight Wrens and a member of the WAAF sat around the plotting table at their telephones, as on D-Day. On the table was a large-scale map of the English and French coasts and the Channel, criss-crossed with yellow and red lines and other markings, indicating the convoy routes and the passage of ships on D-Day.

Two Million Locked In Great Battle

British 2nd Army Crosses Zig Canal Advances Two Miles

LONDON, Nov. 17 — (CP). — The British 2nd Army crossed the Zig Canal in southeastern Holland today while to the south German lines sagged under twin offensives in the Rhineland as the United States 1st Army drove forward two miles toward Duren and the 9th Army collected long lines of prisoners.

Lt.-Gen. Demphey's British troops crossed the Zig Canal after clearing out a triangle formed by that channel and the Noord and Wessem Canals and virtually closed up to the Meuse River bend on a seven-mile front at Roermond.

Here, the German radio said, a major attack is likely to be launched "in a few days time."

Infantry and armor of the American 1st Army slashed to a point six miles west of Duren, important industrial town 20 miles west of Cologne, despite sleet and rain storms.

The American 9th Army increased the pressure of the attack in its second day north of Aachen, front line dispatches said, captured several more towns and turned back a Tiger tank counter-attack.

Line Broken

A German military commentator late in the afternoon said a break had been made in the German lines near Stolberg, and a dispatch from the front said breaks appeared to have been made at several places.

Long streams of German prisoners lined the roads back to American prison cages.

Flight after flight of fighter-bombers streaked under cloud layers over the front.

Meanwhile the U.S. 3rd Army threw new armored forces into the battle from the bridgeheads near Thionville which were punched as far as eight miles east of Koenigsmacher.

Drawing the net tighter about Germans possibly preparing for a siege stand inside Metz, 3rd Army troops completely surrounded the Verdun fort group just southwest of the city and across the Moselle from the stronghold of Fort Driant. Infantry captured Lorry Le Metz, a mile northwest of the city.

The twin offensive of the first and 9th Armies had deepened the five-to-10 mile wedge in the Siegfried Line by at least one to two

Finland Names New Premier

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 17 (AP)—J. K. Paasikivi was named prime minister of Finland today in a shakeup of the cabinet.

A veteran peace envoy and former (1918) premier who participated in the negotiations which led to the Moscow-Helsinki armistice, Paasikivi succeeds Erhu Castren as President Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim's first minister.

(The Finnish radio announced Nov. 11 that Paasikivi had accepted the offer of the position. The Castren regime had been criticized by Soviet organs for its handling of the Russian-Finnish armistice problems.)

Ten new ministers were named in the 18-man cabinet, including one Communist, Y. Leino. He was appointed to the assistant communications post. C. J. A. Enckell remains foreign minister.

Huns Outnumbered 5 to 1 on West Front

Enemy Banking On Stout Rhenish Defences To Halt Allied Offensive

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

This looks like the big moment for which we've been waiting—Gen. Eisenhower's all-out drive to crack the formidable Rhenish defences and administer the coup de grace.

It shouldn't be long now—if the weather lets the Allies get ahead with the job—before we have a good idea of how much steel is left in the Nazi backbone.

Field Marshal Von Rundstedt may have 500,000 men with which to meet the terrific weight being hurled against his 450-mile battle-line that stands between the Allies and victory. If that's a correct estimate it means the Germans are outnumbered by probably five to one—maybe more. The Allies are supreme in the air and their striking power in all other categories is superior.

A Cruel Route

We should have a false picture, however, if we left it there. The Nazis are banking heavily on the strength of their Rhineland defences to impede the Allied drive. The deeply-fortified area between the Allies and the Rhine presents a great barrier, and the wide, swift river itself is a terrific obstacle.

Let's not underestimate the task facing the gallant boys who at this moment are driving through knee-deep mud, under rain and sleet, straight into enemy fire. It's likely to be a cruel route through that Rhenish valley.

What can we look for in the way of Allied tactics? Eisenhower has been working the shrewd scheme of varying his pressure on the Germans in order to keep them off balance. He could do this successfully because of his great superiority in manpower and equipment. By hitting them here, there and everywhere he sooner or later will find the weak spot he's looking for—and that's where he will develop the break-through.

Watching Arnhem.

Most observers are keeping a special watch on the northern section of the front—from the shell-shocked Aachen sector to Arnhem at the tip. It looks now as though Eisenhower might be figuring on crashing through the Aachen zone to Cologne and Dusseldorf on the Rhine, or on turning the German right flank up at Arnhem while exerting presure to the south.

There are two prime reasons why the Supreme Commander may be figuring on letting his left-wing forces carry the ball. For one thing this flank lies directly opposite the Ruhr—heart, of Germany's war industry — and offers the shortest route to Berlin through country which, once across the Rhine, is open and suitable for movement of armored forces.

Then this northern flank lies close to the great port of Antwerp and communications with this supply base are good. This point can't be over-emphasized. A great offensive must have ready access to supplies or else it will run down like an unwound clock.

Canada's Air Plea Modest

No Immediate Decision Likely On Aviation

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, Nov. 17—(CP).—Canada's application for international air routes will be "modest," it was learned at the air conference here today, unless the pattern for world control of aviation is "frozen" at the start.

In that event, it was learned officially, Canada's immediate file of application for operating routes will be "more ambitious" but there is no expectancy that any attempt will be made to restrict applications to a time limit.

As a matter of fact it seemed doubtful today if there would be any immediate decision on a pattern for control of international civil aviation.

The nine-man committee, three each from Canada, the United Kingdom and the United States, remained deadlocked over efforts which started last Sunday in private session to iron out wide differences of opinion on the form of international air co-operation to be agreed upon.

Correspondents were told yesterday that the committee had made good progress toward reconciliation of differences and now were attempting to draft a convention representing the combined views of the three countries.

Stern Warning Given Jews By Churchill

LONDON, Nov. 17 —(CP)—Prime Minister Churchill called upon the Jews of Palestine today to cast out and crush the terrorist Stern gang and warned that continuance of its activities would menace the future of Zionism.

Denouncing the recent assassination in Cairo of Lord Moyne, British resident minister for the Middle East as a "shameful crime which has shocked the world," the prime minister told the House of Commons:

"It has affected none more strongly than those like myself who in the past have been the consistent friends of the Jews and constant architects of their future.

"If our dreams for Zionism are to end in the smoke of the assassin's pistol and our labors for its future produce only a new set of gangsters worthy of Nazi Germany, many like myself will have to reconsider the position we have maintained so consistently and so long in the past."

Saying that the primary responsibility rested with the Palestine authorities, Mr. Churchill said the executive of the Jewish agency already had called upon the community to drive out the members of "this destructive band, to deprive them of all refuge and shelter and to resist their threats and to eradicate their terrorist organization."

"We must wait for those words to be translated into deeds," he said. "Every man, woman and child of the Jewish community must do his or her best to bring this terrorism to an end."

Fitting Subs To Bomb U.S.A.

LONDON, Nov. 17 — (CP). — Reports the Germans have been fitting up submarines with launching devices caapble of directing flying bombs against North American cities have been current in London and Stockholm for the last 24 hours.

Walter Farr, London Daily Mail correspondent in Stockholm, "broke" the story, but the same report was current in London many hours before it could be published. Farr said both surface and underwater vessels were being fitted along the Norwegian coast as robot bomb launchers. The London report mentioned only submarines.

Farr said he was informed that both the U-boat and surface craft were fitted to fire robot bombs from their decks "against such targets as New York, Philadelphia, or towns farther inland in America."

NEWEST PATTERN FOR GERMAN PARTITION—Recent conferences between Prime Minister Churchill and Gen. Charles de Gaulle have again caused widespread speculation concerning the future status of Germany. As claims for slices of Germany come in, the eventual partition is still in the discussion stage. But latest press despatches indicate that Germany will be reduced to almost half her 1938 status and this map, based on most recent information, rounds up the situation as follows: (1) France to claim area to Rhine River; (2) Bavaria to go to restored Austria; (3) Dutch to be compensated for flooded lands; (4) East Prussia to Poland and Russia; (5) Poland to get Pomerania and part of Silesia with the Breslau area going to Czechoslovakia.

the R.C.A.F.'s 45 overseas squadrons will take part against Japan.

As for a permanent post-war R.C.A.F., its composition — depending on Canada's participation in post-war world security — won't be decided "for at least a year."

The need for the drastic curtailment program is explained by a huge surplus of aircrew built up by a plan that was gauged on higher casualties than were actually suffered and the unpredictable course of the war.

While not mentioned specifically, it is assumed Canadians in the R.A.F. are included in the program.

The aims and objects of the plan, Maj. Power said, were to "provide the personnel to secure and maintain air superiority and air supremacy in every theatre of war. This purpose has been accomplished."

Needs No Aircrew

1. Britain no longer requires aircrew from the plan and, in fact, has cancelled sailings of trained personnel waiting at embarkation depots. It has been reported that the last aircrew personnel went overseas four weeks ago.

2. Australia and New Zealand — partners in the plan — have stopped sending trainees to Canada. Their men in the training scheme will eventually go to Pacific operations.

3. All recent and future aircrew graduates — estimated to number 10,000 — who have not received operational training will be given a month's notice, released from active service and transferred to a civilian reserve.

4. The reserve will be liable for re-call during hostilities for refresher training and will be entitled to mustering-out benefits on release.

5. The graduating civilian reserve will be accorded non-commissioned or commission rank depending on their merit.

6. Training plan instructors will supply the small flow of aircrew needed to keep operational training units active as the plan's schools close up behind them.

Release All 35.

7. Aircrew instructors who because of age—over 35 for squadron leaders and over 32 for flight lieutenants and under—and a medical category that cannot be employed overseas, will be released.

8. Aircrew completing an operational tour have a choice of demobilizing or taking over administrative work to replace non-flying personnel. If they don't succeed as administrators and can't be employed on flying duties, they will be released. However, they are not precluded from joining a post-war R.C.A.F.

9. Non-flying officers may apply for demobilization when repatriates are available to take their places.

10. Ground crew personnel will be released on a priority basis with top rating going to the man repatriated from overseas service down to the lowest rating for a man who may have under two years of service. This demobilization will be carried out on a monthly quota basis.

11. Coupled with ground crew priority demobilization is a repatriation plan for personnel with at least three years overseas service.

W.D.'s Can Retire.

12. Married Women's Division personnel will be released when replacements are found and, except in restricted trades, any W.D. personnel may retire to civilian life on application.

13. Civilian training plan employees will be released as establishments close.

14. Closed establishments will be used for storage in some cases and in other cases will be turned over to the Government War Assets Corporation for disposal.

15. Retained etsablishments will be kept with skeleton training staffs and with airdromes under care and maintenance ready to operate at full strength on short notice.

16. A number of squadrons will be maintained to patrol Canadian coasts.

Maj. Power's announcement brought up to date statistics of the big plan that caused President Roosevelt to dub Canada "the airdrome of Democracy."

Almost Quarter Million.

When the plan ends March 31 it will have graduated 224,296 trained personnel. Canada's share of this trainee total is made up of 70,619 aircrew and 93,172 groundcrew. The total strength of the RCAF—made up of aircrew, groundcrew, administration and other personnel—reached a peak of 215,173 at an unspecified date and is at present down to 205,300 compared to its war-outbreak strength of only 3,048. Present overseas strength is estimated at 70,000.

When the training plan was in full production it was operated by a staff of 101,418, made up of 69,753 Canadians and 31,665 from other Empire countries.

Air Training Reduced More

LONDON, Nov. 17—(CP Cable)—Air Secretary Sir Archibald Sinclair today told the House of Commons that "after a careful review of the war situation and in particular our air crew position, it has been decided that the joint air training plan in Canada shall not continue after March 31 next."

He said only a skeleton organization of the plan would be retained after that date.

Air training in South Africa and Southern Rhodesia also was being considerably reduced, he added.

which enemy troops were dug in, dozens of gun positions and numerous communications facilities.

Most of the bombers dropped 260-pound fragmentation bombs in order not to crater the ground and impede the advance of troops.

An armada of 1,200 American Flying Fortresses and Liberators carpeted areas around the towns of Eschweiler—important junction of the Aachen-Cologne highway—and Duren.

Lancaster Out

A short time later 1,150 R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. Lancasters and Halifaxes pound Duren, Julich and Heinsburg for more than an hour. Canadian airmen concentrated on Julich, a heavily fortified town half-way between Cologne and Aachen. Heinsburg is a few miles north of Eschweiler, directly in the path of the advancing armies.

Some of the escorting fighters also strafed enemy transport in the Frankfort and Giessen regions, destroying 20 locomotives, 92 railway cars and three trucks.

The massive attacks went unchallenged by the Luftwaffe.

Of all the American 8th and 9th Air Force planes participating five heavy bombers and 12 fighters were reported missing.

R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. losses had not been announced at noon today, probably due to the fact some planes damaged by flak landed at bases on the continent.

U.S. 15th Air Force bombers from Italy, which gave an assist to the western drive yesterday with an attack on railway yards at Munich were reported over the Lower Danube region again today.

"cruel conditions" prevail in civilian internee camps.

Moved to Burma

"The great majority of the prisoners in Singapore and Java appear to have been moved early in 1942 to Burma or Siam," he said. "The Australians were sent by Sea to Burma, crowded into ships' holds which were horizontally subdivided so that ceilings were no more than four feet high.

"The prisoners from the United Kingdom were sent by rail to Siam, so crowded into trucks that they could not even lie down during the journey.

"Then they marched some 80 miles. This and subsequent movements in Burma or Siam appear to have been on foot regardless of distance, weather or the prisoners state of health. United Kingdom prisoners were then set to work on the construction of a railway through primitive and disease-infested jungle, passing over a mountain range between Siam and Burma to meet the Burmese end of the railway under construction, while the Australians were engaged in similar work."

"The conditions under which all these men lived and worked were terrible even for natives of the country who were also forcibly employed on the same work. . . ."

There were no Canadian prisoners of war aboard the Japanese transport, identified as the Rauyo Maru.

The Danger of Coughs Among the Children
In young children a cold or cough is not a thing to be disregarded, as it is often of a grave matter, and unless attended to immediately may, eventually, cause serious trouble.
On the first sign of a cough or cold the mother will find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a remedy to help get rid of the trouble.
Its promptness and effectiveness in loosening the phlegm, and stimulating the bronchial organs is such that the cough may be checked before anything of a serious nature sets in.

Lift Embargo On Livestock

TORONTO, Nov. 17 — (CP). — F. C. Fletcher, president of the Union stockyards, today announced lifting of the embargo on livestock shipments to the yards. He said livestock loaded Saturday for shipment by rail and Monday for truck shipment would be accepted. The embargo has been in effect since Wednesday.

Mr. Fletcher issued the following statement:

"Heavy receipts of cattle and lambs during the week have necessitated an embargo against further arrivals. The situation will improve by the week-end so that shipments by rail, loading on Saturday, and by truck, on Monday, will be accepted at the yards.

"It is, however, important to warn shippers that only the best grades of cattle are wanted. The supply now on hand, all grades of cows, low grade butchers, boners and bulls, will not be cleared until Nov. 25 and there will be no immediate sales of these classes. Shippers are warned to retain those classes of animals until further notice."

Statistics released today showed that 625,904 head of all classes of livestock have been offered for sale at the stockyards since Jan. 1, compared with 565,554 in the corresponding 1943 period. When the regular week's trading ended yesterday, the embargo was in effect on all classes of livestock except hogs. It applied to the yards and local packing plants and resulted from the overloaded condition of the yards.

Base Metals Post Gains

TORONTO, Nov. 17.—(CP).—The base metal stocks posted a small gain at noon to-day and the other groups were slightly lower, especially the golds and industrials. Volume was small at 223,000 shares for the first three hours.

Wasa Lake came into the spotlight and traded heavily on a gain of 8 cents to 1.16 and Beattie held a gain of 10 cents on good volume. McKenzie sold down to 1.50, off 9 and other weak golds were Dome, Pickle Crowe, O'Brien, Cochenour Willans and Aubelle.

Steep Rock was off 3 cents to 2.61, Nickel lost ¼ and Hudson Bay and Noranda were stronger.

Prices were a bit heavy in the industrial section for the senior oils and utilities. Liquor and good stocks showed a little change and in the construction group small fractions were added by Dominion Tar and Canadian Dredge. Western Oils held steady on the whole. Pacific Refineries gained a cent or two.

miles, with the Americans now fighting within seven miles of Julich and 31 to 28 miles from Cologne on the Rhine.

Perhaps 2,000,000 men were engaged in both sides in what may be the last great battle of the war in western Europe. Prime Minister Churchill has announced that between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 Allied troops were in Europe two months ago. The Germans were believed to have 500,000 men in the battle line.

The British 2nd Army in Holland capped a 12-mile advance in three days by capturing Wessem, on the Meuse south of Roermond in Holland, and Buggenum, three miles north of Roermond. The British troops virtually reached the Meuse on a seven-mile front in this sector facing the German border from three to seven miles farther east.

Highlighting the ever-present danger of a fresh offensive sweep around the German's northern flank, Allied patrols slipped across the lower Meuse between 'S-Hertogenbosch and Moerdijk. German artillery reacted violently.

A field dispatch from the 9th Army sector said possibly a dozen German towns were captured yesterday in the first day of its attack near Geilenkirchen, while the 1st Army surged eastward from Aachen in gains that averaged up to two miles in the initial thrust.

The bombs and guns of nearly 6 000 Allied planes, plus a thundering artillery barrage, began the assault which massed the force of two entire armies on a front nearly 15 miles wide.

Fighting on German soil, and aimed at the heart of Germany's industrial Rhineland with Cologne only 35 miles away, the two armies apparently caught the enemy off balance while German divisions were preparing an attack on the 1st Army at Aachen.

While the tank-led troops of the 1st Army pushed their breach of the Siegfried Line deeper, the 9th rolled forward through the towns of Immendorf, Floverdich, Euchen and Beggendorf, all east of Geilenkirchen, and representing advances of about a mile.

Gestapo Pressure

In Lorraine, where the U.S. 3rd Army was closing in on Metz and moving toward the Saar basin, German prisoners disclosed that the enemy was getting set for a last-ditch defence of Metz, with the Gestapo training guns on the garrison to prevent evacuation.

American troops already were fighting their way into the suburbs of Metz, by-passing some of its guardian forts. The 9th Division, pressing from the north, was within 1½ miles of the city but still across the Moselle River.

On the southern approaches, however, units of the 5th Division were reported fighting in the hangars of an airfield a mile southwest of Metz and pounding at the last fortifications barring the entrance to the city.

New attacks in the Thionville bridgehead north of Metz scored important advances, bringing advance units to the vicinity of Monneren, Lacroix and Metzervisse. And capturing Stuckange. The Allied communique did not mention the operation on the right flank, but the German radio reported that strong American tank and infantry forces, pushing north from Morhange, were within three miles of Falquemont.

General Retreat

Progress was slow on the U.S. 7th Army front in the Blamont-St. Die area, but St. Die and several nearby villages were set afire by the enemy, and many explosions were heard, indicating a general withdrawal in this area might be planned by the Germans.

The French 1st Army's colonial troops and F.F.I. units kept up the momentum of their strong attack on the approaches to the Belfort Gap, driving up the Doubs River valley west of Montbeliard and capturing several towns.

Many observers took the onslaught to mean that the great Allied winter offensive, which the Germans had sought to balk by blocking and destroying vital supply ports, was at last under way.

Brothers Meet In Mess Line-up

HAVELOCK, Nov. 17 — (ENS). — Two brothers, Pte. Murray F. Menzies, infantry reinforcement unit, who recently arrived in England from Canada and Pte. Melvin Menzies of the 48th Highlanders of Canada, who has been sent from Italy to England after a serious illness, met unexpectedly while in a line-up for supper in one of the Y.M.C.A. branches in England. Neither one was aware of the others presence in that vicinity. They had been separated for nearly three years.

They are son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Menzies of Havelock. Being born in Canada they have never met their mothers people who live in England, so they have made plans to look up their grandmother and spend Christmas with her.

Pte. Melvin Menzies enlisted at the age of 15 years in the 2nd Midland Reserve Army. He signed up shortly after for active service going overseas with the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada. During his three week's training in England he was transferred to the 48th Highlanders and sent direct to Italy, where he suffered a nervous breakdown after six months in the firing line.

Pte. Murray Menzies enlisted at the age of 18 years, and trained at Kingston, Cornwall and in Western Canada, going overseas recently.

Germans Murder 135 Dutch People

HEUSDEN, THE NETHERLANDS, Nov. 17. — (AP).— The Burgomaster of this medieval town charged yesterday that the Germans had deliberatly blasted to death 135 women and children in the Heusden town hall. He called it the most fiendish atrocity committed in Holland. (A preliminary report of the deaths was issued last week by the official Netherlands News Agency).

"It was terrible, terrible," he said "The Germans pretend to be helping our people find shelter from British artillery shells and then they set off dynamite which killed 135 of the 200 people in the basement of the town hall."

Cattle Gluts Toronto Stock Yards

TORONTO, Nov. 17 — (CP). — Due to a heavy accumulation of cattle, sheep and lambs in the local stockyards an embaro on further receipts was declared on Wednesday both for yards and local packing plants. The cattle sold during the week were at about steady prices. Calves were steady, while hogs gained 10 cents cwt. The few sheep and lambs sold were steady.

Cattle deliveries of over 10,000 head for sale made the heaviest run for any week so far this year. The holdover from Monday was 5,700 head, with 5,500 head left by Tuesday's close. Wednesday's buying did not reduce the holdover. Weighty steers sold at $12 to $12.25 for a few choice with others from $10.00 to $11.85. Butcher steers and heifers were $8.50 to $10.50, with a few light steers at $10.75. There were no sales of boners. Butcher cows moved slowly at $7 to $8.75, with canners and cutters at $5 to $6.75. Bulls were $6 to $8.50 and fed yearlings $11 to $13.50. Stockers were slow at $6.50 to $9.50 cwt., according to quality. A few good milkers and springers sold at $130 to $150 each.

Calf trade closed dull with some heavy vealers unsold. Choice veal calves sold at $14 to $15, with heavies from $7 to $13. Grassers were $5.50 to $6.

A heavy run of sheep and lambs left 40,000 head unsold on Wednesday with little prospect of a week-end clearance. Prices on the few lambs sold at $12.50 to $13 for good ewes and wethers, with bucks at $11.50 to $12 and culls $6 to $7. Sheep sold from $1.50 to $4.50 cwt.

Packers' bids for hogs were $17.15 for B1 and $17.55 for Grade A dressed. Most yards sales were to local butchers or to out-of-town packers at $17.25 for B1 and $17.65 for Grade A. Sows were $13 dressed.

Think, Before You Vote
In spite of the fact that wages and rents are frozen by the Federal Government in an effort to prevent inflation, the Assessment Department of Peterborough increased assessments wholesale all over the city this year, and this action was taken without any protest from our City Council.
This increase in assessment, not only brings the threat of inflation nearer, it also increases taxes on property FOREVER. (And that's a long time).
Remember this when you are asked to vote upon the proposed new hospital, almost a half of which is for people outside the city.

Whiskey Fleet Quits; Narcotics Heavy

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, Nov. 17 (CP) — The famed east coast rum-runners have definitely become wartime casualties, but the smugglers of cigarets, opium and narcotic drugs have taken advantage of wartime conditions to increase their trade, the annual report of the R.C.M.P. disclosed today.

"For the third year in succession there was a total absence of liquor-running vessels off the east coast," said Commissioner S. T. Wood in the report for the year ended last March 31. However, there was an increase of between 60 and 80 per cent in the number of seizures of non-duty-paid cigarets and in the number of convictions for contravening the Opium and Narcotic Drug Act.

Liquor seizures were confined to small amounts of spirits brought ashore by crew members of boats reaching Canada from foreign ports, and to spirits made by "moonshiners" whose activities were curtailed because of the rationing of sugar and the controlled distribution of molasses.

Deaths From Anti-Freeze

"Due to the shortage of spirituous liquors, a disquieting increase is noted in the number of persons willing to imbibe any liquid having alcoholic content," said Commissioner Wood. "Some deaths have occurred through drinking poisonous denatured alcohols and anti-freeze, while many persons are rendered physically unfit through drinking face lotions and hair tonic."

An increase of 62 per cent was reported in the number of convictions for contravention of the Opium and Narcotic Drug Act and the codeine regulations.

"The marked upswing in the number of cases which this force has been called upon to investigate is, no doubt, the natural result of a decided increase of narcotic thefts from legitimate sources, such as retail drug stores, hospitals and physicians' offices, as well as from automobiles in which medical bags containing small quantities of drugs are usually found," Commissioner Wood said.

Reason For Trend

"The prevalence of such thefts must be looked upon as a development created by the scarcity of narcotics in illegitimate circles, upon which the drug addict is dependent for his supply, and the extraordinarily high prices obtainable."

The number of opium seizures has increased on the Atlantic coast, where close observation is being maintained on the crews, particularly Chinese, of merchant ships calling at Eastern ports. Seizures involving as much as two or three pounds of prepared opium have been made.

There were "reliable" indications that the opium was destined for Montreal, from where it would eventually be distributed to larger cities in Quebec and Ontario. It was believed that the drugs brought in by the crewmen were picked up in India.

International Aspect

A quantity of opium, valued at $10,000, was seized in the Vancouver apartment of a "well-known international drug trafficker," the report said. "This case had an international aspect inasmuch as the accused was bringing opium into Canada and California." The name of the trafficker was not disclosed.

The increase of 78 per cent in the number of seizures under the Customs and Excise Acts was due mainly to the upswing in the seizures of non-duty-paid cigarets brought in from the United States and elsewhere.

Soldier Given 4 Months' Term For Forging

Pte. James Graham, R.C.A.M.C., Camp Borden, was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court today to four months definite and a month indeterminate on two charges of uttering forged cheques, the sentences to run concurrently.

The 22-year-old soldier had previously pleaded guilty to uttering a forged cheque here by which he had obtained $20 from the local branch of the Bank of Toronto.

This morning he entered a plea of guilty to a similar charge involving a London transaction, the indictment having been sent here by the Crown Attorney of Middlesex County for disposition by the local court.

The man's record, produced by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry showed that he had been convicted last year on similar forgery charges in Regina and Edmonton.

Said Money Stolen

Giving evidence in the local case, Norman G. Henderson, accountant in the Bank of Toronto, said that Graham had come into the bank to get some money from London, stating that he had come down here with some other soldiers as an escort to take back a prisoner, and that they had slept at the local Military Training Centre and had been robbed through the night. The witness said that on the strength of a cheque signed by Graham he had been given $20. Later the cheque was returned from London, marked no funds.

Graham said in regard to the London charge that he had cashed a forged cheque with a jeweller, after purchasing a $40 ring and received the ring and $25 in change.

The soldier told the court that he still had the ring and was willing to turn it over to the authorities in restitution.

Graham said that he had been in the local Military Training Centre for basic training last December and had later been drafted to Kingston, then Cornwall, Camp Ipperwash near London, back to Peterborough and finally had been stationed at Camp Borden. He said that he still lacked six weeks training before he would be ready for overseas draft.

Remarking that if the army wanted the soldier for overseas service he would be more readily available at Guelph where the Parole Board would be able to act, Magistrate Langley sentenced Graham to Ontario Reformatory.

LIEUT. HARRY HAMLEY

Lieut. Harry Hamley Said Slightly Wounded

Lieutenant Harry Hamley, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Irwin Hamley, 302 Maitland avenue, was recently injured in action but was able to remain with his unit, as officially reported Thursday to his wife at 215 Dublin street. He enlisted with the Royal Engineers in 1940, went overseas in 1942, and nine months later returned from England to Brockville where he received his infantry commission in May 1943.

His father told the Examiner today that apparently from the news his son was not seriously wounded. In a recent letter he had mentioned that he was in the front line, and on one occasion brought back thirty prisoner. His brother, Private L. Hamley with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders had been overseas more than four years.

Nomination Night November 24 Election Only Two Weeks Away

Peterborough's advance of a month in its municipal elections thrusts nominations upon the voters Friday November 24 at the city Hall between 7 and 8 o'clock.

Election Day is Monday December 4 when the polls will be open from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. If change brings increment of advantage and benefit and any other expectedly accruing profit to the local municipality and its electors, some substantial gains should be reaped from the radical departure from Peterborough's long established custom and order of municipal elections.

Hitherto, elections have been on New Year's Day with nomination about ten ays earlier.

Terms expiring at the end of December are the mayoral tenure which is only for one year.

Five aldermen who have to return to the electors for new reapproval ... Alderman Bradburn, Dutton, Sands, Sullivan and Swanston.

Four of the members of the Board of Education must also ask for a new mandate:—H. G. Walker, Dr. C. M. Scott, Alex Sollitt and J. Fred Reed.

Utilitites Commission— Fred Hills.

The electors have also to declare themselves on three issues which are being submitted to them by the council. Two of them are bylaws and the third is a referendum.

One bylaw proposes a grant from the city of $75,000 for the Peterborough Memorial Community project for which the industries and many of the citizens have already subscribed a substantial amount.

The Civic Hospital bylaw should be generally understood by this time after all the discussions by the council and the publicity directed to it by the special committee and its chairman, Alderman Sands.

The Hospital bylaw authorizes the issuing of debentures for $600,000 to assist in the erection and equipment of a Civic Hospital for which other funds are available from the County of Peterborough, Nicholls Hospital Trust, Peterborough Utilities Commission. As an effect of this financial co-operation and aid, it has been pointed out that the people of Peterborough are in a position to obtain a new and modern hospital costing and worth more than $1,400,000 for the sum of $600,000 which they are being asked to provide.

The referendum ballot asks for appproval of transfer of $300,000 from the surplus funds of the City Trust Commission for the purpose of a Civic Hospital.

16,427 Voters

City Clerk Outram reported this morning 16,427 names on the municipal voters list. Their classification is:—6,459 property owners; 5,127 tenants and 4,841 wives of tenants.

The three money questions are reserved to the decision of property of owners. That is, tenants and the wives of tenants shall not vote on the Memorial Centre and Civic Hospita bylaws and the proposed transfer of City Trust funds.

All those persons whose names are on the list are entiled to vote in the personal elections, that is for Mayor, City Council, Board of Education and Utilities Commission.

The residents of the incoming suburbs of North Monaghan are listed as city voters, although annexation does not officially take effect until January 1.

It has been reported in the meagre gossip delating to the elections that Walter Bannon, chairman of the Trustee Boar dof School Section No. 2 North Monaghan, comprising Confederation and May's Schools, may be a candidate for the Board of Education. Another report is that Harold G. Walker, ill for some months, is unlikely to offer himself again.

Obituaries

MRS. AGNES EASSON

Daughter of the late Joseph Sedgwick and his wife, Maria Flynn of Otonabee, Mrs. Agnes Easson died in Toronto, Wednesday, and will be buried there at Prospect cemetery, Saturday afternoon, from the McDougall and Brown chapel, 646 Clair Ave., W., at 1 o'clock.

Mrs. Easson was the widow of R. Allan Eason. During the last war Mr. and Mrs. Easson carried on a grocery business at Lang, in Otonabee. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Clifford Howard, Mrs. Stanley Dinsdale and Mrs. C. B. Reesor; also by three brothers, Thomas Sedgwick of Vancouver, Joseph Sedgwick, McDonnel street, Peterborough and Albert E. Sedgwick, Maniece avenue, Peterborough. A sister was the late Mrs. Edward Heap of this city.

MISS VIVIAN LOUISE BROWN

After an illness of about six weeks, Miss Vivian Louise Brown, Reg. N. died Thursday in the Welland County Hospital, where she has been serving on the hospital staff. Miss Brown is the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Brown, and the late Harry Brown, 285 Dalhousie street, and was in her 26th year.

Born in Springville, Miss Brown attended the Peterborough Collegiate and then entered Nicholls Hospital to train for a nurse. Following her graduation in the 1941 class, she served on the staff, later moving to Welland.

Surviving are her mother, Mrs. Margaret Brown, and two brothers, Sgt. Archie Brown and Pte. Thomas Brown, both in Holland. Another brother Sgt. John Brown of the Toronto Scottish, was killed in Normandy, July 21.

The funeral will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. from the Nisbett Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street, and interment will be held in Fraserville Cemetery.

6,000 Bobby Soxers Mob Innocent Spectator Who Unfortunately Resembles Frank Sinatra

BUFFALO, N.Y., Nov. 17 (AP)—If you want to know how it feels to be Frank Sinatra, ask Bernie Burns.

Last night Bernie, who says he's "in the jewelery business," went to the Buffalo Civic Orchestra concert at which "The Voice" was appearing as guest soloist—and he was "mobbed."

He looks like Sinatra.

About 6,000 bobby soxers attended the concert, and whenever they caught sight of Bernie's gaunt face and his jaunty bow tie, there were shrieks of "that's him," and the chase was on.

The orchestra, trying to make itself heard above the din, gave up, went on, gave up, then went on again. But hardly anybody noticed.

Police finally jockeyed Burns into a safety zone in the lobby.

When the real "Voice" appeared, his fans gave him lusty, if hoarse, approval. But something was missing. Just enough of that fine fervor that really sends a Sinatra-cat must have been worked off on Bernie—because nobody swooned.

Veteran Flier Of 172 Sorties Back In Canada

A career of civil aviation after the war isn't in the books for 21-year-old Flight Lieutenant Murray Thomas, veteran Birdsall fighter pilot who returned home Saturday after almost three years of service overseas, including 172 operational sorties over enemy territory.

After knocking around in light, swift Spitfires, Typhoons and Hurricanes over three major war theatres, this young officer doesn't think much of the prospect of flying cumbersome transports. But, offer him a position that calls for cutting through air at speeds of 300 miles an hour . . . and you've got the man you're looking for!

This attitude is an aftermath of modern aerial warfare, in which a split-second twist or turn at high speed and breath-taking altitudes might spell the difference between life and death. There are no speed limits in the sky, when a Nazi flier trains a machine gun on you! Take, as an example, the time a flight of Typhoon fighter-bombers attacked the important airdrome at St. Omer, in occupied France.

"It was a particularly hot show", F./L. Thomas reports. "Jerry threw a terrific amount of flak at us. An official air force statement would label it as 'intense, accurate, heavy and light anti-aircraft fire'. On our way back to the base in England, a number of Nazi Focke-Wolfe 190's intercepted us. We had used all our ammunition in strafing the airfield. We did the only thing we could do . . . run, and run fast! Some of us made it. There is a serious side to that story. Five out of eight Typhoon planes were lost, some over the target, others on the way home."

Take On 20 Planes

F./L. Thomas served in Italy with one of the most famous squadrons, the gallant County of London Squadron, made up of crack pilots and officers from many of the United Nations. It was part of the renowned desert air force of the 8th Army.

"Where, in all your experiences, was the fighting the toughest?"

"Well, the Anzio beachhead battles were the most 'fun' I think"!

Fun, in this case, meaning more fighting, more flying, less spare time, and countless possibilities of danger. It was here, over the patch of ground gradually enlarged by Allied fighting men, that on a patrol of four Spitfires, F./L. Thomas engaged in the dogfight that later led to him being accredited with one German plane, probably destroyed.

"Our four Spits attacked 20 German planes. They saw us coming and were ready for the fight. We, meaning others in our flight, shot down three German planes before it was all over. I was engaged in 'head-on' attacks by a Jerry. That means you fly in toward your opponent head-on, firing away with everything you've got. One of the planes must swoop away or you collide head-on. It is a case of whoever loses his nerve first, gets shot down. The first time Jerry came in, he got my plane, but not too serious. The second time, there were no results. The third time, he broke first, and I fired into him. I am sure I was the most frightened and nervous. I saw him belching smoke when he flew over. My camera gun wasn't working, and I had no proof. The last I saw of him, he was diving toward the earth, still on fire."

Heavy Work

He was with the planes that swept clear the landing beaches at Anzio, and bombed German troops and supplies while Allied ground forces struggled to cement their hold on the beaches. The planes were based about 120 miles away, and to avoid heavy anti-aircraft fire, flew over water to arrive there. Their job was two-fold. First, to protect the ground forces from maurauding German planes, and to bomb and strafe communications and roads, choke supply lines, and to destroy reinforcements.

"Once in a while, we were forced to land on a small metal landing strip built at Anzio. It was not a popular place with the fliers. There was usually very heavy shelling, and the strip was often hit. You took your life in your hands when you went down. Most of us felt we'd rather be shot at in the air, than targets for long-range artillery on the ground."

"Over the sectors around Anzio, our air patrols consisted of from four to eight planes. I never saw a German patrol with less than 20 planes. More often than not, they consisted of at least 40 or 50 aircraft. The Germans used mostly Messerschmidts and Focke-Wulfe 190's; I got mixed-up in about eight dogfights."

Although the narrow escapes this pilot has gone through would easily fill a column by themselves, he has never suffered personal injury as a result of direct enemy action.

Plane Explodes

"Once", he said, "I read in the papers where I had been 'wounded in action', but actually, I suffered burns on my face and legs when I crash-landed my Hurricane, and it exploded. It caught fire in the air. I was in a hospital for a short time. It wasn't serious."

"Do you consider it was just plain luck to escape so many times from serious injury?"

"Yes, I do. Once, in an engagement in Italy, I might have got it seriously. A German flier knocked out my radio set, and the engine stopped. I felt a push against my stomach. I thought I had been hit. I took the plane down in a steep spiral dive, flew into the middle of the flak above Anzio, and crash-landed on the landing strip. I found a German armour-piercing bullet from a machine-gun was jammed in the twisted metal of the "quick release box", the device which divests a Spitfire pilot of his parachute after he has bailed out and landed safely. I think that was luck."

Not Much Leisure

But throughout days and nights of total war, there is often some little thing to be remembered with a smile, even if it is a rather grim smile. F./L. Thomas told of how a flight of fighter planes caught a large number of German soldiers massed on a parade ground one day.

"When our planes started machine gunning them, you might say they were dismissed pronto. I think we ruined their day for them, too!"

County of London Squadron helped cover the progress of the Allied armies up through Italy. F./L. Thomas was at Rome, Cassino, Ortona, and other focal points of Nazi resistance in Italy. A fighter pilot's day, he said, could never be timetabled. Some days, three flights or more would be made, while at other times, action would be slack for short periods. Whenever the Germans made a retreat from their positions, more bombing and strafing would have to be done, because of the large amounts of supplies being moved by enemy troops.

Three years ago, he graduated and was commissioned a pilot at Uplands, the youngest member of the R.C.A.F. to be "winged" at that date. He is now home on a thirty-day leave, and is in Peterborough today visiting his sister, Mrs. A. B. Smith, 218½ Charlotte street. The son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Thomas, of Birdsall, he enlisted in May, 1941, and attended Norwood Collegiate, and worked in Galt previous to enlisting. His brother-in-law, LAC. Art Shadgett, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Shadgett, 350 Aylmer street, is receiving his wings today as a WAG. at Belleville. Many members of the family, including F./L. Thomas are going to Belleville for the ceremonies, and a family reunion is anticipated.

Third Conviction Brings Jail Term

"You have set a record," said Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning after Manson Lindsay, Apsley, had pleaded guilty to being drunk here Thursday and admitted two previous convictions.

It was the date of the latter that caused the Magistrate's remark. The record showed that Lindsay had been convicted twice in two days only a month ago and had been fined $10 and $50 respectively. In other words he had established his mark of three convictions in a month.

Magistrate Langley sentenced him to three months' imprisonment in the county jail.

William Langford, Edinburgh street, pleaded not guilty to a drunk charge and was successful in getting a week's adjournment.

Christmas Fund Receives Personal Gifts

As each succeeding Christmas has come and gone during the years that the Empire has been at death's grip with the arch enemy of all who love freedom of thought, word and speech, one of the finer things that have emerged from the celebration of this great event in a local and district way, have been the miltitude of expressions of gratefulness and pleasure that have come year by year, from the Lord Mayor of London on behalf of all those and particularly the boys and girls in Britain, who have benefitted from the generosity and practical sympathy that went forth from these parts to assist them, through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund.

People who are able to sit down and enjoy this day at their own family hearth in peace and contentment, with plenty of the good things to make it all the more enjoyable, must have felt all the happier for having done something to assist their less unfortunate compatriots in the British Isles, proof of which may be seen in the increasing assistance that has gone over on every occassion so far.

This year there is a much larger number of children to be looked after, due to the extra destruction caused by the robot or flying bomb, of which no better understanding can be given than that expressed in the statement, that the return of refugee children from this land to their former homes has now been stopped due to the shortoage of accommodation to house them besides the extra danger that this type of attack has made.

Personal giving is and was always at its very best at this season of the year, and one might add there is no finer way of expressing one's own personal feelings for others, so well exemplified in the greatest gift of all to mankind from the Great Creator himself than by having a personal share in a great work to give those in trouble something to help them also have some of the spirit of Christmas which we in this country are able to share in to such a bountiful extent.

Christmas Fund Needs $6,000.

With only five weeks left in to raise this year's Christmas donation, the fund still needs a total of a little more than $6,000 which while it has a very appearance of being considerable of a task, could hardly be considered as such on a per capita basis, which can easily been seen if one remembers the many thousands of people living in this city and district.

To-day marks the appearance of the 18th list of purely personal gifts to appear during the past four months, a large proportion of donors included in this list having participated in one or more of these, showing that their interest is very much of the abiding type that will persevere in a good work while the need still exists.

Demonstrating just how some citizens are imbued with a feeling of helpfulness in this good work that their city and district are giving to those in need in Britain, may be seen through a donation listed today from London, Ontario, which came as a result of one citizen speaking of it while away on business from the city, to which the response was given in practical form, through his being handed a $10 bill to give to the fund, with the donor's compliments at the good work accomplished so far.

Then it will be noted that one gift is specially marked for the children's Christmas Fund, and it would perhaps serve to emphasise just how earnest this donor is, by saying another gift listed under the acknowledgment of "A Friend, receipt No. 4011" comes from the same lady who has given on many occassions to help the good work forward.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1944

The Peterborough Mayoralty

If any of the city aldermen mean to contest the mayoralty it is time that they declared their intention; the civic elections draw near and so far no candidates have presented themselves. The present Mayor has occupied that office since 1938 and has given distinguished service; it is no secret, however, that he accepted the position last year more from a sense of civic duty than from any desire to continue in an arduous job; he is ready to retire as soon as another man shows a desire to succeed him. Seven years' service is all that can reasonably be expected from any man, and we think that Mr. Hamilton, who has borne the burden for so long, should be allowed to hand over his heavy duties to someone else. There is no doubt that his experience and wisdom would be available to the Council, but the cares and obligations of the chief magistrate would be lifted from his shoulders.

* * *

There is no lack of men who could take over the mayoralty; any citizen who is acquainted with the make-up of the Council could name three or four who have all the experience in city affairs and in public duty which is necessary. All that is needed is that they should show themselves willing to stand for a contest. We suggest that the members of the Council who are obvious candidates for the mayoralty should come to grips with this matter and announce their intentions as soon as they can, permitting Mr. Hamilton to retire and a contest to take place.

* * *

City government which moves too rapidly is unsatisfactory; if the make-up of the Council and the chairmen of the various civic boards are constantly changing it is impossible for first-rate work to be done. But there is the corresponding danger of stagnation. Already Peterborough has done a great deal of planning for the period after the war, and that planning will be intensified in 1945. Much of what is projected will be carried out under one Mayor. Mr. Hamilton has seen the city through the worst years of the war, and he has given our postwar plans a good start. Is it not time now that the man was chosen who will continue those plans and carry some of them through to completion? And is it not time that some of the men who are obvious choices for the mayoralty during the next ten years took office, so that they will be in power at a time when their vigour and endurance are still high?

* * *

Being Mayor of a city of this size is not an easy job. The man in that office has neither the light duties of a small-town mayor, nor has he the elaborate permanent staff and departmental organization which eases the work of the mayor of a big city. He has heavy administrative duties and heavy work also of a social nature; there are few evenings in the week which he can call his own. But the office carries with it high honour and the man who occupies it for a few years may fairly say that he has made city history. It is an honour which every alderman should enjoy who has done good work at the head of a civic board, and there are several men of that description available for the mayoralty next year. The question is: will they run for office? And that is a question which they must answer themselves.

Siesta

A contemporary writes, "One of the advantages of living in a small town is that you can get home for luncheon and have a nap afterwards". This appears to us to be yet another of the delusions current about life in small towns; it has been our observation that in this matter of the siesta there are two sorts of people: the wise ones (who sleep after lunch) and the unwise ones (who don't) and some of each live in large towns and small ones.

There is a great deal to be said for ten or fifteen minutes of sleep in the middle of the day. In the first place, it is pleasant in itself; in the second place, it enables you to sit up much longer at night without getting tired; and in the third place it refreshes you and helps you to do a better afternoon's work. There is no reason why a man should take all his sleep in one gulp; it will do him more good if he spreads it through his day. Many men of great energy know this. Churchill is a confirmed after-lunch sleeper; so was Lloyd George; as for Napoleon, he could sleep anywhere at any time, and snatched a nap whenever he was bored with conversation or work.

Let no one say that only a favoured few have enough time at lunch for a sleep. The best naps are the stolen ones, and a man who cannot look as though he were working when he is actually sleeping is a fellow of no resource, and deserves to die young. Every considerate employer knows that when a man buries his head in his arms on his desk, or sits with his chin in his hands and a glassy look in his eyes, or stands leaning over a filing cabinet or a machine for fifteen or twenty minutes, he is having his afternoon sleep and should not be disturbed. Sleeping with the eyes open is a knack which anyone can acquire in a few days.

A sleep after lunch safeguards health and clears the brain. It is just as possible to do it in a large city as in a small town. People who miss their after-lunch nap have only themselves to blame.

The Art Of Writing Letters

This is an age when we do many things faster than they have ever been done before; it is doubtful, however, if we do all of them more efficiently. Consider the matter of correspondence, for instance, both business and personal: how many of us are able to write clearly, concisely and gracefully? Typewriters and a vastly improved mail service carry our letters all over the country, neatly printed and expeditiously delivered, but how many letters are well-expressed?

We were moved to reflect on this matter recently when a gentleman brought us a letter written by a little boy to his parents on the 4th of December, 1807, from school. It is beautifully written in a clear copperplate hand, and this is what it says:

Dear Mamma,

I suppose you now begin to think that the Christmas Holydays are approaching.—To be sure they are; and I have the Pleasure of informing you that they commence on Friday the 18th. If agreeable to you and Papa, and if the Day should be fine, I should prefer to be set down at Kingsland Turnpike, which we shall pass about 12 o'Clock; but if the Day should be unfavourable, I will go on to Holborn, to Mr. Cowper's, or be set down in Cheapside at the Corner of Old Change. My Boxes will be lodged at the Catherine-Wheel, Bishopgate Street.

A few Days ago I sprained my Shoulder slightly, while at Play; but Mrs. Clarke has rubbed it with an Embrocation and I hope it will soon be well.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke desire their Respects to you. I am very well, and remain with Duty to Papa, and Love to Brothers and Sisters, Dear Mamma,

Your affectionate Son,
Joseph Watson.

P.S.: I am glad I took Mr. Clarke's Advice and did not give up the Thought of striving for a Prize, as a hopeless Business; for I have some Hopes of presenting you with a small Token as a Proof of my Exertions.

Obviously Mr. Clarke was the schoolmaster, and perhaps also a clergyman; no doubt he saw and corrected the first draft of this letter. But is it not a good letter for a little boy? Could anything be taken out of it, without marring the sense? It may have cost young Joseph Watson some pains and a few beatings from Mr. Clarke to learn to write in this way, but he gained an invaluable reward — he learned to write clear and pleasantly-expressed letters. It is a pity that training of this kind has gone out of fashion, and that it is regarded as somewhat affected to be strictly grammatical.

Nothing ruins the truth so quickly as stretching it.

Says a headline: "B.C. Doukhobors Renounce Nudism In Fight With Authorities". Must be expecting a hard winter.

"If Mr. Churchill had our Home Army, what would he do with it?" asks the Ottawa Journal, indignantly. And both the Toronto Star and the Lethbridge Herald point out that Mr. Churchill has Northern Ireland, and has refused to impose conscription there.

Conscription In Two Wars

(By GRANT DEXTER)

IN assessing the merits of the Conservative policy of immediate conscription, the experience of the last war will be found to contain useful lessons.

At the outset, the Borden government decided to reply upon the voluntary system. The reason was that this policy commanded the greatest degree of national unity. The voluntary system was retained in 1915 and 1916, despite an increasing demand for conscription. Sir Robert Borden is the authority (Hansard, page 2185, 1917) for the statement that the government resisted the demand for conscription just as long as and indeed longer, than the voluntary system provided the men required to maintain the Canadian corps in the field.

The Brigadier Mess of the last war was none other than R. B. (now Lord) Bennett, who, as the director-general of national service, conducted a vigorous recruiting campaign in 1916. The conscriptionists of the day were a source of embarrassment to Mr. Bennett, who complained that their ill-advised and ill-timed advocacy greatly weakened his efforts, and was "disruptive of national unity."

Sir Robert accompanied Mr. Bennett on a nation-wide recruiting drive in the autumn of 1916. Sir Robert took the position then and later, that he would prefer the voluntary system so long as it produced the required reinforcements. He met a delegation of labour men on December 26, 1916. The delegation made representations against conscription, and Sir Robert wrote them a letter on December 27 in which he said:

"I hope that conscription may not be necessary, but if it should prove the only effective method to preserve the existence of the state and of the institutions and liberties which we enjoy, I should consider it necessary and I should not hesitate to act accordingly."

The parallel, here, to the policy of the government in the present war is so exact that it is worth reproducing. Note Col. Ralston's latest declaration—the most recent of many—in the House of Commons on July 10:

"I am for keeping our army overseas 100 per cent volunteers if we can do it; but if we cannot maintain the army overseas with volunteers and it is necessary to send N.R.M.A. men, there can be no alternative for me but to recommend action under the Act, and I shall do so."

WHEN Sir Robert finally announced that conscription must be applied, he pointed out that the need for men was "urgent, insistent and imperative"; that the voluntary system had failed to produce necessary reinforcements since the middle of 1916. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in the conscription debate (June 18, 1917) quoted previous no-conscription declarations of Sir Robert to the extent of four pages of Hansard.

The reason why the Borden government delayed action for months despite the failure of the voluntary system was given to the House of Commons by Hon. Arthur Meighen, who spoke in the debate on June 21. Mr. Meighen is worth quoting at some length because every point in his argument applies to the present situation.

Mr. Meighen said (page 2529):

"However, it is not the mere passage of the measure that is of final consequence. It is the enforcement of the bill that we must keep in mind. It is not so much the enactment of law as obedience to law that counts.... But the important duty of members of Parliament is to see to it that we make plain to every reasonable man, to the four corners of this Dominion, that we pass this bill, and enforce it, only because it is the right thing to do—that we do so far from any spirit of vindictiveness, or for any unworthy or insufficient reason, but because, in this crisis of the nation, it is the only right thing to do. It will become us, also, to demonstrate in this House.... that the war in which we are engaged must be pressed on to victory by the only means in which it can be pressed."

Again (page 2530): "Who can contend with justification that the voluntary system has not been adequately tried in Canada, both as to vigor and as to length of time?"

MR. Meighen pointed out that casualties and wastage were running four to one against recruiting. Unless men were forthcoming, Canada would have to retire from the struggle altogether.

"There is," he went on, "no other way of getting men than by adopting this measure."

Mr. Meighen said that the government had known for months that the voluntary system was not enough.

Then (page 2535) he gave this most significant reason for the delay:

"We have waited only until we thought the public of Canada generally had realized that fact with such overmastering conviction as to mean the general consent of this country to the putting through of this bill."

In affirming the desirability of a united public opinion, Mr. Meighen was saying precisely what Mr. Asquith and Mr. Churchill had said in the United Kingdom during the conscription controversy of the last war. The phrase "general assent" is a direct quotation from Asquith.

It will be clear from the foregoing that the Borden government adopted conscription not as the fairest or most efficient system of mobilizing manpower, but because, and only because, the voluntary system had failed and the only other recourse was to quit the war.

A New Job Offered An Old Watch Dog

A Washington dispatch to the eminent Wall Street Journal relating to the British navy will undoubtedly take front rank in unintentional American humour of the war. Said the Wall Street pundit:

"Britain's help in the sea war against Japan can be easily overestimated.

"The British Navy depends on bases for refueling, carries its drinking water instead of distilling it from seawater and is inexperienced in using cariers against land-based planes. To be as efective as the U.S. Pacific force, it would have to be rebuilt and re-trained.

"The situation causes little concern, however. The U.S. Navy is more than a match for the Japs, and British warships can be employed in short-range operations."

As a Good Neighbour we refrain from making an obvious retort that comes to mind. Wall Street is not the U.S.A., anyway. But the portrayal of the Royal Navy as a sort of auxiliary of the American fleet is a flash of humour in grim days.—Toronto Telegram.

IN CARE OF DAVY JONES' LOCKER —By Thomas

Bishops In Battledress

(By DOUGLAS NEWTON)

THE Battle of London is not yet over. British soldiers, sweeping victoriously through Northern France and Belgium, have broken the back of the flying bomb attack. But London still has its air-raid alerts most nights; and the sightless, senseless robot monsters come in twos and threes, released from Heinkels over the Channel and the North Sea, to bring death and destruction to the little houses and the little streets of Southern England.

So the air-raid posts and the civil defence services are still going about their patient, brave and tireless work. And there, helping in that work, are many Catholic priests, risking the dangers of bombing just as they did in the "live" raids of 1940 and 1941.

During one of the fiercest nights of the German air-raids on Britain four years ago, when bombs and incendiaries were turning the heart of London into an inferno, a West End Air-Raid Precautions Post received one of its most dramatic and terrible action calls.

THE Cafe de Paris, a celebrated restaurant in the theatrical district of London, had received a direct hit from a bomb. Many people were dining there, and the floor was crowded with dancers, mainly service men enjoying a few days' leave.

The A.R.P. men were out of their post like a flash, speeding through falling bombs and shrapnel, giant explosions and the flare of burning buildings. Among them was a thick-set man, steel helmeted as they were, and only distinguishable by his Roman collar and its touch of scarlet beneath. He was, in fact, a Bishop—Monsignor David Mathew, auxiliary to Cardinal Hinsley, who was then Archbishop of Westminster. Bishop Mathew was that night doing his regular turn of duty at the A.R.P.

He was among the first to reach the shattered restaurant, among the first to grope amid the sprawled ruins and drag out the injured and the dying, helping them to the first aid station. Since he was a Catholic priest, he found out if any of the dangerously hurt were Catholics, so that he could administer to them the rites of their religion.

HE worked all night in the ruins, amid the explosions, the dangers and the dirt, side by side with the other wardens, doing what many another Catholic priest has done through all the various stages of German air attack. Catholic priests were among Britain's earliest volunteers for the Civil Defence Services.

They took their place in the line of duty as a matter of course, following the leadership of such bishops as Monsignor Mathew and the present Archbishop of Westminster, then auxiliary Bishop of Birmingham. He, too, worked as a warden through those ugly nights when the Germans boasted they had "Coventried" such cities as his.

Not only priests served in this way, but also seminary students. The young, bearded novices at a Capuchin Friary had, on several occasions, to exchange their brown habits for steel-helmets and overalls, and help dig people out of houses destroyed by bombs falling close to them, or to man first aid posts for the victims of "flying bombs".

In addition to A.R.P. work, many priests were "fire-watchers", whose alertness and training enabled them to save their own churches and their neighbours' houses when incendiaries fell in showers. Their prompt treatment saved Westminster Cathedral when such bombs fell on its roof. Sometimes they ran risks amid the steep gables, sometimes they found that their devotion to duty had brought other losses. One priest, after winning the fight against incendiaries lodged in the roof-beams of his church, returned exhausted to his presbytery to find that a bomb had gone through its roof into his bedroom, and had burnt part of his room, his clothes and most of his belongings.

BRITAIN'S Catholic priests also often act as wardens at air raid shelters. Many shelters were constructed under Catholic churches, not only for the benefit of parishioners, but also for non-Catholic neighbours. The crypt of Westminster Cathedral was used in this way, and that of the then unfinished Cathedral at Liverpool. These and other shelters gave harbourage during German raids, as London shelters still do, to many thousands of people nightly; priests from the clergy houses connected with them took charge, maintaining the courage of the shelterers, looking to their comfort and well-being and keeping good order.

The work of the priests goes on, too, after the raids, when they take charge of homeless people in rest centres, and throw open their parish schools and halls for this purpose. One Liverpool priest was often responsible for 600 people at a time, helping and advising them until he could, with the aid of the local authorities, find homes for them. Another priest fed and sheltered 150 at a time; everywhere the story was the same.

The lay A.R.P. workers in Britain are loud in their praise of the selfless labours of their priest companions. In addition to doing the normal work of air raid wardens, they undertake, too, their spiritual work as priests, giving spiritual consolation as well as practical help.

Death of a Traitor

"Dishonoured and despised" is Chungking's epitaph for Wang Ching-wei. His death is a reminder that there were quislings before Quisling. The original model, indeed, was made in Japan. Henry Pu Yi, so-called "Emperor" of Manchukuo, may have been the first. But Wang Ching-wei was a deliberate traitor who leaped with open eyes from well-earned eminence to utter infamy.

Wang began his career as a student patriot of high ideals and real ability. He and Chiang Kai-shek were favourite proteges of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, founder of modern China. After Sun's death they became rivals in the government of the new republic. Chiang remained steadfast. Wang nursed his grievances. After rallying his country to fight the invader, he chose to betray it at the height of the Japanese attack. In the service of the enemy he acquired the puppet rule of occupied China and a fortune running into millions. His death is a political reverse for Japan, for it breaks a link with the Sun Yatsen regime, revered throughout China.

No reverse on the political front, however, can shake the present power of Japan in China. What guile failed to win, Japan has accomplished by force. Her armies have imposed their will from Manchuria to the South China Sea. Chungking is helpless to stem the tide of conquest and can offer no more than token resistance anywhere on the central battleline. Kweilin is lost. Liuchow is about to fall. Japanese bayonets have split the nation in two. China faces its gravest internal crisis. Yet Chiang Kai-shek holds his head high and talks of victory. At this moment his resolute voice is worth many trained divisions. There seems to be something within the Chinese people that keeps them from despair, some profound conviction that their nation cannot be destroyed, while Japan can be and will be.—New York Times.

Not Enough Weeks to Go Around

The other day the office boy brought in a treatise on calendar reform. Although it looked like good sound stuff and would solve a lot of difficulties like days off and summer holidays, we didn't think—what with war and the scuffle in the Cabinet—that it was of very immediate concern.

But we were wrong. In Canada today there are not enough weeks to go around, and if it keeps on, the weeks will be crowding each other and overlapping so heavily that we won't know where we are. There's a conflict right now, with Education Week and Canadian Book Week crowding each other and jockeying for position. Just a little while ago there was National Health Week battling it out for supremacy with Community Welfare Week. Then we have National Fish Week and Fire Prevention Week, Be Kind to the Dumb Animals Week and Safety Week, and a score or so more.

All of these things are very well in their way, but promoters of them should remember that there are only 52 weeks per year even when it's Leap Year, and not let matters get out of bounds. Indeed the position could be taken that what this country needs today is a conference on week apportionments.

The conference of course would be held in Ottawa, with delegates to be welcomed by Mayor Lewis, and a short address by Prime Minister King at the inaugural banquet. At business sessions, weeks could be allocated to causes, just as radio wave-lengths are to countries, and if the cause didn't accept the week, it would be given to some other organization. So there's the suggestion in bold and brief outline, and if, in the future, Zombie Week conflicts with Upswing Hairdo Week, don't blame us.—Ottawa Journal.

A Bible Message

Nebuchadnezzar the king made an image of gold, whose height was threescore cubits, and the breadth thereof six cubits: he set it up in the plain of Dura, in the province of Babylon....

Wherefore at that time certain Chaldeans came near, and accused the Jews. They spake and said to the king Nebuchadnezzar, O king, live for ever. Thou, O king, hast made a decree, that every man that shall hear the sound of the cornet, flute, harp, sackbut, psaltery, and dulcimer, and all kinds of musick shall fall down and worship the golden image: and whoso falleth not down and worshippeth, that he should be cast into the midst of a burning fiery furnace.

There are certain Jews whom thou hast set over the affairs of the province of Babylon, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego; these men, O king, have not regarded thee; they serve not thy gods, nor worship the golden image which thou hast set up....

Then these men were bound in their coats, their hosen, and their hats, and their other garments, and were cast into the midst of the burning fiery furnace....

Then Nebuchadnezzar the king was astonied, and rose up in haste, and spake, and said unto his counsellors, Did not we cast three men bound into the midst of the fire? They answered and said unto the king, True, O king. He answered and said, Lo, I see four men loose, walking in the midst of the fire, and they have no hurt; and the form of the fourth is like the Son of God.

Then Nebuchadnezzar came near to the mouth of the burning fiery furnace, and spake, and said, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, ye servants of the most high God, come forth, and come hither. Then Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, came forth of the midst of the fire. And the princes, governors, and captains, and the king's counsellors, being gathered together, saw these men, upon whose bodies the fire had no power, nor was an hair of their head singed, neither were their coats changed, nor the smell of fire had passed on them. (Dan. 3: 1, 8-12, 21, 24-27.)

JUNGLE 'DELICACIES'

Military surgeons meeting in New York last week got a taste of life in the jungle via "survival menus" offered them by representatives of the Army Air Force School of Applied Tactics. Among the 60 delicacies were rattlesnake steak, filet of shark, baked roots of nettle, baked cat-tail roots, wild coffee and palm cabbage salad. At last report all diners had survived. — New York Times.

DAVID LARDNER

David Ellis Larner, who had been working as a reporter and critics for the New Yorker since 1939, went to London in July for the Office of War Information after he had been rejected by the army because his eyes were bad. A few weeks ago he asked to be relieved by the OWI and went to the front to represent this magazine with the First Army. He was killed on October 19th in a minefield near Aachen. It is impertinent to say that he was Ring Lardner's son: he was, standing alone, a remarkably able and perceptive writer, and he was still very young—twenty-five—with almost everything left to be written. We liked and admired him as much as any man we have known, and we have never printed a paragraph with deeper sorrow than we print this one.—By the Editors of the New Yorker.

SASKATCHEWAN DEBT

Today Canadian taxpayers outside Saskatchewan are paying a Saskatchewan debt. They are paying the portion of the seed grain debt which the premier of Saskatchewan declared the province would not pay and which the provincial treasurer now says it is unable to pay. In short the repudiation voiced by Premier Douglas two months ago has become an actual default.

Canadian taxpayers outside of Saskatchewan have done a lot for this province during these many past years.

But they are reluctant to make this debt payment because the circumstances are different because the necessity of their doing so is occasioned by what was at first a refusal by this province to honour a contract and is now claimed to be inability to honour it. And they are not satisfied as to the inability to pay claimed

Moscow Says Russia Won't Interfere

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—(AP)—An official Russian statement said today that the Soviet Union has no intention of intervening in domestic affairs of other states. It listed as a cardinal point of Moscow's policy the "co-existence of two systems," presumably Communism and capitalism.

The statement appeared in an article by Col. A. Galin in the Soviet Embassy information bulletin.

Asserting that the bloc of freedom-loving states is growing strong and stronger, the statement described references to "the Communist peril," as a "trump card of Goebbels' propaganda."

Galin listed what he termed six fundamental principles of Russian foreign policy. The principles:

1. Peaceful relations with all states, irrespective of their political systems.
2. Economic and political cooperation with all states on the basis of sovereign equality and independence of the contracting parties and the co-existence of two systems.
3. Alliances with any state with the purpose of protecting both partners from acts of aggression.
4. Categorical renunciation of Imperialist expansion at the cost of other nations.
5. Non-intervention in the internal affairs of other states.
6. Strengthening of the coalition of freedom-loving nations in the fight against Fascist aggressors.

Nevertheless, Galin wrote, Russia means to remain firm on the question of disputed land in eastern Poland now occupied by the Red Army.

Premier Douglas Sick In Hospital

OTTAWA, Nov. 17 — (C) — Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan was taken to the Ottawa Civic Hospital Thursday on his arrival from Regina, but his condition was not considered serious.

David Lewis, National Secretary of the C.C.F., said Mr. Douglas had become ill on the train. Doctors expected he would be all right after a few days rest, said Mr. Lewis.

Mr. Douglas was enroute overseas to attend to some provincial matters there and also to visit Saskatchewan troops. He was not scheduled to have any conferences with federal officials, said Mr. Lewis.

Green Light Is Given Roosevelt

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Only those who were in the United States during the election campaign can appreciate the size, significance and effect of President Roosevelt's victory.

It is useless to calculate it in figures, by polling booths. The President has overwhelmed the electoral college again, secured a reasonable popular majority, held his majority in the Senate and, more striking, has regained control of the House of Representatives, which he had lost by a margin of one member. But such tangible facts are much less important than the imponderables.

These can only be understood after close contact with the American people on the eve of the great decision. This contact revealed such a disgust with the New Deal, such an irritation with the whole swarming bureaucracy of Washington, such a passionate hatred of the President himself as we have never witnessed in Canada in modern times. Even the extreme Left, which used to think Roosevelt its leader, felt that in domestic politics he was only a lesser evil than Mr. Dewey; while the extreme Right, of course, felt quite sincerely that Mr. Roosevelt was ruining the whole American way of life and its freedom.

Against all these sentiments, against all tradition and with a tired government and trouble in his own camp, Mr. Roosevelt has been re-elected. When all the lesser issues are considered, the big labor vote, and the activities of the city machines, it is quite evident that they could not have elected Mr. Roosevelt. He was elected because the people thought he could win the war and establish the peace. Out of the confusion, ballyhoo and mud of the election campaign emerges the people's vision of the future and their country's place in it.

Nor can it be assumed for a moment that the President's vote, large as it was, represented the total internationalist vote of the nation. While no significant number of isolationists voted for Mr. Roosevelt, millions of internationalists voted for Mr. Dewey. A great part of his vote in such elections as New England came from the most traditionally internationalist people of the United States. They voted for Dewey because they believed he, like Mr. Roosevelt, would follow the broadest international policy; and Mr. Dewey also had the support of many newspapers which have long fought against isolationism.

Therefore, when the whole vote is considered it can only be accepted as an overwhelming mandate for internationalism, political and economic. However, the vote of 1920 was a vote for the League of Nations, as anyone knew who watched the campaign at close range. And despite this vote the Senate managed to wreck the League of Nations.

The parallel of 1920 is superficial today. There is, to begin with, the enormous difference that the internationalist, with his league of nations plan already outlined in detail at Dumbarton Oaks and his world economic plans also revealed, has been re-elected, whereas the standard bearer of President Wilson was totally defeated. The present verdict is reinforced not only by the President's triumph but by the Senate and House elections. Isolationism has been routed at the polls and it should be impossible after this for isolationism to re-establish itself in the Congress.

If the international aspect of the election is clear, the domestic implications are incalculable. No one knows, probably not the President himself, what the government is going to do to provide the 60,000,000 jobs which he has promised for the American people after the war. How does the President propose to make good this omnibus pledge?

This question affects not only the United States but the whole world. For if the United States is to lower its tariff, admit foreign goods and remove the great log jam of world trade, it must have reasonable prosperity at home. Another depression in the United States would probably make any real revision of the tariff politically impossible.

The problem here is one of timing, and the President will need all his statesmanship to solve it. In brief, he is now counting, as he never counted in 1933, on the prosperity of the world to assure prosperity in the United States. Yet if world prosperity, through trade, cannot be established quickly enough he must prevent a depression at home by any means at his command, lest depression make impossible his plan to reduce the American tariff.

If the probable post-war inventory boom in the United States should peter out before the world economy has been firmly based, the President may be expected to move in with gigantic public spending as a stop-gap. But he knows that public spending at home is no permanent cure and his promise of 60,000,000 jobs is not built on any internal solution but on a prosperous world. Where he looked to the American economy for prosperity in his first two terms, was rescued from this whole problem by the war in his third term, he looks to the world in his fourth.

College Football Pays Dividends In Battle

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and above, as football player at West Point.

By JOE CAHILL

The supreme commander of the Allied armies now throwing the Germans back in his great drive on Berlin, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is one of the many present day military commanders whose fighting spirit was born on the football field. He with many other Allied leaders has carried the spirit of the gridiron sport into battle.

By a curious quirk of fate young Dwight D. Eisenhower entered the United States military academy in June, 1911, at the age of 21. His first choice, strangely enough, was to enter the naval academy at Annapolis, but upon submitting his papers it was found that the future general was a few months over the age limit.

Kansas in general and Amilene in particular claim Gen. Eisenhower as their native son, but actually he was born in Dennison, Tex., while his father was working on an engineering project. When only two months old he was taken to Abilene and so the stamp of Kansas is deeply marked upon him.

When young "Ike" entered high school he was many pounds lighter than the average of his classmates, but he was, according to his old football coach, "the most outstanding tackle in the valley." His special talents were his speed and ability to diagnose the plays of his opponents.

Star as Plebe

At West Point Eisenhower turned out for the Academy freshman team and was shifted to the backfield.

His brilliant ball carrying captivated the entire freshman coaching staff and West Point looked forward to the following season when high hopes as this Plebe kept churning off the yardage.

True to form, Ike was rapidly developing into the most promising back in eastern football. Against a strong Colgate 11, Eisenhower could not be stopped. But fate again caught up with him. In a game with Tufts, Cadet Eisenhower broke his knee on one of his daring plunges into the line and the career of a truly great football player was abruptly ended.

Not content to be entirely severed from the game he so dearly loved, Eisenhower turned to coaching the Callum Hall or freshman team and also urged varsity 11 on to victory as the cadet cheerleader.

Gen. Eisenhower graduated from West Point in the upper third of his class in 1915 and became a specialist in tank warfare, serving in the last war as a lieutenant-colonel.

Gen. Ike won his license as an airplane pilot at the age of 48. Of flying, Eisenhower said: "There's exultation being up there in the blue all by yourself. No muddy roads, no detours, no signs. If you want to take a look at something, you dive down and look at it. If you don't like it, you soar up and find something else. You can do anything you like."

Navy Football Title Game Over Week-end

MONTREAL, Nov. 17.—(CP). — The Combines of H.M.C.S. Donaconna and H.M.C.S. St Hyacinthe, champions of the Quebec Rugby Football Union, will field a strong team Saturday against H.M.C.S. York of Toronto in the Canadian Navy football championship final. Players from many parts of Eastern Canada are in the line-up and Coach Glen Brown has whipped together a smart club.

Whether the Montreal Sailors will have sufficient weight to turn back the Toronto Tars remains to be seen, but they already have captured the Eastern Canadian Navy championship as a result of their victory over Halifax Navy.

The Combines have suffered one defeat at the hands of an Ontario team this year—they lost 3-1 to University of Western Ontario—but they draw some satisfaction that their Toronto opponents in Saturday's contest lost 21-14 to the same team.

Brown, who once starred with the Montreal Big Four club and Ohio State, along with Steve Levantis, former Queen's University and Toronto Argo star, and Pat Santucci who was with the champion Hamilton Wildcats last year, are the mainstays of the line which has a number of newcomers, including John Crincich as snap, Mickey McCall at middle, and Don Webb and George Bainbridge as insides. Jack Wedley, another Argos star, holds down one of the end berths.

Al Hurley who helped Western win the Intercollegiate title in 1939 is at quarter and Dutch Davey star of last year's Halifax Navy team, handles the kicking and plunging. Bucko McLeod and Roy Kirbyson complete the first string

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

Danny Webb, Montreal Negro featherweight, outpointed Tommy McGlinchey, Clydebank fighter, in an eight-round match at Glasgow last night. Webb weighed 127 pounds and McGlinchey 127½.

A 1945 schedule of 26 games, with the opening contests slated for May 1, was adopted yesterday at Buffalo by Pony Baseball League officials. They also elected William J. Schumacher, Buffalo, owner of the Lockport club, as vice president to succeed Fred Herring of the Hornell club.

Triple-threat Joe Krol, who has been ill for the past 10 days with a severe attack of influenza, will probably see action in some part of tomorrow's deciding game of the Ontario Rugby Football Union championship play-off between Hamilton Wildcats and Toronto Balmy Beach, it was announced at Hamilton last night. Krol, who led the O.R.F.U. in scoring this season and was the mainstay of the Hamilton team was back at his accustomed place in the backfield during last night's practice.

Faces Tough Test

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—(CP)—Montreal's Johnny Greco faces one of his biggest tests tonight. He'll enter a New York ring for the first time as a welterweight to face Robby Ruffin in a scheduled 10-round bout which Promoter Mike Jacobs says will draw 15,000 to Madison Square Garden. Both Greco and Ruffin little more than a year ago were outstanding contenders for the lightweight championship of the world.

Everything is set for the opening of the Ladies' Basketball League at the Y.W.C.A. tonight and the indications are that the initial double-header will draw a big crowd. The league had one of the most successful seasons in its history last winter and no doubt a lot of the fan enthusiasm created by the hot battles for both senior and intermediate titles will carry over into the campaign that is about to open. The followers of the game like the new plan by which the loop teams will operate in separate divisions, thus eliminating the one-sided games that necessarily came up when the experienced three clubs at the top of the heap were scheduled against the novice teams. Now the seniors will do all the battling among themselves and the intermediates will have their own schedule. The opening card tonight calls for Westclox and Normal School to start the intermediate race with a game at 7.45 o'clock while St. John's and C.G.E. will tangle in the initial senior senior clash of the season in the nightcap fixture, called for 8.45 o'clock. There will be a special door prize tonight to mark the opening attraction of the season.

Leo Deadey who played with the Peterborough Orfuns during their senior O.R.F.U. experiment a few years back has been chosen as one of the outside wings on this season's all-star senior O.R.F.U. squad and a host of local friends will be glad to see that the smooth-working Deadey has finally been signalled out for this distinction. Leo has been knocking on the door for a number of seasons and it has finally opened to let him into the inside circle of football stardom. At outside wing he is down fast under the kicks and his down-field tackling has been sharp and accurate. At the same time he has blossomed out into one of the best pass receivers in the game, his baseball training giving him a big advantage in that important department of football. Deadey, of course, has long been a crack outfielder both in softball and in the orthodox brand and his last appearance in town was when he visited Peterborough as a member of the Tip Tops when they played here last summer in a benefit game for the Milk for Britain fund. Deadey will be at end for the Beach outfit when they meet Hamilton Wildcats in the second game of the senior finals and Peterborough admirers will hope that he will mark his all-star award by grabbing off a couple of touchdown passes.

Peterborough C.V.S. seniors have advanced into the Cossa finals by reason of the fact that the teams in the Bay of Quinte conference have decided not to enter the playdowns this season. Early in the week, Belleville Collegiate, Albert College and St. Michael's School, Belleville, were all clamoring for the right to meet the Peterborough students in the semi-finals tomorrow but after a few workouts and a game between Belleville Collegiate and Albert College which the former won 6 to 0 it was decided that the teams might not have much of a chance against P.C.V.S. after the latter had played 12-man football all season and so the Quinte Conference arrived at the conclusion that the best thing to do under the circumstances was to default the semi-finals. Thus there will be no game for the Peterborough team tomorrow but next Saturday they will journey to Toronto to meet the winner of the Niagara Peninsula-Georgian Bay series. Those two group representatives play a sudden-death game tomorrow and the club emerging on top will clash with P.C.V.S. in Toronto the following Saturday.

* * * * * *

One end of the football tangle in the Bay of Quinte Conference had been cleared up by the decision on the part of Stirling High School not to enter the Cossa playoffs. The Stirling boys won the Trent Valley section the other day when they defeated Tweed 11 to 1 and took the round by the narrow margin of 16 to 15, after Tweed had won the opening game of the series 14 to 5. The Stirling team, a light, fast outfit, do not want to meet the Belleville representatives for the right to enter the Cossa semi-finals but would be satisfied with a game with the Belleville winners for the conference title. Their decision not to strive for the Cossa title clarified the picture considerably but the Belleville team's decision to remain out of the playdowns left the Bay of Quinte Conference without a representative any way.

Ken Colling is booming a juvenile league for Belleville youngsters along the line suggested in Peterborough. Says the Belleville scribe: "One of these fine days the question of O.H.A hockey will be heard along Front Street and the advisability of Belleville again entering the provincial puck wars. There is no chance of Intermediate hockey being revived in Eastern Ontario for another year or more, but things looks much brighter for the district junior O.H.A. set-up. However, as far as Belleville is concerned something should be done in the matter of preparation for the post war hockey period and here's where the challenge comes in. Belleville boasts of three service clubs, all of which are doing outstanding war work as well as social activities, but if the Rotary, Kinsmen and Kiwanis Clubs are in the field for some good sound community service there is nothing more needed in Belleville than a minor hockey league for the promotion of the game among the teen aged of the city. After all this is something constructive and that is the basis of service club work. If each of the local service organizations would undertake to sponsor a team then one of the biggest obstacles confronting the successful promotion of minor league hockey would be overcome. Here the city would have reputable organization along with the proper supervision. Coaching too would enter into the picture, but we believe such former players like Tilly Donihee, Ken Watt, Cy Barriage, Toots Holway and others could be induced to assist this phase."

Doug Mowry, the Peterborough boy who caught for the St. Catharines club in the Niagara Peninsula loop this past season is mentioned by Scribe Bill Gaynon as worthy of consideration for the most valuable player award. Says the Niagara Falls writer: "Niagara District League President Tommy Morrison has sent out notices to team managers in the senior diamond group to send in their nominees for the most valuable playing trophy in the 1944 race. Thomas figures to have a stag get together in Welland early in December, and he would like to present this prize at the informal gathering. Every team in the circuit has at least one outstanding party who would qualify for these laurels, so it's not going to be any easy matter selecting the rightful party for this most coveted cup. Of the champion Welland club, we thought Sal Maglie and Max Kaminsky were outstanding, while Johnny Fairs would also have to be considered. Hamilton had Huck Geary and Tommy Bonk, while Clem Maue and Eddie Bush looked like the Pt. Colborne pick. Sid Aloian was easily the number one member of St. Catharines, and little Doug Mowry would likewise bear consideration. Of the Fallsers, Jiggs McMurtrie's courageous mound work and Jackie Morrison's conscientious efforts, were things to be commended and no doubt each will get an odd vote in the final balloting."

Sporting Chili Con Carne: The Canadian Navy championship will be decided at Montreal tomorrow when the Toronto Navy Bulldogs will meet the Navy team representing H.M.C.S. St. Hyacinthe and H.M.C.S. Donnaconna ... Joe Krol will be back in harness for Hamilton Wildcats tomorrow, after all and Abe Zvonkin who was out of last week's battle because of a wrestling mishap will also play ... Seems Zvonkin was thrown out of the ring in a bout at Brantford last Friday night and when he reached his Hamilton home early next morning could not even remember where he had been the previous night ... Doctors said concussion and the big lineman "stood in bed" Saturday instead of battling against the Balmies ... Joe Krol of the Wildcats and Arnie McWatters of the Ottawa Trojans were the only unanimous choices on the O.R.F.U. all-star team ... Chicago Black Hawks and the Leafs battle twice over the week-end. It should be a chance for the Leafs to get rolling again for the Hawks have shown very little up to now ... Loss of Doug Bentley and other stars has hit the club hard ... Incidentally Bob Carse is now listed as a prisoner-of-war.

Jack Playford Tops City Leaguers

Ken Graham's Empress team defeated his Dad's team 4 to 2 in the Men's City League at Duffus last night. Although Chris Graham's team rolled high single game and high three for the evening Ken's outfit managed to win the first game by one pin and the last by five, being swamped in the second. A foul called on Bud Weese in the last frame of the third game cost the big team that game. It is probably the first foul Weese has ever made.

Plazas created an upset by taking the hard-hitting Sunocos for six points. The only other sweep was scored by Cleanrites who blanked the Old Timers.

Only two bowlers made the 800 mark for three games and only three managed to get over 300 for a single game. Jack Playford led the parade with a cross of 854 and a single of 324. Phil Pryde had 813 and a single of 306. "Buck" Guerin's 317 and Bill Martin's 309 were the only other high singles.

Detroit Has Indian Sign On Maple Leafs

By ERIC SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Jack Adams' Detroit Red Wings may not have discovered a way to beat all the teams in the National Hockey League, but it seems apparent they have at least hit upon a formula for victory over Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Wings, with four wins and three losses to their credit, took the advice of their boss to "stop the Carr-Schriner-Bodnar line and you will stop the whole Toronto team." In doing just that, Detroit became the first team to defeat the Leafs in the 1944-5 campaign.

Last Sunday they stopped Toronto's winning streak at six games when they registered a 4-2 victory on home ice and on Wednesday chalked up an 8-4 win at Toronto.

In both games, the Redshirts held scoreless Dave (Sweeney) Schriner, 31-year-old veteran from Calgary, who returned to the N.H.L. after a year's absence in the Canadian Navy; Lorne Carr, also of Calgary, and Gus Bodnar of Fort William, last year's winner of the rookie of the year award.

In all previous games the "dynamite" line of the Leafs had paved the way to victory and Schriner had scored at least one goal in each game to take over the top spot in the individual point-getting race.

The Detroit club doesn't boast of an all-powerful line such as the Carr-Schriner-Bodnar combination, but Adams has worked several newcomers in with his veterans who are proving hard to stop.

Among the top snipers is Jerome (Jud) McAtee of Stratford, Ont., who scored 34 goals for Cleveland Barons on the American Hockey League last season and at present is 10th among N.H.L. point-getters. He is playing on a line with Murray Armstrong, formerly with Toronto and the now-defunct Brooklyn Americans, and Joe Carveth, another product of the A.H.L.

Rookies Ted Lindsay of Kirkland Lake, Ont., and Steve Wochy of Fort William, also are going strong on lines with veteran members of the club.

Boake Carter Dies At Age 46

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 17—(AP)).—Boake Carter, 46, writer and news commentator, died last night shortly after he was admitted to Hollywood Presbyterian Hospital. Hospital attendants declined to reveal the cause of death. Carter was a commentator with millions of friends and enemies His ability to view domestic and foreign events from a neutral corner came from a direct result of experience. He had travelled widely and his adventures took him to the far corners of the world. He was born in the British Consulate at South Baku, Russia, of Irish-English parents, educated in England travelled in almost every country, spent several years in the newspaper business in the United States before he transferred his activities to the radio.

TORONTO, Nov. 17 — (CP). — Get Oshawa Department: When the news came out that the Manitoba Amateur Hockey Association was keeping all junior players at home, but one Jackie Gibson had escaped to Oshawa Generals, there was some gnashing of teeth among Oshawa's rivals.....Commented Al (Brantford Expositor) Rose: "Santa Claus paid a pre-season visit to Oshawa."

Son going astray:

Instead of following in the footsteps of his noted dad, Dick Irvin Junior is pursuing a "journalistic" career as sports editor of his High School paper in Regina. Dick Senior plans to move the family east to better pigeon-raising grounds in the Niagara Peninsula, so Bill Gaynon in the Niagara Falls Evening Review suggests the youngster some day might be writing sports for one of the dailies in the area. Wonder if he would pan pop?

It's a tough fight:

English rugger followers on the West Coast are struggling to keep the game alive despite an acute player shortage caused by that man Hitler. Things have been so bad, they have been using only 13 men a team instead of the regulation 40-minute halves played in McKechnie Cup finals for the British Columbia title, and the 35 minutes usually played in other games.

Despite all that, the game is more solidly established than ever, reports Herb Munro in the Vancouver News-Herald. That's true with Vancouver sporting a four-team league, while there are 12 especially among the youngsters, High School teams, compared with only four in 1935.

The future of the game looks safe enough.

Incidentally:

Scollard Hall, a boys' college in North Bay, is up in arms. The boys wanted to tackle St. Michael's of Toronto in a North-South football play-off, after trimming all opposition from neighboring Northern Ontario centres, but they couldn't promote a meeting. The Scollardites vow they will try again next year......The N.H.L. presidential race may be thrown open again now that Jim Norris of Detroit Red Wings has come out in favor of Red Dutton. Norris figures Dutton could do things for the game if the league let him have a free hand to put his progressive plans in effect.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK Nov. 17 — (AP). — From a bomber squadron in France, Cpl. Doug Gary reports: "The world series was thicker than snow in the Rockies here. Everybody pulled for the Browns and when they won one the camp went wild and they all stayed up to listen to the remaining games (they started at 7.30 our time)....Several Frenchmen asked me about the outcome of the world series."...Vivian Morrow of Utica, N.Y., broke a finger on her right hand playing softball but that doesn't keep her from bowling in three different leagues. She merely switched to left-handed bowling....Last word on the Army-Notre Dame game (from Scout Jack Lavelle): "They couldn't hit me; I was up in the upper stands."

Another good plan:

Military authorities in Bermuda have been trying to drum up an Army-Navy series (not just one game) during January, but when Coach Joe Maniaci of the Bainbridge Naval Training Centre was invited to contribute himself and eight players to the Navy squad, the word went back that Joe couldn't be spared from his duties in the Provost Marshal's division for a month nor could the players get away for so long without replacements... It would be swell for Bermuda's servicemen but tough on Bainbridge

Canadians In Paris

PARIS, Nov. 17 — (CP-Reuter) — Fresh from the bloody fighting in Holland, the first contingent of 250 British and Canadian troops, reached Paris today for 48 hours leave. The men were assigned to first-class hotels and a program of dances and movies has been arranged.

Expect 15,000 To See Rugby Final

TORONTO, Nov. 17 — (CP). — If advance demand for tickets is any indication, more than 15,000 football fans will be in Toronto's Varsity Stadium to-morrow to see the deciding game of the Ontario Rugby Football Union championship play-offs between Hamilton Wildcats and Toronto Balmy Beach.

Boasting a nine-point lead on the round in the two-game points-to-count series, the Wildcats are heavy favorites to at least win the round although Beach team is looked on as a better than even money bet to win the game.

With triple threat Joe Krol and middle wing Abe Zvonkin slated to take the field, the Wildcats not only are confident they can win the round, but that they can take the game as well. Both players were absent—Krol because of influenza and Zvonkin because of a wrestling injury—when Wildcats won the first game of the series 13-4 in Hamilton last Saturday.

Inside wing George Mountain, who suffered a finger injury at his work on Wednesday, is the only doubtful Hamilton starter.

Beaches will be at full strength and Coach Alex Ponton said that "before we're through out there on Saturday the Wildcats will know they've been in a game."

Ponton said he wouldn't go so far is to make any glowing predictions about Beaches winning the Saturday contest by a wide enough margin to take the Union title "but I am sure our fellows won't make the same mistakes we did last Saturday in the first game of the series when our own misplays beat us."

The wave of criticism, both in the papers and from their supporters, which followed last Saturday's game has simply served to strengthen the Beach determination to win.

The time the Toronto team has spent this week in perfecting its running and passing plays leads football observers to the conclusion that they plan a wide-open game of football in an effort to overhaul the Wildcats.

Victory for the Hamilton team would give them their second successive Union title and their third in four years They won in 1941 and 1943, taking the Dominion title last year as well.

Cataracts Win Over Beavers

VALLEYFIELD, Que., Nov. 17—(CP)—Shawinigan Falls Cataracts came from behind last night to force a 4-4 overtime draw with Valleyfield Beavers in an Interprovincial Hockey League game here. The result left Shawinigan and Valleyfield tied for second place in the loop, one point behind Cornwall Cookies.

Connolly and Vinet accounted for the four Valleyfield goals, all of which came in the first period, Lupien, Tremblay, Despleteau and Lajoie scored for the Cataracts.

Lineups:

Shawinigan Falls—Goal, Thifault; defence, Arcand, Brodeur; centre, Tremblay; wings, Courteau Lajoie; subs, Bisson, Lupien, Trudel, Laframboise, MacIntyre, Bellemare, Despelteau.

Valleyfield—Goal, Chatel; defence, Poissant, Brennan; centre, Fleet; wings, Connolly, Gibbons; subs, Vinet, Joannette, Boyer, Cadieuk, Trigs, McIntosh, Achambault.

Officials—Lalonde and Bennett.

80 POUNDS LESS—When Fred Vance, freshman tackle on the Penn State team, started the season he weighed 310 pounds. Today, however, through the reducing diet forced upon him by Trainer Jack Hulme, the youthful footballer weighs a mere 230.

Judge Landis Likely To Retire Soon

CHICAGO, Nov. 17 — (AP). — Rumours that Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis was ready to retire were rife today as a group of major league officials met to consider the big league agreement which, among other things, provides for procedure to be taken in event of a vacancy in the office.

For the past several months there have been unconfirmed reports in baseball circles that Judge Landis, who assumed baseball's highest office when the present major league pact was signed January 12, 1921, was not to be a candidate for re-election when the agreement expires January 12, 1946. The rumors have increased since his recent illness, which has confined him to hospital for the last six weeks.

William Harridge, American League president, in announcing today's meeting, said only the officials will "give consideration to the major league agreement which perpetuates the office of baseball commissioner." He added that the recommendations of the joint committee will be submitted for consideration at the annual major league meeting here next month.

The major league pact, as now in force, provides for the procedure to be followed in event of the resignation or death of Judge Landis during his term, or the expiration of his term.

Other parts of the aggreement cover the respective playing territories of the majors, player limits, uniform contracts, waiver prices, and other phases of the game.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Bobby Jones, king of amateur golfdom, abdicated his throne 14 years ago today. Then 28 years old and winner of 13 national titles including four "majors" in 1930, the Georgian quit amateur ranks to make a series of motion pictures on golf. He joined the U.S. Army after the start of the present war.

Ted Reeve Hurt

TORONTO, Nov. 17.—(CP).—The Toronto Telegram said last night in a dispatch from W. T. Cranfield, its London correspondent, that Gnr. Ted Reeve, widely known Canadian sport columnist, is in hospital in England recovering from a broken elbow received in Belgium. There was no explanation of how Reeve, who went overseas with Major Conny Smythe and his Sportsman's Battery, received his injury.

Manager Helps Providence Win

By The Canadian Press.

Manager Yank Boyd slipped into the battle at Providence last night to help Reds nurse a 4-3 lead through the third period of an American Hockey League game with Indianapolis Capitals but the two points collected did not alter the standings in the eastern division of the league other than to lift the Reds within three games of the deadlocked Buffalo Bisons and Hershey Bears.

Courteau of Reds and Thomson of Caps traded goals in the first period and Pete Leswick lifted Indianapolis into the lead early in the second period. Bellemare tied the count and goals by Rollie Forget and Jack Lavoie sent the Reds ahead. Hewson added a third for the Capitals before the period ended.

The teams remain idle tonight but in week-end encounters Pittsburgh Hornets visit Cleveland Barons and Indianapolis meets Hershey Saturday while on Sunday, Indianapolis will play at Buffalo and Hershey at Providence.

PICKET LINE AT PLANT ON STRIKE—Led by bearers of the American flag, a long picket line moves outside of the buildings of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation, Paterson, N.J., where a strike of supervisors has tied up production on the cyclone engines used in the B-29 flying super-fortresses—the big planes used in the bombing of Japan. Strikers defied a war labor board order to return to work, a spokesman saying that the strikers would remain out until the U.S. Army takes over.

Willi Friscrauer, Expert On German Affairs, Suggests Hitler On Way To Japan For Meeting With Mikado

LONDON, Nov. 17—A new slant on the problem of what's happened to Hitler is provided to Willi Friscrauer, expert on German affairs, who in a letter to the Daily Herald advances the suggestion that the Fuehrer, perhaps accompanied by Goering, is on his way to Japan to participate in a spectacular East-West Axis meeting with the Mikado as a counter-blast to the meetings of Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Marshal Stalin.

Frischauer, who said that he had spent the last 20 years observing and interpreting Hitler's personality and politics, wrote that, quite apart from the propaganda value of such a meeting, Hitler would at the same time try to forward the attempts made by his friend and former aide-de-camp, Capt. Wiedemann, now German Consul-General in Japanese occupied Chinese territory, to win over dissident Chinese force for the Axis cause.

Nazify Reichswehr

A significant new step in the nazification of the backs-to-the-wall German Army— with the apparent intent of making it a "never-surrender" force to fight on as guerrillas after defeat—was announced by Berlin.

A new decree ordered all German officers and non-commissioned officers who are members of the Nazi Party to "educate their men in the Nazi philosophy" both on duty and off "in order to form a closer link-up between the armed forces and the party." Previously members of the German Army were required to leave the party during their period of armed service.

The new decree did not bear the signature of Heinrich Himmler. But an authority on Germany—a German—was quoted tonight by the British Press Association as expressing conviction that the man behind this move was Himmler, home front commander-in-chief and the man rumoured in some quarters to have superseded the mysteriously secluded and silent Adolf Hitler as number one in the Reich.

Make Occupation Hell

Close students of Germany here interpreted the decree as the most important in a Nazi campaign begun some months ago to adapt the German Army to the Nazi pattern of fanatic resistance which would continue, as Hitler once put it, "past 12 o'clock"—in the hills and underground. Such resistance would be designed, as Propaganda Minister Goebbels said at the founding of the Volkssturm people's army, to "make enemy occupation of Germany a veritable hell."

This pattern began last spring when the Nazis created a National Socialist officers' leadership group, attaching political commissars to all army units with the purpose of indoctrinating the army to desperate resistance.

It was followed by replacement of the army salute with the Nazi "Heil," wholesale shelving of the army fag, with its inconspicuous swastika, for the Nazi banner, and the distribution of promotions and decorations most liberally to the S. S. and other proved Nazi officers.

And no, according to a Western front report from Associated Press Correspondent Franklin Banker, an order has been issued to the German Army directing all soldiers to shoot any one—officer or even close friend—who tries to surrender. The Russians, reporting capture of similar orders on the Eastern front, said those were signed by Himmler.

Political Army

The whole build-up, said the German expert quoted by the Press Association, was designed to create a fanatical political army, which, unlike the old non-political Wehrmacht, would not give in when militarily defeated.

The army political decree as broadcast by the Transocean Agency, was called "valid from Oct. 1" and purportedly was signed by Adolf Hitler.

But the Fuehrer himself still remained personally invisible and inaudible as the great "Where's Hitler?" mystery spun along in this and other European captials.

The London press was filled again with rumors about the Fuehrer's possible fate. The bulk of the latest crop was attributed to the Swiss press.

The London Daily Star reported he was suffering from "cerebral thrombosis—a blood clot on the brain."

"A good many stories from neutral countries that Hitler is suffering from comparatively minor maladies are Goebbels-inspired camouflage to hide the grim truth," said the Star. "There is no permanent cure for a blood clot on the brain, according to London specialists. Its effect is to deprive of blood that part of the brain surrounding the clot. This part of the brain dies."

Big Bomb Lies Under Airport

By HAROLD FREEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CAGLIARI, Sardinia — (CP). — There's an R.A.F. Transport Command staging post operating in the Corsica-Sardinia area that has two 2,000-pound bombs buried somewhere down beneath the station headquarters.

There's another staging post whose personnel have watched their tents — the only shelter they have — blown out to sea or washed away by torrential rains time after time.

Still another staging post was so recently the scene of battle that residents of the flattened town nearby who fled during the conflict haven't yet ventured down out of the hills to find out who is occupying the air strip.

Despite conditions like these, Transport Command ground crews are doing trojan work in establishing new air ways so that urgent supplies can reach the battlefields of southern Europe quicker. The landing fields on Sardinia are largely make-shift as yet — the living conditions of the ground crews are definitely so — but already transport command planes are moving 1,000,000 pounds of supplies a week through these fields.

Establishment of the staging posts on Sardinia-Corsica, coupled with the Allied occupation of France, round out a vast network of airfields throughout the Mediterranean area so that rush supplies can be moved quickly to any point in the Middle East, from Britain or from North America.

Getting back to those two 2,000-pounders, nobody at the airfield in question pays much attention to them, the ground crews working on the theory that if they haven't gone off yet they probably won't. Innocent incoming passengers — like me — sleep soundly at the station throughout the night and are told about the bombs as they leave next day.

The bombs were dropped by British planes when the airport was in German hands. Landing in front of the headquarters as they slanted down, they plunged at an angle into the earth and ended up under the main building on the field. There the British found them some weeks later when the field was occupied.

And there they will remain until more urgent matters are dealt with.

Mrs. Reg. Turner Talks To Bensfort People

BENSFORT, Nov. 17 — (ENS) — The Red Cross Society of Bensfort community held a special Armistice Day program in the Community Hall. Mrs. R. H. Turner president of the Peterborough Red Cross, brought a very interesting message to the people of how the work is carried on by the different branches.

Alderman Glover of Peterborough brought news from the Blood Donors' Clinic, urging the people to continue attending the Clinic and that although the end of the war may seem not too far distant, the need is still as great as ever.

Mrs. Edgar Wood presided during the afternoon and Mrs. Ken Moncrief moved a vote of thanks to the guest speakers.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wood sang a duet and Mrs. James Wood presided at the organ, with violin accompanment by James Wood and Clifford Emberson for the hymns.

Rev. A. A. McConnachie was also present and led in prayer.

Personals.

Special rally day services were held in the local church on Sunday morning.

Guests on Sunday included:

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wood and family of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Herb Patton and family of Millbrook, with Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wood.

Mrs. G. Savigny and Helen, of Otonabee, with Mr. and Mrs. Ken Moncrief.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Dawson wtih Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tate.

Messrs. Alan Dawson and Lorne Harris have returned from a deer hunting trip. The former was north of Apsley with a party and the latter north of North Bay with brothers of Gore's Landing and Oshawa.

Visitors to Toronto on Saturday to the hockey game included A. and S. Bell, E. Wilson and C. Barnard.

Alberta's Beet Crop Totals 335,000 Tons

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Nov. 17 — (CP). — Southern Alberta is pouring about 1,000,000 pounds of sweetness daily into the sugar bowls of Canadians as processing of the most valuable crop of sugar beets ever grown in the province continues on a round-the-clock basis at both the Raymond and Picture Butte factories.

Each plant is processing about 1,500 tons of beets daily and the factory campaigns are expected to extend well into January. Both factories started operations late in September, shortly after harvesting of beets started.

Harvesting of the crop of 335,000 tons of beets from 29,000 acres was completed early this month and practically all beets now have been delivered for processing, sugar extraction from the crop is expected to approach 110,000,000 pounds.

Beets now going through the processing plants are averaging 18 per cent is sugar content and general feeling is that growers will receive in the neighborhood of $11.50 a ton for their 1944 beets.

Pte. Jack Dracup, Marmora Boy Returns On Hospital Ship

KINGSTON, Nov. 17—(ENS)—One of the three fighting sons of Mr and Mrs. S. W. Dracup, of 36 Bettes street, Belleville, was among the group of Military District No. 3 soldiers who returned here today from overseas. He was Pte Jack Dracup who was injured in a truck accident during a two month rest period in Italy after fighting with Canadians to break the Hitler Line.

"Just my luck," he said. "After going through some really tough fighting I get hurt in an accident."

Two of Pte. Dracup's brothers are still overseas. They are Sgt. Harold S. Dracup who won the Military Medal for "a daring act of leadership" at Moro River, and Pte. Ray Dracup, who is driving in Italy with the R.C.A.S.C. Jack and Harold both went over with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in 1939. Harold who was wounded by a sniper's bullet is reported fully recovered and ready to return to action.

Pte. F. C. Claus, of Deseronto, was among the Canadians injured while advancing on the Hitler Line. He suffered shrapnel wounds to the left side.

Returning with the group was Nursing Sister E. N. Lazier, of Belleville, who had been overseas for three years and served with the R.C. A.M.C. in Italy.

Wounded by a mortar bomb while his infantry platoon was attacking a small village near Caen, Pte. A. F. Yeldon, of Brockville, had to have his right leg amputated in an English hospital.

Pte. P. Palmateer, of Ormsby, who went through the Sicilian campaign without injury suffered a compound fracture of the right arm during an artillery mopping up operation 10 miles north of the Gothic Line in Italy. His sister, Jean, a member of the Canadian Women's Army Corps stationed at Royal Military College, was on hand to greet her brother at Kingston Military Hospital where he was admitted.

Another Canadian soldier who was injured in a transport accident during a rest period following action on the Hitler Line was Gnr. H. J.

"We cannot speak too highly of GRO-PUP"

Mrs. K. Hammerton, 317 Wharncliffe Road, North, London, Ontario —owner of "Sonya of Bismarck", Champion German Shepherd pictured above, writes: "I became the owner of Sonya of Bismarck at the age of 18 months. She was in a very run-down, emaciated condition. So much so that all hope had been given up for her recovery. Her coat was brittle and lifeless. She had no appetite and was very thin. After a few weeks of feeding of GRO-PUP, she improved so rapidly we were able to enter her in shows, going Best of Breed at Toronto, London, Chatham and Windsor, finally winning her Championship.

"All of our litters have been raised on GRO-PUP starting at 4 weeks old. We cannot speak too highly of GRO-PUP. We use both the meal and the cubes and our dogs find it most agreeable and palatable."

Here's why so many owners, breeders and nutrition experts recommend GRO-PUP

GRO-PUP contains every Vitamin and Mineral dogs are known to need for growth and vigor PLUS more protein than many experts say dogs need for vital well-being (22½% protein, ⅓ animal protein, ⅔ other good protein). DOGS of all sizes and breeds love GRO-PUP . . . thrive on it!

MONEY-SAVING! One box of GRO-PUP CUBES feeds an average 20-lb. dog a week. 2-lb. packages on sale at all grocers. For kennel owners and breeders, GRO-PUP is available in 100-lb. bags in cube or meal form at feed stores.

Red Cross Is Filling Quota

HAVELOCK, Nov. 17 — (ENS) — At the regular meeting of the local Red Cross Society, Miss M. Chambers, the knitting convener, reported that the quota to use up the yarn on hand had all been given out and the following knitted garments were packed for shipment: 12 long sleeved high neck sweaters, khaki; 7 V neck sweaters, khaki; 10 pairs service socks, khaki.

The president, Mrs. A. S. Thompson, again brought up the special appeal from national headquarters for more workers.

The sewing committee reported that they expected to finish the quota they were working on by the end of the month.

Mrs. C. Couch, blood donor convener, gave an encouraging report in connection with this part of the work, stating that she expected to have seventeen donors in attendance at the Peterborough Blood Clinic this week.

A communication was received from Stafford Roberts, commissioner for Ontario, giving methods that should be used by the Red Cross in handling enquiries coming to them with reference to casualties, aqd also requesting that next of kin of prisoners of war be notified, that a special box which is on sale at most grocery stores, is for soldiers serving overseas and should not be included in a parcel to a prisoner of war.

Describes Work

A letter received by Miss E. Rogers, Reg.N., from her sister, Lieut. Nunsing Sister Ruby Rogers, who is on active service, giving an account of her work was read by Mrs. Couch.

The following accounts were authorized paid: Mrs. M. Parcels, blood donor expenses, $1.35; Miss M. Curtis account 55c.

Free Lot Question

FORT ERIE, oNv. 17.—(CP). — Fort Erie voters will be asked at municipal elections Dec. 4 if they favor giving free lots to returning servicemen and women "on which to erect a home within five years, the property to be exempt from all municipal taxation for a period of five years."

Roseneath News

Included among those from St. James' Anglican Church attending the inter-church meeting in Peterborough were Mr. and Mrs. H. J. McCracken, Mrs. James Webb, and Mrs. Earl Braithwaite.

The W.A. members of the United Church sold coffee, doughnuts, cookies, tarts and sandwiches during the sale of cattle at A. J. Campbell's on Wednesday afternoon, clearing approximately $15.

Miss Agnes Yule of Warkworth visited Mrs. George Mouncey and other friends in the village this week.

Mrs. M. Skuce of Reaboro visited her son, Mr and Mrs. Isaac Skuce for a few days this week.

Mrs. Ella Brown and Miss Irene Brown have arrived home after a month's visit with relatives in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Autumn Bale To Be Shipped

ROSENEATH, Nov. 17 (ENS) — Miss Lizzie Coyle and Mrs. T. S. Coyle were joint hostesses when the monthly meeting of St. James' Anglican church W.A. was held in their home.

The treasurer, Mrs. J. S. Brown, reported receipts of $16.96 from sales of egg donations, gift articles and two quilts, and Mrs. W. Houghtailing, E.C.A.D. treasurer, reported 80 cents receipts in her department and Mrs. E. Timlin, Little Helpers secretary, reported forwarding $4 to the department secretary, Toronto.

It was decided to pack and ship the autumn bale to the W.A. House, Toronto, in November.

Hear From Ex-Pastor

Mrs. R. McCracken presented chapter six from the study book, describing the effect of education on the culture, character and Christian life of the community. Mrs. Coyle read an article based on the 23rd Psalm.

The correspondence included a letter from Rev. A. C. Herbert, a former pastor, now of Fort Churchill. Mr. Herbert is travelling among the Eskimos, now in their winter trapping grounds, and Mrs. Herbert remains at Fort Churchill to minister to those left behind.

The December meeting will be held in Mrs. Edgar Braithwaite's home, and the annual election of officers will be held.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses and a social hour followed.

Euchre Party Funds To Provide Ditty Bags

MILLBROOK, Nov. 17—(ENS)—Twenty tables were in use for play at the euchre held in the IOOF hall Tuesday evening, under the auspices of Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, Mrs. M. W. Ball winning the prize for high score for the women, and T. W. McCamus for the men. Lunch was served at the close the social committee of the Oddfellows' Lodge assisting with this feature. Proceeds were $21, and with the amount taken in at the last euchre, went toward the expense of filling ditty bags which have been forwarded to the Navy League, Toronto. The League is providing 70,000 of these bags for Christmas, and of these the Rebekah Lodges of Ontario are supplying 2,000.

McTague Certain Election Coming

WINNIPEG, Nov. 17—(CP)—C. P. McTague, National Progressive Conservative party chairman, in an interview here last night, said it is his personal opinion Prime Minister King will call an election during the session of the House of Commons which starts Nov. 22.

"Mr King will not ask for a vote of confidence when the House meets, he will go to the country on the conscription issue," he said, adding that the opposition would goad Mr. King to a vote of confidence.

"Under that goading, he will swing to the proposition of conscription, indicating that the desire of the Canadian people is what he will adopt regardless of his personal views. It's all tactics and in line with his past moves."

Eurasian Sailor To Get Lashes

COBOURG, Nov. 17 (ENS) — Found guilty on a charge of robbery with violence, James Chu Sing, 17-year-old Eurasian sailor, whose home is in Earlscourt, was Thursday sentenced to eighteen months definite and six months indefinite plus six lashes. Magistrate R. B. Baxter directed that three of the lashes be given when Chu Sing entered the reformatory and three at the end of his sentence.

Chu Sing was found guilty of robbing 55-year-old Harry Hutchinson of Warkworth on November 1 at Cobourg. Hutchinson was lured to a lonely section west of the town and clubbed with a beer bottle. All he had on him at the time was one dollar and eight cents. Following the assault, Hutchinson was treated at Cobourg General Hospital.

"You admitted the offense in your statement to the police although you partially contradicted it in court when you said that you were drunk and didn't know what you were doing. I don't believe that you were unaware of what you were doing. I feel that it was premeditated and done in cold blood and that you intended to do it when you took Mr. Hutchinson there. Your record shows that you were in court for theft when you were fifteen, given suspended sentence for theft in 1943 and that since then you were charged with wearing a uniform illegally and also charged with breach of the national registration regulations. On account of your age, I am not sending you to penitentiary. There is no necessity for a boy of 17 to do what you did and this will teach you to behave. I think the lashes will do you more good than anything," stated the magistrate in passing sentence.

Chimney Takes Fire At Apartment Building

MILLBROOK, Nov. 17—(ENS)—A fire alarm was rung in at 11:15 on Wednesday morning, because of a chimney fire in the business block where the Coulter Hardware and the Whyte Restaurant are located. One chimney serves the apartments above the stores occupied by Wilf and Harry Whyte, and by Mrs. J. Abbott, and the fire had got into the roof when the fire company arrived. Some difficulty was experienced in reaching the source of trouble with the chemicals, so the hose was laid from the creek below Attwooll and Sheppard's dam. However, it was not needed, and small damage was done by the blaze.

Germans Appoint New 'Master Mind'

LONDON, Nov. 17 — (CP.-Reuter). — Behind the German defence in western Europe is a new "master mind"—Lt.-Gen. Siegfried Westphal, new chief-of-staff to Field Marshal Gerd Von Rundstedt, German commander-in-chief.

In the view of military experts, the noticeable change in the German resistance and the greater skill of German operations is due to the free hand given to soldiers like him since Hitler has relegated personal control of German strategy.

Gen. Westphal was responsible for the early successes of the late Field Marshal Erwin Rommel in the western desert.

Japanese War Ahead Of Civilian Goods

LONDON, Nov. 17—(CP-Reuter) — Britain, determined to finish the war against Japan as quickly as possible, will give the highest priority to production essential for that task when manpower is reallocated after Germany's defeat, Labor Minister Bevin announced today.

Discussing a government white paper on reallocation of manpower between civilian jobs during the interim between defeat of Germany and Japan, the man who directs Britain's war personnel of more than 22,000,000 people declared:

"We are determined to finish the Japanese war as quickly as possible, even if we have to suffer a little longer at home for lack of civilian products, exports or anything else."

The Minister added that housing for returning men would be given the highest domestic priority.

Principal points in the white paper:

1. Needs of the armed forces to be the governing consideration.

2. Eased control over manpower whenever possible, with an attempt made to meet the worker's desire to seek work where he pleases and the employer's desire to engage labor freely.

3. Continued call-up of men from 18 to 27 years old, with men callable up to 25 in the first instance.

May Volunteer

4. Women not to be called up for armed forces but may volunteer.

5. Continued registration of men and women reaching the age for National Service (present registration age: boys, 17 years eight months; girls, 18 years); young women not to be sent away from home under the age of 19.

6. Persons released from the armed forces because they have "done their bit" to be allowed a period of freedom from labor control in order to "look around" before becoming subject to it.

7. Persons released from armed forces for special reconstruction employment will be directed back into the forces if they leave such employment.

8. Certain persons to be allowed to leave their jobs, irrespective of production on which they are engaged. They are women, married or single, with household responsibilities or women wishing to join husbands released from forces, women over 60, men over 65.

Broad principles governing the scheme are:

1. Certain classes of persons whose retention in industry would be a considerable hardship should be allowed to retire if they so desire.

2. Persons who have been away from home a long time should be transferred back home or near their homes as far as practicable.

3. Experienced workers should be transferred back to their former industries.

Cow Brings $305 At Roseneath Auction Sale

ROSENEATH, Nov. 17 — (ENS). — Twenty-four head of pure-bred Holstein Friesan cattle the entire herd of A. J. Campbell, Roseneath, were sold at auction on Wednesday afternoon, at the Campbell farms.

The top price cow went to J. S. Macklin and son, Cobourg, for $305. Top price for 3-year-old female was $300, Wm. Holm, Port Hope, was the buyer, and a 2-year-old female brought $295, the buyer, Lindsay Anderson of Campbellford. Arthur Ward of Dartford paid $135 for a 6-months-old heifer, and Wm. Greer of Cobourg paid $177 for a 5-months-old bull calf. Ambrose Atkinson, Roseneath, paid $80 or a 2weeks-old heifer.

Buys Herd

The bulk of the herd went to Wm. Murphy of Lindsay, John Stewart of Peterborough and Erb and Company, Pennsylvania, and the average price a head for the herd was $188.30.

Arnold Poole of Castleton was auctioneer and Walter Horley of Dartford was sales manager and handled the pedigrees. The large attendance and the success of the sale was gratifying to Mr. Campbell. Mr. Campbell has sold his farms of about 235 acres to William Wilson of Warkworth, and will hold a sale of farm implements, hogs and feed in March. He is moving to Roseneath village in the spring, having purchased the residence of Mrs. W. J. E. Mason.

Fraser Case Adjourned

COBOURG, Nov. 17 (ENS)—Further adjournment to November 24 was made in the civil action brought by William Fraser, M.P., of Trenton against Hugh Hennessey of Murray township. Plaintiff seeks refund of $161.20 which he claims was the amount overpaid to the defendant for 250 tons of manure. Plaintiff states that his agent by error certified payment at $1.25 a ton.

Canteen Dance Marks First Anniversary

The local Training Centre celebrated the first anniversary of their new canteen with a dance on Thursday evening, sponsored by the C. W. A. C. personnel of the camp. The C. W. A. C.'s gave up their second party for this month, usually held in their own recreation room, and invited over 100 other ranks to the dance, which was voted "the best yet," in the men's canteen.

A delicious buffet luncheon was served, prepared by Sgt. Joe DeNoble and the efficient canteen staff, assisted by several C. W. A. C's from other departments. Major H. J. Bowen, acting O. C. of the camp, especially thanked the senior hostesses and other hostesses from the uptown centre. The new officer in charge of the C. W. A. C., Lieut. Hope Laige, enjoyed her first dance in the camp, and Major H. Crowe, from whose company most of the men were chosen, dropped in to say hello.

Senior hostesses in attendance were Misses Helen Lytle and Marie Kearns and Mrs. E. Braund, and about 40 hostesses were present. The camp orchestra, formed on an hour's notice, played lively music throughout the evening. The efficient dance committee consisted of Cpl. Ethel Kelly, Ptes. Mary Dawson and Amy Silverman, and Cpl. Jack Ray, who as M. C., kept the dance lively and awarded prizes, donated by the men's canteen, for various novelty dances.

During the luncheon period, a short skit, showing reveille in a barrack room was presented by Ptes. Martin and Hartley, and was followed by a sing-song, with everyone joining in. In the dancing game of musical chairs, Miss Fern Preston and Pte. Ken Johnston were winners, while Miss Ann Kearns and Pte. Jack Cole were on the spot at the right time to win the spot dance. In the mystery dance, Pte. Potts, dancing with Miss Viola Crouter, who was Miss X, was the winner, while Miss Jean Belch, dancing with Cpl. Devine, who was Mr. X was also a winner.

270 Articles Sent Overseas By 57th Chapter

Two hundred and seventy articles of clothing, as well as six quilts, 50 personal property bags, and one bridal gown, were shipped overseas this month by the 57th Regiment Chapter I. O. D. E., as reported at the regular meeting, Thursday afternoon.

A letter was read asking the Chapter's support on the question of sending reinforcements overseas. Members unanimously endorsed a resolution sent by the National executive committee, and a letter to this effect is being sent to the Federal member, G. K. Fraser, M.P., Dr. H. M. Yelland briefly spoke on the need for a new civic hospital, and hoped that members would cast their vote in favor of the plan.

Members passed a motion to send Christmas gifts to the Chapter's adopted ship, and the Chapter's thanks was extended to Mrs. E. T. Lush for her gift of a phonograph and records for the adopted school. Mrs. H. G. Carleton was asked to accept the post of representative to the Health League of Canada, and Mrs. C. M. Scott was named as assistant. Mrs. A. W. Turner, the regent, who presided, gave her report of the recent semi-annual provincial meeting, and the report of the recent Remembrance Day tea showed that this annual event had been a social and financial success. In memory of the late Mrs. Jennie Parker one minute's silence was observed.

Michael Duffus Weds Almonte Girl

A pretty wedding of interest took place recently in St. Mary's Church, Almonte, Ontario, when Reta Marie Emon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Emon of Almonte, became the bride of Michael Joseph Duffus, son of Mrs. W. A. Duffus and the late W. A. Duffus of Peterborough. The church was decorated with yellow 'mums and roses for the ceremony, with Canon John Cunningham officiating, and George Moreau, and Walter Emon, brother of the bride, serving the Mass. Miss Mary Hogan was at the organ, and during the signing of the register, the Sodality choir sang "On This Day".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in floor-length powder blue sheer, made on Princess lines, with a Sweetheart neckline embossed with medallions. Her three-quarter length veil fell from a matching halo, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and maiden hair fern.

The attendants were Miss Mary Emon as maid-of-honor, and Miss Jo Ann McAuliffe as bridesmaid. Miss Emon was frocked in floor-length rose sheer, with matching veil, and carried a bouquet of bronze baby 'mums. The bridesmaid wore floor-length yellow satin, with yellow doll hat, and carried a nosegay.

Charles Duffus was best man, and the ushers were Louis Emon, brother of the bride, and Robert Burns.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's home, where her mother received the guests, wearing a gown of orchid crepe with black hat, and a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother, also receiving, wore a two-piece black crepe dress, with matching hat, and a corsage of pink roses. About 45 guests were present for the wedding breakfast, and in the evening, about 150 guests gathered. Dancing was enjoyed, and lunch served about midnight.

After spending a short time at home, Mr. and Mrs. Duffus left for a wedding trip to Ottawa, Montreal and eastern points, the bride travelling in a two-piece dress of cinnamon brown crepe with matching accessories. On their return, they will live at 347 Charlotte street, Peterborough.

Pink Decorations Feature Murray St. Tea

A most successful and well-attended tea and bazaar was held in Murray Street Baptist Sunday School Thursday afternoon, under the auspices of the Women's Association of the Church. Guests were received by Miss Aileen Morgan, president of the W.A., and Mrs. J. H. Sutcliffe. Mrs. R. Gavine was treasurer.

The tea room was especially attractive, dominated by the central tea table set with a pale green damask cloth, centred with an unusual old rose glass epergne, with white figure chasings, the lower sections being filled with green and rose grapes, and the upper with white baby 'mums and ivy. Silver services were placed at either end. Pouring tea during the afternoon were Mrs. G. R. Scott, Mrs. G. S. Matthews, Mrs. B. Jackson and Mrs. A. J. Madill.

Large bowls of tinted evergreen and sumac decorated the room, and the mantlepiece was set with palm branches accented with pink and white tinted pine cones, and green tapers. The small tea tables, set conveniently around the central table, were decorated with pine and tinted cones, placed around a little candle.

Those assisting in serving the guests were Mrs. J. Matthews, Mrs. John Thompon, Mr. Harold Scott, Mrs. R. Bishop, Mrs. H. Webber and Miss Wilma Campbell. Mrs. M. B. Pringle was general convener for the afternoon, assisted by Mrs. G. M. Stenton. Miss Nellie Stenton was social convener, with Mrs. C. Cox assisting. Miss Wilma Campbell supervised the decorations.

The sale of work attracted much attention, and aprons, smocks, stuffed animals, children's wear and novelties, made by the members, sold well and the tables were busy throughout the afternoon. Mrs. C. S. Browne was in charge of the work tables, assisted by Mesdames W. Hardwicke, S. J. Graham, L. Ingram, W. C. McCreary, G. W. Fitzgerald, and Mary Seymour. Mrs. D. A. Loomis presided at the home cooking table, assisted by Mrs. Stan. Gillespie, Mrs. T. Mann and Mrs. S. Cottingham, and as usual the delicious home baking sold quickly. A novel addition to the bazaar was the vegetables and flower table, convened by Mrs. Howard Quinn, assisted by Mrs. J. Brown.

You have to select and wrap and mail Gifts to your dear ones in the Forces here in Canada and you want to do all that well in advance of last mailing date! Thus you'll be sure your Gifts for them will arrive before Christmas; and, too, you'll be helping to keep mail and delivery services from becoming over-crowded during very busy times.

Then, of course, there's the nice long List of Gifts for the folks at home! It's a delightful, but at the same time, a sizeable undertaking to fill that Gift List.

So it's wise to Christmas-Shop now! You'll find it's worth your while when it comes to selecting "Just the Right Gifts." You'll find, too, that Early Christmas Shopping pays dividends in physical comfort and peace of mind. You'll find that Stores are less crowded and assortments of merchandise more varied now than they will be later on; and that salesladies have more time in which to give you good service now than they will have later. Also, you will find bus travel more comfortable now than it will be during the last couple of hectic weeks before Christmas; for at that time, last-minute Gift Buyers will be simply loaded down with parcels after their shopping expeditions.

SO . . HURRY TO CHRISTMAS-SHOP NOW!

YOU'LL BE GLAD YOU DID SO, WHEN CHRISTMAS COMES!

CANADIAN AFLOAT

About 40 per cent of the men of the Royal Canadian Navy are serving at sea, and a large number of those on shore have had sea service.

NAZIS RETREAT TOWARD MAGINOT—As the capture of Metz comes closer to realization, large numbers of Germans were reported retreating toward the Maginot defence line. U.S. Army forces are pressing forward near Maizieres, to the north, and Han, to the southeast of Metz, with some divisions reported within one mile of the German fortress city. The British Second Army has launched out in a new offensive in southeast Holland, and Germans appear to be withdrawing all along the line.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, November 18

An active day, with much of importance stirring, according to the lunar transits as well as mutual aspects of dominant planets. While the energies and spirits may be highly stimulated the mental and emotional urges are distinctly dangerous and liable to lead into loss, regrets, sorrows, with business anxieties intimate or romantic associations holding distress or separation. A reaction on health should be guarded against, also treachery, litigation and speculation.

Those whose birthday it is may have a very lively year, with all faculties and forces under high stimuli. But these energies are likely to be expended in unprofitable directions due to erratic impulses, rash mental slants, as well as to treachery, betrayal or designing plans of others. All this may have reactions on the health, and also on the happiness of the domestic circle.

A child born on this day may have initiative and energy, with flashes of brilliant ideas, but these may be squandered by rash or erratic moves. investments, speculations, with unhappy personal reactions.

DO'S AND DON'TS FOR MOTHERS

The Wife Has a Priority on Her Husband and Mother Should Take Back Seat.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR MISS DIX — Will you please write some DO'S and DONT'S for mothers with married sons? I think the attitude of mothers towards their married sons is responsible for much of the mother-in-law trouble and for the breaking up of many homes.

A DAILY READER.

ANSWER — You are quite right about that. It is the inability of so many mothers to cut their apron strings and let their sons go when they get married that practically salts the earth down in the brine of women's tears. So my first DO for Mama is to begin, while her baby boy is still in the cradle to get ready for his wedding. For Sonny isn't always going to stay a little toddler in rompers. He is going to grow up and have a girl friend, and eventually he will get married and bring a wife home and expect Mother to like her.

And if Mother is a wise woman, she will swallow her pill without making faces, and give the bride a warm welcome, instead of treating her as if she had stolen the silver. She will suppress her jealousy and do everything in her power to win the affections of her daughter-in-law, because that is the only way in which she can keep her son. Men hate cat fights among the women of their family, and if it comes down to a contest between Mother and wife, wife almost invariably wins out.

The next DO is for Mother to take a back seat in her son's life. Don't parade your influence over him. A wife has a priority on bossing her husband.

Treat Daughter-in-Law As Your Own

And still another DO is to treat your daughter-in-law the way you do your own daughter. Don't be one of the mothers-in-law who think that their own daughter's husbands should pamper and spoil them and deck them out in fine clothes, but that their son's wives should be slaves and wear nothing but hand-me-downs.

DON'T proffer advice to your daughter-in-law, ever. Bite your tongue off rather than speak if you see your son's wife throwing half of his salary in the garbage can. Keep silent even if she is poisoning him on her cooking. Every bride is little Miss-Know-It-All, and the one thing she is demined on not doing is the way mother-in-law does.

DON'T be sparing in the use of the salve spreader with your daughter-in-law. Instead of criticizing her, praise her, whether she deserves it or not. Tell her how thankful you are that your son got her for a wife. Be affectionate and considerate to her and in time she will quit calling you Mrs. WHOISIT and call you Mother.

And, above all, and if you forget all the other do's and don't, remember this: Never, under any circumstances, go to live with your daughter-in-law, or make her long visits.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX — I am engaged to a girl, but we intend to wait five years to get married. She likes to go out and meet different fellows and have a good time with them. Do you think that I should wait five years for her, or tell her to forget about me and enjoy herself?

A WORRIED FELLOW.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER—Sounds to me as if the girl was just stringing you along as a sort of a stooge. Somebody to take her around when the other chap doesn't show up. So I should think that there isn't much point in your waiting for her. However, if a girl is just a born wolverine, it is her nature for her to be on the prowl, and it is better for her to do her man-chasing before she is married than afterwards. But five years is a long time.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR MISS DIX — I have a problem I can't figure out. Wherever I go people cough. Even my boss does while I am taking dictation. So does my night school teacher. So does everybody with whom I come in contact. It can't be an accident. I am dead sure that they do it on purpose to annoy me. Why is this?

PUZZLED JINX.

ANSWER—If all the men whistled at you whenever they saw you, it would be a come-on and indicate that you were an eyeful. But if there is any significance in coughing beyond having a bad cold, I have never heard of it. Don't you think the trouble is with your imagination, instead of other peoples' manners?

60 WD's Serve At Lonely Pacific Post

By KATHLEEN REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A WEST COAST RCAF PATROL BASE, Nov. 17—(CP)—An airplane ride over hundreds of miles of British Columbia's wildest territory, a brief trip by RCAF crashboat and you have arrived at this west coast base.

There's no need to be told beforehand that this is an RCAF active station—that the seaplanes which roar out across the harbor each morning are not merely on a training flight. You can sense the constant guard that's kept at this far-off post. You can see it in the wireless room where RCAF Women's Division operators maintain a 24-hour vigil. You are aware of it when you pick up a telephone at 3:30 a.m. to know that the WD Central is at her post waiting for your call.

"We've changed our Sundays to Thursday so that if other Western Air Command stations are relaxing a bit Sundays we're still on the spot," Wing Commander J. W. McNee of Vancouver, commanding office of the station said.

"Because they must keep so keyed to their job when working, I'm particularly interested in what the personnel do when off duty," the C.O. continued. "That's why I encourage all sports and outdoor activity possible up here. It's important that these men and women should lead a well-balanced life if they're to do good work."

"At first I wasn't sure how women would fit into a bush station such as this but any qualms I have had, have not been realized," Wing Cmdr. McNee said. "They're doing a good job and they're the finest group of girls you could hope to find anywhere."

A common recreation room is underway at present which eventually will be open to men and women of all ranks. It will boast a dance floor, a juke-box, a soda bar and various games. Although it isn't customary for men and women of different ranks to mingle, nevertheless in an outpost such as this such rules would be overlooked, Wing Cmdr. McNee said.

Spare Time Gardening

When a WD at this remote bush station tells you she's going to "wear her teddy bear for potato digging," —she's not talking baby talk and she isn't going to cut a rug, the gal's just letting you know that she's going to wear her coveralls to dig some honest-to-gosh potatoes.

Any day you'll see a group of WDs and airmen in their off-duty hours harvesting potatoes from the Station Victory Garden. A Canadian Army Unit nearby purchases the supds and the money goes into a fund to build a chapel on the station which is the most distant outpost to which Western Air Command has yet sent its servicewomen. There are 60 girls here.

Girls like Leila Ashton, Winnipeg, Janet Hamilton, Moose Jaw, Sask., Laurie Campbell, Edmonton, are at the settlement which airmen hacked out of the forest less than two years ago. They'd come as cooks, waitresses, stenographers, telephone operations, wireless ground operator to release a man for more active duty elsewhere.

Frances Campbell, a former Nelson, B.C. schoolteacher, is one of the 17 "Wogs" (wireless ground operators) on the station. Others include Mary Scott, Betty Booth, Betty Clayman and Ruth Nagel, all of Toronto. The four girls, formerly members of the Volunteer Canadian Women's Service, chummed together in Toronto and joined the Royal Canadian Air Forces together. "It was just luck that after we took the wireless course in Montreal we were all posted here," Ruth Nagel said.

New Classes

TORONTO, Nov. 17.— (CP). — The Advisory Vocational committee of Toronto Board of Education last night approved the introduction of courses in plastics and electronics to the shop programs of Toronto's technical schools.

HAITIAN DIPLOMAT GREETED AT ILO—Dantes Bellegarde, former Haitian Minister to Paris, who is in Canada on a mission from his government, is welcomed by Edward J. Phelan, acting director of the international labor office, at ILO headquarters in Montreal. Mr. Bellegarde visited the ILO on his way to Ottawa.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP

To-day our recipes are for the pickles of a late variety. These will help your earlier pickles and sauces to last longer.

Citron Pickle.

One citron weighing about 6½ pounds, 3 tablespoons salt, 3 cups granulated sugar, 3 cups vinegar, 1 oz. root ginger, 1 tablespoon of whole cloves, 1½ tablespoons mustard seed, 3 sticks cinnamon. Wash the citron and cut into slices about one inch thick. Peel and cut into pieces, using only the firmer parts and discarding the seeds. Sprinkle with salt and add sufficient cold water to cover. Set aside for 7 or 8 hours or over night. Drain and rinse thoroughly. Cook in boiling water until the citron may be pierced easily with a straw. Drain. Make a syrup by boiling together for five minutes the sugar, vinegar, ginger, cloves, mustard seed, and cinnamon (the ginger and cinnamon should be broken into pieces). Add cooked citron to the syrup, bring to a boil, and cook until clear, about 5 minutes. Turn into sterilized hot jars, and seal.

Marrow Chutney

Two small vegetable marrows, 2 pounds brown sugar, 2 cups cider vinegar, 3 ounces root ginger, 1 lemon, ¼ teaspoon curry powder.

Slice tht vegetable marrows, peel and remove seeds. Cut into pieces. Sprinkle the marrow with the brown sugar, and set aside for about eight hours. After standing, add the vinegar. Tie the root ginger and the lemon, which has been sliced, in a piece of cheesecloth and add them, along with the curry powder, to the chutney. Stirring constantly bring to the boiling point. Then simmer, uncovered, with frequent stirring, until well cooked. Turn into sterilized jars and seal, while hot.

Propaganda

HAMILTON, Nov. 17.—(CP). — Chen Yun, head of a group of Chinese industrialists now touring plants in Western Ontario, asked yesterday for sympathy rather than criticism for China. He attributed recent articles critical of his country to "taking too much from communist propaganda."

Trouble Brews In Germany Students Angry

BERN, Nov. 17 — (AP).—Stories of resentment in Germany against Nazi rule reached Switzerland today, but they indicated the ruthless hand of the Gestapo was capable of snuffing out any efforts of popular movements.

Industry was at a standstill in some areas, partly because of the lack of coal and partly because the Nazi authorities were no longer able to compel workers to remain at their jobs during air alarms, these reports said.

The Basler Arbeiter Zeitung said this was especially true in smashed Cologne, where 10 people were publicly hanged one day and 11 another because they dared openly to question "Why should millions of Germans die for Nazi leaders?"

Trouble is brewing elsewhere in Germany, the paper reported. At Halle in Westphalia, the Nazi authorities have established barricades around the town and nave isolated it from the rest of Germany.

Indications that high feelings were increasing among students cropped up as the Arbeiter reported Nazi officials are preparing to begin the treason trial at Berlin for "persons" who participated in student demonstrations in Munich last year.

The newspaper quoted travellers from Germany as reporting that Hitler had submitted to a throat operation during the last week of October and has been unable to speak. They said his condition was so serious that Himmler read Hitler's proclamation on Sunday possibly to prepare the German people for a graver announcement.

Slayer Admits Mutilating 2 Young Women

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—(AP).—A woman will be questioned by police to-day in an effort to determine if Otto Steve Wilson, 31 year old janitor, was attempting to lure her to the same death which he has stated in a signed confession was the previous fate at his hands of two other women—slaying and mutilation.

Wilson was chatting at a bar with the third woman Wednesday when a patrolman handcuffed and arrested him shortly after the two other bodies were discovered in seperate hotels.

Capt. Thad Brown, head of the Police Homicide Bureau, said Wilson, discharged navy pharmacist's mate, told him he "didn't know what I might have done to her." Her name was not disclosed.

Wilson's confession, said the authorities, disclosed that he choked 26 year old Virgie Lee Griffin to death Tuesday evening and stayed up all night drinking whisky and mutilating her body with a nine-inch knife. He said he went to see a horror movie starring Boris Karloff the next day, then picked up 38-year-old Lillian Johnson in a bar, took her to a hotel room and mutilated her.

Get Thrill From It.

Wilson, in his confession, said that after he had strangled and cut Mrs. Griffin "a kind of a craze had gotten hold of me." "I don't know just how to explain it," he added. "I sort of got a thrill every time I thought about the murder. All those people in the show were sitting around me and not one of them knew I had killed a person.

"After I got out of the show tqhat sort of kill lust came over me again. I went to a bar and met Mrs. Lillian Johnson and took her to another hotel. We didn't have any trouble at all. I hit her with my fist. Then I cut her up with a razor blade, washed and left."

The bodies were found in separate hotels Wednesday afternoon and within two hours Wilson was arrested by a patrolman following a broadcast description.

The district attorney's office has announced that the county grand jury will be asked to indict Wilson for first degree murder Tuesday, shortly after inquests are held Tuesday morning. He is being held incommunicado.

Detective Lieutenant L. J. Hurst said Wilson maintained he had not been involved in the slaying of any other women.

A New Provost

TORONTO, Nov. 17.—(CP).—The corporation of Trinity College last night announced the retirement in June next of Dr. F. H. Cosgrave, its provost since 1926. He will be succeeded by Very Rev. R. S. K. Seeley, rector of St. George's Cathedral, Kingston.

Divorce Cases Increase Across Ontario

TORONTO, Nov. 17 — Divorce courts of the Province are working overtime parting bonds of marriage which have become frayed and worn under the strain and tension of war

Court lists are clogged and facilities taxed by the record number of estranged couples seeking to have their marriages dissolved.

Divorces in Ontario have increased from 747 in 1939 to 1,088 for the first 10½ months of 1944. Some 147 divorce actions were launched at Osgoode Hall last month—more than half of all legal actions instituted.

Seriousness of the problem is reflected in a recent observation by Chief Justice Rose:

"If divorces continue at their present rate we will soon approach the time when there will be no married people left in the Province of Ontario."

Though the remark was of a jocular nature, it was regarded as indicative of the concern that the mounting tide of divorces is creating among judges of the Supreme Court of Ontario who have the daily task of dealing with the problem.

In the Toronto area alone, more that 250 decrees nisi were granted during the past five months, with the total for November not yet complete.

War Is Blamed

By those who have the opportunity of close study of the situation, the breaking up of family ties by war conditions, is considered as the major factor in today's increasing divorce rate.

Overseas service by heads of families, dispersal of families through employment in war industries and a general breakdown in standards of morality, all play their part in contributing to the sharp wartime rise in divorces, those who have studied the problem point out.

Revision of Canadian divorce laws so that five years must elapse from the time of marriage before a divorce can be granted is recommended by one member of the Supreme Court as a partial curb on the mounting number of divorces.

Judge Hawley S. Mott of Toronto's Family Court feels that greater consideration will have to be given by those contemplating marriage, to the "contract" so easy to get into but so difficult to get out of."

This view is echoed by ministers of the church who feel that marriage must be placed on a sounder basis.

"There is a movement in the church today to provide instruction for young people about to embark on marriage," Rev. John Coburn of the board of social services in the United Church said.

"The minister has more responsibility than merely performing the marriage ceremony," he added.

Keene WA Arranges For Social Evening

KEENE, Nov. 17 — (ENS) — The Women's Association met at the home of Miss Bryce Tuesday and was presided over by Mrs. G. S. Taylor. The program was in charge of Mrs. M Coward, scripture lesson read by Miss Bryce followed by a duet by Mrs. Rennie and Mrs. Murray. Mrs. James MacFarlane gave a reading "Ma On The Offensive". Arrangements were made for the social evening on Tuesday November 21 when the W. A. will be hostesses to all members and adherents of the congregation when a program will be given. Miss Mary Gall will tell of her personal abservations and views of Socialistic Russia.

Obituary

DUNCAN D. SMITH

TORONTO, Nov. 17 — Former principal of Fairbank Memorial and Duncan B. Hood Public Schools, Duncan B. Smith died yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. F. McNab, 46 Benlamond avenue.

A resident of York township for more than 30 years, Mr. Smith was one of pioneer members of the public school teaching staff of the Fairbank district. He was born in Woodville and attended Lindsay Collegiate and London Normal School. Before coming to Toronto he taught in Lorneville and Cornwall. He was a life member of Harding Lodge, A.F. & A.M., and was a Presbyterian.

Surviving are his widow, Ida Armstrong Smith; four sisters, Mrs. McNab and Mrs. A. MacLeod, both of Toronto, and Margaret and Effie Smith, both of Lindsay, and a brother, Neil Smith, of North Dagota.

BRAINS NOT UNCANNY

SOME OF the acts of fine players seem uncanny to their opponents, or to kibitzers. In this class are such things as dropping singleton Kings and Queens. Many of these plays, however, are obligatory, because the player could not afford to lose to the honor if it did happen to be singleton. Others of them are based on simple logic showing that such a situation is quite likely to exist, more likely than some other situation.

West led the heart 4 and, when East played the J, South let it win. The Q then rode to the A, and the club 2 came from dummy, the 9 being finessed to the Q. West returned the heart 5 to the K, and the spade 7 was led to the K. Now the club 7 was led from dummy and, when East played the 5, South put on the A, which dropped the now singleton K. That play amazed West.

The club J and 8 then scored tricks, so that the declarer all told got three in clubs, plus two each in the other suits, for the nine required.

West wondered after the deal if South had seen his hand. He had not. He merely reckoned that West probably had what he considered a sure entry, since he had led his long suit. The only card out which was higher than a queen was the club king, so he felt West was more likely to have it than East. If West had false carded with the K on the first club lead, that reading would have been more difficult, and it may be that South would have lost a finesse to the Q, beating the contract.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ J 9 7 6 3 2 ♥ K 5 ♦ A Q 9 ♣ 7 4

West: ♠ 4 ♥ J 10 9 3 ♦ 10 6 5 2 ♣ K 5 3 2

East: ♠ K 5 ♥ 8 4 2 ♦ K J 8 ♣ Q J 9 8 6

South: ♠ A Q 10 8 ♥ A Q 7 6 ♦ 7 4 3 ♣ A 10

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is the soundest way for South to play this hand to make 6-Spades after West leads the 2 of the clubs which East had bid?

Noel Coward Ridicules Slur

PARIS, Nov. 16 (AP)—Noel Coward said today a controversy in Brooklyn over the alleged slur about Brooklyn troops in his Middle East Diary "is silly and idiotic" and probably would result only in increasing sales.

The British actor, author, songwriter, playwright, lecturer and director commented:

"I have seen hundreds of boys of all nationalities who are longing to return home, but I am not going to engage in any controversy with the Brooklyn council" regarding criticisms of his comment on Brooklyn troops.

(Brooklyn representatives in the New York City Council and the United States Congress protested this passage in Mr. Coward's Middle East Diary: "Talked to some men from Texas and Arizona; they were magnificent specimens, but I was less impressed by some of the mournful Brooklyn boys lying there in tears amidst the alien corn with nothing worse than a bullet wound in the leg or a fractured arm.")

Mr. Coward was in Paris for a three-day stand before touring the fronts in Belgium and Luxembourg. He said he had seen thousands of American troops on his travels and was very impressed by them.

Britons Want London Meeting

LONDON, Nov. 17 — (CP.-Reuter). —Prime Minister Churchill was told in the House of Commons Thursday that he "has certainly done his troubadoring" in connection with meetings of the "Big Three" and the next such gathering should be held in Britain since Mr. Churchill has paid two visits to Moscow and four to North America.

"This point has occurred to me and my colleagues several times," Mr. Churchill replied.

One member asked: "Does the Prime Minister realize that most people in this country feel he has certainly done his troubadoring and they would regard it as a graceful gesture if President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin would agree to come to this country?"

The Prime Minister said: "These matters have to be worked out as best they can. We have to realize we may have views in this country but working with a great number of powerful allies we have to sometimes recognize that our views have to yield to those of other people."

Glass Tubes For Arteries Reduce War Amputations

By MARGARET ECKER—Canadian Press War Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN BELGIUM, Nov. 18 — (CP). — A young Canadian doctor working in a Canadian casualty clearing station almost on the border of Belgium and Holland has found a new method of surgery that will save the limbs of untold numbers of soldiers fighting on this front when the innovation becomes known.

Thirty-year-old Maj. W. T. Mustard of Toronto, who looks like a college student, already has saved the shell-shattered legs of Pte. E. O. Brewer of Fredericton and Capt. Graham Dixon, a British officer.

If luck hadn't brought these two men to a Canadian field surgical unit housed for the moment in a battered baronial mansion near a Flemish town, they would both probably face the future with one leg.

"Exciting" is the word the young doctor uses to describe the discovery and it was exciting to stand in the makeshift operating room, its windows shaking from a bombardment, and hear the story for the first time of the first completely successful operations performed a few weeks ago.

Working with his team-mate, Capt. Ken Wilson of Ottawa, Maj. Mustard has successfully inserted glass tubing to replace a shattered piece of an artery and in this way maintained a normal blood supply to the wounded leg. Normally the artery would have been tied to prevent bleeding to death and the limb eventually would have had to be amputated.

"The use of glass tubes to replace arteries has been demonstrated in animals," the major said, "but as far as we know this is the first time it has been done in humans."

The first operation was performed a few weeks ago on a prisoner of war whose leg was almost completely shot off. The medical officer replaced the severed artery with a glass tube but the blood clotted in the long tube after a few hours and the leg had to be amputated.

Then as now Dr. Mustard was working with makeshift surgical instruments, using glass tubes he made himself. "Nobody believed my operations would work," he said. "I couldn't get equipment. It took weeks to get the necessary drugs."

When he got the drug he required, heparin, he had won a fight and solved his greatest problem. Heparin prevents blood clotting.

With this drug, Maj. Mustard could place a glass tube in a severed artery and the blood would continue to flow normally and the leg would be saved.

"The secret of the operation of placing a glass tube in the artery is so simple it is fantastic," he said. "The operation can be performed in half an hour. People we get here close to the front line are the worst cases. Men are nearly dead when brought in through loss of blood. Our first job is to save their lives and the operation must be simple and easy."

40,000 Germans Opposing Allies

LONDON, Nov. 18 (CP)—A Nazi resistance movement inside France led by 40,000 Germans hiding out in Paris was reported today by a reliable French source.

Thousands of French collaborationists, still at large despite roundups by the French forces of the interior, were said to be actively aiding the Germans in espionage and sabotage.

The French source, which cannot be identified by name, said the Germans had parachuted small arms and food in recent days to bands of German saboteurs based in forests.

Although the sabotage in the Paris area has been on a small scale, the thousands of Germans who have evaded capture and discarded their uniforms for civilian clothes offer a great threat to the Allies, he said.

"Most of the sabotage," he related, "has been confined to electric cables and pipelines. One band of Germans armed only with small arms attempted a raid recently on the Hispano works outside of Paris, but was driven off."

British Extend New Bridgehead

HEADQUARTERS, 21ST ARMY GROUP, Nov. 18 — (CP-Reuter). — Lt.-Gen. Dempsey is developing and extending his new bridgehead over the Zig Canal today and has cut the main road from Meijel to Venlo just west of the village of Panningen.

To the south, in the area of Brockeheide, another bridgehead has been established over the canal, consolidated and extended.

Progress is slow but steady on all sectors of the 2nd Army front.

The last enemy rear-guards are being cleared from the area of the Meuse town of Wessem, four miles southwest of Roermond, and all the exits of the town are now under British artillery fire.

Many tanks are backing the British push across the canal. German opposition was described at Field Marshal Montgomery's headquarters today as "variable".

Jap Counters Costly; Turned Back

Suicidal Attacks Halted On Leyte By American Units

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Nov. 18—(AP). — Japanese attempts at counter-attack and reinforcement failed to-day all around the Ormoc perimeter on Leyte Island.

On the north, east and south, American troops broke up the enemy's desperate moves without losing a foot of ground. In some cases they advanced slowly in the face of the Japanese efforts.

The most important of these advances was the completion of an envelopment movement by units south of Limon, four miles from Pinampoan. They threw a road block across the Ormoc highway a mile south of Limon. Japanese supply columns moving north along the road toward bloody Limon village were destroyed.

In the Mount Minoro and Badian areas east of the Ormoc road, other units were reported to have repulsed several suicidal counter-attacks. Terrain in this area is extremely rugged, but artillery brought to bear on the hilltop positions aided the painful American advance.

Another enemy attack was repulsed in the area south of Ormoc on the coastal road. This fight surged around the village of Tabgas, 11 miles south of Ormoc. In the air, the Japanese made more desperation moves. Some 30 enemy aircraft risked American anti-aircraft and fighter patrols to swoop over the Dulag area, on the east coast. American fighters shot down 15, and anti-aircraft gunners destroyed three others.

American planes attacked small craft off the west coast of Leyte and bombed shore positions south of Ormoc, in the sector from which counter-attacks have been coming.

Weather continued to hamper both aerial and land activities. Heavy rains bogged supply roads and interfered with aircraft.

A Horse, Not Japs

LEYTE, Philippines, Nov. 18 — (AP). — American infantrymen were awaiting an almost certain Japanese counter attack. Wired flares were strung around the perimeter so that any intruder would illuminate the area and become a good target for grenade throwers. Suddenly a flare went off. Two grenades hit the spot. The bag—a dead horse and two chickens.

Muddy Landing

WINDSOR, Nov. 18—(CP). —A letter received by her parents here tells how Pte. Mary Gilchrist, CWAC, successfully performed one of the best disappearing acts ever witnessed while doing a show for Canadian troops in Italy. Completing a dance number on an outdoor stage. Pte. Gilchrist said her foot slipped as she was leaving the stage and disappeared through a hole in the flooring. She reappeared later coated with mud from head to foot.

Jet-Propelled Planes Aiding Germans

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 18 — Jet-propelled Messerschmitt Swallows, streaking at about 600 miles an hour high over the Allied lines in Holland, keep the Germans better informed as to Allied troop movements and concentrations than at any time long before D-Day.

Photographic reconnaissance is the most important function of these twin-engined "squirts." But they also make some nuisance raids in which, jet shut off, they dive silently to aim 500-pound bombs at airfields and other targets.

It is only recently that these jet planes came into existence to give the enemy a picture long denied him. Before D-Day Allied fighters destroyed all but a few of the FW190 and ME109 "Recce" planes — not jet-propelled — that ventured over the English Channel in an attempt to photograph invasion points in England, they met the same fate later over Normandy.

Serious Threat

Air Vice-Marshal Harry Broadhurst, commanding a fighter group in the second tactical air force, admits it would be serious "if the Hun could bring enough 'jets' into service to play havoc with our front-line airfields and communications."

But he was quick to add during an interview that there are "a few points that should be considered to keep the matter in its proper prospective."

"First, the enemy may not get a chance to build or operate 'jets' in the number he hopes and needs. He may not use them properly even if he does get them.

Huns Retreat Deeper In Mountains

Flanking Manoeuvre Imperils 3 Hungarian Towns

MOSCOW, Nov. 18 (AP)—German defenders on a battle line stretching northeast from beseiged Budapest gave ground again today in the face of a sustained Russian flanking manoeuvre that pressed the enemy deeper in to the Matra and Bukk mountains on the Slovakian frontier.

The Russian drive imperilled three important Hungarian rail towns—Eger, Miskolc and Hatvan.

The valley town of Eger is on a secondary communications route barely four miles from a Russian column that stormed through Maklar after capture yesterday of Fuzesabony on the Budapest-Miskolc railway. This advance gave the Red Army control of a 27-mile section of that vital line.

A Soviet salient menacing Miskolc was widened with the capture of Tisza Luc, 12 miles to the southeast.

Seizure of Karacsond, midway between Fuzesabony and Hatvan, put the Russians within five miles of Gyoengoes, another enemy base in the foothills of the Matra mountains.

Fierce Tank Battle

Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky claimed no decision yet in the fierce tank battle being waged for Hatvan, 26 miles northeast of the Hungarian capital. The gains during yesterday's fighting were mainly beyond the middle stretch of the Budapest-Miskolc trunk line.

Hatvan, terminal of a main line running north into Slovakia, was reported under attack from three sides. The Russians announced seizure of Csany, five miles southwest of Zsambok, nine miles southwest.

The Russians reported no change in the battle along the fringes of grimly-defended Budapest and likewise maintained silence about the Danube bridgehead south of the capital, in the vicinity of Batina, where Russian and Yugoslav Partisan forces have been driving north from a Belgrade springboard.

The Russian and German air forces yesterday fought stubbornly for control of th air over Hungary. Most of 46 German planes Moscow reported destroyed on the Eastern front were shot down over the Hungarian battlegrounds.

Mounties Deny Underground Ring

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 — (CP). — An official of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police said yesterday there was no underground "ring" in Canada supplying escaped German prisoners with national registration cards.

The official said that an investigation, undertaken to determine how three prisoners-of-war obtained national registration cards, had shown that two of the cards were forged on pieces of paper by the prisoners themselves. The third was believed to have found a wallet containing the registration card made out to a Canadian.

Friedrich Potrich, 24, and Hans Eultgem, 29, recaptured in Vancouver Tuesday, had a card identifying him as William Hodgins of a small town near Gravenhurst, Ont.

The three prisoners and another still at large recently escaped from a western Ontario prisoner-of-war lumber camp.

The official believed that Hack found a wallet following his escape because when recaptured he had in his possession an unemployment insurance card and a substantial amount of money.

These explanations of how the cards were obtained appeared to discount reports that the prisoners possibly were being helped by an underground "ring", he said.

Victory Loan Reaches All-Time High

OTTAWA, Nov. 18—(CP)—The National War Finance Committee today announced subscriptions in Canada's Seventh Victory Loan campaign have reached an all-time high of $1,500,079,600.

The new total for the recent campaign, which had a minimum objective of $1,300,000,000 is $112,000,000 more than was reported at the corresponding period of the Sixth Loan.

Purchases by individuals now stand at $750,076,950 representing an increase of $120,000,000, over the total at the same date in the Sixth Loan. The payroll savings canvass accounted for $223,000,000 and general canvass produced $527,000,000. Purchases by large buyers, including corporations now stand at $750,002,650.

Returns show that more individuals purchased in this loan than ever before. To date $3,179,700 applications have been received, an increase of 233,752 over the Sixth Victory Loan.

One of the outstanding features of the loan is the participation by the armed forces with figures now standing at $56,282,050 of which some $16,000,000 is from overseas. The Navy's total now stands at 61,971 applications for $6,629,050, or 138 per cent of their objective with the Wrens leading with 265 per cent. Naval divisions command have reached 248 and Newfoundland command 162.

The Army has announced a total of $28,752,500 from 275,982 applications or 137 per cent of their objective. The Army competition in Canada is the closest of the past two years with Military District 5, Quebec City, with 201 per cent nosing out Military District 4, Montreal, with 200 per cent. Petawawa Camp and Camp Borden are close behind. Military District 3, Kingston, Ont., scored the highest percentage of personnel participation with 99.

Allied Troops Enter Metz Others Nearing Saar 6 Armies Register Gains

Armored Units Drive Ahead 4 Miles
3rd Army Enters Germany
Advancing Halfway To Town Of Perl

By WILLIAM FRYE—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 18—(AP). — U.S. 3rd Army infantry and armor unleashed a sudden drive on a 15-mile front toward the northern Saar today, sent patrols surging into Germany and troops storming into the fortress of Metz from both north and south. The 3rd Army operations highlighted an advance in which six Allied armies were thrusting forward toward the Rhine all along the 400-mile western front. Lt.-Gen. Patton's infantry crossed the Moselle bridge into Metz from the north during the night, while other patrols from the south also penetrated the city, where the Germans have been preparing a stiff defence in the streets and the thick stone walls of the houses.

Mechanized cavalry patrols stabbed across the German border near Perl, at the corner of the Luxembourg, French and German borders.

Other 3rd Army units developed a thrust 15 miles to the south-east toward the Saar border, and armor newly thrown into the offensive rolled forward four miles to near Bouzonville, 20 miles northwest of Saarbrucken, chief industrial centre of the German valley.

Mechanized Cavalry

Slightly to the north other armored fingers stabbed near Filstroff in a three mile advance to a point two miles from the German border and nine miles west of Saarlouis.

Elements of another mechanized cavalry group entered Merschweiller, a mile south of the German border, on the flank of the thrust into Germany.

The punch into Germany was the second time the 3rd Army has entered enemy territory. Patrols crossed from Luxembourg several weeks ago, but there have been no recent reports of their activity.

The present thrust, front line dispatches said, carried over the boundary a quarter of a mile and halfway to Perl.

These operations were two of a series of advances scored by Gen. Eisenhower's six Allied armies driving toward the Rhine along the 400-mile western front.

At the northern end of the Allied line the British 2nd Army in its sweep through the Maas River bulge in South-eastern Holland established another bridgehead across the Zig Canal, advanced its previous crossing and captured Beringen, 2½ miles south-east of Meijel. British units rapidly were developing a threat to the Dutch border city and communications hub of Venlo, nine miles to the east.

Tommies Mop Up

Farther south Tommies mopped up remaining pockets of the enemy troops and completed their firm hold on the Maas front facing Roermond, like Venlo, a gateway city to Germany.

Ace Air Leader Disappears On India Trip

LONDON, Nov. 18 — (CP). — Air Chief Marshal Sir Trafford Leigh-Mallory was reported missing last night en route to India by plane to take up his post as Allied air commander-in-chief in southeast Asia.

An Air Ministry announcement said a widespread search had yielded no trace of his unescorted plane. Missing with him is his wife, Lady Leigh-Mallory.

The 52-year-old British tactician who as air commander-in-chief of the Allied expeditionary air forces provided the aerial umbrella for the Western Europe invasion flew with an escort to the Mediterranean area. From there he continued alone in a plane flown by a veteran RAF crew.

It was known in London that searching aircraft swept the normal route to Asia without success.

Sir Trafford, who had been in the RAF since the First Great War, was named October 19 to the top air post in Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's southeast Asia command with headquarters at Kandy, Ceylon.

He was named air commander-in-chief of the Allied expeditionary air

Polish Troops Take Mt. Fortino

ROME, Nov. 18.—(AP).— Monte Fortino, five miles south of Faenza, has been captured by Polish troops in the British 8th Army drive on that important communications centre on the Bologna-Rimini Road, Allied Headquarters announced to-day.

Allied troops took the town yesterday in a 1,000 yard advance against the bitterest German resistance and then threw back two heavy counter-attacks.

Elsewhere, to-day's communique said, there was active patrolling along the Italian front "without any substantial changes in our forward positions."

Other 8th Army troops pushed to within four miles of Faenza, encountering stiff opposition.

British infantry and tanks moving northwest of the village of Villagrappa were heavily engaged by the Germans at a road fork 300 yards southeast of Fugna. The Germans in the area were strongly entrenched and backed up by tanks and considerable artillery.

Troops on the Adriatic sector were active in patrol operations. The airport of Molinaccio, less than two miles west of Ravenna, was cleared by tanks and artillery.

German planes bombed Forli in the night, but little military damage was caused.

Borrowed A Camel

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 — (AP).—Harry Berkowitz, 57, custom tailor widely known for unusual methods of publicizing his business, died yesterday. He often used animals, including a camel borrowed from Frank Buck and a burro team, for advertising purposes. His shop featured a photograph of himself kissing the Blarney stone.

Critical Situation Develops In China

Stalin's Blunt Remarks Reveal Russia Disturbed Over Jap Gains

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

I want to distract you from the Allied offensive in Western Europe for a moment to consider another critical situation in our global war—the fresh peril threatening China from the great Japanese offensive, and the volcanic circumstances surrounding it.

We've heard sharp words exchange in the past few days between Moscow and Tokyo, beginning with Marshal Stalin's blunt characterization of Japan as an aggressor nation. The Allied publics have seized eagerly on this as possibly signalling Russia's entrance into the war against Japan.

Close to the Finish

Now that's a startling development, for Moscow and Tokyo long have been observing polite silence towards each other, recognizing that they have a non-aggression pact. What then should cause this sudden heat? Stalin never speaks without purpose.

It strikes me that it may well be connected with China's new danger, which a cabinet spokesman asserts represents the greatest military crisis she has faced in more than seven years of conflict. I'll put a finer point on it than that by saying that China is about as close to being knocked out as she could be and still hang on by her teeth.

The intensified Japanese offensive already has almost completed its capture of the Hankow-Canton railroad, thereby driving a huge corridor—north and south—through the heart of southern China. It has deprived the American air force of invaluable bases near that railway. It rapidly nearing a junction with enemy forces in French Indo-China to create a land route over which supplies could be brought from Indonesia into China and also on to Japan in these days when the Allied navies increasingly threaten Japan's vital sea communications. The Mikado's brigands are even challenging the Chinese capital of Chungking.

Wants Land Route

What's the real meaning of all this? Maj. Gen. Wedemeyer, who recently succeeded Gen. Stilwell as American commander in China, says Japan is pouring a formidable army in South China with the idea of fighting out the war on the continent rather than on her home soil. She already has strong forces in the north and in Manchuria.

This creates a position which not only is a matter of anxiety for China and the western Allies but which Russia can't ignore. If China is to be the site of the Oriental Armageddon it means that huge land forces will have to be brought to bear against the Japanese invaders.

Russia, in recognition of these facts, may be preparing for possible war with Japan. Moscow is nothing if not practical. There's no reason to expect her to come into the Oriental fight unless it serves her own interests.

Dr. Cody Elected Chancellor

Succeeds Sir William Mulock At Toronto

TORONTO, Nov. 18.—(CP).—Dr Henry John Cody, 75 year old president of the University of Toronto, was elected Chancellor of the University last night by unanimous vote of its senate. Dr. Cody, who retires next June from the presidency which he has held since 1932, will complete the 1944-48 term of office, left vacant by the death of Sir William Mulock last month.

The senate voted by a large majority against reconsideration of the method of appointing the Chancellor and this rued out a petition signed by 300 graduates and launched by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, J. S. McLean, Clifford Sifton and John S. Dickson asking the senate to seek an amendment of the University of Toronto Act in the Ontario Legislature to fill the vacancy through a vote of the entire graduate body. A similar move was defeated by the senate Nov. 10

Dr. Cody, who will be succeeded as president by Dr. Sidney Smith, principal of University College and former president of the University of Manitoba, was born in the village of Embro, in Oxford county, Ontario, Dev. 6, 1863.

Develop Power In North

150,000 Horsepower Going To Waste

TORONTO, Nov. 18 — (CP). — Dr. Thomas H. Hogg, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, revealed last night that Hydro survey parties have been and currently are surveying possible power sites along Northern Ontario's rivers and mapping out the routes for lines, which probably will be set up after the war.

While the lines would run through some of the "toughest" country on the continent, Dr. Hogg said he believed the carrying of power through the north would add to the development of resources.

Mining and industry, he added, have been casting their eyes to the north during the war years, but are handicapped because of the lack of manpower and supplies.

East of Sault Ste. Marie, 150,000 horse-power is running away on the Mississauga River, Dr. Hogg stated, and the Timmins mining area is "extending west," and some day there might be a link with the line from the Port Hope area to complete the inter-connecting strings which would bring light, heat and power to the isolated home of the trapper and the streets of new northern cities."

Denies U-Boats Used As Robot Bases

LONDON, Nov. 18 (CP-Reuter)—Naval and air circles warned last night against taking too seriously reports that the Germans have been fitting up submarines with launching devices capable of directing flying bombs against North American cities. Such reports have been current in London and Stockholm for the last 24 hours.

Walter Farr, London Daily Mail correspondent in Stockholm, "broke" the story today, but it also was current in London many hours before and could not be published. Farr said both surface and underwater vessels were being fitted along the Norwegian coast as robot-bomb launchers. The London report mentioned only submarines.

However, it was considered improbable that V-1 (the flying bomb) could be discharged from the deck of a submarine mainly because the initial flying speed required to launch the present flying bomb to make it airborne is about 200 miles an hour.

Neither by catapulting the bombs from the submarine's deck nor by using their own propulsive power could effective launching be achieved, it is thought. The terrific heat engineered by the exhaust for the initial take-off would be the chief difficulty to overcome.

The weight of the flying bomb probably would make it impossible for it to be airborne from sea level without a much larger wing surface, and, although this might be attained by telescopic wings, it would be necessary to retract the extension to a smaller area, otherwise the bomb would merely fly upward and not forward.

There is little doubt that flying bombs could be launched from the decks of large surface vessels, however. But the risk of founderng or damaging the vessel would be considerable.

The naval view here is that such surface vessels would be extremely vulnerable to air and sea attack.

Roy Moore Improving English Aunt Writes

Pte. Roy Moore who was wounded in Holland a few weeks ago is still in hospital, but improving, according to word received by his mother, Mrs. A. V. Moore, 43 Frank street, from her sister in England, who visited him

"I just got back from seeing Roy and I cannot tell you how pleased I was to see him looking so well after what he has been through. He never stopped talking and I was with him from 1.30 until 9 p.m. He is suffering from shrapnel in the hip and leg, but has no bones broken. They have used about $300 worth of penicillin on him, and he had three blood transfusions.

"There was an air raid on while I was there and it was the first time I have heard the siren in two years. It shook me a bit, but Roy just held my hand and said not to worry that they were there with me. It sounded so funny to hear him say that, and then to look around at the calm faces of the patients, most of whom were in bed.

"My husband and I had both intended going to London, but we cannot pick up and go just when we feel like it. We have to get permission from the London Headquarters before we can travel. They granted me a day and I couldn't get there fast enough.

Stewart To Address Farmers' Federation

At the annual meeting of the Peterborough Federation of Agriculture on Friday, November 24, at 8 p.m. in the Co-Op Hall, the speaker will be R. A. Stewart, president of the Lanark Federation, Almonte. Directors will be elected and other matters dealt with.

In connection with the farm radio forums, Wesley Neelands has arranged for a meeting at the Co-Op Hall on Tuesday, November 28, at which the speakers will be Rev. George Morrison of Wyevale, Simcoe County, and A. Reynolds, rural minister at Annan, Grey County, who are coming to Peterborough through the co-operation of the Home Mission Board of the United Church.

We know that the morale and training of his fighter pilots are at a low ebb. Formations of 50 FW 190's and ME 109's often run away from five or six Tempests or Spitfires.

"By careful tactical planning and the superior morale of our pilots our present fighters can and do provide the Swallow with formidable opposition.

"Even if we had insufficient jet-planes of our own to engage the German 'jets' in air combat, we could get at them by bombing their air bases and sending our ordinary fighters to wait for them as they returned to their special airfields.

"We are already successfully carrying out a new form of intruder work.

"Tempests have pounced on unsuspecting Swallows as they went in to land. Thoroughly frightened, the Huns hared off at tremendous speed to land perhaps at smaller airfields, where they had to be dismantled and taken to their own bases by road, because of their long take-off.

"Lastly," Broadhurst concluded, "German Swallows dive-bombing our airfields, troops and other targets, would have to run the gauntlet of masses of anti-aircraft fire."

Clarence Downer Back From Italy

Fighting that raged along the vaunted Hitler Line in Italy proved the toughest going, according to a young veteran of that campaign, Pte. Clarence W. Downer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Downer, 172 Lake street, who arrived in Canada recently aboard a hospital ship, and is now home on leave.

"They say the Gothic Line was even worse," he said today, "but I didn't go through all the battles of that line."

The young soldier was wounded in the left arm twice, while serving in Italy with the Hastings and Prince Edward regiment, attached to the British 8th Army. The first time was in July, 1943, when a German hand-grenade landed and blew up about six yards from him, and flying fragments from the missile struck his arm, sending him to the hospital for a short time. Then in August, while making an advance somewhere on the Gothic Line, fragments from an exploding shell again struck him, and he was returned to hospital.

"The shell just came over, and.... BANG! That was all!" he said. A stretcher-bearer reached him in a few minutes, and he was in a first-aid post only twenty-minutes later.

Pte. Downer was with the invasion forces that landed on the shores of Sicily, fought through that rocky country and invaded Italy. At the time of the fall of Rome, he was engaged in heavy fighting about 35 miles away from the capital.

Not Much Protection

Throughout the campaigns in Italy, the troops slept in pup tents, two men to a tent, he said, winter and summer. Of course, this was all behind the lines some distance, and right at the front, it was quite common to sleep out in the open, even during the winter.

Mail reaches the troops in Italy regularly, Pte. Downer said, but unless you remain with your regiment, it is liable to get mixed up. Being in and out of hospitals complicates the situation also.

Although this young soldier has seen many German prisoners, the only one whom he talked to was a Nazi youth of about 16 or 17 years of age. The younger Germans, he said, still think Hitler is going to win the war, but the older soldiers "have it all figured out, that it is just a matter of time."

Now at home, Pte. Downer isn't sure just where he will go after his leave is over, but it is expected that further hospital treatment is in store. A former employee of the Canadian General Electric Company, he enlisted in the Prince of Wales Rangers (C.A.) in April, 1942, later transferring to the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. Pte. Downer has been overseas since September, 1942.

Allied Bombers Pound Reich

LONDON, Nov. 18.—(CP).— Allied bombers attacked Western and Southern Germany again to-day, causing German raid warnings.

Bad weather grounded British-based heavy bombers again yesterday and last night, but U.S. medium and fighter-bombers based in France flew more than 500 sorties against fortified German cities and ground defences along the American sectors of the western front.

More than 700 bombers and 350 fighters of the U.S. 15th Air Force in Italy attacked targets in Germany, Austria and Yugoslavia for the third straight day. Fifteen heavy bombers and ten fighters were lost.

Name Herb Frost WEA President

After four years' suspension while university grants were cut off under the necessity of war, the Workers' Educational Association re-organized this week with Herb Frost as president, vice-president Robert Ward, Albert Borland secretary, and H. J. Pearce, treasurer.

Motion pictures on UNRRA (United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Association) were shown by John Wigdor of Toronto, assistant general secretary of the Provincial W.E.A. Present membership of 30 is expected to be doubled in the near future. The first meeting will be held on Tuesday, November 28, in a class room at the Collegiate Institute which has been provided by the Board of Education.

The subject of the evening will be shown by visual medium of education, motion pictures on "Our Northern Neighbor, Russia." It is followed by a discussion trailer to stimulate similar questions from the audience. The pictures also include a short sing-song period.

The executive is planning half a dozen lectures on post-war planning, inviting local speakers to deal with topics of management, labor, municipal and health. After that it will be up to the class to decide its course.

Collision Takes Place On Lakefield Road

Thomas Gordon, Buckhorn, had a narrow escape from injury late Friday afternoon when the car he was driving collided with a gravel truck driven by Arthur Williamson, Omemee, on the Lakefield road, just north of the city.

Gordon was driving north and the truck travelling in the same direction was turning to enter a gravel pit when the collision occurred. The automobile was wedged into the truck after the crash and was considerably damaged around the front.

Gordon was shaken up but escaped without injury.

Allies Enter

On the 13-mile-wide front east and north-east of Aachen the Germans were unable to check the momentum of the massive drive by the U.S. 1st and 9th Armies toward Cologne and the industrial Ruhr.

First Army units, slamming through a breach east of Stolberg, were reported to have driven through stubborn resistance to within 25 miles of the Rhine, but official secrecy blanked detailed information from that front.

In the shadow of the Swiss Alps French Colonials punched well into the 15-mile wide Belfort gap and were within five miles of its narrowest part at Belfort.

On the extreme southern end of the Allied line tanks of the French 1st Army smashing into Belfort Gap overran the fortified town of Montbeliard and took Hericourt, five miles from the city of Belfort, in gains of three to four miles on a 13 mile front, Belfort now was within range of artillery.

North of the French the U. S. 7th Army lunged forward in a general assault which gained two to three miles all along a 30-mile front pointed at Strasbourg on the Rhine. The 7th Army closed in on Blamont, Badonviller and St. Die. Blamont is 40 miles due west of Strasbourg.

Great Strength.

The six Allied armies, swelled to a fighting force of 1,250,000 men with a similar number in reserve, were attacking German lines believed held by fewer than 500,000 troops.

The Germans were putting up their stiffest fight against the U. S. 1st and 9th Armies slugging their way for the third day toward the Roer river, the first natural barrier before the Rhine.

Fighter bombers, supporting the ground operations on all sectors of the front, bombed and strafed the enemy from Duren in the Aachen area to Colmar and Mulhouse in the south, hitting fortified towns, gun positions, strong points and other defence positions, as well as front-line troops, rail transportation targets and supply dumps.

Although the exact extent of the main drive for the Rhineland, the twin assaults of the 1st and 9th Armies east and north-east of Aachen, still was shrouded in official secrecy, front-line dispatches told of the capture of Gressenich yesterday by the 1st Army, while the 9th, seizing four towns the first day, also took more than 1,000 prisoners before its drive was 24 hours old.

Chinese Ready To Storm Bhamo

KANDY, Ceylon, Nov. 18.—(CP-Reuter).—Chinese troops attacking Bhamo, Japanese strongpoint at the eastern end of the Japanese line guarding the approaches to Central Burma, now have consolidated their positions in readiness for the final onslaught on the town, it was announced to-day.

The Japanese who occupy an area three miles long and two miles wide are facing a solid wall of Chinese to the north and east and south. All lines of escape have been blocked.

On the Chindwin front Allied troops have pushed southwards from Kalemyo for more than 10 miles.

Heavy bombers caused severe damage to objectives on the Bangkok-Chiengmai railway on Thursday.

forces when it was constituted at the end of 1943. In that command he controlled history's greatest assembly of air power. Previous to that he was air officer commanding-in-chief, R.A.F. fighter command.

His various R.A.F. commands were unofficially credited with destroying about 6,000 German planes up to Jan. 1, 1944.

Before relinquishing his command under Gen. Eisenhower, Sir Trafford told a press conference: "The Luftwaffe is defeated. If the Germans had planes to put into the air they would not submit to the bombing they are receiving day and night."

Many Decorations

A veteran of the First Great War, Sir Trafford was in the R.A.F. ever since. He rose to prominence in this war when he took command of one of the R.A.F.'s busiest fighter groups in the battle of Britain. He directed a wing which destroyed 150 German planes in seven engagements.

Sir Trafford's chest bore many decorations. The last of these—the degree of Chief Commodore of the Legion of Merit, an American award—was presented to him Nov. 3 by Gen. Eisenhower. In October the Soviet government awarded him the Order of Kutusov, First Class, for his invasion work. As commander of the air forces taking part in the Canadian-led combined operations raid at Dieppe in August, 1942, he won a Bar to his Distinguished Service Order.

Sir Trafford was born July 11, 1892, and entered the Liverpool Territorial regiment as a private after leaving Magdalene College, Cambridge where he studied law. His father and grandfather had both been rectors at Mobberly, Cheshire. He was granted a commission and went to France for the First Great War as a subaltern. In July, 1916, he entered the Royal Flying Corps and as a flying officer won the D.S.O. When the war ended in 1918 he was granted a permanent commission as squadron leader in the R.A.F.

Sir Trafford and Lady Leigh-Mallory have one son and one daughter. The latter, Jacqueline, is flight officer in the Women's Auxiliary Air Force.

Past Mistakes Point Way To Better World

COBOURG, Nov. 18 (ENS)—"The pendulum of destiny has swung—already we have rung the front door bell at Tokyo—the Russian Bear is clawing at the back door of Germany and the Lion and the Eagle are waiting at the front," declared Dr. George Kells, superintendent of the Ontario Hospital, in a stirring address last night at the annual armistice dinner in the Baltimore Hotel.

At the head table were Mayor Jack Burnet, chairman James Rollings, Arthur Waller, Bob Pratt, Councillor Douglas Glenn, Lorne Anderson and Congressman J. Rogers of Rochester, N.Y.

The toast to the King was proposed by Fred Greer; Arnold Hall proposed the toast to the women members of the Legion, which was responded to by Mrs. M. MacLaren; Lorne Anderson proposed the toast to the boys in the fighting line, wounded and returned men of the present war. The reply to this toast was made by W.O. Eddie Hibart, Trenton. During the evening Ed Houghton and Jack Huycke led in community singing with Mrs. Lenore Greer at the piano. Mr. Houghton also sang "When the Lights Go On Again All Over the World."

Want Zombies Sent

Secretary David Carr read a letter from the Legion headquarters of Ontario which urged the various Legion groups to sound out their respective members of parliament on their stand on sending the draftees overseas and the local Legion accordingly voted unanimously to draft a resolution setting forth the Legion's endorsation of the move to send the draftees to the fighting fronts.

During the course of the evening, chairman James Rollings announced that the Legion had purchased the former K. of C. Hall on King street for use as a Legion Hall. Due to the fact that the Legion could not get a building permit, the proposed location on the corner of Albert and First streets has been given up.

In his opening remarks to the Legion, Dr. Kells, who was introduced by Mayor Burnet recalled that after the Great War, coming home from four years of it, he had pledged himself to be more articulate in expressing opinions as to what should be done and what should not be done.

Receive Too Little

"Gentlemen, we are very frail, shortsighted, easily appeased and lax in carrying out in a sustained way the best and prayerful intentions made under stress. In a larger way public memory is short and the community soon forgets. But it did seem to me that men as well as governments, who deserved so much, received so little," declared Dr. Kells.

The speaker related that when he returned to London in 1920, where he belonged to the Student Club International, he met many foreign students who had returned to finish their academic education. Almost without exception these foreign students criticized everything that was British. Lloyd George was on the wane, Bonar Law soon took over; Ramsay MacDonald was leaning towards an imperfectly delineated socialism. To him, said Dr. Kells, George Bernard Shaw seemed the most un-British of them all. He recalled when much of the inside information of the government was flashed out to all and sundry — all the plans of the base at Singapore were freely given to the world and absorbed particularly by the Jap. Lloyd George gave to the world much information gained, not as a private citizen, but as a premier.

Stood Alone

The speaker went on to relate the tragedies that followed when Nazism and Fascism burst into power. For the better part of two years England parried with the dictators alone and held the bridge, like Horatio of old, until Russia stemmed the tide and America threw its great weight of men and arms into the conflict. Since then the tide has been turning until now the aggressor nations are face to face with defeat.

'Ribbentrop—the great and genial ambassador abroad who was at one time feasted, petted and confided in by our smart society at Ottawa, now freely states that Germany cannot be defeated but keeps a private plane ready—just in case. Goebbels, probably has his lethal dose secreted on his person for his final flight—just in case. As for Hitler, like Victor Hugo's description of Napoleon after Waterloo, 'he is being denounced by the infinite and his fall has been decided upon.' This is not just a victory—it is a change of front for the universe," stated Dr. Kells.

The speaker advised the Legion, as an organization, to stay out of politics but to act as a stabilizing influence in the new order of things to come. He said that he did not regard politicians as a "bad lot" as the average politician was more honest than many who were criticizing him. As individuals no one has a greater right than the war veteran to enter the realm of politics whether municipal, provincial or federal.

Canada has become very cosmopolitan, he went on, pointing out that the casualty lists and the honor rolls bore names which had not come from British or French-Canadian stock.

All Make Sacrifices

"The sons of foreign parentage are making, with the rest, the supreme sacrifice for our country and the principles of justice and humanity. Many of their quiet resting places, unmarked—bring near to our Canadian hearts, places made sacred by their life's blood on foreign soil. For those, the living who shall return to us, the dead shall not have died in vain, or shall we say the dead will live again, and never die, if we, the living, who are here but only do our duty," he declared in conclusion.

Congressman Rogers gave a brief speech in which he eulogized the re-elected president of the United States and a re-elected Democratic Congress as pledged to maintain peace once the war was over in the east and in the west. It was fitting that he a member of the country to the south, was able to sit in with the veterans of Canada as the manhood and womanhood of both countries were together in a common conflict against the dictator nations he asserted.

"We are pledged to act swiftly, when the war is over, in chopping off the head of the first snake which rears its head in aggression," he declared.

Obituaries

WARREN W. MALLORY.

Resident of Peterborough sixty years Warren William Mallory, Wolsley Street, died at Nicholls Hospital on Thursday at the age of 81 years. He was the son of Alan Mallory and his wife Maria Robinson of Kendal, Clarke Township, Durham, and is survived by his wife, the former Elizabeth Matthews, one son Harvey of Rochester, N.Y., and one stepson Leonard Wheeler. Mr. Mallory was a carpenter.

The funeral took place today at 3 p.m. to Little Lake Cemetery from the Nisbett Funeral Home.

DAVID B. McGARVEY.

MARMORA, Nov. 18 — (ENS). — The funeral of the late David B. McGarvey took place Friday afternoon, leaving his late residence for service at St. Paul's Church at 2 p.m. Rev. J. M. Brownlie, who officiated, gave a comforting message on the love of Jesus.

At the request of the family, Mrs. Wesley Hamilton sang "The Old Rugged Cross." The church was well filled with mourners and friends, and interment was made in the family plot in Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Manley Lavender, William Lavender, Dan Osborne, Dan Shannon, James Bailey and Julian Bedore.

MRS. ROBERT CLEARY.

Mrs. Robert Cleary, of Hastings, formerly Theresa Downs, passed away in St. Joseph's Hospital Friday after a brief illness. She was 77 years of age.

Mrs. Cleary was born in Hastings, the daughter of the late John Downs and Margaret Kennedy, and has lived there all her life. She was a devout member of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, Robert Cleary, two sons, Fred at home, and Rev. L. A. Cleary, P.P., Victoria Road, and four daughters, Rev. Sister Celine and Rev. Sister Roberta, both of Peterborough, Mrs. C. R. Coughlin (Agnes), of Norwood, and Mrs. F. L. Melady, (Regina), of Parry Sound. A brother, Thomas Downs, lives in Akron, Ohio, and there are 12 grandchildren.

The funeral will be held Monday from the family residence to Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, for Mass at 10 o'clock. Rev. Fr. Cleary will conduct the service. Burial will be in Our Lady of Mount Carmel cemetery.

MRS. MARTHA HAMILTON

A resident of this city for more than 30 years, Mrs. Martha Hamilton, 514 Water street, died Friday in Nicholls Hospital, in her 78th year. She had been ailing for about a week.

The former Martha Allen, Mrs. Hamilton was born in Verulam township, daughter of the late James Allen and Rebecca Wray. Before coming to Peterborough, she resided in Bobcaygeon for a time. Mrs. Hamilton was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. Her husband, the late George Andrew Hamilton, predeceased her 12 years ago.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. M. J. Brown, Mrs. A. M. Pidgeon, Mrs. G. Frise, all of Peterborough, and Mrs. C. Prior, of Stratford, two sons, Douglas, of Peterborough, and Wilburn, of Toronto, two sisters, Mrs. M. Thurston, of Dunsford, and Mrs. M. Garlick, of Toronto, and two brothers, Joseph and William, both of Toronto.

The funeral will be Monday afternoon at two o'clock, from the Nisbett Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street. Rev. W. L. Newton, of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

Cpl. J. F. Jones Invalided Home

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 18 (ENS)—Corporal J. F. Jones, who enlisted in Kingston, June 22, 1941, in the R.C.A. and went overseas September 24, 1941, has been invalided home from Italy on a 30-day leave. Corporal Jones is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John W. Jones of Meyersburg, and his brother Wilson lives in Campbellford.

In company with 425 returning Canadian soldiers, about 100 of whom were minus legs and arms, 300 were stretcher patients and only 125 could walk, came over on the British ship, Aba, and landed in Halifax.

He says that reinforcements are scarce in Italy for the two Canadian divisions there. Men who had served in the artillery for three or four years were given two or more weeks training in the infantry and sent to the front as reinforcements. Hon. Mr. Ralston visited the troops there and saw conditions. They never get Canadian food, and use New Zealand mutton. The general food situation is poor, being all dehydrated and tinned. All the soldiers feel that they are not getting the support they should from Canada, for the British in July of this year have taken even the artillery and service corps and put them in the infantry to bolster up the depleted ranks.

Only men and more men can oust the Germans from their strongly fortified positions, he says, as they have dug into the rock, and planes or artillery cannot reach them, while the Canadians have to advance through broken roads and mud, up the side of a mountainous country.

Corporal Jones does not expect to be able to return overseas because of an infected wound, but expects that Mrs. Jones, who now resides in Hastings, England, will be able to join him shortly.

Shortwave Broadcast Tells Of Prisoner Son

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 18. — (ENS).—Mr. W. M. Grieves has received the following message broadcast over radio shortwave, Tokyo, Nov. 13, 1944, 11.30 p.m. P.W.T. from her son, Richard Grieves, P.O.W. Tokyo:

"Dear Mother and Family—I am fine and hope you are too. Wilmer, I suppose, is grown up now. Is Shirley going to school? Does Bill still live in Lindsay? Have you seen Larry and ——lately. Tell Will I asked for him. Where are Ruby and Charlie, Fred Mc——still well——Arch Tatfield, Sam——it will soon be winter. Don't forget to send me some snapshots when you write—soon, I hope. Best regards——"

This was heard by Mrs. Nine H. Newman, Alabama street, 416, San Gabriel, California, who adds this note: "I pray that your loved one will soon be re-united with you. Sincerely, N.N., Nov. 13, 1944.

Think, Before You Vote

Last year's deficit at Nicholls Hospital, was $40,000.00 and this year's deficit is expected to be even higher, and it all will have to be paid by City taxpayers. Almost a half of this deficit was caused by patients from outside the city, and even outside the county.

Do you think it fair that you should pay part of the hospital bills for outside patients, in addition to your own? And on an increased assessment?

Have this in mind when you are asked to approve a new hospital

PETERBOROUGH PROPERTY OWNERS' ASSOCIATION

Sweden Expels German Baron

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 18—(AP)—The Swedish government announced Friday that Baron Von Goessler, head of the German Tourist Bureau who was arrested two weeks ago as a spy suspect, had been expelled from Sweden.

Von Goessler left by plane for Germany.

The Government also ordered the expulsion of Henning Dalsgaard, Danish journalist who was interned two months ago when he came to Sweden as a "refugee." The Danish press service said Dalsgaard wrote pro-Nazi propaganda articles for Danish newspapers.

These announcements followed by a day the statement by D.N.B., official German agency, that Dr. H. Thomsen, German minister to Stockholm, had been recalled to Berlin for a report. It is believed here he will return to Stockholm in about a week.

Swedish press dispatches said the minister would report on the Swedish protest against a German declaration which made the Baltic sea and the gulf of Bothnia war zones. Informed quarters here took the view Thomsen would report also on Swedish agitation for organization of a volunteer corps to assist in clearing the Nazis from Norway.

Vickers Chief Seriously Ill

LONDON, Nov. 18 — (CP). — Commander Sir Charles Craven, 60, chairman and managing director of Vickers-Armstrong's, Ltd., died today. The $80,000-a-year chief of the Vickers group, one of Britain's leading industrialists, had been seriously ill since Monday.

In his industries, he employed directly 100,000 workers, but his work as controller-general at the Ministry of Aircraft Production, adviser to the Minister of Production and as director of numerous concerns affected millions.

Although he was Britain's largest private employer before the war he had little publicity.

He was a submarine commander at 22. He left the navy in 1912 to join Vickers as a technical adviser.

Lady Craven died last September.

Sapper Walter Ziroff Reported Improved

BUCKHORN, Nov. 18 — (ENS). — Mrs. Ziroff of Buckhorn received a telegram from Ottawa Friday, informing her that her husband, Sapper Walter Ziroff, officially reported seriously wounded on September 7 is making satisfactory progress and is removed from the seriously ill list. If further information is received it will be forwarded as soon as received. Sapper Ziroff is now in hospital in England.

Christianity and Democracy Are Very Closely Related

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL.

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for November 19 is Micah 4, 1-5; Mark 12, 13-17; Romans 13, 8-10; I. Peter 2, 13-17, the Golden Text being Galatians 6, 2: "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ.")

The passage in Micah which is the first to which we are referred in our lesson to-day, is similar to one we had in our last lesson from Isaiah, where we are told that the Lord shall establish His house on the mountain top and all the nations of the earth will flock there and be judged. Some would be rebuked, and men should thereafter beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks, and there should not be war any more.

"But they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree and none shall make them afraid; for the mouth of the Lord of Hosts hath spoken it."

"For all people will walk every one in the name of his god, and we will walk in the name of the Lord our God for ever and ever."

Isn't that a comforting picture now when we are in the midst of a terrible war? Let us look forward to it in hope and trust.

Jesus and the Roman Coin.

One of the stories of Jesus' life on earth of which we never tire is the tale of the tax or tribute to Rome. The enemies of Jesus were always trying to catch Him in the statements which they could say were blasphemous or treasonable. This time they began to flatter Him by saying that they knew that He did not regard the "person of men, but teachest the way of God in truth: Is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar, or not?"

This was a very much disputed point with the Jews. They were under the yoke of the Roman government. The government must raise taxes so that it could be carried on, but should these Jews, ruled against their wills, pay this tax? Jesus simply said, after telling them that He knew their hypocrisy, "Why tempt ye me? Bring me a penny that I may see it."

There stood the Master with the coin in His hand. "Whose image and superscription?" He asked. "Caesar's," they answered. These were coins, also, that everyone—the Jews and Romans—used in trade, etc. Jesus answered them again: "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's."

"And they marvelled at Him." Well they might.

In his letters to the Romans Paul gives his views on the same question. He advises them to "Owe no man anything, but to love one another; for he that loveth hath fulfilled the law.

"For this, thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not kill, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, Thou shalt not covet; and if there be any other commandment, it is briefly comprehended in this saying, namely, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.

Love Worketh No Ill.

"Love worketh no ill to his neighbor; therefore love is the fulfilling of the law."

How much we read of love in the Bible. Love the Lord thy God; love thy neighbor. How easy it is to say it; how hard to obey the commandment.

Lastly, Peter gives us his view of Christianity and Democracy. He says to "the strangers scattered through Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia and Bothynia." "Submit yourselves to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake: whether it be to the king as supreme;

"Or unto governors, as unto them that are sent by him for the punishment of evildoers, and for the praise of them that do well.

"For so is the will of God, that with well doing ye may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men.

"As free, and not using your liberty for a cloak of maliciousness but as servants of God.

"Honor all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honor the king."

That is being a Christian in a democracy: To obey the laws of the land and of your religion and ethics.

To honor the rulers and not only them, but all men—everywhere, no matter what their race or color. To remember that God is their Father, too, and that their dignity and worth as men should be upheld.

Not to use your freedom as a cloak of hypocrisy, but to live simply, obeying the early laws and loving al men as brothers.

34TH ANNIVERSARY—Knox United Church will observe its 34rd anniversary on Sunday, with Rev. J. E. Todd, B.A., D.D., of St. Clair Avenue United Church, Toronto, being the guest speaker at both services. Dr. Todd is a former pastor of George Street United Church. Charles Hemsley, baritone, will sing at both services, and a reception will be held in the lecture hall of the church at the close of the evening service, when the congregation will spend a social hour with their guests. All friends in the city of Dr. Todd and Mr. Hemsley are cordially welcomed.

John Chrow Dies in Victoria

Mrs. Margartt Turner, widow of W. R. Turner, 715 Water Street, has received word of the recent death in St. Joseph's Hospital, Victoria, B.C., of her brother, John Chrow, aged 82 years.

Born in Peterborough, the late Mr. Chrow had resided in Victoria for 54 years. He was a member of St. Andrew's Lodge, A.F. and A. M., and past president of the Victoria Typographical Union.

He learned the printing trade in Peterborough and then went West. For over 45 years Mr. Chrow had been associated with the mechanical staff of the Victoria Colonist.

Surviving relatives are his widow Elizabeth, three daughters, Misses Mildred, Allison and Connie at home, one brother Albert Chrow, Cleveland, Ohio, and one sister, Mrs Turner, here.

Right Rev. H. E. Sexton, Bishop of British Columbia, officiated at the funeral service in Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria, assisted by the Very Rev. S. H. Elliott. Interment took place in the family plot at Royal Oak Burial Park, where the Worshipful Master, officers and members of St. Andrew's Lodge, No. 49, A.F. and A.M., conducted the Masonic burial service.

Ancient, Modern Experience

REV. E. R. JAMES

THE WICKED WALK ON EVERY SIDE WHEN THE VILEST MEN ARE EXALTED. Ps. 12; 8.

What a commentary on modern life as you think of Hitler and his followers. A thoughtful Jew living more than twenty-five centuries ago is watching life. Are you watching life on the cars and trains or are you so absorbed in your novel? The great popular novelists write of life in such a manner that you see them. They watch and their hearts are moved and their pens describe just ordinary men and women. Do you find such people interesting and are your eyes open to see them?

This is a thumb nail sketch by the Psalmist:—"The wicked walk on every side when the vilest men are exalted". Dr. Moffatt, a famous modern commentator, gives this thought stirring translation:—"This world of men where all around us the ungodly strut and where base creatures rise to power." How the expression "The ungodly strut" catches you imagination.

Many centuries later the greatest of all teachers, the Lord Christ, utters this thought shaking truth:—"Out of the heart proceed evil thoughts". The wisest of soul Physicians is speaking. Can you cry:—"Create in me a clean heart, O Lord, and renew a right spirit within me"?

The inward thought shows itself in word or walk. "He struts" muses the Psalmist, because his thoughts are evil. When your heart is full of joy and gladness it shows in your speech or walk. Sorrow makes your feet drag. You are heavy laden.

The Lord Christ calls men to walk with Him. "Follow Me and learn of Me" He commands. He called a small band of men "that they might be with Him"; that they might drink in His spirit and walk in His way. Towards the end of His earthly ministry He makes this tremendous claim:—"I am the Way". It gripped the imagination and the early Christians were called "The men of the Way". Those who followed Him in the days of His ministry did not find it easy. His teaching was full of startling and upsetting ideas. "Many of His disciples went away and walked no more with Him". They could not accept His new teaching. Every thoughtful man since has recognized this.

Are you a Christian? Have you this "strut" in your walk or speech? Very probably in speech. Voices of religious men on the radio throb and reek with religiosity. Unconsciously they cry:—"I am sure of my goodness; it even affects my voice. When such a voice enters your room turn off the radio and offer the supplication:—"Lord, open his ears that he may hear".

You cannot imagine Our Lord speaking in such a voice. The Pharisee stood at the street corners and recited his prayers. The Pharisee never dies. His clothes may change but his spiritual superiority is revealed by his speech and walk. The loving, tender Saviour utters His most terrible words against such men:—"Ye generation of vipers; how can ye escape the damnation of hell"? St. Matthew 23; 33.

You may be but a cup bearer in the House of the Lord. In such a service you will carry the cup of comfort to sorrowing and tear laden hearts. Your walk will be full of humility and quietness. There can be no "ungodly strut" in speech or walk.

To qualify for that service you will have tested of the cup of sorrows and grief and been comforted by the great Comforter Himself. He will give you the words of comfort and your foot fall in the house of sorrow will be very welcome. Perhaps you will fulfill unconsciously the ancient prophecy:—"How beautiful are the feet of them that bring good tidings."

MARY SAT AT THE FEET OF JESUS AND HEARD HIS WORD.

Scripture—Micah 4:1-5; Mark 12:13-17; Romans 13:8-10; I Peter 2:13-17

The nations shall sit, "every man under his vine and under his fig tree, and none shall make them afraid, for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it."

"Owe no man any thing, but to love one another for he that loveth another hath fulfilled the law. Love worketh no ill to his neighbor.

Submit yourselves to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake whether it be to the king, as supreme, or unto governors sent to punish evil doers.

Peter wrote in his epistle to do well, as free men; to honor all men, love the brotherhood, fear God, honor the ruler. GOLDEN TEXT—Gal. 6:2.

Some Facts On Reinforcements

Since Colonel Ralston resigned from the Cabinet on the first of November much has been said and written to cloud the issue which led him to do so—the reinforcement of the Canadian Army in Europe. Some of this obfuscation has been intentional and some of it has been the result of attempts to clarify the situation without sufficient reliable information. But certain facts concerning the matter now appear to be well established, and at the risk of repeating what our readers already know we shall put them down here.

* * *

The crisis in the matter of reinforcements concerns the infantry alone, and it may be considered both as a long-term problem and as an immediate one. All the men in England and in Canada who are thought to be available to fulfil the need for reinforcements have been used, and it is estimated that they will be exhausted by the early part of December; therefore men to reinforce our infantry must be found within a matter of three weeks, and they must be trained men.

* * *

Colonel Ralston says that all the available volunteers, and all the 16,000 trained infantrymen in the draftee army, will only suffice to provide our army abroad with reinforcements until June, 1945. But the war may continue beyond that date, and therefore Colonel Ralston thinks that the non-infantry draftees should be given infantry training in the meanwhile, in order to keep up reinforcements. There, briefly, are the two problems, long-term and short-term: we need reinforcements in December, and we need them next summer, too.

* * *

Why are we short of reinforcements? Presumably because the General Staff made a bad guess about the course the war would take and did not provide the Army with enough infantrymen; this sort of thing is always liable to happen, because General Staffs are not wizards and cannot foretell the future. It is our custom to maintain reinforcement pools in England, and to supply these pools from Canada; casualties are replaced at once with men from the pools. Apparently when Colonel Ralston went to the battlefronts a few weeks ago he found that these pools were almost dry, and that there were no more volunteer infantry reinforcements to fill them up. Colonel Ralston saw only one solution, and that was to send the 8,000 trained infantrymen of the draftee army abroad at once, to fill the gap in December, and to follow them in February with 8,000 more who would be ready then.

* * *

Colonel Ralston's position now seems to be clear. Where the Prime Minister and the new Minister of Defence stand in this matter we shall presumably find out next Wednesday. Their presentation of the problem and their figures may differ from Colonel Ralston's, but it is not likely. Colonel Ralston was an honourable and able Minister of Defence, and everything that he has said since his resignation has been moderate in tone. The difference is not likely to be one of fact, but of opinion. General McNaughton is known to have disagreed with the General Staff on many matters, and he may disagree with their view of this reinforcement problem. But until we know what stand he means to take, and what alternative, if any, he is advancing to Colonel Ralston's solution, judgement must be reserved. The situation is full of dynamite, but the charge may be wet; we can only wait and see.

Lord Woolton says, "I know of no way to prosperity except through work". Poor fellow! He hasn't been listening to our planners.

Keeping Guard On Justice

Widespread interest will be felt in the case of the two R.C.M.P. constables who have been found guilty of manslaughter by a Quebec court. They were pursuing a young man whom they wanted to arrest as a draft-dodger, and they shot at him and killed him. In such cases officers of the law are expected to use firearms only as a last resort, and they are expected also to take pains not to kill the man at whom they shoot. Apparently the court doubted that these conditions had been met, but the jury appealed for clemency for the constables.

Justice is in a healthy condition in a country where members of a police force can be charged with having acted illegally, and where the charge can be upheld by the court. But there are instances, even here, where justice appears to be obscured by prejudice.

We are thinking of a case which Mr. Elmore Philpott has given some publicity; it concerns a Mrs. Annie Rezanoff, a Doukhobor woman, who has been sentenced to thirty months of imprisonment for taking part in one of the stripping protests to which her sect has resorted in the West. Mrs. Rezanoff is pregnant, and it appears that she will have to bear her child in prison, after which it will be taken from her and tended until she is released.

Perhaps the judge who passed sentence on this woman was acting in strict accordance with the law; that is his duty. But there are authorities higher than he who could take the proper steps to prevent an inhumane and unjust action by this Dominion against a woman who is not guilty of any serious crime. At least a dozen other women of her sect have offered to serve her sentence for her, if she can be released to bear her child in liberty. Surely that should satisfy the law? It wants to make an example of a few Doukhobors; does it matter which they are? The Doukhobors came to this county to find freedom of worship; if they find this sort of bowelless justice in the country of their choice, they will certainly need a strong faith to sustain them.

A Room Of One's Own

In a recent editorial about school homework the Brantford Expositor makes the excellent point that in the modern home there is often no place where a child can go to prepare its lessons where it can be quiet and alone; houses appear to be growing smaller and smaller, and more and more people live in apartments in which space is painfully limited. A child who is trying to do his algebra problems on the "dinette" table while his parents talk and listen to the radio, and his small sister beats a tattoo on the floor at his feet deserves pity, for less than fifty per cent. of his mind is on the work in hand; the rest is occupied in coping with distractions.

It was not so long ago that a family in modest circumstances might hope to have a house in which there was enough room for everybody; the father might take his work, or the mother her book, or the child his homework to a bedroom where it was possible to achieve a decent degree of quiet and concentration. But the cost of building has squeezed more and more people into dwellings in which it is possible to eat and sleep, but where there seems to be no room in which to live.

Nobody has yet put a home with a room of his own for every citizen on the list of things which we want for the postwar world. Probably there are many people who do not like privacy and quiet, and who would not use such a room if they had it. But we think that a majority would be glad of a place where they could be private and apart, quiet and contemplative. The more intense modern life becomes, the greater becomes the necessity for a room of one's own, not as an ivory tower, but as a place where sanity and balance may be preserved.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Almost every man comes to himself when he loses his shirt.

"Wedding Saves Man From Imprisonment", says a headline. Out of the frying-pan....

Vidkun Quisling has turned over his duties to a man named Lie. A sound appointment.

The Kitchener Record piously admonishes the snooty that there is no Servants' Entrance to Heaven. Nevertheless we cannot believe that a place in which the population is divided into Seraphs, Cherubs, Thrones, Dominations, Virtues, Powers, Principalities, Angels and Archangels (as we have it on the highest authority that it is) can be regarded as a democracy.

Diary Of A Versatile Man

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Cut up a piece of venison with a hatchet; it was delicious eating. This is the time of year when many of my acquaintances are embarrassed with game, and I do what I can to help them out. I am not a hunter myself, but I have no humanitarian objection to it; it seems to me that people who become tearful about the death of a deer, but who have no objection to the death of a few million Germans, are very curiously organized....I have entirely given up listening to the radio. There never seems to be anything that I want to hear. Charley McCarthy is no longer funny; 'Information Please' drags out a weary old age; and nobody ever sings a funny song. If some radio sponsor would put a man on the air to sing "Who Knows Where The Hussars Are," or "The Whatnot's Not What The Whatnot Used To Be," I would listen appreciatively and join in the choruses, but I cannot bear the treacly gush of the crooners. I am retrograde, I know, but I like a popular song to have a tune and, if possible, a few jokes in it.

◊ ◊ ◊

MONDAY: Went to the movies this evening; stood for twenty minutes by the theatre clock before I got a seat at all, and then sat for fifteen minutes at the very back of the gallery, waiting for a seat in the section to which my ticket entitled me. In the theatre there is an old superstition that the purchase of a ticket includes the use of a chair, but the movies make no such rash promises, and consistently oversell the house....I went to see "The Lodger," but had to sit through another film first; it starred Frances Langford, who is said to be a star of radio. Except for a very loud and compelling voice she was not remarkable in any way. For my opinion of radio singers, see Sunday above... 'The Lodger' was all about Jack the Ripper, but Hollywood had softened Jack, and did not let him rip so fascinatingly (not to say jocosely) as he did in real life If the real Ripper was Dr. Neil Cream, as many people suppose, he practiced in London, Ontario, for a time. Canada must have a fascination for murderers; Crippen was headed for this country when he and the ambiguous Miss Le Neve were captured....But doubt about the Ripper's identity exists to this day and will never be dispelled, in all likelihood.

◊ ◊ ◊

TUESDAY: Received a letter from a friend in England today who says, "We have gritted our teeth for so long that there is nothing but grit left; we certainly don't feel like starting to build the Great New World Which Is To Be the minute the war is over." Many people feel that way, I suppose. The planners all think that we shall want to work like billy-o for years after the war, but there will be lots of people who will want to sing and dance and lie in the shade, and enjoy life and have a good time without feeling traitorous. After all, planning is simply a planner's way of having a good time, and why should we all work ourselves skinny in order to give them fun? ...Walked home in the rain this evening, getting my feet wet, and reflecting miserably that winter was not far away. A high school girl I know told me she wished it would snow at once, and I was horrified, and then even more horrified because I had been horrified the first time. Not to rejoice at the coming of winter is a sign of creeping age. But what do I care? Suppose I do grow old, and bent, and rheumatic and grouchy: I loathe winter, and all its cold, and heavy clothes and ashes and horrible bracing weather! I don't want to be braced!

◊ ◊ ◊

WEDNESDAY: Felt low today, and thought a good deal about Death. I see that a man who runs a crematorium in Aberdeen has been fined heavily for stealing coffin-lids and handles; he used the wood to make furniture and sold the gold and silver; this is a new revelation of Aberdonian frugality. But there is something to be said on his side; the destruction of so much seasoned wood and precious metal in the crematory furnace must have been hard to see....The fuss still continues about the Poles whom the Germans murdered, cremated, and then used to fertilize their fields. The horror seems to be not that these poor people were cruelly robbed of their lives, but that their dust was used to enrich the earth. This is perverse reasoning; we are all fertilizer, more or less, after we are dead, and the sooner we rejoin the earth, the better... But our attitude toward death and funerals is one of the oldest aspects of our civilization, and the great pity of many a burial ceremony is that the departed cannot be on hand to see the fine sendoff he gets.

◊ ◊ ◊

THURSDAY: Passed the home of a prominent lawyer this evening, where a group of high school girls stood on the steps; my appearance was hailed with low, appreciative whistles, and I heard one voice say "Ooh, how I love that man," in a tone of tense passion. I am quite used to this sort of thing, of course, and usually pay no attention to it. But I take this method of letting the young lady know that I know who she is, and that any tangible evidence of her attachment which she wishes to lavish upon me—such as 100 fine cigars, or a case of whisky—will not be refused. I have long made it a custom to accept any gifts which my many admirers care to offer, for a refusal might give pain; I once took a stable of polo ponies rather than wound a Russian princess, and sold them at a handsome profit. But upon the whole I discourage gifts of livestock; bearer bonds, precious stones, and cash are the tributes which I accept most readily. High school girls rarely have anything of this sort to offer, but the contents of papa's humidor, or something choice from his cellar should not be beyond the reach of an ingenious girl, spurred by passion.

◊ ◊ ◊

FRIDAY: Undertook to bathe a small child and put it to bed, in the absence of its mother; this is not a fitting pursuit for a man whose temperament is philosophical and whose habits are sedentary. Several times I underestimated the elusiveness of a small creature covered from head to foot in soapsuds, and almost fell into the tub myself. The child took this for frolicsomeness on my part, and began to throw water on me; I toyed with the idea of stripping, in order to meet this situation on fair terms, but rejected the plan as undignified. When at last I had landed my fish and began to dry it, the unforseen problem of ticklishness obtruded itself, and then hair-brushing created a great hullabaloo. When at last it was in bed, and had had all the drinks of water and Kleenex it demanded, I was a nervous and physical wreck....I am more than a match for any child that ever lived, and can bathe and groom it to perfection. The only trouble is that the child screams and resists, and these complaints I would be a first-class nursemaid.

◊ ◊ ◊

SATURDAY: Watched an electrician at work, whose method of testing a defective socket was to thrust his wetted finger up into it; if he got a shock he knew that the current was coming through. I had always understood that this was a good way to commit suicide, but we live and learn; or, in this particular instance, we may learn but not live....Passed the evening looking through my scrapbook and bundles of old photographs; we begin to grow old as soon as photographs of earlier years take on an unlikely, comic aspect. The paradox of the photograph is that the more stylish and beautiful it is when it is taken, the funnier it is likely to look in a few years. We all wear the characteristic and fashionable look of our times on our faces; like fashions of doing the hair, fashions in expression change. Anyone who happens not to wear the characteristic expression of his time is a marked man....Having laughed myself sick at the old photographs I picked up the evening paper and was startled to see how funny people look today. In this dangerous, almost anti-social mood, I went to bed.

HE'D FIX HIM

In reply to a question as to what he would do with Hitler if he were Mr. Churchill, George Bernard Shaw replied:

"I would secretly guarantee Hitler a palatial residence free of rent and rates, and £20,000 a year free of income tax, to begin when Germany surrenders, not unconditionally, but on conditions dictated by me. Good morning."—London Express.

The Election Problem In Britain

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

THE recent request by Prime Minister Churchill for a further extension of Parliament draws attention to the fact that there has been no general election in Great Britain since the present Parliament came into being in 1935. Under normal conditions, an election would have been held in 1940, but the outbreak of war in 1939 led to an agreement between the three major parties to postpone elections. In 1940, therefore, and in each subsequent year, Parliament passed a short act extending its own life for another year, and the regular publication of voters' lists ceased.

When death or resignation created a vacancy in the House of Commons, the party previously holding the seat would nominate a candidate, unopposed by the other major parties. Minor parties and independents have not honoured the truce, and have named candidates in several ridings. Whenever a contest occurred, it was fought on the last peacetime voters' list, which was closed in 1939. In consequence, as Mr. Churchill pointed out, no person in England between the ages of 21 and 30 has voted at a general election—and there are 3,000,000 men and women in that age group. There are additional millions who, because they have had to leave their homes for some reason or other, have been unable to exercise their franchise at by-elections. Yet during this lapse of the voting rights of millions, more than 200 new members have been returned to the House through by-elections.

In asking for another 12 months' extension, Mr. Churchill pointed out that he did not expect Parliament would live out the term. He believed war in Europe would end before then and automatically dissolve Parliament. He felt, however, "that it would be a wrongful act....to break up the present Government instrument before we know where we are with Hitler's Germany," and until the right to vote could be restored to those deprived of it by wartime conditions.

Parliament has worked out plans whereby it will be possible for every adult to vote in the next election, and this system will go into effect December 1. New registers will be set up; they will not be fixed, but continually revised, so that people moving from one constituency to another will be added to one register and subtracted from another. When an election is called, the list will be stabilized at the date of announcement. Members of the armed forces and the merchant navy will vote in the constituency they name on forms now issued to them; those still abroad may vote by proxy.

Another problem facing the Government is that of redistribution of seats. Even before war began, the populations of some constituencies had dwindled to a point where representation was scarcely justified by a member for each, while in others the population growth was so marked that additional representation was warranted. This condition has been aggravated by population shifts to meet war demands, but the extent to which such shifting will be permanent cannot be appraised until the reverse trend at war's end has run its course. It would seem probable, therefore, that the redistribution plan, necessary though it will be eventually, will be postponed until people have settled down throughout Great Britain.

U.S. - British Trade

(By CHESTER A. BLOOM)

WASHINGTON: Negotiations are now under way in this capital between officials of the U.S. departments of state and commerce and Lord Keynes, British economic ambassador, to untie some of the trade knots strangling British but for these complaints I would be a first-class nursemaid.

Chief among the British difficulties is the Lend Lease ban on re-export, not only of any goods manufactured from Lend Lease raw materials equivalent to the Lend Lease imports. Under war necessity, steel has been one of the biggest British Lend Lease imports.

Britain, a former large exporter of machine tools, hardware, and heavy construction material from steel, is thus hog-tied from resuming her most important export trade. The same factor applies to wool and numerous other raw material imports, hitherto used for building the war machine now smashing Germany into dust.

Up to July, 1944, U.S. Lend Lease exports, by American figures, totalled $9,321,549,000. Reverse Lend Lease from Britain to American air, military and naval forces totalled $1,934,400,000 in the same period and is still increasing. But to await any balancing of Lend Lease and Reverse Lend Lease before loosening the ban on British exports would obviously mean total suffocation of British trade for an indefinite period after the collapse of Germany.

THE economic experts thoroughly realize, of course, what the ill-informed do not—that destruction of British export trade would destroy America's greatest market which is Britain and British countries. It would be the surest invitation to a quick and disastrous depression, an actual economic catastrophe in the U.S.

Naturally, no one expects either an immediate, total removal of the Lend Lease export ban. The negotiators have to survey the whole field of world trade and determine best how post-war trade conflict between the two great branches of the English-speaking peoples may be avoided. Moreover, with the impending American national election only a month away, the talks have to be conducted with the utmost delicacy and diplomatic restraint. In this respect, Lord Keynes, who is well and favourably known in the United States, especially to elements of the economic left, is an admirable envoy.

There have been some hints in the American press, apparently emanating from U.S. treasury sources, that one factor which might contribute to easing the situation would be the release in Britain of certain blocked cash balances of other nations. They referred specifically to India which has been pressing for release of some $4,000,000,000 in her blocked sterling balances in London and Egypt with $1,000,000,000 of such blocked sterling held in London.

A Bible Message

And, behold, there cometh one of the rulers of the synagogue, Jairus by name; and when he saw him, he fell at his feet, and besought him greatly, saying, My little daughter lieth at the point of death: I pray thee, come and lay thy hands on her, that she may be healed; and she shall live. And Jesus went with him; and much people followed him, and thronged him....While he yet spake, there came from the ruler of the synagogue's house certain which said, Thy daughter is dead: why troublest thou the Master any further?

As soon as Jesus heard the word that was spoken, he saith unto the ruler of the synagogue, Be not afraid, only believe. And he suffered no man to follow him, save Peter, and James. And he cometh to the house of the ruler of the synagogue, and seeth the tumult, and them that wept and wailed greatly.

And when he was come in, he saith unto them, Why make ye this ado, and weep? the damsel is not dead, but sleepeth. And they laughed him to scorn. But when he had put them all out, he taketh the father and the mother of the damsel, and them that were with him, and entereth in where the damsel was lying.

And he took the damsel by the hand, and said unto her, Talitha Cumi; which is, being interpreted, Damsel, I say unto thee, arise. And straightaway the damsel arose, and walked; for she was of the age of twelve years. And they were astonished with a great astonishment. (Mark 5: 22-24, 35-42.)

TALENTED EXECUTIVE

In reluctantly accepting the resignation of Mr. Victor T. Goggin as Chief Commissioner of the Ontario Liquor Control Board, Premier Drew pays tribute to his ability as an organizer. WHAT CENSORS PASS

Anyone who has attempted to write a war commentary knows with what ruthless and methodical regularity the censorship blue pencil is exercised. Passages are cut out which have appeared in half a dozen newspapers before and the most harmless and well-known facts suppressed.

In the interest of safety — first one puts up with all this good-humoredly. But then one finds things being passed which certainly are extremely helpful to the enemy.

One (out of many) was when early in the war, we obligingly told the Germans their incendiary bombs were not much use. Naturally they vastly improved them.

The latest is our naive publication of the defeat in Hitler's V1, which causes it to cut off. No doubt the doodle-bug specialists will elatedly correct that oversight.—Bristol Evening Post.

For Union Reporters Only

Sir Walter Citrine was at great pains to insist that the decision of the Trades Union Congress to admit no journalist who is not a member of the National Union of Journalists to the annual conference was in no sense an invasion of the freedom of the press.

It is, of course, a flagrant and indefensible attack on freedom of the press, and that in at least two ways. The T.U.C. is attempting to force all journalists into the National Union of Journalists and to compel the newspapers to employ only men and women who belong to that union; and it is preventing the papers from selecting for a particular piece of work the men who are most qualified for it.

There is, of course, no discrimination against the N.U.J. in any newspaper office; men may belong to it, or to the Institute of Journalists, or to nothing at all. They are there to do their professional work, and that is all that matters to the firm.

But to have the T.U.C. banning individual reporters is as unwarrantable as the occasional refusals (in the past) of theatre managers to give seats to individual dramatic critics on the ground that their articles had not been sufficiently appreciative.

Freedom of the press is involved in both cases. The T.U.C. by its action is only putting the public on guard against the dangers inherent in possible trade union tyranny. That may be no bad thing.—London Spectator.

With The Armed Forces

The editor of this column will welcome extracts from letters from boys serving or any other information concerning them.

By JEAN STENTON

Peterborough is known not only in Canada, but is famous overseas as well, writes Capt. P. C. Martin, to his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Holt, 469 Water street, from Belgium, where he has been fighting. Prior to enlisting, he had visited Peterborough a number of times for the skiing.

"It will be a treat to get back to Peterborough and see all my friends there again. Peterborough, by the way, is world famous, and I had forgotten all about it. Several weeks ago, I spent an evening at a very nice Belgian home, and was shown a picture of a Belgian Lift Lock. The explanation beneath said there is only one which is bigger, and it is in Peterborough, Canada. So you can see, your city is appreciated even by the people in Belgium."

We Get Around

Canadians are not wasting any time rolling along, writes L.-Cpl. Norman Fry, of Bailieboro, from Belgium, saying that he is on the road most of the time and had put 3,000 miles on his truck in three weeks

"I have seen a lot of country and it is pretty nice around here. They have lovely roads, and you no sooner get out of one town than you are in another one. I even attended a small fair one day recently. The flowers here are beautiful and they grow acres and acres of them, an unbelieveably gorgeous sight.

"The other day I visited the Canadian monument at St. Julian and it is lovely in that section too. Just like the pictures, a great many people here have wooden shoes, and they look as though they were all feet when they have them on.

"I wish you could see them driving horses over here. They drive four horses with one line. Believe me, they really have them trained. Milk wagons are never seen here, and milk is delivered by means of three wheel bicycles. Dogs are used to draw them and they can go at a good clip and pull along nicely. We haven't seen many eggs since we arrived, and I have been eating ice cream and grapes until I am almost sick of them. By the way, I frequently see Dick Olan of Millbrook, and you might tell his folks.

SECTION LDR. W. SORRIE

It was announced a few days ago, that Canadian fire fighters who have been serving with British organizations since the war, are being disbanded and will be coming home.

Section Leader William Sorrie, a former member of the Peterborough Fire Brigade, who has spent more than two years overseas, will be coming home, his wife, at 492 Aylmer street, expects. More than once, he has won high praise for his work and in his examinations dealing with advanced modern fire fighting methods.

Spick and Span

The cleanliness of the Belgian people is phenomenal, writes Lt. N. Chate to his mother, Mrs. H. Chate, Murray street, and each person takes a pride in doing his share to keep everything sparkling.

"Belgium is a treat compared to the filth of France and even the slums here are absolutely spotless. It is simply amazing and even the Belgians tell us we will find Holland is much more particuar about its cleaniness. We see them in the morning scrubbing off their little bit of sidewalk or pavement with a mop and pail of water.

"We have fixed ourselves up a lovely Mess now. We have luxurious rugs, chesterfield suites and so on, from the homes of collaborators who are in prison. We call it legalized loot. People are finding the food situation here very pressing and there have been demonstrations in Brussels over it. But the homes we go to, always gives us plenty to eat. We feel so embarrassed taking it, but they feel hurt if you refuse. One family have become great friends of mine, and I find the mother was a censor in England during the last war.

L-CPL NELLIE PARK

The sign language is not always the easiest way to get along in a foreign country, L-Cpl. Nellie Park, CWAC, has written her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Park of Bailieboro

"It is hard to talk to the people here. I got a permanent the other day and I never worked so hard for anything in my life. I motioned with my hands, grinned and shook my head, and in fact did everything to try and tell them how I wanted it done. Finally I gave it up and let them do it the way they wanted and surprisingly enough, it turned out to be one of the nicest I have ever had.

"We have better living quarters here, all heated apartments. They are much nicer than in France, but as yet they are very dirty. The Jerries left in such a hurry they hadn't time to clean up. The food is none too plentiful, lots of fruit and that, but no meat or coffee. We get horse meat sometimes, and I might enjoy it, if my imagination didn't run away with me."

Mrs. Park received a package of flowers from her daughter. It contained carefully pressed pansies, violets and roses, which she had picked in Normandy. The mother said they had lovely fragrance and they "smelled of the sea."

German Good Turn

One of the few good things to come out of this war from the Germans, as far as the men at the front are concerned, is the food which was left behind in Holland in the rapid retreat, writes W.O. William Harle, serving in Holland with the RCAF.

"The food we are eating now is really good and the other night after supper we were served captured German Rheinish wine, 13 years old, to top off the meal. Then instead of the cigarette ration, they gave us 20 German cigars each, and they were good too.

"I am now stationed at an airfield in Holland and if you ever happen to read about the City of Montreal Wildcat Squadron, that is the one I am with. This afternoon we were talked into making a record of an operational trip which we made recently, so you may hear it in Canada one of these days."

The young flier, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Harle, 336 Rubidge street, has been flying a Typhoon in the Netherlands.

Special Training

For men in military camps a long way from home, and with lots of spare time in the evenings, the Auxiliary Services including the YMCA, Knights of Columbus and the Legion have special Handcraft classes, which have proved popular.

Pte. Bud Lloyd, now stationed at Petawawa is interested in leather work and has made a number of fine articles such as leather wrist watch straps, women's large purses, wallets and metal ash trays. The Auxiliary Services supplies special teachers to instruct the men, and the material. Different colored leathers may be used, and the designs are unusual.

In addition to that work, Pte. Lloyd, a former employee of Coleman Bros., says there are art classes, for the men who wish to learn to draw. Work from these classes is put on exhibition and prizes offered to encourage the men.

Australia Balances Lend Lease

By CHESTER A. BLOOM

Australia's services to United States military forces in the Pacific area in the form of reverse lease-lend now nearly balance American contributions in lease-lend, according to Prof. Douglas Barry Copland, Australian price commissioner and economic consultant to the prime minister, now on tour in the United States, Canada and the United Kingdom to examine particularly proposals for liquidating subsidy arrangements under price stabilization schemes after the war and to study post-war- trade, monetary. price and public work policies. He did not quote reverse lease-lend figures, but gave some examples of some Australian supplies to the U.S. armed forces since Pearl Harbor:

Meat, fresh and canned, 72,000 tons; bread, flour and cereals. 100,000 tons; potatoes, 33,000 tons; fresh vegetables, 39,000 tons; canned and dehydrated vegetables, 69,000 tons; butter, 7,000 tons; sugar, 22,000 tons; eggs, 40 million dozens; shoes, one million pairs; blankets, one and a half million; shirts, one-half million; and eight and a half million pairs of socks.

This, of course, did not include housing, transport and numerous other items. In addition, the seven and a half million people of Australia were supplying their own population and troops, and furnishing large supplies to Britain.

Mr. Copland astonished the U.S reporters by quoting some Australian prices of food in terms of U.S. dollars under the Australian price control spytem whereby current cost of living has been held to a rise of only 22½ per cent above pre-war figures.

Some of these food prices included:

Butter, rationed to six ounces per person per week, 26 cents a pound; top grade fillet steak, 30 cents pound; eggs, 32 cents a dozen; sugar, 5 cents a pound; lamb, 20 cents a pound. Sugar and meat also are rationed. Food prices, as a whole, he said, had risen under price control only 11½ per cent over pre-war prices.

On the other hand, wage scales were also low compared to the U.S. Average weekly earnings of unskilled and women workers were approximately $20 a week. Women's wages had risen from about 55 per cent of men's wages to 75 per cent. Skilled workers as in the steel industry, earned from $26 to $29 a week. The total national income had risen from under 800 million Australian pounds ($3.25 to the pound) in the year before the war to currently 1,350 million pounds. Wages had risen on the average 27½ per cent over pre-war figures.

Strike troubles over wages were negligible but had occurred mostly over working conditions, disputes among workers and with foremen. Wages had been subject to court arbitration and adjudication for 25 years; workers were accustomed to the system.

Deterioration of quality of consumers' goods was taken into consideration in price fixing.

The people had voted in a referendum against a government proposal to take authority to control prices for five years after the war. But he was convinced when emergency demanded such action, the people would accede to it. The government still had the right to maintain price control until six months after the war ended. Some contended that meant until after peace is made with the last enemy.

Mr. Copland quoted taxation figures to show tthat Australia's income tax was the highest in the world, even above Britain's when Britain's returnable tax deductions were excluded.

Profits also had been controlled on the basis of allowing a percentage (which was not made public) on the capital fund the industry employed. In the case of one big firm, the profit rate was about 40 per cent on turnover compared to before the war. But these profits were before taxation, which included ordinary company tax and excess profits tax.

Price ceilings were rigidly enforced. Increases in cost of production were met by subsidies on basic commodities such as tea, potatoes, clothing, etc. Subsidies were paid at the point of importation or first point of production. On a total national income of £1,350,000,000. they amounted to £16,500,000, or about 1¼ per cent of the national income. Biggest subsidies were paid in the dairy and milk industry, which absorbed some £8,500,000.

Pomp Marks Counting Presidential Vote

Actual election of the president and vice-president of the United States is one bit of the small amount of pomp and circumstance in which that great democracy indulges and very satisfactory to those privileged to behold it. Or at least it was that way almost 44 years back when seeing President William McKinley re-elected and Theodore Roosevelt made vice-president more than made up for lack of torchlight processions in my old home town of Morenci during the actual campaign, when William Jennings Bryan, perennial Democratic candidate, took his second trouncing at the hands of McKinley.

Despite all the tumult and the shouting of a presidential election in the United States, the president and vice-president are not actually chosen then, on the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November in election year. That is because of the survival of the electoral college, which was an expression of the distrust the makers of the United States constitution had of the ability of the common people to fill the two most important offices of the country. Those who drew up the constitution wanted to protect the people from themselves, so they provided that in each state electors should be voted for, and that these men, presumably the wisest and best in each state, should elect the president and vice-president.

Washington Only One

Only one president was ever elected in that manner. He was George Washington, and at the end of his eight years in office the rising tide of democracy overwhelmed that essentially aristocratic institution, the electoral college, and took away from its members their discretion to choose a president and vice-president.

Cleavage of the citizenry into two political parties during Washington's tenure of office—Federalists and Democrats—also helped to turn the electoral college into a voting machine.

Instead of real electors, entrusted with the right to choose the men they thought most fitted for office, party followers, pledged to vote for the party's choice, are chosen at presidential elections. The old-time machinery remains. Its purpose has been altered so that all that is left of its influence is to make American presidential elections go by states and not by the popular overall majorities of the successful candidates. Some states weigh more than others, because the number of electors from each state is equal to the number of representatives and senators each state sends to Congress.

Political Dividend

My glimpse at the ponderous working of the machinery set up to choose presidents and vice-presidents of the United States came about because the Morenci Observer, which my father and his brother ran for many years, paid off an unexpected political dividend. During the Congressional elections of 1898, our paper was the first to suggest that Henry C. Smith, county seat lawyer and a distant kinsman of the Allens, be made Congressman from our district. He was nominated and elected, and Mr. Smith offered a political job to my uncle. Uncle Vern did not want it. He suggested that I might be given an appointment as page in the House of Representatives, and that is how I happened to be in Washington, running errands for such persons as Champ Clark, later Speaker of the House, and other Democrats. That went hard, being assigned to the Democratic side of the House, for I was an ardent Republican partisan then, but it did give me a chance to see how the machinery of the House worked.

One of the big occasions that session of Congress (the 56th) was the day when all the bigwigs in Washington got together for counting the electoral votes, previously cast at state capitals by the elecors.

Sessions In House

These sessions were always held in the House of Representatives, because the room where the representatives meet is much the larger of the two legislative chambers in the Capitol. With the addition of a few chairs it would hold the entire government of the United States, including the nine old men from the Supreme Court.

In those days the president would visit the Capitol building only for two purposes, his inauguration and the counting of the votes for president. If he had a message, it was sent by a messenger, but always received with due pomp and ceremony. It was Woodrow Wilson who revived the business of delivering messages to Congress personally, and in those days President McKinley never did any such thing.

Just the same, receipt of a presidential message would make quite a stir in the House. The man who made quite a ceremony of it was the chief doorkeeper of the House, an excitable man named Kennedy, who was always rushing about frantically, doing this or that, or bawling out a luckless page.

When a White House messenger arrived, he would have to wait patiently until the mercurial Mr. Kennedy, who always wore a frock coat, could be found. Then the messenger, a pompous looking chap, dressed fit to kill with morning coat ascot tie and striped trousers, would march down the aisle with Mr. Kennedy. while the speaker, clerks, sergeant-at-arms and such members as might be present and we pages stood stiff and still. The messenger would say, "Mr. Speaker, a message from the President of the United States," and hand the reading clerk an envelope about the size of the one given the Duchess in Alice in Wonderland when the Queen sent her an invitation to play croquet. Following that nobody whatsoever ever paid any attention to the reading by the iron-lunged reading clerk.

Mr. Kennedy Excited

If the mere reception of a presidential message could stir up the excitable Mr. Kennedy, his condition on the day the votes were counted can well be imagined. He was fairly well beside himself introducing the Senate, the Supreme Court, members of Mr. McKinley's cabinet, and meanwhile keeping a weather eye open to see that no one in the House galleries misbehaved.

When Mr. Kennedy finally got everything to his satisfaction, the ceremony proceeded. I managed to get my first view of a president of the United States from the vantage point of a door which led from the Speaker's gallery, right behind the dias. If I had known it then, I was seeing two presidents, because Theodore Roosevelt was destined to succeed Mr. McKinley when he was shot and fatally wounded by a fanatic in Buffalo in August of that same year. But at that time everybody thought the first Roosevelt, known even then as a liberal and a crusader for the rights of the people, was safely on the shelf as vice president, and he, when I saw him then, looked as though he thought so, too. He looked plenty bored. But what impressed me the most about the man was his great bull neck. He looked like the man of purpose he turned out to be for the decade or so he kept American politics in a turmoil and advanced the rights of man in his country.

There wasn't a great deal to the ceremony. The man who did most of the talking was the reading clerk of the House whose booming voice announced the returns state by state. Finally the president pro tempore of the Senate, Vice President Hobart, elected with McKinley in 1896, had died in office, duly pronounced William McKinley elected President of the United States.

The business was over, and the president, his cabinet, Mr. Roosevelt, the justices and the senators filed out of the House. The galleries emptied, Mr. Kennedy went back to normal and vanished, and the House took up its business. As I remember it, it was passing pension bills, a job done by the Speaker, then David Henderson of Iowa, the reading clerk and four or five members on each side of the House, who busied themselves pretending to read the Congressional Record (if the particular member had an alleged speech in it) or writing letters home. Or possibly merely chewing tobacco, and hitting the cuspidor as often as possible. If a member had said "Aye" or "No" when the Speaker asked for it as the title of each bill was read by the clerk, I believe that the whole machinery of the House would have stopped. And I am sure Mr. Kennedy would have had a fit and laid violent hands on one of us pages.

One-Man Crusade

FRESNO, Calif., Nov. 18—(AP).—A one-boy crusade against the wearing of jeans by girls has been launched by Gene Lee Webster, 11, who appeared in school in a flowered percale dress with accessories of a pink bead necklace, loud-striped 'half-sox' and scuffed oxfords. Gene and his mother explained all the stores reported their stock of jeans was gone.

Orillia's Experience With Printed Money To Relieve Depression Not Much Success

Talk one hears nowadays about issuing printing press money as a means of obtaining better economic conditions after the war recalls an experiment of an Ontario town of 10,000 which attempted to ward off some of the burdens of the pre-war depression by the same process.

Although it had over 1,600 on its public welfare rolls earlier, the town of Orillia still listed nearly a tenth of its population on relief in 1936 when the then mayor, James Benjamin Johnston, who had once served as a United Farmer-Labor member of the Ontario Legislature under Premier E. C. Drury, decided he would like to try one of his pet schemes in an effort to alleviate some of the distress.

A man who prided himself on his more or less orthodox ideas, Mr. Johnston had his own theories on the causes of the depression. He felt that the economic problems of the country could be traced entirely to financial causes, which he called the medium of distribution. In the council hall, he often ridiculed the suggestion that over-production could be the root of the trouble when so many things were lacking in the average home. There was plenty of work to be done and ample idle men to do the work, he would say, in arguing that only lack of capital was retarding recovery.

One evening, after perusing a long list of homes being put up for tax sale because their owners could no longer bear the burdens of a rate which had reached as high as 56 mills, Mr. Johnston created somewhat of a sensation by suggesting that the town itself do something to create more purchasing power—which he called the key to unlocking the depression—by going into the banking business. He said he had looked into the legal aspect of the situation and found that a municipality had authority to issue scrip money.

Would Try Anything

Mr. Johnston advanced what seemed to be plausible reasons why the town should adopt his scheme and while some of the more cautious members were dubious the council as a whole felt things were in such a state that they were in a mood to try anything.

So when the veteran municipal administrator (he was serving his fifth year as mayor and 15th as a council member) told his colleagues that scrip would enable more relief for the needy on pubic welfare and, at the same time, stimulate business by giving people more purchasing power, he raised their hopes for better things ahead. Another cardinal argument of the scrip money advocate was that its issue would save the town considerable in interest payments to the bank. The municipality then was paying four and a half per cent on current borrowings and it amounted to a sufficient sum of money to constitute a worthwhile saving.

After much argument as to how to go about starting the scheme, it was finally decided to put the money into circulation by issuing it under a cash relief system. An appeal was made to the public to help the effort by readily accepting the scrip and keeping it in circulation for local purchases to stimulate business.

Under the system adopted, the scrip, beautifully engraved paper money covering denominations from five cents to a dollar, was a promise of the town to redeem in cash on the first day of each month the amount specified less one percent discount for handling. People were encouraged, however, to keep the scrip in circulation to maintain its purchasing power.

Worked for a While

Because of the novelty, the plan seemed to work out very well in a limited way for a time. Their curiosity excited, both townspeople and outsiders were eager to obtain some of the scrip to see what it was like. A number sent some of it away as souvenirs and a sizeable sum, never redeemed, was clear profit for the town.

About half the size of regular dollar bills, the scrip came in several colors and carried photographs of the picturesque Orillia Champlain monument on one side and the town's municipally-owned hydro power plant on the other. About $10,000 worth of the currency was issued and the cost, it was later revealed, was nearly $400.

Despite the early enthusiasm, the scheme did not last long. Merchants found that the unorthodox size of the bills made them awkward to handle. The average cash register lacked sufficient slots to put them in separate compartments and when mixed with regulation currency it often led to confusion in making change.

The scheme was given a further setback because it raised a demand among relief recipients, who had previously received vouchers, for actual cash payments.

Refused As Change

The crowning point which upset the project was the fact that merchants who accepted the scrip in payment for goods to help the town's experiment soon found that all their customers were not equally as willing. People in nearby districts where the scrip would not be accepted refused to take scrip as change. Out-of-town wholesalers refused to accept it. Gradually, the merchants themselves became less and less anxious to see the scrip coming in. Soon they were asking why they should accept something they couldn't deposit in the banks to meet their current bills.

Despite the objections, Mr. Johnston continued to stand behind his scheme, arguing that any "small inconveniences" would be offset by the advantages. He maintained that the town could control a considerable proportion of its own credit by gradually extending the scheme and accused opponents of trying to sabotage the plan for ulterior motives.

Citizens generally, however, who had had their fill of the scrip preferred to believe Mr. Johnston's opponents and in the next election turned him out of office. That ended Orillia's experiment for what scrip wasn't held by people as souvenirs was taken out on the town market one day and burned.

As the "money" went up in smoke, Mr. Johnston still maintained that if the plan had been given whole-hearted community support it would have done everything he said it would and more.

Movement Of Ducks Gain Momentum In Past Weeks

While there have been ducks of a number of species around since August, their movements have been gaining momentum chiefly in the last two weeks.

In the river duck group, there are Black, Mallard, Baldpate, Pintail and Green-winged Teal making up the bulk with others in smaller numbers.

The Mallard and Black hold much the same position in the west and east, the Mallard being the western bird.

DRAKE MALLARD

The Black and Mallard are among the best table ducks both for their large size and flavor. As its name implies, the first appears black at a distance, the most pronounced mark being the white under wing surface, which is noticeable when the bird is flying. Seen up close, it shows brown feather edges which break up the even tone. Female Mallards look much like this, but are paler, more buffy in general color, with a dull yellow instead of olive-green bill; and white borders to the speculum (that area of the wing at the bend, on the after edge, which in ducks is almost always irridescent.)

The drake Mallard is not confusable with anything else. It is the bird from which the familiar barnyard variety is derived, the one with green head, white collar, rusty breast, and curled feathers above the tail. These ducks belong to that group which resort to shallow water to feed, "tipping up," the tail out of water and feet paddling frantically to maintain position.

The other group, the diving or sea ducks, dive 20 or 30 feet down to get the food of their choice. In this group are the Scaup (Bluebills), Redhead, Canvas-back, Bufflehead (Butterball) and others. The Scaups are the commonest of these now, since of late years there has been a drastic reduction in the numbers of the Redhead and Canvas-back which nest in the prairies where the drought has been so severe.

Snow Buntings

Perhaps while we are gazing out over some lake or bay at sea ducks, a flock of small birds flies by with undulating flight, showing flashes of black and white on the wings. We notice that when slight, they run rather than hop, from weed to weed in search of seeds; sometimes reaching and stretching high, giving the occasional flutter to keep balance. These are Snow Buntings and come to us from the Arctic tundra, where they nest among rocks. Their summer home being treeless, they seem to usually stick to the ground while south, and it is a rare sight to see one perched on a branch or telephone wire.

SNOW BUNTING
(Winter plumage)

While with us, they frequent sand beaches and open fields, a flock slowly moving along as it feeds; for those in the rear having denuded the plants where they are, rise up over the heads of the others to start feeding in front. This goes on and on.

In summer, their dress is black and white. In winter they change to a plumage of rust and white with a few black markings.

Santa Claus Comes Early To Dying Boy

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 18 — (AP). — To-night will be Christmas Eve for three-year-old Forest (Nubbins) Hoffman because his parents fear that his incurable bladder affliction may bring death before December 25.

No stocking could begin to hold all Nubbins has received already. Packages have streamed in from all over the country. One of them is three feet long and 14 inches wide. Troubled but joyously proud, his father Marshall Hoffman says he thinks there must be "at least 50."

Little Nubbins, whose serious condition was realized after an operation last month, has been "pretty restless," his father said. "He is itching to open some of the packages.' But that's an event reserved strictly for the morning.

"We might as well move out and let the presents have the house," laughed Mrs. Hoffman.

Nubbins picked out some "I'd sure like to have these" items in a catalogue recently. He doesn't realize that most of them have arrived—some small candy-filled toys, an airplane, a fire engine, a battleship, a jeep, a set of building logs, and a wooden freight train.

One of Hoffman's fellow-employees at the Union Pacific Railroad is giving a puppy. W. M. Jeffers, president of the railroad, has ordered a pre-war model child's automobile.

The parents hope Nubbins, their only child, will be well enough to be propped up in his high chair to help eat a Christmas turkey dinner furnished for the family by the railroad.

Leagues Want Landis Again

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (AP)—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, who observes his 78th birthday Monday, can enforce his rigid rule over baseball until he is 86 years old—if he wants to accept the vote of confidence extended him yesterday by the American and National Leagues.

A joint committee of the two circuits, at a two-hour meeting yesterday voted to recommend Judge Landis' re-election as Commissioner of Baseball and the extension of the present Major League agreement at the annual winter meeting of the major loops here Dec. 11-12.

The action scotched wide-spread rumors that a new authority would be proposed by the joint committee to supplant the ailing Landis under the major league agreement which installed the fiery former Federal udge as Commissioner 24 years ago.

Landis, in hospital here since Oct. 2 for a physical check-up and rest, will finish his current term Jan. 12, 1946, and with the expected approval of the two leagues at their meeting next month would be given a seven-year term extending until 1953.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Basketball moved out into the centre of the sporting stage and took a bow last night as the girls' cage loop at the Y.W.C.A. launched another season. St. John's, last season's runners-up got away to a good start by defeating C.G.E. 27 to 18 in a senior game and Normals, the intermediate champs, began their defence of their title by nosing out the Westclox who have returned to basketball after a long absence. Both games were decidedly interesting and the teams showed enough to demonstrate that there should be plenty of competition before the championships are decided. St. John's lined up without Peggy Lawless, Eileen Hewitt, Doreen Groombridge and Marg Dyer of last year's team but filled up the gaps with new players including Joan Patterson who made her debut by leading her team in scoring while Edith McIlhagga, heroine of many a hard-fought game played well at guard. Teresa Heslip, Eva Clarke and Marg Hawthorne of last season's team were in mid-season form. C.G.E. fielded a good club with Mary McPherson giving a stellar performance in piling up a score of 13 points and Marg Carson returning to the basketball wars after being out for some time. C.G.E. started like winners but faded before the Saints' drive.

* * * * * *

In the intermediate tilt Normals who won the honors last season trotted out a new team and one that showed considerable promise. The champs had better passing than the Big Bens and their shooting was a bit more accurate. However the Westclockers back in basketball after a long absence, made a real fight of it especially in the second half and Normals only had a 21 to 18 margin when it was all over. The budding school teachers showed some fine material with B. Wilson, Gloria Lowney and Eva Morrison leading the attack and doing some excellent sniping. Olive Hanwell was the ace scorer for the losing Big Bens, tossing in five field baskets for a total of 10 points, the second best individual scoring record of the double-header. Both teams will improve with more work and the form they showed last night indicated there should be a lot of interest in the intermediate division of the loop this season, if the other two clubs, Quakers and Y Cadets, shape up as well as the opening pair. There was a good crowd on hand for the launching of the season, with Normal School even having a rooting section in the gallery as an inspiration to their team. The Girls' League should have a fine season, judging from the successful opening.

Collegiate Idle

Owing to the decision of the Belleville teams not to take part in the Cossa playdowns this week P.C.V.S. seniors are idle today for the first time in seven Saturdays and Coach Bev Goulding who, incidentally is taking a bus man's holiday, by attending the Hamilton Wildcat-Balmy Beach game in Toronto, said yesterday that he was glad of the layoff for his squad. The Collegiate tutor figures that the P.C.V.S. team was going a bit stale after a tough battle all the way through the group and that a rest from action today would put them right on edge for the Cossa finals in Toronto next Saturday when they meet the winners to today's clash between the Niagara Peninsula and Georgian Bay representatives. Coach Goulding says that the rest will help Jack Matthews, backfield star, who broke a rib two weeks ago and played under difficulties against Oshawa last Saturday. Capt. Red Outram and Middle Wing Bill Lech both have knee injuries and other players are carrying a few bruises that will be none the worse for the holiday today and the Collegiate mentor believes that his team should be just about right next Saturday if the weather conditions next week are suitable for regular workouts.

Al Ritchie, Western football coach, has been criticizing the game as played today, charging that most of the modern players are deficient in tactics that used to be regarded as fundamental a few years ago. Among other things he mentions the fact that the current crop of players ignore the possibilities of the "good old straight arm." By that, of course, is meant the art of pushing off tackles by accurately timed shoves, tactics that the old-timers used to employ to great advantage. Watching recent games this column has gained the impression that this simple plan of foiling tacklers is a lost art. We can recall seeing it used only a few times at Riverside Park this season and the players who did resort to the straight arm happened to be the Matthews boys. "Spike" who played for Peterborough juniors in a recent battle scored one touchdown by knocking off two or three tackles in this way and brother Jack who plays on the backfield for Peterborough C.V.S. has also used the same tactics. But on the whole today's ball-carriers never seem to have heard of the straight-arm. The ordinary routine of changing the ball from one arm to the other to leave the arm nearest the on-coming tackler free is ignored altogether. Yet a well-timed thrust of the arm will push off many a tackle and put the ball-carrier into the clear.

They Deserve Thanks

Peterborough Hockey Club and its grounded players who are unable to play the game this winter themselves because there is no rink available are to be congratulated upon their decision to do all they can to further the interest of Canada's national winter pastime here by giving local youngsters a chance to play organized hockey in a juvenile loop. Players like Honey Tompkins, Art Heal, Bun Kingdon, Johnny Godfrey, Ned Vitarelli, Drake Jopling, Eddie Starr and Joe Blewett have cheerfully agreed to sacrifice their time for a good many hours this winter in coaching the youthful teams while Jim Ellis, Fred Scates and El Jones have just as willingly consented to operate the juvenile league and keep the machinery running. There is nothing in the whole scheme for any of these ready workers. They cannot play hockey themselves this winter but if there is any chance in the world for the kids to play the game they are all for affording the youngsters that chance, even if it involves the giving of a lot of time and effort to the task. There are a lot more pleasant things in the winter time than to chase out to outdoor rinks on cold nights to coach young players but the Petes players and executive members have been good enough to undertake the obligation.

* * * * * *

All of which prompts a couple of thoughts. One is that the names of those prominent in this community hockey promotion scheme are the same names that have long been connected with hockey and softball in this city, names of fellows who have provided Peterborough with a lot of sporting entertainment, and often have been rewarded by criticism of their effort from the very fans who have benefitted by the dash and spirit they put into everything with which they have been connected. And the other is that with the hockey club undertaking the job of providing the necessary machinery for operating a successful league and the coaching without which the plan would largely be waste motion, the service clubs of the city, all of whom are interested in boys' work, should be more than willing to assist by sponsoring and financing a team each. The expenditure would not be a heavy burden and the results should represent a handsome return on the investment.

St. John's Wins Over C.G.E.; Westclox Loses

St. John's and Normal School were the winners in the opening games of the Ladies' City Basketball League at the Y.W.C.A. Friday night. In the senior game the Saints came from behind to defeat the C.G.E. 27 to 18 while Normal, last year's intermediate champions won a close intermediate fixture from Westclox 21 to 18. A good crowd saw two interesting tilts.

C.G.E. opened out the senior game at a rapid clip with Mary McPherson setting the pace and at the end of the first quarter were leading the St. John's girls 9 to 6. However last season's runners up began to roll in the second quarter, running in four baskets without a reply from the Generals and at half time the Saints were in front 14 to 9.

They opened the second half with two more fast baskets, making six in a row, and from then on were never seriously threatened. It was 23 to 15 for St. John's at the end of the third quarter and in the final session when both teams had slowed down considerably they outscored the Electricians 4 to 3 to make their margin at the finish nine points.

The winners showed the same drive and determination that has marked their play for a number of seasons, despite the loss of some of last year's players. Down in the early stages, they fought back until they had taken the lead before half time and they increased their margin after the rest. New players in the Saints' roster had an auspicious debut for Joan Patterson led the team in scoring with eight points and the veteran Edith McIlhagga shone in the guard position and also scored two baskets. Teresa Heaslip, Eva Clarke and Marg. Hawthorne, regulars of last year's team, played fine basketball clicking for 15 points.

Mary McPherson starred for the losers with a 13-point scoring record, the best individual effort of the night. C.G.E. had Marg. Carson in action after being out all last season and although she had little luck under the basket last night she will be heard from before the season advances very far. It was a good exhibition all the way and the senior division should provide plenty of competiton.

The teams:

St. John's, 27—Teresa Heslip 6, Marg. Batley, Joan Patterson 8, M. Keeler, Eva Clarke 3, Edith McIlhagga 4, Edith Harte-Maxwell, M. Vosburgh, Marg. Hawthorne 6.

C.G.E., 18—Jean Hickey 2, Dorothy Allen, Jean Metcalfe, Shirley Mortimer, Betty Mantell, Mary McPherson 13, Marg. Carson 3, Nona Whetung, Grace Davies, Joan Rahmel.

Referee, Hymie Smith; umpire, Howie Macdonald; scorer, A. Neiman.

Normal School, last year's champions, with a brand new team, triumphed over the Westclox in the intermediate battle which opened the double-header by a final score of 21 to 18.

The Big Bens, back in basketball after a long absence, made a real fight of it.

They were down 12 to 7 at half time but staged a rally in the second half that had the Normal rooting section worried. By the end of the third quarter the Westclockers had cut the margin down to 16 to 15 for the future school teachers and they continued to battle through the final session to make it a decidedly close argument.

Normals, who won the intermediate title last season, are starting out with a new crop this season and gave a fine account of themselves. Eva Morrison and B. Wilson with three baskets each and Gloria Lowney with five points led the attack for the winners who showed some good passing and ball-handling.

Olive Hanwell was the scoring ace for the Westclockers, firing one basket in the first half and hitting the loop for four more in the second portion of the battle to give her ten points, the second highest score in the two games. Josephine Crowe scored three field goals and the only other point picked up by the losers was a successful foul shot by Dorothy Dawson.

It was a close argument all the way and Westclox by outscoring their opposition 11 to 9 after the rest period made it decidedly interesting in the closing stages of the tussle.

The teams:

Normal School, 21—Gloria Lowney 5, B. Wilson 6, Dorothy Thrower, Helen McMillan, Isabel McGee, Jean Leach 2, Eva Morrison 6, Frances Arthur 2, Mary Lannigan.

Westclox, 18—Verna Patterson, Muriel Woodcock, Olive Hanwell 10, Barbara Wyatt 1, Viva Clarke, Josephine Crowe 6, Betty Wyatt, Florence Hanwell, Viola McLean, Dorothy Dawson 1.

Referee, S. Cipin; umpire, Hymie Smith; scorer, A. Neiman.

Cookies Defeat Lachine 9 to 6

CORNWALL, Ont., Nov. 18—(AP). —Cornwall Cookies last night defeated Lachine Rapids 9-6 in an overtime Interprovincial Hockey League game which saw Bobby Carragher and Deroche each score three goals for the Cookies.

The game see-sawed back and forth until midway through the overtime session when the Cornwall club came from behind a 6-5 deficit.

Persson added two more of the Cornwall goals with Dupuis scoring the other. In addition to his hat-trick, Carragher assisted in three other plays.

Whitehead and Chapman led the Lachine attack, scoring two each with the other two goals coming from Morrow and Payette.

Carpetball League Games Underway

Scheduled games got under way this week with three games of four being reported as played.

The Saints started off in good style by chasing the Southerners back home without a thing to show for their trip north.

King Billie and his Orange Squeezers put out the Fire Eaters in a way that we expect to see lots of practice going on during the off hours at the fire hall but if the East City Wardens thought that they were going to subdue the Fighting Scots they made a mistake. The Scots were off their style in the first frame but came back to show the Wardens that there was plenty of fight left in the old sweats yet.

Scores:

All Saints 13-13, St. George's 6-7; Fire Eaters 11-9, Orange Squeezers 13-10; Wardens 14-7 Fighting Scots 10-13.

The game between B.E.S.L. No. 7 and B.E.S.L. No. 8 must be played before Saturday November 25.

The schedule for next week:

B.E.S.L. No. 6 vs B.E.S.L. No. 7

St. George's No. 4 vs Wardens No 5

L.O.L. No. 2 vs B.E.S.L. No. 8

P.F.D. No. 1 vs All Saints' No. 3

The skip of No. 3 is changed from Frank Leether to Harry Lucas, phone 7474.

We would ask all skips to see that the fees are in the hands of the secretary before December 1.

Create "Little Joe" War Character

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS ON THE ADRIATIC FRONT, Nov. 18 (CP)—The prize journalistic discovery of this Canadian war is Little Joe.

Little Joe can be a private who came back from leave to find his home-made stove eliminated by a shell. He can be a sergeant who crushed the wire of a mine and got away with it.

In brief, Little Joe can be any Canadian soldier doing anything that can be translated into a paragraph or two for the papers back home.

Little Joe has flexibility and scope, but more than anything else he has purpose He is the charge of the army's public relations setup. His objective is to complement the copy of war correspondents. His beat is primarily the units, the men, the incidents the correspondents do not cover. His outlets are the dozens of weekly and daily papers spread through small-town Canada, papers to whom the real story of the war lies not in the strategical implications of a 10-mile advance but in the inconsequential happens to the home town boys.

This is the essence of Little Joe. He is homely, earthy, small-town. He is the prime example of that ancient newspaper axiom that says names are news. He has given that theory a new, testing touch for in dozens of Little Joes there is such a paucity of information as to chill the soul of a hardened city editor.

Could Be Anyone

He is the product of an established, effective system of news-gathering He may come from a member of the army's educational corps, like Cpl. Ted McLorg who, faced with a request to gather stories from four scattered engineer companies, originated the name-rank-hometown-next of kin-unit-job - wounded? Spent leave where?-Story form on which Little Joes now pour in by the dozens.

He may come from the public relations' conducting officers who Little Joe activities are subordinated to the job of giving war correspondents liaison with the army, but who still find time to turn them out by the dozens. Whatever his source, Little Joe is given his final touch, his final checkup on the desk of an editor working at the public relations field detachment from which emanate the written and filmed information Canada gets of its corps in Italy.

In the peak month of July, 3,000 Little Joes—Roughly 300,000 words—were edited by Capt. Norman Phillips, formerly of the Toronto Star, sent by air courier to N.D.H.Q., Ottawa, and from there turned loose in the small-town press of the nation.

Black Hawks Facing Hard Week-end

By ERIC SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

While all clubs in the National Hockey League face a tough grind this week-end indications are that Paul Thompson's Chicago Black Hawks face the most potent opposition.

Now holding down the anchor position with only one win in six starts, Hawks clash with the league-leading Toronto Maple Leafs tonight and play a return match at Chicago Sunday.

Leafs, not yet fully recovered from two setbacks by Detroit Red Wings, are expected to put plenty of punch behind their drive for a double victory to keep them at the head of the parade.

So far Toronto has lost only two games in eight starts—both of them to the third-place Detroit club.

Detroit, with four wins and three losses and currently regarded as the "team to beat" clash with New York Rangers tonight and meet Boston Bruins tomorrow night. The Wings dropped a 5-2 decision to Rangers last Saturday and will be out to avenge the defeat. In their first meeting of the season Detroit walloped the New Yorkers 7-1 and later trounced Boston 10-3.

Canadiens, with five wins and two losses—both to Toronto—tangle with Boston at Montreal tonight and with Rangers at New York tomorrow night. The Flying Frenchmen are in second place two points back of Toronto.

Although it is early in the campaign to predict a winner, competition so far points to a stiff three-way battle for the leadership.

Chicago's main chore will be to stop the powerful Schriner-Bodnar-Carr line, which led Leafs to six consecutive victories before the three were held pointless by Detroit. Schriner had scored at least one goal a game in the early matches and led his team in their 11-5 triumph over the Hawks in a previous match.

Bill Ezinicki Of Maple Leafs Grabbed By Military Police

TORONTO, Nov. 18—Bill Ezinicki, 20-year-old right winger of the Toronto Maple Leafs, yesterday was placed under close arrest and removed to the guard house at No. 2 District Depot, it was learned by The Globe and Mail last night.

Ezinicki is said to have grabbed his medical papers and ripped them up during a consultation with the medical officer at the depot.

The act occurred while the hockey player was going through the Reception Centre in Exhibition Park after receiving an N.R.M.A. order to report for a medical recheck.

Not Yet Investigated

In a statement given to this paper by a military spokesman last night, it was pointed out that the case has not yet been investigated.

Here is the statement:

"A man by the named of Ezinicki reported at No. 2 District Depot on Friday by N.R.M.A. call-up and while going through the Reception Centre routine he committed an act which resulted in his being placed under close arrest and was placed in the guard room. No further statement can be made at the present time as the case has not yet been investigated."

Ezinicki, native of Winnipeg, who played junior hockey with the Oshawa Generals through the last two seasons, spent four months in the R.C.A.F. this past summer and then was given his discharge on medical grounds.

A few days ago National Selective Service, Mobilization Branch, ordered him to report yesterday for a medical recheck.

It was not learned whether Ezinicki's medical category had been raised to one which would qualify him for military service. The fact that he was placed in the guard room under close arrest does not necessarily mean that he is not a civilian because any man ordered to report for a medical examination under N.R.M.A. regulations is subject to military discipline even though he may not have been attested.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—(AP)—Think Army's Glenn Davis has done pretty well to score 96 points in college football this season? Well, make way for a few real point-getters from high school ranks . . . . Bill Chauncey of Webster City, Iowa, finished his season last week with 31 touchdowns and five extra points for 191 points. He gained 3,130 yards by running and passing and completed 31 or 41 attempted aerials. . . . Coach Bob Lamson relates that when Bill was a freshman tackle he was seriously ill and only his desire to play football pulled him through. . . . Note to college scouts: Bill is due to enter the army next week.

Mead Man's Headache

Freddie Mandel, owner of the Detroit Lions, would like to see his club beat the Bears tomorrow, but possibly not at the same cost as the last time. . . . When Detroit played the Bears at the U. of Detroit stadium in 1940, Mandel had to take a seat under a low roof in the press box. . . . The Lions were trailing 14-10 with 37 seconds to go, then Cotton Price passed to Lloyd Cardwell in the end zone. . . . Freddie let out a yell and started to jump to his feet. . . . "The next thing I knew," he recalls, "somebody was holding a cup of water under my lips. I had bumped my head against that low roof and knocked myself out."

San Francisco—Juan Zurita, 138, Mexico City, knocked out Jerry Moore, 143½, New York, 6. (Non-title).

Johnny Greco Outslugs Bobby Ruffin

By MICHAEL O'MARA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 — (CP). — Johnny Greco of Montreal slugged his way to a convincing victory over the clever Bobby Ruffin last night in one of the most thrilling fights that has rocked the rafters of Madison Square Garden in a long time.

Hitting hard and often in the early rounds, the Canadian welterweight built up a big enough lead to stand off a closing rally from the Long Island City, N.Y., gamecock who came off the floor twice to make the decision close.

Established a 5-8 favorite at the bell, Greco scored heavily with right-hand punches to Ruffin's head in the fourth and fifth. He landed another lethal right-hand wallop in the sixth and Ruffin went down for three, but came up again fighting. Greco put him back on the canvas for a one-count near the end of the seventh, but the bell gave Ruffin the respite he needed.

The former Canadian Army sergeant's blockbusters forced Ruffin to open up in a desperate attempt to climb back into contention, and in the final three rounds the boys slugged toe-to-toe, with Ruffin — also a discharged army man — having the best of it as Greco tired slightly.

On his showing last night Greco went a long way toward getting a shot at Freddy Cochrane's world welterweight title. Since he put on 10 pounds during his army stint—he weighed 143½ last night to Ruffin's 141½, the former lightweight seems unlikely to get under the 135-pound limit again. A crowd of 16,100 paid $55,760.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SYD THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 18—(CP)—There has been a great deal of pro-ing and an equal amount of conning over the intricate problem of the correct way to train hockey players. Some say they should be given large quantities of physical jerks and muscle-building contortions, while the other school of thought pooh-poohs that for an idea and advocates plenty of good, old-fashioned skating and hockey practice.

Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll goes into the question while reviewing a book "How to Train for Hockey," written by one Lloyd Percival and sponsored by the Y.M.C.A. Sports College. The book advocates lots of pre-season training and conditioning, with special exercises for developing special abilities—like shooting power and accuracy, puck-handling, rapid starting (with or without no-knock fuel) and so on.

There is no doubt a certain amount of conditioning exercises are good, especially any that will strengthen the wrist muscles and sharpen the shooting eye, but indulged in to excess such a program is apt to backfire. It's the old question of too much theory and not enough practice, or trying to learn a game out of a book.

Dink points out that Jack Adams, manager of the very effective Detroit Red Wings prefers plenty of skating, while Sprague Cleghorn, certainly no slouch in his day, placed more faith in a vigorous program of running to strength the vital leg muscles. Hap Day of Toronto Leafs is one coach who likes conditioning exercises, but that doesn't stop him from throwing the book at the boys when it comes to real practice.

While on the question, Baz O'Meara of the Montreal Star points out that Ottawa Senators one year did some arduous training in the swimming tank, and outdistanced all opposition for the first half of the year, when the other squads rounded into shape.

Incidentally:

Fred Thompson in the Kitchener Record takes exception to the recent comment on the increasing number of players of foreign extraction appearing in the Ontario junior hockey world. Fred Craig of the Peterborough Examiner wondered if the descendants of the old Canadians were becoming drugstores cowboys, but the Kitchener writer wants to know when the second-and-third generation Canadians "ever had to take back seats" to the Canadians of lengthier lineage. He sees in it opposition ot the "foreign element." but actually it was perfectly innocent, we feel. In fact, it's a tribute to the youth of the new and sturdy stock that has come to this country in recent years that it can produce players of such high calibre.

London Council Bans Wrestling

LONDON, Nov. 18 (CP)—A ban on wrestling—professional style—was recommended last night by the public control committee of the London county council.

"In our view, 'all-in' wrestling cannot be regarded as true wrestling," said the committee. "We do not consider that it contains any element of sport, and we regard it as a degrading and unhealthy form of entertainment."

The grunt-and-groan style won some popularity here before the war.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Secretary W. A. Hewitt of the Ontario Hockey Association said yesterday the Hamilton club has withdrawn its entry because of inferior material to form a team. The Hamilton action results from refusal of the Manitoba Amateur Hockey Association to grant transfers to three players who were slated for Hamilton this season.

The Hamilton squad stripped of all but three members of last year's team, had depended upon the imports for the backbone of their team.

Paul Thompson, coach of the Chicago Black Hawks, wants to see post-war hockey go back to pre-war playing rules.

"Our present rules were made to take care of certain problems," he said last night in an interview in Toronto, where his Hawks play Maple Leafs tonight. "What we're providing is a game that's drawing customers, but it's not hockey as I have been educated to."

Dave Castilloux, Canadian lightweight and welterweight boxing champion, has received an offer to fight Ronnie James, British lightweight titleholder, for the British Empire lightweight championship. It was understood that Castilloux would be willing to go to London for the bout for a cash guarantee of $15,000.

Juan Zurita, 138, Mexico City, recognized as world lightweight boxing champion by the National Boxing Association, made an impressive showing at San Francisco last night by knocking out tough Jerry Moore, 143½, New York City, in the sixth round of a scheduled 10-round non-title fight.

H.M.C.S. Donnacona, Quebec Rugby Union champions, will play the Wildcats at Hamilton next Saturday for the Eastern Canada championship if the Hamilton club defeats Toronto Balmy Beach for the O.R.F.U. title, it was learned last night. Wildcats lead the two-game points-to-count series with Beaches by nine points as a result of their 13-4 victory last Saturday.

Niagara Falls Collegiate senior football team won the Niagara District title yesterday at Port Colborne when they lost 5-2 to the local high school but captured the two-game total-point series 11-7. The Falls gridders won the first game on home grounds Tuesday by a 9-2 count.

Senator Raps Exponents Of New Treaty

WASHINGTON, Nov. 188—(AP)—Senator George D. Aiken (Rep., Vt.) contended Friday that foes of St. Lawrence seaway had raised the "specious claim" that it requires a treaty between Canada and the United States.

Senator Aiken told the Senate he would decline to attend a hearing called for next Tuesday, Nov. 20, by a senate commerce subcommittee to consider whether the 1941 United States-Canadian seaway pact was in the nature of a treaty or an executive agreement.

"To challenge to the regularity of this (1941) agreement at this late date, more than three years after it was submitted to both the senate and the house as a basis for the adoption of concurrent legislation, is in the nature of a wholesale repudiation of responsible agencies of both the United States and Canada," he said.

"It is unthinkable that the senate would even consider scuttling this worthwhile post-war undertaking on such a specious claim."

Referring to Senator John D. Overton (Dem., La.), chairman of the sub-committee handling his bill to sanction the $421,000,000 deep waterway and hydroelectric development, Senator Aiken said:

"The chairman of the subcommittee has publicly pledged himself to do all in his power, including use of his official position, to defeat the St. Lawrence measure."

He said Overton and Chairman Josiah Bailey (Dem., N.C.) of the commerce committee had "prejudged" the treaty-agreement question so the hearing next week would be "futile."

V-Bomb Victims

LONDON, Nov. 18 — (CP) — Some soldiers and civilians were killed when a German V-bomb fell recently on the front of a building, blowing to pieces an approaching bus, it was disclosed to-day. Several bodies were recovered. Only pieces of the bus engine remained in the street.

Two women more than 90 years old were rescued from a nursing home which was hit. Only a few patients were injured.

ORDER HIS ARREST — The French Ministry of the interior has ordered the arrest of Herny, Count of Paris, 36-year-old pretender to the French throne, following a report that he was wounded on French soil. A law passed in 1888 forbids any claimant to the throne to live in France. All police prefects in the country have been informed of the warrant for the count's arrest.

YANKS HAVE A GOOD LAUGH—Germans fired propaganda leaflets into American lines on the Siegfried Line front, on the eve of the elections. Picture shows the Yanks having a good laugh when reading the pamphlet. Here is a sample of the contents: "You sucker—vote for Roosevelt and put more of these parasites into office—they'll keep you fighting." Holding leaflet on left is S.-Sergt. Samuel M. Morrow, of Statesville, N. Carolina, and Pte. John Nigro of Chicago.

Find Starlings Killer Of Pests

TORONTO, Nov. 18 — (CP). — The starling is looked upon as a destructive pest and organized warfare against the birds is going on in Ontario, but Government entomologists admit that they have some worth as killers of pests that may become even more destructive.

Starlings are being shot and trapped in Ontario by the thousands and their eggs are being destroyed in an effort to eliminate the threat of these birds of German and Central European origin. But even while this is going on another pest—the Japanese beetle— threatens, and entomologists say one of the best means of fighting the beetle is through the despised starling.

The Japanese beetle came to North America in recent years in shipments of iris and other plants from Japan. They are a menace to crops in the United States and are spreading their area of destruction in the field and orchard at the rate of five miles each year. It is feared they may invade Ontario in the near future.

However, there is no suggestion that the war against the starling should be eased to let them go to work on the Japanese beetles when and if they come.

Not only the Government entomologists have a good word for the starling. A farmer near Toronto reported that at a time when a black grub, resembling the wire-worm, was threatening the ruin of his extensive strawberry planning, a flock of starlings arrived. They did not peck a single berry, but devoured the black grubs and saved the crop.

Thousands of western ducks are making their regular autumn visit to Ontario, stopping over on the lakes, lagoons and marshes on their way to winter quarters farther south. The visit is a result of an an odd detour many of the Prairie birds make in their southward migration.

Leaving their breeding and feeding grounds in the remoter regions of the western plains, they first fly due south, then abruptly turn eastward through Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan to make a call in Southern Ontario. From there, their course is south-east to the marshlands of the coast in the Carolinas where they winter.

A young deer recently invaded a populous suburb of Halifax while fleeing from a bush fire. Chased by a band of yelling children the frightened animal crashed through the window of a cellar. It was only superficially injured by glass, and a kindly citizen hired a taxicab and personally conducted the deer back to its natural habitat in the woods.

Observant naturalists occasionally find exciting things even amid the roar of city traffic. Prof. T. F. McIlwraith of the University of Toronto recently spotted a big raccoon peacefully sleeping in a maple tree on upper Yonge Street, Toronto's main street. Apparently it had strayed from a nearby wooded ravine. Thousands of citizens must have passed close to the animal during its visit to town without knowing of its presence.

Telephone Operators Quit Work In Protest

DAYTON, O., Nov. 18—(AP)—Union-affiliated telephone operators walked out early Friday in a sudden protest against employment of out-of-town personnel and two hours later operators at Columbus and Toledo quit work in an expression of sympathy.

Paul Denning, commercial manager at Columbus, said at least 50 per cent. of this long distance operators were absent and operators said they were accepting emergency calls only.

Miss Jeanette Reedy of Dayton, president of the southwestern area council of the Ohio Federation of Telephone Workers, an independent union, said about 600 of Dayton's operators were affected.

Miss Reedy said she had "assurances" that other locals of the Federation would quit work, too.

Dayton and Columbus are in the heart of a vital industrialized area, and the army air forces' two important fields—Wright and Patterson—are just outside Dayton.

6,000 British To Get Leaves

LONDON, Nov. 18—(CP)—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons Friday approximately 6,000 fighting men would be brought home each month for visits of about four weeks. The plan does not include those on Europe's western front. Mr. Churchill said this campaign "has not reached a point where we can withdraw anyone from the front even for a short leave period."

The action appeared to be the Prime Minister's response to pressure in parliament and in the press for reduction in the present period of overseas service in the army.

He declared that even the leave plan would be subject to war needs and could be suspended on the discretion of the commander-in-chief in each area.

Mr. Churchill promised the problem would be reviewed again after Germany's defeat.

Police Shoot Father, Son

TORONTO, Nov. 18 — (CP) — A father and son are under police guard in hospital Friday, outcome of a 10-minute encounter with two police officers who arrested the pair on charges of shopbreaking and car theft. One of the constables is receiving treatment for severe head injuries.

The arrested pair gave their names as Floyd Stapley, 53, and Gordon Stapley, 23. Both were shot by Constable Eli Shuttleworth, who suffered a deep gash in his head and possible other injuries. Constable Gordon English, who assisted Shuttleworth, is at his home with head bruises.

English described the encounter as a "battle royal." The four fought in a garage on Cranbrooke avenue in North Toronto for 10 minutes with tools, fists and feet until Shuttleworth drew his gun.

The police account of the incident was that the officers were patrolling their beat in a cruiser car and noticed the garage door open at 4.25 a.m. When they investigated they found the two men inside and a fight began. The officers said they were both struck over the head.

Shuttleworth, who suffered the head injury at the start of the fight, had difficulty with his man and finally drew his gun. He fired twice, one shot hitting the arm of the man he was fighting and the other the hand of the one fighting English.

Rural Review Makes Progress

TORONTO, Nov. 18—(CP)—Sittings of the Ontario Agricultural Commission of Inquiry under the chairmanship of Archibald Leitch of Guelph will be resumed Monday, November 20, it was announced today. The announcement said the new series of meetings is expected to furnish the commission with its final report which it is hoped to have ready for the Minister of Agriculture before the end of the year.

The meetings next week will be under the auspices of the marketing and organization committee and will deal with co-operative marketing legislation and the problems of marketing livestock, fruit and vegetables. The subject of milk marketing has already been studied by the commission.

Starting Wednesday, November 29, a special committee will inquire into rural youth organization and will hear representatives of the junior farmers' organizations and the youth group of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

"Considerable progress" has been made in the preparation of the final reports of the commission on soil conservation, agricultural credit and rural education.

500 Canadians Due For Leave In Canada

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE 1ST CANADIAN ARMY, Nov. 18 — (CP Cable) — Between 400 and 500 Canadian soldiers from the overseas army will be in Canada on leave before Christmas as the new policy of home leave is inaugurated, it was learned Friday.

Officers and men who are to go home in the first group are being selected now from troops serving on this western front, in Italy and in the United Kingdom.

They will have 30 clear days in Canada and it is believed this will mean 30 days at their homes travelling times even in Canada, not included in the leave period.

Qualifications for this new leave boon are five years' overseas service. Service in the Mediterranean or on the western front, however, counts double time. After leave, officers and men will return to duty in the normal reinforcement stream and provisions are being made so they won't lose rank.

Labour Council Anxious For New Bridge

A resolution was passed at the monthly meeting of the Allied Labor Council of Peterborough and district in the U.E. Hall Friday evening, authorizing the publicity division of the city council hospital committee to use the Labor Council's endorsement in their advertising. A. E. Borland, Council's representative on the hospital committee, made a report on activities up to date

S. J. Rowe was named one of the delegates to interview the Minister of Highways for Ontario, in connection with the proposed building of a new bridge over the lake at Chemong. Mr. Rowe outlined to the members of a meeting of the County Council committee meeting Thursday evening, when deliberations were made in connection with a proposed new bridge. The Labor Council's interests in this feature is because of the large amount of labor which can be used in construction.

A committee of three men including S. J. Rowe, E. Blair and F. J. Gandy, president of the Council, was appointed to meet a three-man committee of the city council to consider proposals for post-war rehabilitation and construction. The city council's committee consists of Mayor Hamilton, and Aldermen Mark and Glover.

The Labor Council's representative on the Site committee for the Memorial Community Centre, W. S. Johnson, informed the members that he has been transferred from the site committee, to the building committee. Mr. Johnson gave a comprehensive and up-to-date report on activities in connection with the Centre.

Two new affiliates were welcomed into the Labor Council of Peterborough and district Friday evening, the employees of the Trent Valley Canal and the Brotherhood of Express Employees. President F. J. Gandy, Jr., presided.

Nicholls Hospital Has Had 50 Names On Waiting List

By DON McGIBBON

Lack of hospital bed space to care for citizens of this city, who might need hospitalization, mingled with the cold fact that in the case of Nicholls Hospital, large portions of the building do not lend themselves to modernization, are the two outstanding reasons in a host of minor ones, why Peterborough needs a new city hospital, in the opinion of John M. Hornal, Superintendant of Nicholls Hospital.

During the last winter, instances of waiting lists containing often as many as 50 names at a time brought the situation to an alarming climax, and now, with the population of Peterborough increasing, a new hospital looms as one of the city's major necessities in the near future. Although attempts have been made to improve existing conditions, the theme of "wear it out . . . make it last" has been shattered by a number of complex problems within the building, deeming it unadvisable to essay any modernization schemes.

Built In 1890

Nicholls Hospital, built in 1890, with an addition in 1914, at the present time contains 115 beds, and 20 basinettes for new-born infants. As the hospital operates today, no communicable diseases are received for treatment, but "separate units", involving special precautionary measures, are set up for certain diseases of the infectious type. It has been proposed that 265 beds, with 15 for isolation cases, are needed in the new hospital. This number would allow for emergency cases and always leave a healthy margin of space for incoming patients.

Number 1 Reason

Enough room, Mr. Hornal said, to treat and accommodate every person needing the care and attention only a hospital can give, is the number one reason for a new hospital, but several other factors will be brought under attention.

A planned sketch of Nicholls Hospital points out that complicated architecture and a general lack of space is daily causing inconveniences to the staff, and creating unfavorable impressions with both patients and visitors.

"To provide proper services in Nicholls Hospital", Mr. Hornal said, "would mean the building would have to be so altered, as to seriously diminish the provisions for the patients."

The dining-quarters for the nurses, and the kitchens and store rooms on the ground floor create an embarrassing bottle-neck in one section of the hospital, which must lose many hours of work daily. The main office is not large enough to provide space for the number of employees in it, with the consequence that several of the workers have been forced to take reconverted rooms formerly used for other purposes, in different corners of the building. What used to be the dieticians' office, is now another dining room for the staff, and articles that should be housed in cupboards, are of necessity stored in narrow corridors. Only one elevator services every floor of the hospital, and food commodities in the basement must be carried upstairs by hand for the most part, unless the porter wishes to take a reasonably lengthy hike to the elevator. One might argue that another elevator could be installed in the food storeroom, that would lead to the kitchens immediately above. The opposition is that the kitchen even now is the biggest bottleneck in the building, and an elevator in its midst would only heighten the chaos. In several instances, an attempt at improving one section would merely upset another.

Christmas Fund Assisted By Penny Boxes

The lowly penny and nickle by themselves mean very little to an individual in these days of affluence as compared to bygone days within the memory of a large portion of people living today, but that they collectively can do a grand job towards helping along the war effort has been proved time over and again.

This has been fully illustrated through the penny boxes located in a comparatively few business places in this city, on behalf of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, besides numerous others of a like nature in public appeal, in which the utility of these coins in spite of their small value, may really be said to come into its own.

At this season of the year, larger numbers of people go on shopping expeditions, to procure the gifts that will carry their good wishes to their many friends and connections, and the small coins that they receive in change, might very little be missed if dropped into a box conveniently located for that purpose, and this in conjunction with the good things they have been able to procure to make others happy, can go still further to carry cheer to a far wider field, and thus add to the value of the time spent in trying to make other people happy.

Should any business house desire a box for this purpose at this time, the secretary of the fund will be glad to procure and supply same on request.

Empress Box Brings $18.00

For same considerable time, the penny box at the Empress Hotel has been collected on approximately a monthly basis, and it is really astonishing at just how good the support it has given to the fund has actually been. Assisted by a daily donation from the proprietor of the Hotel, this box has produced over $100 in the past six months, which is a record for this one type of fund activity, and this of course does not take into consideration the vast amount of help, comparatively speaking, it has given to the same worthy cause, prior to that time.

The latest of its gifts amounting to $18.00 is listed in today's retceipts, and based on past records, it would be fairly accurate to assume that at least one other donation of a similar sizable proportion, will be available to include in the same Christmas donation that this one gift now takes its place in.

Further accentuating good that these penny boxes are accomplishing, comes the result of another collection from those located in the Bank of Montreal, which today get a further credit of $4.00 by this means.

Following hard on the heels of a list of purely personal gifts reported just one day ago, the fund is glad to report a start already made on the next list through a gift by J. H. Carter, followed by one other a few hours later, which now go to form the nucleus of the next list which it is hoped can be speedily gathered together, and reported a short time hence.

Aviation Story Told To Supper Club

The proposed plans for Peterborough's airport in the area of Highway 28 were outlined to the Friday night Club at the Y.M.C.A. Friday night by H. L. Garner, general manager of the Examiner. Another special guest was Flt. Lieut. Jerry Wooll, who gave a commentary on films illustrating the job of test piloting, taken when he was working.

"For four years we tried to interest those in authority in establishing an airport here, only to find that engineers from Ottawa did not consider any of the locations large enough," said Mr. Garner. However, I think a site has finally been located on Highway 28, which has the approval of the engineers. It is a large strip of flat land on both sides of the highway, which will give Peterborough a sizeable airport with three runways of between 3,500 and 4,000 feet in length. It will mean diverting the highway to the south of the present highway to a point at Scott's Corners. Attention is now being given by civic officials to the furthering of this project."

Mr. Garner declared that destiny has given Canada a magnificent opportunity to demonstrate constructive leadership in the peacetime to come to the proper use of aircraft, and with the large number of trained air and ground crews. Beginning in 1899, the speaker reviewed the history of aviation in its pre-natal stages 1899-1909; period of infancy to 1919; adolescent stage from 1919 to 1929; and the period of vigorous growth from 1929 up to the present adult stage.

He told of the epic flight of the Wright Brothers and of how the last war had produced great changes in the flying set-up. The first commercial flight was made in 1921 into the north of Canada and soon afterwards aviation transport really got underway. Mr. Garner also outlined the growth of the Canadian passenger and freight air traffic.

The speaker was introduced by George McHattie and the vote of thanks was moved by Ronald Watson. Mr. Garner introduced Flt. Lt. Wooll.

Since it was Ladies' Night, there were some special numbers on the program. The singing was conducted by Jim Shields and Dave Graham, and Maurice St. Jacques, guest pianist, played several solos and later led the singing of "Alouette." Part of the program was in the form of a miniature "Beat the Band Show" and it was conducted by Jim Shields and George Bouck. Prizes of the evening were won by Miss V. Heal, Gerry Seabrooke and Nor Dallin and Jim McBride, vice-president, conducted the meeting.

The people seem to think the books coming in must be good, or readers wouldn't take them out. Books most in demand often never get back to the shelves, because regular attendants at this table swoop them up as soon as returned.

Motorist Leaves 5-Year-Old Boy Lying On Street

Struck down by a speeding automobile that did not stop after the crash five-year-old Lawrence Hunt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil G. Hunt, 133 Aylmer street, is in St. Joseph's hospital suffering from a double fracture of the left hip and a broken right leg. Police say it was one of the most callous instances of hit-and-run driving they have encountered and every effort is being made to locate the guilty driver.

The accident happened on Aylmer street, not far from the lad's home at around 6.30 o'clock Friday evening. Lawrence with his young brother was playing in front of 100 Aylmer street and as a car approached from the north the five-year-old boy ran out into the road and was struck by the vehicle.

He was tossed into the air and fell heavily on to the roadway while the hit-and-run car sped down Aylmer street.

The injured lad was carried into the home of Norman Dunbar, 100 Aylmer street and later removed to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Vernon Dunbar, 17, was an eye-witness of the accident, although he was unable to secure the number of the automobile involved. He told police that the car, an old model and dark-colored, was travelling at a fast rate of speed and that the driver did not make any effort to stop after the boy was hit.

Police efforts to round up the guilty motorist were hampered to some extent by the fact that the accident was not reported to the police station until after 9 o'clock.

Barnardo Home Chief Dies In Kelowna, B.C.

KELOWNA, B.C., Nov. 18—(CP)—Funeral services were held here on Thursday for Alfred De Brissac Owen, 81, former superintendent of Barnardo Homes in Canada, who died at his home here on Monday.

Born in Wiltshire, England, he came to Canada in 1882, and engaged in farming in Ontario for several years. In 1884 he joined the staff of Dr. Barnardo's Homes and was in charge of Canadian imigration work bringing approximately 25,000 British boys and girls to this country. In the course of his career withe the Homes he crossed the Atlantic 250 times.

Mr Owen settled here in 1920.

When he brought the first group of boys from the British Isles, Mr. Owen set up a distributing centre at Peterborough, Ont., from where the boys were sent to farms throughout Ontario. Later a main office was opened in Toronto with a large farm at Russel, Man., for training purposes. A Home for Girls was later set up in Peterborough.

Prisoners in Jap Prisons Retain Their Faith, Hope

The inestimable value of a world-wide fellowship, and the universal unquenchable hope, that out of the tragedy of war, a new world can be built upon the foundation of the old, was presented by Miss Nell E. Elliott, in an absorbing talk Friday afternoon of her experiences in Hong Kong. She was addressing a luncheon meeting of representatives of various church women's groups in the city, members of the Y.W.C.A. and the board of directors, and guests especially interested in Y.W. and missionary work in the recreation room of the Y.W.C.A.

Miss Elliott who went to Hong Kong as a Y.W.C.A. secretary, but later became executive secretary of the social welfare centre of the churches at Hong Kong, was repatriated last year from the Stanley Civilian Internment Camp. She told of her life in Hong Kong before the war, and also gave a brief description of the life in the internment camp. Throughout her address, she continually reaffirmed her firm belief that in countries all over the world, including Japan, Germany and Italy, there were large groups who still kept the faith, and would be ready to form the foundation of a new world.

NELL E. ELLIOTT

Discussing the fortitude of the Chinese, the speaker said that no country had been wounded in every possible way as China had, and yet she still fought on with amazing spirit. Outlining the Japanese attacks which took Nanking and went through to Canton, she said that it has been estimated that between 50 and 75 million refugees left their homes before the Japanese took over, or abandoned homes too close to the war zone. Although the hardships they endured were indescribable, she continued, they still carried on and are continuing to do so. "They are undefeatable", she stated.

Care For Refugees

From the outbreak of hostilities, a steady stream of refugees or "war guests" as they were called, poured into Hong Kong, and the churches, alive to their immediate need, formed the Social Welfare Centre of churches, in the heart of the city, and Miss Elliott was asked to be its executive secretary. She described the large camps established outside the city, she also explained that the authorities had been alive to the danger of attack, and in 1940 the city was organized for emergencies, and practice blackouts were conducted. Four or five dispersal areas, each equipped to take care of many thousands of people, were set up, in case of bombings or fire, and each had a medical unit and relief unit.

"I thought that I was up-to-date on happenings, and really didn't think, as did many other gullible civilians, that there would be any trouble," Miss Elliott continued, "but everything was organized for the attack and their workers were ready at the given moment." She said that during the 17 days that Hong Kong held out, she and the other workers of the dispersal unit of which she was commandant, worked under terrific strain. They were captured on the 17th day by shock troops which infiltrated through the lines and converged again to surround the city.

Miss Elliott was luckier than most of the 3,000 civilians in Hong Kong who were rounded up after they had registered, preparatory to being interned. She was allowed to help in one of the three hospitals near the university, and was stationed in the hospital for Canadian officers and men, while the others were for Chinese troops. She described little of the early days at the Stanley camp, except to say that it was chaos, Finally, however the internees became organized and began to fashion a kind of life for themselves.

Lots Of Time

Although they had to regard certain rules and regulations, Miss Elliott said that they were left a good deal to their own devices. The three worst problems to contend with at the camp she listed as lack of food, lack of news, and overcrowding. Only one Red Cross shipment, from South Africa, reached the prisoners, and she said that undoubtedly it saved their lives. As well as clothing, the food stuffs in the shipment, tea, sugar, cocoa and dried fruits, were distributed once a month from November 1942 until May 1943.

The prisoners, Miss Elliott explained, determined to make the best of their position, started a school for the children, since 100 of the 225 children were of school age. Missionary and government teachers, with no equipment, organized the school and carried on classes. When she left, eight students who had matriculated were being taught a first year university course. Miss Elliott also told of a group called the Stanley Optimists who arranged nonsensical entertainments, and said that she doubted if they realized how they kept up the morale of the entire camp. Joint religious services were also held, and she said that they helped everyone to gain an appreciation of the other's viewpoint.

Pray For Safety

In her concluding remarks, the speaker asked that the people of China be remembered in thoughts and prayers, as well as the 2,473 persons still interned at Stanley. Her visit to Peterborough was in connection with the observance of the World Week of Prayer and World Fellowship.

Mrs. H. Clegg, chairman for the afternoon, welcomed the guests, and Miss L. Brownscombe, general secretary of the Peterborough Y.W., introduced the speaker. Rev. W. A. Filer, who also asked grace, brought greetings from the ministerial association. He echoed Miss Elliott's remarks, and said that out of the chaos of war, a sense of need was unifying the world, and that countries and men were realizing a new sense of oneness. Mrs. H. C. Sootheran moved the vote of thanks to the speakers.

In the evening, Miss Elliott addressed a gathering of girls' clubs of the Y.W.C.A., stressing "Y" work, and telling several personal stories of her work in the Hong Kong Y.W.C.A. She also displayed pictures of the Hong Kong "Y", and the articles she was allowed to bring out with her when she left the camp.

Try New, Improved Ovaltine

If your child lacks a zest for food, it may be that his diet is short in very important food elements which, science has discovered, everyone needs for health. His growth may be stunted or impaired and he may be an easy victim to prevailing sickness.

As a "protecting" food-drink, New, Improved Ovaltine adds to a child's meals the essential food elements most likely to be deficient in his diet.

Three servings of New, Improved Ovaltine furnish a child with a significant portion of his daily requirement of Vitamins A, B_1, and D, and the minerals Calcium, Phosphorus and Iron—also quick food-energy elements and high quality proteins—all for building sturdy bodies.

So—if your child eats poorly, is thin or under par, why not start giving him New, Improved Ovaltine regularly? Get Ovaltine at your drug or food store.

Mania for Bartering Found Everywhere By C.W.A.C.s

OTTAWA, Nov. 18—Members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps entered a French town two days after the Canadian Army, according to Corporal Kathleen L. Robson, of Ilderton, Ont., who was with the first group of CWACs to arrive in Belgium. In a letter to Major Mary Barker, District Staff Officer, C.W.A.C. Military District 1, she described the fruits, pastries, ice cream, the generous hospitality and the mania for bartering which "if I had any shoes to spare would probably get me a farm", found in a large Belgian city. Her letter says:

"On landing in France we were put in an orchard, living in tents with a convenient slit trench outside as it was a bit noisy at times. Our first move was to a chateau which had been evacuated by the Boche. The advance party had to clean out amputations and other gory objects from the 15th century pigeon house. The people who owned the chateau were still on the grounds in very lovely small houses. They seemed glad to see us. For a while we were afraid to turn on a tap in case a mine might explode.

"Our next move was to another chateau, and we travelled through country which had seen some heavy fighting, passing wrecked German vehicles, tanks, staff cars, and graves beside the road—sometimes ours and sometimes theirs. Small villages seemed to get the worst and have been shelled. Two cities in particular looked like cities of the dead. Civilians were around looking for pitiful treasures and coming back dragging carts full of possessions.

Staff Headquarters

"The chateau had been the headquarters of a flying bomb staff and the basement was full of radios and instruments. The cure of the local church told me the Germans had left very hurriedly on Friday and the Canadians came on Sunday. We arrived Wednesday. They were still hunting Germans who had been cut off in the woods and at night we could hear the Maquis scouring the forest. We used to go out and barter chocolate bars, sardine and soap for eggs. I got six eggs for a tin of sardines. If I had had any shoes to spare I would probably have got a farm.

"We had a tour to Dieppe and one to Vimy. We were welcomed like heroes. Small children would run up and give us bottles of beer and we would throw them chocolate.

"We moved again to a monastery and the part we occupied was decorated with huge German charcoal drawings of their glorious (?) victories in Africa and history shattering quotations from Bismarck and Hitler. In the evening we would go for walks until one night something pinged above our heads, and then we didn't go for walks any more.

Passed Site

"We passed a flying bomb site which had been destroyed by our planes. All that was left was a heap of concrete. The fields around were pitted with huge holes. I remember in London lying awake at night hearing flying bombs overhead and wondering if the buzzing would stop overhead or go on, and wishing we could capture some of those sites. So it gave me great satisfaction to actually see one destroyed.

The Belgians are marvellous people. As soon as we crossed the frontier the farm houses became cleaner and with bright pink or blue doors and shutters, and tall trees growing in orderly avenues along the roads, and children giving us fruit and flowers in exchange for souvenirs. We are now in a residential suburb of a large city in a modern apartment building. There is plenty of fruit and pastries and ice cream, which is certainly a change from England. There is a lot of retribution going on against collaborators and the white army has come up from underground. We are constantly being invited out to homes and would need an appointment book to accept all invitations—so you see we are not badly placed at all and are enjoying life in general."

Jan Chamberlain Stresses Pleasant Speaking Voice

Miss Jan Chamberlain, of Toronto, herself an example of her topic, "Effective Living Through Effective Speech," addressed a meeting of the Women's Art Association Friday afternoon in the Y.W.C.A.

She discussed her topic under several headings stressing the necessity of cultivating a pleasant, clear voice. She said that good posture was a vital point to be remembered, and urged her audience to "cultivate a smile." Assurance was also necessary, she continued, but no one could learn to express himself adequately or surely unless he has a good vocabulary to call upon.

Demonstrating her various points, Miss Chamberlain said that there were a number of tones in the human voice, and a good voice could have as many as 10 and more, tones, while others had only three. Quoting statistics, she explaiend that Canadians, on an average, had better vocal tones than Americans with residents of large cities, like New York, possessing the most monotonous voices. She explained that a great deal of his lack of tone could be attributed to the incessant noise of a city, where everyone was forced to talk louder to make himself heard, thus losing the soften tones in the voice.

Must Watch Voice

"A good speaking voice must be acquired," she continued, and any fault, a high, low, deep, or weak, voice can be corrected." She spoke especially to the women as mothers, urging them to give more attention to correct speech, since children learned by imitation, and if the mother speaks correctly, so will the child.

A pupil of Mrs. VonHess, Miss Chamberlain spoke highly of her teachings and said that probably the most famous of her many pupils has been Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt. Miss Chamberlain, who herself teaches correct speaking, completely won the large number of members attending the meeting, by her pleasant personality, and her clear, sweet, expressive voice, as well as her interesting and instructive remarks.

Mrs. J. E. R. Munro, who presided, reminded members that the December meeting would take the form of a musicale, with Mrs. H. A. Mitchell in charge, and thanked Mrs. Chamberlain for her talk.

For Sunday, November 19

Sunday's horoscope holds augury of stress, sorrows, defeats and loss in many phases of activity, with perhaps the domestic, social or affectional ties most adversely afflicted. Under such depressing circumstances be not an easy victim to intrique, strange situations, or any false relationships. Fortitude, courage and the sustenance of sound philosophy are recommended.

Those whose birthday it is may have a fairly lively year, with some benefits from elders, employers or others in influence, yet all may be beset by personal, domestic or affectional griefs or distresses, which should be met with fortitude, religious comfort or sound philosophical understanding. Courage and determination may eventually unfold some real benefits or blessings.

A child born on this day while having many sterling qualities and talents, may need such patience, courage and fortified energies to meet adversity, particularly in its affectional relations.

For Monday, November 20.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a particularly lively day, with affairs moving under high tension in the direction of attaining most cherished and ambitious objectives. It should be a time to push for such goals with might and main, since there is the assurance of help and substantial tokens of preferment from "higher ups." Even against trickery and subtle underminings such friendships may be counted upon. Seek prestige and popularity.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of fulfillment of their dearest objectives if they will forge ahead to such goals, since all reasonable efforts and ambitions will be enhanced by the favors and substantial assistance of influential personages. Work for recognition, with increased credit, and personal prestige and popularity. This may also bear rich fruit in all domestic, social and sentimental relations.

A child born on this day may be fortunate in attracting the support and preferment of those in high places, ready to assist to success and personal prestige and happiness.

St. Luke's Guild Sponsors Tea

An excellent attendance marked the successful tea and bazaar sponsored by the Women's Guild of St. Luke's Anglican Church Friday afternoon in the parish hall. Members unanimously decided that this was one of the "best ever" and were extremely pleased with the results.

Mrs. D. Wyatt, president of the Guild received the guests, and they were served from small individual tables set around the central table. Each little table had its centrepiece of flowers, miniature of the large table, from which lunch was served. Mrs. Harry Starr was in charge of the team room, and Mrs. F. Mason and Mrs. Harvey Starr were assisting in serving.

The bazaar and sale of work was a success in itself, and long tables, filled with dainty fancy work, delicious home cooking, and novelties, proved a great drawing card to the large number of people who attended. Mrs. W. King supervised the fancy work display, which featured pillow cases luncheon sets infants' wear aprons, crocheting, and novelty brooches and wooden knick-knacks. She was assisted by Mrs. L. Lipsett and Mrs. H. Moore.

The popular home cooking table was in charge of Mrs. C. Hamilton, assisted by Mrs. B. Reid. Christmas cakes and puddings made a brave showing, but quickly disappeared with the steady sales. Mrs. J. Trennum was in charge of the fish pond, which found as much favor with grown-ups as it did with the youngsters, while Mrs. A. McIlvena looked after the display of jams and vegetables, and Mrs. L. Thomas supervised the sale of home-made candy.

THE RUSTLE OF TAFFETA — No more beautiful fabric ever existed for women in a gala mood than taffeta...silk taffeta with its murmur and rustle. There is still some silk taffeta left from pre-war stocks, and this handsome evening gown in the more formal manner is made from it. Stripes in the fabric are handled to help any figure...slim, plump or absolutely perfect...look its svelte best.—By Prunella Wood.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

How glad we all are to go home and find a nice home-made cake or cookies on the table: In these days especially, a home-made cake is a real treat, for, with the shortage of sugar and butter, we can't make a cake every day. I am giving you a couple of recipes today, that are really worth trying, and, even if our rations will only permit us to make one or two a month, they're worth waiting for.

Jill's Rolled Oats Crisps

5 tablespoons once-sifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon, 7 tablespoons shortening, 1 cup brown sugarf, lightly packed, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups quick-cooking rolled oats.

Measure and sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and cinnamon. Melt the shortening and stir in the brown sugar and vanilla, then the rolled oats. Work in the sifted dry ingredients. Press into two buttered shallow eight-inch square cake pans. Bake in moderate oven 350 degrees about 20 or 25 minutes. Cut into small squares while hot.

Mary Jean's Cocoa Cake

1½ cups once sifted pastry flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 7 tablespons cocoa, 2 eggs, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 cup sour cream, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon baking soda.

Measure and sift together twice, the flour, baking powder, salt and cocoa. Beat the eggs until very thick and light. Then gradually add the sugar. beating well after each addition. Add sour cream, vanilla, baking soda and beat until it is thoroughly mixed and soda is dissolved. Mix in the twice-sifted dry ingredients, half at a time. Turn into buttered and lightly floured eight-inch square cake tins and bake in a rather slow oven 325 degrees, about 50 to 55 minutes. Turn out on cake cooler. The cake may be turned right side up and the top sprinkled with sifted icing sugar or it may be iced or topped with whipped cream.

Prouty-Kidd Vows Pledged

WARSAW, Nov. 18—A quiet wedding was solemnized when Gloria Edith, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Kidd, of Warsaw, was united in marriage to Trooper Lennel H. Prouty, Camp Borden, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Prouty, Owenbrook. The house was decorated with white bells and pink and white streamers.

The bride entered the drawing-room on the arm of her father, wearing a floor-length gown of white sheer and lace, with finger tip veil caught to the hair with a spray of orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses, and wore the gift of the groom, a pearl set pendant and chain.

Miss Gladys Bolton was bridesmaid and wore a floor-length gown of forget-me-not blue sheer, with hat and finger tip veil to match and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Orville Kidd, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

The ceremony was performed under an arch by Rev. E. D. Snelgrove, United Church minister, at Warsaw. During the signing of the register, "At Dawning" was sung by Miss Helen Lytle. Music was played by James Abraham.

A buffet luncheon was served to the many guests and a reception was given in the evening at the home of the bride, her mother receiving in a Queen Elizabeth blue crepe, and wearing a corsage of pink rose buds.

The groom's gift to the best man was a bill fold with name in gold letters, to the bridesmaid a necklace, and to the soloist, a glamor pin and earrings to match.

The couple left for a motor trip to Toronto and Allandale, returning by way of Coe Hill, the bride travelling in an ensemble of cocoa brown with matching accessories. On arriving at Coe Hill, a shower was given them at the home of the groom's aunt, Miss Viola Prouty, and a social evening was spent in cards and crokinole.

Soldiers Receive Xmas Boxes

BETHANY, Nov. 18 — (ENS). — The November meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. F. W. Reynolds. Miss Hannah Staples presiding.

Mrs. Armstrong, treasurer, reported having received $3 from Mrs. Harold Kyle (a member who was leaving for a new home in Edmonton, Alberta, with the request that she still be considered a member of the Bethany Institute). Mrs. Kyle also left her quilting frames for the use of the Institute in their Red Cross quilting.

Mrs. Reynolds reported that the Institute had given Mrs. Kyle a cup and saucer as a remembrance of some happy meetings spent together. Mrs. Gims sent a card of thanks for a box of fruit sent her, during her recent illness following an operation.

Three interesting letters were read from boys overseas, who had already received their Christmas boxes from the Institute. They are Laurence Steer, Harry Johnston and Jack Smith.

Reports were received from Mrs. R. W. Price on the new quota for the Red Cross. Also from Mrs. Thorndye on the quilt committee. Mrs. F. W. Reynolds, convener of group 3 took charge of the following program, which consisted of a poem entitled. "Tranquility" and was the composition of Miss Elsie Richardson, about her summer's vacation spent at Lake Baptist. It was recited by the author.

Mrs. A. H. Monk gave an interesting paper entitled, "How God Gave Us the Bible". This paper had been given at a former women's association meeting. Mrs. Carleton Patton, gave some helpful first aid hints, the do's and don'ts of first aid.

Mrs. Reynolds and members of group 3, served dainty refreshments.

Cardinal Warns Nazis Must Be Routed

MONTREAL, Nov. 18 — (CP) — Cardinal Villeneuve told a gathering of military men here today that "you cannot fight this war by condensing the horizon to this continent."

The Cardinal, who just a few hours before had returned from a two-month tour of Italy, France, Belgium and Britain, said that he had received a deep impression of the war and what it meant. He said the object of his visit to Canadian troops overseas was to see for himself what was happening.

"I am not taking any attitude pro or con, but you cannot fight this war by condensing the horizon to this continent," His Eminence said "The Nazi has got to be completely defeated, or there will be no peace for our way of life."

Soldiers Courageous

Cardinal Villeneuve made no direct reference to the conscription issue, but said that he had found all the Canadian soldiers courageous and of good Christian spirit and that their effort was a voluntary one.

Maj.-Gen. L. R. LaFleche, War Services Minister, who met the cardinal at the airport and later took him to the conference of military men, said that the conference had been dealing with recruiting and that the cardinal had consented, when he heard of it, to visit the military authorities and tell them "the latest from the front."

He added that the conference has been arranged prior to the arrival of the cardinal by air, and it was only at the airport that his eminence had received an invitation to attend.

Confident on Recruiting

"We have been conferring on how to get men and we are going to get them", said the War Services Minister. "If we put forward the proper appeal to the French-Canadians, they will respond to us like all other good Canadians will respond when the appeal is properly made.

"The cardinal was not part of our recruiting plan, but we are very grateful for his visit."

In a brief interview afterwards, Cardinal Villeneuve said he was glad to be back in Canada and that later on he would have occasion to give a more lengthy report of his trip.

He said he was glad to meet the military men in Montreal and to bring them the best wishes of his compatriots, as well as to express his own feelings of admiration and gratitude for what those overseas were doing.

ESCAPED NAZIS CAPTURED — Hans A. Eultgem and Freidrich Potrick, escaped prisoners of war, have been captured after their photographs in the press were recognized by J. Stanley Rose of Toronto. Here Freidrich Potrick, Right, is shown leaving the police building in Toronto. Both prisoners had been working there.

Ontario Crops Above Average

TORONTO, Nov. 18 — (CP) — The Ontario Department of Agriculture in its October crop report issued Friday said this has been an exeeellent crop year throughout the province with all crops averaging normal or above. Weather has been ideal for completion of harvesting and there had been little loss through rain or frost.

Lack of moisture, however, had interfered with all ploughing, particularly on heavy soils, but it was expected an increased number of tractors would permit a normal acreage to be turned over before the freeze-up.

The general condition of fall wheat, winter barley and rye was excellent. New seeding looked promising but were reported as below average in Prince Edward, Kent, Glengarry and Renfrew counties.

The alsike crop for seed production was almost a complete failure in 1944, but yields of red clover and alfalfa seed were considered fairly satisfactory.

Much of the carry-over of hay for the past two years will be required this year for winter feeding as a result of a shortage of roughage, the report said.

There was an excellent demand for hay from the United States and several carloads had been exported recently.

Total grains harvested was estimated at 159,230,000 bushels compared with 88,829,200 bushels in 1943. Total hay crops and corn fodder at 10,087,900 tons compared with last year's figures of 11,017,000. Potatoes were 8,503,000 cwt. as against 7,552,000 cwt. a year ago.

JOLLY WIFE IS A JOY FOREVER

Tears Blister Where They Fall But There Is Healing In Laughter

Admitting that the chief objective in the average woman's life is catching a husband and keeping him after he is caught, it is strange that she almost universally overlooks her one best bet, and that is being jolly. Bubbling over with good cheer and high spirits. For some unknown reason women have never thought it worth while to include a gay outlook on life in their line of attractions, yet there is no other weapon in the whole feminine armory to which men are so vulnerable as they are to a laugh.

Why women should not have discovered long ago that it is more profitable to develop their funnybones than it is to make living skeletons of themselves, and that as long as they wear the smile that won't come off it doesn't matter what sort of a complexion it covers, is one of the mysteries nobody can fathom. It just remains a fact that they do not wish to be jolly themselves and that they are deeply, darkly suspiciuos of every woman who is and sure that she is no better than she should be.

Of course, there are exceptions to this rule, for not all women are dumbbells and there are those who, perceiving that men prefer mirth to melancholy affect a vivacity they do not feel. This gives us the gigglers whose laughter is like the crackling of thorns under a pot, and the screamers who yell with feigned amusement when you tell them your hard luck story.

Cheerfulness A Duty

And, a synthetic sense of humor being worse than none at all, men compromise by marrying girls with a sweet, sad smile and undertake a life job of explaining the comic strips to Arabella and trying to make her see the points of their jokes. But she never understands why they prefer vaudeville ot symphony concerts.

It is a thousand pities that women put no stress on cheerfulness as either a virtue or a duty, because there is no other quality that goes so far toward making a marriage a success and keeping a husband nailed to his own fireside. There is no man who doesn't hasten his footsteps to his own home at night if he knows he is going to find in it a woman whose smile makes sunshine within it, and who is going to amuse and entertain him by telling him the funny things the children said and all the spicy gossip she has accumulated during the day.

It is the tear-jug women who turn their homes into morgues and who take the last bit of pep out of tired men by deluging them with every depressing thing they can think of, whose husbands flee from them to gayer companions. When a wife can turn her husband's little weaknesses and peculiarities into a funny story, instead of her theme song for lectures, she couldn't lose him if she tried.

Tears blister where they fall, but there is healing in laughter. There is a magic in cheerfulness that draws us to those who radiate it. So, girls, if you want to be popular; if you want to be loved; if you want to catch a husband and keep him, be jolly.

Blood Plasma Saves Life Of Pte. McArthur

HAVELOCK, Nov. 18 — (ENS).— "I would not have been here to-day if I had not been given blood plasma treatment," said Pte. Claude B. McArthur of the South Saskatchewan Regiment, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander McArthur of Havelock, who was seriously wounded last August at Falaise, necessitating the amputation of his left leg above the knee and who arrived on board the British hospital ship Aba a few days ago. He was given four quarts of blood plasma and mentioned that the treatment received by the men in hospital is of the best. Pte. McArthur was in hospital in France for two weeks after being wounded, before being moved to England.

Wanted to Go Back

Pte. McArthur sincerely regrets that he has been forced to sever his connections with his unit, and if he had the chance to go back he would want to go direct to the battle front, he declared, because he left a splendid bunch of boys behind. In fact, he tried to persuade the medical officers in England to fix him up with an artificial limb and let him go back. He is of a retiring disposition and prefers no fuss, wishing to come back and pick up life with his associates as though he had never been away.

As far as he could see, reinforcements were needed, and he thinks the draftees should be sent overseas. This soldier does not think the reinforcements arriving now are any too well trained in battle tactics. He prefers England to Canada in some respects as he found the people more cordial to the boys in uniform than they are here. There are three times as many people in England, according to the ratio of population, donating blood as there are in Canada, Pte. McArthur reported.

Pte. Wm. I. Knox Prisoner Of War

MARMORA, Nov. 18 — (ENS). — Gordon Knox has received a telegram from the Director of Records, Ottawa, stating that the Minister of National Defence has been advised by the International Red Cross Committee, Geneva, Switzerland, that Private William Isaac Knox, previously reported missing in action, has now been reported prisoner of war at Stalag 7-A, Germany.

About a month ago Mr. Knox received letters from two different men who picked up the news of his brother being a prisoner from short wave stations.

Mrs. George Renwick, Reg. N., of Peterborough, is a sister.

Big Contingent Reaches Canada

(By The Canadian Press)

In time to spend Christmas at home, a contingent of service men and women representing most branches of the Canadian fighting forces has arrived back in Canada after seeing action on various fighting fronts or serving in Britain.

With them came a large group of British war brides of Canadian servicemen, bound for almost every quarter of the dominion. Most of the brides were accompanied by young children as they caught their first glimpse of their new homeland.

Predominant in the movement was a large group of soldiers who were veterans of service in many parts of the world, ranging from Kiska to Sicily, Italy and France.

Kiwanis Club Given Outline Of Civic Hospital

Additional features which could be built into a new civic hospital might cost a little more money now, but would save much more money during the next 23-year period, Alderman Sands told members of the Peterborough Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon in the Empress Hotel on Friday afternoon.

Mr. Sands said a new hospital should be able to serve "hot" meals while they are still actually hot, have wards with papered walls which would go far in cheering the mental outlook of patients, and in brief, be in essence a business. He reminded the Kiwanians that some of the features he would like to see incorporated in the new building might not fall into line with the wishes of others, and stressed the fact that in his personal opinion they are needed in a new, modern hospital.

"A hospital is not a jail," he said, "but a part of ones own home, transferred to where expert care can be given in cases of illness. Papered walls would make a ward seem more homelike to the patient than would drab, plain walls."

Mr. Sands suggested a "quiet" room attached to each public ward. Then when a patient from a public ward returns from an operation, he may be put into this additional room where needed quietness will help him until he is better, and can be removed to the ward again. If a patient in any way disturbs others, he said, he can be placed in the attached room until the disturbance is over.

Hot Meals

The speaker pointed out that one of the important services of any hospitals is the serving of hot meals that are actually hot. After going through many hospitals both in Canada and the United States, he said he often saw cases where this service was neglected.

One of the examples of expert serving of meals was seen in a Cleveland hospital, however. Here 500 beds were served by five staff members in the short space of 45 minutes. At all times, the food reached the patient within three minutes after it had been served.

Giving a comprehensive review of the work done in connection with a new hospital, Mr. Sands gave much credit to members of the committee, and various other organizations who have helped in some way to foster the project on its way.

"A hospital is needed with adequate space to look after its patients, so that people will not have to be turned away as has been the case here in the past. Lives may be saved by prompt admittance to a hospital," he said.

Nurses' Home.

Along with a new hospital, it is hoped to be able to erect a new nurses' residence, which would lower the operating costs of a hospital by attracting student nurses.

The Kiwanians learned how the new hospital is being planned, how the number of beds is being worked out, and how they will be divided among chronic cases, acute, and isolated cases.

In a brief summary of existing conditions, Mr. Sands said that to-day nurses are forced to work three times as hard. Facts must be faced, he said. The existing hospital is not inefficiently operated, but inefficient because of the amount of labor it needs. Labor costs cause deficits, also. An efficient hospital means less labor for everyone, and more efficient service.

The Kiwanians were asked to do a "little advertising among friends" about the need for a new hospital now. Urging that everyone vote on December 4 when the civic hospital by-law will be presented, he said the cost to the citizens of Peterborough for a $1,400,000 hospital with a total value of $1,600,000 will only be one cent a week for each ten dollars taxes paid, for the next twenty years.

The ratepayers in the by-law plan will contribute $600,000, which will be added to the $800,000 already available.

Alderman William Ovens introduced the speaker. John Troke and Dr. C. B. Waite offered the thanks of the club for the informative and timely address.

Jack Hardill of the Navy, son of Milf Hardill, and Stuart Saunders, R.C.A.F., son of Charles Saunders, president of Kiwanis, were among the guests.

President Saunders read to the members an appeal from the Red Cross to encourage more people to give urgently needed blood. William Derry was the winner of the War Savings Stamp draw, conducted each week by Bob Everett. Jack Hardill made the draw.

Personals.

Mrs. Norman Muirhead of Janetville, has spent the week with her sister, Mrs. Earl White and Mr. White at their home on Glengarry Road.

FREEZING OUT NAZIS IN NORTH—Following the sinking of the Tirpitz, the British Navy staged a quick follow-up by knocking out a Nazi convoy of nine ships off Norway. This is but a small chapter of the growing Nazi woes in the north. The Russian fleet is reported concentrating in strength in the Baltic, where the last of the German fleet appears to be caught. Sweden has heatedly protested Germany's designation of the Baltic and the Bothnian Gulf as a war zone and has openly complained that German troops in Norway violate the Swedish-Norwegian border agreements.

English Papers Rap P.R.O's For Hand-outs

LONDON, Nov. 18 — (CP). — The Sunday Express, charging that "the business of most of the present type of public relations officers is not to give newspapers news but to coerce them into publishing advertisements," has asked its reporting staff not to deal with these officers "either in Government departments or in industry" except in cases where it cannot be avoided.

A notice to the staff, over the signature of Editor John Gordon, added "we do not exist for publishing hand-outs and we shall have nothing to do with a system that is intended to control and suppress news."

World's Press News, weekly magazine devoted to journalism and advertising, said in remarking on the Sunday Express action that "for a long time indignation has been boiling up against the pros who have attempted to bamboozle the press with free puffs and who at the same time have tried to act as unofficial censors."

"The system of maintaining pros and press agents is one which, if properly carried out, would receive the full backing of the newspaper industry," the magazine added, "but when it develops into what has been described as 'an incipient press racket' it is surely time that newspapermen themselves took action to remedy the situation.

"The most recent instance of mishandling of a story of pros was the stand-down order to our Home Guard.

"An embargo was put on the announcement which had no relation to military security. Had it not been for the action of one paper definite news of the date of the stand down would have been withheld from the public for several days."

Births Marriages In Memorian Card of Thanks Deaths

BIRTH

LAKE—To Flight Sgt. and Mrs. F. K. Lake (formerly Marcella Dorrington), at Nicholls Hospital, on Friday, November 17th, 1944, a baby boy.

GRADY—Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Grady (nee Lucille Heffernan), 635 Union street, wish to announce the birth of a daughter at St. Joseph's Hospital, on Friday, November 17th, 1944.

DIED

HAMILTON, Mrs. Martha—On Friday, November 17th, 1944, at Nicholls Hospital, Martha Allen, beloved wife of the late George Andrew Hamilton and mother of Mrs. A. M. Pidgen, Mrs. M. J. Brown, Mrs. Gordon Frise, Mrs. Carl Prior, Wilbur and Douglas Hamilton.

Funeral service on Monday, November 20th at 2 p.m., from the Nesbitt Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street. Interment Little Lake cemetery.

BROWN, Vivian—On Thursday, November 16th, 1944, at Welland County Hospital, Vivian Louise Brown, R.N., beloved daughter of Mrs. Margaret Brown of 285 Dalhousie street, and sister of Sgt. Archie Brown and Pte. Thomas Brown, overseas.

Funeral service on Sunday, November 19th at 2 p.m. from the Nesbitt Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street. Interment Fraserville Cemetery.

ENGAGEMENT

The engagement is announced of Helen Mary, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Booth, Western Ave., Peterborough, to Elwood Everett Reynolds, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Reynolds of Lakefield. The wedding to take place at All Saints Church on 2nd Dec. 3 p.m.

WEDDING

TRUDE — THORNE—The marriage of Isabelle Jean, daughter of Mrs. Thorne and the late George Thorne, to Donald Francis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Trude, was performed by the Rev. H. Mahoney at the Manse of Knox United Church, Saturday, November 4th, 1944.

IN MEMORIAM

FLETCHER—In memory of a loving husband and father, J. H. Fletcher, who passed away two years ago, November 18th, 1942.

His weary hours and days of pain,
His troubled nights are past;
And in our aching hearts we know
He has found sweet rest at last.

—Always remembered by his wife, sons and daughters.

NORTHEY—In loving memory of John Garnet Northey, who passed away November 19th, 1940.

Gone into that light that shines so fair,
Gone from this world of sorrow and care,
Resting those hands that did their best,
I think of him still as the same and say,
He is not dead — he is just away

—Ever remembered by mother, Wellie and Warren.

WARD—In loving memory of Mrs. E. E. Ward, a dear friend, who passed away one year ago November 18th, 1943.

We do not forget her, we love her too dearly,
For her memory to fade from our lives like a dream;
Our lips need not speak when our hearts mourn sincerely,
For grief often dwells where it seldom is seen.
In our home she is fondly remembered,
Sweet memories cling to her name;
Those who loved her in life sincerely,
Still love her in death just the same.

—Always remembered by Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Johnston.

BAIRD—In loving memory of our dear son, Billy Baird, who passed away 2 years ago November 19th, 1942.

We think of him in silence,
His name we oft recall;
There is nothing left to answer,
But his picture on the wall.

—Sadly missed by mother, sisters, brother and daddy, overseas.

Cap. F. Stinson Dedicates Roll

In a ceremony at Fort Coulonge, Que., last Sunday, when an honor roll was unveiled and dedicated to the seventeen members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in that town who are on active service, Capt. Frank G. Stinson of Peterborough, who is recruiting officer in the 3rd District Recruiting Company, represented the Department of National Defence and gave the dedicatory address.

The unveiling was performed by Mrs. G. Toller, Ottawa, Rev. W. A. Hunter delivered the sermon, assisted by Lieut. W. S. Darby, R.C.N.V.R., naval chaplain. James Kenney, who has three sons overseas, was in charge of the service. A representative of the Navy, Army and R.C.A.F. made up the guard of honor, and a bugler from No. 3 District Depot sounded the Last Post and Reveille.

"During the First Great War, the congregation of this church assembled to pay tribute and honor to its members who served so gallantly to preserve liberty, justice, and freedom," Capt. Stinson pointed out in his address. "The bronze tablet and roll of honor erected on that occasion serves as a lasting memorial to their glorious deeds and service to their King and Country.

"It was twenty-six years ago yesterday, November 11, 1918, when we forced the enemy to lay down his arms. Little did we then realize that in a few years we should be in the throes of another world conflict against a ruthless enemy who would destroy everything we hold dear.

"Our right to live in happiness and prosperity was challenged, and the splendid young men and women of this country accepted that challenge.

"We pay tribute to-night to 17 members of this congregation whose names appear on this honor roll—one member who has crossed the Great Divide to a fuller life, and has made the supreme sacrifice.

"We especially honor and glorify his name.

"We ask God's protection for those still fighting our battles on the sea, on the land, and in the air, and when the 'Cease Fire' order comes, that they be restored to their homes and loved ones."

New Secret Bases

LONDON, Nov. 18 (CP)—Mysterious constructions, believed to be starting bases for a new German secret weapon, are being erected in the mountains of central Norway, it was reported yesterday. No details were disclosed, but Allied informants said the whole area had been restricted and that hundreds of foreign laborers were engaged on the work.

Senator Vien Calls Senate

OTTAWA, Nov. 18. — Senate Speaker Thomas Vien late last night announced that members of the Upper House are being called into session next Wednesday one hour before Commoners meet on a matter of "public interest," presumably the reinforcement issue.

The Senate announcement was as laconic, on the purpose of the session, as was the notice of the meeting of Parliament issued by Prime Minister King on Monday night.

Text of last night's notice follows:

"Hon. Thomas Vien, Speaker of the Senate, has to-day notified the members of the Senate that, in pursuance of the order of the Senate of Jan. 27, 1944, it is his opinion that the Senate, which was adjourned on Aug. 15 last to Jan. 31, 1945, should meet prior to the time set forth in such adjournment and that the Senate will meet on Wednesday, Nov. 22, at 2 p.m. in the afternoon."

When Prime Minister King announced Commons was being called he made no mention of the Senate. Speaker Vien followed with a statement that he saw no necessity for recalling members of the Senate.

New Cartoon To Appear Monday

The comic cartoon "They'll Do It Every Time" drawn by Jimmy Halto will start in the Examiner on Monday. This brilliantly executed daily panel is full of genuine fun with characters and humorous situations picked from everyday life. It is always different, always amusing and finds uproarious mirth among the characters and situations.

The cartoon is greatly in demand among newspapers and in publishing it in the Examiner it is felt that the readers will not wish to miss one single issue of the paper.

Nicholls Hospital

Eight Furnaces

As an example of one of the more trivial nuisances caused by outdated fixtures, there are no less than eight separate fire pots being used to heat the building, heat water, and provide steam.

Modern appliances in a building of the same proportions would consist merely of a large boiler plant, and two large boilers, one of which would act as a standby!

Another reason for the building of a new hospital lies in the fact that persons who are chronically ill should be separated from those suffering acute illnesses. The purposes are many. First, on an economical basis, it saves much time in nursing, if chronic cases are separated, in view of the fact they require less care than do the acutely ill people. A survey made recently in other hospitals, showed that an acutely ill patient requires roughly 3.2 hours of care for a given period, while the figure is much smaller for a chronically ill person. The number of people who may be expected to become chronically ill will increase, because of the life expectation increase, and because of the growing incidence of degenerate diseases. In the high tide of modern civilization's living, body parts are being worn out faster. Therefore, it is Mr. Hornal's theory that progressive medical men will be much concerned with the high number of degenerate illnesses, and be aware of the need to treat them with proper facilities. A chronic disease, it was shown, is not clean-cut and marked like an acute illness, but takes time to diagnose, . . . usually by the test-and-try method . . . and fight. Today, the chronics cannot be separated from others because of a lack of space; one more persuasive reason!

Referring to the winter incident of having long waiting lists, Mr. Hornal said the 50 names probably meant more than that number were kept from hospital care because their illnesses simply cleared up before they could get to the hospital. Many more must probably have been kept from the hospital by doctors, who didn't report certain cases, believing others to be in greater need; all needed the care and treatment, but it was a situation that could not be helped at the time. Flexibility in the moving about of patients is another hope for a new hospital.

With a design aiding the rapid and facile transport of patients from one room to the other, a system of wards for one, two, three and more cases could be conceived, resulting in a private room for everyone until diagnosed, then a semi-private room, then, when well on the way to recovery and out of danger, a room with several other recuperates; in this manner, patients could be more successfully grouped, also.

A proposition that has been made to incorporate a small, eight-bed neuro-psychiatric ward for nervous diseases and other mental ills, will mean the new hospital will be among the first in the province to advance along this line. Treatments would be given here, for people who are not required to go to regular mental hospitals; there will be no labeling of patients, the room will be the same as any in the building and go a long way in correcting public opinion toward a person suffering emotional and mental upsets, and bring those people back to normalness. According to the Canadian Hospital Council report on building and construction, the number of mental diseases in the 13-year period up to 1940, increased by 66 p.c., whereas the numberof acute diseases in the same period all non-war months, increased only 28 p.c. Mental illness comes in wars and peace, in good times and depressions, and the truly modern hospital will be able to afford treatment and care of these people. The complexity of life today as compared with 21 years ago, is so much greater, and this is one of the reasons for the remarkable increase. At the present time, physical treatments and other care is provided by Nicholls to the best of its ability, but a regular ward for patients, with special facilities will be a needed improvement.

An emergency operating room is a need too, Mr. Hornal reported. Every backward characteristic of the building, and that includes a myriad of petty inconveniences, while trivial when separated, fits into the picture like pieces of a jig-saw puzzle, and the whole, when viewed from an advantageous position with the proper amount of perspective, calls for a new hospital. Nothing of value in the present hospital will be abandoned, he said, and anything that could possibly be used in connection with another building will be salvaged. Under the circumstances, however, any wholesale reconditioning schemes would appear to be out of the picture. Peterborough needs a new hospital in any event, and the facts related are but a few of many, which to the staff, patients, and visitors leaves an impression that a new building is inevitable.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

THREE WAYS TO PLAY

OFTEN THE fate of a contract depends entirely upon the way some one problem is handled. There may be several optional methods available. Frequently a situation is found which may be treated in three different fashions. One may be an ordinary finesse, one may be a lead throwing end-play, and the other may be a play which combines the features of both.

North: ♠ J 9 7 6 3 2 ♥ K 5 ♦ A Q 9 ♣ 7 4

West: ♠ 4 ♥ J 10 9 3 ♦ 10 6 5 2 ♣ K 5 3 2

East: ♠ K 5 ♥ 8 4 2 ♦ K J 8 ♣ Q J 9 8 6

South: ♠ A Q 10 8 ♥ A Q 7 6 ♦ 7 4 3 ♣ A 10

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	1 ♠
2 ♣	4 ♠	Pass	4 NT
Pass	5 ♦	Pass	5 NT
Pass	6 ♦	Pass	6 ♠

Bidding with slight variations from that brought the same contract at a number of duplicate tables. At several West led the club 2, the A winning. One South led the heart 6 to the K, finessed the spade J, led, the 2 and put the A on the K, scored the heart A and Q for a club discard, then finessed the diamond Q. The K won, the club return was ruffed, and later a diamond had to be lost, beating the contract.

At another table, play was the same for five tricks, then on the sixth, the heart Q was used for discard of the diamond 9. The heart 7 was ruffed out and the club 10 led, South expecting East to win and be end-played, having to give a ruff-and-discard with a heart or club lead or else lead into the diamond tenace. But West, instead of East, won the club 10 with the K and led a diamond through the tenace, so that the K got the setting trick.

At a third table, South scored the club A, heart K and heart A, ruffed the heart 7, finessed the spade J, dropped the spade K with the A, discarded the club 7 on the heart Q, ruffed the club 10, returned with the spade 7 to the Q, then led a diamond, using the 9 to make East win with the J. East could do nothing but lead a diamond into the tenace or give a ruff-and-discard with a club. This South made sure that the lead was thrown into East's hand, not into West's.

Trent River W.I. Hears Outline Of Ideal Peace

TRENT RIVER, Nov. 18 (ENS)—"Peace Education and International Relationship," was the theme carried throughout the November meeting of the Women's Institute held at the home of Mrs. James Longmuir.

The meeting opened with the war prayer read by Mrs. R. Colby, and two minutes silence was observed in memory of the fallen heroes of World War's No. 1 and 2.

The Motto was taken by Mrs. William Waters, and the roll call was answered by members naming an important man of the present war. The correspondence included letters and cards from Rudolph Dunn, Bill McLaughlin and Fred McLaughlin, who are serving overseas.

A letter from the Department was read regarding the annual grant, but it was decided not to apply for it.

Mrs. Melville Wight, convener of Peace and International Relationship, gave a splendid paper.

A congress of the chief powers assembled at intervals at "The Hague," she said, the object of which is the establishment of permanent peace, the more immediate aim being the setting of International controversies by arbitration and the lessening of wanton barbarities in war.

The feeling grew steadily, until the outbreak of the war in 1914. So violent an upheaval appeared to indicate that existing proposals could hardly be thought of as a sufficient basis for a lasting peace. The peace movement has suffered greatly in all belligerent countries in this war. While believing that war is always an evil, believe also that it is not the greatest possible evil, and the Great War of 1914-18 was not looked upon as a complete relinquishment of the peace principles.

Nations believing in Internationalism believe in exalting the arts of peace, all the while unafraid of neighboring states and with no potential arms against them; on the contrary there is a realization that each has interests that are related to the success or the failure of the others.

In Europe the guns are a dread challenge to the peace and security of neighboring peoples; the tread of hundreds of thousands of men, always under arms, is a contrast warning that a weak nation is at the mercy of the strong; and only safe from attack as long as the passions of the latter are not inflamed.

Great Difficulties

International boundaries in Europe only short distances apart, seperate peoples, differing widely in language, custom, dress and in hope and aspirations. There is little to bind the millions of one crowded country to the people of another, only the necessity of buying and selling among them provide the essentials of life creates a feeling of interdependence.

Europeans see in America a vision of the world idea of Internationalism, that world idea that America offers ,to all the continents is a boundary line between two proud high-strung nations, Canada and the United States. For more than a hundred years, neither nation ever has launched a menacing army or fired a hostile gun.

The draw was made for the annual exchange of Christmas gifts and Mrs. Earl Greenly had charge of the following program: Reading, Mrs. R. Scott, "The Party Line"; reading, Mrs. J. Longmuir, "Soap the Oppressor," and a contest, "Months of the Year" won by Mrs. R. Scott. A delicious lunch was served and hostesses were Mrs. William Preston, Mrs. E. Greenly and Mrs. J. Longmuir.

CARLYLE TRIPLETS ALL SERVE IN FORCES — The Carlye triplets, Lieut. Bill Carlyle, Left, Lieut. Dave Carlyle, Right, both now in training, and PO. Alan Carlyle, RCAF, all serve in Canada's forces. They are pictured here at a reunion at Vernon, B.C. Sons of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Carlyle, now of Toronto, they lived in Winnipeg four years and attended the University of Manitoba. They were born in Oshawa. Their sister, Mrs. R. H. Guthrie, a former section officer of the RCAF, is now living in Calgary, Alta. The triplets joined up at the age of 19.

Plans To Provide For Disposal Of RCAF Personnel Announced

OTTAWA, Nov. 17—(CP)—Steps to be taken to provide for the disposal of Air Force personnel were announced Friday by Air Minister Power as follows:—

1. Aircrew graduates

(A) All recent and future aircrew graduates who have not received operational training in Canada will be given a month's notice, released from active service and transferred to the R.C.A.F. reserve.

(B) While on the reserve, they will remain officers and airmen, and during hostilities will be liable for recall by the R.C.A.F. They will not normally be recalled for active service for a period of six months from the date of release but, thereafter will be subject to recall on three months' notice. These graduates will constitute a reserve of trained personnel available to the R.C.A.F. and if recalled will be given any necessary re-fresher training. Personnel so transferred will be entitled to all release and rehabilitation benefits.

(C) To supply intakes to operational training units in Canada for the next six months, a sufficient number will be retained and posted progressively as required. In the main, this group will comprise experienced aircrew personnel who have been employed on instructional duties in the plan.

2. Aircrew trainees

(A) As previously annouced, the 4,200 recruits who had not entered any phase of flying training have been released.

(B) All pupils under training, as at Nov. 7, will graduate on or before next March 31.

(C) On graduation, these personnel will be promoted to N.C.O. rank and those who obtain the requisite marks will be commissioned.

3. Aircrew Staff

(A) Flying instructors and other aircrew who had not had overseas service and who, because of age or limited medical category, cannot be employed on operationals overseas, will be released and transferred to the reserve. The age limits referred to are:

Squadron Leader, more than 35 years.

Flight Lieutenant and below more than 32 years.

(B) Aircrew who have completed a tour of operations will be given the option of returning to civilian life. Those desiring to remain in the service and who are not required or not medically fit for operational or flying training duties will, after a period of administrative training, replace, as far as practicable, non-flying list officers. Such aircrew officers and other ranks who do not demonstrate an aptitude for administrative duties and who cannot be employed on flying duties will be released.

4. Non-flying list officers

Non-flying list officers may submit applications for return to civil life. Such applications will be acted upon if the personnel concerned are surplus to requirements or in other cases when replacements from overseas become available.

5. Groundcrew.

(A) Release on a voluntary basis will be offered to groundcrew personnel in the following priorities:

First priority—Those who have served overseas and have been repatriated to Canada.

Second priority—those with over three years' service.

Third priority—those with over two years' service.

Fourth priority—those with under two years' service.

(b) These releases will be controlled by monthly quotas and, as indicated, personnel with the least service will not be released unless insufficient applications are received from the top priorities.

6. This program will apply to both overseas and Canada, but insofar as overseas personnel are concerned, the following special conditions will govern: —

(a) All personnel with at least three years' service overseas will be repatriated unless for personal reasons they wish to remain in the United Kingdom and suitable employment is available overseas.

(b) If operational demands so require, aircrew will complete a tour of operations before becoming eligible for repatriation.

(c) Ground crew and non-flying list officers with less than three years service overseas will not be repatriated unless they become surplus to overseas requirements or request their release from the service.

(d) Radar personnel employed with the .A.F. will be eligible for release or repatriation on the same terms as other R.C.A.F. personnel.

7. Women's division.

(a) Married personnel of the women's division will be released as soon as suitable replacements from within the force are available.

Knox Girls' Class To Visit Hastings

HAVELOCK, Nov. 18 — (ENS) — Mrs. Trevor Watson was hostess for this week's meeting of the girls' class of Knox Church when plans were made to visit Rev. and Mrs. J. Davey at the manse at Hastings on Monday evening, November 20.

The president, Miss Essie McQuigge, presided for the devotional and business periods with Mrs. F. McKenzie in charge of the program which included an "Observation" contest won by Mrs. Harold Smith and an "advertisement" contest won by Miss Thirza Hicks. There were fourteen members present.

Lunch was served by the hostess at the close of the meeting.

Senator T. Bouchard At Y's Men's Club

Senator T. D. Bouchard of St. Hyacinthe, who spoke in the Collegiate Auditorium Wednesday night, addressed members of the Y's Men's Club Thursday night on a similar topic. In honor of their guest speaker, Quirt McKinney led the group in singing "Alouette" and three new members were welcomed. They are: H. McLean of the Co-op; Donald Duncan, boys' secretary of the YMCA, and W. McMullan, Bank of Toronto.

The Unusual Works

EUREKA, Calif., Nov. 18—(AP).—Mrs. Dorothy Hill used her entire assortment of expensive flies but failed to catch any trout. So she pulled a strand of bright red hair from the head of her fishing companion, Miss Lynette Delatour, and tied it to a fly. She landed two trout, 81-2 and 101-2 pounds.

Says Roosevelt Did Not Use Profanity

HYDE PARK, N.Y., Nov. 18—(AP).—Miss Mildred M. Todd, a Democratic election inspector, said to-day she did not hear President Roosevelt use profanity, or any other words, while he was in the voting machine booth here on election to-day.

A news magazine (Times), describing the President's visit to the polling place, said:

"From the green-curtained voting booth came a clank of gears as the main control lever jerked irritably back and forth. Then a voice, familiar to all of the U.S. and to most of the world, spoke distinctly from the curtains: 'The - - - - thing won't work."

Miss Todd said she was sitting "just a few feet from the voting booth" when the President voted.

"I did not hear him say a word while he was in the booth," she said, adding she did not recall that the voting machine failed to work.

The Glendale (Calif.) Ministerial Association said last night it had sent the President a letter asking him to apologize for what it termed his "shocking profanity," as reported by the magazine.

Sucker Lake Club Gets Six Fine Deer

The Sucker Lake hunting party, returned on Wednesday, with six fine deer, one buck weighing over two hundred pounds. One of the settlers on Ketchecum Lake, told the party they were the first hunting party to come down the lake with their full quota of deer, up to date. The party composed of: Peter Gravelle, Harry Gravelle, Eddie Byers of Peterborough, Wallace Nicholls, Albert Nicholls, of Bridgenorth and Stan Pearson of North Smith.

Butter Output Shows Drop For October

TORONTO, Nov. 18 — (CP) — Production of creamery butter in Ontario during October was down 2.8 per cent from October, 1943, the Ontario Department of Agriculture said in its monthly dairy report issued to-day. This year's figure was 6,002,000 pounds and last year's 6,177,000..

Output was up in Southern Ontario but down elsewhere in the province.

The cumulative production of creamery butter for the first 10 months of 1944 was reported at 66,481,000 pounds compared with 74,714,000 last year—a reduction of 11 per cent.

Cheddar cheese production of 11,388,000 pounds in October this year represented a 4.5 per cent increase from last year's figure of 10,896,000. District production increased in Southern Ontario from 904,000 pounds to 1,279,000, in Western Ontario from 608,000 to 698,000; in Central Ontario from 1,980,000 to 2,052,000; and in Northern Ontario from 1,982,000 to 2,052,000; and in Northern Ontario from 116,000 to 167,000. Eastern Ontario showed a decrease from 7,286,000 to 7,192,000.

Accumulated production for the first 10 months was 96,245,000 pounds compared with 97,690,000 in the same period last year, a decrease of 1.4 per cent. Milk used in manufacture of creamery butter and cheddar cheese last month was 26,045,000 pounds, 2.3 per cent. less than October, 1943, when 266,646,000 pounds were required. Total quantity of milk used to date this year for the manufacture of creamery butter and cheddar cheese was 2,634,276,000 pounds, 7.4 per cent. less than 1943, when the figure was 2,843,179,000.

Creamery butter stocks on hand in Toronto warehouses at November 1 amounted to 8,635,000 pounds as against 8,449,000 a month ago, 8,527,000 a year ago. Provincial dairy factories had 5,412,000 pounds of creamery butter at November 1, 5,461,000 at October 1, and 6,183,000 at November 1 last year. Cheddar cheese on hand in factories at November 1 this year was 4,333,000 pounds, compared with 5,461,000 at October 1, and 6,183,000 a year ago. Toronto warehouses reported holdings at November 1 at 4,332,000, at October 1 4,867,000, and a year ago at 3,185,000 pounds.

BUILT ON GREAT LAKES FOR OCEAN — Named for a county in Arkansas, the S.S. Poinsett (above) is one of a fleet of the largest ocean-going vessels ever built on the Great Lakes. It was constructed by the U.S. Maritime Commission in the Leathem D. Smith shipyard at Sturgeon Bay, Wis. The single-screw steel vessel is powered with a 1,700 h.p. Diesel engine and has a speed of about 11 knots. Length is 338½ feet with a beam of 50 feet. Too long to go to sea by the usual route, through the St. Lawrence waterway, the Poinsett and other members of the fleet are taken through the Chicago River to the Illinois River and on down the Mississippi.

Prelate Pledges Quebec Loyalty

MONTREAL, Nov. 18 — Cardinal Villeneuve, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Quebec, returned to Canada today after a two-month overseas tour during which he visited the Pope in Rome and Canadian troops in Italy, France, Belgium and Britain.

The Cardinal arrived by plane, after flying from Britain via the Azores and Bermuda.

Aboard the same plane were Baron de Silvercruy's, Belgian minister to Canada, and Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, British high commissioner at Ottawa, as well as Air Commodore J. E. A. Charest, senior Roman Catholic chaplain to the R.C.A.F.

In a broadcast over the B.B.C. before he left England, the Cardinal pledged French-speaking Canada's "goodwill and friendship" toward the people of Britain, and said he had assured the King that his Roman Catholic and French-speaking subjects in Canada "will continue in the future, as history amply proves they have done in the past, to revere, honor and serve him as loyal subjects."

Believe House Needs 10 Days To Decide Stand

By R. K. CARNEGIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, Nov. 18—(CP)—Ministerial circles Friday expressed the view the House of Commons, which reassembles next Wednesday, will require 10 days to decide whether it will support the Government's decision to continue the voluntary system of providing reinforcements for overseas.

Two developments emphasized the Government has no intention of forsaking the voluntary system.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, in a statement issued on his behalf, denied as "wholly untrue" press reports that Defence Minister McNaughton had reversed his former stand and now had advised Mr. King that the Home Defence Army should be sent overseas.

Gen. McNaughton followed this up with an interview in which he said that after talking matters over with officers commanding 13 military districts, he was more than ever convinced "the continuation of the voluntary system will provide the reinforcements."

Cabinet Meets.

The Cabinet held a 3½-hour meeting yesterday and at its conclusion officials said no statement was expected.

Meanwhile, Cabinet ministers who agree with Mr. King's stand continued to express the view that the Government would be prepared to hold secret sittings and give the members all the information available on the reinforcement situation.

If the debates showed any important section of the Liberal Party in the House was opposed to the Government's stand, Mr. King is expected to demand a vote of confidence.

Should the party be fairly well united behind him, Mr. King might decide a vote was unnecessary and then it would be up to Opposition groups to move a non-conference resolution if they wished a recorded vote.

CANADA'S VETERANS
Their Post-War Opportunities

This is the tenth of a series of advertisements to inform the people of Canada of plans to re-establish men and women of the armed forces. To get the full details save and read every advertisement.

For complete information write for the booklet, "Back to Civil Life."

A Worthwhile Work For All Canadians —

THE COMMUNITY'S SHARE IN RE-ESTABLISHMENT

This is the final advertisement in the series dealing with Canada's plans for the re-establishment of its men and women in the armed forces. Previous statements have told of the Canadian legislation, and have outlined the opportunities open after discharge to the men and women in uniform. Cash grants paid on discharge have been reviewed and service men and women have been advised how they may take advantage of the post-discharge program. It is important that these things be understood fully, not only by those in the Navy, Army and Air Force, but also by all citizens of Canada.

ALL HAVE A RESPONSIBILITY

The problem of re-establishment, however, can not be solved alone by Parliament providing machinery and financing. Neither can it be solved merely by the men and women in uniform taking advantage of that machinery and that financing. To be fully successful the Canadian plan for returning its fighting forces to civilian life needs and must have the full support of all. It needs support from employers, and the help of organized labour, skilled trades and other workers. It needs, above all, the help of the communities from which these men and women come.

PLANS ARE WIDESPREAD

As has been outlined, the Canadian plan for re-establishment is so all-embracing that it has been described as the most complete of any of the United Nations. There are cash grants at discharge, coupled with the war service gratuity and re-establishment credit. There is protection against illness and unemployment, and pensions for those disabled as a result of service. Wide opportunity is provided for state financed training either on the vocational or university level, with assistance in financing a business or in returning to farms and commercial fishing. The home owning provisions are generous—and because Canada throughout the war, has guarded against inflation and has financed soundly, all this monetary assistance is worth one hundred cents on the dollar. Canadians who have served will return to a nation sound financially.

MANY ARE HELPING NOW

Already government authorities are receiving a great deal of voluntary assistance. Veterans' organizations, such as the Canadian Legion, the Canadian Corps Association, the War Amputations of Canada, the Army and Navy Veterans, and others are rendering magnificent service. Canadian service clubs, and women's organizations are doing excellent work. Several hundred communities across Canada have formed volunteer committees to aid with the community problems of re-establishment, but there is need for many of these.

THE FUNCTIONS OF VOLUNTEER COMMITTEES

Volunteer Citizens Committees are set up under a government order-in-council. They are an official part of the Canadian re-establishment machinery. In a broad sense their function is to assist in the community re-establishment problems. These vary in different centres, but in a general sense the committees:

1. Organize home coming receptions for veterans.
2. Give local publicity to the re-establishment program.
3. Give advice and counsel to veterans on their re-establishment problems.
4. Assist in securing employment.
5. Advise the government on policies and on local problems.

These, however, are only highlights of the work which can be done, for the field is wide and the work is well worthwhile.

HOW TO ORGANIZE

In many communities where Volunteer Citizens' Committees have been formed, initial leadership has been provided by municipal authorities and veterans' organizations. Usually service clubs, business men and other community bodies have been invited to assist. The co-operation and aid of government authorities is available, for the problem of community re-establishment is regarded as a most important part of the work. If your community has not already formed a volunteer citizens' committee, full details and assistance may be secured by writing to the Department of Veterans' Affairs.

VETERANS' WELFARE OFFICERS ARE STATIONED IN KEY CENTRES THROUGHOUT CANADA. THEY ARE THE FRIENDS OF EX-SERVICE MEN AND WOMEN. IT IS THEIR DUTY TO ADVISE AND ASSIST ALL EX-SERVICE PERSONNEL WITH THEIR RE-ESTABLISHMENT PROBLEMS. IF THERE IS ANYTHING ABOUT THE REHABILITATION PROGRAM WHICH YOU DO NOT UNDERSTAND CONSULT YOUR NEAREST VETERANS' WELFARE OFFICER.

Issued under the authority of the Hon. Ian A. Mackenzie, Minister of VETERANS' AFFAIRS

Legion Canvasses Commons

OTTAWA, Nov. 20—(CP).)—The Canadian Legion, in a letter sent to every member of the House of Commons over the signature of Alex. Walker, Dominion president, today urged parliamentary support for the conscription of draftees for overseas service. "We know," the letter said, "that we may be asking many members of parliament to take a stand which may affect their political standing. We are asking you, however, to recognize the peculiar responsibility that is yours and come out publicly for conscription for overseas service as the only way in which we can adequately fulfill our responsibility as a nation to our fighting men and to our allies.

"...The issue is one affecting Canada as a whole. It is a moral issue as well as a political one and there is every evidence that the people of Canada are determined that she shall be true to her responsibilities and her pledged word.

"It is incumbent upon the representatives in parliament of both French - speaking and English-speaking Canada, and all other elements in our population, to see that the realities of the situation are brought home to their people and that no partisan, local or sectional interests shall be placed ahead of the need to support our men now fighting for us on the battlefields of Italy and Holland.

"...It is obvious that the need for reinforcements is urgent. Let us therefore take the only possible course that can really unite this Dominion by utilizing forthwith all the trained men, whether draftees or volunteers, as reinforcements for overseas."

Alpine Troops In Bitter Fight Protecting Flank Of Allied Army

By ROBERT WILSON—Associated Press War Correspondent

WITH THE ALLIES IN THE MARITIME ALPS, Nov. 20—(AP).—A cruel yet strangely beautiful war is being fought by American and French troops along the 200-mile jagged Alpine front from the Swiss border south to the graceful beaches of the Ligurian Sea east of Monte Carlo. It is static as fronts go, for the job of Maj.-Gen. Robert T. Frederick's airborne task force, which has the capture of Cannes and Nice to its credit, is to protect the flank of the United States 7th Army and the French 1st Army elements, also manning frontier outposts high in the maritime peaks radiant with deep snow.

Crack German mountain troops are sitting on opposite peaks along the Italian front and holding down the job of protecting the flank of Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring's army.

The cruelty of this campaign derives not so much from the daily artillery duels of American guns firing from French soil and answered by German guns from Italian soil but from the struggle against the bitter cold, which freezes the water in canteens, against the terrain and against the mountains.

The peaks have long, deep canyons where it is always dark. Men on patrol have walked into these shadows of these mountains never to be seen again.

To survive these hardships, infantrymen have learned to move about only in groups or two or three, to let their mules precede them to explore mines, and to stick to high ground to avoid ambush.

The boys call this the "champagne front" because when they get a pass it is only an hour's drive to a warm bar along the still slightly gay Riviera.

BARRYMORE BETTER

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP). — Ethel Barrymore, 65, taken to hospital suffering from a lung congestion a week ago, is well on the road to recovery, her physician said to-day, adding that he expected to decide shortly when the actress would leave the hospital.

Belgian Crisis Causing Alarm

By JOHN A. PARRIS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 20 — (AP). — Allied officials who for months have considered the possibility of internal armed clashes in newly-liberated countries, viewed the Belgian crisis today with some alarm.

If the Belgian situation should get out of hand and result in an uprising by members of the resistance army against the Pierlot Government, these officials said it might spread to other liberated countries which also are going through critical periods.

Allied officials have carefully considered the possibility of dissatisfied elements rising in liberated western and southeastern Europe.

Norwegians Face Death From Cold

LONDON, Nov. 20—(CP).—Crown Prince Olav of Norway said today the Norwegian province of Finmark, burned and laid waste by Germans in retreat from the Russians, may be uninhabitable for "years to come."

Thousands of men, women and children have been sent wandering over snowbound roads in zero temperatures, Prince Olav said, and invalids and young children are dying by the wayside.

He told a press conference that the Germans, in evacuating the far north of Norway, were forcing the Norwegian population to accompany their troops in order to assure them protection from Allied air attacks and bombardment from the sea.

"The Germans," he said, "appear to be preparing defence lines north of Narvik, where it is only 30 miles from the sea to the Swedish frontier."

All the towns in Finmark, which is larger than Holland, have been evacuated, he said. Populations totalling upward of 61,000 face starvation and death from freezing.

The Crown Prince, commander-in-chief of the Norwegian armed forces, said supplies "to a certain degree" are being sent into northern Norway through Kirkenes and that every effort is being made to organize resistance and underground movement.

"Co-operation between Russia and Norway is extremely cordial," he declared.

Chinese Troops Gain Along Burma Road

CHUNGKING, Burma, Nov. 20—(AP)—A Central News dispatch today said Chinese troops yesterday recaptured the Burma road town of Mangshih, 62 miles from the Burma border and third important objective of the Salween offensive.

The other two main objectives—Tengchung and Lungling—already are in Chinese hands.

The high command yesterday said Chinese troops which took Lungling on Nov. 3 were being reorganized for further action in the Mangshih Valley area.

Recapture of Mangshih further secured the prospective India China supply route and pipe line now under construction from Calcutta and expected ultimately to extend into Yunnan province.

The next important Burma Road objective in that province is Chegang, 34 road miles southwest of Mangshih.

Reds Advance Toward Lucenec Hub

Mass 35 Divisions 400,000 Men East Of Budapest

LONDON, Nov. 20 — (CP). — Russian tanks, deepening the Soviet sweep around besieged Budapest along invasion routes into Austria and Czechoslovakia, were reported advancing to-day toward Lucenec, key Nazi communications hub on the Slovak-Hungarian frontier.

The tanks sprang forward along a modern, hard-surfaced highway from captured Gyongyos, a seven-way road junction 23 miles from the border and 40 miles north-east of Budapest.

Gyongyos was seized by Russian shock troops yesterday in a thrust across the vital Budapest-Miskolc railway.

Simultaneously, other Soviet tank and artillery forces brought the 25-mile sector of the trunk line between Budapest and Hatvan under heavy fire after capturing the village of Galgaheviz, 19 miles north-east of Budapest, a midnight Moscow bulletin announced.

Hatvan, also a terminal of a main line running north of Central Slovakia was outflanked by tanks fanning out from Gyangyos following the hard-won Soviet advance. Gyongyos fell after a violent street fight in which the Russians wiped out two enemy battalions of 1,600 men, Moscow said.

On the northern end of the 85-mile front moving on Southern Slovakia, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 2nd Ukraine Army drove to within two miles of Miskolc, Hungary's fifth city. Seizure of Hernadkak, six miles east of Miskolc, put another Russian group into the broad Hernad River valley leading into Slovakia.

In the Baltic, the Russians were reported by Berlin to have thrown three divisions of 30,000 men and strong tank forces against the Sworbe Peninsula, south-western tip of Saare Island, dominating the entrance to the Gulf of Riga.

The battle for Budapest, according to Berlin, entered a new phase with the Russians bringing up 35 infantry divisions, possibly 400,000 men on a siege arc east of the capital. Berlin reported heavy fighting at Gyorme, 10 miles south-east of the city.

Aged Man Dies From Efforts To Rescue Wife

Both helpless and separated by a tragic combination of accident and infirmity befalling them in quick succession, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Lackie of Cavan, lay outdoors all through Thursday night in freezing temperature from 4 o'clock in the afternoon until Friday at 11 a.m., as reported to-day in the news of Mr. Lackie's death at Nicholls Hospital Sunday night from the effects of exposure and old age.

From neighbors it was learned that about 4.30 p.m. Thursday Mrs. Lackie had presumably fallen from a step as she went out a back door at her home to the yard to get wood, suffering a broken hip. Unable to rise she called for help until her husband, somewhat deaf, missing her, followed after her, wondering what was delaying her return to the kitchen.

Finding his wife prostrate and in pain in the yard, only a few paces from the shed, and unable to get up, Mr. Lackie decided to cross the field to the farm of Keith

Entire German Line Sagging Before Impact of Six Armies

By WILLIAM FRYE—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 20 — (AP). — French 1st Army troops broke through the historic Burgundy Gap at Belfort and reached the Rhine, it was announced today as five other Allied armies hit sagging German defences along all the other historic routes of invasion into Germany. It was the week of greatest promise since the Normandy break-through.

French troops and armor unhinged the entire German southern flank at the Swiss border and surged into the outskirts of the by-passed fortress city of Belfort in a break-through announced by Army Commander Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny. The Rhine was reached by nightfall yesterday, he said.

Seize 4 Passes.

American and French forces seized the entrances to four of the six main passes through the Vosges to the Rhine. They are battling 37 miles from Strasbourg, 21 miles from Colmar and 10 miles from Mulhouse, all important cities on the French side of the Rhine.

U.S. 3rd Army forces, crushing Metz in a grip that seized a third of that blocked-off old Roman fortress city, drew up to the Saar border on a 10-mile front and punched out a five-mile-square block of territory in Germany northwest of the Saar and east of the Luxembourg border.

This thrust, along the western fringe of the Saar Valley and just east of the Moselle, assumed the proportions of a drive through the famous Moselle Gate toward Trier and Coblenz on the Rhine, 80 miles to the northeast.

On the Cologne plain three Allied armies fighting on Gen. Eisenhower's most concentrated front had bulged approximately five miles northeast of Aachen since the start of their offensive through the Germans' most formidable and determined defence.

Shows Weaknesses

Losing village after village, the German stand was at last showing signs of a crack up in spots as the British 2nd and U.S. 9th and 1st Armies threw the armored, artillery, infantry and aerial punches which might break through to Cologne on the Rhine, 26 miles away, Dusseldorf and the Ruhr Valley to the northeast.

In Holland British units stabbing to the Meuse at Kessel, 6½ miles south of Venlo, were feeling out German defences 2½ miles from the German border and 29 miles from Dusseldorf.

In the southern sectors of the front the French, fighting back across the Alsace territory they surrendered in the 1940 Armistice, and the 3rd Army in its whirlwind offensive had thrown the Germans into a tailspin.

Front line dispatches indicated thart a German retreat was on to the Rhine and the Saar, the boundaries of the Fatherland.

There was no immediate report as to where the French were now standing watch on the Rhine, but apparently it was near Mulhouse. A previous Supreme Headquarters announcement said they had reached Seppois, 16 miles southeast of Belfort and 16½ miles from the Rhine. Front line reports told of a thrust

Release Surplus Steel, Zinc And Copper For Use In Producing Civilian Commodities

OTTAWA, Nov. 20.— (CP).— Materials which have been set aside for war purposes and which are now surplus to those needs may be used in civilian production, J. G. Godsoe, chairman of the Wartime Industries Control Board announced last night.

The materials had been earmarked for war purposes by a Board order passed early in 1942 to prevent the hoarding or misuse of steel, zinc, copper and other materials essential to the war effort.

Mr. Godsoe said because of the favorable progress of the war it had been possible to remove restrictions on the procurement and use of several materials now in good supply.

2 Canadian Infantry Units Sink 4 German Naval Vessels

By ROSS MUNRO—Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE NORTHERN GROUP OF ARMIES, Nov. 20 — (CP).—When the troops come home and you hear the boys of the Lake Superior Regiment and the British Columbia Regiment tell how they sunk four German naval vessels with tank and infantry weapons don't write it off as a tall tale. It is perfectly true and it's the zaniest exploit of the Canadians in months of fighting.

This is how it happened:

The LSR and the BCR were cleaning up an area northwest of Steenbergen in southwest Holland and elements poked out to the end of Saint Philipsland Peninsula at the mouth of the estuary of the Lower Rhine.

From the end of the Peninsula Lieut. Buck Wright of Kenora, Ont., climbed a water tower and looked across 1,300 yards of water to the little port of Zipjpe on Duiveland Island. He stared in astonishment. There were four German craft in the harbor with German sailors walking around the docks. One craft was about the size of a corvette and the others were converted landing craft. They had .88 millimetre guns and machine guns mounted on the decks and were manned by about 50 men each.

Wright rushed a report to the regiments and a platoon of infantry, a troop of tanks, two six-pounder anti-tank guns and two three-inch mortars were rushed to the end of the Peninsula to deal with this flotilla.

850 Planes Hit Ruhr Valley

LONDON, Nov. 20 (CP)—Upwards of 850 American planes today bombed and strafed the Ruhr valley of Germany, imminently threatened by four advancing Allied armies.

Berlin said that other American planes were striking southern Germany from the south for the third successive day.

An odd combination of 160 heavy bombers and more than 700 fighters and fighter-bombers worked over an oil plant at Gelsenkirchen and the sprawling railroad yards at Munster, both fairly close to the erupting front. The preponderance of fighters suggested that considerable German air opposition was expected.

Swarms of fighters buzzed back and forth on the Channel coast, where blue skies, marked only by slight haze, provided the first break after a week-end of adverse flying weather.

The Italy-based 15th U.S. Air Force raided Southern Germany 600 strong both Saturday and Sunday, but the Britain-based 8th was grounded.

On the Continent tactical combat units, despite hazardous flying weather, joined in the seething battle up and down the western front.

Allied fighter and medium bombers made 3,000 trips across the front lines, poured loads of bombs on German communication lines and belted them with machine-gun fire.

300 Liberators Hit Philippines

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21 (AP)—Three hundred American planes bombed the Japanese-held island of Luzon in the Philippines Sunday, a Tokyo broadcast recorded by the federal communications commission declared.

"Approximately 300 carrier-based planes" raided various sectors of the Philippines, including Manila, Clark Field, Lipa, Batangas and Aparri," the broadcast said.

A Tokyo broadcast reported from London said "several dozen" bombers—including Liberators—took part in the raid . That was the first mention of land-based planes over Manila.

The Japanese claimed their interceptors shot down nine of the raiders and "damaged" one.

Bolivia Stamps Out Revolution

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Nov. 20 (AP) — The 11-month-old government of President Gualberto Villaroel announced today it had put down a revolt led by sympathizers of former President Enrique Penaranda, but official statements indicated some resistance continued.

A communique said the outbreak was limited to Oruro, Bolivia's third city and second largest mining centre.

Although declaring it was in control of the situation, the Villaroel Government said last night that troops previously ordered out would proceed to the city to maintain order.

A state of siege remained in force throughout the country.

A propaganda agency communique named two army officers, Gen. Ovidio Quiroga and Col. Meliton Brito, as leaders of the plot and said they had fled with government forces in pursuit. The communique said a group of rebellious troops had surrendered.

President Villaroel came into power last Dec. 20 in a revolution that ousted Penaranda. The latter since then has been in exile in Peru.

Nazis May Quit If Allies Cross Rhine

Eisenhower's Forces Grinding Ahead Slowly In Fierce Battles

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Thus far the Allied drive toward the Rhine hasn't given us a lead to show whether Gen. Eisenhower will achieve his ambition to end the war this year or whether it may drag on through the winter—but his mighty fighting machine is crushing steadily forward with the inevitability of a landslide.

The German battle-line is stretched taut and at many places is giving, notably in the Aachen sector opposite Cologne and further south in the Metz-Belfort zones. We can see the enemy lack of reserves for the quick, hard-counter-attacks necessary to restore breaks at strategic points. Such a situation is wholly in favor of the Allies, and it might produce a break-through.

Much depends on the weather. Normally this is the bad time of the year, as those who've seen a winter campaign in western Europe know too well.

Barrages Terrific

The covering barrages for Allied advances have been so terrific that in some sectors they've temporarily numbed the enemy. But the Germans have recovered with amazing quickness and have swarmed from their shelters to meet the onslaught. This is fair warning of hard going ahead for the Allies.

Field Marshal Von Rundstedt, commander-in-chief on the western front, is showing a disposition to cling as long as possible to his formidable defences west of the Rhine, despite the fact that this great river represents his strongest natural barrier against the Allies. One suspects this is recognition that:

1 The river is vulnerable despite its strength, and

2. Once the Allies have crossed and established a bridgehead on the eastern bank, the war will be about finished.

In short, the consensus of military experts is that German resistance will fold up when the Allies are over the Rhine in force. It's humanly possible, of course, that we may see the guerilla warfare — battles for each city, town and hamlet—which Nazi propagandists have threatened, but that's not likely.

Once the Allies have established a route across the Rhine they will be able to pour armored forces into the plain leading to Berlin and the heart of Germany, and will have in their hands Hitler's chief industrial areas, the Ruhr and the Saar, which lie close to the Rhine.

We're still waiting for another great event — a Russian offensive against the Vistula. That would give vast support to the Allied drive in the west.

Expensive War

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20O.—(AP). —The war is costing the United States $250,000,000 a day, President Roosevelt said last night, in a broadcast speech prepared for the eve of the Sixth War Loan campaign.

250 Christmas Parcels

Little Boy Has His "Happiest Christmas"

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 20 (AP) —Forest (Nubbins) Hoffman still was enjoying today one of the happiest "Christmases" a little boy ever had.

The three-year-old boy, who may die before Dec. 25 because of a bladder ailment, rubbed the sleep from his eyes yesterday and shook hands with Santa Claus—Charles B. P..beck of Cheyenne.

His firstwords, "today's Christmas," opened the family party and Nubbins plunged into a pile of more than 250 packages from generous folk all over the country—plus gifts from his own family.

A Christmas dinner was spread on the table but Nubbins was able to eat only a little of it.

There were so many presents Nubbins wore himself out tearing off the wrappings, demanding that he do the job himself. Finally, his parents put him down for a nap—after he insisted on opening the remaining gifts.

The party was attended only by Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman and a few other members of the family and friends. It went off like clockwork. Nubbins was so happy he didn't even notice it wasn't a white Christmas.

26 Soldiers Die In Crash

Giant Skytrain Plummets To Earth

LONDON, Nov. 20 (CP)—Twenty-six United States soldiers were killed and four injured in the crash last night of a C-47 Skytrain troop carrier en route from Britain to France, air force headquarters announced today.

The plane was not a hospital ambulance, and it was stated that contrary to earlier report there were no wounded men or flight nurses abroad.

The Skytrain, a transport type that has carried thousands of men to battle, crashed near an 800-foot peak north of Brighton, in southern England. Six victims were taken to a nearby hospital, where two died and the others remained in serious condition.

"No cause has been fixed for the plane going out of control," air force headquarters stated.

Investigators were hampered by mud which made the spot where the plane crashed virtually inaccessible to automobile traffic.

45,000 Japs Knocked Out Across Leyte

British Warship Leads Flotilla In Amphibious Move

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Nov. 20—(AP) — Storm-drenched American troops threw back vicious Japanese counter-attacks in the slow and bitter Leyte campaign of the central Philippines as these rapid-fire developments were announced on Pacific fronts today:

1. More than 45,000 Japanese have been killed or wounded on Yeyte since the Oct. 20 invasion—a ratio of nearly eight to one against American casualties of 5,691.

2. American troops invaded another small archipelago, the Asia Islands off New Guinea, and completed the occupation of the three Mapia Islands 180 miles to the east.

3. Heavy American bombers scored direct hits on a battleship and a heavy cruiser at Borneo, leaving both exploding and aflame.

4. American warships, striking within 750 miles of Tokyo, have again bombarded Iwo Island.

5. A concerted three-day cleanup of Saipan netted 248 Japanese killed and 47 captured.

Gen. Tokokuki Yamashita threw tanks and artillery into his latest effort to break the American block thrown across the Ormoc Road south of Limon by the U.S. 32nd and 24th Divisions, but was repulsed with heavy losses.

Other enemy counter-attacks were thrown back west of the Ormoc Road and on the island's eastern edge near central Leyte valley.

Landings in the Asia Islands, 130 miles north of Sorong, New Guinea, presumably will knock out Japanese lookout stations used to spot American bombing flights for northward targets. The Mapia Islands evidently were taken for this reason.

Headquarters disclosed that a British warship was the flagship for the first time in an amphibious operation in the Southwest Pacific. It led the force making the first Mapia invasion Nov. 15, and participated in the naval bombardment which preceded the landing.

Golds Higher Volume Grows

TORONTO, Nov. 20—(CP)—Golds were higher this afternoon on Toronto Exchange. Other groups were lower. Volume showed improvement at 287,000 shares.

Abitibi 6 per cent pfd. was a feature of the industrials. It climbed 1¾ to a new high at 32½. The 7 per cent preferred added 2 points, trading at 122. International Petroleum were offered down ⅜ to 20¾ and B.A. Oil weakened ¼. Brazilian firmed ¼ and in liquors Distillers-Seagrams was up ½ to 39½ and Hiram Walker weakened ¼.

Frobisher stood out in golds with a gain of 25 cents to 5.50. Macassa, O'Brien, Chesterville, Aunor, East Malartic and God's Lake were other strong golds. Noranda and Steep Rock were gainers in base metals.

Germans Retake Monte Fortino

ROME, Nov. 20—(AP)—German troops recaptured Monte Fortino, five miles southeast of the Bologna-Rimini highway town of Faenza, after bitter fighting with Polish units of the British 8th Army, Allied headquarters announced today.

The Poles repulsed two German counter-attacks on Converselle and improved their positions adjacent to Monte Fortino.

Eighth Army patrols probed enemy position south of Ravena on the Adriatic coastal sector and along the Montone River.

In the mountains south of Bologna American units of the Allied 5th Army threw back several small-scale German counter-attacks.

French Fight Japs

PARIS, Nov. 20.—(AP).—French naval units already are participating in the Pacific war against Japan, the Navy Ministry announced Saturday night, naming the 1,969-ton sloops Savorgnan de Brazza and La Grandiere as among French vessels in the Far East.

recently told me:

"We have got to expect a certain amount of dissatisfaction. It is only natural after a country has been occupied so long. And we have given these dissatisfied elements the means to rise up.

"For four longs years, through our propaganda, we have told the people of Europe to break all German laws. If they were not satisfied with conditions, we told them to kill. We dropped the arms for them to do the job with.

"For four years we have educated Europe's people in patriotic lawlessness. It is only logical now they are liberated that if they don't like the new laws of the new governmen they will try to take the law in their own hands."

He emphasized that the Allies had recognized this but viewed it as a chance that had to be taken.

Shake-up Ousts 8 Chinese Cabinet Chiefs

CHUNGKING, Nov. 20 —(AP)— Gen. Ho Ying-Chin, minister of war in the Chinese government since 1930, was replaced today by Gen. Chen Cheng in a shake-up involving eight cabinet posts.

O. K. Yui was elevated from vice-minister to minister of finance in succession to Dr. H. H. Kung, now in the United States.

Gen Chen formerly was commander of Chinese expeditionary forces on the Salween front. He is regarded as one of China's ablest field commanders.

Most circles in Chungking welcomed the government reshuffle although to many it did not appear far-reaching enough. Some observers pointed out that while Mr. Kung was removed from ministry of finance he still retained the highly-important post of vice-president of the executive Yuan (vice-premier) and still was the head of four government banks.

Gen. Ho Ying-Chin apparently still retained his post as chief of the general staff.

Some quarters noted that both Mr. Kung and Gen. Ho Ying-Chin were subjected to criticism at a recent session of the people's political council where their resignation was advocated openly.

The important question to many in the foreign quarter was whether the changes are forerunners of new ones and whether the changes would exert any influence towards a compromise between the government and the Chinese communists.

The new minister of information, Wang Shih-Chier, assumes the direction of censorship. He is a close, trusted advisor of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and may be able to induce improvement in censorship conditions. He led the Chinese mission to Britain and during the last six months has been chief negotiator in discussions with the Chinese Communists.

The reshuffle was considered a response to a popular clamor for reorganization of the government in the face of an increasingly critical military situation.

Larmer for help. In his eighties, it was reported, and enfeebled, he collapsed in shallow surface water, so spent by his hurrying across the field that he was a helpless and stricken as his wife.

Time passed, and evening drew near. Mrs. Lackie, it was said called for help until she was hoarse, but the darkness closed in on both of them in the strange separation which had so suddenly descended upon the simple and homely course of their declining years. No one heard Mrs. Lackie's cries. No one was within the range of her voice. The long frosty night passed, and morning came, but it was not until around 11 o'clock that the desperate plight of husband and wife was discovered by Keith Larmer. He was bringing them butter from the direction of his home toward which Mr. Lackie had set out. He found the aged man lying where he had fallen on the muddy ground, and shortly afterward he came upon Mrs. Lackie. She had crawled close to the shed, but could not help herself further.

Dr. M. E. Hobbs of Millbrook, was summoned and Mr. and Mrs Lackie were removed to Nicholls Hospital.

The elderly husband, 83 years old, died Sunday night from the shock of exposure and a heart condition weakened by his advanced years. Mrs. Lackie was undergoing an operation this afternoon for the setting of her fractured hip.

Tht Lackie farm is about one-quarter of a mile west of the Peterborough-Port Hope Highway, in the seventh concession of Cavan. It is west of the Arthur Wood farm on the highway. In one estimate to the Examiner it was suggested that Mrs. Lackie was in her late sixties. A stepson has been four years at Petawawa.

McNaughton Asks Fair Trial For His Plan

OTTAWA, Nov. 20.—(CP).—Defence Minister McNaughton asked in a statement to-day that the method of voluntary enlistment to provide reinforcements for Canadian forces overseas "be given a fair trial," and expressed belief that the problem "will be solved."

Text of Gen. McNaughton's statement follows:

"I referred to the statement to the press which I issued on Nov. 16 reporting the results of the conference which I had on Tuesday, Nov. 14. with the General Officer Commanding Pacific Command and the officers commanding all military districts." (The Minister said that the principal matter dealt with at the conference was the provision of reinforcements, and particularly the question of trained reinforcements for the infantry, and added that measures to bring the conclusions reached into operation were decided.)

"I refer also," his statement continued, "to a reply which I gave to a question asked me by a newspaper reporter the previous evening in which, after repeating a rumor which had become current to the effect that I had altered my views as to the method which should be followed in providing reinforcements for our forces overseas, he went on to ask if, in effect, this was the case.

"I replied that this was not the case, that I had set forth my views in recent public speeches in Arnprior and before the Canadian Legion in Ottawa, and that information given me at the conference just concluded had 'confirmed my belief more than ever that continuation of a voluntary policy would provide the reinforcements.'

Great Confusion

"These statements have been quoted and requoted, sometimes in whole and sometimes in part, and given various interpretations by various people. This had resulted in great confusion. I therefore take this opportunity to clarify the situation.

"At the conference referred to, the G. O. C. Pacific Command and the District Officers commanding were invited to report the situation and to give 'their considered views as to the steps which are open to be taken and the results which would follow.'

"From their completely frank statement, given from their intimate contact with the problem, I was able to confirm the existence of a number of factors which had operated to deter or prevent men in the N.R.M.A from coming forward to volunteer for overseas service. I informed the officers gathered at the conference of the action already initiated to correct these adverse factors.

"I was given assurance that the officers concerned would, on return to their stations, make every endeavor to provide the numbers of men required by voluntary conversion from the N.R.M.A., or by enlistments, or by freeing men from home defence and other local establishments who had already undertaken the obligation of general service overseas.

"Despite the very serious difficulties which were frankly stated, but having this assurance of full support in another endeavor to solve the problem, I express my own belief that the problem will be solved.

"What I now ask is that this method of voluntary enlistment be given a fair trial."

Will McAuley Lost Finds Way To Camp

Will McAuley, well-known resident of Haultain, who is annually host to many deer hunter was lost last Friday night and spent the night in the bush and Saturday morning was able to find his way back to camp.

While chasing a fawn, he wandered off into the bush and found it too dark to locate his party. It was even difficult to collect firewood, but he finally found enough to get a camp fire burning and spent the night in the open under the trees. The 60-year-old veteran woodsman was none the worse for his experience.

infantry weapons The Germans fired back with their naval guns but the Canadians silenced them in this strange exchange between ground and sea forces.

Later Capt. Roy Styffe of Port Arthur, Ont., Capt. Bertram Black of Fort William, Ont., and Lieut. Tommy Henderson of Winnipeg with 40 men sailed to Duiveland on a "private invasion" in a cutter, a fishing schooner and a police cutter they found along the coast.

They entered Zijpe ready to fight but enemy had fled. They found the four ships had been holed and were sinking. Twenty Germans had been killed and 80 wounded in the fire laid down by the infantry and tank crews.

The Canadians had no casualties.

The log of the corvette-type vessel was taken from the ship before it sank and Styffe made this final entry:

"Gersunken by Lake Superior Regiment and British Columbia Regiment—Canadian Army."

seven miles farther north and the capture of Dannemarie, 12 miles east of Belfort and 10 miles from the Alsatian city of Mulhouse.

Belfort was almost as badly ringed as Metz.

Gen. De Tassigny's announcement said enemy resistance was overcome at Fort Le Sultert and at the village of Essert, two miles west of Belfort. Fort Du Mont Vaudois, four miles southwest, also had fallen.

Bombers Hit Bridge

Medium bombers went for the Neuenberg bridge, nine miles northeast of Mulhouse on the line of enemy flight.

The French rush had carried at least 35 miles in a week in the swiftest drive since the St. Lo break-through last July.

North of Belfort the Allies had taken Gerardmer, Raon-L'Etape, Badonxiller and Blamont, leaving only scorched St. Die and Fraize blocking the way to six main passes through the Vosges. The Germans said the Americans had fought into St. Die.

American troops, capturing Rechicourt, Haboey, Bandonviller and eight other towns southeast of Nancy, moved to within 11 miles of Sarrebourg and into the upper Saar Valley.

Among towns captured on the Bandonviller-Raon L'Etape front were Cogney, Repaix, Nonhigny, Paru, Montreux, Bremenil and Neufmaison.

Reach Dieuze

The 3rd Army, closing around Metz at Vallieres and Vaudreveille, also entered the northern outskirts of Dieuze, and reached Grostenquin, 11 miles farther north and 21 miles from Saarbrucken, chief industrial city of the Saar. Virming, five miles east of Morhange, was taken in this advance.

The Third Army also was within 20 miles of Saarbrucken on the northwest in the vicinity of Bouzonville.

Across the German border northeast of the Saar, 3rd Army troops reached Kesslingen and a point a mile beyond Nennig in a drive up the east side of the Moselle frontier of Luxembourg which gave them a grip on a five-mile square of Germany.

The drive of the three Allied armies was aimed at the great Rhineland industrial cities of Dusseldorf and Cologne.

While this battle was being fought by the British 2nd and U.S 1st and 9th Armies, three other armies participating in Gen. Eisenhower's massive offensive scored these gains southward along the blazing 400-mile western front:

1. U.S. 3rd Army troops encircled Metz, drove the Germans from one-third of this formidable French fortress city and advanced to its centre. Other units of this army made new penetrations into Germany as supporting aircraft harried the German retreat into the Saar Basin.

2. The U.S. 7th Army, driving hard along a 50-mile front, seized and passed beyond the town of Blamont, 40 miles due west of Strasbourg, the French frontier city on the Rhine.

3. Exploiting what a front dispatch described as a break-through in the German positions near the Swiss frontier, the French 1st Army battled into Alsace and was within 10 miles of Mulhouse.

The Swiss radio said the French had fought into the key city of Belfort on the southern route of invasion into Germany and the Algiers radio said street fighting was raging there. Fort Du Mont Vaudois, four miles southwest of Belfort, was overrun. In an advance of 10 miles eastward in the Belfort Gap the French took Dannemarie and were in Suarce and Seppois Le Haut last night. In that sector they were only 19 miles from the Rhine.

British Busy

In addition to participating with the two American Armies in the drive on Cologne and Dusseldorf the British 2nd Army had units beating out new gains in southeastern Holland. There the Tommies established another bridgehead over the Durne canal and sent patrols out from the Meijel-Halden road and neared Halden, 7½ miles from Venlo, a Dutch entrance to Germany.

Along most of the western front the Germans were fighting the way they did in Normandy—trying to hold every bit of ground whether it was of strategic importance or not. Eisenhower's answer to these tactics has been to put on the pressure along the line from Switzerland to Holland, thus spreading

In the battle for Germany's Rhineland U.S. 9th Army infantry and British tanks, teaming together in what one front dispatch described as "a perfect military operation," captured Geilenkirchen and pushed on a mile northeast, taking Suggerath, 30 miles southwest of Duesseldorf.

Town of 30,000

Geilkenkirchen, a road junction town of 30,000, is 12 miles north of Aachen. It had served as a northern bastion of the line on which the Germans sought to bar entrance to the Cologne plain. With its capture the heavy industrial area of the Wurm Valley also fell. The Americans had to push through six shell-wrecked German towns to reach Geilenkirchen.

Just south of this area veteran U.S. 1st Army troops surged forward four miles yesterday, got astride the six-lane Adolf Hitler highway — a communications route which would be invaluable to the army's farther advance into Germany — and reached the outskirts of Escheweiler, seven miles northeast of Aachen. This was the 1st Army's best gain since it launched it assault last Thurday. One advance to Eschweiler, a town of 30,000, came in a bloodless, ghostly night attack.

First Army troops also battled their way through Hamich, 8½ miles east of Aachen and 26 miles from Cologne, and seized the Hamich Ridge, which the Germans had used to observe American movements.

Norwood Man Is Charged With Reckless Driving

Louis Freeburn, Norwood was bailed for trial by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning after the crown evidence had been heard in the preliminary inquiry into a charge of reckless driving arising out of the fatal accident to three-year-old Wayne Manley on Otonabee street on the evening of October 31.

Freeburn who was defended by T. J. Carley, K.C. made no statement and the defence called no evidence.

"The case is not strong enough for a committal but there will be a bailment for trial", said Magistrate Langley. "With children playing on the side of the road and this man driving a dangerous vehicle in the shape of a heavy truck a jury might find sufficient evidence of negligence to convict".

Constable Gordon Trennum who investigated the accident testified that from the spot on the pavement where the child had evidently been struck to where Freeburn's truck truck stopped was 137 feet. The officer said that the windshield of the truck was blurred toward the centre and that he thought it would interfere with the vision of the driver looking to the right.

Eugene Atkinson, Gillespie garage, told of testing the brakes on Freeburn's truck on the night of the accident. He said that an an estimated speed of 15 to 20 miles an hour the truck took approximately 42 feet to stop. There were practically no brakes, witness said. Atkinson also said that the steering gear was bad and the truck could not be turned to the left without great difficulty.

Constable Allan Edmison who drove the truck from the scene of the accident to Canada Packers and then to the police station also swore that the brakes and steering gear were bad.

John Burley who lives at the Manley home on Otonabee street testified that he ran out when the children screamed and found Wayne Manley lying about a foot or two from the north side of the road. He was dead, the witness said.

35 Miles Per Hour

Garnet Burns, proprietor of a garage near the scene of the accident said that he was working in the garage and saw Freeburn's truck passing just before the child was struck. He recogniezd Freeburn at the wheel, he said, and estimated the speed of the truck at 35 miles an hour.

Witness said that when he got outside he saw the Manley child lying on the road and some 20 feet beyond the truck was running along the shoulder of the highway. Eventually it got back on the travelled portion. Burns said that he noticed brake fluid on the highway west of where the child was hit, and also on the shoulder of the road. The fluid he said, might have been released by a sudden heavy application of the hydraulic brake, causing a break and allowing the fluid to escape. If the fluid ran out in this way, he said, there would practically be no brake left afterward.

That opinion was also given by another crown witness, John Hodson who saw the brake fluid marks on the highway and shoulder after the accident.

Fluid Marks

Mark Manley, Otonabee, grandfather of the boy who was killed also noticed the fluid marks.

Constable W. A. Clarke corroborated Atkinson's evidence as to testing of the brakes on Freeburn's truck on the night of the accident.

William James Forestall who was riding in the truck with Freeburn said that the brakes had been working all right previous to the accident. He estimated the speed of the truck at 20 miles an hour. Forestall said that as they approached Burns' garage he noticed some children playing on the south side of the road.

He did not notice anything more until he heard Freeburn say: "Oh" and that he saw a child's head appear just in front of the radiator of the car. Forestall said he felt a heavy jolt as if the brakes had been applied and the hogs in the back of the truck were jolted against the rear of the cab. Witness said he jumped out before the truck had come to a stop and found the Manley child dead on the road.

Nine-year-old Joseph Burns, who was not sworn said that Wayne Manley had been playing in the ditch on the side of the road. As the truck came along the boy ran under the arms of a girl who tried to stop him and was hit by the truck.

Mr. Carley asked for the dismissal of the case but Magistrate Langley bailed the accused for trial on bail of $2,000.

World War 1 Flying Ace Killed In Crash

REGINA, Nov. 20 (CP)—Air Commodore Roger Delhaye, killed in an air crash near Montreal Saturday, was a flying ace of the First Great War during which he destroyed 18 enemy aircraft. The 51-year-old veteran once met in combat with the great German ace, Baron Richtofen, and he said afterward, "We had a nice little set-to—he didn't get me and I didn't get him."

Air Commodore Delhaye was born in France of French and English parents He came to Canada in 1910 at the age of 17. He won the D.F.C. in September, 1918, when his official citation said he had 'personally accounted for 13 enemy machines."

He returned to Canada after the war and later took up civilian flying, becoming manager of the Regina airport when it opened in 1929. In 1937 he was awarded a gold medal by the Canadian Flying Clubs Association for meritorious service in the interests of aviation, being acclaimed as the non-professional pilot who had done most for Canadian aviation that year.

When this war broke out, Air Commodore Delhaye joined the R.C.A.F. After serving in various capacities he was placed in charge of administration at command headquarters at Montreal in 1942.

Think, Before You Vote

THINK BEFORE YOU VOTE

$600,000.00, which is the proposed grant from the city taxpayer to the new hospital is almost equal to 24 mills, or an increase of almost 4/5ths of your taxes for one year.

To make the dose more palatable, it is proposed to divide this into 20 payments, adding interest to this sum until paid.

BUT YOU PAY THIS ENORMOUS SUM JUST THE SAME.

The fact of it being divided into 20 payments does not take one cent off the total cost, in fact it adds to it $200,000.00 for interest, or a total of $800,000.00 for this item alone.

And almost a half of this is for outside patients. Remember this fact when you are voting on the proposed new hospital.

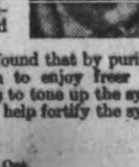
Are You a Sufferer From Rheumatic Pains?



These pains come from an inflammation in the muscles and are generally caused by a deposit of poison in the blood called uric acid which produces the irritating and painful effect that causes many days and nights heavy with pain.

During the past 60 years Canadian people have found that by purifying the blood stream, Burdock Blood Bitters aids them to enjoy freer body movement with less rheumatic pain, as B. B. B. helps to tone up the system and clear up the uric acid in the blood, and probably help fortify the system against future attacks.

Alex W. Young Former Clerk Dies In Cobourg

COBOURG, Nov. 20 — (ENS) — Alexander Wylie Young, for almost 25 years town clerk and treasurer of Cobourg, died Sunday here after a long illness. Mr. Young resigned some weeks ago from his post of town clerk and treasurer due to ill health. He will be buried on Tuesday afternon in Cobourg Union Cemetery, with services conducted by Rev. W. P. Woodger of Trinity United Church.

Mr. Young had been a resident of Cobourg for thirty years, coming here when the firm of Cobourg Felt Co. opened a factory in Cobourg. Later he became town clerk. He was one of the original members of Cobourg Rotary Club having been president during the early days of the club here.

He was born at Barrie where he received his earlier education. Later he taught business school at Guelph, Kitchener and Albany, N.Y. While in Kitchener he entered the employ of the Kimmel Felt Co., the firm later coming to Cobourg. Mr. Young

Bishops Oppose Russian Plan World Council

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP). —Roman Catholic bishops of the United States called yesterday for an international peace organization founded on moral la and repudiating power politics.

They said in a statement the security council planned at Dumbarton Oaks "must not be an instrument for imperialistic domination by a few powerful nations."

"It must not allow any nation to sit in judgment in its own case."

The Soviet Union has been insitsing that major powers should sit and vote with the council, even if themselves accused of aggression. This would permit a major power to veto international collective action against itself since it is proposed that no action be taken without a unanimous decision by the major powers.

Without mentioning any country by name, the bishops gave this expression on their views on membership in the international organization:

"We hold that if there is to be a genuine and lasting world peace, the international organization should demand as a condition of membership that every nation guarantee in law and respect in fact the innate rights of men, families and minority groups in their civil and religious life."

The statement, adopted at the annual meeting of the American hierarchy, called, too, for a world court with the right to "demand" execution of its judgments.

MP's Refuse To State StandOnZombiePolicy

COBOURG, Nov. 20 — (ENS) — Delegates representing the Legions in Northumberland County went to Brighton on Saturday to interview W. A. Fraser, M.P., for the county, as to his attitude in regard to sending the draftees overseas. Spokesman for the Legion was A. S. Miller, zone commander of the Legion.

The Legion representatives were given a cordial reception from Mr. Fraser but were unsuccessful in getting a definite answer from the Liberal member for Northumberland. Mr. Fraser declined to commit himself until he had the opportunity of hearing the whole matter discussed in the House this week.

W. F. Rickard, Liberal member for the adjoining county of Durham, told a Legion delegation in Newcastle that he was 100 per cent behind the boys overseas and that he would vote according to the dictates of his conscience. Mr. Rickard issued the following statement:

"I feel that I should not commit myself definitely before I have had an opportunity to study the whole situation, discussed from all angles at the session of Parliament which is called to meet on November 22. But I want to say this, that I am 100 per cent behind the boys overseas as far as reinforcements are concerned. They are our first consideration and must be given every support possible. I will vote according to the dictates of my own conscience after I have heard all the facts," said Mr. Rickard.

Tribal Honor Upheld By Braves 49 Alderville Men In Uniform

ROSENEATH, Nov. 20 (ENS) — Every Indian brave of the Objibway reserve at Alderville, near Cobourg, is serving with the armed forces—or is too young, too old or rejected. Of 70 males, 49 are in uniform.

"I don't think this record can be beaten anywhere," declared Chief Norman Marsden, veteran of the last war and recently discharged after joining for this war, too.

The tribe's honor list, carefully kept in the reserve's United church, beside the honor roll of the last war, lists the names of two members who have given their lives, one in Italy and the other in France.

Chief Marsden's sons and relatives, flocked to the colors shortly after the declaration of war. Pte. Norman, Jr., is at Camp Borden, Cpl. Leslie is in France, Pte. Br[illegible] is with the paratroopers, Robert was recently discharged after serving overseas and Vernon was rejected twice

Another son, Wallace, also an army reject, is in Toronto, working in a war plant, and daughters Charlotte and Sarah both are employed in war industries. Chief Marsden's two son-in-laws are in the army and two of his brothers are in uniform. A grandson is in the R.C.A.F.

Good Fighters

"The Ojibways have always been patriotic and good fighting men," said Mrs Ann Black, mother-in-law of the chief. "My great-grandfather was the man who fought with General Brock in the war of 1812 and killed U.S. Gen. Covington at Queenston He fired his gun from behind a tree stump and got him with one shot."

The Alderville tribe moved to their present reserve 106 years ago from north of Kingston and the Ottawa valley. Today they number 225 members. Their school and church are headed by Indian college graduates.

Mrs. Black, at 82, is still active in church work, being Sunday school superintendent and organist. "I have been playing the organ since I was eight years old," she said.

Mrs. Black said the first time she ever played the organ, she didn't have proper clothes and no shoes. "So I made myself a dress and went barefoot to that first performance," she said.

Scores of the young people and every member of the Marsden family, 11 in all, have been taught how to play many types of instruments.

"I have a right to be proud of the war service of my boys, for I feel like a mother to them all," said Mrs. Black. "Their record in the last war was wonderful Thirty-five served in the forces and 11 did not come back."

Several years ago the tribe raised funds to erect an impressive war memorial at the reserve, listing the names of those who died and those who served.

Five District Men Are War Casualties

Five men from the Peterborough district have been named casualties while serving overseas with Canada's armed forces, it has been announced to-day.

Pte. William A. Phillps, son of Mrs. L. Phillips, 72 Albert street, Lindsay, and Pte. William W. Robinson, son of S. E. Robinson, R.R. 3, Colborne, have both been reported "severely wounded" in action, while fighting with an Eastern Ontario regiment.

L.-Cpl. Wilbert Henry Woodcox, son of Mrs. Pearl Woodcox, R.R. 2, Bancroft, has been listed as being "slightly wounded," while two others serving with an Eastern Ontario regiment, Lieut. Charles Maines Jeffs, son of Mrs. Gertrude Jeffs, Campbellford, and Pte. Thomas Earl Ventress, son of Mrs. Myrtle Ventress, Haliburton, are wounded.

Soul And Body Subject Of Lesson Sermon

"Soul and Body" was the subject of the Lesson Sermon which was read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, including First Church of Christ Scientist in Peterborough on Sunday.

The Golden Text was: "My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the Lord; my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God."—(Psalms 84:2).

Selections from the Bible included the following from II Corinthians 3:17, 18: "Now the Lord is that Spirit; and where the spirit of God is, there is liberty. But we all, with open face beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed in the same image from glory to glory even as by the Spirit of the Lord."

Co-relative citations from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" included the following: "The material body and mind are temporal, but the real man is spiritual and eternal. The identity of the real man is not lost, but found through this explanation; for the conscious infinitude of existence and of all identity is thereby discerned and remains unchanged."

In Bad Fix

MYITKYINA, Burma, Nov. 20 — (AP)—Lt.-Gen. Daniel I. Sulton, American commander in the India-Burma war theatre, said Saturday that "the Japanese in Northern Burma are in a pretty bad fix in regard to supplies and men." But he added; "I have seen no indication the Japanese intend to give up Burma."

Garage Burns

NAPANEE, Nov. 20.—(CP).— A garage and service station at Selby three miles north of here, was destroyed by fire early yesterday. Contents included new shipments of motor oil and anti-freeze, the owner Dorian Denison said.

France Mobilizes

PARIS, Nov. 20 —(AP)—Within eight months France will show Europe "a grand army worthy of her" and by spring she will be getting voluminous imports of raw materials from abroad with which to revive industry, Gen. De Gaulle said yesterday in his second radio "fireside chat."

50,000 New BLOOD DONORS NEEDED Now

A SAILOR writes:
"Our ship was struck, I know not how. I was in the water for six hours when I was rescued and brought ashore. I felt I was going to die but was determined not to. Almost immediately I was given a Blood Transfusion . . . altogether I had ten. I owe my life today to Red Cross Blood."

A SOLDIER writes:
"Our great fear is always 'Will there be enough blood?' It takes so much these days, and the biggest battles are yet to come. Some men must have five or six pints of your strength before they have a chance to recover. They die except for your blood. In your arteries is the power to give men a second chance to live."

An AIRMAN writes:
"Just before leaving our last Station they had a big drive for Blood Donors, so 'yours truly' volunteered. They only took a pint, which was a good thing, as that was all I had with me that day."

No Places For Neutrals

Last Wednesday Mr. Richard Law, the British Undersecretary of State for Foreign Affairs, made this statement in the House of Commons: "So far as the Government are concerned, they see no reason why any country which has not made a positive contribution to the United Nations' war effort should be represented at the peace conference or at any discussions on the peace settlements". That is pain speaking. Russia has made a similar statement, and although the United States has not committed itself officially there is not much reason to suppose that it will disagree.

• • •

The neutrals will not like it, of course. Their contention is that although they have not fought in the war they have suffered considerably from the disturbance which the war has caused, and they will have to live in the postwar Europe which the peace conference will create. They think that onlookers see most of the game, and that their opinions will be of value to the nations which have been at war, because they will be dispassionate. And they want to protect their own interests, and get into the swim of international life again.

• • •

But the British statement appears to settle the matter so far as Spain and Argentina are concerned. Spain is now protesting that she has been misjudged and that she has shown as many favours toward the Allies as she safely could; there is some justification for this attitude on the part of Spain, and even more on the part of Portugal. But the fact remains that Spain was once a sort of whistle-stop on the Rome-Berlin Axis and is now a Fascist state. Argentina has become a Fascist state also, and is at odds with the United States and a number of others among the United Nations; definitely Argentina has no place among those who make the peace. As for Sweden, Eire and Turkey, they have made no 'positive contribution' to our war effort and there seems to be no good reason why they should be considered.

• • •

Two neutrals, Portugal and Switzerland, have a certain claim on the United Nations. Portugal gave us bases in the Azores which have been very useful, and Portugal has been accommodating in many matters connected with entering and leaving Europe. Switzerland, as the centre of the International Red Cross, has been the agency through which we have received information about prisoners of war and through which we have sent food and other comforts to our men in the prison camps. Because of its humanitarian work Switzerland might be given some special recognition at the conference. The Vatican may also expect to be represented, but it seems doubtful that its claims will be recognized as valid; as a temporal state it is not concerned in the peace settlement, and its spiritual power is unlikely to be augmented or diminished by participation in the conference.

• • •

The position of Eire, as always, is peculiar. Eire has taken no part in the war, and has shown a scrupulous fairness in observing her neutrality. Where Portugal was friendly, Eire was obdurate. Eire has even refused to make a statement as to whether or not she will harbour Axis criminals when the war is over. Such a very neutral state might be expected to ignore the war completely, but it seems that Eire wants a seat at the peace conference. Certainly if neutrals who have made no contribution to the United Nations' war effort are excluded Eire will not get it. She will taste the disabilities, as well as the privileges, which strict neutrality brings.

The Premier On Education

The report of a speech which Premier Drew made to the teachers of Windsor and Essex county recently says that "he called for greater emphasis on technical training to equip children to earn a living", and that the Premier said that "there should also be more emphasis on training children how to live and on instruction in the living history of Canada". It may be that the compression of the report has altered the emphasis of Mr. Drew's remarks, but as they stand we do not think that they are readily compatible.

It is necessary that every child should be equipped to earn its living, but that is not, and never has been the chief end of education. Nowadays all except a very small group of unusually privileged people work for their living, but it is rarely that such work occupies more than eight hours a day. Another eight hours are spent in sleep, and eight hours are left. What a man does in this spare eight hours is the key to his character. If he does not know how to use them advantageously his life is robbed of at least a third of its value. One of the chief purposes of education is to teach us how to use our leisure. The circumstances of modern civilization demand that many people should do dull and uninteresting work; these people really live in their leisure hours. If their education does not show them how to do so it has failed. Earning a living is necessary, but it is not the chief end of man.

If the Premier means what he says about children being taught how to live, how can he say that education should be chiefly directed toward teaching them how to earn a living? Surely it would be better to give them a good academic education as a groundwork for any subsequent vocational training which they may take? It has been demonstrated many times that—except in a few cases where mechanical aptitude is unusual and scholarly aptitude is wholly lacking—a boy or girl with a good background of academic training can absorb vocational training quicker than one who lacks it. And the boy or girl with academic background is also more likely to improve upon his technical training, and to be of more value to his employers because of his greater adaptibility.

Education should fit a man for life, and not merely for work. Mere 'usefulness' is no substitute for well-stocked, active minds, and mere 'workers' are poor citizens.

What Peterborough Has Done

The war effort has many divisions, and not all of them are equally important. The sacrifice which a fighting man makes is obviously greater than that which a munitions worker makes, though both are vitally necessary parts of the war machine; and the industrialist who has to adapt his plant for new and difficult work has a harder time of it than the man whose normal occupation, being necessary to the war effort, need only be intensified.

But when we have recognized that it is not the most glorious sort of war work we may take pride in the effort of the men and women who have lent their money to help the country pay its way. Here in Peterborough the leaders have done a fine job. Consider these figures:

In the Sixth Victory Loan 14,927 people in this district lent the Dominion $4,812,850.

In the Seventh Victory Loan 16,594 people lent the Dominion $5,143,850.

In a year we raised $9,956,700 in this city and county. It wasn't done without hard work by the Victory Loan organization and a respectable amount of toothgritting and sacrifice by the people who subscribed.

We have good reason to be proud. This is not the highest level of war effort, but it is cetrainly not insignificant, either.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"Clare Luce Barely Retains Seat", says a headline. Dieting can be carried to extremes, even in the cause of beauty.

An Illinois man left $5,000 to his stenographer. What will she do with it, with gum off the market?

As a "success recipe" the Kitchener Record tells us to mix one part of inspiration with three parts of perspiration. That's no recipe for social success, anyway.

Soviet airmen, flying over Mount Ararat, have seen what they believe to be a large ship imbedded in the ice on the summit; archaeologists are going to investigate to see if it could possibly be Noah's Ark. If it is, it has been rediscovered just in time, for the world seems headed toward another 'purge'. We are applying for passage, in the steerage or even with the animals, if necessary.

Farming News and Views

By
HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

SAW a few farmers in the stockyards the other day from the boundary country between Bruce and Gray and they said work was well ahead with them. There had been enough rain to get fall plowing done, pastures were eaten off but there was grass enough, and fall wheat had got forward enough early to cover the ground and so protect the surface moisture which would put it into winter with a good strong plant.

The thick haze through which a warm sun is shining today, November 13th, makes it almost unmistakenly Indian Summer. I've seen a few wild ducks flying aimlessly about, evidently having difficulty sensing the weather but no wild geese seem to be on the way south or else they gave Toronto a wide berth. Wells are going dry in places, this is a bad time to do anything about it, but if any farmer finds his well dry, when a driller can be had, he should either deepen it or drill a new one right when water is scarce as that is the time to get a supply that will remain at all season. Farming without water, or on very short rations of it, is a helpless, hopeless business and the thing a farmer wants, next to good soil, is plenty of good pure water.

CANADA'S cattle population is now placed at 10,346,000 slightly over 10 per cent more than we had a year ago. Ontario leads the provinces with 2,744,800 head of which 1,187,600 are milk cows. Alberta leads in pigs and sheep, having a little over a million sheep and 2,275,000 pigs. Ontario is second with 1,900,000 pigs and 737,000 sheep. All the provinces in Canada are getting their feet firmly set in livestock farming. Ontario is first in poultry with 26 million hens and chickens, Saskatchewan being second with 19¼ million. We are not likely to go short on milk, meat, eggs and wool and kindred products. This should be sound business if the world's people are to be offered freedom from want.

ANOTHER new proposal regarding the settling of returned soldiers on land has been made. An Edmonton paper announces that the Alberta Government is about to offer soldiers a gift of a quarter section of land, with the condition that the Federal Government will increase its assistance to such veterans by a money grant equivalent to what they would give for the purchase of land. It is becoming a confirmed habit for provincial governments to concern themselves about Federal matters in the hope of getting something extra out of the Dominion administration. The Veteran's Land Act enables the Federal Government to make a loan to a soldier up to 60 per cent of the value of his land which he already owns or purchases.

The Alberta Government owns crown lands, and areas secured from municipalities into whose possession it came by default in payment of taxes. A bare 160 acres of land without fences or buildings would be a doubtful proposition either for a soldier to borrow money on or a government department to loan it, and the Veteran's Land Act limits the percentage of the value of such land, that could be loaned.

Nobody will dispute the right of a provincial government to assist soldiers on the land. The settlement of such soldiers is a Federal matter set out in an Act of Parliament, and when those arrangements are completed there is nothing to hinder a provincial Government, if so inclined, to make the soldier a cash grant of four or five hundred dollars. There is nothing that will be as valuable to a man settling on land as a little cash. What he will want is not more land but money to develop what he has. Some provincial governments in Canada have a good deal of land, they don't place a very high value on it and so we may be in danger of a sort of provincial competition in offers of land which can have nothing but an unsettling effect upon the whole question. Let us avoid some of these hazards at the very beginning.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE British Friesian Cattle Breeding Association is able to announce that it has the largest membership and the largest number of registrations in Great Britain. These Black and White cattle have made great progress during the last twenty years, and during the war when increased supplies of liquid milk were needed, they made a valuable contribution.

◇ ◇ ◇

FEED grain upon which the Federal Government gave assistance in the form of free freight totalled over 102,000,000 bushels of which 24,000,000 was wheat 45,000,000 oats and 33,000,000 barley. Of this 56,000,000 bushels came to Ontario and the balance to Quebec and the Maritimes. It looks like a large feed bill, over what was produced in these three provinces. It was needed, however, and it was a fine thing that the extra amount could be produced in Canada. These figures are for eleven months ending June 30th of this year. Very little would come in July. The past year was a critical one in the World War and this made a fine contribution in food which is one of the vital things at such a time. There is no doubt that Hitler had hopes of being assisted by famine, but all the Allies made a special effort to see that whoever went short of food it would not be the men fighting Germany and Japan.

◇ ◇ ◇

WE hear a good deal about the "Closed Shop" in connection with labor unions, and there is something in the nature of men who have got along with hard work, yes and helping another now and then, that resents the compulsion of the Closed Shop and its effect upon individual freedom. In this discussion it is well to remember that we have some Farmers' Organizations that are supported by funds collected in rural taxes. In most cases you can take yourself out but if you fail to take that trouble you are in the Closed Shop. The members of some of these organizations were unwilling to put up enough money to run their show so now its just added to the tax bill. It is no trouble for these organizations to operate now but they will have little to complain about if the Closed Shop grows.

PRESUMPTION

Of the new law the most difficult part to enforce will be that section which says that pedestrians must pass each other on the right hand side of Toronto's sidewalks. This pre-supposes that Torontonians know their right hand from their left, which is quite a presumption in itself. —Winnipeg Tribune.

MAYBE HITLER'S ON THE TIRPITZ —By Goldberg

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

CITIZEN PROTESTS TREATMENT

Sir,—In your valuable paper of the 15th inst., I observe, that the City Council has decided to permit me to install a septic tank.

It is twelve years since the council informed me, "no more septic tanks are to be installed." It would be interesting to know why the council has reversed the corpse. Is it to put me to all the expense they can? You sir will appreciate the fact a septic tank cannot be of any use without water. They further state, if I install a tank, it would strengthen my hand if I apply to the Utilities Commission for a water main. I have applied to the commission for water connections through Mr. Dobbin. He said that if the council gave the order, water would be laid on. I also interviewed Mr. Gordon Matthews. He stated water would be laid on if the Council gave the order. I replied that Mayor Hamilton said the order had been given. Mr. Matthews said they had never had an order to put water in. He is passing the buck. I reported this to Mayor Hamilton—he made no reply. If the Utilities lays a water main, why not put the sewer in at the same time at practically the same cost (that is cost of digging trench).

Further, what about my neighbours? Will they have to install tanks, or is the Council taking them into the city without any intention of giving them the sanitary services they are entitled to as citizens?

The four properties, now in the city, mine included, have paid in the last thirty years around seven thousand dollars in taxes. Next year there will be thirteen houses, one factory, with other building in view, embracing about one hundred souls. Surely the Council could spare $3,500 for this much needed service. There must be lots of funds, when the council could offer $10,000 to induce a certain company to move its plant, which was not half as bad an eye sore as some buildings on the main street.

I have received a number of phone calls, all showing disgust at the way the City Council is treating me. One important citizen advises me to ask that it be put to the vote of the ratepayers for their decision at the December Municipal Elections. Should this course be taken, there is no doubt in my mind as to the result.

One of my well wishers, an officer back from the front recuperating, concluding our conversation remarked, "It is damnable the way you are being treated; do the Council think they can treat the men that will come back in this manner? If they do, they will have the surprise of their lives!"

Again, thanking you for valuable space, I am,

Yours faithfully,
WM. O. HARVEY.

Constant Lambert – British Musician

(By C. B. REES)

ALTHOUGH English people are inclined to distrust versatility, this prejudice has not prevented Constant Lambert from establishing himself as one of the outstanding figures in modern British music and music-making. He is amazingly versatile, he composes; he conducts; he criticizes. He can talk learnedly about Stravinsky, and enthusiastically about Sousa. He has a genius for writing comic verse as well as for conducting ballet. If to air your knowledge you mention a little-known French author, you are likely to find that Lambert knows all about him.

This is all wrong—to those who believe that a conductor should only wave a stick, that a composer should only put crotchets and quavers on a piece of paper, and that a critic should only tell both how ineffectual they are! Constant Lambert has not even the grace to look the part. He is no pre-occupied brooder, no self-conscious virtuoso, no quavering aesthete. When he comes into a room, his broad shoulders, his high colour, his strong, burly figure at once suggest country life and the open air.

Yet the truth is that he is a cosmopolitan. He loves the live of the city—the talk, the excitement, the stimulus, good food, good wine, good cigars.

THE son of a painter, the late G. W. Lambert, A.R.A. (Associate of the Royal Academy), he and his brother, Maurice, a sculptor, were brought up among interesting and unusual people. Bad health prevented Constant, who was born in 1905, from becoming an athlete, but accelerated his journey to the Royal College of Music, to study composition under Vaughan Williams and R. C. Morris, and conducting under Sir Adrian Boult and Dr. Malcolm Sargent. At the age of seven he could play the Beethoven Sonates, together with much Bach and Mozart.

The first composition of his that he thought worth preserving (he says that he had "turned out a lot of crude stuff for the waste-paper basket") is "Prize Fight" (1923, revised in 1925), intended as a music-hall turn and written for a small music-hall orchestra. "Ten minutes of sheer rowdiness", he called it. In 1925-6 he wrote the ballets "Romeo and Juliet" and "Pomona". Introduced to Diaghilev by Edmund Dulac, the painter, he went to Monte Carlo, where he saw his ballet produced by Nijinski, with Lifar as Romeo and Karsavina as Juliet. Nijinski also produced "Pomona" in Buenos Aires in 1927; while Diaghilev was responsible for the first production of his "Music for Orchestra", and his arrangements of eighteenth century music.

Between 1926 and 1929 Lambert was writing about music and films, playing the piano at a school of dancing, running a bookshop during the proprietor's holidays, and arranging music. His first job as a conductor came from Matheson Lang, at whose request he arranged the music for the films "Jew Suss" and "Elizabeth of England".

HIS first big success was "Rio Grande", for chorus and orchestra, a rhaspody based on modern dance forms, which revealed his mastery in adapting the jazz idiom to serious musical purposes. His Piano Sonata and Piano Concerto confirmed and strengthened his mastery.

His "Summer's Last Will and Testament"—considered by many to be his best work — enhanced his reputation as a creative artist considerably, among the discriminating, but it is a woefully neglected work. Since the outbreak of this war, Lambert has been extremely busy as a conductor, directing the Sadlers Wells Ballet and symphony concerts. In London and the provinces he has worked—and still works—like a Trojan, but he has not been entirely idle as a composer. Two significant works have made a considerable impression: "Aubade Heroique" and the "Merchant Seamen Suite." "Aubade Heroique" is the result of a thrilling wartime experience when the composer and the Sadlers Wells Ballet Company escaped—only just in time—from Holland just as the Germans came in to occupy the country. While anxiously waiting for one of the last boats to take them back to England, the calm beauty of the countryside on a sunlit morning deeply impressed Lambert, and he conceived the inspiration for this work. The "Merchant Seamen Suite" is an eloquent tribute to the merchantmen's contribution to the war, it has been heard at the Albert Hall in London, and should be heard more often. No doubt, when the war is over, Lambert's muse will be busy again—if, as I hope, his baton allows—and we shall have another big-scale work from his restless and powerful pen.

I doubt whether this brilliantly gifted and wideranging artist can ever be content to confine himself to one musical medium. His stature as a conductor has grown greatly in the last four years; he is today among the best in Britain. On the rostrum he is a delight to watch, and orchestral players respect and admire his knowledge, his skill, his capacity for getting exactly what he wants with a minimum of fuss (and a maximum of effect), and his interpretative penetration, especially of a complicated modern score.

HIS tastes are extraordinarily catholic: from Glinka to Duke Ellington; Chabrier to Delius and Vaughan Williams; Palestrina to Wagner. He is a superb exponent of the best "light music," hates the pompously academic, and knows, from experience, that it is easier to "get away with" a slovenly performance of a heavy symphony than to give a polished and precise account of a Bizet suite, or even of the "Light Cavalry" Overture.

Witty raconteur, rapier controversialist, idiosyncratic musician, warm-hearted friend, an intellectual of multitudinous (and human) interests, Constant Lambert has many achievements yet to score—and probably in several directions. What he would do with a thirty-six hour day I hesitate to forecast!

A Bible Message

Who is the wise man? and who knoweth the interpretation of a thing a man's wisdom maketh his face to shine, and the boldness of his face shall be changed. (Eccl. 8: 1.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended: but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus. Let us therefore, as many as be perfect, be thus minded: and if in any thing ye be otherwise minded, God shall reveal even this unto you.

Nevertheless, whereto we have already attained, let us walk by the same rule, let us mind the same thing. Brethren, be followers together of me, and mark them which walk so as ye have us for an ensample. . . .

For our conversation is in heaven; from whence also we look for the Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ: who shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body, according to the working whereby he is able even to subdue all things unto himself. (Phil 3: 13-17, 20, 21.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Therefore, my brethren dearly beloved and longed for, my joy and crown, so stand fast in the Lord, my dearly beloved. (Phil. 4: 1.)

◇ ◇ ◇

And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever. (Dan. 12: 3.)

FRENCH PORTS

If an invading army had overrun this country and still occupied several of our chief ports, say Boston, Baltimore, New Orleans and Seattle, as well as a slice of territory as large as New England, we might hesitate to regard ourselves as "liberated." Yet that is pretty much the condition in which France finds herself today.

Well-fortified German troops still hold L'Orient, La Rochelle, St Nazaire and Dunkerque. Bordeaux and Nantes are just as valueless to the French because the enemy controls the mouths both of the Gironde and the Loire. French Forces of the Interior, only lightly armed, are too weak to take any of these positions by assault.

All this represents only one of the tremendous problems with which the present Government of France is struggling. It should help us to understand and forgive the occasional brusqueness of its spokesmen in addressing its best friends.—New York Times.

The King's Rule

Word comes around to Ottawa from Montreal by way of Sydney in Australia of a suggestion by a "group of leading Canadians" that the office of Governor-General should be dispensed with. Instead, King George, and presumably his successors, should rule his dominions—not to mention colonies—personally, holding court in each for two months in the year.

Realizing what a tour de force this would be His Majesty would not, according to the suggestion, visit each dominion annually. Even so, experience of the Royal tour of Canada in 193[illegible] should be enough to make even the strongest advocate of the monarchy and of personal rule, or the strongest monarch, blench at the prospect of only one royal progress a year to far places.

The visit to Canada is precedent enough for a royal visit to the other dominions in good time. As a substitute for the present vice-regal system, or to obviate the choice of a Canadian for the office, it surely shows a lack of realistic thinking.

It is a far-fetched idea that has travelled farther than it should for the credit of an anonymous "group of leading Canadians."—Ottawa Citizen.

DO THIS FOR Night Coughing

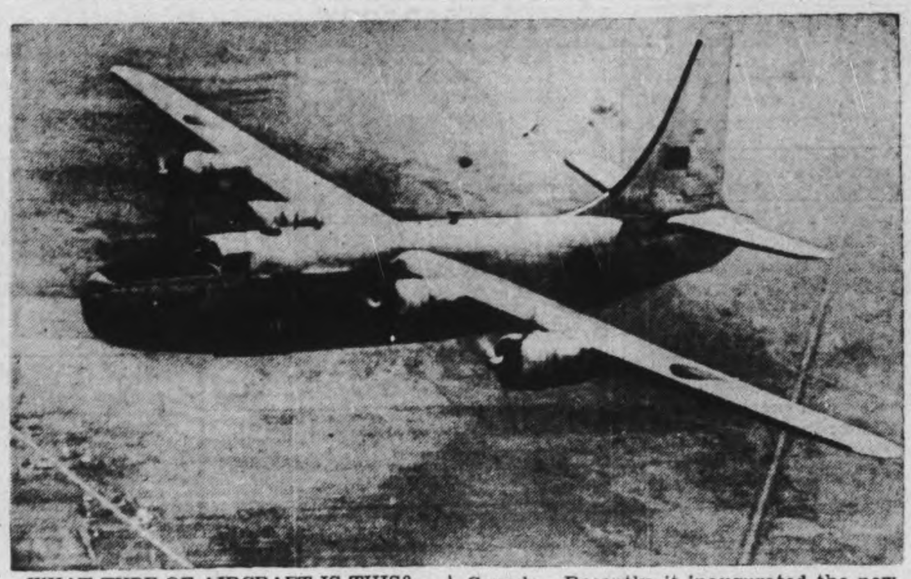
WHEN A COLD stuffs up the nose, causes mouth breathing, throat tickle and night coughing, use this time-tested Vicks treatment that goes to work instantly... 2 ways at once!

At bedtime rub good old Vicks VapoRub on throat, chest and back. Then watch its PENETRATING-STIMULATING action bring relief from distress.

It PENETRATES to upper breathing passages with soothing medicinal vapors. It STIMULATES chest and back surfaces like a warming, comforting poultice... and it keeps on working for hours, even while you sleep—to ease coughing spasms, relieve muscular soreness and tightness—and bring grand comfort! Try it tonight... Vicks VapoRub.



WHAT TYPE OF AIRCRAFT IS THIS?—You couldn't possibly know unless you were in on the secret. It is the AL 504, Royal Air Force Transport Command Liberator, so modified that it is the only one of its kind in the world. Known as a "Commando" it has logged more than 400,000 miles travelling on historical war missions and special flights to every part of the globe and it is the most famed aircraft operating out of Canada. Recently, it inaugurated the new Canada-Australia regular air service. Some months ago the standard stabilizer fins of an orthodox Liberator were removed and a single tail, 31 ft. from the ground and highest fitted to any aircraft, was substituted. Seven feet were added to the length of the aircraft to permit installation of arm chair seats, beds and an electric kitchenette. (RCAF Photo)

Doubts And Fears In U. S. Capital

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Beneath this town's hectic flush of military victory and economic boom lies a dark and brooding pessimism. The nation, as it is reflected in its capital, believes in victory but it does not believe in the boom. The dominating mood of the United States is fear of the future and no one, not President Roosevelt with his air of confidence, not Mr. Dewey with his promise of jobs for all, has been able to break this mood.

The paramount fact of American politics today is the great depression and the paramount fear is that it will return. This fear is shared by the big businessmen who expect the government to wreck free enterprise, by the most radical New Dealer who expects free enterprise to wreck the New Deal and by the poorest taxi driver who, earning an executive's wages today, wonders if he will have a job on the morrow of peace.

Washington is planning to prevent another depression, planning feverishly in a thousand offices, bureaux, bars and garrets. No government department is so poor that it has not evolved a master plan and sent it to the White House. No government official of importance fails to sound off most evening of the week in innumerable study groups or in private homes over a bottle of wartime whiskey (flavored, you judge, with gasoline) just to work out a final solution of the nations' economic problem. This has become a nation of planners from the president's study to the cracker barrels of the country store.

It is now evident, in fact, that the great debate which began with the New Deal in 1933 and raged through eight years was only postponed by Pearl Harbor. It was never settled and, indeed, it was never understood. Max Lerner, one of the abler leftist journalists, writes in P M "The war intervened both to make the solution too easy and to put an end to the search for solutions." Yes, the war and the war alone brought full employment, but if Mr. Lerner thinks no one is searching for solutions, he should come to Washington where there are nothing but solutions and no agreement on any of them.

The debate and the solution have been postponed and obscured by the artificial boom of the war, but one thing at least has become pretty clear to the American people—the New Deal did not solve anything fundamental. This nation reached the eve of war with a staggering burden of unemployment, with a budget wildly out of balance, with business unwilling or unable to expand, with the basic economic problem almost untouched. The New Deal brought social reforms which Mr. Dewey has endorsed and promises to expand, and these reforms are thus permanent, but it did not keep the people at work. The war and its full employment alone rescued the President from the stark revelation of his failure and the fallacy of his brain trusts' theories.

The President is too wise a politician, even if he is an indifferent economist, not to understand this. So the President has already thought his way out of the never-never land into which he was plunged in alternate swings to left and right during these eight feverish years. His approach to the future has already been outlined, and approach based primarily on the restoration of business competition within the nation and throughout the world. While this plan will unfold shortly with an attempt to stabilize currency, establish a world lending organization, reduce tariffs, control cartels, fix minimum labor standards everywhere, and negotiate commodity agreements in some fields, yet this does not assure the passage of the plan. The President will have to fight it every step of the way through congress.

The grand design depends primarily on the willingness of the United States to co-operate economically with the world and specifically on its willingness to accept foreign goods. There lies the true test of the whole project and there the fight in Congress will center. What are the prospects for the success of the grand design? Ask this question in the highest quarters and no one will answer with assurance. No answer is possible now because Congress, as always, will do what looks like a good idea at the time. If the times in the United States are prosperous, there will be a good chance of removing trade barriers. If another depression occurs, the prospects will be dark indeed. Thus the President is presented with a ticklish problem of timing — he must prevent a depression in order to reestablish world trade, but in preventing it he must not bar out foreign goods to stimulate home industry. He must hold the line at home until the United States is able to develop a huge export trade but in holding the line he will be asked by every protectionist in the country to keep tariffs up temporarily until trade has developed and these tariffs would make sure that trade did not develop.

This is essentially the issue immediately ahead when the problems postponed by the war emerge again. What answer the United States will give, whether it will accept the President's new economic internationalism, no one can yet foresee, but there are hopeful signs. There must be a new enlightenment among protectionist businessmen when Eric Johnston, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce can say "If we don't have free exchange of goods and services we may find more soldiers crossing borders in future,' and when Ferdinand Eberstadt, one of the big businessmen who formerly headed the War Production Board can say, "The strength and necessities of our position force us to take the lead" toward the removal of trade barriers. These are general aspirations. The real question is what Congress will do on the specific proposals to be submitted to it on money, on foreign lending, on cartels and patents, and especially on tariffs. That basically is why the nation is fearful, and Washington for all its brave outside and fabulous luxury is sunk in gloom.

Soldier Returns Under New Plan

KINGSTON, Nov. 21.—The first soldier in Military District No. 3 to return to Canada from overseas under the "Triwound" scheme arrived here to-day. He was Pte. O. Milner, of Picton, 23 year old member of the Royal Canadian Electrical Mechanical Engineers.

Other personnel arriving from overseas with Pte. Milner were Lieut. Harold William Kernaghan, Lakeport, and Pte. J. Storms, of R.R. No. 1, Belleville, both of the Canadian Infantry Corps, who were returned due to low medical categories.

Milner was one of a number of soldiers to return to Canada under the scheme announced last month by the Department of National Defence. The scheme has been evolved whereby personnel who have been wounded three or more times or who have had long service in addition to two wounds will have the privilege of returning to Canada or the United Kingdom to spend a period of duty in the locality near their next of kin.

Thirteen days after the invasion of Sicily while fighting with the famous Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Milner received a sniper's bullet in the left leg which sent him to a hospital in Malta. He returned to action, but on Dec. 13 of last year when his regiment moved from the Italian mountains to the coast he sustained shrapnel wounds to the body and legs.

Ill-fortune dogged the young fighter, who was again hit by shrapnel the next day while lying on a stretcher. He had been carried out by stretcher bearers to a road a mile and one-half away and was lying in the shelter of a house when a mortar bomb exploded nearby causing injuries to his right hand and thigh.

THE MOST TRUSTED COW IN THE WORLD

JUST TO SEE the stately way she walks to milking, you'd say Bessie is no ordinary cow. And you'd be right.

Bessie comes from a proud line of ancestors. She is fed on the tenderest pasture, the choicest hay, the most nutritious silage. She lives in a well-kept, sanitary barn. Her farmer-owner tends her every need with jealous care. Even the doctor pays a visit now and then, just to check up.

Why all this fuss about Bessie? Because she is one of the thousands of fine dairy cattle that people trust for pure, safe, wholesome milk. Working with the farmer, your dairy makes sure that the herds are inspected and tested regularly. All the way from the dairy barn to your doorstep, the highest standards of cleanliness and sanitation are religiously observed. Chances are, you take these safeguards for granted as part of your dependable daily dairy service. But at your dairy, it's a never-ending responsibility to see that Bessie keeps "up to par"... as the most trusted cow in the world.

The Sports Round-Up

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 — (AP). — A couple of years ago when Judge Landis was sick, he told close friends that he intended to retire as baseball commissioner when his present term expires . . . whether the Judge has changed his mind since then, we don't know, but it seems obvious that he hasn't told the joint Major League committee that recommended the extension of the present Major League agreement. . . .

In case you've never read the document, about the only limit it places on the commissioner's powers is the size of the fines he can assess . . . somehow, we can't imagine the club owners submitting themselves to such arbitrary power administered by anyone else . . . of course, there's no question about re-electing Landis as long as he wants the job, but a lot of good baseball men don't like the idea of letting the commissioner do anything he pleases, especially with that promise that there'll be no diminution of any commissioner's powers during his term of office.

Oshawa Juniors Open With Win

By The Canadian Press

Both Junior "A" finalists in the Ontario Hockey Association last spring, Oshawa Generals and St. Michael's Majors, stepped into an impressive stride Saturday to open their 1944-45 campaigns.

At the motor city, the Memorial Cup champions quickly closed in on the Toronto Young Rangers to satisfy the audience with a 6-1 decision, with the home crew going to the front in the first period with a counter by Al Shewchuck, one of last year's veterans. Denny accounted for two goals while other scorers were Jack Taggart, Freddie Petsura and Sullivan. The Rangers' single went to Pidhurny.

Joe Primeau's St. Mikes swamped Toronto Marlboros at Maple Leaf Gardens 10-1. Len Costello, Johnny Blute and John McCormack were double scorers for the students, all being newcomers to the squad.

Bolstered by two of their banned western Canadian recruits, Hamilton Barons turned up at Galt for their scheduled opening fixture only to be turned back 8-1. The two disputed players, Ian Mackintosh and Edward Marchant, were the pick of the losers while Bill Curick, formerly of Timmins, wound up with three goals and two assists for Galt.

Hershey Bears Defeat Reds

By The Canadian Press

Games last night in the American Hockey League placed Hershey Bears at the head of the Eastern Division when they defeated Providence Reds 6-3 at Providence, R.I., while Indianapolis Capitals tied Pittsburgh Hornets for first place in the Western Division when they played a 1-1 tie with Buffalo Bisons at Buffalo, N.Y.

Art Strobel was the outstanding scorer for Hershey when he hit the mark in each period of the game with Providence.

Pittsburgh snapped a four-game losing streak Saturday night when they routed Cleveland Barons 6-1 at Cleveland. It was Pittsburgh all the way except for the first period when Bartholome score for Barons.

Speed and air-tight defence enabled Indianapolis Caps to whitewash Hershey Bears 3-0 Saturday night at Hershey, Pa.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

It might be well to remind the city's sport-lovers that the drive for the Memorial Centre is not yet over. The canvass resulted in the raising of the largest sum that has ever been collected here for a community purpose but with the garnering of better than $205,000, there still remains another task and that is to make sure of the passing of the bylaw to be voted on December 4, authorizing the city council to raise $75,000 by issuing debentures as a grant to the Health Centre fund. That money will be needed, in addition to what has already been raised, to complete the program and it will be the job of all those who have already shown their belief in the scheme by making a donation to make sure that the bylaw is carried. If you are a ratepayer then by all means get out and vote for the Health Centre bylaw; if you are not talk to your friends who do own property and make sure that their votes are cast for the grant. Don't take it for granted that the community is so sold on the enterprise that it will be just a case of going through the motions to secure the passing of the bylaw. It will pass only if enough ratepayers get out and vote for it. Therefore the duty of all sports-lovers is to make sure that the favorable vote is polled.

Reports from Belleville indicate that next season the Belleville Collegiate will be back in 12-man football, ready for the Cossa playdowns. They have finally been convinced in the Quinte town that the six-man stuff is a poor substitute for the real article and the present outlook is for a return to orthodox rugby. The decision was hastened by developments last week. At the beginning of the week, three Belleville clubs, Belleville Collegiate, Albert College and St. Michael's School were all clamoring for the right to meet Peterborough C.V.S. on Saturday in the Cossa semi-finals. Their enthusiasm cooled however after Belleville Collegiate and Albert College hooked up in a 12-man battle, won by the former 6 to 0. Belleville authorities have not said so but the inference is plain that the showing made by the two teams was not good enough to justify entrance into the Cossa competition, hence the default to P.C.V.S. Commenting on the game in his Belleville sport column Ken Colling says: "The players on both sides found it difficult to carry the pigskin. Yes, they do hit 'em harder in the men's game, fellas. However the general consensus of opinion among the Collegiate players was that the game possesses much more than the bob-tailed six-man variety and another year will see a stronger B.C.I. squad out and early to compete in the Cossa playdowns."

Tossed It Away

Hamilton Wildcats are champions of the senior O.R.F.U., their nine point lead set up in the first game of the final series proving enough to carry them through the second battle played in Toronto Saturday. Balmy Beach won that tussle 6 to 0 but lost the round 13 to 10 and at the risk of being classed with the Monday morning quarterbacks we join the critics to point out that the Bammies failed to overcome the lead because they disdained to pick off the single points that were there for the having. All season we have been preaching the gospel of grabbing off singles so that perhaps qualifies us now to declare that the Toronto club could have taken care of their deficit if they had not persisted in gambling for major scores that never came off and throwing away the numerous chances they had of booting for rouges and dead lines. They had the ball in Hamilton territory at one period for many minutes at a time and yet scored only one single, an accidental one at that, coming off a field goal attempt that misfired. Many a game in the days not so far distant was won because such kickers as Huck Welch, Bob Isbester, Bummer Stirling, Ab Box and company booted the daylights out of the ball with the wind at their back and the opposition crowded down into their own territory.

* * * * * *

The Bammies had Hamilton in that position for many minutes at a time but flatly refused to cash in on the chance. Instead they could see nothing but a touchdown and it never materialized. The Wildcats deserve all kinds of credit for the great defensive stand they made, twice taking the ball away from the Beachers on downs practically on their own goal line and for the fact that they were not charged with a fumble all afternoon. But we imagine they would be the first to admit that they were lucky in being given the opportunity to make their stand, instead of finding their lead being steadily wiped out by a succession of singles. Bammies, in Earl Selkirk and Sammy Sward had the booters to do the trick but they were not called upon. Beaches wanted a touchdown or failing that a field goal and so when their marches were stopped they tried placements at difficult angles instead of taking the sure singles. At that the Toronto crew will never come as close again to winning a round without actually doing it. They faced a team that had their star Joe Krol trying to play on his nerve alone, had plenty of chances and failed to cash in. It was a great victory for Hamilton under the circumstances; they earned it because they refused to crack under extreme pressure.

Still Drawing Away

The big three of the National Hockey League cleaned up over the week-end. Toronto Maple Leafs triumphed twice over the Chicago Black Hawks, Montreal Canadiens trimmed Boston and Rangers and the Detroit Red Wings won from the Bruins and tied the Patrick gang. Thus the three second division clubs were able to salvage only one point out of six games and the gap between the two sections was materially widened. Right now the cash-and-carry circuit looks like two three-club leagues and any resemblance between the two is entirely coincidental. If the present trend continues much longer there will be a sleep[illegible]per between the fourth and third outfits while the margin between the top team and the cellar occupants will begin to assume record proportions. So far the cash customers do not seem to care whether there is any competition or not; they are flocking to the games all over the circuit and the turnstiles are clicking in a manner that keeps a constant smile on the faces of the magnates. How long that condition will last nobody can even guess but so far there is no sign of the patronage falling off in spite of the obvious superiority of three clubs in the loop over the other three.

* * * * * *

At that Chicago Black Hawks gave the Leafs plenty of opposition in both week-end games and the Toronto gang had to get the benefit of a couple of long shots from Rookie Ross Johnstone to win the Saturday night battle. Up to that occasion Johnstone had been having difficulty in shooting the rubber over his own blue line so that Dame Fortune was waving her wand furiously when he came up with a couple of goal-producing drives. Leafs had to come from behind in both games. In Toronto Saturday night the Black Hawks went into the final period, leading 3 to 2 only to be overhauled in the drive down the stretch and on Sunday night the Chicago team delighted their home customers by getting the only two goals of the first period. It was tied up 3-3 at the end of the second period and Pratt put the game in the bag with the only marker of the last 20 minutes. Bruins, despite the efforts of Bill Cowley who had five scoring points in the two games, were beaten 6 to 3 by the Canadiens in Montreal Saturday and 4 to 3 in Detroit Sunday. The Canadiens after their Saturday victory at home invaded New York Sunday night and wiped out a 2 to 0 first period deficit with a five-marker splurge in the second session and added another in the final dash to make it 6 to 2.

Rangers Hold Detroit To 2-All Tie

By ERIC SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The heaviest week-end schedule in the 1944-45 campaign for the National Hockey League championship came to a close without causing a hitch in the team standings.

Biggest surprise probably was the showing of New York Rangers who held the fast-moving Detroit Red Wings to a 2-2 tie on home ice on Saturday night and then kept the Stanley Cup champions, Montreal Canadiens, scoreless for half their Sunday game before the Flying Frenchmen skated off with a 6-2 victory.

Paul Thompson's Chicago Black Hawks gave the league-leading Toronto Maple Leafs plenty of trouble before bowing out 5-4 in a Saturday night match at Toronto and 4-3 on home ice Sunday. Leafs had to come from behind in both games.

Canadiens chalked up their first week-end triumph Saturday when they outpointed Boston Bruins 6-3 for their second win without a loss over Art Ross' club this season.

Detroit handed Boston their second loss Sunday night 4-3 on home ice.

Leafs On Top.

After the final whistle had blown, Leafs remained on top of the ladder with 16 points, two more than Montreal.

In the Toronto-Chicago game Saturday, the Leafs had to come from behind three times before winning. Their victory, before 13,162 fans, was costly, however, as they lost the services for two or three games of their ace forward, Dave (Sweeney) Schriner. He crashed into his own goalpost and suffered a severe charley horse.

Before his injury, Schriner scored twice, to bring to 11 the number of goals he has scored so far this season. He also has six assists to his credit.

Bill Mosienko and Mush March each counted for Hawks in the first period and Bob Davidson got the other Toronto goal. Red Mitchell got the only goal of the middle session to give Hawks a 3-2 lead going into the final period. Three quick Leaf goals followed by Ted Kennedy, Ross Johnstone and Schriner. Clint Smith finished the scoring for Chicago.

Sunday night it took a three-goal spurt in the second period to fashion victory for Toronto. Clint Smith and Earl Siebert had counted for Chicago in the first 20 minutes and Reg. Hamilton, Lorne Carr and Babe Pratt tallied in the third before Mosienko slammed in a goal to tie the count at 3-3 going into the last period. Pratt feinted Goalie Mike Karakas out of his net to sink the winning counter and only goal of the last period.

Detroit ran up a 2-0 lead over New York, on goals by Carl Liscombe in the first period and Murray Armstrong in the second, before the Rangers' Fred Thurier broke loose to slam in two quick goals late in the third. The game was the third successive non-losing effort for the New Yorkers.

In their Sunday night game, New York raced ahead 2-0 early in the opening period and kept the Canadiens at bay until after the 12-minute mark of the middle session when Maurice Richard counted. Frankie Eddolls tied it up shortly after the face-off in the third, and three minutes later Dutch Hiller, a former Ranger, netted the winning goal. Before the game ended Buddy O'Connor whipped in two more Montreal tallies and Elmer Lach one.

Boston Loses.

In marking up their fifth win in nine games this season to remain in third place, Detroit, after a slow start, rammed in three first period goals and another in the second and then held off a Boston rally to win out 4-3. Armstrong, Flash Hollett and Don Grosso all counted in the last four minutes of the first period and Joe Carveth got the other Detroit goal in the middle stanza after Bill Jennings netted Boston's first goal. Ken Smith and Armand Gaudreault netted for Boston in the last period attack.

Boston's efforts to beat Canadiens fell short as the Montrealers took a 2-0 lead in the opening period and held the upper hand throughout. Veteran Herbie Cain scored Boston's first goal midway through the game. Jack Crawford got their second counter in the last minute of the second period and Bill Cowley got the third goal late in the last session.

Buddy O'Connor was the spearhead of the Canadien attack, scoring one goal and making the plays for two others. Richard, Toe Blake, Fern Majeau, Hiller and Fern Gauthier got the other Montreal counters.

Wildcats Win Round Beaches Through

TORONTO, Nov. 19.— (CP). — The Hamilton Wildcats to-day appear to be headed for their second Canadian football championship in two years. They hurdled their most formidable barrier Saturday when they won their second successive Ontario Rugby Football Union title taking the home-and-home final series from Toronto Balmy Beach 13-10. They lost Saturday's game, 6-0, but the 13-4 victory they scored in the series opener gave them the championship.

Their opponents in the sudden death Dominion final in Hamilton next Saturday will be the Navy Combines from H.M.C.S. Donnacona at Montreal and St. Hyacinthe, Que. Combines, champions of the Quebec Rugby Football Union, suffered a 12-1 defeat Saturday from Toronto Navy Bulldogs in the sudden death game for the Canadian Navy championship.

The Ontario and Quebec Unions were the only ones to file entries for the Canadian Rugby Union play-offs. Toronto Navy is not eligible to play because the Ontario Armed Services League in which it competed during the season did not file a C.R.U. entry.

A brilliant individual display by 20-year-old Ross (Red) McKelvey, Balmy Beach halfback, in Saturday's game virtually eclipsed Hamilton's title win. His broken field running, most sensational seen in Toronto this season, continuously enthused the crowd of nearly 10,000 fans who braved the drizzling rain.

The six Beach points were provided by rookie and veteran halfbacks. Nineteen year old Billy Myers got five points with a sensational 70-yard touchdown run after taking a 22-yard forward pass from veteran Earl Selkirk. The touchdown run came in the second quarter and in the third Selkirk got a single point when his attempted field goal from placement was wide of the bars and rolled to the deadline.

Although outplayed most of the way, the Wildcats proved tough defenders near their goal-line and twice Beaches made fruitless forays within the five-yard strip. Then in the game's closing minutes when the Toronto team resorted to a forward-passing offensive in an effort to get a touchdown which would win the round the Wildcats intercepted three of the throws to offset the threat. Bill O'Breza, Gordon Lawson and Joe Krol each snared a throw in turn.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SYD THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—(CP).—Just to show that they "aren't scairt a bit," supporters of Halifax's claim to the hockey hall of fame are going right ahead with plans for equipping said hall in the seaport city....They have collected a group of old skates manufactured by the Starr company in nearby Dartmouth years ago, and now are on the lookout for some of the old Reachers, the type used by Mr. Pickwick and other notables of bygone ages....However, at last reports, the Kingston hall of fame boys were still licking the cream off their lips contentedly.

That sports still have an important part in the scheme of things for the services is amply proved by current activities in Ottawa, the veritable home and centre of the bigwigs in the naval, military and aerial world. Despite all restrictions and edicts, sport is going on as usual in the capital, with hockey, basketball, boxing and wrestling, track and field, all having an important part on the agenda for the coming months. Both the male service personnel and the female equivalents are in the sport program.

Farmer Metz:

Lester Patrick of New York Rangers gives Nick Metz much of the credit for Toronto Leafs' keen early showing. In a telephone chat with Dave (Regina Leader-Post) Dryburgh the other day, the silver-thatched coach said Metz, regaining his poise and confidence after a two-year layoff had given Leafs just what they needed—a steadying influence to balance the abundant youthful material they have on hand. Metz, when not hockeying, is a stoical farmer in Wilcox, Sask., where the probably picked up his steadying and sobering capabilities.

Incidentally:

The boys around Stratford, Ont., had reason to stick their chests out after the game between Montreal Navy and Halifax Navy. The stars on both sides came from Stratford—Dutch Davey of the Montrealers and Doug Smith of the losers....Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick reports that service restrictions of athletic participation apparently are loosening up a bit. A number of the players in the Quebec Senior Hockey League and Inter-Provincial League are from the Services, but they have been given permission to play home games only.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press

Bill Cowley of Boston Bruins took sole possession of first place in National Hockey League's Big Seven by gathering four points during week-end's play leaving Gus Bodnar and Sweeney Schriner of Toronto trailing by one and two points respectively.

Clint Smith of Chicago picked up three points to edge out Mud Brunteau of Detroit from seventh place.

Toronto Sailors Capture All-Navy Title

MONTREAL, Nov. 20 — CP). — With the first all-Navy Canadian football championship under their belts, the middies of H.M.C.S. York of Toronto to-day were anxious to see what the outcome of the Grey Cup final between Hamilton Wildcats and Montreal Navy Combines will be next Saturday.

Saturday the Yorkmen marched to a 12-1 victory over the Combines of H.M.C.S. Donnacona and St. Hyacinthe, and they are wondering how they compare in the national grid books to the Hamilton club that will be gunning for the second straight Dominion crown.

Displaying a high-powered ball club, that took advantage of every break, the Yorkmen trampled the Quebec Union champions on two converted touchdown plays. Both of these came from opportunities against a Montreal team that dished up its poorest brand of ball this season. Only three plays were needed before Coach Teddy Morris' team was out in front to stay. Dutch Davey of Montreal fumbled at his own 15 and Toronto recovered. Annis Stukus then fired a forward to Rod Egan and he went over standing up. Stukus converted.

Then in the third period, when Montreal was goal-ward bound, lanky Ed Laing stepped to grab a forward pass and made a picture 80-yard run, to which Stukus again added the convert point.

Montreal picked up its only point on a rouge in the final quarter. The Combines committed 14 fumbles, and most of these came when they were in pay-off positions.

Strange Game Being Played Along Meuse

By CHARLES LYNCH
Reuter War Correspondent

WITH ALLIED TROOPS ON THE MEUSE, Nov. 20—(CP-Reuter)—There is a strange grim game of tag going on along the lower reaches of the Meuse today — a situation not even hinted at on maps which show the front line running in a great arc from North Beveland Island around to Boxmeer, following the line of the river.

For days there has been "nothing to report" from this broad sector and the natural presumption would be that the Allied troops are on one bank and the Germans on the other with neither side doing anything.

But actually a fascinating kind of war is being waged there. It is a series of local actions rather than war. Small groups of Allied troops are fighting small groups of German troops. Each side patrols steal into the territory of the other, stealing across the Meuse in any kind of craft from canvas assault boats to decrepit wooden punts.

The best example that I have seen of this kind of warfare was in the little mediaeval town of Heusden on the Meuse, a few miles west of 'S Hertogenbosch.

By day Allied troops patrol the streets of Heusden. By night the patrols moving stealthily along the narrow winding streets may be either German or Allied. There is no way of telling who is who, so there is no firing unless the patrols run into one another.

One of the town squares is in full view of the Germans across the river and for a few days snipers potted at any Allied soldier appearing in the square. But yesterday I walked across it with two soldiers without drawing fire.

There are still many civilians in the town but after dark they take to cellars while patrols of both sides wander the streets.

Senator Turgeon Dies At Age 98

BATHURST, N.B., Nov. 20—(CP)—Senator Onesiphore Turgeon, 98, Liberal member of the Upper House of Gloucester, died at his home here Saturday. He was the father of F. A. Turgeon, newly-appointed Canadian Ambassador to Belgium, and Gray Turgeon, Liberal member of Parliament for Cariboo.

Death of Senator Turgeon brought the number of vacancies in the Senate to 14 and left the standing 49 Liberals and 33 Progressive Conservatives.

U.S. Indian Tribe Form Combine

DENVER, Nov. 20 — (AP) — An all-tribal constitution, believed to be the first of its kind in the history of the United States, has been formally adopted by representatives of 50 American Indian tribes.

Thus the Indian leaders formally launched yesterday the National Congress of American Indians for members of their race in the United States and Canada.

The preamble of the document declares the Indians' intention of enlightening the public on Indian affairs, preserving Indian cultural values, adjusting tribal affairs and preserving the rights guaranteed in treaties between the tribes and the federal government.

The constitution must be ratified by the separate tribes.

A new council to be organized provides for three executive officers and eight members. They will devote their efforts to legislative matters, education, research and welfare activities.

Delegates also planned to maintain a legislative representative in Washington, establish a news bureau to keep tribes informed of Indian matters, provide an in-service training program for Indian employes of the Indian Bureau, set up a legal aid department and offer special training for Indians seeking appointment to the health division of the Indian Bureau.

Free Enterprise
MADE CANADA'S MINES

A BIT of Mother Earth on the outskirts of nowhere . . . a lone campfire . . . the howl of a wolf . . . the scream of a mountain lion . . . a free man who treads where no man trod before.

In such a setting has been the origin of some of Canada's greatest gold and mineral producing mines. Turning his back on the commonplace ways of earning a living, the prospector risks his capital, pioneers new regions and a mine is born. This is free enterprise.

This century-old Bank has been closely associated with the growth of Canada's mining industry . . . has provided essential banking facilities . . . has helped foster the self-reliant spirit of the Canadian people.

Second Air Conference Slated For Next Year To Arrange Civil Aviation

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, Nov. 20 — (CP) — Another air conference next year is considered necessary by some authorities before a workable set-up for international civil aviation can be established.

Some delegates and observers to the conference now in its third week here came to this conclusion as the representatives of the United States, United Kingdom and Canada placed the finishing touches on a joint proposal to the conference which is expected to "reconcile" their widely diverging views.

They based their expectation on two beliefs:

1. That it will be convenient if not absolutely necessary for the technical experts who are setting up world-wide uniform standards and procedures to meet again.

2. That the agreement on the form of an international organization will not be wholly satisfactory to anyone and that revisions may be possible as public opinion in various countries develops.

The draft agreement on which the three delegations have been working in secret for more than a week has reached almost final form and will likely be presented Monday at a plenary meeting of the conference committee on an international organization.

Details Not Known

The details are not yet known but it is understood some and perhaps nearly all the important principles of the Canadian Draft Convention submitted by reconstruction Minister Howe at the opening of the conference have been embodied in it.

As the Canadian delegation hoped from the start, their proposals have been found to be a meeting ground for British delegates who wanted a large degree of division of aircraft traffic and the Americans who wanted airlines of all countries to enjoy the right to compete freely for business.

From the British point of view, it is learned, the draft is a lot better than they had hoped for in the first days of the conference when Adolf A. Berle, Jr., head of the United States delegation, laid down a firm policy opposed to the regulations of routes, frequencies and rates by any international organization.

Mr. Howe, Mr. Berle and Lord Swinton, head of the British delegation met yesterday as they have every day this week on the terms of the draft and are expected to meet again today.

In the meantime an effort is being made to secure the support of such important countries to aviation as France, Spain, Portugal, Brazil and China for the draft. These and the other 43 nations represented at the conference have been in the dark as to how it was proposed that the three main policies laid before the conference were being merged.

DISTURBING THE PEACE.

"Tess' Torch Song," when played by a dance band might make enjoyable listening to some, but it is out of place when sung loudly in one of the city's residential sections Sunday afternoon. The trio who made all the noise singing on Brock street Sunday might have talent, but the Sabbath hardly seems the time for auditions.

CLINIC HERE

Sponsored by the Department of Health, the Travelling Chest Clinic will be in Peterborough from Tuesday until Friday. Those wishing to be examined are requested to contact their family doctor, who will in turn advise clinic officials. The chest clinic, for the main, is on the look-out for tuberdculosis, although often other ailments are found. This is one of the several yearly visits paid Peterbrough by this clinic.

35TH ANNIVERSARY

The thirty-fifth anniversary of the Church of the Sacred Heart was observed on Sunday by large numbers of the congregation receiving Holy Communion at the masses in the morning, exposition of the Blessed Sacrament throughout the afternoon and evening devotions. Bishop MacDonald was present at night with a few of the priests of the diocese, and Rev. J. J. Garvey of Hastings preached the sermon. Men of the parish who are engaged in preliminaries for the school canvass held a meeting for a while during the afternoon.

NOT ALARMING

Although a considerable number of cases of measles and chickenpox has been reported recently, there is no reason for alarm, Dr. R. A. Kelly, M.O.H., said today. It is merely a seasonal increase, and parents are requested to advise the Department of Health of any cases as soon as possible.

GROCERIES STOLEN

A sneak thief did his Christmas shopping early when he stole a box of groceries valued at $6 from the porch at the home of A. Heather, 556 Aylmer street. The groceries packed in a carton had been left by a deliveryman in the absence of the members of the family. Included in the loot carried off was a Christmas cake.

PREVENTED TIRE THEFT

Albert Wright, Waterford street, came out of the Empress Hotel the other night just in time to prevent a tire theft. Wright was doing some work in the hotel and had parked his truck in the yard. Happening to need some more tools he went out to the yard and found his truck had been moved, the spare tire had been taken off and was leaning against the truck and he heard a car start up suddenly and speed up Water street.

MANY WINDOWS BROKEN.

Joseph Fontaine arrived at his paint shop near the corner of Water and Sherbrooke streets Sunday afternoon just in time to stop a barrage of stones that had already broken 32 panes of glass in the windows of the establishment. Fontaine chased two boys in his car, and caught them. One escaped from the vehicle but he delivered the other culprit at the police station. He was 13 years old, and the other boy, rounded up shortly after by the police, was 10. They'll have to do a lot of odd jobs to pay for replacing the glass.

If you need $50, $100 or more, here's what to do

How you can borrow up to $500 without endorsers and repay in monthly instalments—a $100 loan repaid in 6 monthly instalments costs only $7.10

SHORT of cash? Need $100, $200 or more? Here's a loan plan that can help you solve your problem. You may borrow quickly and privately—and repay on the monthly schedule that suits you best. To apply for the amount you need you merely give us a few facts about yourself and your work. No endorsers or guarantors are ever required. We lend—to men and to women—largely on character and earning ability.

Payments to fit your budget

Notice in the table below that you may repay your loan in 2 to 15 monthly instalments. It's wise to repay as rapidly as your income and expenses permit. The sooner you repay the less your loan costs. A $100 loan repaid in twelve monthly instalments of $9.46 each—a total of $113.52—costs $13.52. If repaid in six monthly instalments of $17.85 each a $100 loan costs only $7.10. You are also welcome to repay your loan ahead of schedule at any time to reduce the cost. Payments shown in the table repay principal and charges. Our rate of charge (given below) includes everything. You pay nothing more—no hidden charges, no fees or extras of any kind.

Get cash to pay your bills

You may use your Household Finance loan to pay old debts, taxes, doctor bill, insurance premiums, make repairs, help relatives—for almost any purpose. If you have a money problem, phone, write or visit Household Finance.

Arthur W. Nelson Missing From Deer Hunt

Search parties are combing the district around Serpentine Lake today trying to locate a Peterborough hunter, Arthur W. Nelson, 364 Park Hill Road, who has been missing since Saturday morning and is lost in the bush country north of Apsley.

Nelson was a member of a Peterborough hunting party which had been operating since the beginning of the deer season from the Tucker Hunting Lodge on Serpentine Lake. The party which included O. J. Hayward, Harry Lord, Russell Tucker, Henry Rose and Carroll Rose, Peterborough and Jack Tucker, Apsley, was to have returned home Saturday afternoon.

"It was our last run of the hunt" Mr. Hayward told the Examiner on Sunday night. "We were to have left for city at noon. I put Nelson uot on a watch three-quarters of a mile from camp around 9.30 o'clock Saturday morning and was to have picked him up there on my way back to headquarters. When I reached the spot I had left Art he was gone."

Nelson, failed to return to camp and a search of the section where he had been last seen revealed traces that indicated that he had wandered off in the wrong direction.

"I traced him for some little distance by broken branches and marks in the moss," said Hayward. "He was going away from the camp instead of toward it and I finally could not follow the trail any longer. Art was all right when I left him Saturday morning. He had his rifle and ammunition, his knife, plenty of matches and smokes and he was warmly dressed. I think he should be able to take care of himself alright and the searchers should find him Monday."

When the missing plumber failed to reach home by noon Saturday members of his party started to search for him and Sunday the hunt was intensified as members of the Percy Edwards party of Peterborough and Andrew Young's Cobourg hunters, with a number of residents of the district joined in scouring the Serpentine Lake area. Provincial Constable Price Morris helped organize the search Sunday and the party hunted the neighbourhood all day without finding any trace of the missing man.

To-day the hunt is being continued. The country in which Nelson is lost is typical north country bushland with deep gullies, many rocks and thick second-growth woods. Serpentine Lake is about three miles north and west of Apsley and for the past two weeks there have been many hunters in the section.

Children Blamed For Garage Fire

When parents allow their children to come into the possession of matches, or leave matches in accessible places, property damage by fire may not be the only result, Fire Chief Gimblett said today, in connection with the three boys, aged six to nine years, who were responsible for the Reid street garage fire several days ago.

Along with destroying somebody's property, there is a distinct possibility that the children themselves may be hurt, or even killed. Flames hold no speed limits when a frame building begins to burn; children have been trapped and burnt to death in a blazing building, for the tragic reason parents have relaxed in their watch over the familiar "match-box on the kitchen stove."

In the case of the garage fire, $100 damage was caused, Fire Chief Gimblett said, but more important, the children were in direct danger of personal, physical injury. Matches in the hands of children at play are potential killers, and should be kept beyond the reach of young hands at all times.

4,000 Huns Die

PARIS, Nov. 20.— (AP).— The Agency Francais Depresse, in a dispatch datelined at the Italian frontier, reported last night that 4,000 Germans were killed in an explosion in a tunnel near Genoa.

BACK FROM OVERSEAS—Flt.-Sgt. Lorne Johnson of Norwood, who has been serving overseas with the RCAF as a wireless air gunner, has returned home from overseas. Prior to enlisting in 1943, he worked with his father in Norwood.

THREE SISTERS IN SERVICES—Mr. and Mrs. Orville Young, 499 Aylmer street, have three daughters serving in Canada's Armed Forces. Wren Lula Young (Left) enlisted in July, 1943, and is now stationed in Newfoundland. L.-Cpl. Evelyn Young (Centre) of the CWAC joined up in September, 1943, and is now stationed at Barriefield, while her sister, Wren Isabel Young (Right), who joined the Navy in April, is serving in Ottawa. The three sisters are former employees of the Western Clock Company.

Two Prisoners Removed From Peterborough Escape From Bracebridge Jail

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—(CP).—Provincial police said to-day two men—Leo Gingras, 21, and George Houde, 23, escaped from jail last night at Bracebridge, Ont., after overpowering Turnkey John O'Brien. The men were removed recently from jail in Peterborough to Bracebridge to face trial on theft charges.

Police said they were in the jail kitchen with O'Brien last night and that the latter apparently was preparing supper for them when he was overpowered and his keys stolen. As the two were leaving O'Brien grappled with one and tore part of his boot off but they got away.

Meanwhile police continued their search in the Barrie area for three prisoners who escaped from the Simcoe county jail there at noon Friday. The three are William Frawley, George Murphy and Roy Long, who made their way out of the jaial down a freight hoist.

Knox Church Has 34th Anniversary

Life is nothing short of an asylum if we try to live without possessing a sense of the companionship of God, declared Rev. J. E. Todd, former Peterborough clergyman, who was the guest speaker at the 34th anniversary service of Knox United church Sunday.

All men, he said, are the inheritors of the Christian faith, the Christian religion, but not every man possesses it. When man enters into the Christian heritage, he becomes a new creation; old things pass away, and all things become new. He becomes fearless, in a world filled with fears of all kinds.

Basing his sermon on Verse 32, Chapter 12, of the Gospel of Luke, "Fear not little flock, for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the Kingdom," Rev. Todd told the congregation that because people are forever troubled with fears, in the Bible, there are hundreds of places where the words "fear not, ...be not afraid," appear

Many fears, he said, are groundless, with no reason. "How many times have you crossed bridges before coming to them, and then discover there are no bridges," he asked. "We discover that we possess resources that equip us on the day of testing and trial. We find ourselves more than equal to the situation," he said.

Rev. Todd likened the "business of living" to a tight-rope. The balancing pole, so necessary to the successful art of performing on a tight-rope, he compared the Christian faith.

"So many people try to get along in life on their own, when they need that 'balancing pole,' he said. People do not have to be afraid on their own either, he pointed out. Life is precarious enough,... Jesus Christ found it so, and Paul found it so, without attempting to get by alone. "But when you possess the heritage of the Christian faith and religion, life becames gloriously, thrillingly, and adventuringly possible."

"You're off on the wrong fot," Rev. Todd warned, "if you think that prayers make that 'tight-rope' into a plank, where you can become careless, and try all the stunts. You can never act carelessly on the rope, but with a balancing pole, you have poise, and are more than master, through Him that strengthens you!"

Quoting the 23rd Psalm, "Yea though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; Thou are with me!"

"Thou are with me, there is life's balancing pole," he said.

"Yes, there are fears, and who wouldn't be afraid? I am afraid, when I look about, and see all the greed, an selfishness, and racial prejudice," Rev. Todd said. "But we do not have to be afraid without the glory of the Christian faith! We have the experience of men down through the years that no problems are insurmountable if we go at them in the right manner!"

"When we enter into possession of our Christian faith heritage, we receive the revaluation of all things, in life," he said.

During the service, two beautiful songs were sung by the guest soloist of the anniversary services, Charles Hemsley, of Lakefield. Mr. Hemsley sang "Hold Thou My Hand," and "Out of the Depths."

The Knox choir under the direction of William R. Potter, sang "What Shall I Render Unto the Lord?" After the service in the evening, a social meeting and reception was held in the Lecture Hall of the church.

DR. C. W. ROSE

Dr. C. W. Rose Dies At Wolfeville Home

Dr. C. W. Rose of Wolfeville N.S., who served as pastor of Murray Street Baptist church for four years from 1923 to 1927, died suddenly Tuesday, November 14 and burial took place Thursday, November 16.

After leaving Peterborough, Dr Rose was minister in a church at Kentville until ill health forced his retirement two years later. He was 73 years old at the time of his death and is survived by his widow and daughter, Mrs. George Bishop (Evelyn).

Omemee School Assists Christmas Fund

In the early fall, school children were asked to gather milkweed as an important assist to the war effort, so those who responded could well lay claim to doing a patriotic duty, as well as playing a part in the titanic struggle now being waged.

This in effect was really to their own benefit, since the conflict now in progress will determine the future freedom not only of the democratic countries, but also of every individual who owes his or her allegiance thereto.

For this patriotic work there was an extra urge of payment, although every indication points to those who participated, were doing so from a real desire of being of some help to the Allied Nations cause, which is certainly all the more indicative of such, when the money thus earned was turned to help other worthy efforts also having a bearing on the successful prosecution of the war.

By this means and in this manner, the pupils at the Omemee Public School through L. M. Curtis, their principal, were enabled to have funds on hand to make an immediate response to the special letter sent to all of the teachers in the inspectorates under the jurisdiction of Inspectors R. F. Downey and F. B. Smitheran, by the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, in a special appeal on behalf of the special donations now being raised so send over for Christmas.

In conjuction with their principal and teachers, a gift from them of $10 is recorded in today's receipts, marking the first to respond to this special appeal. It is hoped this may be a forerunner of many others to help along this worthy cause, from the many schools that have been appealed to in a similar manner for the same purpose.

In Memory Of Dad

As one grows older, memories of the past really are indulged in to a larger extent, and many many people think more and more of those whose loving care in their earlier days, was and is responsible for many of the benefits they now enjoy.

When they have passed beyond the words that one would utter to tell them of the appreciation one might feel at heart, there is no finer way in which one can pay a tribute of love than by doing some good in their name, and particularly where it is needed and can be of real assistance to others in distress.

Today's receipts for the fund include such a gift "In loving memory of Dad," the words themselves and the deed being very expressive of a filial love that is an inspiration in itself.

This gift of course comes within the class of a purely personal one, and would have been reserved for the next list of such to appear, but from its special significance it takes its place in this day's list.

Speaking further of persoanl gifts, already there are seven of such now on hand towards the next list, a fine showing when one considers the previous one was given only as recently as last Friday. These will appear in the course of a few days, enriched and enlarged it is hoped by many others to assist in raising the further sum of $6,000 needed to complete the objective for the Christmas donations.

FATAL TO MANY.

Appendicitis proves fatal to more than 13,000 people in the United States every year.

MISSING FLIER HOME—Warrant Officer Russell D. Davidson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Davidson, Keene, who was missing for 19 months, has arrived home. He was reported missing in April, 1943, on his first operational flight over Germany as an air gunner. A sister, Miss Vera Davidson, works at the Quaker Oats.

District Flier Raids Munster

LONDON, Nov. 20 (CP)—R.C.A.F. Spitfires and Typhoons flew more than 175 sorties on Sunday, it was announced today.

The Spitfires attacked rail targets in the area north of Aachen, including Heinsburg, Erkelenz, Rhevdt, Kempen and Mors, scoring many successes. Intense flak was encountered on several of the missions and several fighters are missing from the day's operations.

Canadian bombers shared in the R.A.F. heavy bomber attack on Munster Saturday in what the R.C.A.F. officially termed "considerable numbers." The big planes flew under airtight fighter cover and no Canadian bombers were lost.

Weather was reported as the chief obstacle to the run, during which no fighter oppositon and comparatively little flak was encountered. "It was just a nice cross-country trip," said Wing Cmdr. J. L. Easton of Timmins, Ont., commanding officer of the Goose Squadron.

Clouds prevented visual bombing but FO. Lloyd Fraizzell of Halifax said: "I figured we bombed dead on," while FO. R. A. Russell of Campbellford, Ont., reported: "It looked as if the attack would develop well"

Cheap Boots

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—(AP)—Assault boats which have been declared obsolete for military purposes will sell for $75 retail, the United States Maritime Commission has announced. Dealers may purchase them in lots of 25 or more for $52.50. Used assault boats will be cheaper.

Clarke Farmer To Represent Durham Tories

J. Hartwell Lowery, well known farmer of Clarke Township, was nominated federal candidate of the Progressive Conservatives of Durham county at their Orono convention.

Mr. Lowery was proposed by Forbes Hyland of Darlington and Mayor Charles E. Stephenson of Port Hope. Russel K. Earle of Cavan was also proposed but requested that his name be withdrawn because the man-power shortage on his farm restricted his activities beyond it.

Gordon K. Fraser, M. P., of Peterborough, was the main speaker of the evening, substituting for Gordon Graydon, M. P., parlimentary leader of the party who had to make a fast trip from Winnipeg to Ottawa for the special sittings of the House this week.

Gordon Fraser paid a high tribute to Hon. Dr. Vivian, quoting doctors from coast to coast who had told him Dr. Vivian was the best "Health Minister in Canada," a doctor-business man who understands the needs of the people.

"The way we are going on in Canada,' declared Mr. Fraser is an absolute disgrace. We need John Bracken — the only man who can get any kind of unity in Canada to replace the disunity for which Mackenzie King is responsible. Members of this government do nothing but talk politics. There would be no war effort in Canada but for the constant prodding of the Progressive opposition.

Planks in Operation.

Hon. Vivian said all the planks of the Drew Government in Ontrio were operating except two —one to pay the half cost of education, and the other set up a commission for administering provincial forest revenues.

"I have no excuses regarding the first," the Minister said, "but I can tell you straight from the Premier there has not been time to make adjustments necessary to harmonize the many different school rates. This requires special legislation, but I can assure you the adjustment is nearly completed. The 50 per cent will be paid, and in my belief the necessary legislation will be set up at the next session of the legislature."

Mrs. Ira C. Lowe of Cavan spoke of her work as rural representative on the women's advisory committee of the party.

Officers were all re-elected with Charles McNeil as president. Delegates named for the Ontario Convention in Toronto December 14th, were Fred W. Brown Mrs. Bert Billett, Wally Vicks and Mrs. Percy Stinson; alternates, Walter Parks, Mrs. J. H. Jose, R. K Earle and Mrs. Sid Armstrong.

26,000th Donation

FOREST, Nov. 20—(CP)—The mobile blood donor clinic at Camp Ipperwash this week-end was marked by the 26,000th donation for the district, that of Pte. A. L. Brunell of Melbourne. The clinic, with 580 donors, fell short of its dominion record at 707 at the previous clinic.

Find the Cause of Low Back Pain

There are a great many people suffering from pains in the lower part of the back and in the hip, sometimes running down the leg to the ankle.

Pain in this region is not always due to trouble in the joint, although there are many cases that do show a displacement, through injury or strain which is easily corrected by Chiropractic adjustment.

Reports from the leading Health Clinics show that three out of every four of such cases are due to infections from teeth, tonsils, gall bladder, large intestine, sinus or some other focal point.

Radioclast Examination at this office can detect and locate these infections, and can eliminate these toxic poisons by Radionic Treatment. Make your appointment now and know the cause of your ailment.

REINFORCEMENT ISSUE

TORONTO, ONT., NOV. 17, '44.

G. G. Torrance
Branch 52, Can. Legion
217 Murray St., Peterborough

Developments in reinforcement situation and the calling of Parliament present challenge to Legion to again arouse public opinion as in nineteen forty-one to demand full implementation of total war policy. I request Legion branches to both lead and rouse public opinion in effort to secure co-operation of other organizations and public bodies to hold public meetings quickly and particularly to see that Members of Parliament are approached before they leave for Ottawa, if not then write or wire them before the House convenes. What is needed now is the strongest public backing of Dominion for the replacement of voluntary enlistment by conscription and immediate use of draftees for overseas reinforcements.

ALEX. WALKER
President Dominion Command, Calgary, Alberta

All service organizations and others interested are urged to make such representations to our local Federal member and endeavour to enlist public opinion along these lines which is believed to be necessary to the welfare of Canada and in support of our boys who are fighting overseas.

H. Doig donated two bushels of apples and these were distributed by Junior Hostesses after the games.

Life-Saving Tests Passed At Y.W. Pool

Several girls were successful in passing life saving examinations at the Y.W.C.A. pool Friday and Saturday. Eleanor Shirley and Shirley Barringer were successful in passing their intermediate and bronze medallion tests, which included release and rescue, rescucitation and theory of respiration. They also swam 100 yards breast stroke and 50 yards back stroke, as well as answering a number of question on general life saving.

Gillian Groombridge, Elsie Black, Barbara Harris, Patsy Williams and Mary Elizabeth Rowell passed the qualifications for elementary and intermediate certificates, while Donna Brotherstone, aged eight, and Arlie Brotherstone, aged nine, and Margaret Martin, aged 10, passed their elementary examinations. Gordon Minty was the examiner.

An exhibition of life-saving work will be given in the pool next Monday evening, in connection with a swimming demonstration. Senior, junior and baby trophies will be awarded, and the Silver Finettes will give a demonstration of ornamental swimming.

Janie Yeatman Becomes Bride

Rev. A. H. McConnachie officiated at a quiet ceremony at his home, 211a Barnardo avenue, on Saturday, when Janie Leona Yeatman, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Alfred Yeatman, R.R. 9, Peterborough, became the bride of Robert Morton Reynolds, of Peterborough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewellyn Reynolds, of Campbellford.

For the occasion, the bride chose a street-length gold wool dress, on Princess lines, with three-quarter length sleeves and black accessories. She wore a corsage of American Beauty roses. Her father gave her in marriage. Miss Mae Yeatman was her sister's only attendant, in street-length frock of blue wool, in long torso style, with three-quarter sleeves and brown accessories. She wore a corsage of pink roses. Bruce Meredith was best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Hooper's Palm Rooms, where the bride's mother received the guests in a gown of wine crepe, with black felt hat, and a corsage of Talisman roses. The groom's mother, also receiving, wore navy tailored suit, matching hat, and a corsage of pink roses.

For a wedding trip to Toronto and points west, the bride donned a yellow wool dress trimmed with green, a black coat with silver fox collar and black accessories. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds will make their home in Peterborough.

Mrs. Robert Bibby Heads WA Group

HASTINGS, Nov. 20 — (ENS). — The Women's Association of Group 4 held their regular meeting at Mrs. George Pickens', when members quilted a quilt and the election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Robert Bibby; Vice-President, Mrs. A. Forde; Secretary, Mrs. George Brown; Treasurer, Mrs. John Brown.

The members were pleased with their past year's report as they had raised $128. The hostess served dainty refreshments.

Mrs. G. Rutherford Elected W.A. President

Mrs. G. M. Rutherford was elected president of the Women's Auxiliary of St. George's Anglican Church, at a meeting of the W.A. and affiliated branches, in the parish hall. Plans for future activities were discussed, and members decided to meet on the second and fourth Wednesdays of every month, at 2:30 o'clock, the next meeting to be held November 22.

Other members of the executive are as follows: Honorary presidents, Mrs. E. C. Moore and Mrs. E. Rew; vice-president, Mrs. W. Firth; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. O. Laderach; Dorcas secretary, Mrs. H. Ferguson; president of the Junior branch, Mrs. R. Arnott; assistant Mrs. S. Parks; president of the Little Helpers, Mrs. W. Farr; assistant, Mrs. Charles Cole.

Following the election of officers the annual party for the Little Helpers and their mothers was enjoyed. Mrs. Farr conducted the service, with Mrs. R. King at the piano, and then the children joined in hymns and games. Rev. E. C. Moore spoke briefly, bringing before the mothers the great priviledge and responsibility entailed in the religious training of children in the home. Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Farr, assisted by W. A. members. It was decided that the Junior branch would meet every Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Hold Reception For Minister

A reception and social meeting was held in the Lecture Hall of Knox United Church after the service Sunday evening, when many friends and congregation members gathered to meet Rev. J. E. Todd, D.D., former Peterborough clergyman and guest speaker at the 34th anniversary services of Knox Church.

Mrs. H. Clegg was the general convener, and at the long table lit by candles and decorated with 'mums and roses, Mrs. J. F. Morrison and Mrs. J. P. Ego, two senior members of the congregation, poured tea.

Among those who received the guests were Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Mahoney, Mr. and Mrs. A. Pitchford, Mrs. V. E. R. Zufelt, J. Lancashire, Mrs. J. Gerard, Mrs. R. Laing, and Mrs. E. Mesley.

At the tea-table were Mrs. J. Donaldson and Mrs. J. Allen, assisted by Mrs. J. Lancashire, Mrs. H. Darling, Mrs. R. Goodfellow, Mrs. H. Trotter, Mrs. T. Johnston, and Mrs. G. Davis. Among those who took part in serving the refreshments were Mrs. E. Huffman, Mrs. G. Miles, Mrs. S. J. Laing, Mrs. D. Agnew, and Misses L. McDougall, M. Lewis, J. Hair, P. Kidd, E. Taylor, G. W.I. Realizes $21 At Bazaar

OMEMEE, Nov. 20 — (ENS). — A total of $21 was realized from the bazaar and sale of home baking sponsored by the Omemee Women's Institute, as reported at the regular meeting of the Institute, at the home of Mrs. Robert Williamson. The sale of tickets on a centrepiece amounted to $5, with Mrs. C. Clifford the lucky winner.

Members decided to apply for the Government grant, and letters of thanks were read from Mrs. N. Hart and Mrs. J. Nelson for flowers received while in the hospital. The Institute's congratulations were extended to Mrs. W. McConnell, who recently celebrated her 44th wedding anniversary, and to Mrs. Fisher, who observed her 64th birthday.

The program consisted of a reading, "Step Inside," by Mrs. Wilson, and "Grandma Gets the Seat of Honor" by Mrs. H. Laidley. Mrs. Stewart was named convener of the projects to raise money for the Red Cross. Following the adjourning of the meeting, two contests were conducted, and Mrs. Clifford and Mrs. Morrison served refreshments. Mrs. T. E. MacPherson will be the hostess for the next meeting to be held on December 18.

Special Leaves Must Be Sought

OTTAWA, Nov. 20 (CP)—Defense Headquarters announced last night that army personnel overseas who have completed five years of continuous service and who wish to obtain leave must apply through their unit commanders, and that a list of those applying will be maintained in all units and formations and a roll of precedence set up.

The announcement, giving further details of the recently announced plan for granting 30-day leave to Canada for overseas personnel, said that between 400 and 500 men were expected to reach Canada before Christmas. Other groups will follow later, but their size will depend on many factors, of which shipping is the most important.

Special consideration in the granting of leave will be given those who have served against the enemy. Their periods of service in operational areas will count double in figuring their length of service overseas.

Men on leave from their units will retain their ranks and rates of pay, so that when they return to service they will not suffer loss of seniority and will be eligible for promotion just as if their service overseas had been continuous.

VETERAN GIVES 14 BLOOD DONATIONS—Here is Sgt. Henry Raymond Allen, 56, of Ottawa, a veteran of World War 1, and serving in the present conflict since 1940, giving his fourteenth blood donation for the Canadian Red Cross Plasma unit. Mrs. T. G. Bowie, Ottawa, Red Cross nurse, is seen preparing Sgt. Allen for the donation. Sgt. Allen, with the corps of Military Staff clerks, is an orderly to the Minister of National Defence. He has served three Defence Ministers in that capacity. He was mentioned in dispatches at Hill 70, in 1917, and was awarded the French Medal of Honor for gallantry in the field. With his wife, Mrs. Constance Allen, he resides at 459 Cole avenue, Ottawa.

DOROTHY DIX . . . .

ADVICE TO PROBLEM CHILDREN

Playing Around With Sailors and Soldiers Dangerous Sport During War.

DEAR MISS DIX—We are three girls who work together daily. Our ages are 17, 18 and 20. Our parents are very strict and, like all other girls, we want to have beaux and plenty of them. We are not allowed to bring our boy friends home with us, so we meet them somewhere else.

Do you think it would be a wise idea for us to leave home and get work in a town where there are service men? Then we will be away from our parents' strict discipline. Or do you think we should stay at home and continue to meet our dates on the sly and just wait and see how everything works out?

THREE PROBLEM CHILDREN.

"The Wages of Sin is Death"

ANSWER—I can tell you how it will work out if you leave home and go to a city for the purpose of picking up service men and having a high old time. You will have a wild orgy of drinking and dancing and petting parties for a month, or perhaps two or three, and then you will spend the balance of your life in hanging your head in shame and bitter remorse. Figure it out and see if you don't think that that is a pretty high price to pay for a little fun. "The wages of sin is death," says the Bible. And the price tag has never been changed.

If you were not so young and unsophisticated, you would no more dream of going to a city for the express purpose of playing around with sailors and soldiers than you would of walking into a den of hungry wolves. You would know that while at home, and acting as individuals, most of them are decent enough chaps, with a proper respect for girls. When they are starting off for the war from which they know they may not return and when they are out in masses for a last good time before being shipped overseas, they throw all scruples to the winds. It is eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we may die.

More than that, no man feels that he is bound to protect a girl who is frankly out on the prowl. If she has no inhibitions herself, he sees no reason to furnish them to her. If she is ready to go off with any strange man who will buy her drinks, he will pay for the drinks and she will pay the consequences. So don't deceive yourself into thinking that you can act like a woman of the street and be treated as an innocent little girl who doesn't know what she is doing.

You want to get away from home and your parents. Believe me, children, a home is a girl's castle of defense. No man treats a girl who has a home background the way he does one who is on the loose, and who has no one to protect her and no one to whom he has to answer for his conduct towards her.

Maybe you will be bored staying at home, but the war won't last forever and after it you will still be the kind of a girl the right sort of a man wants to marry. You won't be in a brothel, as you will almost certainly be if you carry out your plan of going to a city to have a merry time with strange men.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am in love with a soldier and want to marry him before he goes overseas, which will be soon. But he insists on waiting until after the war. I don't want to receive the same disappointment I had four months ago when I was engaged to a marine. While I was patiently waiting for his return so that we could be married, he married another girl.

Am I right or wrong by hoping and praying that this boy will marry me before he is shipped overseas? Our ages are 21 and 18.

IN LOVE, BUT MISERABLE

ANSWER — If you can change your affections from one man to another so easily, why be in such a hurry about getting married? Some lad may come along who will be a better bet than the one you now have in mind.

You say you are in love, but miserable. Believe me, you are not miserable as you will be if you force your current fiancee to marry you against his will.

◊ ◊ ◊

DEAR DOROTHY DIX — At the football games is it proper for the students of one school to rise and stand while the opposing school's theme song is being played?

M. E. V.

ANSWER—It is more than proper. It is obligatory. It is just a gesture of courtesy that one school owes to another.

TO ADDRESS RALLY—Rev. A. Russell Graham, for 30 years a missionary in Central India, is scheduled to speak in St. James' United Church on Tuesday evening at eight o'clock. Mr. Graham went to India in 1914 to take charge of Canadian Mission Industries but the Great War interfered and after four years of service in Mesopotamia he returned to India. His later work in India has been described as unique in the history of modern missions. He will be addressing the annual fall missionary rally of Peterborough Presbytery of the United Church.

Canadian Visit City Of Ghent

By ROSS MUNRO

GHENT, Belgium, Nov. 20 (CP Cable)—Troops of the 3rd Canadian Infantry Division had their first real leave of the Western front campaign in this Belgian city of canals, ancient buildings and friendly people.

After the Battle of the Scheldt was ended, the 3rd Division—which has fought across France and the Low Countries since D-Day—came to Ghent on leave on the invitation of the burgomaster. The city was thrown open to these Canadians and thousands of them were billeted in private homes, while others lived comfortably in buildings put at their disposal by the civic authorities.

For nearly a week the division took it easy in Ghent, enjoying the hospitality of the citizens and taking in all the special entertainments arranged for it.

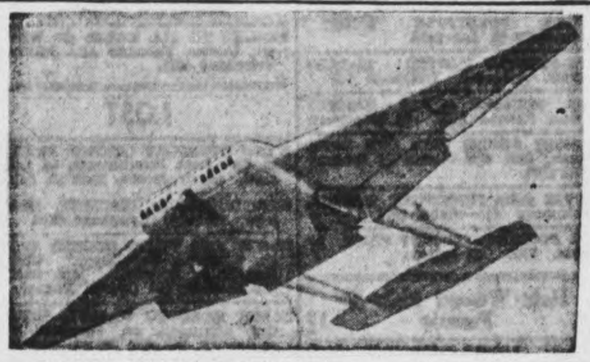
Since landing in Normandy June 6 the 3rd Division has been on the move all the time, with the exception of a few days out of the line at the end of July to prepare for the big Canadian Army attack south of Caen, launched Aug. 8—the attack which helped trap and destroy part of the German 7th Army in the Trun Gap southeast of Falaise.

Hitler Can't Sleep

LONDON, Nov. 20—(CP). —The Ankara radio reported Saturday the trouble with Hitler is that he cannot sleep. The broadcast, quoting German and neutral sources, said Hitler had suffered "a complete nervous breakdown consisting of insomnia, mental fatigue and general weakness."

Prize Capture

WITH THE U.S. 9TH ARMY IN GERMANY, Nov. 20 (AP)—The 9th Army has captured the nephew of Dr Karl Goerdeler, former mayor of Leipzig, whom the Germans declared they executed in the recent Hitler bomb plot. The nephew said he believed Goerdler still was at large and that the Nazis executed someone else "to save face."



U.S. ARMY'S NEWEST GLIDER — Here is the army's newest type glider, designed for carrying large numbers of men for invasion and combat operations. This new glider resulted from long and extensive study by army air force technical experts and engineers who sought to develop a motorless craft with the utmost of perfection in tactical use. Until now its design and construction have been kept secret.

Trouble Flares Across Belgium

BRUSSELS, Nov. 20 (AP)—Unofficial reports that Premier Pierlot might request Gen. Eisenhower to set up a temporary "protective government" for Belgium were heard today after a tumultuous demonstration by an estimated 15,000 marchers, shouting for the resignation of the Pierlot government.

Steel-helmeted Belgian police with rifles slung over their shoulders patrolled the streets of the capital yesterday in the wake of the parade of resistance sympathizers embittered by the government's demand for surrender of all firearms. About half the marchers were women.

Allied troops and armored cars were held in readiness with equipment for street barricades.

One of the major complaints seemed to be government reluctance to sieze and try political and business bigwigs who allegedly have been sympathizers or supporters of the Germans. Adding to the explosive situation were protests over acute food shortages.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP

Often when we have a roast of beef, there is not enough for another meal unless we fix it in some way by addition of other things, so our first recipe today, is to help you make left-over meat tempting.

Meat Pie That's Different.

Brown 1 cup of diced left-over beef in 2 tablespoons fat. Add a 10-oz. tin of vegetable soup, 1 cup water, ½ teaspoon salt and dash of cayenne pepper. Combine thoroughly. Pour into a well-greased casserole. Prepare half of a standard recipe for baking powder biscuits. Pat dough to three-quarter inch thickness and out with a 2-inch biscuit cutter. Arrange 8 biscuits on top of meat mixture. Bake 20 minutes in a hot oven (400 degrees). This can also be made with fresh meat.

Baking Powder Biscuit.

2 cups flour, ½ cup butter, 3 tablespoons baking powder, pinch of salt, ¾ cup sweet milk.

Norwegian Meat Balls.

1 pound minced round steak, 2 tablespoons flour, 1½ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon each of pepper and nutmeg, 2 eggs.

Put meat through the chopper twice. Combine with remaining ingredients and beat together thoroughly. Shape with a tablespoon into balls, then brown in hot dripping on all sides. Remove from the dripping, dredge in flour, then in egg, then in flour again and put in oven to brown. Serve at once.

Norwegian Applesauce—For Meats.

1 cupful of hot lightly sweetened applesauce, ⅛ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon prepared horse-radish. Combine the hot applesauce with the nutmeg, butter and horse-radish. Serve hot or cold with pork or sausage.

Where Quality Comes First

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, November 21

A DAY of sudden and dramatic adventures is forecast from powerful sidereal aspects. A quick turn in events may bring about surprising openings for expansion, financial increase with agreements made in connection with large organizations, diplomatic or political bodies, in which secret understandings or undercover affaiars prove intriguing. A radical uprooting or change may be demanded, accompanied by stress and anxiety, in both public and private associations. Romance, unique adventures and love affairs are alluring. Keep impulses and emotions under restraint.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for an exciting and thrilling year, with sudden change and opportunities of far reaching and radical importance on future progress and gratification of a romantic or affectional nature. Strain and tension should be wisely managed lest there be regrets or loss due to runaway impulses and emotions. Co-operate with higher-ups in political, diplomatic or fraternal stations.

A child born on this day may possess much originality and creative ability, which may be best promoted by personal charm or magnetism. But emotional situations may bring anxiety and excitement.

We suggest that you purchase seasonable merchandise early.

New Recipe
SWANS DOWN "MIX-EASY" LAYER CAKE
PREPARATIONS: Have shortening at room temperature. Sift enough Swans Down Cake Flour to make 2 cupfuls. Grease two 8-inch layer pans, and coat lightly with flour. Start oven for moderate heat (375°F.).
MEASURE INTO SIFTER:
2 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
2 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
¾ teaspoon salt
1¼ cups sugar
MEASURE INTO BOWL:
½ cup shortening (part butter preferred)
MEASURE INTO CUP:
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
HAVE READY:
2 eggs, unbeaten
• Stir shortening enough to soften. Sift in dry ingredients; add ½ of liquid and the eggs. Mix until all flour is dampened; then beat 1 minute. (Scrape bowl often.) Add remaining liquid, blend, and beat 2 minutes longer. Count only actual beating time.
BAKING: Turn batter into pans. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 25 minutes, or until done.

Accidents Cause Seven Deaths

By The Canadian Press.

Seven persons, two in Ontario, three in Quebec and two in New Brunswick, met death by accident during the week-end.

Charles F. Barr, 62, died in a Hamilton hospital Sunday of injuries suffered Friday when struck by an automobile. At Niagara Falls, 12-year-old Andrew Gauthier died Sunday after being struck by an automobile as he was about to board a streetcar.

At Montreal Albert Gouborne, 55, was killed when a streetcar collided with a truck, and Dumas Damarche, 37, died in a minor explosion at a war plant.

Air Commodore Roger Delhaye, a First Great War air ace, DFC, second in command at No. 3 Training Command, RCAF, was killed Saturday when his training plane crashed at St. Hubert airport, it was learned in Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Ward, both 65, were burned to death Saturday in their Kent county, southeast New Brunswick home. Five other occupants of the house escaped the fire, which originated in a chimney.

Hamilton Minister Speaks At Centre

The after church evangelistic service in the Centre Theatre on Sunday evening had as speaker Rev. Albert Stoll, of Hamilton, and Miss Mary Jeffery, violinist, of Toronto, as soloist. The speaker took the 5th chapter of the Book of Exodus as the subject of his discourse.

"In this chapter we read of the deliverance of the Children of Israel. 'I will bring you out of bondage.' This was the promise that God gave to them through his servants, Moses and Aaron, and although at first Pharaoh refused to let them go, eventually he was glad to grant the request of these two men. Not only did Moses in his message declare unto them deliverance from the bondage of the Egyptians, but he promised them redemption—a new relationship to God—a safe landing and a great possession."

The speaker proceeded to show the parallel between the gospel of Moses and the gospel of Christ. He too preached deliverance from the power of sin, the redemption of the sinner, a new relationship as sons of God, and a great possession. "In My Father's house are many mansions." Illustrating his theme by several stories, related by Moody, the great evangelist, the speaker emphasized the personal application to everyone present.

"All have sinned and need deliverance and redemption. All of us at one time were at enmity with God; now by faith we can become the sons of God through the death of His Son, and we can look forward to a home of large dimensions prepared for those that love and serve Him."

Next Sunday the speaker will be Frank Guthrie, a business man of Guelph. The special music will be by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hartshorn, of Peterborough.

Court Gives $40 Fine For Breaking Act

Pleading guilty to having illegally had liquor on an Indian reserve contrary to the Indian Act, Reginald Harran was fined $40 and $13.75 costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court today.

Harran was arrested by Constables Cherry and Hibbart of the Cobourg detachment of the R.C.M.P. and Provincial Constable Price Morris.

Constable Cherry told the court this morning that there had been a number of complaints about Harran taking liquor to the Chemong Indian reserve. On this occasion the accused had four bottles of homebrew beer that analyzed at 6.3 per cent alcohol and two quarts of vendor's beer 5.8 per cent.

Vagrancy charges against John Walsh, Indian River and David Robertson, Bracebridge, were dismissed when the crown offered no evidence.

Farmer Heavily Fined For Reckless Driving

J. W. Carroll, 55-year-old Emily farmer, was fined $40 and $1.75 costs in police court today after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving.

Provincial Constable Price Morris who laid the charge following an accident on the Chemong road Saturday night said that Carroll had been the driver of an automobile which sideswiped another car. The accused's car was over on its wrong side of the road at the time of the impact, the officer stated.

"Was there any suspicion of drinking?" asked Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C.

"Some," replied the witness.

Missing Air Gunner Granted Promotion

Mrs. George Paudash, Hiawatha, has been notified that her son, Sergeant Wireless-Air Gunner Robert Elmer Paudash, reported missing September 21, 1942, has been listed in promotion to Flight-Sergeant, dating from July 19, 1942. His father, George Paudash, a veteran of the last war, is with the Veterans' Guard at Farnham, Quebec. Mrs. Paudash still clings to hope of her son emerging safely to her from the welter of the war in Europe.

Obituary

MRS. JOHN COVENY.

HASTINGS, Nov. 20 — A native of Percy township, Mrs. John Coveny, formerly Roseane Drain, died at her home in Hastings on Sunday in her 77th year. A daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Drain of Percy township, she was born in the township and after her marriage lived just off the Cobourg Road, five miles from Hastings. About five years ago she moved with her husband to the village.

Mrs. Coveny is survived by her husband, John Coveny, four sons, James, of Rochester, N.Y., John, Frank, William, all of Percy township; one daughter, Mary, of Hastings, a brother, William, and a sister Ellen, both of Percy township.

The funeral will be Tuesday from the family residence, to Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, for Mass at nine o'clock in the morning. Burial will be in Mount Carmel Cemetery.

IKE PLAYS HOST TO WINNIE—Prime Minister Churchill listens attentively as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme Allied commander in Europe, explains the working of his trailer-headquarters in France.

Communism Flourishes Across China

By JAMES D. WHITE

WASHINGHTON, Nov. 20.—(AP).—Chinese Communism flowers in the political and economic vacuums left by seven years of Japanese war in China. The areas the Communists claim to dominate cover a third of free China.

Since 1937 Red influence has spread before and behind the Japanese advance. The Japanese army habitually wipes out Chinese administrative authority, replacing it with corrupt puppet regimes. Into this political desert and economic paralysis, the Reds filter from their main base in Northern Shensi Province.

By 1938 separate new Red areas had appeared in Northern Shansi and Central Hoepi. Soon there were others in Shantung, Southern Shansi and Northern Kiangsu.

Army of 500,000.

By 1940 the Japanese decided to hold the main rail lines and rivers and try for more territory. During this stalemate Chiang Kai-Shek sent his troops against the Red's new 4th Army which was operating along the Yangtze River west of Shanghai. This was the last big armed clash between Chiang and the Reds, but all along Chiang has kept more than 250,000 of his better troops guarding the southern border of the main Red base in Shensi.

The Communists now claim an army of nearly 500,000 well-trained regulars, possessing a total of more than 400,000 rifles. They also have some machine-guns, mortars and a little artillery, nearly all captured from the Japanese.

Communists first became prominent in China 20 years ago when they helped Chiang accomplish his Nationalist revolution. But in 1927, his victory won. Chiang expelled them and created a one-party Government. Some Red leaders were caught and executed. The remnants gathered in a wild and desolate part of Southeast China to build a refugee Government.

Chiang warred upon them with tanks and planes. Both sides committed excesses, creating a bitterness which remains to-day.

Settle in Shensi

The Red remnants moved on again, through 1934 and 1935, along a wandering 4,000-mile route which finally led them to an arid and half deserted region in Northern Shensi.

Their leaders then, as now, were Mao Tse-Tung, the Chinese political organizer who corresponds to Marshal Stalin in Russia, and Chu Teh, over-all commander of the Red armies.

Chiang Kai-Shek agreed with them late in 1936 that all China must unite against the menace of Japan. But the Japanese were alarmed to see the Red Army incorporated into China's national forces and struck in July, 1937.

The Reds have received no help from Chiang's central Government.

In addition to the regular Red Army, they claim a reserve of 2,000,000 organized partisan fighters. Behind these partisans, they claim, is a peasant population estimated from $20,000,000 to 37,000,000. Most observers estimate around 60,000,000.

Westerners who have visited the Red capital, Yenan, report brisker business and less inflation than at Chungking. The Reds print their own currency, control some prices, ration some commodities, run their own postal system. From these reports, the Reds have imposed few economic changes beyond lowering the high rent, interest and tax rates which plague the rest of China.

Practicing Democracy

They still call themselves Communists, and the Communist Party claims 900,000 members, but they say they are practicing democracy as a step toward an ultimate goal of socialism.

The basic disagreement with Chungking now is this: Chiang claims that unity against the Japanese must come first and that the Reds should submit to his control. He promises reform after the war. The Reds insist that to achieve unity Chiang must admit other parties to a voice in the Government—now.

Chiang's chief supporters include regional warlords and the banking, landlord and merchant classes. Back of the Chungking attitude, it is believed, lies apprehension of what Russia may do. But no westerner who has visited the Chinese Reds in North China has reported any trace of Russian material support, although for a time Moscow aided Chungking.

Schriner Hurt On Saturday

TORONTO, Nov. 20.— (CP). — Dave (Sweeney) Schriner, left winger of the Toronto Maple Leafs and leading goal scorer in the National Hockey League campaign, will be out of action "for some time" as the result of a severe Charley Horse he suffered in Saturday night's game here against Chicago Black Hawks, officials of the Toronto club said to-day. Just how long the Calgary native, who scored 11 goals in nine games, will be idle is not yet known.

Manager Franke Selke of the Leafs said he will confer with Coach Clarence (Hap) Day on the latter's return from Chicago this afternoon on possible steps to reinforce the Leafs who had only 11 men available last night for the second of their two week-end games with Hawks.

There have been reports Leafs may recall Eric Prentice from the Timmins district and Ken Schultz of Preston, two forwards who are with the Pittsburg Hornets in the American Hockey League.

SOMETIMES IT HURTS

SOMETIMES losing the lead to your opponents cannot harm you at all, sometimes it actually helps you, but also there are times when it can hurt. From a declarer's standpoint, that is most poignantly true when the opponents have established a suit which they can run for a number of tricks, since he has no way to stop it. In No Trump play that could occur if he had no stopper at all in the suit or if his stoppers had been used up. In suit play it could happen after his trumps are gone.

North: ♠ 10 9 6 ♥ 10 9 ♦ 7 5 3 ♣ A J 10 6 4

East: ♠ Q 7 3 2 ♥ 8 5 ♦ A 10 6 ♣ Q 8 5 2

South: ♠ K J 8 4 ♥ A K Q J 7 ♦ 8 4 ♣ K 3

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North

Pass	2 ♠	Pass	3 ♣
Pass	4 ♥

South ruffed the third diamond lead, then used his four heart honors to remove the trumps of his opponents, even though that used up all of his own, too. He had reckoned, on a quick size-up, that if the club finesse would work, he could score 10 tricks with hearts and clubs alone, so he then took the club K and finessed the J. East won with the Q and returned the spade 2 to the A, whereupon West cashed two more diamonds, setting him three tricks.

At another table of the same duplicate, South got into the same contract by slightly different bidding, and played the hand very differently. He, too, ruffed the third diamond lead, but he did it with the heart A, then led his 7 to the 10 and brought forth the spade 10 from the dummy. When East refused to cover, he played the 4, and West won with the A. A diamond return now could not hurt South, as it could be ruffed with the dummy's 9. So West returned his heart 3.

South was now okeh. He took that heart in his own hand, dropped West's other two hearts with his own last two, scored the club K and A and led the spade 9. When East played low again, South underplayed with the 8, then finessed the spade J and took the game trick with the spade K. He was home because he gave the defenders the lead at a time he could afford to do so.

Jeers And Boos Greet Speaker On Conscription

VANCOUVER, Nov. 20 — (CP). — A plea for tolerance on the part of English-speaking Canadians toward their French-speaking neighbors in the matter of conscription for universal service was voiced here Friday night by Mines Minister Jonathan Robinson of Quebec in an address to the western meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy.

Mr. Robinson, one of the few English-speaking members of the Quebec cabinet, was interrupted frequently by boos and cat-calls as he addressed the Institute's closing banquet.

"Jeers and boos do not disturb me, for this is a question which has to be faced," Mr. Robinson said. "If you are big enough to love your country, you are also big enough to see the other man's point of view. When you are inclined to think harshly of the French-Canadian, remember he is still a Canadian. If you will help us and try to understand us, we won't have any differences."

No province in Canada was more interested in national unity and none would do more to preserve it than Quebec, the speaker said. No province had done more in the recently-concluded Seventh Victory Loan campaign and in aiding war services throughout the present conflict.

At this point Mr. Robinson was interrupted by a chorus of boos.

"I have been warned not to mention conscription," he said. "If the other eight provinces feel we have not seen eye to eye on conscription, just let me tell you why. The word 'conscript' to a French-Canadian means a convict."

The introduction of compulsory service in Canada had been a mistake, but the present disagreement on the question of overseas service was the fault of Ottawa politicians who had "deceived Quebec for 25 years."

"Our province was played with as a political football. French-speaking Canadians were promised again and again that conscription would never be necessary, that they would never go overseas. "This was done to get votes. Are you able to change this in a few weeks? I ask you to be tolerant and try to understand our problems as we are so ready and willing to understand yours."

Red Cross Makes $100 At Dance

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 20—(ENS)—More than 150 persons attended the dance held in Memorial Hall under the auspices of the local Red Cross.

Lunch was served at the canteen in the council chambers under the supervision of Mrs. L. Quackenbush and Mrs. W. W. Leonard. Among those assisting at the counter were Mrs. W. J. Charlton, Mrs. W. Gilman, Mrs. Nicholson, Mrs. A. Johnston, Mrs. Pelton, the latter three from Young's Point.

The guests were received by Mrs. H. Ketchum, president of the local Red Cross, and Mrs. J. Ridpath, past president.

Mrs. Gilman, Mrs. J. McKerchar and Mr. A. Morris of Young's Point were in charge of the decorating. The general committee was made up of Mrs. G. Robinson, Mrs. Ketchum, Mrs. F. L. Erskine, Mrs. S. A. Grylls, Mr. McKerchar and Mr. Morris.

Prizes throughout the evening were won by Vivian and Lawrence Huddaut, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Erskine, Mrs. Harry Stabler and Mr. T. Chaplin. Prizes were donated by E. H. Northey, Miss Molly Thompson, Theodore Cradford and Essential Oils Ltd.

The dance, one of the smartest events of the year, was a financial success, more than $100 being cleared.

Cobourg Boy Dies Of Infantile Paralysis

COBOURG, Nov. 20—Five-year-old Raymond Sedgwick of Cobourg, who died last week in the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, passed away as a consequence of polio, Dr. W. E. Wilkins, local M.O.H. said Friday. The little fellow, who is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sedgwick, felt poorly last week but his case was not diagnosible as any definite disease until it was decided to send him to the Sick Children's Hospital where symptoms definitely developed into polio, followed by paralysis of the throat and respiratory system. He was buried Friday afternoon.

Asked if it might assume epidemic proportions, Dr. Wilkins told the Examiner yesterday that very likely it was already an epidemic in a mild form of the disease which might not develop into recognized systems of polio.

"It is a virus disease not modified by medicine and my advice to parents is that whenever their children are feeling unwell, have colds or are not up to par, to put them immediately to bed and see that they rest. Rest is the best treatment at that stage and very likely, if they are developing polio, they will get over it without it reaching any proportions. I am going to the schools this afternoon and will give the same advice up there," said Dr. Wilkins.

This is the second polio case reported this year, the first one being a recovery.

HAMILTON, Nov. 20 — (CP). — Agriculture Minister T. L. Kennedy of Ontario Saturday urged farmers of this province to produce "better hogs" so that the British market will be retained after the war. Addressing a meeting of the Wentworth Federation of Agriculture, Col. Kennedy said he had been told by an English authority that Sweden and Finland have a hog surplus and intend to invade the British market after the war.

Patriots Killed By Comrades

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

PARIS, Nov. 20 — (CP. — Over-zealous patriots in liberated countries of Europe have taken the lives of a few of the resistance movements most courageous workers, some stories have said here.

Some underground workers who discovered that they could best work for the liberation of their homeland by posing as Nazi sympathizers have been executed by their freed fellow-countryman on D-Day or since.

This story was given me by resistance workers who hoped that its publication might halt similar impetuousness in countries still under Nazi occupation.

"It is dangerous for people to take it unto themselves to administer justice without investigation of the crime," one worker said. "In most cases the people who are executed are guilty, but then in the odd case an innocent and brave person dies."

Some place in Belgium, one of the first presons shot in a newly liberated town was a girl, who had worked in the Gestapo headquarters and who had been known as a friend of Nazi officers.

What those who executed her did not know that she was also one of Belgiums most valuable resistance workers.

Through her job in the headquarters she was first to learn the names of her countrymen who the Gestapo planned to arrest. In that way she was able to inform the victims and give them the chance to escape.

As a friend and confidante of the Germans she collected information of highest use to the underground. So clever was she that the Nazis never suspected her and only the Belgians who worked with her knew her double, Mata Hari-like role.

In the south of France, a talkatiae, friendly Frenchmen was another victim.

From the time the Germans occupied his town he had treated them with jolly camaraderie. He had become a friend of the German officers and popped in and out of Nazi police headquarters several times a day.

He placed his car at their disposal and went on long trips into the country to collect food for them. Patriotic Frenchmen in the village hated him.

They didn't know that he learned many things valuable to his resistance group in the headquarters. That he used the gasoline allowed to him by the Germans to make resistance-organizing trips throughout the district.

After D-Day his fellow-townsmen meted out the punishment they thought fit in the light of surface appearances.

Caen Casualty Visits Home In Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Nov. 20—(ENS)—Invalided home after being wounded at Veriers, in the vicinity of Caen, France, on July 31, Pte. Albert O. Richards, second son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Richards, of Centre Street, is the first local boy to arrive in Millbrook as a casualty of the present World War. He went overseas about three years ago with the Anti-Aircraft Battery, and went to France on July 6 with the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry.

For some time after arriving in France, the Canadians in the section where Pte. Richards was located saw only defensive action, which kept them fully employed, and on the first occasion when the offensive against the 11th and 12th German Panzer Divisions was ordered, he was injured in the right forearm, the shrapnel passing through the elbow and coming out a little above it on the under side, shattering the bone. Ribs on the right side were also cracked, and by August 2 he was a patient in a Canadian hospital in England, remaining there until he was invalided home on the hospital ship Aba.

Pte. Richards readily acknowledges being frightened when in actual combat, and feels sure if the others were equally candid, they would practically all confess to the same reaction. They found the Germans ready to give up when cornered, and some taken prisoners were boys of not more than fifteen and sixteen, who by their arrogant airs and language, and their assurance that Germany was still going to win the war, were typical examples of the Nazi youth training.

"But when we knew that the Germans had fired on our stretcher-bearers, we didn't bother much about taking prisoners, but just fired on them, giving them back their own medicine."

Field Cooking.

Issued with the rations, while in France, though seldom seen in England, Pte. Richards states that they had plenty of cigarettes and chocolate bars and plenty of food as well. "But if we started a fire to cook anything, that attracted the enemy's attention and put us in decided danger. The best stove we had was to take an old German helmet, fill it with sand, pour gasoline on it, and then apply a lighted match. A tin can of water soon boiled and we made tea, which was issued to us in cube form, with the sugar added. The food, of course, is all canned stuff, and if the smoke drew the Germans' attention, we just ate it without benefit of cooking or heating."

Though not actually where the robot bombs fell in England, Pte. Richards was near enough to see these missiles going through the air at great speed on several occasions, and says they look like a long, dark object with a trail of fire from the rear. "When one exploded we could feel the buildings and the ground shake though we were some distance from where the explosion occurred."

Pte. Richards is home on seven days' leave, and then has to report at Kingston for treatment, but expects to be able to rejoin his family here for the Christmas and New Year's holidays. While in hospital in England he had treatment with penicillin, administered every three hours for some time, and was in a cast, including the upper part of his body and the right arm. His elbow is stiff and the arm cannot be straightened out, and it will be a long time before it again functions naturally.

Angry—And Stupid

SEATTLE, Nov. 20—(AP).—An irate woman telephoned Eddy Hiller, Post-Intelligencer city editor, to complain her alarm clock had stopped and shop after shop had advised her they could not fix it. Hiller explained the springs used in alarm clocks were vitally needed for war goods. "Well," snapped the woman, "I just read in your paper that they are getting a new cabinet in the White House, and if they can spare material for that, they can let up on enough to fix my clock."

Men Kill Two Deer East Of Bonarlaw

BONARLAW, Nov. 20—(ENS)—When Bert Anderson was going to cut wood east of Bonarlaw Saturday morning, a few rods east of Highway 14, on the farm of Thomas Prest, he noticed two deer.

Not having his rifle along, he hurried to the home of Sandy Romborough and the two men got rifles and hastened back to find the deer, still grazing peacefully. They both fired and got one. Mr. Anderson had spent several days in the north country hunting but had not seen any on that trip.

Americans Seek News Deal

MORGANTOWN, W.Va., Nov. 20 (AP)—The United States has decided to open discussions with other nations looking toward international agreements on world freedom of news exchange, Paul Miller, assistant general manager of the Associated Press and chief of the Washington Bureao, said Saturday in remarks prepared for a luncheon of the West Virginia state newspaper council.

Mr. Miller said the American government's aim to undertake exploratory talks with other countries was outlined to him by Acting Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, who authorized making it public here Saturday.

"I believe it is possible," Mr. Miller aded, "that the subject of international news freedom will appear on the agenda of the United Nations conference which American officials hope will be held early in 1945."

Both the Republican and Democratic party platforms for 1944 include planks favoring international compacts to foster the unhindered interchange of news among all countries. Congress unanimously endorsed the same idea in a resolution. Such agreements long have been urged by Kent Cooper, executive director and general manager of the Associated Press, as one means of helping prevent future wars.

Mounties Investigate Acts Say Sabotage Non-Existent

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL—Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Nov. 21—(CP).—The Royal Canadian Mounted Police have been called upon to investigate many cases of suspected sabotage in Canada, but they have yet to find any evidence of enemy-directed acts, the RCMP annual report disclosed today. The report, covering activities during the year ended last March 31, said that during the 12-month period 219 suspected sabotage cases, including many fires in army and air force training centres, were investigated but "no evidence of enemy activity could be obtained."

"A decision was consequently reached that the great number of fires reported was due to the relaxation of security measures and the actions of disgruntled personnel," the report said.

A steady decline was noticed in cases of damage to machinery, which undoubtedly was attributable to the increased skill of industrial workers.

"In general, there is no evidence of enemy-directed acts of destruction, all instances being the direct result of carelessness, malice, spite or prank. The effectiveness of our anti-sabotage work cannot be gauged by the number of individuals prosecuted or convicted; the only test is the absence of sabotage.

"Much credit for the lack of sabotage is due to the Veterans' Guard, the auxiliary constables and other organizations whose members have performed the monotonous duty of guarding bridges, canal locks, power lines and other vulnerable points in a very capable manner.

Besides checking reports of enemy activity, the R.C.M.P. were kept busy preventing some Canadians from harming the war effort through black market dealings.

Gasoline Worst.

Of all the black market offences, those dealing with rationing of gasoline have been by far the most prevalent, said the report. Falling within the category were trafficking in loose coupons, counterfeiting of coupons, and the wholesale theft of coupons as the result of breaking and entering the premises of wholesale oil distributors.

Metz Practically Cleaned Out

By LEWIS HAWKING
Associated Press War Correspondent

METZ, Nov. 21 (AP)—American troops have eliminated all large-scale organized resistance in Metz, but it appeared today there may be no formal surrender of the famous fortress city for lack of a German commander to effect it.

Remnants of the garrison still clung to two islands in the city and five fortress groups continued firing as the German commander within the northern enemy pocket ignored a surrender ultimatum.

Maj.-Gen. Anton Duncker, elite guard commander in Metz, was captured by U.S. 3rd Army forces yesterday and the real battle was over by nightfall last night.

The Volkssturme defence inside Metz turned out to be a farce despite the presence of several hundred German officers and men who, with the assistance of the Gestapo, were supposed to goad the home guard into bitter house to house fighting.

In the First Great War American troops came within reach of the fortress guns of Metz shortly before the armistice.

In the present war Metz fell to the Germans June 17, 1940, while France lay crushed.

Confidence Vote Given Minister

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., Nov. 21—(CP).—A public meeting here last night passed a resolution expressing "complete confidence" in Defence Minister McNaughton and pledging him united backing in any course he may deem necessary to adopt.

The resolution recommended that all home defence troops be urged to go active without delay on the basis of free appeal and that a spirit of discrimination between volunteers and home defence soldiers be discouraged.

In an address to the meeting, Bruce Mickelburgh, Labor Progressive candidate for Skeena Federal constituency, said the campaign for conscription is being waged by reactionary elements who seek to divide Canada, overthrow the present government and seize control themselves.

Army Officers Repudiate Plan

OTTAWA, Nov. 21 — (CP). — Defence Minister McNaughton said today that until he had "full knowledge of all the facts and circumstances" he could make no comment on statements in Vancouver last night by a group of high-ranking officers of the 6th Division that the voluntary system of overseas enlistment would not work.

Gen. McNaughton said in a statement that he expected to receive a "full report" on the officers' statements, made at a press conference, during the day.

Cigarette Prices Soaring
Shortage In England Annoys Soldiers

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(CP).—The halting of cigaret sales at all United States army post exchanges in England except at air force combat stations led the army newspaper Stars and Stripes to-day to demand an answer from Washington "to the question which is in the mind of every G.I. smoker—where are the cigaretes?"

The army said a critical shortage and priorities for combat forces on the continent caused the ban on sales. Hospital patients and combat personnel will still be able to smoke their favorite brands from home.

British cigarets cost about 50 cents for a package of 20. Tommies are rationed 45 English cigarets a week.

In Paris Allied Supreme Headquarters promised a report on the cigaret situation in the French capital and many other rear areas, where U.S. soldiers were also told they could get no cigarets. American cigarets were selling on the Paris black market at $4 per package.

Record Fleet Batters Oil Factories
2,350 U.S. Planes Hit Oil Plants To Cripple Army

LONDON, Nov. 21—(CP).—A record fleet of more than 1,100 American fighter craft destroyed at least 52 German planes today while the 1,250 heavy bombers they were escorting plunged 4,000 tons of explosives onto three zealously guarded synthetic oil plants

Ths plants were at Hamburg and nearby Harburg and Merseburg, 100 miles southwest of Berlin. More than 1,100 fighter bombers guarded the heavyweights from Nazi interceptors.

The record attack on the industry needed urgently to keep Germany's hard-pressed armies on the move came while six Allied armies pressed their offensive on the Western front.

It was the first time all three divisions of the U.S. 8th Air Force had gone to the Continent since last Thursday when they carpet-bombed German positions minutes before the American 9th and 1st Armies.

More than 100 Mosquitos of the R.A.F. bomber command — many packing two-ton blockbusters — hit Hanover twice last night. Clouds obscured the target, but bombardiers reported that flashes of the exploding bombs were well within pathfinder flares.

The second attack followed the first by five hours.

R.A.F. Lancasters also bombed Coblenz, at the confluence of the Moselle and the Rhine, during the night.

Yesterday the 8th Air Force attacked a Gelsenkirchen oil plant and the Munster railroad yards, and 9th Air Force fighter-bombers flew 80 sorties in support of front-line troops, mostly between the U.S. 3rd Army and the Saar industrial area. Forty locomotives, 157 freight cars and 24 trucks or other motor vehicles were destroyed or damaged. Four planes were lost.

The Mediterranean Allied air forces flew approximately 1,800 sorties yesterday, from which 27 aircraft are missing. These included attacks by strong forces of heavy bombers on an oil refinery at Blechhammer in Upper Silesia.

Other heavy and fighter bombers of the strategic air force hit railroad targets in Yugoslavia.

Longevity Record

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 — (AP).—The longevity boast of the class of '84 of Amherst College which recently announced that 23 of 101 members are still living has been challenged by Charles H. Smith who says that 32 out of 114 of his class of '85 are still living. "And there is still one kid," he adds, "who isn't 80 years old yet."

Canadians Must Understand Overseas Men

OTTAWA, Nov. 21 (CP)—Back from a tour of European battlefronts, Joseph W. G. Clark, director-in-chief of Public Relations of the armed forces, said in an interview here last night that Canadians at home would do well to prepare themselves mentally for understanding returning war veterans.

"Some of them have been away six Christmases," he said. "They have mingled with the fighting men of other countries, they have travelled half the globe, they have faced death and they have learned to make great decisions.

"They are used to close comradeships—many of which are international and inter-Empire in scope —and they don't understand narrow and parochial mentalities.

Citizens of the World

"In truth they are citizens of the world with broad horizons and we must be prepared to bring ourselves up to their level when they return. That is the understanding they will rightly expect."

He spoke for the great thirst for hometown news he noticed throughout his tour. Through the "splendid co-operation" of The Canadian Press in publishing the Canadian Press News for distribution in all theatres, through the army newspaper Maple Leaf and through the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the men at the front are being given a good service of news from Canada.

"But they can't seem to get enough news of the neighborhood type and they all ask the same question—'why don't the folks at home fill in the little interesting details we want to know and why don't they write more often?'"

Interested In Home

"Just because they've been away a long time, their friends at home shouldn't get the idea they are no longer interested in little items of neighborly news and gossip—about changes such as the new grocery store or new paving on Green street

Speculation On New Archbishop

LONDON, Nov. 21 (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill soon will recommend to the King a successor to the Archbishop of Canterbury, and London speculated today that the new prelate would be the Rt. Rev. Geoffrey Francis Fisher, now Bishop of London.

Among other possible successors to the late Archbishop (Dr. William Temple) are the Archbishop of York and the Bishops of Winchester and Chichester.

Reds Squeeze 300,000 In Latvia Trap
Close Escape Routes Near Miskolc 5th Hungarian City

LONDON, Nov. 21 —(CP)—Red Army troops closed in today on northern escape routes for enemy troops rolled back to the outskirts of Miskolc, Hungary's fifth city, as the Germans declared the Russians had opened their winter offensive far to the north against 300,000 Nazis pocketed in western Latvia.

Late front reports said a German withdrawal from Miskolc appeared imminent. Escape routes to the east and west of Miskolc, 85 miles northeast of besieged Budapest, already were cut.

One Red Army column had battled to the outskirts of Eger, 22 miles southwest of Miskolc, Russian front dispatches said.

Another Soviet armored unit which had rolled through Diosgyor, three miles west of Miskolc and within 20 miles of the pre-war Czechoslovakian frontier, veered north to grapple for a hold on road and rail communicatoins between Miskolc and the rail hub of Losonc (Lucenec) on the Slovak border.

Units of Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 2nd Ukraine Army plunged into the southern outskirts of Miskolc with the capture of Csaba and Szirma, less than one and two miles south and southeast of the city

Berlin reports on the Latvian offensive said the Russians had thrown huge infantry, tank, plane and artillery forces against the Germans on a 30-mile front near Leipaja, one of the two Baltic escape ports left to the Nazis.

The German accounts said the Russians had ripped holes in the Axis lines in violent fighting entering its third day, but claimed counter-attacks had nullified the Red Army gains.

Name Earl Rowe

ALLISTON, Ont., Nov. 21 (CP)—Hon W. Earl Rowe was nominated last night as Progressive Conservative candidate in the next Federal election in Dufferin-Simcoe riding, the seat he now holds. Mr. Rowe, a former federal cabinet minister and former Ontario Conservative leader, said he intends to urge at the session of parliament this week that draftees be sent overseas as reinforcements.

80 Superforts Hit Jap Homeland

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP).—Superfortresses in heavy strength hit the Japanese homeland island of Kyushu again today.

Gen. H. H. Arnold, as commanding general of the 20th Air Force, made the brief announcement with the promise of more information, as to results and possible losses of any of the big bombers, "when further details are available."

The first report said merely that "a large task force of B-29 aircraft" attacked industrial targets on Kyushu, the mission being carried out from China bases by the 20th Bomber command.

On previous B-29 raids against Kyushu, the big aircraft centre of Omura was the primary target. Omura was hit hard Oct. 25 and Nov. 11 the B-29s returned to destroy all the centre's structures left standing.

Kyushu is the most southern of the Japanese homeland islands.

NAMED GENERAL—Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, commander of the 1st Canadian Army, has been promoted to Full General, the second Canadian to achieve that rank since war broke out. He is 56 years of age.

Crerar Becomes Full General First In Field

LONDON, Nov. 21 —(CP Cable)—Announcement came today from Canadian military headquarters in London that Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, 56-year-old commander of the 1st Canadian Army, has been raised to the rank of acting general and that two other high-ranking officers also have been promoted.

(In Ottawa, National Defence Headquarters announced that the army commander was given the permanent rank of general.)

Gen. Crerar thus become the first Canadian to attain the rank of general in the field. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, formerly commander of the 1st Canadian Army and now defence minister in the government of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, was promoted from lieutenant-general recently on his retirement from the army. Sir Arthur Currie, who commanded the Canadian corps during the final stages of the First Great War, was made a general after the war ended.

In the other promotions, Maj.-Gen. Charles Foulkes of London, Ont., commander of the 2nd Canadian Division, was made acting Lieutenant-general, and Brig. A. B. Matthews, D.S.O. of London, Ont., commander of the Royal Artillery of the 1st Canadian Division, was made acting major-general.

C.M.H.Q. said the promotions were considered particular marks of distinction for the outstanding successes of the Canadian Army in the European campaigns in the west and in Italy.

The announcement of the promotions said Gen. Crerar's "skilful leadership of the 1st Canadian Army in the campaign through northern France, Belgium and Holland has contributed greatly to the successes achieved by the armies of the Allied nations."

Took Over in March

Gen. Crerar became army commander last March, taking over from Lt.-Gen. Kenneth Stuart who himself succeeded Gen. McNaughton in December, 1943.

It has been widely stated that the French Enter Mulhouse City After Belfort Break Allied Pace Gaining Speed

British Nearing Roer River In North Last Natural Barrier Before Rhine River In Front Of Cologne

By WILLIAM FRYE—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 21—(AP).—French armor swinging north up the Rhine reached the outskirts of Mulhouse today—perhaps already had entered the industrial city of 97,000 — in swift exploitation of the Belfort break-through, which undercut the whole collapsing German stand in the Vosges. Farther north the Germans were falling back toward Strasbourg and Saarbrucken behind weakening rearguard resistance officially described as disorganized.

Belfort, by-passed city guarding the Rhine, was captured, Gen. Eisenhower disclosed in calling for ever-increasing pressure until victory.

Six Allied armies were putting on the pressure at quickening pace.

At the north end of the front, beyond Aachen, British and American armies had cut through fierce German opposition to within some three miles of the Roer River, the last natural defence barrier short of the Rhine near Cologne.

British troops in southeastern Holland were eliminating the Nazis from the west banks of the Maas before Venlo, a gate to the Ruhr.

The U.S. 7th and 3rd Armies, swarming eastward in the other blade of a French-American scissors, hit into broken Nazi resistance described officially as sporadic and disorganized.

Berlin said 7th Army troops had broken into Saarebourg, a rail-highway junction 32 miles from the Rhine. Armor of the 3rd Army farther north wheeled deeper into the Saar basin.

An unconfirmed Swiss report said the French were attempting to bridge the Rhine southeast of Mulhouse. An assault was reported under way on Mulhouse itself.

Gain Steadily.

In the battle area east and northeast of Aachen, the British 2nd and U.S. 1st and 9th Armies pushed their lines slowly toward Cologne—approximately 26 miles beyond the American vanguards—and the Rhine against increasingly furious German resistance marked by tank-led counter-attacks which slowed but failed to stop the Allied drive to crack Germany's strongest defences.

Five fortress groups at Metz continued firing after the German commander within the enemy-held northern portion of the French fortress city ignored an ultimatum to surrender.

A two-mile advance on the U.S. 3rd Army wing east of Metz carried Lt.-Gen. Patton's men to points eight to 12 miles south of the Saar frontier. Third Army troops entered the old Maginot Line defences north of Faulquemont, 20 miles

Searchers Fail To Locate Missing Hunter

Encouraged by what are believed to have been definite signs that the missing hunter is still alive, search parties this morning resumed the hunt for Arthur W. Nelson, Peterborough man who has been lost in the bush in the vicinity of Serpentine Lake since Saturday morning.

Up to three o'clock this afternoon no trace had been found of the missing hunter, and a phone call to Apsley revealed more hunters and settlers are joining in the search.

Thirty-five or 40 hunters and settlers, all experienced men in the woods engaged in the search all day Monday and although the missing man was not located three different indications that were reported through the day gave reason for hoping that today's combing of the area may locate the missing man.

First hopeful sign was the fact that yesterday morning a shot was heard from the direction of Stick Lake, west of the Bancroft Highway and about seven miles north of Apsley. It was known that all the hunting parties were out of that

Gen. Eisenhower Lauds Canadians

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS Paris, Nov. 21 —(CP)—From the Allied Supreme Commander, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, today came high praise of the work of the 1st Canadian and British 2nd Armies at the northern end of the Allied line which preceded the present new offensive.

These operations covered the clearing of the Schelde Estuary to open the great port of Antwerp for Allied shipping.

"Walcheren Island (in the Schelde Estuary) was one of the most gallant actions of this war," he said. "The navy really deserves great kudos. The Canadian and British Armies did a splendid and aggressive piece of work in clearing up the areas at that end of the line."

For the Canadians, the Schelde campaign covered three sectors—the German-held pocket south of the estuary, bounded on the south by the Leopold Canal; the mainland sector extending northward from Antwerp's dock area to Bergen Op Zoom; and the Schelde Estuary islands of South Beveland, North Beveland and Walcheren.

Liquor Regulations Cannot Be Enforced

WINDSOR, Nov. 21 — (CP). — It would take a Gestapo to enforce present Canadian Liquor regulations, Attorney-General Leslie Blackwell of Ontario said last night in an address at the 60th Anniversary dinner of the Essex County Law Association.

Wartime regulations, though essential, were not considered necessary by a part of the population and hence were only partially enforceable by accepted methods, Mr. Blackwell said.

Eisenhower Attack Difficult To Meet
Wily Allied Leader Has Huns Shifting Troops At Many Vital Points

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

We are taking our text today from the Eisenhower communique which says that Allied troops on the Cologne plain east of the captured Geilenkirchen "are meeting fierce enemy resistance."

With cities, towns and hamlets falling like tenpins in various sectors, and Allied forces making sensational advances, we are in danger of slipping into the over-optimistic class again. Optimism is warranted, for things are going well, but we shall be smart to stick with facts.

The Geilenkirchen-Aachen sector, opposite Cologne and Germany's all-important Ruhr industrial centre, is the crucial zone of the moment along the erupting 400-mile battlefront. Gen. Eisenhower is employing great striking power there in an effort to break through to the Rhine, and naturally that's where the Nazis have concentrated all the strength they can spare from their depleted forces.

Promising Route

Of course, this doesn't necessarily mean the Allies won't achieve a break-through at some other point or points. However, it's the most promising route into Hitlerdom and as such is being exploited.

Now in order to meet the terrific pressure on this strategic sector the Nazis have been compelled to withdraw troops and equipment from other sectors which are less vital. They just haven't the soldiers to man their entire front adequately, and many of the forces which they do have are scrapings of their manpower and are being sacrificed as cannon fodder.

This shifting of German troops was exactly what Eisenhower figured on, and his army commanders are taking advantage of his successful tactics Thus we see spectacular Allied gains at points which we had come to regard as inland Gibraltars, and in fact would be if held in full strength. The Nazis have been forced to fall back at numerous places abandoning powerful positions. Some of the sensational gains have been due in part to the fact that the enemy was retreating to fresh defences.

That in no way detracts from the magnificent work done by the pursuing Allies, for it has taken bloody fighting and superb leadership to oust the Germans from these strongholds and drive them into retreat. However, we should recognize that he who runs away lives to fight another day, and the Nazis who are retreating still must be dealt with further back. Let's not get into the frame of mind of some folk back at the time of the German retreat from Normandy, when wishful thinkers were saying the war would be over in three weeks.

C.C.F. Won't Be Stampeded
Says Reinforcement Issue Should Be Debated

HAMILTON, Nov. 21.—(CP).—E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario leader of the C.C.F., said in an address to a party nomination meeting at nearby Cayuga last night that the C.C.F. refuses to be stampeded by either the Liberals or Conservatives on the reinforcement issue and there would be no "hasty judgment" by any spokesman of the C.C.F.

"It is to be hoped that when the House of Commons meets on Wednesday Prime Minister Mackenzie King and his Minister of Defence will place before the members all the facts relating to the reinforcement situation overseas and the situation here in Canada," he said. "We believe the main issue ought to be debated openly so that the public may know where each party stands, and their reasons."

Mr. Jolliffe also said: "This question of reinforcements ought to be decided without regard to partisan advantage. The men overseas are entitled to expect adequate reinforcements and it is the duty of Members of Parliament to decide how best to meet the need."

Big 3 Meeting Unlikely In '44

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—(AP).— Plans for an early meeting of Messrs. Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin appear to have changed and the best prospect now is for a parley early in 1945.

The whole schedule of post-war conferences and world peace organization evidently is having to be revised in consequence. It may have to be moved two or three months into the future, which probably would mean a United Nations' gathering on the Dumbarton Oaks security plan next spring rather than in the winter.

Exactly what has happened to the projected big-three meeting before the end of this year is not certain. But presumably the way in which the European war is having to be fought full-scale into the winter and the probability now that it will last into next spring has had a lot to do with it.

All three leaders, as President Roosevelt told reporters a few days ago, wanted to have the conference. And Mr. Roosevelt emphasized his desire for it by saying he thought it took priority over his invitation to visit Paris. Prime Minister Churchill told parliament it was "high time" the trio should get together again.

From what they said it was clear that Premier Stalin had expressed similar views. But Mr. Stalin is tied to the Eastern front in a way that Messrs. Churchill and Roosevelt are not tied down in the West.

Officials here say that at such a time it is highly unlikely that Mr. Stalin would leave Russia. It seems equally unlikely, despite recent speculation there, that Mr. Roosevelt would agree to make the long and arduous journey to Moscow.

Kyushu Island Plants Blasted

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 — (AP). — The huge Omura aircraft factory on the southernmost Japanese home island of Kyushu was blasted for the third time today by B-29 Superfortresses.

Adverse weather diverted part of the mission, operating in large force, resulting in two other strikes — one at the docks of Nanking and the other at Shanghai against military storage and trans-shipment facilities.

A 20th airforce communique said 20 attacking Japanese planes were destroyed together with 16 probably destroyed and 19 damaged in the course of the operation. It was the first time a B-29 mission had encountered fighter plane opposition in strength.

It is too early to determine whether the American force suffered any losses, the communique said.

present offensive in the west was possible largely because the Canadians succeeded in clearing the coast of France, Belgium and southern Holland thus opening up vital ports and clearing a way for the use of Antwerp, the most valuable port.

Reviewing the Canadian army campaign in western Europe, C.M.H.Q. said that from the assault beaches in Normandy, the Canadians advanced to the Caen sector where the Germans decided to put up a desperate stand. As the Canadians ground ahead, using novel tactics, the British 2nd Army and Lt.-Gen. Omar Bradley's American forces used Caen as a hinge for the trap which was fashioned for the German 7th Army in the Caen-Falaise pocket.

Gen. Crerar then ordered a new attack to help liquidate this pocket and open the way to the lower Seine.

Then the Canadian Army was given a new outstanding job—winning the channel ports so that men and materials could be hastened to the front. They pushed along the coast, rolling up the west wall as they went.

They captured Le Havre, Dieppe, Boulogne, Calais and the entire Pas de Calais area, liberating southeast England from long-range gunfire and from robot bombs, excepting the few fired from aircraft.

Finally Gen. Crerar's troops, including British, Polish, Netherlands, Belgian, Czech and American units, were ordered to take control of the Schelde Estuary, which developed into a dirty month-long nightmare battle in bad weather and over flooded terrain. Casualties were heavy but finally the German 64th and 70th divisions were smashed and the Estuary was in Allied hands.

Eisenhower Speeds Action Calls For More Supplies

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Paris, Nov. 21 — (AP).—Gen. Eisenhower declared today his plan for future operations is to increase pressure steadily all along the Western front until the Germans are crushed. To do this, greater supplies are necessary, the Supreme Commander of the Western front said.

"I want more supplies than we are getting and I think the soldier wants more than he is getting, both now and in the future," he said.

"To get peace, we have got to fight like hell for it," the commander said, "now let's do it."

Eisenhower appeared fit as ever after a tour of all parts of the fighting zone, and said he was especially happy over the French 1st Army break-through to the Rhine.

"No single instance has pleased me so much in a long while as the captures of Belfort by the gallant French army and its reaching the Rhine," Eisenhower said.

The General told correspondents that his plans were to hit and hammer the Germans with increasing pressure, reaching its peak on the day the Nazis finally surrender.

"Unless everyone all the way through the nations—those at the front and those at home—keep on the job everlastingly and with mounting intensity, we are only postponing the day of victory," Eisenhower declared.

"The very maximum effort must be made on the day of surrender."

The general said he had received reports the French had pushed north into the outskirts of Mulhouse and beyond the city but he thought the Germans could pull out their southern flank there without much loss, except in prestige.

There were no signs of a crack in German morale.

Eisenhower declined to make any prediction as to when the war would end and said his call for an all-out effort both at the front and at home was his "prescription for victory."

He said the weather had prevented a full effort in the air in the current offensive but added:—

"One thing that continues to grow to my intense satisfaction is the teamwork between the ground forces, navies and air forces."

He said that while he saw no sign yet of a German crackup, the Germans were human beings like other people and if confronted by failure after failure of their armed forces, they would inevitably crack. It is the Allied job, he said, to confront the Germans with more and more of these failures.

In asking for more supplies, the general made it clear that he was not criticizing the efforts of the home fronts in Allied countries up to now, but simply stating that more material would be needed as still greater numbers of soldiers are committed to battle.

He said he was convinced that Allied peoples at home are one with the armies in determination that the enemy shall be given no minute of rest.

southwest of Saarbrucken, and took Lelling 9½ miles from the Saar border.

Capture Dieuze

Dieuze, 30 miles southeast of Metz, was captured. The 3rd Army had patrols at Insviller, 10 miles northeast of Dieuze.

The 10th armored division which drove into the Saar—a major German iron and coal region—has deepened its penetration of Germany to three miles in the Merzig area. This division encountered heavy enemy fire from east of the Saar River.

Twelve miles to the northwest mechanized cavalry units prowled five miles into Germany up the Moselle River valley, ancient gateway to the Rhineland.

British troops beat off two counter-attacks and punched deeper into the Siegfried defences, reaching the outskirts of Wurm, 3½ miles northeast of Geilenkirchen. Farther north, other units of the British 2nd Army were rapidly completing the job of clearing the enemy out of the Maas bulge in Southeastern Holland, meeting almost no opposition as they neared Venlo.

Gain 1½ Miles

The Germans threw 20 to 30 tanks against U.S. 9th Army units at Schleiden, seven miles southeast of captured Geilenkirchen, but Lt.-Gen. Simpson's men repulsed this blow and advanced 1½ miles northeast capturing Aldenhoven on the road to Julich, three miles away. Julich is a bastion on the Roer river, a strong natural defence barrier before the Rhine. Earlier the 9th Army breached a formidable 10-mile-long German anti-tank ditch.

The 9th Army also captured Freialdenhoven, Gereonswiler, Nedermerz and Ungershaugen.

On the 9th's right, the U.S. 1st Army hacked new gains out of the stubbornly-defended enemy positions, and captured the village of Wenau on the edge of the Hurtgen Forest. Heavy fighting was reported in the outskirts of Eschweiler.

South of the Rhine-Marne Canal, forward units of the U.S. 7th Army had been reported speeding toward Saarebourg from the Blamont area, punching through spotty rearguard resistance to points only five miles from the key rail and highway junction.

The 7th pushed eastward in the Blamont region also in pursuit of German troops falling back so rapidly they did not take time to plant the usual minefields. In the Vosges, a three-mile advance against stiffer resistance brought 7th Army troops into the approaches of the Shirmeck Pass as they captured the village of La Trouche, east of Vadonviller. Farther south, other units captured Anould, within two miles of Fraise and the entrance to the Bonhomme Pass, leading to Colmar.

Pour in Troops

The French 1st Army was pouring heavy forces into its expanding positions in the Rhine Valley. Altkirch and several other towns were captured as these units closed in on Mulhouse. There was no Allied confirmation of Swiss reports that the French were attempting to bridge the Rhine itself for an attack on the Siegfried Line near Kemb, three milesnorth of the enemy fortress of Istein.

Bad weather hampered air operations in support of the ground offensive yesterday, but the Allied communique reported fighter-bomber attacks on enemy transportation and troops between Merzig and St. Die.

Stock Market Prices Higher

TORONTO, Nov. 21.— (CP). — Prices were higher for the industrial, gold and western oil stocks in the early session while the base metals were down slightly in the index on Toronto exchange to-day. Turnover was fairly light at 272,000 shares for the first three hours.

The Yellowknife group led in the advance of the gold stocks. Giant at 8.50 was up 55 cents, Frobisher at 5.90 was up 40 cents, Bear at 1.68 was up 14, Negus at 1.18 was up 3 and Conwest had a small gain.

Most industrial groups, including the utilities, liquors, foods, steels and papers, did better. The 7 per cent pfd. Abitibi gained 2 to 1.22 and the 6 per cent pfd. was down a point.

He said that lessons learned in the earlier phases of the war had been used "to telling effect" in the interests of war correspondents now at the front.

"I'm convinced that the story of the war is being fully and accurately told by the war correspondents and some small share of the credit goes to the Public Relations Services," he added.

Correspondents attached to the Canadian forces had made no serious complaints and "seem happy" with the Canadian Public Relations set-up although they had been critical of other organizations. The correspondents told him they were especially satisfied with facilities such as those provided by conducting officers and those for transmission.

691,989 Prisoners Taken Since D-Day

LONDON, Nov. 21 — (CP). — Allied armies on the Western Front have captured at least 691,989 prisoners since D-Day, June 6, the equivalent of 69 German divisions as presently constituted.

Latest announced totals showed today:

1st Canadian Army 95,132.
British 2nd Army 94,794.
French forces of interior and British and Canadian armies 20,000.
U.S. 1st Army 200,138.
U.S. 3rd Army 117,400.
U.S. 7th Army 50,916.
U.S. 9th Army 55,670.
French 1st Army 57,939.

Civil Authority For Flying To Be Set Up

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, Nov. 21. — (CP). — Establishment of an international civil aviation authority seemed assured today with the release of an Anglo-Canadian - American agreement on a partial draft convention, but powers of the proposed authority remained subject of further debate.

The partial draft, made public here late last night after delegates of the three countries had labored for 10 days in apparent deadlock, is expected to be studied at a plenary session of the international civil aviation conference of 54 countries not later than tomorrow.

Meanwhile the three countries who thus reported progress, continue to grapple with the controversial question of free competition advocated by the United States, and controlled allocation of routes and frequencies demanded by British authorities and to a lesser degree by the Canadians.

Representatives of all three countries took satisfaction from the partial draft, but the important fact from the Canadian standpoint was that it recognizes the necessity of an international authority.

A Treaty

The draft convention, which is expected to take the form of a treaty, proposes to set up "the international air administration" with an assembly of member nation representatives, a president and board of 14 directors, and such other bodies as may be necessary.

Its preamble declares the principle that international aviation "be developed on the basis of equality of opportunity and that international air transport services may be established and operated soundly and economically."

To that end it declares as one of its aims the prevention of "economic waste caused by unreasonable competition."

This is taken as an acceptance of the idea that countries wasted by war and otherwise unprepared may be provided with an opportunity to participate in international civil aviation when they are able to do so.

U.S. Could Dominate

Without such a principle the United States, well prepared and equipped, could enter at once into all fields of international aviation and pre-empt the field.

Canadian and British delegates saw United States adherence to these principles a partial acceptance of their plea that world aviation be not thrown into the confusion of unbridled competition.

There is provision for supervision of rates by the board with due regard to the class and quality of service provided, costs of operation, subsidies paid, speed and through operation as compared with local services.

But there is no authority to impose such rates except such authority as a member state may possess, over operators within such states, which refuse to abide by an order of the board.

Left undecided also was the question of the "freedoms" of the air, the extent to which carriers may operate in a country outside the state of its origin, and between states over which it may fly.

The proposed board of directors will include the president elected by the whole assembly, and 14 members of which seven will automatically come from the seven countries of chief importance in aviation.

Those countries are expected to be Canada, the United Kingdom, the United States, Soviet Russia, France, the Netherlands, and possibly China.

Decision as to importance will depend on internal flying as well as external, which lets in Russia which has virtually no external aviation.

The second seven members of the board will be selected by the assembly with due respect for geographical coverage which would seem to ensure Australia and India a place and thus give British countries four seats — which is expected to cause some protests.

1,600 investigators, including 569 in Ontario and 374 in Quebec. A total of 165 cases, including 71 in Ontario and 40 in Quebec, of reported infractions against tire and tube regulations also were investigated.

"The trafficking of coupons has developed into a large scale racket in the larger centres, especially in Eastern Canada, and recently we have taken special steps in this matter," said the report. "A number of investigations into the illegal trafficking of tires and tubes have been conducted, but these offences are not as numerous as those concerning gasoline.

"A recent trend, particularly in eastern Canada, has been the sale of second-hand automobiles over the ceiling price. Heavy fines have been imposed where convictions have been obtained."

In Western Canada a number of cases of counterfeit coupons were brought to light.

City Planner

GUELPH, Nov. 21 — (CP). — Adopting a recommendation of the post-war planning commission, the Guelph City Council last night appointed Gordon Culham of Toronto as town planner. Mr. Culham's duties will be to provide the city with a complete layout of the municipality with recommendations as to what districts should be considered industrial areas and which residential and business.

Nazis Secure Hitler's Will

LONDON, Nov. 21 — (CP). — The Daily Sketch said today that "according to information received by two diplomatic sources here the Nazi party now is in possession of Hitler's will — and this indicates Hitler is dead."

The will, the Sketch added, leaves all Hitler's property and business assets to the Nazi party and disinherits his relatives.

"Hitler's main estate is his interest in the Eher Verlag, the publishing firm which made a vast fortune out of 'Mein Kampf'. His only property in land, which is Berchtesgaden, also goes to the party," said the paper.

Searchers Fail

district and a checkup of the members of the search parties revealed that none of them had fired his rifle during the morning so that the shot was regarded as almost sure indication that Nelson was somewhere in that neighborhood.

From the same section also came a report from a settler that yesterday he heard some shouting. At the time he paid little attention to it, believing it to have been done by some of the searchers but when the party came in from the trail Monday night, it was found that there had been no shouting on their part, as they were working close together as they carefully scoured the bushland for signs of Nelson.

Another report did not reach the searchers until after noon yesterday was that a fire had been noticed in the direction of Stick Lake Sunday night.

With all three items of information coming from the same neighborhood, the search party proposed to move their activities today to the Stick Lake country which is some five to eight miles away from the place Nelson was last seen on Saturday morning.

Two or three inches of snow fell Monday and although it did not add to the comfort of the searchers it was welcome. "If he moves around much we are almost sure to run across his tracks somewhere in the snow" one of the searchers said to The Examiner Monday night.

An attempt was made to have a plane fly over the Apsley neighborhood last night in the hope that if the missing man lighted a fire the observer in the air would spot it. However weather conditions prevented the use of the aircraft.

HOW TO RELIEVE
PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-roid and are not entirely pleased with the results your druggist will gladly return your money —(Advt.)

London Rejoices Lights Come On

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(AP).— For the first time in more than five years of blackout London rejoices in the next best thing to full pre-war street lighting — a monglow that enables pedestrians to make their way about most of the capital without flashlights.

This modified kind of lighting came on for the first time last night. Crowds were noisily appreciative.

An attempt was made in late September to change over from the blackout to a dimout but the result was so cautious and confused that Londoners benefitted only slightly. In numerous other cities and towns, however, uniform bright lighting was restored almost to pre-war brilliance.

The chief official explanation of the September dim-out failure in London was that too much of the electrical equipment was worn out and that many shopkeepers and householders lacked the proper material. The new rules also permitted window lights to show.

Reserve Judgment

Japs Wiped Out

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP). — Australian Beaufighters, making their first rocket attack in the South Pacific, have wiped out Japanese headquarters in Portuguese Timor, the Australian Information Bureau said yesterday.

Raging Typhoon Slows Armies

GEN MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Nov. 21—(AP)—The battle of Leyte had almost ground to a typhoon-soaked stop today while Manila recovered from its fourth major American air raid of the month.

On Leyte, the typhoon took precedence over efforts of both sides on the swaying battle line.

Only in the air was there spectacular activity. There, 35 enemy fighters and dive bombers raided American positions, losing seven aircraft to air patrols and ground fire. American aircraft countered with attacks on Japanese communications lines, supply areas and waterfront targets near Ormoc.

United States carrier planes hit Manila again Saturday, damaged airfields, set blazes flaring on three merchant ships and destroyed 118 Japanese planes. Most of these were on the ground. Only 10 enemy planes were shot down in the Manila area and another eight near the fleet carriers.

At Limon on Leyte, the Japanese continued their last-ditch efforts to hold a confused and disconnected line on the crests of ridges overlooking the Ormoc corridor.

Elements of the Japanese 1st Division, cut off by the American road block south of the town, were still calling for help; and Gen. Yamashita sent tanks and automatic weapons to try to blast a way through to it. Gen. MacArthur's communique said, however, that the road block "is holding firmly under heavy attack."

Think, Before You Vote

While the proposed contributions from the City Trust and Utilities Commission appear to be generous, bear in mind that all this money came from the citizens of Peterborough in the first place, and would be returned to them in due course.

Strictly speaking, therefore, the sum of $300,000.00 from the Trust, and $50,000.00 from the Commission, should be added to the $600,000.00, and interest, it is now proposed to obtain from the city taxpayer. And almost one half of this is for the benefit of patients from outside the city.

Remember this when you vote on the new hospital by-law.

Bomber Riddled With Flak WO. Lobb Recalls

NORWOOD, Nov. 21.—(ENS). — Norwood's first young airman to come home after completing tour of operations overseas is WO.2 Wellington Lobb. He has been with the R.C.A.F. since August, 1942, going overseas a year later.

The flier has made 50 flights over France and Belgium. He acted as air gunner in a Mitchell bomber (a medium bomber) and their job was to bomb railroad centres and railroad bridges.

They were successful in bombing the fortress at Caen out of existence. He explained this fortress had been converted from a steel factory, and Namur was another place they visited. Each bomber had a crew of four men. The other three with WO.2 Lobb were New Zealanders.

The flak from the anti-aircraft guns often made 200 or 300 holes in their bomber and only once did they come in contact with a German plane. Fighters give good protection to bombers WO. Lobb declared. When asked what he liked to see most of all over there he said the white cliffs of Dover when returning from a bombing raid.

Lorna Johnson and Murray Thomas were the Norwood boys he saw a short time before coming home. On the boat coming across the passengers were mostly American invalids.

Before going overseas he took his training at Jarvis and Trenton and received his wings at MacDonald, Man. His operational training unit was stationed in Nova Scotia, which is a good place to prepare for England as there is much fog. He received his diploma from the Norwood High school and was active on the school hockey team and worked on his father's farm before going overseas.

WO.2 Lobb is interested in going to Burma or India in the Pacific theatre of war.

Held For Driving

COBOURG, Nov. 21 — (ENS) — Harry Giddings appeared in police court Monday on a careless driving charge laid by Provincial Constable R. Pollard, of Port Hope. The charge was adjourned until November 27. It was laid following a motor accident a few miles east of here on November 10.

Didn't Take Long

CALGARY, Nov 21 (CP) — Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald yesterday reserved judgment in Supreme Court in a divorce action of a couple who were married on the morning of May 22, 1939, at the Calgary Registrar's office, the couple visited a Calgary law firm that afternoon and undertook in a separation agreement not to live with each other. Later the husband, now serving with the Navy on the East coast, brought divorce action against his wife.

Stress Missions During Banquet

PLAINVILLE, Nov. 21—(ENS)— More than 130 people from the three charges, Gore's Landing, Bethesda (Harwood) and Plainville United Churches attended the Laymen's banquet at Plainville, the first to be held on this charge.

Glen Cole with Mrs. T. S. McKinlay at the piano led in community singing and a male quartette from Bethesda, Glen Hogg, Kennear Symons, Eric Kelly and F. Shearer, with Mrs. Garnet Isaac accompanying sang two sacred numbers. From Plainville a mixed quartette made up of Mrs. Stuart Herriott, Mrs. Malcolm Buttar, Clifford Manley and Glen Cole, with Mrs. McKinlay sang "Little Tommy Went A Fishin'" Lynn MacDonald of Gore's Landing read Kipling's "If".

The toasts were "The King" by the toastmaster; "The Ladies" by Mr. M. F. Ames to which Mrs. Joice replied; "To the Church" proposed by Mr. Moore with Rev. M. Fisher making the reply; a toast "To the Laymen" was made by Mrs. C. Manley to which the guest speaker, Mr. Martin replied.

Choosing for his address the topic "Canada In the New World", he said some people have the idea that after the war some one is going to pull the new world out of a hat and that is all there will be about it. The church was born in an armistice between wars and has had to weather pretty bitter gales all the way.

"In Canada Home Missions are carried on in 30 different languages. We have learned how to live with our neighbours over the border in peace, something which they have not mastered in Europe. In the church of all nations, all nationalities have learned to live and work together, which couldn't be done in Europe. When the church was first built there were doors for each nationality because it was known they would not come in together but now they enter through one door. In this way the church has proved to politicians and others that it is possible for nations to live peaceably together.

"If China had been against us too when Japan attacked the United States, our fate might not have been the same. The effect of missions in China has helped to have that nation on our side. They had worked in Japan too, but Japan is a different proposition. The leadership in China is Christian. Our boys fighting those countries are appreciative of what missionaries have done. There is nothing better we can do to better the new world that support the missionary enterprise.

As this meeting had sprung from an idea of one of the laymen, Mr. Fowlie of Gore's Landing, he spoke briefly. He brought attention to the great demand that will be made on the missionary and maintenance funds in the post war period.

Norman Wilks Noted Pianist Dies In Toronto

TORONTO, Nov. 21. — Norman Wilks, principal of the Toronto Conservatory of Music and noted pianist, died last night in Toronto General Hospital after three weeks' illness.

In addition to his musical activities, Mr. Wilks interested himself in politics. A Liberal, he represented that party in the 1934 Provincial election as candidate in Beaches Riding and again in Danforth in the 1935 Federal election. He failed on each occasion to gain election, however.

Mr. Wilks was appointed principal of the Conservatory in 1941, succeeding Sir Ernest MacMillan in that position. Before then he had been engaged in a long and brilliant musical career. He joined the Conservatory in 1928 and was appointed an executive officer in 1936.

Won Military Cross.

Mr. Wilks had a brilliant military career during the First Great War, when he won the Military Cross. He joined up with the 7th Division in October, 1914, in France, as interpreter in French and German. Later, he transferred to the "Buffs." During the period of King George's stay with the 1st Army, he was staff lieutenant and liaison officer with the French police.

Wounded at Arras in 1917, he spent a year in hospital. He was assistant to Provost Marshal-General James. Later he was an officer in the Horse Guards, and then Assistant Provost Marshal at Salisbury.

Mr. Wilks was born at Birchington, Kent, England, the son of Richard and Ellen Marp Wilks. He exhibited musical talents early in life and as a boy won a singing scholarship for the Duke of Newcastle Choir.

With Great Orchestras.

After studying piano in England, Belgium and Germany, he made six appearances in 1913 with the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Further tours were prevented by the outbreak of the First Great War. Later he appeared with the Queen's Hall Orchestra, Royal Philharmonic and Continental Orchestras, and toured in Holland, Germany and Belgium.

Mr. Wilks travelled, played and lectured in Australia, and the West Indies, and made several tours across Canada.

He married Mary McMaster in 1920. A son is overseas with the R.C.A.F.

Three Rivers Legion Raps Political Action

THREE RIVERS, Que., Nov. 21— —The Three Rivers section of the Canadian Legion has passed a resolution disapproving the stand taken by the Legion Provincial Council which favored conscription for overseas service, it was announced last night.

The resolution said that "We (the Three Rivers section members) believe that conscription is a political question and we disapprove the Provincial Council stand because the Canadian Legion constitution forbids any direct or indirect political action."

Obituary

JAMES W. MacNAUGHTON.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 21.—(ENS).— In ill health for the past ten years following a stroke, James Wilbert MacNaughton died at his home in Young's Point on Sunday.

Born in Seymour township 72 years ago, he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sandy MacNaughton, who came to Canada from Scotland. Mr. MacNaughton was a farmer and for the past 24 years had resided at Young's Point.

Besides his wife, the former Alma Godfrey, he is survived by five daughters (Eva), Mrs. George Harvey, (Olive), Mrs. Cecil Grady, Jean MacNaughton and Inez MacNaughton all of Niagara Falls and (Ruby) Mrs. Charles Henry of Buffalo, N. Y., four sons, Stuart of Peterborough, Donald Wesley, and Roger John, of Young's Point, and Pte. Douglas Clayton with the Winnipeg Grenadiers overseas, also two sisters, Mrs. Bertram and Mrs. Northcott of Peterborough, and 2 brothers, Henry of Douro and Aaron of Young's Point.

Mr. MacNaughton was a member of St. Aidan's church, Young's Point and the Orange Lodge.

The funeral will be conducted on Wednesday at 2 p.m. from St. Aidan's church by Rev. C. A. G. Spence of Apsley. Interment will be at Lakefield cemetery.

PROMOTED — Brig. A. B. Matthews, son of the Ontario Lieutenant-Governor, has been promoted to Major-General. He was awarded the DSO for personally reconnoitering for the attack on Agira in Sicily. He is a cousin of Gordon Matthews of this city.

INDIAN WIDOW GETS GEORGE CROSS—Field Marshal Lord Wavell, Viceroy of India, presents the George Cross to the widow of Sobedar Subramian of an Indian regiment serving in Italy at a ceremony in Delhi's historic red fort. The George Cross, first ever awarded to an Indian soldier, was won by Subramian when he threw his body on an anti-personnel mine in Italy, saving the lives of six others but losing his own.

Council Expected To Discuss Change Of Control For Bridges

COBOURG, Nov. 21 — (ENS). — Northumberland and Durham Counties Council convened here on Monday for the closing session of the year. Routine business will occupy their attention with little of particular importance to be considered. The recommendation of the Road Commission that the Department of Highways assume all bridges as part of the highway system, is expected to stir up considerable discussion with the Road Commission. The feeling is that the Department of Highways may hand back bridges after five years with the result that accumulated need for repairs will have to be borne by the counties. One case in particular is the Hastings bridge.

Warden L. E. Kelley in opening the session Monday afternoon drew attention to the fact that A. W. Young, town clerk and treasurer of Cobourg for almost 25 years, had died, and a resolution was accordingly passed that the counties council send flowers. The session was adjourned until three p.m. Tuesday in order that members of the counties council could attend the funeral.

Following was the financial statement of the counties clerk and treasurer, E. L. MacNachton, covering the period up to October 31, exclusive of the two heavy months of November and December, for which all the items were not in yet:

Revenue—Loans $206,000; administration of justice $3,605.72; refund on court costs re Wooler case $509.94; registry offices $661.20; licenses $331; road subsidies $41,104.81 and $24,719.96; counties home $10,257.58; subsidy re corn-borer $49.73; balance $1,375.65, and total $288,615.59.

Disbursements—Registry offices $1,251.96; children's aid $16,230.06; maintenance of indigents $4,430.58; municipal administration $14,085.01; workmen's compensation $428.10; roads $76,092.20; education $80,222.80; interest on loans $449.13; paid on account loans $10,000; debenture payments, principal and interest $32,964.56; administration of justice $12,409.37; counties jail $69,513.43; wolf bounties $30; miscellaneous $40.54; balance $14,992.66. Corporation debts amount to $249,313.12 debentures and $206,000 loans.

Road Subsidy.

A communication from the district municipal engineer drew attention to the fact that the $24,719.96 road subsidy had been passed by the Department. This has already been received; referred to Finance Committee. A communication from Kent County Council and Prince Edward County Council protesting against lack of adequate gas and tire quotas to various branches of agriculture, was referred to the Legislative and By-Laws Committee. Wentworth County Council resolution asking that damage actions against municipalities over faulty drains be settled by a drainage referee to avoid high costs of court actions, was referred to the Legislative and By-Laws Committee.

After reading the presentment of the Grand Jury to the fall assizes, the clerk pointed out that the petit jury room was in a bad state of repair, his attention having been drawn to it by the judge presiding at that time. The room lacked toilet facilities and a few rickety chairs and benches comprised the furniture, the counties clerk said.

Discuss Exchange.

A resolution from another county in connection with daylight saving was received but no action taken due to the fact that the Government had declared itself as contemplating no change in time until after the war. The clerk also referred to the matter of exchange on county cheques over which there had been correspondence with the Canadian Banking Association. The Association has advised the counties council that it has no jurisdiction in the matter and suggested that the counties take it up with their individual banks. The clerk declared that no bank would charge exchange on a government cheque but the fact remained that the counties council was also a form of government and entitled to the same consideration as to cheques.

A 25-page letter from the Planing and Developing Board was received and filed, and the boiler inspection report for the Counties Home was referred to the Board of Management. The Road Commission's report recommended that the Department of Highways be requested to retain all bridges as part of the highways system. The Commission also recommended that road employees' pay be boosted five cents an hour. The purchase of a power maintainer at a cost of $8,931 was also recommended. The report was referred to the Roads Committee.

A letter from the Department of Health pointed out that the order-in-council of 1944, covering a 15 cents special grant to add to the 60 cents per day grant on condition that the councils pay an increase in hospital grants, had been rescinded, the amount was being taken care of this year through other channels. The counties clerk pointed out that some hospitals had been billing the counties on a $2 basis whereas he felt that the counties were only liable for $1.75 except where a special agreement existed with the hospital. Apparently the Department had rescinded it without notifying the counties, the clerk surmised.

A certificate permitting a counties child to attend Danforth Tech because the course desired was not available in the counties, was referred to the Schools Committee.

A resolution that Campbellford hospital now receive the usual grant since it has been taken over by the town and Seymour township, was referred to Finance. A resolution that the counties council ask the province to increase grants to the Children's Aid Society, thereby releasing the pressure on real estate. Another resolution of the counties council expressed gratification over the success of the 7th Victory Loan.

Council then adjourned until 3 p.m. today.

London Lights Up Piccadilly Is Gay

LONDON Nov. 21 — (CP). — London is lighting up after five years of wartime blackout.

The lights came on last night in Fleet Street, hitherto a canyon of darkness broken only by the flickering of flashlights and the hooded beams of headlights.

Piccadilly, too, saw its first street lighting, and crowds walked up and down the famed street singing and shouting to passersby visible for the first time in years. Similar events took place on Oxford street.

There is promise of a "light Christmas" in London and other towns and authorities expect it to raise the spirits of Britons who find themselves still in the front lines as flying-bomb war continues.

Wheezing in the Chest Points to Bronchitis

The principal symptom of bronchitis is a dry, harsh, hacking cough accompanied by a rapid wheezing and tightness across the chest.

There is a raising of phlegm, especially in the morning. This phlegm is at first of a light colour, but as the trouble progresses becomes yellowish or greenish.

You may find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a remedy to help stimulate the weakened bronchial organs, relieve the inflammation, soothe the irritated parts, loosen the phlegm and mucous, and aid nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulation.

Empty Bottles Desecrate War Memorial

"Smeared with lipstick" was only a minor blemish of disrespect to the cenotaph memorial in Confederation Square, Peterborough's tribute to remembrance to its men who made the supreme sacrifice of their lives in the last war, Alderman Curtis chairman of the parks committee, told the council last night.

Empty beer bottles were another evidence of disorderly trespass affronting public sentiment, Alderman Curtis said, although he suggested that this detail should not be quoted.

The chairman of the parks committee was corroborating from his own observations and reports from the parks foreman, a letter from the Peterborough Branch of the Canadian Legion complaining of "disgraceful conditions at the Cenotaph" particularly at night.

The Legion proposed as curb and preventive increased lighting around the War Memorial to maintain the reverence is symbolized. Alderman Curtis said that A. W. Butcher, parks foreman, had repeatedly reported to him the necessity of cleaning up the concrete base and surrounding lawn.

Referring in a more general sense to the Cenotaph, Alderman Dutton expressed the "candid opinion that in its present condition it is a disgrace to the men whose names are on it." The names are becoming obliterated. They were too crowded together in the first place, "and it is a poor tribute to the men who laid down their lives for their country."

Alderman Dutton said it had been suggested that something should be done to make the names more legible, or that they be inscribed on brass tablets. That alteration, he believed, had been discouraged by the sculptor, "but this is not a monument to perpetuate the fame of an artist; it is to perpetuate the memory of brave men."

"If a few persons were prosecuted it would soon put an end to such profaning," Alderman Bradburn remarked.

The Legion's letter was referred to the parks committee with power to act, on Alderman Dutton's motion, seconded by Alderman Glover, and it was understood that one of the first steps will be ample lighting of the Cenotaph and that area of the park.
